Senate Rules On Controversy
See Page 1 and 2

Pianists Perform Here Tonight
See Below

The Florida Flambeau

VOL. XL, No. 22 — PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA — Friday, January 8, 1954

Senate Approves An Amendment On Roll Call Bill

In Heated Debate Body Adopts Soles' 'Call on Request'

The Student Body Senate last Tuesday passed an amended version of Senator Dixie Moore's bill which would have required roll call votes on all issues and publication of these votes in The Florida Flambeau.

As amended by Senator Jimmy Soles, the bill provides for a roll upon "request." It does not mention on the method of request. The precedent has been that the Senator may request a roll call.

DISCUSSION on the bill and its amendment was heated. Senator Gordon Oester spoke in support of Soles' motion, charging that "if this bill is passed to be the last time a bill is passed by an intelligent vote on the campus."

Soles' publication, he argued, would lead to "mudslinging and graft election" and the subordination of intelligent voting to grossly unjust voting."

For editorial discussion of the senate bill and its amendment, see page 2 of today's Flambeau.

GASTER praised the bill and its purposes behind it, however. More hard earlier stated purposes as creating an interest in student government and stating the students' right to know how their representatives vote.

Immediately after Gaster's speech several senators moved to adopt that the constituents should know every vote and that a procedure should be selected to record.

SENATOR Phoebe Jackson moved a compromise, and Moore seconded her request with a substitute amendment, which, besides providing for a roll call vote on all issues not passed unanimously by oral vote.

This proposal drew protest from Senator Jimmy Sasser, who said senators "might change their votes at the second roll call to conform with the majority."

WHEN opponents of the main issue used in the Florida State Legislature.

Moore's substitute amendment was defeated, the main amendment by Soles. The bill now goes for publication by the Flambeau of monthly Senate attendance reports.

News Briefs

FACULTY REPRESENTS

Three faculty members of Florida State University attended the American Economic Association meeting in Washington, D. C., December 28-30. They were Dr. Wm. H. Coberly, Dr. Thomas Bannan and Dr. Clark Lee Allen, professors of economics.

Bannan's paper on the policy of man as a critic of two papers presented at the general session of the sessions in the American Economic Association.

Allen was a participant in a round table discussion on the subject of "Economics in General Education."

LUNCHEONS CANCELLED

Leon DeLaurs, of Miami and Tallahassee, president of the Florida State University graduate club, has announced there will be more regular Thursday luncheon meetings of the class until February.

The meetings will not be resumed until February 11 because the club will be busy working on its papers and preparing for the kinds of examinations they will take.

NOTICE IS ARBITRATOR

David Mattice, associate professor in the department of economics at Florida State University, recently served as arbitrator in a labor dispute between the Cities Workers Union and the Tallahassee Citrus Canners Co-operative Lake Wales.

Important issues involved were the hiring and the wages and hours of the work week. The union had final determination that the wages should be increased three cents an hour and the normal work week be reduced from 56 to 48 hours for the 1953-54 season with time and a half for overtime.

NEW POSITION

Dr. John W. Mitchell, assistant professor of physics at Florida State, has accepted a position with Cuerf, School Services, at the Air University Library, Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama, it was announced today.

Dr. Mitchell's job will be to provide audio-visual service to all schools of the Air University. The service consists of film exchange, filmstrip and cartographic service, photographic and reproduction sections. The advancement is a professional one and Dr. Mitchell will begin his work February 1.

"Nice enough to frame" . . . Loretta Goon, FSU senior examines photographs included in the collection of nationally famous work now featured at the FSU museum.

Photographic Exhibition Opens With Reception at Art Gallery

Tallahassee's first national photographic exhibition opened Wednesday with an informal reception at the Florida State University Art Gallery.

The exhibition is open to the public without charge and will continue through January 29.

The reception will be in the honor of 54 nationally-known photographers who were invited to send prints for exhibition.

Known as the "54 Photographers '54" the exhibition will be called attention to the new year, as well as to the fact that this is an invitational exhibition in which a number of prominent American photographers were asked to show their work.

There will be no prizes or other recognition of merit, although many of the prints shown have probably been shown and have received awards in competition exhibitions in other parts of the nation.

The exhibit is sponsored by the Tallahassee Camera Club and with the cooperation of the FSU Art Gallery.

Group Presents Third Annual Dance Program

Theater Dance Group, Florida State University's modern and character dance group, will present their third annual "Evening of Dance" Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 13 and 14. Two performances will be given in Opperman Music Hall at 8:15 p.m. both nights.

Spokesmen for the dance group, under the direction of Miss Nellie Bond Dickinson, said that in addition to two numbers that "received much acclaim at last year's presentation," there will be seven new exhibits of original choreography.

REPEATED FROM last year's show will be Chicago by Joyce Cox and Lost Eden by Miss Dickinson.

New choreographical creations scheduled for next week's show include Pastorale by Mary Kuykendall, a member of which Beth Hampton; Jazz by Nancy Warren Smith; Rah! Rah! by Shirley Kendall Kerr. Miss Dickinson says her dance is a parody on cheerleading.

ALSO PRESENTED in the show will be Joyce Cox's Chiaroscuro, Anne Bond Dickinson's Chanticleer, and Masquerade by Miss Dickinson on which Myrtle Herndon collaborated with Miss Dickinson.

Presenting to the "Evening of Dance" is free to all students and friends. Tickets may be picked up at the main athletic office. Women's Gymnasium or Opperman Hall.

FURTHER NEWS on "Evening of Dance" will appear in the next issue of Flambeau.

Smoke Signals

Smoke Signals, Florida State University's humor magazine, will distribute its Christmas issue Monday, Editor John Hunsucker announced.

Due to printing difficulties, Howard said, the publication, originally planned for distribution prior to the Christmas holidays, was held up until now.

Carothers Selects Committee To Choose 1954 Hall of Fame

Student Body President Milton Carothers recently named Pete Dumkoff, Betty Ann Morrow, Charles John Hendrix and Ila Vang to the Hall-of-Fame selection Committee.

The Committee Chairman will be David Collins, junior class president. The list named by Carothers, all juniors, represent the executive, judicial, legislative publications and student organizations branches of the student government respectively.

OTHER MEMBERS of the committee will be Dean of Women Mildred Warren and Dr. Louis D. Corson, Dean of Men. The Senior Hall of Fame recipient received, stipulate that the Dean of Student Welfare shall also be named by the present time the post is vacant.

Each senior may submit the names of 10 seniors to the Committee for consideration by the various University student groups are also being asked to submit names.

THE MAXIMUM NUMBER to be chosen by the committee for the Hall of Fame shall be 10 seniors who have distinguished themselves in at least two major fields of campus activity and a minor field. The classification of each activity to be left to the discretion of the selection committee.

In addition, a member must graduate with a Bachelor's degree in the year in which he must have at least a 1.3 overall scholastic average and must have attended FSU for four semesters.

AN OVERALL SCHOLASTIC average of 2.00 will count as a major field of activity.

The rules state that "He (the senior honoree) must have rendered outstanding leadership and/or services to politics, organizations, publications, athletics, the dramatic and speech arts, or university functions, and a scholarship."

THE COMMITTEE is at liberty, it is presented, to select less than ten seniors if it feels there are not that many deserving recognition. There are no restrictions as to the ratio of men and women.

The following groups have been asked to submit candidates: Phi Mu Mortar Board, Omicron Delta Kappa, Garnet Key, Gold Key, University Religious Council, Chairman of the University Recreation Association, Pi Kappa Lambda, a joint list from the editors-in-chief of student publications, a joint list from the speech honoraries, and the president of the Student Body.

THE COMMITTEE may select from names not nominated by other groups. The final list is to be approved by the president of the University who shall present a certificate to each honoree. They are to be honored in a special program, either during graduation week or before. The identification picture of the Hall of Fame members is to be hung somewhere on the campus. Among the places conjectured as the site is the new Westcott auditorium under construction.

The Hall of Fame shall appear in the Tally-Ho.

IT IS NOT KNOWN when the final selection will be made known.

Registrar Sets February 1, 2 For Registering

Registration for the Spring semester will be Monday and Tuesday, February 1 and 2, according to Registrar Charles H. Walker, Registrar. Walker also announced that this date there is no break planned between the first and second semesters.

Walker stated that students who have finished all their final examinations in class will leave the campus at any time the school closes. Dormitories and rules will apply, and women will be required to sign out before leaving.

IN ANTICIPATION of registration difficulties, Freshmen and upperclassmen will register alphabetically on the same days. Freshmen will register on days that does not believe that Freshmen will be harrassed by long lines at they want last registration day."

Registration will begin Monday morning at 9 a.m. and will last through 5 p.m. Students with last names "A" will register first, continuing on down the alphabet. Each day the procedure will follow with "Z" down to "A."

ALL STUDENTS beginning their first semester at FSU will register before the activity book is due last initial of their educational counselors.

According to Walker, the enrollment is expected to be almost the same as last semester.

THE PRESENT alphabetical arrangement was initiated the last semester. Registrar Walker said that it was not used before because he thought it would interfere with the time allowed for counseling.

Court Reveals Not Coming Means Fines

The Student Traffic Court announced this week that several students who have received violations on the campus will be required to pay fines for failure to appear at a court hearing.

The hearing was scheduled after the students had been sent two notices sent to them by the court. Failure to appear at the hearing resulted in automatic pleas of guilty to the driving charges and the violations assessed resulted in an assessed penalty of $5.00 which must be paid within six school days.

Established court procedure calls for fines to be doubled if they are not paid within the allotted time. If they are not paid at all fine immediately, the court has the amount placed in the student's permanent record with the recommendation that the student be required to post bond in order to register for the next semester at FSU. The recommendations are usually carried out when their entirety are paid in the Cashier's office.

"Pinky" Nowlin, Chief Justice of the Student Traffic Court, pointed out that "This is very serious and important to the students. Those who have violations don't want to pay double for their violations. The majority of students have been very cooperative and given us their full cooperation. However, there is a small minority of violators who have failed to comply. They are only hurting themselves."

So far this semester there have been 1,000 doubled fines, Mr. Nowlin added, "I would hate to see any student suffer such a loss. This fine, in all or in some cases, not to be able to register this next semester."

Fines may be paid to Beverly Bennett, Clerk of the Court, Room 116, Westcott, on Monday through Friday, in room 204 Westcott.

Ed Note: Names of offenders will appear on request of Traffic Safety Court.

Skinner Presents Monologues Here For Artist Series

Cornelia Otis Skinner, whose monologue character sketches have made her an outstanding personage in the American theater, will feature several of her best-known characters in the Artist Series program Wednesday and Thursday January 20 and 21, at the Leon High School auditorium. Both performances will begin at 8:15 p.m.

Student tickets may be obtained at the University Bookstore on exchange for activity book coupon number 31. A special city admission at regular fare, will leave FSU at 7:45 from the music building parking lot.

THE PROGRAMS will present "The Wives of Henry VIII," "The Loves of Charles II," and "Mansion on the Hudson," as well as a number of her shorter character portrayations.

NOT CONTENT with the somewhat limited scope of expression available in monologues, she has on occasion turned from the platform to appear in dramatic stage plays as Somerset Maugham's "Constant Wife," "Displace." Lillian Hellman's "The Searching Wind," and the revival of Oscar Wilde's "Lady Windermere's Fan," in which she appeared for two full seasons.

Folsom Assumes Managing Editor Post On Flambeau

Bob Folsom will assume the position of managing editor of The Florida Flambeau effective today, Editor-in-Chief Bruce Galphin announced in staff meeting last night.

Folsom, a sophomore and a graduate of Leon High School, is the Flambeau staff throughout the year, holding the position of assistant to the editor and feature associate editor. He has had previous experience on commercial newspapers.

THE POSITION of managing editor was created by the last November. "I wanted to be sure this time that the person was qualified," said Galphin in explaining the delay in selection. "I am confident that Folsom, on the staff, Folsom has shown that he is capable of carrying on the Flambeau."

Galphin announced that a staff reorganization was also approved at the Tuesday meeting by the publications board. Copy desk was abolished, while copy editor was made a senior staff position. Sylvia Fraser, formerly an associate editor, and Dick Victory were named to the new copy desk.

J. GARY Campbell has been named to the newly created editor's position. He will handle a large share of the news copy. Oscar Johnson and Martin Dyckman were appointed as reporting editors.

WMBR-TV Show To Feature FSU Teachers 'At the Piano'

See Picture, Page 3

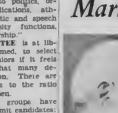
Florida State University will open the new year with a special television series over WMBR-TV in Jacksonville.

"Entitled "At the Piano" the program will feature FSU teachers of the piano and their talented students in two-piano and four-hand concerts. Each program will be presented three cents an hour and normal work week be reduced from 56 to 48 hours for the 1953-54 season with time and a half for overtime.

FROM TIME to time vocal numbers will be presented by students to be presented with the pianist of the week.

Presenting the first show will be Professor Thomas Wright, young American concert artist and composer, featured on several network weekly TV shows. Among these are included the NBC "Concert Hall," "Musical Miniatures" and "TV Matinee."

PROFESSOR WRIGHT has also appeared as a featured artist on three of the four major networks in New York City. He has concertized throughout the United States, appeared with leading symphony orchestras and done extensive musical work with the motion picture industry in Hollywood.



Born in Indiana, Wright first became intensively interested as an eight-year-old in the works of the late George Gershwin, whom he had heard at a performance of "Porgy and Bess" in Indianapolis. Later, Wright became widely known as an interpreter of Gershwin music.

His Saturday program will include selections from leading composers of the Impressionistic Period of the early 20th Century. He will play "Reflections in the Water," "Dance of the Puppets," "Prelude" by Debussy, "Two" by Scriabin and "Alborada del Gracioso" by Ravel.

WELL-KNOWN in Tallahassee, he is also Associate Professor of Piano at FSU. Wright is also concertizing and making guest appearances on radio and TV throughout the state.

Ray Pittman, Director of Public Relations at FSU will act as Master of Ceremonies for the piano series.

Dohnanyi, Kilenyi Combine Talents Tonight On Opperman's Duo Pianos Marking First Of '54 Faculty Series

Dohnanyi Kilenyi

Cellists, Horn Lend Assist; Featured—Dohnonyi Original

Two internationally famous musicians, composer-pianist Ernst von Dohnanyi and pianist Edward Kilenyi, will combine their talent to headline Florida State University's opening Faculty Recital for 1954 tonight in Opperman Music Hall at 8:15 p.m.

The two university professor-friends, joining at two pianos, will be assisted by cellists Owen F. Sellers, associate professor of music and Miss Harriette Hemert, music student; and Joseph White, assistant professor of music, on the French Horn.

THE PROGRAM, open to the public without charge, will be highlighted by Dohnanyi's own composition, Ruke en Vise, a waltz of symphonic quality in four movements.

The composer has played a part in the long friendship of the two musicians. Dohnanyi first said Kilenyi about it when they met as a small Austrian Village after World War II. He had composed it only for orchestra at that time and later transcribed it for two pianos. Dohnanyi and Kilenyi recorded Orchestra in Europe in the fall 1949.

THE PROGRAM will also feature the Sonata for Two Pianos by Mozart and Schuman's Andante and Variations.

Kilenyi said the Schuman section will be given in the original version for the combination of two pianos.

THE SCHUMAN is practically unknown in the United States, and I'm not at all certain it has ever been performed here," he said.

Dohnanyi said that the widely known version of the Schuman selection is for two pianos, but that the orchestra mechanism of "instruments is more colorful."

KILENYI will play the Schuman music, unavailable in the U. S. last October at a music festival.

Also on the program in original manuscript form are a group of Brahms Hungarian dances for piano duet. The two pianists will play these on one piano. The all piano version of the popular dances will probably be given as an encore to the audience.

KILENYI SAID the dances have been transcribed and performed for almost every concert he has given in their original setting.

Completing the program will be Mozart's selection, "Sonata for Two Pianos."

STUDENT WHO PLAN to intern the first semester of the 1954-55 school year are asked to pick up their applicatoih blanks and forms in Dr. Goulding's office located in the 204 Education building.

It is very important, Dr. Goulding has stated, for these papers to be gotten now and returned by February 15, 1954, for the same office.

Interns Return From Teaching Over Florida

One-hundred-eighty seven students returned to campus this week after completing internship in sixteen surrounding 36 Florida counties. Four of them went out of state to complete this requirement.

Leaving Florida State University October 26, they went into high schools and elementary schools to practice the methods of teaching they learned while here, according to an internship office spokesman.

BACK ON CAMPUS they will attend seminars where they will get the opportunity to talk about and discuss their recent teaching experience.

Some students in the group will graduate in February, but most still have one more semester, the spokesman said.

Seventy-eight did practice teaching in secondary schools and 109 in elementary schools.

INTERNSHIP, for the betterpart of one semester, is required by the State of Florida for all those wishing to be certified to teach upon graduation, he added.

The present program does not interfere with the work of the graduation. However he can reached through Dr. Glover E. Tully, Director of Vocational Guidance and Placement, the office spokesman said.

STUDENT WHO PLAN to intern the first semester of the 1954-55 school year are asked to pick up their applicatoih blanks and forms in Dr. Goulding's office located in the 204 Education building.

It is very important, Dr. Goulding has stated, for these papers to be gotten now and returned by February 15, 1954, for the same office.

University Singers Will Tour West, Florida For Concerts

Florida State's University Singers begin a tour Monday that will take them to three cities in West Florida.

Under the direction of Dr. Wiley Housewirth, the choirs of 60 voices will travel Monday to Panama City, Pensacola and Tuesday and Bloomtown on Wednesday.

DR. HOUSEWRIGHT, professor of music education here, said the group was organized two years ago and since have become "One of the outstanding musical groups on the FSU campus." They annually make a concert tour to Florida cities on the East coast. This year's East coast trip is slated for March.

The Singers will present the same varied program in Panama City, Pensacola and Bloomtown. However, different soloists will be chosen for the performances, Dr. Housewirth added.

Dr. Housewirth noted that this will be the first time the group has emphasized as much as possible on the three programs.

INCLUDED ON the program will be sacred music from the 16th century by Jacob Handl; secular numbers by two French composers, Paladilhe and Faure, four Negro spirituals by Brahms, six Chansons by Paul Hindemith, Brazilian Psalm by Villa-Lobos, three folk songs from Gershwin's Porgy and Bess, groups of folk songs and another group of negro spirituals.

Bob Davis is president of the University Singers. The group is composed of 30 women and 30 men.

Faculty Members Attend Conference In New York City

Classical scholars from all over the country visited New York City over the Christmas holidays to attend the annual meeting of the American Philological Association, Dr. Mason D. Gray, State University's Department of Classics faculty were on hand to read papers before the group in New Yorker December 28 through 30.

William C. Kirk Jr., Miss Lynette Thompson and Francis R. Walton were members of the convention, held this year in conjunction with the Archaeological Institute of America, whose work is closely related to the Classics.

WALTON SPOKE before the two societies at a symposium on "The Age of Hadrian." His topic was The Religious Thought of the Period.

Other speakers on the panel discussed the personality of Hadrian, who was Emperor of Rome from 117-138 A. D. Touched on were his imperial policies and his scholars. Hadrian's Greek and Latin literature, art and architecture of his reign, one of the happiest and most prosperous of the Roman Empire.

MR. WALTON has served, since July 1, 1953, as acting editor of the American Philological Association. The group publishes annually the transactions, proceedings, plus a series of monographs. He was formally elected editor for the coming year at the recent New York meeting.

Mr. Walton was recently a dinner guest to the Council of the American Academy of Rome. He represented Florida State University at a meeting of the Executive Council of the American Academy in Rome.

ATTEND MEETING

George Cornelius, Charles Clark and Ray Eddy officers of the Florida State University Company A, Fourth Regiment of the Pershing Rifles national honor fraternity, will attend a regimental convention today and tomorrow at Clemson University, Clemson, S. C.

Fraternity Plans Project Increases

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity at Florida State University, will begin its semi-monthly Saturday morning clean-up week. Plans will be made at the meeting tomorrow for the project to be undertaken, according to a spokesman.

The Student Book Exchange, a major undertaking of the service group, will be conducted during the coming semester. Under the direction of Bill Holmes and Van Pun, the exchange is expected to operate more efficiently than ever before, according to the spokesman.

Dr. Mallory recently elected to APO posts are Ed Andrews, president; Vic Milunski, vice-president; Dr. D. Holmes, secretary; Tom Dumper, treasurer; Bert McDuffy, alumni secretary, and Rowell Winfree, historian.

VISITS FRATERNITY

Jack Hansen, assistant national secretary of Pi Kappa Delta Fraternity, visited the Beta Iota chapter at Florida State University recently.

Editorial Page Study Reveals Level Difficult for Many Adults

By GEORGE MATTER

What is the difficulty level of the editorial and the editorial page in the state of Florida?

Less than one per cent of the newspapers in this state carry editorials that are written, on the average, at a level too difficult for the majority of adults in the state, newspaper columns to understand.

The median level of education in Florida is 9.3 years. Yet 99 per cent of the papers carry editorials at the tenth grade level and below.

TEN PER CENT, or two of the twenty newspapers, produce editorials that, on the average, are "dull," according to Flesch's Reading Ease Formula. Only 10 per cent of the papers carry editorials that are written in "fair" categories.

More editorials were written on the 12th grade level than on any other topic. Close to two-thirds of the editorials were written on the grade level of difficulty. About one-fourth were at the college level and the college graduate levels and one-eighth were below the high school graduate level.

THERE ARE SOME of the conclusions drawn by Miss Ruth Berryman, graduate student at the School of Journalism, Florida State University.

Everyone has an opinion about editorials and the editorial page. Editorials in this state have a 16th-year-old history and during this time they have come to be established as a part of the journalistic pattern.

BUT IN RECENT years the question has been raised by many readers as to the comprehensibleness as to whether the editorial page attracts enough people to justify its existence.

Miss Perling, who has written many editorials, addresses herself to the question and attempts to find out what editorials in these of editorials in the weekly newspapers in Florida is. In her study, made while a graduate student at the University of Minnesota, Florida State University, she sought some of the answers to the questions raised by readers.

IN THE EDITORIAL study at Florida State University which was directed by Professor Dr. Sidney Kobre, editorials were analyzed to find out their general readability the formulas developed by Dr. Rudolf Flesch were used in the study. These formulas are human interest, and typographic appearance.

As a supplement to the study, editors were asked by mail questionnaire to write two sets of editorials. Did they think them important? When did they write their editorials? Did they follow any special formula for writing editorials? The results of these questionnaires and the study itself drew many response from readers of the newspapers.

THE STUDY COVERED 90 issues and 213 editorials. To standardize the content, the subject matter was classified as follows: Government economics, civic affairs, and other miscellaneous topics. More editorials were written on civic affairs than on any (Continued on Page 4)

INTERIM

THE FLORIDA FLAMBEAU

student newspaper

1954

Florida State University

Tallahassee, Florida

1971

This filming - THE FLORIDA FLAMBEAU - is directed by Mrs. Gertrude Mozley Roche, Head, Micro-Materials, Florida State University Library from the originals in the Library Archives. Through the efforts of Student Senator Jeffrey Jones and SOLTAS, student organization, funds were provided in Bill 76, 23rd Senate, Student Government, FSU, 1971.

Bill Dentzer Writes First Of Series About Student Conference In Istanbul

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of four articles on the Fourth International Student conference, to be held in Istanbul, Turkey, in January. The writer, William T. Dentzer, was president of the United States National Student Association during 1951-52 and last year worked in Leiden, Netherlands, in the office of the Coordinating Secretariat of National Unions of Students, an international organization. He is now studying law at Yale university.)

By WILLIAM T. DENTZER

Shortly after New Year's Day from January 3-12, representatives of National Unions of Students from Europe, Asia, Africa, the Middle East and the Americas will come together in Istanbul, Turkey, for what promises to be the largest representative international student gathering ever to take place.

Of what interest and importance is this meeting to American college students?

UNITED STATES students generally are not aware that students in other nations especially in the more under-developed areas play a significant role in the national lives of their respective countries. While young Americans have become used to being rewarded as immature and irresponsible incapable of intelligent action at a responsible level, university students in foreign lands are causing trouble for shaky government cabinets, stabilizing young nations, and leading the surging movement for political and economic independence.

Some years ago, Bolivia students brought a new president to office by handing the old one a lamp post. In more than one Arab country, students have precipitated cabinets to fall and potential cabinets never to reach confirmation. In more than one Asian country, June graduates of law schools have been judges by September, and cabinet ministers have attended the inauguration of new student body presidents.

IN AFRICA, students are in the vanguard of movements toward national independence, and these student leaders of today will be the national leaders of a soon-to-dawn tomorrow. Even in Europe, representatives of National Unions of Students resulariy badger ministers of education with demands of the national student population.

It would be unnecessary to point out that more fortunate students in further developed areas of the world should be interested in knowing the problems of students in less materially advanced areas; more than that, there should be concerned with assisting them in the solution of these problems. Now, more than ever, it is realized that what affects "them" affects "us" also, together with students from that enlarge and various kinds of social work in France—work with delinquents, group work, public welfare, mucosal social work, and factory welfare.

their own lives and that personal relationships of today can form the basis for valuable international friendships tomorrow.

THE CONFERENCE certainly has realized the importance of students and their powerful influence in great areas of the world. The Communist-dominated International Union of Students and other Soviet-directed organizations have concentrated heavily on attracting young intellectuals of all countries to their banners. Naturally, their principal focus of money and men has been the underdeveloped areas.

The way to counteract the bad faith spread by Communists is more important, to assist as free agents in resolving the problems faced in these areas, is certainly not to let both the Communists and the problems gain ground by default. To do nothing is to do more than that: It is to retreat from positive responsibility. The good faith of American students will be proved only by working

IN ADDITION TO a listing of available awards the Institute of International Education publishes a pamphlet suggesting fields of study in the countries where awards are offered. Suggested fields are languages and cultures, fine arts, applied arts, sciences, government and history, social sciences and philosophy and theology.

The Institute of International Education is the central private agency in the U.S. in the exchange of students, teachers, and specialists. Each year approximately 4,000 persons from 82 countries study or train in a country other than their own under its auspices.

January Deadline Marks Closing Of Competition For Foreign Study

Earliest deadline for college student applications for foreign study under the Institute of International Education will be January 15, the Institute announced today.

The January deadline will mark the closing of competition for two awards for study at the University of Ceylon and four similar grants of study in Brazil. Closing dates of other contests, the announcement noted, is February, March, April and May.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR foreign study in 15 different countries are listed in Fellowships Abroad for American Students, a new booklet published by the Educational Institution. Educational opportunities offer American college graduates the chance to study in Ceylon and the Free University of Berlin, chiefly.

Other awards are mentioned in the Institute's pamphlet.

Governments, private groups and European, Asian and Latin American governments have already offered fellowships for American students for the 1954-55 academic year, the announcement continued. More detailed information on grants is available from the offices of the Institute of International Education, 1 East 67 St., New York 21, N. Y.

GENERAL ELIGIBILITY requirements for the Fulbright and scholarships, designed mainly for graduate students, are age, citizenship; proof of good academic record and capacity for independent study. Ability to read, write, and speak the language of the country of study; good character, personality and adaptability; and good health.

A private donor will offer two grants for study in Spain. Other countries in which awards are available are Austria, Brazil, Ceylon, Cuba, Denmark, Great Britain, France, Germany, Iran, Italy, Mexico, the Netherlands, Sweden and Switzerland.

LARGEST NUMBER of awards is offered by the French Government. Forty assistantships and thirty-five fellowships are offered. February 1 is the opening date for these awards. Under the French Government assistantship program Americans will teach English conversion classes in French secondary schools and teacher training institutions; few teaching appointments in French universities will be made to applicants with special training in American literature and some experience in college teaching. The French fellowships offer opportunities for study at universities and other state institutions of higher learning.

Summer school opportunities include eight awards for the University of Vienna Summer School and several partial grants toward tuition and maintenance at the English and Scottish summer school courses at the Universities of Oxford, Edinburgh, London, and Birmingham. The Birmingham course on Shakespeare and Elizabethan drama is held at Stratford-on-Avon.

AMONG THE SPECIALIZED grants are four labor scholarships given by the Transatlantic Foundation for study in Great Britain. Open only to candidates from the labor union movement, three awards are given at Ruskin College, Oxford, and one at Coleg Harlech in Wales.

Woolley Foundation awards will be made to four candidates for the study of art and music in Paris. A limited number of social work fellowships are available to experienced American social workers for work, study, and observation in France. Successful candidates will have an opportunity to get practical knowl-

CAMPUS CHECK LIST

Today

12: Biochemistry Seminar, 224 Science.
4: Psychology Seminar, Longmire Auditorium.
7: Meteorology Seminar, 104 Science.
7: Chess Club, Student Center Lounge.
7:30: Marine Sciences Seminar, 308 History.
7:30: Educational Film Preview, 323 Westcott.
8:15: Speech Department Production, Conradi theater.
10: Sophomore Council, Longmire Auditorium.

Wednesday

7:30: FBLA annual Christmas party, S Caution House.
7-8: Student Affiliates of ACS, Lounging Large Lounge.
8: Delta Sigma Pi: 401 Longmire.
8: Basketball PSU-Jax St. Teachers, West Campus Gymnasium.

Thursday

12: Physiology Seminar, 414 Science.
1: Graduate Class Luncheon, Seminole South.
4:45: Physics Seminar 124 Science.
7:30: ETA Christmas Party, Longmire Large Lounge.
8: Gymnasium meet PSU-Syracuse East Campus Gym.
8:15: State Symphony of Florida, Music Hall.

Safety Group Asks Caution in Driving

Youth Safety Council of Florida said today everyone except death takes a holiday at Christmas.

Urging safe driving over the holidays, Youth Council continued, death is rich in their lookings for characters whose actions show they apparently don't care to live much longer.

The Council said there will probably be a "bumper crop" of victims this year. They included such examples as Christmas present-loaded pedestrians in the street; drivers who "just can't adjust speeds to holiday conditions, and those who "drink and drive themselves to death with one too many toasts."

Disregard the Grim Reaper, the Youth Council said. Let him keep civilized people out of the bundle themselves safely. The added people can help keep the year happy by avoiding serious traffic accidents.

Be sensible about the business of driving. Take special precautions. Don't let Death take your holiday."

EDUCATION DEFINITION

We have been sitting around this office, man and boy, for over five years, and we finally decided that education is a process of deadening one end in order to living up the other.—Cayuga, Duke, University of Virginia.

Boughton Disappointed In Results Of Miami Beach Art Exhibit

The oil paintings of Mr. Wollam Boughton, assistant professor in the FSU Department of Art, were recently exhibited at the Miami Beach Art Center.

Prof. Boughton said that the critics there were not highly enthusiastic over what they saw in his work. According to him, they did not seem to understand that he was trying to explore new techniques in art. The critics disliked the subjects because some of them were ugly. His comment to this was, "I paint the things that I see in the world in which I live, and I think that I am a little too honest for the critics." He explained that most subjects of the famous old painters were ugly too, because they were honest painters.

LAST SUMMER Prof. Boughton was classified in Europe and lived in the homes of such old masters as El Greco and Rembrandt. He lived to live exactly as the old painters had lived. By walking the same streets, eating at the same tables, and studying their work intensively, he returned to the U. S. with new ideas about painting.

"Many of the modern painters are simply imitating great works and to someone who knows their work becomes rather boring," Prof. Boughton said. He said that he paints things as he sees them, and not as people want them because he feels that his art work is one item in which he can be honest and free without conforming to the customs of our age.

PROF. BOUGHTON works with list.

Seal Sales Enter Last Week Here, Chairman Reveals

The FSU Tuberculosis Christmas Seal Sale, held in conjunction with the national sale entered its final week Sunday, Shirley Traxler, chairman, said yesterday.

Seals were put in student mail boxes last week to enable them to make personal contributions to the drive. The campus sale will close on Friday, December 18. Until that time, contributions may be sent to Seal Sale Chairman, Campus Mail.

In connection with the drive, the Campus Closet committee donated $200 last week to the Ockhlochonee Tuberculosis and Health Association, an organization from the sudenta of PSU.

The seal sale chairman, wishes to thank all those who have helped in making the drive a success. Special thanks go to the F. B. I. A. for typing the envelopes in which the seals were sent; the Sophomore Council and Wesley Players for filling and sealing the envelopes, and Margaret Jean Parham for her work as radio chairman, along with those who worked with her.

Vets Get Checks Friday --- Registrar

Students at Florida State University under the G-I Bill can expect their P. L. 550 expense checks on Friday, Registrar's office announced yesterday.

Customarily due on the 20th of this month, the checks have been mailed to each veteran-student in time for the beginning of the school holidays, the Registrar said. He added that this has been done extensively the country over and more especially on their Christmas vacation early, or at least prior to the 20th.

P. L. 550 is Public Law 550 also called the Korean Education Roll. It applies to veterans of service during the Korean conflict.

Keepsake Diamonds
Bulova Watches
PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRS
102 S. Monroe St. Phone 3-1442

Alumni Plan Dance; Ask Former Students

Palm Beach Junior College at Lake Park, Fla. has announced there will be a Student-Alumni Dance Monday, December 28 from 9 to 12 p.m.

Dean of Men Paul J. Girvin said in a letter to Pambeau, "May we have the following information put into your newspaper for the benefit of many of our former students that are now attending your school."

The afair is semi-formal and Palm Beach Junior College invites all former students and dates and urges them to pass the word on.

MOST CONVENIENT FOR LAST MINUTE SHOPPING
THE MECCA JEWELRY SHOP
In The Mecca
For Complete Jewelry Line—See WHIDDON JEWELRY downtown

Meet Old Friends Make New Ones AT THE AMBER HOUSE
"Food That's Fine"

Quality Dry Cleaners
215 W. College
Pressing and Repairing—Altering
For Pickup or Delivery
Call 2-5097
ONE-DAY SERVICE

When you pause...make it count...have a Coke

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY TALLAHASSEE COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY
"Coke" is a registered trade mark.
© 1953, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Only 4 More Days To VACATION

And Look What We Have Just Received For That Perfect Last Minute Gift—Beautiful SATIN and LACE STOCKING and HANDKERCHIEF HOLDERS

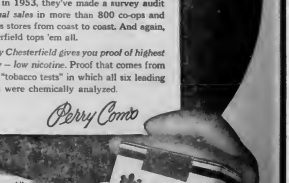
- COMPACTS—A Beautiful Assortment of Many Styles and Colors
- JEWELRY BOXES—Hand Tooled Leatherette—Rich Brocades
- DESK SETS—Pen Holder, Letter Holder, Perfume Bottle, Letter Opener
- STUD and CUFF LINK BOXES—What Every Man Needs
- FINGER NAIL KITS—Humor Books—Bill Folds
- TOY ANIMALS—KEY HOLDERS—LEATHER GOODS



Have A Very Merry Christmas
HOUSE of GIFTS

The Record I'm most proud of—

Chesterfield is the largest-selling cigarette in America's colleges for the FIFTH straight Year

Again, in 1953, they've made a survey audit of actual sales in more than 800 co-ops and campus stores from coast to coast. And again, Chesterfield tops 'em all.

Only Chesterfield gives you proof of highest quality — low nicotine. Proof that comes from actual "tobacco tests" in which all six leading brands were chemically analyzed.

Chesterfield's Perry Como Show. All the Top Tunes on TV—Now on Radio. TV. CBS Network — Radio-Mutual Network.

CHESTERFIELD
BEST FOR YOU

Senate Rules On Controversy
See Page 1 and 2

The Florida Flambeau

Pianists Perform Here Tonight
See Below

VOL. XL No. 22 PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA Friday, January 8, 1954

Senate Approves An Amendment On Roll Call Bill

In Heated Debate Body Adopts Soles' 'Call on Request'

The Student Body Senate met Tuesday passed an amended version of Senator Sole Moore's bill which would have required roll call votes on all issues and legislation of those votes in The Florida Flambeau.

As amended by Senator Jimmy Soles' bill provides for a roll call on request." It does not put on the method of re- The precedent has been the Senator may request a DISCUSSION on the bill and the amendment was headed Senator Gordon Gaster spoke in support of Soles' motion, citing the fact "if this bill is passed it to be the last time a bill is sped to end intelligent vote on the campus.

Such publication, he argued, would lead to "mudslinging in election" and the subordination of intelligent voting to popular appeal voting."

For editorial discussion of the senate bill and its amendment, see page 2 of today's Flambeau.

GASTER praised the bill and the policies behind it. He said more had earlier stated its purpose as creating an interest in student government and to "make the students' right to vote now their interest."

Immediately after Gaster's speech several senators rose to speak their constituents' views and stand on the issue. Each candidate should be elected by the people.

SENATOR Phoebe Jackson made a compromise, and Moore accepted her request that the entire amendment, later defeated, be voted on as a unit. The motion was passed unanimously by oral vote.

The proposal drew protest with Senator Jimmy Joanos, who pointed out that students might vote the second time to reform with the majority."

OTHER opponents of the amendment roll call charged that it be too much time, but chairwoman Kay compared such a system that used in the Florida Legislature.

After Moore's substitute amendment was adopted, the passed, 19 to 7, the amendment by Soles. The bill now provides for publication in the Flambeau of monthly Senate interim reports.

News Briefs

FACULTY REPRESENTS

Three faculty members of Florida State University attended the American Economic Association meeting in Washington, D. C., December 28-30. They were Dr. Melvin R. Colberg, Dr. James H. Graham and Dr. Clark Lee Allen. Professors of economics, Dr. Buchanan appeared on the program as a critic of two papers on "Public expenditures and Public Decisions in the American Economy."

Allen was a participant in a round table discussion on the topic of "Economics in General Education."

LUNCHEONS CANCELLED

Lewis DeLaura, of Miami, and Ray Thrasher, president of the Florida State University graduate club, announced that there will be no more regular Thursday luncheon meetings of the club until February.

The meetings will not be resumed until February 11 because refreshment will be busy working on papers and preparing for the final exams.

Both men stressed the importance of a full attendance at the next luncheon meeting.

Group Presents Third Annual Dance Program

Thester Dance Group, Florida State University's modern and classical dance proponents will present their third annual "Evening of Dance" Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 13 and 14. Two performances will be given in Opperman Music Hall at 8:15 p.m. both nights.

Responsible for the dance group, under the direction of Miss Nellie Boyd Dickinson, will be the Dance Club, Dance Caroller, Nelle Dorsett Chamberlayer, and Masquerade Dancers, a number on which Miss Herndon collaborated with Miss Dickinson.

New choreographical creations slated for next week's show include Pastorale by Mary Kathryn Cowan, Rhapsody by Pat Hampton; Jass by Nancy Warren Smith; Rah! Rah! by Shirley Knight; Revell Mrs. Revell says her dance is a parody on cheerleading.

ALSO PRESENTED in the show will be Joyce Cox's Old Corner, Nelle Bond Dickinson's Chanticleer, and Masquerade Dance, a number on which Miss Herndon collaborated with Miss Dickinson.

Admission to the "Evening of Dance" is free to all students and faculty members. Tickets may be picked up at the main athletic office, Women's Gymnasium or Tallahassee book.

FURTHER NEWS on "Evening of Dance" will appear in the next issue of Flambeau.

Smoke Signals

Smoke Signals, Florida State University's humor magazine, will distribute its Christmas issue Monday, Editor John Howard said today.

Due to printing difficulties, the issue will be distributed on originally scheduled for distribution prior to the Christmas holidays, was held up until now.

WMBR-TV Show To Feature FSU Teachers 'At the Piano'

See Picture, Page 3

Florida State University will open its new year with a television series over WMBR-TV in Jacksonville.

"Entitled "At the Piano" the program will feature FSU Schools of Music members of the piano faculty. Responsible for the series will run for eight consecutive Saturdays, from 2 to 3 p.m. with time and a half for overtime.

FROM TIME TO TIME

vocal and instrumental guest artists will be presented with the pianists on the show.

Presenting the first show will be Professor Thomas Wright, young American composer who has been featured on several network TV shows. Among these are included the NBC "Concert Hall," Musical Miniatures" and "TV Maestro."

PROFESSOR WRIGHT has also appeared as a featured on year's presentation of the Florida Symphony Orchestra. He is a professional one and Mr. Mitchell will begin his work February 1.

Carothers Selects Committee To Choose 1954 Hall of Fame

Student Body President Milton Carothers recently named Pete Nuckolls', Betsy Ann Munroe, Charis Coulter, John Howard and Lis Vickers to the Hall-of-Fame selection Committee.

The Committee Chairman will be David Collins, Men's Council president. The five named by Carothers, all juniors, represent the executive, judicial, legislative publications and student organizations branches of the student government respectively.

OTHER MEMBERS of the committee will be Dean of Women Katherine Warren and Dr. Louis D. Carmen, Dean of Men. The Senior Hall of Fame rules, recently revised, stipulate that the Dean of Student Welfare shall also be a member, but at the present time the post is vacant.

Each senior may submit the names of 10 persons to the Committee for consideration. Numerous University student groups are also being asked to submit names.

THE MAXIMUM NUMBER to be chosen by the committee for the Hall of Fame will be 54, the number of persons who published themselves in at least two major fields of endeavor and one of a minor field. The classification of such activity is left to the discretion of the selection committee.

In addition, a member must have graduated at least 25 years prior to the year honored. He must have a "B" or better average and must have attended FSU for four semesters.

AN OVERALL SCHOLASTIC average of 2.00 will count as a major field of activity.

The rules state that "He (the person honored) must have rendered outstanding leadership and/or service to religion, organizations, publications, athletics, the dramatic and speech arts, university functions, music, or, scholarship."

THE COMMITTEE is at liberty, it is presumed, to select less than two seniors if it feels that no two many deserving recognition. There are no restrictions as to the ratio of men and women.

The following groups have been asked to submit candidates: Phi Kappa Phi, Mortar Board, Omicron Delta Kappa, Gamma Key, Gold Key, University Religious Council, Chairman of the Student Secretaries Association, Pi Kappa Lambda, a joint list from the editors-in-chief of student publications, a joint list from the speech honoraries, and the president of the Student Body.

THE COMMITTEE may select capable seniors not nominated by other groups. The final list must be approved by the president of the university who shall have the power to add to such member. They are to be honored at the commencement exercises following graduation week or before. A composite picture of the Hall of Fame members is to be hung somewhere on the campus. Among the places concerned as a site is the Westcott auditorium, still under construction.

The Hall of Fame shall appear to be a permanent one. IT IS NOT KNOWN when the final selection will be made known.

Registrar Sets February 1, 2 For Registering

Registration for the Spring semester will be Monday, Tuesday, February 1 and 2, according to an announcement by Registrar Walker. Registrar Walker added that at this date there is no break planned between the fall and spring semesters.

Walker stated that students who have finished all their final exams will be allowed to register Monday and Tuesday. He added that all regular weekend rules will apply, and women will be permitted to sign out before leaving.

IN ANTICIPATION of registration difficulties, Freshmen and upperclassmen will register alphabetically on the first day. Because of this Walker said he feels that registration difficulties will be "harrassed by long lines as they were last registration period.

Registration will begin Monday morning at 9 a.m. and will be completed by 4 p.m. Students with the last initial "L" will register first, continuing alphabetically to "A." Tuesday the same procedure will follow with "Z" down to "M."

ALL STUDENTS beginning their first semester at FSU, Graduate Students, Graduate Assistants and Graduate Fellows are exempt from the registration.

According to Walker, the enrollment is expected to be about the same as last semester.

THE PRESENT alphabetical registration system was used in the Spring semester of 1953. Walker said that it was also used last November.

VERY CONTENT with the somewhat limited scope of expression available in monologues, the Florida State University Skinner Theatre Monologue Hour, directed by John Howard said today.

Cornelia Otis Skinner, whose monologues and character sketches have made her an outstanding personage in the American theater, will feature several of her best known character sketches in Artist Series programs Wednesday and Thursday, January 20 and 21, at the Florida High School Auditorium. Both performances will begin at 8:15 p.m.

Student tickets may be obtained at the Florida University Bookstore in exchange for activity book coupons number 21. A special call to the last initial of their surname will be announced.

According to Walker, the enrollment is expected to be about the same as last semester.

THE PRESENT alphabetical registration system was used in the Spring semester of 1953. Walker said that it was also used last November.

Skinner Presents Monologues Here For Artist Series

Monologues and character sketches have made her an outstanding personage in the American theater, will feature several of her best known character sketches in Artist Series programs Wednesday and Thursday, January 20 and 21, at the Florida High School Auditorium. Both performances will begin at 8:15 p.m.

Student tickets may be obtained at the Florida University Bookstore in exchange for activity book coupons number 21. A special call to the last initial of their surname will be announced.

According to Walker, the enrollment is expected to be about the same as last semester.

Folsom Assumes Managing Editor Post On Flambeau

Bob Folsom will assume the position of managing editor of The Florida Flambeau effective today, Editor-in - Chief Bruce Galphin announced during the meeting last Tuesday.

Folsom, a sophomore and a reporter, has been a member of the Flambeau staff throughout the present school year. He was assistant news editor and later assistant editor. He has had previous experience on commercial newspapers.

The POSITION of managing editor has been open since November 1, when Jack Bass, the person I chose would be fully qualified," said Galphin in explaining his action. Bass has since been declared a large share of the work on the Flambeau.

Galphin announced that a staff reorganization was also approved by the Flambeau Board.

The position of associate editor was abolished, while copy editor Sylvia Parrish, formerly an associate editor, and Dick Victory were named to the new copy post.

J. GARY Campbell has been named to the newly created position of sports editor. He has a large share of the news copy. Oscar Johnson and Martin Dyal were appointed as reporters.

Court Reveals Not Coming Means Fines

The Student Traffic Court announced today that it has fined students who have violated traffic regulations on the campus. The fines are to pay fines for failing to appear at a court hearing.

The hearing was scheduled after the students did not reply to the letters sent to them by the court. Failure to appear at the hearing means automatic guilty plea of guilty to the original charges. The declarations of the court also mean the monetary fine which must be paid by the person so fined.

Established court procedure calls for the fines to be doubled if the fine is not paid by the allotted time. If the doubled fine is not paid immediately, the student's name is reported to the Student Accounts Office with the recommendation that the student not be allowed to graduate. The court also recommends that the student be punished by the Student Affairs Office.

The recommendations also remain on file until the fines in Traffic Safety Court.

Bill Hamilton, Chief Justice of the Student Traffic Court, pointed out that "This is very unfair to those students who pay their fines, or in some cases, not to be able to graduate this semester."

Fines may be paid to Beverly Bennett, Clerk of the Court, from 2-5 p.m. through the Student Activity Privity, in room 206 Longmire.

Ed. Note: Names of offenders are withheld on request of Traffic Safety Court.

Fraternity Plans Project Increases

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity at Florida State University, announced plans for its semi-annual planning conference this week-end. Highlight of the week-end meeting to increase the group's projects in number, according to Jack Bass.

The Student Book Exchange, a project sponsored by the service group, will be re-organized for the coming semester, Bass said. Direction of APO Brother Don Van Nuis, the exchange is expected to be in operation sometime by then ever before, according to the chairman.

New officers recently elected to APO posts are Bill Andrews, president; Bill Mitchell, vice-president; Jack D. Holmes, secretary; Tom Dumper, treasurer; Bert McIntosh, Alumni secretary, and Rowell Winfree, historian.

VISITS FRATERNITY

Dr. Lewis Hanke, national secretary of Phi Kappa, Tau fraternity, visited the Beta Beta Chapter at Florida State University recently.

Dohnanyi, Kilenyi Combine Talents Tonight On Opperman's Duo Pianos

Marking First Of '54 Faculty Series

Dohnanyi

Kilenyi

University Singers Will Tour West, Florida For Concerts

Florida State's University Singers begin a four Monday day that will take them to three cities in West Florida.

Under the direction of Dr. Wiley Housewright, the chorus of 40 voices will travel Monday to Panama City, Pensacola on Tuesday and Bonnlown on Wednesday.

DR. HOUSEWRIGHT, professor of music education here, said the group was organized five years ago and since have become "One of the outstanding musical groups on the FSU campus." They annually make a concert tour to Florida cities on the East coast. This year's East coast trip is slated for March.

The Singers will present the same varied program in Panama City, Pensacola and Bonnlown. However, different numbers will be chosen for the appearances. Singers spokesmen said the Housewright noted that home-town talent will be emphasized as much as possible on the tour programs.

INCLUDED ON THE program will be songs from Spain the 16th century by Jacob Handl, sacred compositions by Johann Sebastian Bach, Paladilhe and Faure, four Gypsy songs by Brahms, an Chanson by Paul Hindemith, Brazilian Psalm by Jean Berger, three selections from Verdi's Requiem by Porgy and Bess, a group of folk songs and another group of negro spirituals.

Bob Davis is president of the University Singers. He is a Wiskitron, doctoral student in the FSU school of music, is student conductor and in charge of many rehearsals. - Dr. Housewright is well-known nationally as a choral conductor and author of several published articles on early American music.

Faculty Members Attend Conference In New York City

Classical scholars from all over the country visited New York City during the Christmas holidays to attend the 54th annual meeting of the Philological Association. Three of Florida State University's Department of Classical Languages took part in the convention, held at the Hotel New Yorker December 28 and 30.

William C. Kirk Jr., Miss Lyrian Thompson and Francis R. Walton represented FSU at the meeting which was held in conjunction with the Archeological Institute of America. Walton served as invited to the Classics.

WALTON SPOKE before the two societies at a symposium on "The Age of Hadrian." His topic was "The Religious Thought of the Period."

Other speakers on the panel discussed the personality of Hadrian, who was Roman emperor from 117 to 138 A.D. Topics of more his imperial policies and the Scholars Visit—P. I. — PLAMSO Walton's speech dealt with Hadrian's religious policy. He said that his reign, one of the happiest and most prosperous of the Roman Empire.

MR. WALTON has served, since 1948, as secretary-treasurer of the American Philological Association. The group publishes annually a volume of Transactions and proceedings, plus a series of monographs. Walton was recently elected editor for the coming year at the recent New York meeting.

Mr. Walton who recently a delegate to the Council of the Archaeological Institute and represented Florida State University at a meeting of the Advisory Council of the American Academy in Rome.

See Page 3

Interns Return From Teaching Over Florida

One-hundred-eighty seven student teachers returned to campus this week after completing internship in schools covering 36 Florida counties. Four of these are out of state to complete this requirement.

Leaving Florida State University October 26, they went into high schools and elementary schools to practice the methods of teaching they learned while here, according to an internship office spokesman.

BACK ON CAMPUS they will attend seminars where they will have opportunity to talk about and discuss their recent teaching experience.

Scott students in the group will graduate in February, but most still have one more semester, the spokesman said.

Seventy-eight did practice teaching in secondary schools and 109 in elementary schools.

INTERESTING to note better part of one semester, is required in the State of Florida for anyone wishing to be certified to teach upon graduation, he added.

"The present program does not guarantee the student a job on graduation. However he has received help in job-getting through Dr. Oliver F. Tyler, director of Vocational Guidance and Placement, the Internship spokesman said.

STUDENTS WHO PLAN to intern the first semester of the 1954-55 school year are asked to pick up their applicable blanks and forms in the Internship office located in 204 Education Building.

It is very important, Dr. Coulding has stated, for these forms to be gotten now and returned by February 12, 1954, to the same office.

Editorial Page Study Reveals Level Difficult for Many Adults

By GEORGE MATTER

What is wrong with editorials and the editorial page in the state of Florida?

Eighty-five per cent of the newspaper readers in this state carry editorials that are written on the average at a level too difficult for the majority of adults in the respective counties to understand, a study by Jordan level of readability in Florida is 8.6. Eighty-five per cent of the editorials while a majority at the tenth grade level and above.

TEN PER CENT, or two of the twenty newspapers, produce editorials that, on an average, are easy to understand by the Human Interest formula. Fifty-five per cent of the newspapers carry editorials that are "mildly interesting" or "dry" to the average reader, or even, publish editorials in the "very interesting" or "dramatic" category.

More editorials were written on civic affairs than on any other subject. Close to two-thirds of these were at the eight to twelfth grade level. Only about one-in-four-ourth were at the college level and the more complex one-and one-eighth were below the eighth grade level.

THESE ARE SOME of the conclusions drawn by Miss Ruth Fleming, former graduate Assistant, School of Journalism, Florida State University.

Everyone has an opinion about editorials and the editorial page of newspapers. Miss Fleming has a theory that "Editorials in this state have been written by and during these years have become well-established as a part of the journalistic pattern.

BUT IN RECENT years the question has been raised by many readers as well as professional people whether or not the editorial page attracts enough people. Do they read editorials, are editorials after the first paragraph or two?

Miss Fleming, who has written many editorials, addresses herself to the question of effectiveness of editorials in terms of editorials in the newspaper in Florida. In her study she used the Flesch method of the School of Journalism, Florida State University, a graduate student of the state to the questions concerning editorials.

THE STUDY was made through all Florida State University which was under the direction of Dr. Rudolf Flesch, who has recently analyzed in four ways: Stylistic Characteristics of Editorials developed by Dr. Rudolf Flesch were used, subject matter, organization and human interest factors.

As a supplement to the study, editors were asked by mail questionnaire their opinion of editorials and their editorial page viewpoints? When did they write their editorials? Did they have any special formula for writing them? Do certain editorials have more response than others?

THE STUDY COVERED 86 editorials, and 3-1/8 columns. The entire content, the subject matter was classified as follows: Government economics, civic affairs, the editor's opinion, miscellaneous, sports, personalities, nature, entertainment and miscellaneous. Seventy-five per cent of the editorials on civic affairs dealt on say

Continued on Page 6

Cellists, Horn Lend Assist; Featured—Dohnanyi Original

Two internationally famous musicians, composer-pianist Ernst von Dohnanyi and pianist Edward Kilenyi, will combine their talent to headline Florida State University's opening Faculty Recital for 1954 tonight in Opperman Music Hall at 8:15 p.m.

The two university professor-friends, playing at two pianos, will be assisted by cellists, Owen F. Sellers, associate professor of music and Miss Harriette Heimert, music student; and Joseph White, assistant professor of music, on the French Horn.

THE PROGRAM, open to the public without charge, will be highlighted by Dohnanyi's latest composition, Suite ea Value, a suite of symphonic origin in four movements.

This number has played a part in the long friendship of the two musicians. Dohnanyi first told Kilenyi about it when they met as a small Austrian Village after World War II. He had composed it only fragments at that time, but later transcribed it for two pianos. Dohnanyi and Kilenyi recorded Orchestra in Carnegie Hall last 1948.

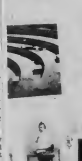
THE PROGRAM will also feature Kilenyi's solo Piano by Mozart and Schuman's Andante and Variations.

Kilenyi said the Schuman selection will be given in the original form, minus of the variations of two pianos.

"THIS VERSION is practically unknown," he said. "Clara Schuman, and I'm not at all certain it has ever been performed here," he said.

Dohnanyi said that the widely known version of the Schuman selection is for two pianos, but "the unusual combination of instruments is more colorful."

KILENYI OBTAINED the Bachelor of Music degree cum laude in the U. S. last October st a music shop in Berlin.



He said the program in original manuscript form will be several of Brahms' Hungarian dances for piano duet. The two pianists, will play them on one piano. The first piano duet by the popular dances will probably give a new experience to the audience.

KILENYI SAID the audience may be unscorched and performed for almost every instrument no seldom in their original action.

Completing the program will be Beethoven's Piano Sonata for Two Pianos.

Both Dohnanyi and Kilenyi have made personal appearances and given concerts at famous music centers throughout the world.

KILENYI WENT to Berlin last October where he gave several public performances recorded for Remington. Hungarian - born Dohnanyi made his debut as pianist No. 2 in B Minor for Piano and Orchestra in Carnegie Hall last November.

"Nice enough to frame" . . . Loretta Green, FSU senior examines photographs included in the collection of nationally famous work now featured in the FSU museum.

Photographic Exhibition Opens With Reception at Art Gallery

Tallahassee's first national photographic exhibition opened Wednesday with an informal reception at the Florida State University Art Gallery.

The exhibition is open to the public without charge and will continue through January 30.

The reception will be in the honor of 54 nationally-known photographers who were invited to send prints for exhibition. Known as "54 Photographers '54" the exhibition title calls attention to the year, as well as to the fact that this is an invitational exhibition in which a number of prominent American photographers were asked to show their work.

There will be no prizes or other recognition of merit. Each photographer will have prints shown have probably been shown or have received awards in competition exhibitions in other parts of the nation.

The exhibit is sponsored by the Tallahassee Camera Club with the cooperation of the FSU Art Gallery.

Nasty Democracy! Voters Will Demand Rights Next

Nasty democracy! At least one would think it was after some remarks at last Tuesday's Student Body Senate meeting.

Senator Coyle Moore's proposal to require roll call votes on Senate action and publication of the results in The Florida Flambeau was up for discussion. Moore had submitted the bill to create interest in student government and to let students know what their elected representatives are doing.

We certainly cannot argue with the Senator's thinking in proposing the bill. Preparation of the roll call record would have meant extra time for us and required additional paper, but we had already agreed to take on the task in the public interest.

Some of the reasons given for opposing the bill are interesting and the fact that there were not a few firey speeches in rebuttal is a and indication either of apathy or worse yet, a lack of understanding of the functioninge of democracy.

It was said that if Senators knew their votes would be published, they would start voting for popular appeal.

Terrible! Next thing you know, the voters will start wanting things their own way!

We suppose the remark about "popular appeal" was made without forethought, and we do not mean to impute villainy in

● FORMAL JEANS?

A quiet fell over the audience. The great maestro bowed to the audience, turned, raised his baton, and . . . POP! The boy dressed in blue jeans and sitting on the front row popped his bubble gum.

Things aren't quite that bad here, but it is about time men consulted the Pow Wow about the rules of dress at evening concerts.

Florida is noted for its sunny climate and casual dress. We like them both.

There are occasions which call for formal dress, however. It is not just a matter of show. It is a matter of courtesy and decency. Tonight two internationally famous musicians will present a concert in Opperman Music Hall. It seems to us that casual wear would be plain disrespect.

Men are the chief offenders on the subject of wear. Probably this is connected with that old male characteristic known as "I don't wanna dress up." None-the-less, one is supposed to learn a few of the social graces along with "book-learning" here at the university. Out in the cruel, cruel world, there will be numerous entertainment and eating places more emphatic about attire. Actually the requirements are quite lenient here. Not formal wear, but only coats and ties are in order for evening concerts.

Better get in condition now, men.

● McCARTHYISM

The black shroud of McCarthyism looms on the dynamic American scene like a poignant cloud of tyranny and oppression. It is a threat to our ideals, our principles and our rights.

It is a stifling, choking restriction to the freedom of thought and speech that is inherently ours. And like an insatiable cancer it must be cut out and destroyed.

The vicious scourge of communism, too, threatens the destruction of the political and economical philosophy of this nation. Its contention that democracy and its opportunities are decadent is absolutely opposed to our objectives.

But to fight it with McCarthyism is like performing national euthanasia. It is like killing the patient to stop the disease.

The power and prestige of the U. S. is greater than that ever enjoyed by any other nation in history. To the impoverished and oppressed countries of the world we stand like a luminous goddess.

They look to our humanitarian institutions as an antidote to the totalitarian machine of collectivism.

But the insidious spectre of McCarthyism can turn our position as leader into a hollow mockery. American idealism is turned into hypocritical prostitution of our birthright. To condone the practices of McCarthyism is to oppose the legacy of our forefathers.

And that legacy is the very thing it destroys in a purverted attempt to champion.

There is no telling the damage it has already done. It has been said that McCarthyism is worth 20 divisions to the Russians. It has had the same effect as does communism in weakening the foundation of the country.

Supporters of McCarthyism do not necessarily support its theories. They oppose communism without considering the danger of their weapon.

This statement has always been strong because of the people's courage to uphold their convictions. But to accept McCarthyism is to have courage in its depravity.

—The Miami Hurricane.

AT THE UNIVERSITY, JUST AFTER CHRISTMAS VACATION
By William R. Reece

The U's machinery,— Massive,—

Begins with creaks and groans;
While students,—hush,

And passive,—
Emit wild shrieks and moans.

Survey Reveals Little Change

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (IP) — A follow-up survey of PCW graduates, 12 years after graduation from the college, has revealed no real equality and equal opportunities as adopted by the fac- an end. This end is wisdom, purity and tranquility of Pennsylvania College for Wisdom involves more than an out of their individual abilities. 3. Women appears in the 1953 edition of Who's Who in America, a biographical reference book that lists catalogue. Although the giles an understanding of and common good is best served in new standards of conduct and conside ration for the contemplation of the individual. 4. Women should contribute a rational change in the old values basic to our democratic wisdom of a majority which re- objectives, there a re several society, attitudes which will lead spects the rights of the minority. 5. Women should be observed, in their relations to act consistent- i. It should be recognized that politics which should be observed, in their relations to act consistent- i. It should be recognized that It was stressed here by with three values; and the de- each individual has a responsi- Objectives: a) formerly stated viewpoints of certain abilities likely for participation in and were concerned with abilities, be- without which effective action improvement of the organized fields and attitudes. In the re- sponse, society in which he lives viewed form the term "beliefs" The section of values, attitudes is eliminated and the term value tudes, and abilities now reads: tive attitudes which affirm these used to denote descriptive of values fundamental to demo- cratic living are: 1. Confidence of what is meant. The order has ocratic society whose validity eration for the viewpoint of others changed also so that values the student should recognize and ex- with freedom from racial, ert upon are— 2. Each individual religious or other social prejudice given precedence. The new statement reads as should be regarded as an object; (Continued on Page 4)

The Florida Flambeau

BRUCE GALPHIN — EDITOR

AL PIERCE, news editor — BOB FOLSOM, managing editor

Feature Editor ..... Jayleen Robertson
Sports Editor ..... Dave Kennedy
Campus Editor ..... J. Garry Campbell
Copy Editors ..... Dick Vietor, Lois Ferris
Rewrite Editors ..... Joe Jackson, Martin Dickman
Photographic Editor ..... C. Caldwell
Art Consultant ..... Franklin Adams
Business Staff ..... Ken Kinsey, Jack Stuart
Junior Staff ..... Dot Thomasson, Pat Dekle, Mary Elizabeth King, Hall Berry, Bob Long, Lona Cochran, Barbara Bachman, Joyce Porter.

NANCY LOWE — BUSINESS MGR.
MIRIAM SAWYER, advertising manager

Business Staff ..... Virginia Vaughn, Alice Lang, Joe Caldwell
Exchange Editor ..... Pat Robson
Exchange Staff ..... Margaret Dellinger
Advertising solicited by Alpha Delta Sigma and Gamma Alpha Chi.
Distribution arranged for and processed by members of Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity.
The Florida Flambeau, published weekly by the Students of Florida State University, Tallahassee, Florida.
The Florida Flambeau is represented for national advertising by National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Avenue, New York, 17, New York.
Member. Associate Collegiate Press, Intercollegiate Press
Telephone 2-8000, extension 4821 211, 213 Longmire Bldg.

The LONGMIRE RUNAROUND

Or Dangers Of Sense Of Humor

By DREAR PEWSON

Here is what all Longmire is still talking about: the spring elections.

With less than three months from now to the polling date, student politicians tensely await the time to toss their respective hats in the ring. In the air of atmosphere of taut expectation, rival politicos tend to assign sinister motives to each other, and any false move becomes an attempted knife-in-the-back.

Partially because of this atmosphere of intrigue, a group of Longmire residents has formed a new organization. Composed of newly Richard Stevens, Georgie Seminole, and Jeffrey. It will be called the Pseudonymous Party of Communists Protective Association.

My close associate, Gene Lawler, will be Executive Secretary of the PPCPA. Though terribly busy running the show, Lawler plans to take time to write a penultimate pamphlet for the association. Entitled "From Rightcousness to Reason," or "Laughter Can Be Funny," it will contain a full description of the purposes and plans of the various pseudonymous columnists. A comprehensive appendix will contain full definitions and explanations of such terms as "spoof," and "satire," for too-serious minded students.

The PPCPA also plans to conduct a survey on the FSU sense of humor. An alarming trend toward GOOD taste has been begun to take themselves so seriously that they can no longer laugh. This includes humor-magazine editors.

SUBVERSION—Confidential reports now disclose that the number of subversive officials in student government has reached at least five. It will be denied, but no action has been taken to install a student loyalty program because some of the very officials whose officials are themselves fascisty-liners. This is very serious, and I am willing to give my informatina to a special Senate investigating committee.

FLAMBEAU PIPELINE — The Florida Flambeau will soon become a political pamphlet, with a vengeance. Plans are on foot to install political cartoons by a widely-known artist. I can remember when he used to be Georgy White of Tampa.

It is the policy of this column to name names, and I can reveal that the man behind this scheme is Dick Bibler. Dick will be winner. Galphin is little known on campus because he never visits the Amber Room.

PREDICTIONS—And now, for prediction of things to come:

1) I reported recently that the bookstore will not give away free texts next semester. I have since also received reports that ID cards will be the same price at registration—still $15.

2) Gene Lawler will not be a candidate for anything. Election is more likely.

3) Warren Cobb will not stop jousting with wind mills. Chauvinism is more likely.

THE FREE LANCE

The New York Film Critics and I---

By BRUCE GALPHIN

Once a year the New York Film Critics restore one's faith in the arts and help gird one for the next 365 days. Tuesday night the Academy Awards are bound to lose.

Maybe I'm just beginning to notice it more, or maybe it's just that Hollywood is in a slump, but by year the Academy Awards seem more boring. The tendency has been more and more to equate bigness with goodness. An attempt at anything approaching the artistic are usually too deep for the Academy and have been ignored.

Selections of best actors and actresses are often disturbing enough. All of us were a bit startled when Shelley Winters Bogart copped an Oscar for THE ADVENTURES OF, but the choice of best picture is getting foul enough to turn a Roman critic loose while everynight.

As if it were not bad enough to give preference to An American in Paris in a year when A Streetcar Named Desire was running, the Hollywood version of film critics had spotlighted The Greatest Show as Earth last year. A once in a lifetime movie. The Greatest was about as barren of acting as a 90-year-old mountain goat.

The trend is obvious. A picture which stands out for critical acclaim from any censoring group may as well kiss its Oscar chances goodbye. Streetcar wasn't chosen, nor was Death of a Salesman, Come Back, Little Sheba.

So the chances that this year's Academy Awards are might reasonably assume be FROM HERE TO ETERNITY, and the 20th Century-Fox musical MUTINY, will not be considered. Sounds? Something like "pleasant." THE ROBE, JULIUS CAESAR, SALOME, and KNIGHTS OF THE ROUND TABLE has a much better chance.

But back to the New York Film Critics. Composed of New York movie reviewers, these critics are far enough removed from the exigencies of Hollywood politics to have more rational judgement.

Their choice this year was truly a favorite contender (tha, of course, why I consider their judgement sound). From Here To Eternity. In addition, they selected Burt Lancaster the best actor for his great all-out performance in the same picture. They picked Audrey Hepburn as the actress for her part in Roman Holiday. From Here to Eternity also picked a man for best director: Fred Zinnemann. They choice for best foreign film of the year is Gate of Hell. Done, a beautiful little French study in the decadence of a tyrant's decision on a murder trial.

From Here to Eternity, by the way, is making its first Tallahassee appearance at the State Theater this week. Since it was previously reviewed in the Flambeau, I'm not going to do it again. I'm going to try to scrounge it here now. Just let me say it is a beautiful production with tight acting and a realism that leaves you panting.

The Florida Theatre is preparing a real first for Tallahassee. In the next couple of weeks, the theater will get the long, narrow slash in perspective for the world premier of Cinemascope. First showing will be The Robe, a religious picture starring British actors Richard Burton and Jean Simmons.

CAMPUS CARAVAN

Useless, But They're Easy To Make

By BEVERLY LAZOYO

1) I will endevsor to put schol-arship above all and study three hours outside of class for every hour I spend in class.

2) I will buy subscriptions to Time, U. S. News and World Report, Life and Look for the Monthly, and Saturday Review in an attempt to broaden my interests in life.

3) I will finish War and Peace.

4) I will not drink.

5) I will not drink.

6) I will not swear.

On the beginning of December 31, 1953, we sat at our desk dilligently working on compilation of resolutions for the purpost of molding our character in the new year. Cub Scout manuals and nine hundred fifty-four Junior Auxiliary Guide Manuals offered a wide variety of worthy resolutions. Some of the more weird colors made their appearance in the Girl Scout Manuals. Five years ago, when the dance craze first tried its hand at Manipulation for the first time. It was good!

But tonight is the night that about four hundred people will be away from home for the first pointed, if they expect to hear Dohnanyi and Kilenyi play the piano together. We are not going to make the mistake this year of arriving at the last minute attempting to get a group together who plan to pack a supper and arrive in Opperman Hall around 8 p.m. For hours and hours we have carefully planned we advice fielding press by giving these things up?

Brief, cynical, and completely honest, I have lost my belief in my faith in the older generation.

Vacation is over and we all have happy memories and have one suggestion. We should have the Freshmen Girls who are not satisfied with poking fun at Christianity but go on a greater infamy than that—driveling idiots out of Santa Claus and the Easter Bunny.

But pleasant things are happening all around us. The Smoke Signals is going to hold rely on darkness and Pogo to keep them informed on current national and international politics. Lent, the club which used to be known as the Poverty Club, has changed its name mainly because they had a change of policy which has made to United States citizens as well as to those of other countries. This year Made the club much more interesting to the Americans who were on the Moon last year and this year have a chance to take an active part in the Next Moon semester a number of the speakers will probably be students from other countries telling of conditions in their own countries or their view of American life.

Another sidelight — did you know that Dr. Dorothy Mae Adkins is president of this club and that she has two children students at the University? Pooh, they're from Egypt.

shaires or, if all available space is filled, ask a friend in the audience to hold your tape recorder and to record only the performance, then you are free to go to the movies and listen to the concert at your own convenient time in your room.

Speaking of conversation, the International Students Club held its last meeting of the semester Wednesday. As usual they had a very interesting speaker (Thai Vet Ta Kanchanapongkr and he was flooded with equally interesting questions. This group is fortunate in having such fine advisers and Pogo to keep them informed on current national and international policy. Lent, the club which used to be known as the Poverty Club, has changed its name mainly because they had a change of policy which has made to United States citizens as well as to those of other countries. This year Made the club much more interesting to the Americans who were on the Moon last year and this year have a chance to take an active part in the Next Moon semester a number of the speakers will probably be students from other countries telling of conditions in their own countries or their view of American life.

Another sidelight — did you know that Dr. Dorothy Mae Adkins is president of this club and that she has two children students at the University? Pooh, they're from Egypt.

Letter To Editor

Lenson Greets

Editor's note: Although this letter was mailed on 1 December, it was received in Japan 3 rather slow, and we did not receive it before the holidays. None-the-less we reprint it both for its intrinsic interest and for friends of Mr. Lenson.

Dear Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to send the warmest Christmas greetings from the coldest place to the whole Florida State University family. It has been a great experience for me to pursue my research in various regions of Japan, to be able to combine book-learning with field work and to peruse daily new Japanese publications and books in old libraries. temples and shrines. It has been no less of an experience to lecture before Japanese university students and to observe at first as the professor enters the classroom, spends half the time on studies and literally work themselves to death. Indeed professors like other Japanese are under physical privations in pursuit of their studies. How feminine our PSU parking problem would appear to them! But stimulating and elevating as my stay here has been. I miss the fellowship of our campus, particularly at his time of the year. Until we meet again next year, a MERRY CHRISTMAS and HAPPY NEW YEAR to you all!

George A. LENSEN
Hlondo Hotel
Hakodate, Hoddaido, Japan

Kasha Concludes Series Of Lectures About Chemistry

Dr. Michael Kasha, professor of chemistry at Florida State University, has just completed a lecture tour for the American Chemical Society, it was announced recently. He presented a series of lectures before eight university and industrial groups in Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee.

In one radio broadcast Dr. Kasha remarked that many young people are missing the opportunity to work in a fascinating and rewarding field when they overlook careers in the sciences. He stated that due to a tremendous shortage of industrial chemists in the South, there is a demand for many well trained scientific workers.

IN HIS LECTURES before the eight groups and radio stations, Dr. Kasha described the work of the chemistry department in the Molecular Spectroscopy Laboratory at Florida State University. He discussed the experiment known as the spectrograph, and the principles which analyze light according to the colors in the spectrum. He also told how he uses the same principles to study the structure and energy states of molecules.

Dr. Kasha said his research material is illustrative how purely theoretical ideas served to solve practical problems of importance in chemical reactions, analysis, and biological research, as well as in industrial chemistry.

THE TOUR WAS sponsored by the American Chemical Society, and developed as a result of a lecture Dr. Kasha gave at a national meeting of the society in Chicago last September.

ETCETERA ETCHINGS

Gabors Galore In H'wood Headlines

By DAVID DREIS

BITS OF BARBS . . .

Well, the singer-peachy news flashes are turning Technicolor with features and escapades of the fabulous 'O' Gabor family.

The individual stars are Zsa Zsa, Eva, Magda and Zsa Zsa.

This latest Gabor seems to me, will do anything to let Jane Smith have her name in the headlines.

Their scandalous viewpoints concerning men ("If you haven't got a diamond, you haven't got a friend") and the troubles concerning each one of the Gabors is startling, but Zsa Zsa is the one who is in print. She made a public statement that she thinks Princess Calvet had a phony accent and probably was born in Brooklyn. The Gabors are a funny family. Is it only one . . . Zsa Zsa's I've seen Miss Gabor . . . who cares where she is developed it? . . . It's certainly interesting.

Eva, making her name as an actress on video, who was considered the best in 1952 . . . somehow she got lost. Now she's back in a nightclub act with her feminine family. Nothing much to say about Mama except she delivered Zsa Zsa in 1940 and the 14-year-old gent, a former millionaire, is now broke in Budapest.

Zsa Zsa (Za-Za) recently got divorced in the act of losing too much about Rubirosa. She's single and free and is fine with them. Aside from driving the Las Vegas dress designer wacky, the females of the family have made a new trend in 'entertainment' . . . they're the rage in Vegas now. The Cohans (George M.) did it years ago.

ADDED ATTRACTIONS . . .

Danny Kaye to play Maurice Chevalier in MAN FROM MONTMARTRE . . . Orson Welles to play King Farouk . . . no names mentioned a la ALL THE KINGS MEN . . . Linda Darnell set for movie's new 'Carmen' . . . Kathryn Grayson looking to Vegas for club date . . . Donald O'Connor realized $28,000 for a Miami club date . . . Ezio Pinza realized $125,000 for a Miami club date . . . (EDDIE CANTOR STORY) Brenda celebrates 25 years in show biz . . . wants 25 to film series on televising . . . rex the silver-tongued Rex Harrison and the 14-year-old gent, a former millionaire, is now broke in Budapest.

Zsa Zsa (Za-Za) recently got divorced in the act of losing too much about Rubirosa. She's single and free and is fine with them. Aside from driving the Las Vegas dress designer wacky, the females of the family have made a new trend in 'entertainment' . . . they're the rage in Vegas now. The Cohans (George M.) did it years ago.

ADDED ATTRACTIONS . . .

Danny Kaye to play Maurice Chevalier in MAN FROM MONTMARTRE . . . Orson Welles to play King Farouk . . . no names mentioned a la ALL THE KINGS MEN . . . Linda Darnell set for movie's new 'Carmen' . . . Kathryn Grayson looking to Vegas for club date . . . Donald O'Connor realized $28,000 for a Miami club date . . . Ezio Pinza realized $125,000 for a Miami club date . . . (EDDIE CANTOR STORY) Brenda celebrates 25 years in show biz . . . wants 25 to film series on televising . . . rex the silver-tongued Rex Harrison . . . DiMaggio will be in there slugging to go along . . . Video city being set up by NBC in Miami . . . they spend Bebe Daniels Ozzie Nelson and hope to down Ozzie Nelson . . . Steve Allen . . . shows being built around Joe Stafford, Benny Goodman, Abbott and Costello . . . Metro called MGM trying to cast Ramon Novarro . . . Ethel Merman called Mrs. McAvoy and Carmel Myers in remake of Ben Hur . . . Wire Service Photo to be the former man . . . James Mason will play Brendan Behan's play, The Quare Fellow . . . Kirk Douglas for Ben Hecht's The Shadow . . . Musical on Hitler's Lost Horizon will be called Shangri-La . . . caws . . . Nightbeat' on video stars Ron Rengal, F. Lowejoy and MacDonald C. . . . each play columnists covering Hollywood, Manhattan and Chicago . . . George Brent to star in Honolulu Dragnet' . . . Ruth Marlowe will be known as Ruth

(Continued on Page 6)

The Needle

The Sigma Nu's paid for a trip to the home of their pledges to go to Gretna and investigate rumors that they were using their pledges for the Christmas season. Pledges have not returned— the star is still shining. Good Ship "Pinky" . . . While in route to the Green Lantern "Pam" Dobbs and her escort, Jim "Head" Hall, were not too excited in their ban- ana Cadillac—result she is sporting a black eye and Jim has said goodbye to three of his molars . . . Pre- Boston Blackie' Bukay has been seen working overtime as his Ouija board. Many anni- versaries are waiting for the outcome of detective's report on love and hotel business . . . Cosmo the Lumberjack Holder had me look up one of his old flames while I was up in Alcron trip . . . Lee Corse "The Destruction School Kid" is seeing his latest at 3:30 p.m. to get her books home. Is she a freshman or a junior at the Law School, Lee? . . . The Tube of Campus Dancing Champ is at it again next week when the Holder Derrier Painters meets "The Thumper" (George Cornelius) at the Student Center. A fee?

Gymnasts Trip Thru Panorama Dance Routines

Members of Florida State's gymnastics squads will trade their gym suits for dancing shoes and go into rehearsals for this week's Sandspur production, Panorama. Frances Bailey Holder, producer, said today.

The athletes, self-titled "The Flambeau Five," are led by Don Holder and will appear as dancers in this year's Panorama, a "most deviation from performances in the past," according to the Sandspur spokesman Bob Gutcher.

GETTING RECALLED that's not wear these same men stayed "in service" routine of tumbling and gymnastics still will remember. Send on campus. However, according to Cutting, the "navy men" will "waitz" through such classics as Basin Street, Dixieland and several South American dances.

Comprising the quintet besides Holder will be Pat Signorelli, holder of the Southern AAU and Southern Intercollegiate titles; Joe and Carmine Regna and Jim Padgan who, in addition to his duties as gymnast and dancer, was general manager for this year's gymkana show.

ALSO DANCING in Panorama will be Raphael Lecuona, captain of the 1953 Cuban Olympic team and holder of titles in Central and South America.

HISTORY HONORARY

Gould C. Garcia, Carolyn F. Briles and Donn G. Teal were initiated recently in the Florida State University chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, national history honorary.

President of the local chapter is Mary Audrey Whitehurst, official stated at the December ceremonies. She was assisted by Ellen Appleby, vice-president, Anne Kelley, secretary, and Dr. Karl Heck, faculty advisor to the group.

Remember—

SAVE MONEY—

TRADE THE BOOKS YOU NO LONGER NEED ON SECOND SEMESTER BOOKS.

Cash for your Used Books

MALONE'S BOOK STORE

When you pause ...make it count...have a Coke

DRINK Coca-Cola

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

TALLAHASSEE COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY

"Coke" is a registered trade-mark. © 1954, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Seminoles Roll Over Tampa Spartans

Oler, Wernke, Westhafer Top Scoring In 5th Win

Coach Bud Kennedy's talented Seminoles rolled to an easy 74-58 win over the hapless University of Tampa Spartans Wednesday night at the West Campus Gym.

It was the fifth victory in seven outings for this promising band of Seminoles.

Jim Oler, Hans Wernke, and Jerry Westhafer were the leading scorers for the FSU cause. Oler led with 18 points, Wernke followed with 17 and Westhafer added 12.

HIGH man for the Spartans was their sharpshooting guard, Brooks, who was the high scorer for the evening with 22 points.

Tampa started off with a brief spurt and led 4-3 early in the first quarter, but the FSU defense tightened and the Seminoles led 16-7 at the close of the period. Rick Benson led the way in this attack with his brilliant rebounding and he also added six points.

FLORIDA State again controlled the play in the second quarter and led 36-21 at halftime.

Hi-type passing and shooting on the part of both teams marred the third quarter and the Spartans outscored FSU to cut the lead to 56-43.

JERRY Westhafer and Tom Callahan thrilled the crowd with their sharp shooting in the fourth quarter as FSU coasted to a 74-58 win.

Coach Kennedy was pleased with the all-around performance of Jerry Westhafer. "Westy," a forward, has been hampered throughout the year by a badly sprained ankle, and it appeared tonight that he regained much of his old form. He topped his rebounding performance in the fourth quarter when he sank four quick on one handed shots from 20 feet out to awe the spectators.

TOM Delahan, the ball-handling wizard of the FSU squad, proved that Coach Kennedy has men on his that can be relied on. Tom, besides turning in a good all-around defensive job, added nine points in his brief appearance.

The Cagers played Loyola University here last night but the score was not available in time for publication.

FSU				Tampa
	fg	ft	tp		fg	ft	tp
Armour, f	1	0	2	Brooks	7	8	22
Burt, f	1	1	3	O'Brady, f	1	0	2
Wershal, f	0	0	0	Wilson, f	0	0	0
Gordon, f	2	0	4	Haworth, c	0	0	0
Benson, c	3	0	6	Benson, c	2	2	6
Oler, g	7	4	18	Strawn, g	2	1	5
Wernke, g	6	5	17	Jansen, g	2	1	5
Westhafer, g	5	2	12	Horvath, g	2	0	4
Delahan, g	4	1	9	Peeples, g	0	0	0
Nowak, g	0	0	0
Totals	29	13	71	Totals	16	12	58

Referees: Sonny Conrad, Florida State; Warren Hall, Benson J. Brown, Jr., Tampa.

Substitutions: Florida State, Safarenik 1, Jarczynski 6, Brooks 1.

T. Sands Resigns As Sports Editor

Tommy Sands, Friday Flambeau Sports Editor, has resigned. The resignation was effective last Tuesday.

Sands, who served as Flambeau Sports Editor as a freshman in 1951, said he was quitting the post "to devote more time to duties as an assistant in the FSU Sports publicity office.

"I hate to give it up," he continued, "but my duties as a Sports publicity assistant has increased and trying to handle both jobs has become too difficult."

Tom Cundy will take over until a successor is named.

FETE ADVISORS

Members of the three branches of Student Government last night entertained their faculty advisors at a party given in the Longmire Lower Lounge.

Judy Simpkins, Secretary of State, was chairman. The party was a project of the cabinet.

Refreshments were served.

Got Those "Back To School" Blues? ?

Well here is the cure—a gay collection of humor books that guarantee laughs. Identify yourself and your friends in THE LONELY ONES and the SMALL FRY by Steig; sympathize with THE MORNING AFTER and BOTTLE FATIGUE (alarmingly clear pictures of the hangover); and for the non-prude don't miss OVER SIXTEEN & MORE OVER SEXTEEN,

ALSO

The Tattooed Sailor

All Pogo Books

The Fathers

Saints Alive

THE HOUSE of GIFTS

208 South Adams

Volleyball Team Face Jax Navy Tomorrow

Florida State University's volleyballers make their first home appearance of the season here tomorrow night when they meet the strong Jacksonville Navy team.

The match will be the second of the season for the Seminoles. They copped the St. Petersburg Invitational meet back in December, edging that same Navy aggregation for the title.

Coach Bill Odeneal has named Howard Gould, Ron Hambrock, Wally Cox, Phil Slaton, Ray Johnson and Len Kaczmarek to start for the Indians. All are lettermen with the exception of Kaczmarek.

Odeneal said that his main concern in stopping the Navy six has been his team's own defense. "Our offense is pretty-well smoother out," he said. "Our big worry now is the defense."

Top men on the Seminoles' ladder are veterans Gould, Hambrock and Cox. Gould has won All-America honors two years running while Hambrock copped the honor two years ago. Cox has won numerous regional honors and is after his fourth letter.

Other Seminoles beamed for limelight are Arnold Bobson, Harold Stone, Bernie Mcann, Stan Humphries and Jack Mergens.

FSU's next home match is with the Albany, Ga., YMCA here Feb. 8.

Preliminary to the volleyball match, the freshman basketball team coached by Lee Benamon will entertain the Bartow Airbase five. That affair is slated for 6.

English Exam

The Junior English examination will be held at Opperman Music Hall, January 20, at 6 p.m.

It is to be taken by all students who are completing their Sophomore year this semester and by all Junior and Senior transfers who have not taken it yet.

Special arrangement to take the test prior to that date can be made by contacting Martha G. Chapman if a student finds it impossible to take it on the 20th.

There will be a five dollar deposit fee.

KEING TELEVISED—Professor Thomas Wright, shown above, will be the first performer in the series of programs featuring piano faculty of the FSU Music School. The series begins tomorrow over WMBR-TV in Jacksonville and will continue through Feb. 27.

Gym Team Scores Two Close Victories

By BOB GUTTING

FSU's gym team ended the old year and started the new with two brilliant victories over the Universities of Syracuse and Minnesota.

Leading the Seminoles to victory were co-captains Don Holder and Jack Miles, top contenders for FSU in both meets.

IN THE Syracuse meet Holder placed first on side horse and tied with Pat Signorelli for first on parallel bars. Miles took first on both horizontal bars and flying rings.

Most outstanding routines of the evening were performed by FSU's Jack Miles and Syracuse's Corky Sebbo. Miles easily took the flying rings event with six among them a fantastic triple twister, that gave Syracuse an easy first in tumbling.

FINAL score of the meet: FSU 56, Syracuse 46.

The Minnesota meet of January 2nd turned out to be much closer. Competing for mighty Minnesota were Frantisch, Eklin, Day, Johnson, Jackson and Brown. Against these gymnasts Dr. Price semi Holder, Signorelli, Miles, Konlow, Wallace, Weston and Ireland.

THE MEET got under way with FSU taking an early lead in the side horse and horizontal bar events, but Minnesotas Eklins best Holder by four points to take first on parallel bars and his team mate Day took third to bring up Minnesotas score close to that of FSU.

IN THE flying rings event Florida States Jack Miles took first and Don Holder second to again increase our lead. This was followed by tumbling, and Larry Weston managed to beat Minnesotas Day by one point to take first. But Eklin took second and Johnson third place thereby gaining valuable points and cutting down the Seminole lead.

The last event, trampoline, proved to be the deciding factor of the meet with Florida State leading Minnesota by less than 10 points it was still anybodys meet. What was needed was a high scorer in this event to clinch the championship. Dr. Price's prayers were answered in the form of Dick Ireland, who out jumped Minnesota's Brown and Eklin to take first place and thus win the meet with a final score of FSU 50½, Minnesota 44½.

Track, Golf Highlight Intramurals Battle

By ART KENNERLY

The dormitory and fraternity athletes of the intramural leagues will make several plunges into sports before the "big plunge" into final exams.

On Monday the dormitory teams will start their battles on the golf course and the tennis courts. The dormitories will play tennis singles and doubles.

Finished with tennis singles, the fraternities will polish off their racquet rivals with tennis doubles which start on Monday. The fraternities also will go to war on the golf course on Monday.

During the week just before final exams, Jan. 18-20, the dormitories and the fraternities will have track meets.

Intramural basketball will begin right after the second semester begins.

All of the fraternities will be out for blood in all the athletics-king in order to strengthen their positions in the over-all pointage for the athletic supremacy crown. And Phi Delta Theta, perennial winner, will be on the spot to keep the substantial lead they now hold.

The Penthouse Gang and Senior Hall, out front in the dormitory hearse, will be the teams that the dormitory teams will be trying to purge.

Over-all fraternity standings: Phi Delt ..... 230 pts.

KA	170 pts
Lambda Chi	150 pts.
SPE	150 pts.
ATO	140 pts.
Delta T Delta	140 pts.
SAE	140 pts.
Sigma Chi	130 pts.
Sigma Nu	125 pts.
Theta Chi	120 pts.
Kappa Sig	110 pts.
Pi K Tau	110 pts.
Pi KA	100 pts.
Pi K Phi	90 pts.

Over-all dormitory standings:

Penthouse Gang	160 pts.
Sr. Hall	146 pts.
Pirates	98 pts.
Methodists	69 pts.
Osiers	69 pts.
Tigers	89 pts.
Magnolia Hall	60 pts.
Rebels	40 pts.
Mad Raiders	10 pts.
Air Force	10 pts.

RETAIN PRESIDENT

Howard Welbrail was re-elected president of Florida State for the second year by the University's local chapter of Sigma Chi fraternity.

Other officers elected at the December meeting were Peter Rinkoff, vice-president; Bob Canada, recording secretary; Graham Crutchers, corresponding secretary; Duke Woodhull, associate editor, and Kenneth MacPike, pledge trainer.

Everyday Is A Special Day!

TUESDAY $1.00 — Filet Mignon, French Fried Potatoes, Chef Salad

THURSDAY .95 — Spaghetti with Cheese Salad, Lemon Ice Box Pie

FRIDAY $1.23 — Whole Broiled Lobster, Drawn Butter, Salad

SATURDAY $1.00 — Half Chicken, Golden Fried, French Fries

SUNDAY $1.00 — Roast Turkey, Dressing, Cranberry, Soups

MAKE THE MECCA THE PLACE TO GO FOR Snacks

Sandwiches

Delicious Meals

Daily Dinner Specials

Fountain Specialties

Serving Breakfast, Lunch, Dinner and In Between

The Mecca

Owned and Operated by "Shorty" Whiddon

31,000 ACTUAL STUDENT INTERVIEWS SHOW COLLEGE SMOKERS PREFER LUCKIES TO ALL OTHER BRANDS!

Latest extensive nation-wide survey, supervised by college professors, proves Luckies lead again!

In 1952, a survey of colleges throughout the country showed that smokers in those colleges preferred Luckies to any other cigarette. In 1953, another far more extensive and comprehensive survey—supervised by college professors and based on more than 31,000 actual student interviews—again proved Luckies' overwhelming popularity. Yes, Luckies lead again over all other brands, regular or king size ...and by a wide margin! The number-one reason: Luckies' better taste!

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER

Be Happy—GO LUCKY!

A.T.Co.

PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company — AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES

Griffin Appointed Acting Professor In Anthropology

John W. Griffin, former archaeologist with the Florida Park Service, has been appointed acting assistant professor of anthropology and archaeology at Florida State University, Dr. Hale Smith, head of the department, announced today.

Griffin, as a member of the park service, has been active in archaeological research in Florida since 1946. He is a Fellow of the American Anthropological Association and a member of the Society for American Archaeology, American Association of Physical Anthropologists.

He is past president of the Florida Anthropological Society and is an honorary member of the International Mark Twain Society.

Griffin has received an AA degree from the University of Florida and an MA degree from the University of Chicago.

Among his publications are "Here They Once Stood," by Ford, Smith and Griffin, University of Florida Press; "The Florida Indian and His Neighbors," Rollins College, and "Prehistoric Florida," in "Archaeology of Eastern U. S.," University of Chicago Press.

Movies To Be Seen Next Tuesday Night

Movies in room 303 Westcott on Tuesday night will be shown from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

The Majestic Recorder and Community Resources in Teaching are the films to be shown, and Taking Care of Our Garden and Baltimore Plan will be previewed.

Magazine Carries Article Concerning Juvenile Crimes

This moment, in classrooms all over the country, potential murderers sit side by side with their to-be victims. Crimes of violence by youths under the age of 18 have been an on the increase in every major city in the United States.

What one city has done to help arrest juvenile crime before it occurs is told in "Crack Them Before They Kill" in the January issue of LADIES' HOME JOURNAL.

Rowan C. Taber, Director of Pupil Personnel and Counseling for the Philadelphia public schools, explains that city's case history committee for "problem children" in the schools.

DURING ITS first four years the committee reviewed the cases of 369 public school pupils. Some of the students were referred to it voluntarily by parents or teachers, others committed to institutions for defective delinquents. These were the most incorrigible of the cases, whose presence in the school room hampered and even endangered the other pupils and the teacher.

Other pupils, more happily, have been rehabilitated through the efforts of the committee and the school personnel. Many times the parents of the potential delinquents are the ones to blame for the children's behavior, and some of the parents have received psychiatric treatment themselves.

RIDDING THE CLASSROOMS of troublemakers is only a product of the committee's work. Their real job is to seek out children who have shown criminal tendencies and, by helping them, to prevent juvenile crime before it happens.

Church News

EPISCOPAL

The Rt. Rev. Frank A. Juhan will confirm at Ruge Hall Episcopal Student Center here Sunday morning at the 11 a.m. Morning Prayer. Bishop Juhan will celebrate Holy Communion at 8 a.m. and a breakfast in his honor will follow immediately after.

Weekly suppers at Canterbury Club will be resumed at 6 p.m. this Sunday evening, followed by a program. Canterbury Club will meet to make nominations for the 1953-54 Vestry. The newly elected governing group will take office in the near future, in order to function fully by the beginning of the Spring semester.

The Feast of Lienta will follow Sunday night's meeting of the committee concerning the Coming of the Light. Services will feature a pageant of the coming of the Messiah, the candles held by the congregation will be lit from the Christ Candle, symbolizing the carrying of Light into the world, meaning of the consecration will then carry the lighted tapers to their homes.

ROMAN CATHOLIC celebrated by the church group Wednesday at 7 a.m. Wednesday night, the Ruge Hall Study Group will meet at 6. Topic for discussion will be Holy Matrimony. Refreshments will be served and all are invited.

BAPTIST

An eight-day revival, starting Sunday, will be conducted by the First Baptist Church of Tallahassee. Leading the week-long event will be the noted religious figures in the Baptist faith, Rev. Albert Martinez of Sun Antonio, Texas and Mel Dobbs of Cincinnati will conduct daily preaching services in the downtown Baptist Church at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Martinez, 31, is reputed to be drawing the largest crowds in the Baptist revivals anywhere this country. Converted from Catholicism early in life, he has already one sermon a day for the past 18 years. He has preached on such churches as Bellevue Baptist in Memphis, Pensacola and is planning work in Jacksonville. Martinez was graduated from Baylor University, and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Dibble, son of Evangelistic singer George Dibble, has become a national figure in the field of radio-television religious productions. Cincinnati TV stations carried several of his Sunday programs on which he sang and conducted spiritual musical presentations. He has also appeared on several women's radio shows and children's talent shows.

Local Tallahassee radio stations will carry daily programs connected with the revival at 2:30 p.m. and 5:15 p.m.

Florida State University's Hillel Foundation will present a Jim Year Neighbor Celebrate Sunday evening at 8 p.m. at Temple Israel. Everyone is welcome to view the latest acoustical presentation on Brotherhood.

Exam Schedule

Classes will end Friday January 23, 10:00 p.m. Examinations will begin 8:00 a.m. Saturday, January 24, and end 12:30 p.m., Saturday, January 31. All examinations will be held in the Union.

All sections of the following courses have examinations at the same time and will be held at the place announced by the instructor.

COURSE	TIME OF EXAMINATION
Accounting 202	Saturday, January 24, 8:00-10:00 a.m.
Art 101, 102, 103	Saturday, January 24, 8:00-10:00 a.m.
Business Law 227	Tuesday, January 27, 10:30-12:30 p.m.
Chemistry 101, 102, 103, 105	Friday, January 30, 1:00-3:00 p.m.
Economics 201	Saturday, January 31, 10:30-12:30 p.m.
English 100, 101	Saturday, January 31, 1:00-3:00 p.m.
Foreign Languages 101	Thursday, January 29, 8:00-10:00 a.m.
Geography 101, 201, 202	Thursday, January 29, 10:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.
Health Education 119	Saturday, January 31, 10:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.
History 101, 102, 103, 215	Tuesday, January 27, 1:00-3:00 p.m.
Humanities 101, 102, 103	Monday, January 26, 8:00-10:00 a.m.
Journalism 101, 102	Saturday, January 31, 8:00-10:00 a.m.
Mathematics 117	Monday, 4:00-6:00 p.m.
Military — see 101, 201, 201, 401	Monday, 8:00-10:00 a.m.
Army 101, 201, 301, 401	Monday, 10:30-12:30 p.m.
Modern Languages — First and Second Year	Wednesday, 8:00-10:00 a.m.
Personnel Development 103, 104	Wednesday, 7:00-9:00 p.m.
Physical Education — Women—115, 119, 213, 216, 217, 304	Monday, 1:00-3:00 p.m.
Physical Science 103	Tuesday, 10:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.
Political Science 101, 102	Saturday, January 31, 8:00-10:00 a.m.
Social Work 105, 301	Monday, 3:30-5:30 p.m.
Speech 101	Wednesday, 3:30-5:30 p.m.

Examinations for courses not previously listed will be held in the class room where the sections of the course meet.

EXAMPLE — If you have an 8:00 or 8:30 class on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and it is not listed on the schedule, you will take the examination in your regular class room Friday, 3:30-5:30 p.m. January 30.

COURSE	TIME OF EXAMINATION
8:00 or 8:00 M. W. F	Friday, 3:30-5:30 p.m.
8:00 or 8:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week
8:00 or 8:30 T. Th. S	Thursday, 3:30-5:30 p.m.
9:00 or 9:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week
9:00 or 9:30 M. W. F	Wednesday, 10:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.
9:00 or 9:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week
9:00 or 9:30 T. Th. S	Thursday, 8:00-10:00 a.m.
10:00 or 10:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week
10:00 or 10:30 M. W. F	Sat., Jan. 25, 10:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.
10:00 or 10:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week
10:00 or 1:30 T. Th. S	Friday, 7:00-9:00 p.m.
11:00 or 11:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week
11:00 or 11:30 M. W. F	Thursday, 1:00-3:00 p.m.
11:00 or 11:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week
11:00 or 11:30 T. Th. S	Tuesday, 7:00-9:00 p.m.
12:00 or 12:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week
12:00 or 12:30 M. W. F	Friday, 10:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.
12:00 or 12:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week
12:00 or 12:30 T. Th. S	Thursday, 10:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.
1:00 or 1:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week
1:00 or 1:30 M. W. F	Monday, 10:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.
1:00 or 1:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week
1:00 or 1:30 T. Th. S	Sat., Jan. 25, 8:00-10:00 a.m.
2:00 or 2:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week
2:00 or 2:30 M. W. F	Wednesday, 1:00-3:00 p.m.
2:00 or 2:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week
2:00 or 2:30 T. Th. S	Wednesday, 7:00-9:00 p.m.
3:00 or 3:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week
3:00 or 3:30 M. W. F	Wednesday, 1:00-3:00 p.m.
3:00 or 3:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week
3:00 or 3:30 T. Th. S	Thursday, 7:00-9:00 p.m.
4:00 or 4:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week
4:00 or 4:30 M. W. F	Monday, 8:00-10:00 a.m.
4:00 or 4:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week
4:00 or 4:30 T. Th. S	Monday, 8:00-10:00 a.m.
4:00 or 4:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week
4:00 or 4:30 T. Th.	Tuesday, 8:00-10:00 a.m.

Classes meeting one hour each week will have the same schedule as those meeting two hours a week; either one hour or two hour courses.

In case of conflict, the examination which appears first on this schedule will have preference over the other examination. Students in conflict are requested to see other examinations to take the examination with their instructor at 1:00-2:30 p.m. January 26.

Students are not permitted to change sections for examinations.

Night classes will have their examinations at the first regular class period one hour during examination week, starting with the first class meeting.

Classes meeting on Saturday only will have their examination Saturday, January 31, 10:30 a.m.—12:30 p.m.

Students who have more than three examinations scheduled for one day may request that the Dean of Women Assistant Dean of Men arrange for a make examination 4391. In case of four examinations in one day, the third examination will be rescheduled by the instructor.

A candidate for graduation must be excused by his instructor from the final examination in a course in which he has maintained, without absence, a grade of B or better at the time examinations are announced. The dates for degrees who are required to take examinations in courses in which they have maintained with their instructor not later than Tuesday, January 26, 1954.

The lecture period of a laboratory course will determine its examination time for such courses.

Instructors who find rooms with bad lighting should check with the Registrar's Office before changing rooms.

The examination schedule as published with the approval of the Faculty Senate Committee on examinations.

Freshman Elected To Alpha Council

Alpha Council, recently inaugurated underclassmen leaders' ship honorary, selected new members during meetings in November and December.

Those chosen were Tommy Atkinson, David Bachman, Kelly Brock, George Carver, Vann Elliott, Gerry Gunnells, Harvey Hall, Albert Harrell and George Hicks.

George Hill, Jim Kauffman, Paul Kreuger, Al Mattman, James C. Moore, Jim Moore, Bruce Pacetti, Bob Porter, Walter Revell, Jim Soles, Stieks Steinberg, Dale Swilley, Bob Temple, William Thurmond, Ray Warner and Pete Wimbrow.

Vocational Program

A college program designed to prepare teachers for vocational schools will be offered for the first time in the South by Florida 1954.

The program, set up in cooperation with the State Department of Education, leads to a BS in Education. Students in the program will spend three years on campus and two years in fulltime employment gaining journeyman experience.

English Requests January Graduates Order Invitations

Colin English Jr., Senior class president, requests that all January graduates who have not yet procured their graduation invitations, do so immediately.

The deadline for invitation orders is Friday, January 8th. The price is 7 cents per invitation. There will be no tax.

It was also announced that all seniors graduating this semester who have not ordered their caps and gowns should order them by Saturday morning, because the bookstore will not be open in the afternoon.

Any seniors in doubt about graduating are recommended to order the caps and gowns. If they don't graduate in January they will not be charged, English said.

It has not yet been definitely decided where graduation will be held.

Editorial Page Study

From Page 1

other subject. The most popular topics, in order, were government, economics and miscellaneous subjects.

Miss Peeling recommended five improvements for editorials.

1. THE WEEKLY newspaper editors in this study whose editorials consistently appear at a level of difficulty higher than the median education level in their county should attempt to write editorials that are understandable to a larger segment of the population

2. More readable editorials can be written by following Flesch's rules for readable writing.

3. IF IT IS NOT necessary that all editorials in each issue be understandable to those with an average education, but editorials should vary in degree of difficulty, providing for the well-educated as well as for the poorly-educated. More emphasis should be placed on reaching the people with little education.

4. Editorial subjects most of being presented clearly are those on government and economics.

5. LIGHT AND HUMOROUS editorials are too few. Editors should attempt to publish at least one in each issue.

Miss Peeling first studied the problems of readability under Mr. James Sellers. Graceville, Fla., weekly newspaper publisher and one-time journalism instructor at Florida State University. She was also aided by Dean Lenoree B. Campbell of the School of Journalism and Dr. T. Stanton Dietrich, of the Sociology Department.

Survey Reveals

(Continued from Page 2)

dies: 2. Willingness to apply the standards we evaluate others to our own abilities and achievements. 3. Readiness to adapt our ideas and actions to a changing environment. 4. Desire to think in terms of the ideal, and willingness to take action in support of principle. 5. Concern for the spiritual, intellectual and creative phases of human life.

The abilities which must be developed to an appropriate level so that democratic values be enforced by socially constructive attitudes may be supported by effective action are: 1. The ability to communicate—Us ourselves reading, writing, listening, and speaking. 2. The ability to solve problems — this involves analysis, observation, definition, concentration, selection of information, recognition of assumptions, construction of hypothesis, inference of valid conclusions and the application of conclusions. 3. The ability to express one-self — This involves sensitive insight, imagination, creativity, the projection of ideas, and synthetic understanding. 4. The ability to live with others in our own activities and 5. The ability to develop a democratic society—to participate in action; intellectually, emotionally and physically.

Colbert To Interview For Broward County

Teaching candidates in the January graduating class who wish to teach in South Florida will have an opportunity to talk with a school official from Fort Lauderdale today, according to Dr. Glover E. Tully, Director of Vocational Guidance and Placement.

Navy To Give Reserve Exams At Air Station

FLORIDA FLAMBEAU
Friday, January 8, 1954

Physical examinations are now being given at the Jacksonville Naval Air Station to candidates for the U. S. Navy Reserve Officer Candidate Program, according to information received recently by Mr. Harold Voelz, Counselor for Student Organizations.

Examinations are being given this month and the first two weeks of February. Wednesday through Sundays at the Naval Air Station. All selected ROTC applicants will be sent to Newport, Rhode Island, for eight weeks of basic training. This training will be given during the summer and will not interfere with the candidate's college program.

THE GENERAL qualifications for commission at the end of the program specify that the applicant must be a citizen of the United States, have attained status in the Naval Reserve, be of moral integrity and of commissioned officer calibre as established by character, appearance, manner and bearing and capacity for leadership, be enrolled and attending as a full time day-class student and maintain a good scholastic standing at an accredited college or university.

The applicant for commission must also be able to complete the two summer training periods not later than the summer immediately following the receipt of the baccalaureate. Physical regulations specify the applicant must be fully qualified in accordance with the physical standards for midshipmen, including normal heart, lungs, hearing, color perception and 20 20 vision, uncorrected.

UPON COMMISSIONING the applicant will be required to spend two years active duty with the U. S. Navy. Selective service deferments will be issued to all selected ROC applicants to enable them to finish college and the Reserve Officer Candidate Training Program.

Gabors Galore

(Continued from Page 2)

Joan Bennett to be another Lou Parsons . . .

AHEM . . .

A letter by the name of Mom Hart took a look at Miami's John Barrymore, John Behnety, portraying Tyrone at a pre playhouse using local talent . . . "One of the best I've seen . . ." Behnety played Cyrano at U. of M. and also made his name as HAMLET . . . He's dead, but no rushed . . .

Errol Flynn and wife Patrice Wymore offered $17,500 per routine at Miami's Clover Club . . . Dick Haynes just came in after J. Ray inherited one . . . they get about the same. Haynes-worth will be in Miami to see her husband. Aunts.

Colbert To Interview For Broward County

Teaching candidates in the January graduating class who wish to teach in South Florida will have an opportunity to talk with a school official from Fort Lauderdale today, according to Dr. Glover E. Tully, Director of Vocational Guidance and Placement.

Classified Ads

LOST

LOST—Brown Samsonite Vest Case with initials V C J Please return to 137 Jennie Murphree.

There's Good Food at M & N Cafe!

SPECIALS:

Fri. Seafood Plate, French Fries, Salad $1.00

Wed. Juicy Broiled Filet Mignon, French Fries, Salad $1.00

Tues. Whole Fried Shrimp Plate, French Fries, Salad 85¢

M & N CAFE
E. JEFFERSON ST. TALLAHASSEE

Meet Old Friends Make New Ones AT THE AMBER HOUSE
"Food That's Fine"

FLORIDA
Wed., Thurs., Fri., and Sat.
"WALKING MY BABY BACK HOME"
Donald O'Connor
Janet Leigh
The Big Musical of the Year!
burt LANCASTER montgomery CLIFT deborah KERR frank SINATRA donna REED
"FROM HERE TO ETERNITY"
Wed., Thurs., Fri., Sat., Sun., Mon., Tues.
STATE

10.95
It's a darling full skirted new dress...in denim
So perfectly beautiful the way BOBBIE BROOKS loves this fine "Avondale" sanforized denim and with a magic needle styles a features to wear now and into summer. The full blown skirt has exciting detailing of multi-colored stripes stitched right on. And in sizes 5 all the way to 15.
P. W. WILSON CO.

YOUNG AMERICA GOES CHESTERFIELD
FOR THE FIFTH STRAIGHT YEAR
CHESTERFIELD
IS THE LARGEST SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA'S COLLEGES . . .
by a 1953 survey audit of actual sales in more than 800 college co-ops and campus stores from coast to coast. Yes, for the fifth straight year Chesterfield is the college favorite.
CHESTERFIELD IS THE ONLY CIGARETTE EVER TO GIVE YOU PROOF OF HIGHEST QUALITY—LOW NICOTINE
Change to Chesterfield today — get smoking pleasure all the way!
Chesterfield KING-SIZ CIGARETTE LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.
Chesterfield CIGARETTES LIGGETT & MYERS TOBACCO CO.
Copyright 1953 Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.
"As the colleges and whenever we play, I find more and more young men and women going for Chesterfield"
Ray Anthony
CHESTERFIELD
BEST FOR YOU

Graduation Date Set For 30th See Front Page

The Florida Flambeau

Goodie Girl Converts Editor To Sin See Page 2

Vol. XL, No. 23 — PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA — Tuesday, January 12, 1954

Andrews Casts Musical Roles For Sandspur

Production Departs From Tradition; No Plot Involved

Various musical numbers of Panorama, this year's Sandspur production, have been disclosed by Leo Andrews, director and composer.

... Summer, a ballad will be ... duced by the Star-Dreamers ... composed of Marcelta ... Kean Coffey, Joann Hos... Danny and David Whipple.

"THERE IS UNUSUALLY good ..." said Andrews. "I only ... we had more parts to cast ... we have the talent to ... with."

You'll Say You're Sorry will ... comedy number featuring ... Dreis. Joann Hosbach will ... the sultry Someone Sandy ... will sing Lonesome For ... in a dream sequence.

COSTUMES WHICH have been designed by Betty Nasrallah will ... from the society type of New York to the backstreets type ... New Orleans. All props and ... have been designed by Kitty ...pper.

... know the numbers, it ... reported, and dance routines ... been worked out. The entire ... will soon be working together ... full orchestration.

"THERE ARE NO top leads in ..." said Andrews. "Every... has his own part. Each part ... butes to making the mu...

The all-student production will be staged February 17, 18, 19, ... 20 in the Opperman Music ... Frances Bailey Stokes is ...

Panorama, as noted before, will ... somewhat from the tra... lines carved by former ... ductions at Florida State Uni... Instead of a musical com... with speaking lines and a ... plot will feature several ... in which love is the key... sans dialogue.

DIRECTOR ANDREWS said ... has been adapted to vocal ... and available Miss Stokes' ...reography adding that every... working on the February ... is enthusiastic over the new ... production.

Sandspur production replaces ... counterpart of the days of ... State College for Women ... the Odd-Even Events were ... of the hour" here ... annual celebration back in ... days of the marcel and the ... skin coat consisted of several ... athletic events between ... Odds and Evens, intramural ... of girls here. Following ... sports, were two demonstra... by the girls of each team, ... pageant-like in appear... and presentation.

SANDSPUR made its appear... shortly after men came ... the campus in 1946-47. From ... small beginning, the repro... tion has grown today to be ... largest all-student presenta... of the school year's enter... tainment calendar.

Annually, large sums of money ... set aside from Student reg... tration fees and University ... monies for Sandspur. Lately, it has been reported, the Sandspur appropriation has mounted into the thousands, in total.

Cavalier, Cotillion To Introduce Taps At Semi-Formal Friday

New taps for the men's and women's social dancing honoraries, Cavaliers and Cotillion, will be formally introduced to the student body at a semi-formal dance at the Student Center Friday evening.

The girls who were tapped for Cotillion include Carolyn Alford, Ann Callahan, Nancy Campbell, Beth Farris, Susan Finley, Camille Fuss, Sally Fussell, and Boo Gardner. Also in this year's tap class are Joanne Hickman, Pat Meredith, Joan Prichard, Gloria Riley, Carol Rogers, Cheyney Sanderson, and Ruth Ward.

THE MEN IN THE Cavalier tap class who will be introduced at Friday's dance are George Boyer, Joe Bult, Archie Davis, Reed Donaldson, Jim Harkins, Rafael Lacuona, and Johnny Langford. Also Earl Long, Charles Mixon, Doug Scott and Bill Stevens.

Carolyn Gola, President of Cotillion, and Joe Regna, Cavalier President, said, "Taps for our organizations are chosen by means of a series of elimination tryouts on the basis of their dancing ability, appearance on the dance floor, personality, and willingness to carry out the projects of our groups."

"INITIATIONS FOR both tap classes," the two presidents continued, "will be held in the near future."

The semi-formal dance Friday, January 15 at the Student Center, is being sponsored by Cavaliers and Cotillion. Music will be supplied by the Raven Quintet from 8:30 to 11:30.

THE TWO DANCE GROUPS serve several projects annually at Florida State University, it was noted in a talk with the respective presidents, Regna and Gola. During each semester, Cavalier and Cotillion hold dance sessions twice a week.

Designed to instruct dance aspirants with the finest points they themselves know, members hold dance sessions over an eight week period, meeting Tuesday and Thursday nights at the Student Center for two hours each time.

CAVALIER TALENT SHOW, an annual affair to glean unusual acts from the student body here, is an eagerly anticipated affair, according to the dance presidents. Prizes are offered to the top talent performing in the May show.

Miss Gola noted the two organizations worked jointly last spring to sponsor the annual May Dance in honor of the graduating class. She added that both organizations are called on, from time to time, to perform at functions of the University, and to play hosts and hostesses at social affairs.

ADDING TO THIS year's Cavalier activities, Regna said, will be the performances of several of the men at Panorama, the February Sandspur production.

Annual Program To Be Presented By Dance Group

The third annual "Evening of Dance" will be presented at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday of this week in Opperman Music Hall. The show is sponsored by the Theater Dance Group of Florida State University and is free and open to the public.

Director Nellie-Bond Dickinson said that she expects a fine performance. She added, "I believe the program has been good every year, but this year's is better than ever before."

ALTHOUGH THE SHOW is free, tickets are being given out at the main office at the Women's Gym. Ticket bearers who arrive at the performance before 8 p.m. are guaranteed a seat. After that time, those first in line will be given any remaining seats.

There will be nine dances, seven entirely new this year, besides two repeat performances. All were created at FSU by undergraduates, graduate, and faculty choreographers.

NELLIE-BOND DICKINSON'S "Lost Eden" which is based on the story of Adam and Eve is repeated from last year by popular request, along with Theater Dance Group President Joyce Cox's "Chicago." The latter is from Carl Sandburg's poem of the same name.

Miss Dickinson said that "Lost Eden" is particularly interesting from a production standpoint because of the on-campus talent which went into its production. Costumes were designed by Douglas Russel of the Department of Speech and William Watson, Assistant professor in the Department of Arts and Education. Art Newcomb of the Demonstration School has designed a special piece of sculpture for the dance.

SHE CONTINUED that all costumes, sets and choreography have been created on campus by faculty members who are artists in each area.

Much of the music on the program has been written by persons on campus especially for these dances. Lester Brunch, assistant professor in the Department of Speech has written special music for "Jazz" and "Chanticleer," two of the new numbers, and Carlisle Floyd, assistant professor in the School of Music wrote the music for "Lost Eden."

FEATURED AS NEW dances will be "Prelude and Hornpipe" fashioned on style and title from Eric Coates' orchestral score of the same title. "Chiaroscuro" and "Jazz" are dances of contrast in pessimism and optimism and dances depicting noon to midnight, respectively.

"Rah! Rah!" satirical take-off on a football game, "City Corner," and "Chanticleer," based upon a French fable about a rooster who made the sun rise will continue the program which will conclude with "Masquerade Suite" played by the University Symphony, directed by Robert Sedore.

THE SUITE, by contemporary Russian composer Khatchaturian, consists of a waltz, mazurka, and a polka. Choreography will be done by Nellie Bond Dickinson.

Miss Dickinson, commenting upon the work put into the show, said, "Creating dance is a long, slow process. I estimate that for a three minute dance every minute of performance takes 10 hours of preparation. That is a very conservative estimate."

OTHER CHOREOGRAPHERS are Pat Hampton, Mary Kulynitch, Nancy Warren Smith, Shirley Knight Revell, president of the group, and Joyce Cox.

THIS IS A CITY CORNER? . . . Jim Fadigan braces Shirley Knight Revell in a dramatic pose while Joyce Cox stands apart from the pair. The above pose is from a dance routine entitled "City Corner", choreography by Joyce Cox, to be performed at the Theater Dance Group program tomorrow and Thursday nights in Opperman.

Meet Scheduled To Settle Dates For Vacations

Martin Announces No Extended Time For Easter Holiday

Vice-President A. B. Martin and Registrar Charles H. Walker announced yesterday that a meeting will be held today to determine when the Spring holiday will be.

Walker said that in all probability the present calender would be adhered to and that the holiday would begin Thursday, April 1 at noon and end the following Tuesday morning.

MARTIN SAID THAT there will be no extended holiday Easter. He added that all factors would be considered at the meeting hinting it was possible that the holiday would be rescheduled for Easter.

It was brought out by Walker that whenever a date is changed it usually interferes with somebody's plans, and that such a person would have good reason to complain.

"AS FOR THE lack of a break between semesters," said Walker, "we feel that an extra day would be more advantageous at another time, such as the Spring holiday." He stated that "We already have three holidays, and I believe that several parents have complained that we have more holidays than school."

Walker continued that the break between semesters was also impractical because of the distance some students have to travel to return home and that others who have part-time jobs would not be benefitted.

SOME CONFUSION and misunderstanding has arisen, according to word received by the FLAMBEAU. Many students reportedly feel the Spring holiday should be tacked on to the Easter holiday, giving them a longer time to spend at home. Mild objection has reportedly been registered to the removal of the seven-day vacation between semesters in the past. No further comment has been heard at press time.

Public Administration To Offer Lectures By Public Officials

Five visiting lecture courses for graduates and undergraduates to be offered the spring semester at Florida State University have been announced by Dr. Wilson Doyle, dean, school of public administration.

The courses are "Administrative Problems of Florida," "Public Personnel Administration," "Problems of Public Personnel Administration," "Administration and Management in the Federal Government" and a three hour course on budgeting to be conducted by Harry G. Smith, state budget director of Florida.

"ADMINISTRATIVE PROBLEMS of Florida," a three hour course for graduates and undergraduates will be directed by Miss Janita Gibson. It will feature top state, county and city officials as specialists and guest lecturers.

These will include members of the cabinet, supreme court, other top level state officers, members of the Leon County legislative delegation, Leon County commissioner and the Tallahassee city manager or personnel administration.

ADMINISTRATION and Management in the Federal Government," will be a five-hour course also directed by Dr. Paul Piccard. It will feature analysis and discussion of management problems to be presented by prominent officials of the federal government.

"Public Personnel Administration" will be a three hour course for undergraduates. "Problems of Public Personnel Administration" will be a three hour course for graduate student. Both courses will be directed by Miss Gibson and will feature as lecturer Dr. Oliver C. Short, former personnel director of the U. S. Department of Commerce and current consultant to that department.

DR. SHORT ALSO serves as consultant to the Hoover Commission in the field of Personnel Administration.

The budgeting course with

(Continued on Page 3)

Students Form Group To Aid Library Plans

By Staff Writer

In order to bring the library and its functions closer to the student body, a new campus organization has been formed — the student library committee. The committee will serve as the student voice in planning the new university library.

Chairman Evelyn Fredrickson and her committee have already suggested changes in library procedure which should benefit the student body.

FOR EXAMPLE: the longer library hours during examination week. The committee also trimmed the library Christmas tree.

Appointed for the school year by Milton Carothers, president of the student body, the eleven members of the committee represent a cross section of the student body. Carothers said the committee would be of great importance during the planning of the new library building.

MEMBERS OF THE committee and the groups they represent are Evelyn Fredrickson, Chairman, Margaret Neller, Women's dormitories, Roy Chapman, Men's dormitories, John Tippin, Fraternities, Nancy Smith, Sororities, Calvin Hasbrouck, town students.

James Lewis, Senior class, Jerry Jones, Junior class, Dick Bittner, Sophmore class, and Dorothy Thomas, Freshman class.

MISS FREDERICKSON pointed out that some of the present members of the committee may not be able to devote the necessary time to committee activities and will be replaced at some future date.

English Says Date Scheduled For Graduation

Senior Class President Colin English said today graduation exercises will definitely be held in the Suwannee Room Saturday, January 30 at 4 p.m.

English said the affair had previously been scheduled for the Opperman Music Hall. Due to expectancy of more guests than Opperman can accommodate, he said, Suwannee Room was picked as the new site. English said the number of guests each graduate may invite will be determined and made public as soon as preliminary plans are complete.

JAY F. W. PEARSON, president of the University of Miami at Coral Gables will be speaker for the January commencement, it was learned yesterday. More information about President Pearson was not available at FLAMBEAU press time. A later article will deal with feature-type stories.

Class Marshals to serve at the January affair will be Charles McDaniel and Floyd Risley, English said.

THE SENIOR CLASS president said a complete letter of instruction about graduation will be sent out shortly to each graduate. He said instructions will probably be issued from the Office of the Registrar next week some time.

In order to complete records and clear seniors expecting to graduate, final exams are given a week prior to the regularly scheduled examination week to the January graduates.

THE UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE manager has issued a last-minute notice for all seniors expecting to graduate this month to check on their caps and gowns.

Pi Kappa Elects

Beta Eta Chapter of Pi Kappa Phi recently elected new officers to serve during the Spring semester. They are Alan Sundberg — Archon (Pres.); Vic Spoto—Treasurer; Gary Campbell—Secretary; Frank Bean—Historian; Leo Almerico—Warden; and Tom Althauser—Chaplain.

FSU Symphony To Feature Works of Sibelius On Friday

Friday, January 15 at 8:15 in Opperman Music Hall the University Symphony, Robert N. Sedore conducting, will play its first concert of this season.

On the program is the Symphony number two in D major by Jean Sibelius; Fetes, from a suite of Nocturnes by Claude Debussy; and the colorful and exotic Masquerade Suite by Aram Khachaturian.

Sibelius' works is a symphony in three parts. Sibelius reportedly told a good friend that though he did not give a descriptive title to his symphony his intention was "to depict in the first movement the quiet pastoral life of the Finnish undisturbed by thoughts of oppression."

"The second is charged with patriotic feeling, but the thought of a brutal rule over the people brings with it a timidity of soul."

"The third movement portrays the awakening of national feeling, the desire to organize in defense of their rights, while in the Finale, hope enters their breasts and there is comfort in the anticipated coming of a deliverence."

Whether you enjoy depicting the patriotic feelings of the Finnish people or enjoy deep symphonic music, you cannot help but appreciate the spontaneous and infectious mood of the Debussy and Khachaturian.

Fetes is a descriptive piece, the title meaning "feasts" or "celebrations" and the Masquerade Suite is a series of selections of varying mood, several of which are in vigorous dance forms. The titles of these pieces are Valse, Mazurka, Romance and Galop.

JGfrefa

The University Symphony is one of the two large symphonic organizations on Campus which draws its instrumentations from the student body. Though there will be only two concerts and a possible third which are strictly by the University Symphony, they contribute much to other musical presentations during the course of a year.

The Light Opera Guild uses a portion of the players as its pit orchestra each Fall and at Christmas the entire Symphony joins with the Choral Union for the traditional presentation of Handel's Messiah. Then at the mod-

(Continued on Page 3)

Staff Meeting

There will be a joint meeting of the senior staff and the junior staff of THE FLORIDA FLAMBEAU this afternoon in the Flambeau office at 5 p.m., announced Bruce Galphin, editor-in-chief, yesterday afternoon.

Galphin urged all members to attend. There will be an important discussion of deadlines and procedures, he revealed.

TriDelt Requests Women To Apply For Scholarships

The 1954 Delta Delta Delta General Scholarship Competition is calling for applications from women attending Florida State University at the present time.

An announcement by spokesmen for this national social sorority here yesterday said all FSU co-eds may apply, whether they are members of the sororities or not.

To qualify, women should show promise of being valuable citizens in their future communities. The amount of the award on any one of the 96 campuses included in the competition will not exceed $200.

The Tri Delt Committee on Awards will judge the applications. Successful candidates will be notified May 1. Scholarships will be awarded to winners at the beginning of the term for which the awards are granted. Competition this year will close February 20.

Application blanks are available at the Office of the Dean of Women, 205 Wescott. Completed applications must reach Mrs. Charles C. Perrin, Box 717, Paoli, Pa., before February 20.

News Briefs

ACADEMY OF SCIENCE

Dr. H. Ailiss Denyes and Dr. R. Hunter of the Physiology Department recently attended the meeting of the Florida Academy of Sciences at Winter Park.

Dr. Denyes presented a paper on "Alterations in Blood Coagulation During Cold Stress," which is part of a research program supported by the University Research Council here.

ARTICLES BY CAMPBELL

Dean Laurence R. Campbell of the FSU School of Journalism has an article entitled "Publishing School Newspapers Develops Leadership" in the January issue of School Activities, national high school magazine.

Campbell is also the author of an article entitled "Columns With Character Lure Readers Regularly" in the December-January "Quill and Scroll."

Dr. Campbell is an associate editor of "Quill and Scroll." It goes to high school journalism teachers and student publication staffs all over the United States.

UNIVERSITY SINGERS

The University Singers have scheduled a number of appearances in various towns throughout the state this week for their winter concert.

Last night the concert was presented in Panama City at Bay County High auditorium. Tonight the Singers are scheduled to be in Pensacola for a TV show. They will also present an evening performance at Blount Junior High School. On Wednesday the concert will be presented in Blountstown at the First Baptist Church.

University Singers number 66 FSU students and are directed by Dr. Wiley Housewright, professor of Music Education.

FBLA CLUB

The University FBLA Club will hold a business meeting Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. in the trophy room of the Student Center.

Committees will be organized at the meeting to plan and complete the necessary work for the state FBLA convention next month. Elections will be held to determine new officers for the club.

GREENE APPOINTED

Dr. Ines Greene, a native of North Carolina and holder of a Ph. D. from the University of North Carolina has been appointed to the Department of Physiology at FSU. A research associate in physiology, she is supported by a grant from the U. S. Public Health Service.

Her husband, Dr. Burton I. Travis, is presently attached to

(Continued on Page 3)

Students Required To Take Exams By Semester's End

Registrar Charles H. Walker announced Saturday that "Freshmen and transfer students will have their last opportunity this semester to take required examinations. All are to be given in room 124, Science Building."

The A.C.E. test will be given Wednesday at 4:00 p.m. and the Minnesota Personality Scale exam at 5:15 p.m. on the same day.

Juniors and transfer students may take the General Culture Test Thursday, January 14 at ...00 p.m.

Walker advised that registration and graduation will be withheld and a penalty assessed unless these examinations are taken or excuses presented to the Test Service Bureau, room 210 Education Building, before the examination.

THE COLLEGIANS

The Collegians of FSU will present a program at Moultrie, Ga. on Thursday January 14. Featured on the program, which will be in the Moultrie High School auditorium, are college songs, Negro spirituals, and popular numbers.

Selections by the FSU quartet and The Memory Four will also be presented in the program. The quartet will leave for Moultrie at noon Thursday in order to do a radio show over WMTM, Moultrie.

WHICH ONE? One of these four finalists will be picked to reign as Military Ball Queen next Saturday night. Left to right: Miss Dot Johnson, Miss Shirley Harper, Miss Gloria Riley, and Miss Mary Margaret Williams.

Foundation Gives 37 Scholarships For Teaching MA

Thirty-seven fellowships of $1,200 each will be awarded to outstanding liberal arts graduates by Vanderbilt University and George Peabody College for the 1954-55 school year, it was announced recently. The "Master of Arts in Teaching" fellowships are made possible by funds granted by the Ford Foundation's Advancement of Education program.

Seniors as well as recent graduates in the liberal arts are eligible to apply for the fellowships. No one who is already certified to teach, who is already teaching, or who has already begun professional graduate work is eligible.

Candidates must possess a keen interest in secondary school teaching and an outstanding undergraduate record in the liberal arts. They must be qualified in one or more of the following fields: English, foreign languages, mathematics, natural sciences, and history.

Further information concerning these fellowships may be obtained in the Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement, 263 Westcott.

Philosopher Maritain Says Democracy Cannot Dictate Individual's Religion

Editor's Note: The following article is reprinted from The Chicago Maroon of 13 November, 1953. It is printed here for its topical interest.

By PAUL HOFFMAN

"A democratic society, cannot demand adherence to any philosophy or religion . . . (there can be) no rule of faith or conformism of reason in the educational process," said Jacques Maritain, noted Thomist philosopher last Tuesday in the second of two lectures sponsored by The Committee on Social Thought.

"Religious training should be made available to the student population," Maritain declared. He suggested an allotment of school time when teachers of various faiths could speak to students of that faith. Those not choosing to attend such religious instruction could "learn good manners and civic morality or enjoy classes in scientific entertainment."

The lectures given by Maritain, visiting professor of French Philosophy, were officially titled "Some Major Issues in Contemporary Education, but Maritain said that the word "philosophic" should have been added to the title. He said he was discussing the matter philosophically with an admitted Thomist bias.

"Formation of moral life and virtues is an essential part, indeed the most important part, of the primary aim of education," he said. This formation is best afforded by religious training. "It is preposterous to begin in (the dichotomy between religion and life) in childhood and perpetuate it in the educational system by cutting off religious training proper to schools and colleges."

Maritain could see no reason why "God is less entitled to have his place in the school than the electron or Professor Bertrand Russell."

This conclusion on religious training was made after building the thesis that the purpose of education is to "prepare the student for life in society and good citizenship." This can be done in the college by offering "less factual information and more intellectual enjoyment."

"Every human being is entitled to receive a humanistic education," he said. The differences between "liberal education and graduate studies should be emphasized."

The college should be divided between liberal education and fields of concentration, but in this division liberal education is the essential. This division, Maritain said, is the "best way to insure unity and integration of the teaching."

The principle agent, in education is not the teacher, but nature, Maritain asserted. Therefore what matters most is not who teaches a course or how it is taught, but of what the curriculum consists. The role of the teacher is to develop "intuitivity of the mind, spiritual development and creative energy."

Concluded Maritain: The problem is not one of "education, but of civilization."

Most View 'Big Football' As Part Of College Scene

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

"Would you mind getting out of sight? That's the second professor who's looked over here and fainted dead away."

Is football a necessary evil? Is it a publicity device to placate alumni and state politicians?

Such was a large segment of the opinion in a survey taken by Tampa Tribuneman Mike Morgan at the University of Florida in Gainesville.

Actually Morgan found opinions to fall into one of three major categories: those who felt the university needed big-time football and that the program was not overemphasized, those who believed the program was emphasized from a perspective to such an extent as to harm the school, and those in the previously mentioned group who considered it a necessary evil.

The strong supporters of the big bulldog represented a sizeable segment of the spectrum of opinion. Dean Walter J. Matherly of the college of business administration was heavily quoted on the pro side of the question. He not only defended scholarship procedures but said football was a good thing for the players as well as the school.

"Whether anybody likes it or not, major state universities of the country today are striving for good teams . . . A university that's going to compete educationally cannot afford to ignore the development of good teams. This is especially true of a state university."

At Gainesville football scholarship holders are granted full expenses . . . funds amounting to $1000 or $1400, depending on whether the recipient is a resident or out-of-state student. Commented Matherly, "I don't see why a man with such abilities should not be paid for using those abilities for the fur-herance of his education and no more."

Asked why it was football players at the University asked to work their way through college or played on partial scholarships. Matherly replied, "They came to school on a more and less even basis."

The dean also said he was one who still believed that playing football contributed to the moral stamina and character of a boy. He opined that cribbing scandals such as those at West Point or at Gainesville a couple of years ago were exceptions rather than the rule.

At the other extreme were those who took a very dim view of the effect of big-time football. One professor asserted that the sports program today is essentially a professional program, only incidentally and almost accidentally connected with the university.

Commenting on the spirit behind the game, The Florida Alligator editorially claimed a year and a half ago that "Dollar Football Kills Amateur Spirit." Students, furthermore, pointed out that even if the game built character for the players, it has a different effect on fans. One of those asked said "They've stressed the importance of winning to such a degree that one wonders how you build character when you find signs calling for the coach to 'Get because he doesn't win.'"

Most people at the university, however, seemed to fall into the category of resignation to the phenomenon.

Those in the latter group all admit the faults of emphasis on football but say it has to exist. Here are a few examples:

Dean of Men R. C. Beaty, who heads the university's scholarship committee admitted that he regretted so much money was given to athletes in relation to nonathletes, but "This is a state university and the athletic program has very much to do—and they want a good football team." Still, he admitted he didn't think the effort was worthwhile "when so many other things should be done on the campus."

Dr. Manning J. Dauer, professor of political science, was quoted as saying, "The sports program is far out of focus and it's not good for the university . . . and not for the people of the state because it's setting up false standards. But I'm not convinced but the people like it. However, if it is of benefit to the university in terms of support for the total program, we must accept it."

Expressing a similar feeling was Dr. William G. Carleton, head of the department of American institutions: "As a matter of principle, I would like to resist the trend but, if it's a matter of helping get money for the things that count, I'll acquiesce in it."

So there it is. Except for the staunch supporters and the hitter enemies of football, the build-up is a not very loveable child but one grown so large as to be uncontrollable. The ambivalence existed as fixed in the American college scene.

Ralph McGill Discusses Ouster Of U Of Georgia Student Editors

Editor's note: The following is a column by Ralph McGill which appeared in the B. December edition of THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION. We feel it is an excellent survey of the situation and covers more points than were previously discussed in THE FLORIDA FLAMBEAU.

An incident in the peaceful university city of Athens, Ga., has blown up into a quite sad mess and the chimney is afire while relatively obscure, it is in the Peron-La Presna newspaper pattern, or if one wishes to go back a few years, to the thought-control methods of the Hitler, Mussolini or Stalin regimes.

This time it is the student newspaper and youthful idealism, integrity and honesty which have come up against the dictorial politics and — as usual — idealism and youthful honesty have been kicked in the teeth.

The editors of the university newspaper commented in the most general terms on the Supreme Court case dealing with racial segregation and called for calmness and a rational attitude, rather than one of harsh and unreasoning criticism likely to bring on violence.

This led to Mr. Roy Harris, most influential of the University Board of Regents, and for 20 years a legislative figure and the nearest thing to a state political boss the state has had, moving to discipline. Regent Harris apparently thinks the white race is so lacking in racial pride and integrity it soon would be reduced to a mulatto status if segregation is lifted, and he moved in against the student editors in his own publication.

Language

Writing in the cultured, courteous manner the most powerful regent of a great university system would be expected to use in addressing students of his alma mater, Mr. Harris wrote of the editors as "little handful of sissy, misguided squirts."

But what irritated Regent Harris was conformity. Or lack of it. It apparently annoyed him that any students of the state should think and did be and so he ordered them into line, as follows:

"The state of Georgia pays a big price to educate its college students. If the editor is willing to accept this money it has the right to control what is taught and what is done at the university."

Warning

This was a plain warning to the faculty and students to hurry to the educational fount and wash their brains free of anything which did not conform to Regent Harris' policies or, as they say, else.

In another phase of his dictatorial career, Regent Harris argues that democracy cannot continue to be democratic if the majority will be forced to bow at the feet of the minority. Abram said that no group has a right to use the universities tested in the "cockpit of public opinion."

Abram then cited weaknesses of a recent system. First, he referred to the banning of a "Hate Place Called Enlivelle" by Erskine Caldwell. This was wrong, he said, because the police chief wrote a letter to the governor telling him to stop distributing it. This did not result in an arrest, nor did it result in a trial, it simply resulted in the banning of a book — a good book, not writ-ten, he said for "well-bred purpo-" rather with a good moral behind it.

Then he referred to religious organizations which determine the ownership of books and tell members of their sect not to buy the books.

He continued, saying that charges of obscenity should be tried in the courts of law where charges, "Murder, kidnaping and rape are tried by a jury of twelve men from various backgrounds and stations in life, who by small majority vote can condemn. This is the proper way. Our constitutional fathers understood democracy and they knew about censorship. But they did not believe that it doesn't take a board of regents to determine whether a book is obscene or not. And we must remember that these boards change with the seasons, since they can smear the reputation of the author."

Abram also took the opportunity to hit the Congressional investigating committees, contrasted Senator McCarthy's record with those of Canada, which, without involving politics, tried a spy ring recently. "What's said in Canada," he said, "is not were convicted."

Abram could see that "Our laws, if properly used with free and open discussion, can be more effective than mob fear."

(Continued on Page 3)

Resolution

I would like to add one more item to B Lacayo's New Year's resolutions list; that she refrain from writing further articles in American newspapers if she intends making statements concerning remarks about foreign students.

The connotation was quite clear when she referred to the presence of two African students on campus and the implied remark that followed assuring us that these people were an adequate distance away from the camp of supposed inferior human beings.

The only harm done was to assure outsiders that there are still a few individuals in this part of the country who insist on maintaining the reputation of an otherwise improving South constantly debased as a group of ignorant, bigoted, unthinking people.

D. CONN

Editor's Note: I can see that you might take the remark as you did if you did not know Beverly Lacayo. I must hasten to point out Miss Lacayo is quite active and interested in the foreign students' organization on campus, and I am sure the remark in question was intended to be facetious not malicious.

Senate Legislation

1953-54 Senate Bill Number 3
Introduced at request of President Dr. President, 1953
Passed December 8, 1953
Signed by President.

A BILL

TO BE ENTITLED AN ACT To provide for THE FLORIDA FLAME HALL OF FAME

BE IT ENACTED BY THE UNIVERSITY SENATE:

Section 1. Purpose

A. The Hall of Fame is to honor graduating seniors for outstanding participation and leadership in campus activities.

B. The Hall of Fame is to be the highest honor bestowed upon a senior who exemplified the ideals of leadership, scholarship and service.

Section 2. Membership.

A. The maximum number senior to be honored is ten (10).

Section 3. Eligibility Requirements

A. A member must graduate with a Bachelor's degree in the year honored.

B. He must have at least a 1.3 overall academic average and have attended FSU for at least (4) semesters.

C. He must have rendered outstanding leadership and/or service to publications, athletics, the dramatic and speech arts, or university functions, music, scholarship.

D. He must have gained recognition in at least two major fields with a Letter in one other field. A minimum average of over 2.0 may count as a major field.

Section 4. Committee Members

A. There shall be a committee of 9 members. The President of the Junior Class shall be a member of the committee, and shall automatically be the President. Body and shall be persons of junior standing from each of

(Continued on Page 3)

The Florida Flambeau

BRUCE GALPHIN — EDITOR
BOB FOLSOM, managing editor

AL PIERCE, news editor
Feature Editor ..... Jacqueline Robertson
Sports Editor ..... Dave Kennedy
Campus Editor ..... Larry Campbell
Copy Editors ..... Dick Victory, Selva Parrish
Reverie Editors ..... Oscar Johnson, Marilyn Dickinson
Photographic Editor ..... Joe Caldwell
Art Consultant ..... Franklin Adams
Sports Staff ..... Ken Kingery, Bob Taylor
Junior Staff ..... Dot Thompson, Pat Dekle, Mary Elizabeth King, Tom Hall, Betty Blanton, Jack Cochran, Barbara Bohmer, Joyce Porter

NANCY LOWE BUSINESS MGR.
MIRIAM SAWYER, advertising manager
Business Staff ..... Mary Wagon, Virginia Vaughn, Alice Lang, Joe Caldwell
Pat Robson
Exchange Editor ..... Margaret Dallinger
Exchange Staff ..... Advertising solicited by Alpha Delta Sigma and Gamma Alpha Chi.
Distribuchun arranged for and processed by members of Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity.
The Florida Flambeau, published twice weekly by the Students of Florida State University, Tallahassee, Florida.
The Florida Flambeau is represented nationally by the National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Avenue, New York 17, New York.
Member Associate Collegiate Press, Intercollegiate Press
Telephone 2-8000, extension 4821
211, 213 Longmire Bldg.

THE FREE LANCE

Orphan Annie Converts Me To Sin

By BRUCE GALPHIN

I'm on the side of the villains . . . at least the ones in Little Orphan Annie. After last Sunday's bloody dem-onstration of goodness, I'm firmly sworn to a life of sin.

For those of you who were fortunate enough to have missed the "funnies" two days ago, let me explain that Annie and her trunk-driving benefactor finally caught up with the villains. The guilty pair had run over Annie's dog, Sandy, in their car, dumped him in the trunk and carried him some 100 miles — unknowingly. Accidentally, this was an unwise and unkind thing to do, particularly since Sandy is the necessary foil for Annie's blank-eyed selfishness, but, after all, Sandy was a dog and deserved to get what he got.

As soon as the truck-driving vigilante established the pair's guilt ("I'Sure, sir! That's th' car an' yez dog!"——"I'm dead sure!": he rammed their auto, descended, and proceeded to beat their face into a bloody wreck. Out rushed a tourist court owner, who objected that the driver might kill the pair, but then hastened to join in the carnage when he found the villains had run a dog over.

Sorry, sweety, though, folks. I'm making an unqualified prediction that Sandy will recover. The strip couldn't get along without him. For, lo, these many decades Annie, who has remained physically and mentally a child, has been philosophizing on goodness to Sandy. Just don't know what to say any way: "You know, Sandy, there's so much badness in the world, I just don't know what to do! I believe the answer is goodness, all goodness! We must be good like us midWesterners everything would be all right. All we need to do is be good." In short, to ignore foreign affairs and elect Dwight David MacArthur, and all our problems will be solved."

Sandy replies "Arf!" which, if you know dog-ese, is "agreement." He knows which side his bread is buttered on.

Annie's a financial wizard, of course. Every three months or so she deposits the check a coal million by saving her pennies and being good. To those who are the rich, if unhampered by income tax, will help the poor, she donates her pennies that the family who have been good shall have their pennies.

It's at being right that Annie is the real expert, though. It's always comforting to be sure that one is right, because then one can treat others as if those o.ih different ideas whither and worrying about such stupid things as being wrong or the house?

Unfortunately, Annie isn't the only perennially childish person in the world. The country is full of people these days who prey on her simple theory of justice by the means with the ends. They are equally positive of the rightness of their causes and we have simple phenomena as congressional investigating committees which smear reputations with heresy evidenced by nothing. Even all dissenters of wanting to overthrow the United States through conspiracy. Thus, too, candidates who declare in favor of motherhood and God and country, motherhood and God are elected on a wave of popular approval.

We have come to believe in "good" men as the panacea for repeating the word and getting elected about it.

I hardly know how to remedy the situation. Obviously I need to remember that some people have other ideas about goodness. Obviously, the right step would be to stop taking myself so seriously and simply imitate better the hypocrites.

To that end, I suggest Leonist Harold Gray could do a lot toward restoring naive sanity by varying his stereotype a bit. How about letting Sandy be a mongrel instead of a thoroughbred? Also, the cigar-driver take up with the zookeeper's wife and Annie and Sandy cronke open a sanitarium?

Arf!

IN ONE HEAD AND OUT THE OTHER

I Say, Someone's In My Shoebox!

By BOB RICE

Sometimes, just before I fall asleep in my bedroom, I hear a faint sound of living being, about seven and a half feet long, in crawling fit way up the wall and across the ceiling. I ignore it. I am quite accustomed to such things, you see. I know that at the moment I reach for the light switch the creature will scamper to the nearest ceiling crack was the desk shrinking. Some-four a.m. Sharply, then, I will turn on the light, and rolled over in bed. On the screen above my head will produce the sound of webbed feet running in circles. It will be gone. I am even skeptical as to whether I did shrinks at all. I can imagine my armchair relaxing a bit during the night, or even the bureau here sagging a bit, but hardly a desk.

I am fortunate in one respect, however. My room is quite devoid of insects. I have personally known headless things with eight legs to scramble around inside them and I shall never forget the day I left with the wooden clacker that dismally lulled the chimney sweep into a stupor till dawn when I was child. I suppose that's why I left home.

I am not unfamiliar with elusive noises occurred only in the dead, finished my university reverie through a crack in the wall and fly off into the hall, or the rolling of bowling balls beneath my bed. Particularly when I'm alone, which I am even skeptical as to whether I did shrinks at all. I can imagine my armchair relaxing a bit during the night, or even the bureau here sagging a bit, but hardly a desk.

I am fortunate in one respect, however. My room is quite devoid of insects. I have personally known headless things with eight legs to Someone once advanced a plausible theory that the noise was the result of webbed feet running in circles. It will be gone. I am even skeptical as to whether I did shrinks at all. I can imagine my armchair relaxing a bit during the night, or even the bureau here sagging a bit, but hardly a desk.

I am fortunate in one respect, however. My room is quite devoid of insects. I have personally known headless things with eight legs to scramble around inside them and I shall never forget the day I left with the wooden clacker that dismally lulled the chimney sweep into a stupor till dawn when I was child. I suppose that's why I left home.

I am not unfamiliar with elusive noises occurred only in the dead, finished my university reverie through a crack in the wall and fly off into the hall, or the rolling of bowling balls beneath my bed. Particularly when I'm alone, which I am even skeptical as to whether I did shrinks at all. I can imagine my armchair relaxing a bit during the night, or even the bureau here sagging a bit, but hardly a desk.

I am fortunate in one respect, however. My room is quite devoid of insects. I have personally known headless things with eight legs to scramble around inside them and I shall never forget the day I left with the wooden clacker that dismally lulled the chimney sweep into a stupor till dawn when I was child. I suppose that's why I left home.

I am not unfamiliar with elusive noises occurred only in the dead, finished my university reverie through a crack in the wall and fly off into the hall, or the rolling of bowling balls beneath my bed. Particularly when I'm alone, which I am even skeptical as to whether I did shrinks at all. I can imagine my armchair relaxing a bit during the night, or even the bureau here sagging a bit, but hardly a desk.

I flipped on the lights, put on slippers, and climbed on a chair.

(Continued on Page 3)

OTHER COLLEGES SAY:

Abram Says Constitution Protects Minority Rights

ETCETERA EDITORIONS

APO To Reshow Classic Old Films

By DAVID DREIS

Well, the latest news is that to this campus for the edifica-Alpha Phi Omega, for which I tion of students about the proper have been appointed movies chairman, is going to run a series of old time films as the conclusion to the Ugly Man Contest slated for next semester. Not trying to be unduly biased, I think it's a swell idea, and one which should've been done long ago.

Too many times, we miss the good films that are released, and then the story doesn't have our name on the delivery lists when they're sent out. Take, for instance, when the film club brought back the FOUR HORSEMEN OF APOCALYPSE (1921) and starred Rudolph Valentino, while others it was a welcome return.

Old movies deserves me more than to see an old picture of some actor or actress by himself alone in my feelings. For instance . . . wouldn't it be a great thrill to see Charlie Chaplin in his hey-day epics. THE GOLD RUSH (1925) and CIRCUS (1928). Even, old-time melodramas like TEN Nights in a Barroom would receive high interest.

Take a gander at the list of films which really should return greatness and it is indeed interesting to note when you see the names what made them so great: Wallace Reid, Rudolph Valentino, Theda Bara, Pola Negri, Janet Gaynor, Richard Barthelmess, Lloyd Hughes, Colleen Moore, Clara Bow, Gilbert Roland, Little Caesar, each had something which made them unique.

Actually, the pessimist . . . Glenda Farrell: The Big Parade, said: "How do we get the Renee Adoree: Underwraid in the archives of Hollywood American Madness (1932) with Walter Huston; I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang (1932) with Paul Muni and Scarface (1932) with Muni and George Raft.

There are only about a few films of the untapped quantity which are still stored at YALE. Unlike books, cannot just be read-re-ardless of when they were released. They can and with-them passes some greatness.

Many of the films of the early sound days were based on stage plays, with the emphasis, but SPENCER TRACY'S efforts in QUICK MILLIONS (1931) and CITY STREETS (1931) can not be passed by. The silents hold a store of

(Continued on Page 3)

● SAVE ON BOOKS

Another semester of hard work on "the bill" is reaching a close — a semester in which the old students have experienced just another period of spending much sweat and money; for new students, experience so they'll know what to expect from now on.

Looking to the near future when we'll be registering for financial registration week, we foresee digging deep into the student pocket for payment of fees and books.

To those about to face this experience once again, this article is directed. Reason: to inform them of a way to save money.

We are fortunate to have a chapter of Alpha Phi Omega National service fraternity here on campus. The student members of this organization are here to serve. Florida State University needs the students of the university as proposed by that body's Constitution.

Now operating a book store on our campus, the Student Book Exchange, which is here to buy and sell the students' books, APO works on a non-profit basis. In other words, the only beneficiaries are the students, who may buy books for the same price which the Exchange bought them, as well as sell old ones for the same prices as would be received elsewhere.

The Student Book Exchange is located in the basement of the Longmire building. Alpha Phi Omega would like to have every student go down and find out just how much easier it is to sell and purchase use books than ever before. Incidentally, time like these should serve as a tip-off. It's not a bad idea to pinch the pennies and still come out with usable books.

● JUST CANCELLED

(ACP) — A. P. Turaud, Jr.—the first Negro to graduate from a Southern "white" undergraduate school — is no longer a student at Louisiana State university.

Turaud, the son of a New Orleans attorney, was admitted in September on after a long series of court battles, during which LSU argued that Southern university, a Negro school in Baton Rouge, La., is the facilities are not equal.

U. S. District Judge J. Skelly Wright upheld Turaud's charge and issued a temporary injunction against the university refusal to enroll him.

Last week, however, in further legal action, the Federal Court of Appeals reversed Judge Wright on the grounds that the case should have been heard by a special three-judge court.

Following the second ruling, LSU cancelled Turaud's registration. After being an LSU student for less than two months, the tall, 17-year-old Negro left campus without stopping to pick up his registration fee refund.

"The university said he had not been dropped or dismissed, but that his was simple case of registration being cancelled.

Calendar of Events

TODAY

Biochemistry Seminar—12:00 noon, 124 Science. Jack Shapiro will speak on "Current Theories on Purine Structure."

AAUW Reception—4:00 p.m. Carr-Love Lounge. Longmire. For new graduate women students and their exhibits.

METEOROLOGY SEMINAR—3:00 p.m. 124 Science. Mecambridge. "The Behavior of an Air Current Rounding a Mountain Range."

Physiology Seminar. 4:00 p.m. 108 Auditorium. Dr. Anders Sweetland. "Approach Avoidence Conflict."

SOCIAL SCIENCE Seminar—4:00 p.m. Longmire Auditorium. Dr. Norman Kilpatrick will discuss "The New PSU Library."

Los Pirates. 5:00 p.m. 405 Longmire. Meeting.

CROSS CUB—7:00 p.m. Student Lounge. Longmire. Brief business meeting at 6:00.

Film Previews. 7:30 p.m. 309 Longmire. The Magnetic Recording.

Community Resources in Seminar. Taking Care Of Children and Baltimore Plan.

Future Teachers of America. 8:00 p.m. Longmire Auditorium. Meeting.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS CLUB. 7:00 p.m. Student Lounge. Longmire.

SEDIFA Meeting. 7:30 p.m. 403 Longmire.

PSU Dames Club. 6:00 p.m. Carr-Love Lounge, Longmire. Program and refreshments.

THEATER DANCE GROUP—1:15 p.m. Music Hall. "An Evening of Dance" Nellie-Bond Harrison, Director.

THURSDAY

Physiology Seminar. 12:00 noon. 108 Biology. Dr. Loyd Beidler, Recent Theories of Taste."

Physics Seminar 4:45 p.m. 124 Science.

Home Economics Club. 7:00 p.m. Tribunon. Longmire.

Swimming Meet. 3:00 p.m. East Campus Gymnasium. PSU vs University of Georgia.

ALPHA KAPPA DELTA 2:00 p.m. Longmire Auditorium. "A Geological Look at Indian."

Dance Group 3:15 p.m. Music Hall. "An Evening of Dance" Nellie-Bond Dickson, Director.

See our Records!

All Speeds . . .

All Types . . .

Classical - Opera

Popular - Novelty

JENKINS

MUSIC CO.

113 So. Monroe Tallahassee

Yates Serves In Royal Court At Gator Bowl

Ann Yates Florida State University's 1953 Homecoming Queen was a member of the royal court at the Gator Bowl Game in Jacksonville New Year's Day.

Miss Yates, who was PSU's candidate for Gator Bowl Queen, is a junior and a member of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority.

THE CROWN WAS won by Miss Aline Nicholson, of the University of Florida. Miss Nicholson is also a junior and a Zeta Tau Alpha.

Besides competing in three judging events during the week preceding the Gator Bowl Game, the candidates appeared on radio and television and at all Gator Bowl festivities.

THE QUEEN WAS crowned on Dec. 30 during the half time of the Gator Bowl Basketball game, named. Bowl officials announced later that four court members were also selected to serve in the final tally. It is not known whether Miss Yates was among these four.

Other members of the court were Miss Nancy Dupree, Auburn; Miss Betty Jane McDebee, Texas Tech; Miss Joyce McDonald, Stetson; Miss Eloise McMeekin, Clemson; Miss Betty Desirom, Miami; and Miss Janet Fields, Georgia Teachers College.

I Say

(Continued from Page 3)

noise. I reached cautiously into the spectrum slope on top of the closet, and knocked over a bronze bookend in the shape of a three-legged Indian. (A thoughtful boraz loaned me by my landlady.) This massive missile crashed to the floor, and would have continued gaily on its way, but it hadn't been for side stitches of concrete that formed the floor.

"Urp-urp," went the noise, in a startled tone.

I, too, drew the cardboard box and, placing it on a chair, opened it with a hand flip gun. It contained a Book Rogers Supersonic Space Helmet, an aluminum foil shaver wig, and a natch ball. No frog.

"Urp-urp," went the noise. The children at heart, and when my landlady entered waving a lantern before her, I was waving the wig and tryng the helmet on the top.

"What are you doing with my bedpan?" she said.

"I thought there was a frog," I said, and the conversation trailed off into bewildered silence.

"Urp-urp," went the noise.

The landlady frowned. "I really must get that fixed," she said. Then she gave me a half suspicious stare and went back upstairs.

I don't believe she'll get it fixed. I don't even think she'd like to have it was. But I found a bill for the Indian's fourth or on my door this morning, and anyone can tell me where I can get a four-legged Indian for less than thirteen dollars, I certainly would appreciate it.

Key To Welcome

PRESIDENTIAL WELCOME—Milton Carothers, president of the FSU student body, stands beside one of the large key-like signs welcoming traffic into the city. Carothers, in cooperation with John Howard, editor of Smith's Digest, helped arrange the signs as part of the student body's leadership honorary. The signs are placed on all major roads leading into the city.

Legislation

(Continued from Page 3)

the following sections of student government:

2. Executive (cabinet)
3. Judicial (courts)
4. Legislative (senate)
5. Publications area
6. Student Organizations

The following administrative offices shall automatically serve on this committee:

1. Dean of Student Welfare
2. Dean of Women
0. Dean of Men

In case there is not a member of Junior standing in one of the above areas of student government, a member of the committee shall be appointed by the President of the Student Body from one of the other areas of student government.

Section 3. Procedure

A. The committee shall request that each of the following groups of individuals submit a list of ten (10) or less seniors: Phi Kappa Phi, Mortar Board, Omicron Delta Kappa, Garnet Key, Gold Key, University Religious Council, Chairman of the University Recreation Association, the President of the Student Body, from one of the other areas of student government.

B. The committee shall request the editors-in-chief of student publications, and a joint list from the secretary-treasurer and the President of the Student Body. This list of candidates for Hall of Fame shall be considered by the committee but will in no way be interpreted as binding on the selection committee. The committee may consider the names of capable persons not submitted by any of these groups.

C. The committee shall compile the scholastic averages and determine the major activities of each name submitted or considered.

C. The vote to determine a major field of activity and for final selection to the Hall of Fame shall be by majority of all members present with a 2/3 majority vote necessary to conduct business. Each member shall have one vote.

Section 3. Awards

A. The final list shall be approved by the President of the University and shall be known as the Hall of Fame for 19.. and 19-..

B. The President of the University shall present an appropriate certificate to the Hall of Fame members. The members shall be so honored on a program during graduation week or on a special program.

C. The chairman of the committee shall be responsible for seeing that awards are made and that the composite picture of Hall of Fame members is hung in an appropriate place on the campus.

D. This Hall of Fame shall be chosen in time to automatically appear in the Tulip-Ho as the Hall of Fame for 19-.. - 19-..

1953-54 Senate Bill Number 4 Introduced by Senator Coyle

Moore December 8, 1953

Passed with amendments January 3, 1954

Signed by President Milton Carothers, January 7, 1954

A BILL

TO BE ENTITLED AN ACT TO PROVIDE FOR SENATE ROLL CALL VOTES AND TO PROVIDE FOR MONTHLY PUBLICATION THEREOF IN ADDITION TO SENATE ABSENCES

BE IT ENACTED BY THE UNIVERSITY SENATE:

Section 1. The Secretary of the University Senate shall conduct upon request roll call votes on Resolutions, Constitutional Amendments, Bills, and Amendments to Bills and shall include said roll calls in the minutes of each meeting.

Section 2. Following the last meeting at the end of each calendar month, the Secretary of the University Senate shall submit to the editor of the Florida Flambeau for publication a compilation of the total absences and voting record of each individual Senator on all roll call votes for that month. Excused absences shall be so designated in the Florida Flambeau and absence can be excused at the discretion of the Rules Committee.

LOST: Sterling Silver rosary beads in black case. Please return to V.E.D., 431 Landis.

WANTED: Canceled stamps, domestic or foreign, heavily used or unused. Interested persons may make pictures and sell for "spend" money. Send contributions to Box 80—Campus.

State Papers Tie For Top Honors In Press Contest

Two high school newspapers tied for top honors in the second round of Florida State University-Florida Education Association Key-Mail, according to Dean Lawrence R. Campbell of the School of Journalism.

The two winning high school papers were Lakeland's Sagpipe and Clearwater's CHS Chatter.

Close behind was Bay County High School's Tornado White News in second place, followed by Miami High School's Palmetto and Pine Island Community Tiger's Tale.

The Mirror of Mirror Lake Junior High School, St. Petersburg, Ted Ann high schools Pat Ii Bloomtly of Blount Junior High School, Pensacola, was second in Division 1. Preview of Washington Junior High School was third.

Entries were judged in competition in news story, editorial, headline writing, advertising and photography. Judges of the competition were Campbell, Mitchell and Campbell of the School of Journalism.

The high school series closed on December 14 and the fourth ends on January 23. All high schools in Florida may participate.

News Briefs

From Page 3

the School of Aviation Medicine, Randolph Field, Texas.

OGBURN SPEAKS

Dr. William Fielding Ogburn, visiting professor of sociology at FSU and author of "Technology Looks at India" Thursday evening in the Le Longuare Auditorium, Students, faculty and townspeople are invited by Alpha Kappa Delta, honorary sociology fraternity, which is sponsoring the event. Refreshments will be served.

TEACHERS NEEDED

A new Elementary School Teacher examination for filling lists of eligibles for the state has been announced by The U. S. Civil Service Commission. Salary is $3,410 a year and appropriate education is required.

Applications are expected to complete all required courses within 90 days of date of filing application. Applications may apply. Obtain information from U. S. Post Offices or from the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

DAMES CLUB

The Florida State University Dames Club will hold an auction at their regular meeting at 8 o'clock Wednesday night, Jan. 13, in the Longmire Building.

Members are asked to donate handmade articles to be auctioned. They may be crafts, cooking or baked goods, but they must be made by hand.

Mr. Bruce Cleare will act as auctioneer assisted by Mrs. Dan Dunning and Mrs. Fred Eckman. For further information contact Mrs. Elbert Strickland, phone 3-1473.

KOTC PA-SYSTEM

One of the latest and most up-to-date public address systems has been installed on the Army ROTC drill field, Lt. Col. O. H. Green, professor of military science and tactics, announced that the purpose of the PA-syste mis to blast martial music across the field while ROTC units march. .

Public Ad

From Page 1

Smith will be three hours. Dr. Doyle said the course will be a practical approach to the problems of budgeting, with especial attention to the problems and needs of Florida.

THE COURSE WAS designed mainly for state employees. Although the head of many state departments of state government have written Dr. Doyle saying they are recommending the attendance of the course to their employees.

Dr. Doyle added that all five of the offered courses represent the continuing efforts of the school of public administration to keep its curriculum abreast with experts in the various levels of government, and to familiarize hand what some of the everyday problems of government actually are."

Delegates Off To Music Meet Held In Tampa

Representatives of Florida State University's School of Music attended programs Friday at the Tampa Clinic of the Florida Music Educators Association.

Among those present from FSU were Dr. Ernest Williams, and Wiley Housewright, who is also Southern Regional president of the association. Prof. Robert Braunagel, representing the brass section, and Harry Dramnitz from the woodwinds and Prof. Eugene Crabbe, for the strings.

THE FLORIDA meeting, which meets throughout the year, is a member of the Music Educators National Conference. It's purpose is to further the knowledge and appreciation of music in the public schools of Florida.

The FSU undergraduates also attended the MENC Student Group clinic which was held at the same time. Florida's Student Group is recognized as the largest in the Southland and rated seventh in the U. S., reports state.

IN CONNECTION with the clinic Dean Kuersteiner was also host at a Dutch-treat luncheon for all Florida alumni, faculty and students. This followed by a luncheon held for all students who attend the Music Camp each summer at FSU.

Library Science Has Shortage Of Students

There is an urgent need for one hundred college men and women to prepare for future careers in library and audio-visual service, according to a report released recently by the Florida State University School of Library Science.

Dr. Louis Shores said there is a nationwide shortage of some 5,000 graduate librarians and trained librarians with many jobs going begging in the state of Florida. In addition to librarians needed in schools and communities, there is a shortage of librarians in the Armed Forces, by government agencies, and by industries increasingly placed in scientific and technological research.

DEPT. OF THE ARMY specialized fields of library work, practically any major subject field can be combined with library science training. In addition, states the report, the basic subjects of English, History and the Social Sciences are also highly demand emons academic and public librarians.

FSU'S master's program classes begin at the start of each semester and the summer session. The program requires one academic year and includes practice work, periodicals, and audio-visual materials selection, classification, cataloging and administration of libraries. Graduates of the past year were placed in positions before graduation.

Symphony

From Page 1

ers dance concert the Symphony is usually asked, as is so this year, to accompany the dancers in a group of numbers. Many other performances draw on the University Symphony's membership including Symphonies and the Spring opera performance.

One of the highlights of the Symphony's performance last year was its recording of original music for the Graceland Bowl film "Sportlight" on synchronized swimming.

Friday evening's concert is open to all without charge.

The officers of this year's University Symphony are William Fisher, President; Susan Lucas — Vice President; Jacqueline Schofield — Secretary-Treasurer; and Fred Jones—Publicity Manager.

Vets Must Enroll Within Two Years

Korean veterans discharged from service before August 20, 1953 must enter educational training under the Korean G. I. Bill before August 20, 1954, according to the regional office of the Veterans Administration at Atlanta.

H. F. Dickensheets, manager of the office, announced also that discharged since that date have two years to enter college training.

Veterans discharged before August 20, 1953 must begin training by the approaching summer session since the fall semester begins after the August 20 deadline.

Veterans may interrupt training at the end of any school term or session or for other legitimate reasons and resume their studies only within a period of a year.

DISPLAYS PAINTING

William Bourbton, assistant professor in the department of art at the Florida State University, has been represented by a one-man show of more than 20 oil paintings at the Miami Beach Art Center recently.

An active and productive artist who works in most of the graphic media as well, the oil paintings shown at Miami Beach reflect Bourbton's latest experiences in coastal painting — enriched by travel in Mexico and Europe during the past two or three years.

3 Florida Choral Group Parts To Tour For Concerts

University Singers, Florida State University choral group, are touring West Florida and will give concerts tonight in Pensacola and tomorrow in Bloustown. Their first performance was given yesterday in Panama City according to a college school source.

Their program will covar a wide range of music, opening with Handel's "Hallelujah" and "Sing an Admirable Commencement" and moving down to more popular selections from Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess."

Four gypsy songs by Brahms, a series of six light, French songs by Phil Rosenthin, several Italian songs and a number of well known spirituals will round out the program.

Conducted by Dr. Wiley L. Housewright, professor of music education here, the chorus of mixed voices was organized five years ago by Thomas Wikstrom, graduate student assista as student conductor and David Ward-Steinman as accompanist. The organization now has 80 members.

In previous years the University Singers have given concerts in Tallahassee, followed by a tour to give a concert again this spring in Tampa. They will also give first concert this spring in Orlando, Jacksonville and Miami.

Former Librarian Wins Grand Prize In SR Competition

Cecil R. McLeod, former assistant librarian at Florida State University is featured in the January 3 issue of "Saturday Review" as the grand prize winner of the World Travel Photographic Contest sponsored by the "Review."

McLeod, who was assistant reference librarian here from 1948 through 1952, submitted a photograph entitled "Reflection of Pisano's Vecchio Governo." It was chosen from 30,000 entries because the judges considered it to have superior lighting and viewpoint. "Saturday Review" carried full coverage of the details behind the photograph as well as a full page reproduction of the winning picture in color.

As grand prize winner, McLeod will receive a six weeks trip around the world via Pan American World Airways.

Since leaving the FSU Library, McLeod has been on the staff of the Detroit Public Library.

Banquet Slated, Tickets On Sale Until This Friday

Tickets at $2.15 per person to the fourth annual Arts and Sciences banquet and lecture late this month will be on sale until Friday of this week, it was announced today.

The banquet, slated for January 30 at 6:45 p.m. in Florida State University's Suwannee Room, will feature Arthur F. Sutherland of Harvard Law School, speaking on "The Common Law Marines and the Country's Laws."

Tickets are on sale at the office of Royal Matrice, Department of Economics.

Serving on the banquet committee are Dr. James Buchanan, Dr. Karl Dittmer, Edmund Lewandowski, Dr. Sam Meyer, Dr. William Randel, Miss Elizabeth Rosenthin and Dr. Marian Irish, chairman.

No Hophozord Toy

(ACP)—The editors of the University Daily Kanaan, University of Kansas, found themselves in a somewhat unique argument the other day, over how to put out a newspaper.

During a controversy with law students the Kansan editors called "ambulance chasers" and "future shysters". In prospective future shysters they placed items with the newspaper staff for a fee. The idea was to show how easy it is to publish a paper, and how hard it is to attend law classes.

The Kansan board, student governing body for the paper, voted to reject the offer, 6-5. It said the Kansan should not become a toy to be tossed around haphazardly."

Audience Jams Opperman To Hear Music Recital

By MARTIN DYCKMAN

Opperman Music Hall was crowded beyond capacity with hundreds reportedly turned away Friday night when Dr. Ernst von Dohnanyi and Edward Kilenyi opened the 1954 series of faculty recitals with a two-piano concert.

The music hall was full fifty minutes before the program began at 8:15. All aisles were jammed and people were standing in one of the exits although to them the stage was completely obscured.

SHORTLY BEFORE the program began seats were set up on the stage for approximately 100 people. Left empty was only a small area around the two pianos where the musicians intimate friends were to play. Concert officials opened few musicians would perform under such circumstances.

Respectful silence was maintained by the audience during the performance of each piece. Applause at the end of each number was tumultious and unrestrained.

THE PROGRAM opened with Sonata in D major for Two Pianos by Mozart, "a delightful incomparable work combining gayety with depth of feeling."

In the second number, Andante and Variations by Schubert, Dohnanyi and Kilenyi were assisted by Owen Sellers and Harriet Hemenway, cellos, and Joseph White, French Horn.

THE THIRD PIECE performed by the two artists on one piano, consisted of three Hungarian Dances by Brahms These numbers were special favorites in Hungary. Dr. Dohnanyi's home land, where his own music is now acclaved by the Communist regime.

For the concluding number Dohnanyi and Kilenyi played, again on two pianos, Dohnanyi's Theme Rifle in Valse a work of four rapid, stimulating variations in Sonata style.

THE TWO ARTISTS responded to a tumultuous ovation with two encores.

Significantly, the fast friendship of the two, who met in Europe during World War II, was demonstrated when neither would leave the stage before the other or how first to the audience. They took special pains to synchronize their entrances.

MANY TOWNSPEOPLE were present in the audience, comprised of approximately half students and half visitors.

Better Get That Special Graduation Gift

Soon at P. W. WILSON CO.

SEE OUR FINE:

Leather Goods

Cuff Links

Collar Pins

Tie Bar Sete

Belts

Wallets

Toilet Kits

Ties, Handkerchiefs

Fine Silk Ties

Wembley Non-Crush

Linen Hankies

More Nationolly-Famous Nomes in Men's Clothing!

P. W. WILSON CO. at Tallahassee

Where Can You Get Such Specials All Week But At...

TUES:

Juicy Broiled

Filet Mignon

French Fries Chef's Salad $1.00

THURS:

Spaghetti with Cheese

Salad Lemon Cream Pie .95

FRI:

Whole Broiled

Lobster

Drawn Butter Chef's Salad $1.25

SAT:

Golden Fried

Half Chicken

French Fries $1.00

SUN:

Delicious

Roast Turkey

Dressing Cranberries $1.00

Seven Seas

See TOMORROW TODAY at

GENERAL MOTORS

PARADE of PROGRESS

THRILLING EXHIBITS OF SCIENTIFIC WONDERMENT PRESENTED IN SUPER FUTURLINERS PLUS THE THRILLING SCIENCE STAGESHOW UNDER THE GIANT SILVER AIRODOME ★ BIGGEST EXPOSITION OF ITS KIND IN THE WORLD ★ NOT AN AUTOMOBILE SHOW ★ NOTHING TO BUY ★ BRING THE FAMILY TO THE BIG SCIENCE SHOW OF SHOWS THE WHOLE TOWN'S TALKING ABOUT

FREE ADMISSION!

NOW AT:

Doak S. Campbell Stadium, Parking Area, Tallahassee

Jan. 13th – 7 to 10 P. M. – Jan. 14th thru 17th – 2 to 10 P. M.

Cornelia Otis Skinner Appears Here With Character Sketches Program

Cornelia Otis Skinner, who will appear Jan. 20 and 21 at Leon High School auditorium as a feature lecture of the 1953-54 FSU Artist Series, began her stage career in a group of secondary parts. However, because such dull fare was not satisfactory for a young lady of her ambition and intelligence Miss Skinner decided to go into business for herself.

Her subsequent success as a monologist has won her the title of "the greatest single attraction in the American theatre."

She first gained international fame with her presentations of The Wives of Henry VIII, The Loves of Charles II and The Empress Eugenie. Although a success, the young actress was not satisfied; she decided to undertake a whole play by herself.

Her first effort was Mansion On the Hudson, which she wrote herself. This and later presentations of entire plays were also successes. She toured with readers, she somehow finds time for frequent radio and television appearances. She has had her own radio shows and she wrote and co-starred with Roland Young in the William and Mary broadcast series. In addition to all this she gave a well-received performance before the camera in Paramount's The Unfaithful, with Ray Milland and Gail Russell.

Featured in Miss Skinner's Artist Series program will be the presentation of three of the plays which first won her fame: The Wives of Henry VIII, The Loves of Charles II, and Mansion On the Hudson. Students may obtain tickets to the production at the University Bookstore by presenting their number 21 activity ticket. After January 15, faculty and staff may obtain tickets for $2.00.

Recruit Team To Interview FSU Students

A procurement team from the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, Macon, Ga., will be on campus Jan. 18 and 19 to process qualified persons, both male and female, for commission in the Navy and the Naval Reserve, a recruiter said.

College graduates and those presently enrolled who plan to graduate before Aug. 1, 1954 can create a commission in the next six months are eligible to apply, spokesmen said.

GENERALLY APPLICANTS must have reached their 19th birthday but not their 27th by the date of submission of the application.

Some applicants who will fall into special categories such as administrative and technical personnel may be under 19 or over 27 birthdays. None except qualified dentists, physicians, nurses and chaplains will be accepted over that age limit, it was noted.

COLLEGE STUDENTS of graduates eligible for draft can apply for an officer candidate program which requires from two to four months schooling preparatory to receiving a commission.

Mr. William Holt, Supervisor of Selective Service Affairs here, noted that applications cannot be processed locally until they received notice to report for induction orders.

THE PROCUREMENT TEAM he announced, will be complete so no applications will be sent elsewhere to complete the interviews. Holt said.

COLLEGE STUDENTS of graduates eligible for draft can apply for an officer candidate program which requires from two to four months schooling preparatory to receiving a commission.

Mr. William Holt, Supervisor of Selective Service Affairs here, noted that applications cannot be processed locally until they received notice to report for induction orders.

THE PROCUREMENT TEAM he announced, will be complete so no applications will be sent elsewhere to complete the interviews. Holt said.

Talks Planned In Dormitories By Military

Members of the United States Army Reserve here have announced plans for a series of informal discussions concerning military life to be held in FSU men's dormitories through January.

The announcement followed two days of demonstrations and discussions with Florida State University ROTC students ending Wednesday, January 6. Major Walter V. Matakewicz, senior Army advisor, USAR Advisory Group, advisor, explained that the discussions would be designed to point out the advantages and benefits of the Army Reserve program to young men and to the nation.

MEMBERS OF THE 492nd Engineering Battalion, Construction, U. S. Army Reserve, stationed at Dale Mabry Field, under the direction of Makarewicz are coordinating their recruiting program with Dr. Louis Corson, P.S.U. Dean of Men, and Lt. Col. Philip Green, professor of Military Science and Tactics, Army ROTC. They are being assisted by Lt. Col. Paul Campbell, professor of Air Science and Tactics of Air Force ROTC.

The informal discussions to be held in men's dormitories will start January 13 at 9 p.m. in West Hall. The discussion will be led by Lt. Dennis B. Parrott, an FSU student in the reserve.

MAJOR MAKAREWICZ said no membership in the reserve will be at Leon High School Friday, on January 8 to talk with any interested male student there from 17 years of age up.

Article Views Progress In Study Of Teachers By Ford Foundation

By JIM FRASER

The second meeting of the National Advisory Committee for the Teacher Competencies Study, which is being conducted by Central Michigan College in cooperation with the Bay City Public Schools, was held here last week at Keeler Union.

A general session on Wednesday evening was the first feature of the meeting. Central President Charles L. Anspach welcomed the members and gave a review of the Study, outlining its history and purpose.

The Teacher Competencies Study was instituted in 1952 as the result of a five-year grant by The Fund for the Advancement of Education, a division of The Ford Foundation. The National Advisory Committee was established for the purpose of giving advisory help to the Study.

According to Dr. Anspach, the purpose of the Study is to determine better utilization of present teacher and school facilities and to recruit more persons to the teaching profession. The Study is exploring methods of coping with the public school problems of such enrollments, shortage of teachers, and inadequate building facilities.

Charles B. Park, director of the Study and a member of Central's division of field services, gave a description of the Teachers Aid Program now in experimental states in Bay City, Mich.

The Teacher Aid Program is a plan which will allow the teachers more time to work with their students in the classroom The plans call for a teacher to have an assistant who does not have professional training, but can relieve the teacher of some of her duties, such as correcting papers or taking rolls. At present, there are eight teacher aids working in Bay City.

Progress of the program was discussed by Harold Wilcox, a field services staff member, who told how the teachers were trained to see if they spend more time actually teaching now that they have been relieved of some of their regular work.

Another staff member, L. V. Welbourne, reviewed the plans for evaluating the experiment. He stated that the pupils in these classrooms were tested at the beginning of the year and will be tested again next spring. The results of these tests will be compared with those of pupils in certain regular classrooms who are also being tested.

Thursday, December 3, the group traveled to Bay City to observe the experiments in action and to confer with the teacher aids. This national group is composed of 25 leading educators and business men and women from various sections of the United States who are interested in public school education.

At the general session Thursday evening the members discussed the day's visitation and were able to ask questions of the cooperating teachers and principals from Bay City who were present for the meeting.

The majority of these cooperating teachers feel that the aid is a great asset to them if classrooms must be overcrowded. However, they all agreed that the ideal teaching situation is one where there is a ratio of about 30 students to each teacher. According to these teachers the aid would be more efficient if the classrooms were larger and that the work of the aid would not distract the students.

After this discussion, Mr. Park reviewed some recruitment ideas which might be used in the future. He reminded the group that the eight teacher aids are now taking courses to earn a teaching degree and that the staff is convinced that there is a large reservoir of lay persons who are interested in teaching if they have the opportunity.

Some of these ideas are a full time teacher training program in communities where enough interest is shown, a part-time local training program, to provide scholarships for teacher aids who are interested in becoming certified teachers, to coordinate with junior colleges in setting up teacher training programs, and to provide training for persons who have college degrees and who would be interested in teaching.

Nettie N. Lessure, professor of education at Manchester College, commented that the group should consider a high school cadet teacher program. The plan allows high school students to take over classes and gain teaching experience in order to encourage more to enter the field of education. This plan is in operation in some states and Mr. Park said that it is being considered here.

At the Friday morning session William Pena, architect-engineer discussed plans for future school buildings, which will be more flexible and more functional than those in use at present. He used slides of plans for these buildings to demonstrate his talk.

The group set the dates of their spring meeting which will be held May 17 instead of May 24 in northern Michigan.

—Central Michigan Life

Florida Fast Becoming Center For Motion Picture Industry

By STAFF WRITER

Florida has become "The Place" for making of movies with the new trend going on in the movie studios of doing films on location.

Musial has become a haven for motion picture companies and a street name as well. In one short number. Ever since "They Were Expendable" came to the Miami Shores theatre with Robert Montgomery, the trek has been fast and steady.

THROUGHOUT FLORIDA major companies like Columbia, Twentieth Century Fox, MGM and Paramount have come complete with crews, props and celluloid.

Columbia is now in progress shooting "The Miami Story" with Barry Sullivan and Luther Adler. Although it is a sanitary picture, the locale is changed from the usual cities of intrigue to this "Sunny City" of Florida.

"SHARK RIVER" with Steve Cochran was an adventure story set in the locale of LaBelle The whole background was that of the peninsular state and many of its features.

Twentieth Century Fox made "Slattery's Hurricane" in Miami and Fort Lauderdale and premiered the film in those cities.

"THE BAREFOOT MAILMAN" was filmed all over Florida and stars Robert Cummings, Terry Moore and Jeanne Carmichael commented about "this wonderful sunshiny land." The actors who took time out for personal appearances all over the state.

At Wakulla Springs, Universal International was filming a science fiction film starring Richard Carlson. Many underwater films like Esther Williams' "Easy to Love" are shot at Marineland, Florida. Metro-Goldwyn - Mayer was quite pleased with the Florida surroundings and its rumored that they've purchased a few hotels in the state to house their actors when films are made

MANY SMALL independent film companies are starting up in Florida.

Baylor U Pioneers Personalized Course

WACO, Tex. (I.P.) — Baylor University's pioneering efforts for a personalized course to help the student find his place for effective living in a democratic society has proven so successful it is being expanded this year for a major spot in the school's curriculum. President W. R. White recently said, "Now that the course is being offered in seven sections to meet the great demand, it has been necessary to limit the incoming students, men and women, and we will earn to a buoro academic credit.

He said that the course, originally known as "human relations," is being renamed "Effective Living" in keeping with its design "to help the student examine his own behavior, habits and values so that he may be correct his efforts toward self-improvement and the betterment of American society."

DR. WHITE explained that the course was initiated here three years ago under sponsorship of the Cooper Foundation of Waco. The course is more or less unique in American college life, President White said, and Baylor is pioneering in this particular aspect of bridging the gap between high school and college." He said that other schools which have made notable progress in similar endeavor are these institutions of higher education: University of and the Southern California, Columbia University, Michigan State College, and Stephens College.

Personality analysis and adaptation to college life, health maintenance, problems in ethics, vocational guidance, and many other considerations are a part of the course. He termed the course's content "interdisciplin-ciary, drawing its concepts from the general areas of the humanities and the social sciences" in an endeavor to deal realistically and intelligently with the opportunities and problems of life.

VARIOUS teaching techniques in the lectures, panel discussions, movies, opaque projections, group activities, role-playing, and the others are employed. The course is coordinated with Baylor's counseling service. Examples are made of objective tests, such as personality interviews, aptitude tests, reading tests, and the voice recordings followed by conferences with speech experts.

Notre Dame Seeks Teacher Underwriting

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (IP)—The University of Notre Dame has given private corporations from coast-to-coast the opportunity to underwrite the additional cost of forty-five distinguished professors to its faculty. It was announced by the Rev. John J. Cavanaugh, C.S.C., director of the Notre Dame Foundation.

Father Cavanaugh, who served as president of the University from 1946 to 1952, established the program for faculty development because of the enormous number of Notre Dame's alumni board of directors and the Advisory Council of the Notre Dame College of Commerce. The latter group is composed of thirty-four nationally known executives of business and industry.

"Just as the corporation symbolizes private enterprise in America, the University of Notre Dame is a symbol of independent higher education," Father Cavanaugh declared. "Because we believe that the continued existence of a strong tax-supported institutions of higher learning should co-exist with the equally strong private colleges and universities, we are approaching corporations with confidence that they will welcome the opportunity to help preserve the education of morally responsible leaders for the nation."

The faculty development program at Notre Dame's most pressing problem, he said. Father Cavanaugh pointed out that "the University has been extremely fortunate in recent years in the acquisition of new buildings through generous benefactions, but Notre Dame now has the largest enrollment in its history. Our president, Father Hesburgh, has stated that Notre Dame must concentrate on expanding and strengthening its faculty." Father Cavanaugh asserted.

"In order to continue and extend the opportunity of a Notre Dame education to as many young men as possible, the Notre Dame Foundation will concentrate in the coming months on the raising of funds for the full development of our present and future faculty." Father Cavanaugh said. "We insure the Distinguished Professors Program, convinced of its necessity and confident of its success." he concluded.

Henry Announces Cadet Promotions

Captain Rex T. Henry, infantry, assistant professor of military science and tactics, Army ROTC, announced the following promotions at Florida State University, effective as of December 17.

Cadet officer appointments and their ranks are James S. Cullison, II, cadet lieutenant colonel; Frank D. Bean, Jr., cadet major; Charles B Clark, cadet first lieutenant; Guy O. Arant and Walker E. Wood, cadet second lieutenants.

Cadet non-commissioned officer appointments announced are Harold Campbell, cadet master sergeant; Milton S. Carothers and Charles T. Mock, cadet sergeants first class.

ISSUES REQUEST

The Florida State University Department of Art has issued an special request for students' most beautiful Christmas cards, it was announced today.

"Everyone has probably received several cards too interesting or artistic "to discard," says Edmund Lewandowski of the Art Department. He asks that everyone having what they consider to be unusual cards to mail them to the FSU Department of Art. They will be added to the Study collection already compiled, and used for class study, exhibitions and the like.

Visiting Biologist Observes Methods

Mrs. Clelia De Crescenzo, head of Calvino Technical Institute in Trapani, Sicily, will be on campus to observe teaching methods and biology here Friday, it was announced yesterday.

Coming to this country under the auspices of the Fulbright and Smith-Mundt Acts, she will visit a number of American institutions for similar purposes.

While at FSU, Mrs DeCrescenzo will visit lecture classrooms and laboratory sections in general biology. She will also observe science teaching methods, particularly of biology, at Leon High School.

Mrs. De Crescenzo is a graduate of the University of Messina in Italy, and has according to reports, had broad experience in the teaching of biology and sciences. Her Tallahassee program has been arranged by A. W. Ziegler, associate professor of botany, and also FSU chairman of biology in the general education program.

Exhibit Displays Camera Favorites

The fifty distinguished American photographers whose works were picked for display in the current Art Gallery exhibition have been members of the Photographers Association of America. Each of the artists is showing three favorite prints.

Spokesmen for the exhibit said yesterday this is Tallahassee's first such national photography exhibit. The theme under which the show has been made possible through the efforts of those contributing artists invited and the Tallahassee Camera Club.

AROTC Picks 17 Senior Men For Promotion

Permanent cadet rank for seniors in the Air Force ROTC at Florida State University has been awarded, and permanent assignments made earlier this week of completion, among cadets for positions announced by Lt. Colonel Paul W. Campbell, professor of air science and tactics.

Cadet Colonel Dallas N. Mallory commands the corps assisted by Cadet Lt. Colonel Charles M. Booth, Jr., executive officer. Cadet Lt. Colonel Floyd S. Risler, operations officer, and Cadet Major Pete Williams, adjutant.

CADET SQUADRON commanders include Cadet Lt Colonels Charles E. Gray, Jr., Klyne D. Nowlin, Bernhardt C. Leynes, and Finley M. McMullen.

All flight commanders have been awarded the rank of cadet captain. The commanders are Kenneth A. McPhie, Charles R. Bywoten, James A Ball, Roy W Stalon, Kinsman M Britain, William D. Barnes, John J. Summers, and George F Carnes.

THE AFROTC BAND is directed by Cadet Lt. Col. Gordon W. Tyrrell, who is assisted by Cadet Lt. Col. Richard N. Jackson, executive.

Seventeen seniors have been designated as non-coms with the rank of second lieutenant They include Lieutenants Stephen M Bailey, James R. Beasley, James H Bowen, Jerry L. Parker, Benny M. Cheek, Kenneth J. Cruger, James H. Diamond, James W. Duncan, James L. McKeown, Steve Kalenich, Henry Q. Long, Jerry C. Westbahrs, Gerald S. McClelland, Donald M Remington, Benny C Wallace, John H. Sellars, and Stanley Louis Tippin.

HOORAY!

Interns Return After Strenuous 8-Week Course

TODAY

Bia-Chem. Seminar 12 Naan 124 Science

PINCHIN PENNIES

Salary Survey Says Teachers' Law; Page 5

FRIDAY EVENING

Cavalier-Catillion Introduce Taos At Stud. Center Dance

PEPPY MONTGOMERY OUTDOOR DRIVE-IN Sun., Mon., Tues.
"The Big Heat"
Glenn Ford—Gloria Grahame

CAPITAL DRIVE-IN Tuesday and Wednesday
"Carson City"
with Randolph Scott and Lucille Norman

FLORIDA
Wednesday thru Tuesday
"Calamity Jane"
Doris Day and Howard Keel

STATE
Sun., Mon., Tues.
"From Here To Eternity"
Burt Lancaster—Montgomery Clift
Wednesday thru Saturday
"Easy To Love"
Esther Williams and Van Johnson

Wyatt's Business Machines
Offer You
Expert Portable Typewriter Repairs and Sales
All Popular Makes PLUS
The New Olivetti
In Brief-Case Size
Wyatt's
203 E. Park Ave. Tallahassee

Meet Old Friends Make New Ones AT THE AMBER HOUSE
"Food That's Fine"

How About A Capital Dinner . . .
With All The Trimmings
for only 85¢
And Up
Topped With Our Mouth-Watering, HOME BAKED. PIE
Dessert With Every Meal!
Try Us and You'll Like
CAPITAL CAFE
314 S. Monroe
"IN THE HEART OF TALLAHASSEE'S SHOPPING CENTER"

Reduced to Clear!

MEN'S JACKETS
Regular $10.95 to $24.95
Suedes, Gabardines Corduroys and Nylon Fleece
30% OFF

SWEATERS
CASHMERES, Reg. $25.00 . . . . $16.95
WOOLS NYLONS ORLONS Reg. $10.95 . . . . $6.95

SPORT SHIRTS GROUP 1
• WOOL PLAIDS
• COTTON PLAIDS
• CORDUROYS
• COTTON JERSEYS
• GABARDINES
$2.99 Values to $4.99

SPORT SHIRTS GROUP 2
• Cotton
• Wool Plaids
• Wool Flannels
• White Corduroy
MANY OTHER STYLES
$3.99 Values From $5.95 to $7.50

SPORT SHIRTS GROUP 3
• Lightweight Wool Flannel
• Fine Pimwale Cords
• Hand Finished Bedford Cord
• All Wool & Dacron Jersey
$6.99 Values From $8.95 to $10.95

PAJAMAS
T.V. Jersey Shirt Style $3.99
T.V. Coat Style Regular $7.95 . . . . $4.25
All Other Pajamas $3.25

ALL LEATHER GOODS
By HICKOK
35% OFF
Wide Assortment

OUR ENTIRE SHOE STOCK CLEARANCE $7.99

HOUSE SHOES
FUR LINED SLIDES
VALUES TO $6.95 . . . . $3.29
MANY OTHER STYLES

Nic's Joggery
322 S. MONROE

The Sportlight

by Dave Kennedy

Flambeau Sports Editor

"Jittery' Seminoles Never in Contention." This was the caption of the write-up regarding the FSU-Miami Hurrican basketball game played last Saturday night at the Hurricane Gym. I would like to quote for you in part from this story: it may help explain a lot.

"UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI'S four-time losers picked themselves up by the seat of their pride Saturday night and hustled to a 74-61 victory over Florida State University's vacationing, but shaved physical and mental effects of their flirtation with death Friday night.

A capacity crowd of some 1,300 "free loaders" at Coral Gables High's Gym saw Coach Dave Wise, true to his disgruntled word, on part intact the team that won a 70-69 thriller over the same Jumpin' Seminoles on Thursday night.

Comprising Willie Schayowitz and Jim Carson, forwards; Ed Kima, center, and Harold Aterburn and Jack Lowe, guards, it needed only 14 minutes to construct a 20-point lead, 30-10, over the bruised and jittery Seminoles.

COACH BUD KENNEDY, his left arm in a sling with torn muscles couldn't find much fault with his Seminoles, considering the shock and all that four of our five starters went through when our auto wagon overturned near Pensacola.

"All of us should be dead," Kennedy had said before the first game. "I'm sure I was dead." Then he added. We were lucky the Man Upstairs was looking out for us."

FSU CAGEMEN at their best, however, probably would have experienced trouble handling the Hurricanes in the game's infancy.

The Hurricanes led 19-7, 43-21, and 58-38 at the quarter breathing spells. The Seminoles, getting back in the game, outscored Miami points to two during the last half to 36-36.

Coach Kennedy was bitter about the officiating of Nick Kotys and Harold Cowan. "That's how basic inefficient officiating I've seen in 20 years," he growled. "Those fellows don't know the rules. They let the game get away from them and it became a farce."

THE SEMINOLES were without the services of two of their mainstays, forward Jerry Westhafer, after the opening minutes. Jerry was the most effective cog in Coach Kennedy's wreck. Westhafer attempted to play with his injured back tightly taped. Seeing Jerry had nothing but pain, Kennedy quickly pulled him out.

This game "Wernke showed the least. Normally that kid's the greatest basketball player in the South," Kennedy replied, "Everybody was off." Ham, who owns a 20-point average, managed only 10, 8 of those coming in the first half.

JIMMY OLER led the Seminoles with 14 points, two more than deadly Dick Artmisler. Wurtbach and Wernke followed Oler and Cecil Wold and Ray Dellahan sank 4 apiece.

Coach Kennedy said FSU will be ready February 5, the next meeting. Coach Kennedy said calmly and confidently, "You can quote me on this. We'll beat them at Tallahassee."

MIAMI (74)				FLA. STATE (61)
	fg	ft	tp		fg	ft	tp
Schayowitz, f	3	2	8	Artmisler, f	7	2	16
Carson, f	4	0	8	Wurtbach, f	3	0	6
Kima, c	3	0	6	Wernke, f	3	2	8
Aterburn, g	5	0	10	Gordon, c	1	0	2
Lowe, g	3	0	6	Wold, g	4	4	12
O'Donnell, g	3	0	6	Byrd, g	1	3	5
				Dellahan, g	4	0	8
Totals	21	2	50	Totals	26	11	61

MIAMI 70	FSU 81

Scanning the Sports Section of the Miami Herald, I found a few choice tidbits of news that I thoroughly relish and so just may readers (readers??, I hope). Seems Bill Weigle, a former coach and basketball hero at Florida State and Dick Fitz, a State player are to play in a preliminary game the Tuesday evening. The same sends the ALPOL Insulation against Dispatch Service of Eastern Airlines. Many other former college stars will be featured in this game.

FSU COMPLETES FOOTBALL SCHEDULE . . . Florida State University Seminoles venture even farther into the big-time of Football when they take on North Carolina State this season. The Wolfpack from Raleigh replaces Davidson, the Coilers that bussed out of its contract anyhow. The game will be played in Raleigh North Carolina stadium.

A two-year contract has been arranged with N. C. State.

The Seminoles will play five contests in Tallahassee and six on the road.

Seminoles Lose Two In NewYear Tilts

Loyola, Miami Hand Seminoles 3rd, 4th Losses

By KEN KINGERM

The classy Loyola five from New Orleans manipulated a sound defense plus a torrid offense last Thursday night to squeeze by the talented, hard fighting Seminoles 80-78 at the West Campus gym.

The game left the spectators on their feet, cheering until the very end. Many say it was the best game of the season, seeming to be a splendid performance turned in by the Seminoles.

JIM WERNKE turned in 30 points for the Seminoles, and deadly Tom Burst, who seldom misses, racked a mark needed 14 points at just the right times.

Shaking at the center post was "better than ever" Rick Benson. The 6 - foot - seven - inch giant played his game of the season as he controlled both backboards, while sinking a set shot, two hook shots, and two free throws for a total of eight points.

THE SEMINOLES went into the game with a highly touted LSU five several days before. The pressure was on the Seminoles and they played brilliant ball.

LOYOLA (80)				FLA. STATE (78)
	fg	ft	tp		fg	ft	tp
Bernecker, f	3	1	7	Artmisler, f	7	2	16
Schwartz, f	4	0	8	Wurtbach, f	3	0	6
Burst, c	6	2	14	Wernke, f	11	8	30
Benson, c	3	2	8	Gordon, c	1	0	2
Kastner, g	3	0	6	Wold, g	4	4	12
Kelly, g	3	0	6	Byrd, g	1	3	5
O'Donnell, g	3	0	6	Dellahan, g	4	0	8
				Kima, c	1	0	2
Totals	31	5	80	Totals	36	17	78

LOYOLA 80	FSU 78

Jim Oler

Ed Dellahan

FSU Signs NC State To Replace Davidson On Football Schedule

Florida State University's football team will play North Carolina State instead of Davidson this year, it was disclosed Saturday night by Athletic Director Howard Darnford on his return from the NCAA meeting in Cincinnati. The game will be played in Raleigh.

FSU has arranged a two-year contract with N. C. State. The Wolf-pack returns to Tallahassee for an Oct. 15 game in 1955.

"We are quite pleased with this change in the 1954 schedule," said Danford. "Davidson has asked earlier to be released from a contract to play here and the negotiations to acquire a game with N. C. State instead went along smoothly."

THE TRANSACTION completed at the Cincinnati meeting but discussed future schedule possibilities with several colleges at the Cincinnati meeting but that "nothing definite came of it." He said that FSU is interested in playing even a game with Mississippi but that he was unable to arrange a conference with Mississippi officials in Cincinnati.

PREVIOUSLY, it was indicated that the Nov. 13 date with Furman here might be switched to Greenville. Danford said yesterday, however, that the Furman game definitely would be played in Tallahassee.

Here is FSU's complete schedule:

Sept. 18—Georgia
Sept. 25—Abilene Christian
Oct. 2—at Louisville
Oct. 9—Villanova
Oct. 16—Open
Oct. 23—at Auburn
Oct. 30—at VMI
Nov. 6—at N. C. State
Nov. 13—Furman
Nov. 20—at Stetson
Nov. 27—Mississippi Southern
Dec. 4—at Tampa

1954 Predictions For Sports World

By BOB TAYLOR

Santa brought a new crystal-ball for Christmas, and here's how the major sports look for 1954. Drew Pearson hits some-thing like 80 per cent of his predictions. We can't guarantee that, but check 'em yourself.

BASKETBALL

ALREADY UNDER WAY, the cage sport will be dominated by Kentucky's Wildcats. They will walk away with the SEC and NCAA titles, and gain recognition as number one team in the country.

Duquesne will capture the number two spot, and Indiana will be dethroned as champs of the Big Ten.

ALL-AMERICANS will include Cliff Hagan of Kentucky, Don Schlundt, Middleton, Indiana, Tom Gola of LaSalle, Dick Ricketts of Duquesne, and believe it or not, Bevo Francis of Rio Grande. The NCAA will have to recognize at least some of Bevo's fabulous scoring marks.

The Minneapolis Lakers will whip New York for another NBA crown. Same old crew of Mikan, Pollard, Mikkelsen, Beard, and Kerris paving the way.

FSU, AFTER only a fair 1953 start, will finish strong in '54, to chalk up their first winning season since 1948-51. Stetson will edge them in the finals of the NAIA tournament for a mark though. But watch the Seminoles improve.

BOXING

Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano will take a few lumps before knocking off Cuban-stylist Valdes in June. Ike Charles is the only man around capable of defeating Rocky, but Ike's not full if he will get a shot at the title.

ALL OTHER champs will keep their titles, with the exception of the lightheavyweight champion Archie Moore. If the aging Moore sets Jory Maxim, Philadelphia's Negro sensation, he will be undone later in the year.

Watch for a champion of the feature is heavyweight Floyd Patterson. He's an Olympic star, let is a year or two away.

BASEBALL

The New York Yankees to an unprecedented 4th straight AL pennant. But the Brooklyn Dodgers will finally catch up with them, to cop their first World Series. The Red Sox and Cardinals will furnish the toughest league competition to the pennant winners.

FSU WILL improve on last year's 13-10 mark. The Seminoles' pitching staff will spell the difference. They have the needed experience now

GOLF

A new standard will appear in 1954. He'll be Texas Jackie Burke Jr. Hogan and Snead will appear only in the big tournaments. Babe Zaharias will come back strong, winning her share of the big ohs in the women's field.

FSU WILL break about even in their 34 matches. Lack of standout mealcalist will handicap them.

FOOTBALL

Notre Dame will recapture their role as the nation's number one ranking team. Kentucky will surprise everybody, and win the tough SEC title.

IN THE PRO circuit. The Cleveland Browns will drop their bridesmaid's role to beat out Los Angeles for NFL high honors.

FSU will have to have bigger teams, coming out with a re-spectful 8-3 record.

TENNIS

Australia's 4 year-olds, Lewis Hoad, and Ken Rosewall will dominate the amateur field, battling it out between themselves for the Wimbledon and U. S. championships. Australia will keep the Davis Cup for the fifth straight year. The United States will start a youth rebuilding program to cope with the Down Under youngsters.

MAUREEN CONNOLLY will stay at the top in women's tennis, and Jack Kramer will continue to be unbeatable in the Pro field.

Pancho Gonzales will trounce Frank Sedgman on their current title.

FSU will record another successful season.

SWIMMING

FSU will win three fourths of their meets, beating some SEC teams along the way.

GYMNASTICS

The Seminoles will lose their ballyard save for 1954 class stamina, but they will go undefeated in dual meets.

TRACK

FSU will show up well in their meets especially, their home ones, but the Seminole thinclads will lose their share of 'em too.

AND THAT'S what the crystal ball says for 1954. Close shaves, and fate take their course, and we'll see how close we came.

Survey Points Up Poor Inducement To Enter Teaching

There is a trend toward less financial inducement for those seeking teaching positions in colleges throughout the country according to results of a recent survey of college-and university salaries by the National Education Association.

Ray Lindsard, who directs the research division of NEA, added "The typical salary paid to college and university professors places them at the bottom of the professional totem pole as compared with physicians, dentists and lawyers."

The survey also showed that head coaches fare better financially than many other administrative officers on college campuses, and the most attractive beginning salaries for college instructors are likely to be found in teachers' colleges.

Your hands on the Future!

When you grip the wheel of an Air Force jet, your hands are on a fast, high flying future that leads to the top in jet aviation.

● Once behind the controls of an Air Force jet, you're a key man in the everyday life . . . soar far above the cares of the crowd into a bright new future of adventure and excitement. You're part of a select few who are playing for the highest stakes of all . . . mastery of the Jet Age! You'll was too, because you've been trained to win. You have confidence in yourself, in your fellows, and in your plane, the fastest and safest flying equipment in the world.

As an Air Force Aviation Cadet, you get in on the ground floor of jet aviation, learn jet flight with the latest equipment and best instructors. You graduate as an Air Force lieutenant earning over $5,000 a year . . . a man thoroughly prepared for leadership in both military and commercial aviation. Join the many fine young men who now have their hands on the future. Train as an Aviation Cadet!

You may be eligible

To qualify as an Aviation Cadet, you must be at least a high school graduate. However, you will be of more value to the Air Force if you stay in college, graduate, and then volunteer for training. In addition, you must be between 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition.

☆ Win an Air Force Commission

☆ Earn over $5,000 A Year

HERE'S WHAT YOU DO!

1. Take your high school diploma or certificate of graduation and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.

2. If application is accepted, the Air Force will arrange for you to take a physical examination at government expense.

3. Next, you will be given a written and manual aptitude test.

4. If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet training class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

WHERE TO GET MORE DETAILS:

Contact your nearest Aviation Cadet Selection Team, Air Force ROTC Unit or Air Force Recruiting Officer. Or write to: Aviation Cadet, Headquarters, U. S. Air Force, Washington 25, D. C.

U.S. AIR FORCE

Seminole Volleyballers Rally For Decisive Win Over Jax. Navy

Florida State University vol-leyballers lost Saturday night in succession. The scores of the following three games came from behind to top a fired-up Jacksonville Navy.

THE VISITORS from Navy put off to a rapid and exciting start with a 15-10 victory in the opening game. But the never-say-die Seminoles of Coach Bill was Jacksonville Navy's top Coconut's rallied, however, to plunge

RONNIE HAMBROCK was Florida State's leader with 14 points. Howard Gould followed close behind with 13. Gene Lewis

Professor Studies Methods Of Teaching Languages

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (I.P.) — Two Syracuse University professors may have the answer to millions of language problems. For years high school and college instructors, Army officers and language institutes have been wondering why some people learn to speak a foreign language easily, while others equally bright fail to make the grade. The frustration of hundreds of thousands of people and a tremendous waste of time and money have resulted from the lack of any good method of predicting success in a foreign language.

Dr. Albert J. George, head of the romance language department here and his colleague, Dr. M. Di'arlo, executive director of the hearing and speech center, are now conducting a pilot project which indicates that a variety of special abilities may be involved in learning to speak a foreign language. They think they can find ways of helping those with language difficulties by discovering which of these qualities are most important.

One hundred American language students — 50 from Syracuse and 50 from Colgate University — are taking part in the experiment. Last summer when Dr. George had the job of teaching 40 foreign students from 20 countries to speak English in six weeks, as part of an orientation program, he decided to look for new methods. Dr. George and Dr. DiCarlo, an expert in remedial speech work, asked themselves what factors were involved in producing speech and Dr. DiCarlo suggested rhythm and pitch variation, which are always stressed in remedial work with handicapped children who have speech problems. Auditory memory and several other factors might also be important. The two men divided the foreign students into two equal groups, one for experimental purposes and the other for a control test. All the students could read English and some knew a great deal of grammar. However, none could speak the language so that it could be understood, and all had difficulty in understanding English when it was spoken.

To check the factors that might be important they gave the students a series of tests. Two tests were involved. One checked the students' ability to distinguish between the sound of similar words, and the other tested their ability to reproduce English sounds on a tape recording.

Students in the experimental group who rated low in the variables were given special work to improve these skills. The control group was taught by the initiative method that if currently used and received help during the course. At the end of the orientation period the difference between the two groups was apparent. This indicated that the Syracuse professors are on the right track.

The two professors are already taking a second step with the experiment that may change not only this fall — testing American students who will be studying a foreign language. Scores on the tests will be checked against the students' grades at the end of the semester.

AATSP Picks G. S. DeLand New President

Dr. Grayson S. DeLand, professor of Spanish and Portuguese at Florida State University, was elected National President of the American Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese at its 35th Annual Meeting held in Chicago during the holidays.

Dr. DeLand, long active in the association, had previously served as vice president, 1942-1943, and as secretary-treasurer, 1943-1945. The association has a membership of nearly 4,500, drawn from both universities and high schools, and is represented in all the states and some 20 foreign countries.

At the same meetings, Dr. Victor R. B. Oelschlager, professor and chairman of the Department of Modern Languages, was elected as a member of the Executive Council of the AATSP and also as editor of the Comparative Romance Linguistic Newsletter of the Modern Language Association.

Dr. Heberto Lacayo, associate professor of Spanish, gave a paper which was apparently well received on some of the problems of the pronunciation of Spanish in Nicaragua.

Other members of the Department in attendance were Dr. Albert Ledic, at the meetings of the American Association of Teachers of French and Dr. Kurt J. Fickert, at the meetings of the American Association of Teachers of German.

Big Future Seen For New Quartet

The Memory Four, recently organized Contest and a special formed campus quartet at Flor-ida State University, are being commendation from the Judging committee.

featured this year in numerous converts to be given by the Col-lettans, men's glee club of 38 voices.

Gene Cokeroft, first tenor; John Condra, lead; Denny Whipple, baritone, and David Whipple, bass, comprise the Memory Four. All are freshmen but sophomore Whipple.

In addition to performing at numerous campus events, pre-sirens their barbershop singing, they cut the entire Walt Disney Parody version of "Crying in the Chapel" which helped the new men's dormitory win first place in the men's dormitory division during the FSU's Homecoming Dec-

Don't Get Ideas

(ACP)—Two fraternity houses were burned to the ground last week at the University of Maryland so get "factual information on how fire spreads through a building."

Firemen from throughout the state watched as the Delta Tau Delta and Sigma Alpha Epsilon houses went up in smoke. To those students who may be experimentally inclined as to the most efficient way to start a fire, the men's dormitory was first placed filled with furniture Fur-nished by the Salvation Army.

There's Good Food at M & N Cafe!

SPECIALS:

Tues. Whole Fried Shrimp Plate French Fries Salad 85¢

Wed. Juicy Broiled Filet Mignon French Fries Salad $1.00

Fri. Seafood Plate French Fries Salad $1.00

M & N CAFE

E. JEFFERSON ST. TALLAHASSEE

Various Colleges Work Under Grants To Revive Interests in Liberal Arts

BUCKNELL

LEWISTOWN, Pa. (IP) — Bucknell University has been awarded a grant of $25,000 by the Carnegie Corporation of New York for experimentation in the field of integrated education. The funds, to be paid over a two and a half year period, will be used to expand Bucknell's University Course which has been operating for the past five years on a one-semester basis.

The University Course evolved from a survey of the University's curriculum by a committee of the faculty after World War II. The survey revealed that the trend toward specialization at Bucknell, as elsewhere, tended to produce lopsided students. Consequently, the faculty recommended that a one-semester course for seniors be instituted in order that they might be given a broader and clearer picture of the world around them.

Planned by professors from the Philosophy, English, and Sociology Departments, the University Course proved to be a unique approach to the problem of interdivision. Some time ago its directors concluded that to be most effective the course should be expanded to four semesters. An appeal was therefore made to the Carnegie Corporation which is currently attempting to help experiments in interstitive education by backing various approaches to the problem.

The Carnegie grant will enable the university to engage an extra professor to help in teaching the expanded course and will provide an opportunity for further study and experimentation in the problem. Basically, the university course attempts the integration of knowledge by applying the same measures to the various fields of education. Thus the student comes to see his every often the efforts in one field of knowledge are dependent upon the efforts of specialists in a second or third field of knowledge.

STATE U. NEW YORK

ALBANY, N. Y. (IP)—State dents in State University of New York colleges are now able to pay their fees on the installment plan. President William S. Carson has authorized heads of the various colleges to collect tuition, fees and other charges up to six payments during the academic year. Accordingly, the first installment is paid at registration and the others fall due periodically, with the final payment to be made six weeks before the close of classes in the spring.

Dr. Carlson also announced adoption by the board of trustees of a resolution separating all student social organizations on the university's 33 statewide campuses from their national parents bodies. The action gives the national social fraternities and sororities until 1958 to work out the financial problems arising from bodies. It is hoped that the break with the parent groups will eliminate any "artificial criteria" in the selection of members by the heavily fire nation groups chartered at State University colleges.

Organizations whose membership is based on scholastic standing, or those affiliated with recognized religious organization in areas free from the restriction of Dr. Carlson said that fraternities and sororities at all claim a "clean bill of health and declare that the organization does not discriminate and that no one is eligible for membership. Unfortunately we cannot take such assurances at face value."

TRINITY

HARTFORD, Conn. (I.P.) — Trinity College will undertake a long-range financial development program "to strengthen its service to the cause of liberal arts education," President Albert C. Jacobs announced here recently. He said Dr. Jacobs statement will be only the first phase of the program, $8,200,000 will be raised to meet the most pressing needs in Trinity's effort "to solidify its position as one of the leading liberal arts colleges in the country."

Dr. Jacobs described these needs as including: Added endowment of $2,900,000 to provide more adequate salaries for the members of the faculty, systematic support for scholarly and scientific research and for their professional development . . .;" increased endowment of $2,000,000 for scholarships to put the college in a position "to make available to more of our able youth the benefits of a liberal education, which we do not wish to restrict to those in a financial position to pay for them;" and $1,500,000 increased endowment for general operating expenses.

The total also includes $750,000 for student Union "to render more effectively and complete service to students," $500,000 for renovation of the Williams Memorial building for faculty and administrative offices and $750,000 for repayment of loans.

Dr. Jacobs declared the development program necessary because "Trinity today stands as a liberal arts College" in a unique position to so foster the liberal arts programs and its services to the country, and he continued that to take advantage of the opportunity the college must, in the years immediately ahead, enlarge its financial support.

All independent colleges and universities, he explained, are faced with serious problems due to spiraling costs, the decrease in the purchasing power of the dollar, "the impact of steeply rising taxation on the number of persons able to contribute substantially to higher education, the tendency in recent decades to rely more and more on government for things we should have the will to do and set for ourselves."

GMC's Parade of Progress to Show Advances, Prospects In Engineering

"Under the big top" . . . stage shows of science will be presented hourly. The Akradome as the massive structure is called is made with aluminum framework supporting silver-colored canvas. The tent is 152 feet long and seats 1,250 people for the Parade of Progress show to be held at the FSU stadium tomorrow. The show is free to the public.

By OSCAR JOHNSON

Special trains to all science professors Reware. You may be replaced by an exhibit. The GMC-sponsored Parade of Progress here in Tallahassee to show the latest developments in science— through "sparkling demonstrations and showmanship."

Florida Bankers will be able to see for themselves how research, production, and engineering have benefited mankind in the country and how they offer greater advances for the future, when the exhibit goes on a book tour out to the stadium parking lot somewhere between tomorrow and Sunday and you'll see such things as a glass so tough that even sledge hammer blows can't break it, a tiny motor that runs on sunshine, and a stove that cooks but never gets hot.

YOU'LL SEE all this in a stage show held in a new and unusual "in the round" theater which has no stage for themselves but research poles, guy wires, or stakes and supporting cables to get in the way. Reason? It's suspended from above by aluminum alloy girders rather than propped up from within by poles. This structure looks like a modernistic dirigible hangar, but seats 1,250 people.

Along with the stage show, are exhibits ranging from three-dimensional sound to "power for the air age," in which a miniature jet engine is run—to the distress of all a eardrums within half a mile.

THE SHOW IS carried by ten trailer-trucks and ten streamliner coaches use 18 new-model GMC passenger cars.

EXHIBITS THAT can be operated by mechanically minded FSU students include engine components, gasoline consumption, fuel economy and power steering in the "high-compression" engine. The officials' claim, that raising compression and economy" exhibit. The compression ratio in many spectators push buttons, turn cranks and manipulate dials to would save a million tank cars of vary fuel octane level and com- gasoline a year at the rate we are pression ratio of a running gas- using automobile fuel at the preline engine. The engine is used sent time. But don't tell anyone to determine the proper settings, this—if the government found an compression ratio and octane level, about it they might confiscate all for best efficiency cars with low-compression engines.

Another exhibit, called "cross-

"Old Scout" . . . 1902 Oldsmobile proved to be one of the most popular features at the Parade of Progress. This car won the first transcontinental race in 1905 as described by the lecturer. It still runs!

partment of one of these vehicles roads" is an immensely complicated more instruments than an air-ed affair which runs four times plane cockpit. per hour in each running of- jects are gradually changed and the other company-sponsored ex- ecutives shifted, all automatically. hibits the parade of progress is to depict four decades in the life unconcerned in nature. (One in-of an imaginary crossroads con- teresting feature is that it's all munity. Its operated by Parson free). The 34 members of the Pennsylvania State univer- crew who don't drive trucks or sity, who don't drive trucks or "THE MIRACLES of man and coaches use 18 new-model GMC cold" exhibit demonstrates temperatures from—300 degrees to 5,000 degrees F.

The most popular exhibit of the students include engine compon- ents according to GMC officials sion, fuel economy and power is the high-compression exhibit.

Interviews Planned By Sears, NRC

Representatives of Sears, Roebuck and Company's Armed Division and the National Red Cross will be on the campus next week to interview students interested in positions in their organizations.

Mr. H. T. Dickie of Sears will be on campus Thursday and Friday to interview men and women interested in social work and research positions. Interested students may make an appointment with Mr. Hand by contacting Mrs. Nelson in the Placement office, 203 Westcott.

University For Real

Since 1874, State College, Pa., has been the home of Pennsylvania State College. Now it is the home of Pennsylvania State university.

For some time, students have wanted to change the name of the college. Last month 85 per cent of students polled by the Daily Collegian, campus paper, wanted the change. Those who didn't generally feared confusion; they argued there would be identity mixups with the University of Pennsylvania, that colleges traditions would be lost, that stationery, seals and other items would have to be revised.

This month, when the new name was accepted, administration officials called it merely "an academic formality," since the school has been a university in everything but name for several years.

But the townspeople of State College, Pa. were caught off guard. Should they change their name now, too? More than 58 per cent of them said no; 28 per cent said yes.

"Ball 'em" . . . the big Futurliners of the General Motors show moves along the highway conveying the exhibitions across the country. The Futurliners are materials for the giant Aerodome and displays of many engineering and research marvels.

'Crimson' Hits McCarthy On Queries About Pusey

By FRANZ SNYDER

The Harvard Crimson raised a challenge of "put up or shut up" to Senator Joseph McCarthy in answer to his charges, published on Nov. 3, that Harvard students are being exposed to "communist teachers and party philosophy."

The Crimson declared, in an editorial on Nov. 8, that it knew of "no faculty member who acted as if he were under Communist domination" and called on McCarthy to "actually name the professor or professors."

THE MAJOR part of the statement, however, was sent in a telegram to Nathan M. Pusey, new president of Harvard asking his attitude toward returning teachers who refuse to state whether they are Communists.

McCarthy referred especially to Wendell H Furry, Harvard professor of physics. McCarthy declared, refused to testify before the Senate Internal Security Committee.

Summoned last November in connection with security leaks in the Army radar program at Fort Monmouth, N. J., Fuller testified that he was not at that time a Communist, but he sought the protection of the Fifth Amendment when asked about party membership before March 1, 1951.

EN MAT he was put on 3-year probation by The Harvard Corporation for "grave misconduct" for having beloned to the Communist Party nine years before.

Furry was retained on the faculty because "he had not given a Communist slant to teaching, nor had he sought to influence the political thinking of students."

To the inference that Furry was unfit to teach, Frankel answered that Furry had testified that he was not a member of the Communist party after March 1, 1953 and he had not indoctrinated students in Communistic philosophy.

"MY INFORMATION," Pusey wired McCarthy in return, "is that Furry has given secret material 'o unauthorized persons or sought to influence others improperly."

His refusal to testify before the McCarthy committee on the basis of possible self-incrimination did not be regarded as a confession of guilt." Harvard would always hold a position "unattractive to opposed to communism," Pusey added.

McCARTHY'S retort followed. "Even the most soft-headed and funny-minded cannot help but realize that a witness' refusal to answer on the ground that his answer would tend to incriminate him is the most positive proof obtainable that the witness is a Communist. You and The Harvard Corporation can of course continue to keep Sth amendment Communists teaching the sons and daughters of America."

—The Chicago Maroon

Patronize Our Advertisers

Meet Me at THE MECCA

To Welcome You Back From the Holidays
We Are Gonna' Give You Something
FREE
LEATHER BOOK MARKS
HALLMARK DATE BOOKS
CALENDARS
Come In Today
SEE THE HALLMARK "MAKE 'EM YOURSELF" VALENTINES
LOTS OF FUN TO MAKE at HOUSE of GIFTS

Campus Movies

Educational movies to be shown and discussed this evening at 7:30 in 103 Westcott are The Magnetic Recorder, Community Resources in Teaching, Taking Care of Our Gardens and Baltimore Plar.

The last film deals with the progress of a city as it does its own "face-lifting."

The showing of the films is interrupted only for brief discussion and criticism of the film preceding. These weekly events are open to the students, faculty and townspeople.

Free student movie for this week will be Cluny Brown, starring Jennifer Jones and Charles Boyer. This film, a comedy, tells about a cockney girl with an infatuation and ability for plumbing.

The film is showing Monday evenins at Landis Hall, Tuesday Carribori, Wednesday, Florida Hall; Thursday, Senior Hall; and Friday, West Hall.

Group To Discuss Summer Camping

A discussion of personal qualifications required of men and women for summer camp work will be held 7 pm. tomorrow at 103 Westcott.

Mr. Baker counselor at the Placement Office, said "College students, particularly those whose summer courses require work should find this discussion interesting."

The program is jointly sponsored by the Physical Education Departments, both men's and women's, and the Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement. Mr. Robert Lechner, Camp Echo Hill, Clinton, New Jersey, will lead the discussion.

Personal interviews with Lechner will follow the group meeting. Baker said all students are invited to attend.

Them Crazy Bells!

(ACP)—Irked by the ringing of carillon bells, a University of Colorado student sued the board of reents for $1,000 for "mental damages."

But despite testimony of friends who and he had become ill-tempered" since the bells began to ring and a university psychologist who said "prolonged stimulation could have such effects," student, Glen Groenwold lost his case before the campus moot court.

Groenewold, business manager of the Colorado Daily, charged "The noxious bells . . . distur, me while I work, disturb my way of schedule, and have caused me great mental and emotional damage." One day, he said, after hearing the bells he tore up a report which had taken him several hours to compile. Perhaps his most disagreeable experience Groenewold said, was when the bells played "Hold that Tiger."

The jury termed Groenewold an extra-sensitive individual.

Patronize Our Advertisers

Suggest Improving Fraternity Grades

NEWARK, Del. (IP)—Reversing the recorder from the National Interfraternity Conference, Dean of Students John F. Bocuis has recommends the following suggestions for the improvement of fraternity scholarship at the University of Delaware:

1. The Interfraternity Council should institute a scholastic requirement to determine eligibility for pledging. A freshman should not be pledged by a fraternity until he has at least a 2.0 index for the semester preceding the one in which he pledged. An upperclassmen should have a cumulative index of at least 2.0.

2. The Interfraternity Council doesn't adopt a scholastic pledging system because individual fraternities which have not already done so should accept their own responsibility.

3. The Interfraternity Council should raise the scholastic requirements for initiation. To be eligible for initiation, a student should have an index of 2.25 for one semester preceding initiation, plus a cumulative index of 2.0.

4. The fraternities should drop pledges who fail to meet initiation requirements for as many as two semesters following pledging.

4. The fraternities should establish modest scholarships to award each year to the ranking scholars in their fraternities. An award of $100 a year given by each fraternity.

RECEIVE AWARDS

Several men at Kappa Sigma, social fraternity at Florida State University, recently received cash awards and recognition at the fraternity's annual Founders Day celebration.

Bill Henson was awarded $150 from the Kappa Sigma national for this outstanding leadership and scholarship in this district. Sammy Rogers received a check for $50 for chapter leadership and scholarship. F. Malcolm McMullen was awarded the Man of the Year Award from the local chapter, while Howard E. Holt received the H Lewis Dorn Scholastic Improvement Award and Russell W. Johnson was named Outstanding Pledge by the fraternity.

New Taps Revealed By Vamps President

Villas- Vamps tapped 35 freshman women from rushees attending December rush parties. Betty Ann Munroe said yesterday. Taps chosen for their poise personality, and attractiveness are Leah Jane Brown, Adrene Perry, Marcia Yowell, and Denise Johnson.

Also Beechie Buntina, Pat Byrd, Deborah Griffin, Rita Dollar, Cheryl James, Sharon Stephens, Faye Moses, Diane Clark, Lou Parmalee, Mary Cargill and Anita Anderson.

Mary Rose Heins, Tanny Perkins, Charlotte Pullen, Phyllis Pierce, Pat Stebbins, Ann Cowart, Sara Aikinson, Jackie Herold, Ann Pringle, Marjorie Haywood, Margaret Ann Bollinger.

Jane Clardy, Shirley Ann Hyatt, Janie Jacquerelle, Nan Wrington, Barbara Blank, Jean Martin, Barbara Christman, Ruth Ann Whittle, Betty Lou Whittle.

Miss Munroe also announced that there will be a meeting of all the tops and members at the Kappa Delta House, Thursday, January 14, at 7 p.m.

TONIGHT

Future Teachers 7:30-9 p.m. Longmire Aud.

Patronize Our Advertisers

31,000 ACTUAL STUDENT INTERVIEWS SHOW COLLEGE SMOKERS PREFER LUCKIES TO ALL OTHER BRANDS!

Latest extensive, nation-wide survey supervised by college professors, proves Luckies lead again!

Be Happy— GO LUCKY!

LUCKY STRIKE "IT'S TOASTED" CIGARETTES

In 1952, a survey of colleges throughout the country showed that smokers in those colleges preferred Luckies to any other cigarette. In 1953, another far more extensive and comprehensive survey—supervised by college professors and based on more than 31,000 actual student interviews—once again proves Luckies' overwhelming popularity. Yes, Luckies lead again over all other brands, regular or king size ... and by a wide margin! The number-one reason: Luckies' better taste!

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER CLEANER, FRESHER, SMOOTHER

PRODUCT OF The American Tobacco Company — AMERICA'S LEADING MANUFACTURER OF CIGARETTES

Tradition Comes To Military Ball
See Front Page

The Florida Flambeau

Campbell Sets
Vacation Dates
See Front Page

VOL. XL, No. 24 — PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA — Friday, January 15, 1954

Student Senate Names Group To Investigate Flambeau

Students To Get Longer Vacation At Easter Time

Walker Announces Merger of Spring And Easter Holidays

Students will get five free days at Easter this year, Registrar Charles H. Walker announced Wednesday. Walker stated that the Spring Holiday had been merged with the Easter vacation to give the students a longer vacation at that time.

Walker revealed that the dates have been changed from April 1-5 to Thursday, April 15 at noon through Tuesday April 20, 8 a.m.

In the past the Spring Holiday has always fallen on Easter so that students would have an opportunity to spend the holiday at home. However, at the time the 1954 Spring semester was planned, scheduling difficulties made it appear that it would be impossible to have the holiday at the usual time.

According to Walker, April 1 through 5 was decided upon as a tentative date" for the Spring Holiday by the scheduling committee since it appeared to offer the least conflict at the time.

Because many students reportedly objected to the lack of an extended Easter vacation, the University Senate during the latter part of 1953 appointed a committee to see if the schedule could be changed. After the committee had studied the situation, Chairman Charis Coulter submitted a request for the change to the Council of Deans.

The Council included the President and Vice-President of the University, the Dean of Student Welfare and all other academic deans. At their meeting of December 15 they considered the request and decided to refer it to President Doak S. Campbell and Vice-President A. B. Martin for decision.

The Council held another meeting January 12 and at that time Campbell instructed Walker to make the announcement.

After the problem of conflict with other scheduled activities had been worked out, Campbell said he agreed with the Senate committee in that the holiday should fall on Easter.

"1945 — 46 — 47 — 48 — 49 — 50 — 51 — 52 — 53 — "

Herblock Cartoons Will Appear As Regular Feature In Flambeau

The Florida Flambeau announced today that it will add Herblock cartoons to its regular list of features.

"We're not sure that we're the only college newspaper in the country to carry Herblock," said Editor-in Chief Bruce Galphin, "but we're certainly one of the first."

The feature will appear in each edition of the Flambeau. "The senior staff approved the addition as being in line with our policy of trying to publish the best in news, features and editorial opinion," Galphin further revealed.

Published in cooperation with the Post-Hall syndicate, these are the same Herblock cartoons that appear in scores of commercial newspapers including daily in 150. Among these are the Washington Post, the Chicago Sun-Times, The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, the Atlanta Journal, the New Orleans Item, the St. Petersburg, Florida Times, the London Economist, the Rome Daily American and the Tokyo Evening Post.

The name "Herblock" is the journalistic pen-name of Herbert Block, famed editorial cartoonist of the Washington Post, winner of the Pulitzer Prize, the Heywood Broun Award, the National Headliners Club Award, the American Newspaper Guild Award, and the Sigma Delta Chi Award (1949, 1950, 1952).

Herbert Block began as an editorial cartoonist for the Chicago Daily News in 1929 and for NEA service in 1933. He was in the U. S. Army from 1943 to the end of 1945, when he joined the Washington Post. He is the only living American cartoonist whose work is represented in the National Gallery of Art.

Many verbal tributes have been showered upon Herblock, including these words of Carl Sandburg: "One of the supreme all-time American cartoonists, a great craftsman and . . . one of the brightest figures on the American scene."

A collection of Herblock's cartoons, along with commentary of the artist, was published last year as the Herblock Book (Beacon Press, Boston, $2.75).

Sibelius' Works To Be Featured By Symphony

The Florida State University Symphony under the direction of Robert N. Sedore will open a season tonight with a concert in Opperman Music Hall at 8:15.

Featured on the program will be Jean Sibelius, famous work, Symphony Number Two in D Major. Sibelius, when writing this symphony, intended to depict the quiet pastoral life of the Finnish people, undisturbed by thoughts in the first movement of the symphony.

In the second movement, his intention was to portray the patriotic feeling of the people. The third movement portrays the awakening of national feeling, and the desire to organize in defense of their rights. In the Finale, hope enters and there is comfort in the anticipated coming of a deliverance.

Also featured on the program will be Fetes; from a suite of Nocturnes by Claude Debussy; and the colorful and exotic Masquerade Suite by Aram Khachaturian.

Fetes is a descriptive piece, the title meaning "feasts" or "celebrations" and the Masquerade Suite is a series of selections of varying mood, several of which are in vigorous dance forms.

Tonight's concert is open to all without charge.

The University Symphony Orchestra has played Masquerade Suite before, but never as music for the sake of music. The orchestra presented it Wednesday and Thursday nights as an accompaniment for the FSU Theater Dance Group program, and also in 1949 with the orchestra and dance group joining forces.

MICROSCOPY DISCUSSED

Prof. W. M. Barrows of the Florida State University Department of Physics spoke on "The Fundamentals of Electron Microscopy" at the Physics Seminar yesterday in the Science Building.

Ogburn Outlines Indian Situation In Talk Here

In India today a socialist or watered down communist party may come into being as opposition to the present Congress party, Dr. William Fielding Ogburn said last night at Florida State University.

Since India only has one party, and a democracy must have an opposition party, Dr. Ogburn looks for a new party.

Speaking as a top American sociologist, who recently spent six months in India on a Fulbright grant, Dr. Ogburn drew on his personal experiences and contacts while in the vast country of 360 million people.

A past president of the American Sociological Society and the American Statistician Association, Dr. Ogburn is now a visiting professor at Florida State University and Oxford University. He will return to England in March.

"Many of the conditions that led to the revolution in China, exist in India—extreme poverty in the villages, domination of many villages by rich landlords, large land holdings, rate of interest from 30 to 100 percent," was a part of the picture considered.

A brighter side of the picture Dr. Ogburn presented is India with its strong peoples' government, something to be proud of because it was won only after a long contest with Britain. "India with the heritage of Gandhi wants peace."

The speaker pointed out that revolutions are more likely to be successful when authority at the top is cracking up and weak, as was the case in China, in Russia and in France in the 18th century. He said such is not the case in India.

Strong in his admiration for Prime Minister Nehru, whom he got to know personally, Dr. Ogburn compared the leader of the Congress party to George Washington, calling him "one of the outstanding statesmen of the world today," also "an able intellectual with guts."

"When Nehru passes, no one is in sight to take his place and India may be torn by conflicts of local, religious, caste, family and economic interests," Dr. Ogburn said. Though such conflicts might not be violent, he thinks they are likely to injure the unity of the country.

Dr. Ogburn does not think a revolution will be staged in India because of the lack of arms, the 300 million peasants in rural villages are unarmed. The government has a well trained army, but it is small.

"It is highly desirable that India speed up the distribution of the land, and do something about the interest rate in the villages by governmental or cooperative credit," Dr. Ogburn concluded, adding that there must be some population control, to check the great potential unrest that foreshadows political and social unheaval.

"The American public needs a sympathetic understanding of India's problems, and should not expect her or her leaders to do things they cannot do."

"Dig these crazy rods!" . . . Lou Parmelee and Joe Wheat return to the past momentarily in the original "merry Oldsmobile" . . . While Joan Cunningham marvels over Chevrolet's Corvette, latest in sports cars. Both are featured at the General Motors Parade of Progress show adjacent to the FSU Stadium.

Gaster Accuses Paper's Misuse By Senior Staff

Chapmon To Head Committee; Halford Suggests Topings

Charges brought against The Florida Flambeau at the Tuesday meeting of Student Body Senate that the campus semi-weekly is being misused to attack certain students and institutions here prompted the appointment of a committee to investigate the accusations.

Senator Roy Chapman was named by Senate presiding officer Gene Lawler to head the committee. Members will include Senators Jimmy Soles, Phoebe Jackson, Wayne Terry, Joan Tavel, Jimmy Joanos and Charis Coulter. Lawler named Joanos to the group after Gordon Gaster, who originally introduced charges and moved to have the committee set up, declined a position upon it.

Gaster charged, before moving for the appointment of the investigating group, that the Flambeau had not kept certain promises made at the start of the year. Intimated was the idea that the Florida Flambeau had not avoided "sophomoric attacks upon individuals and conditions" as an early editorial said it would do.

Gaster continued by alleging the Flambeau has been used in attacks against "another campus publication," has attacked individuals "without grounds" and has been guilty of distorting news presentation.

In his motion to set up the investigation, Gaster stipulated the committee have the power to subpoena and, if findings merit, to institute impeachment proceedings.

After Gaster spoke, Roy Chapman arose to inquire if the Senate could have the power to subpoena and called such power "A pretty big responsibility."

Richard Jackson, Chief Justice of the University Honor Court voiced an unofficial affirmative opinion that it was in the power of the legislative committees to subpoena. Senator Jimmy Joanos urged the Senate to appoint a committee to investigate and give the Flambeau a chance to vindicate itself.

Editor Bruce Galphin later stated "I hope that the charges presented to the committee are more specific than the present generalizations, so that the committee's time will not be wasted."

News Editor Al Pierce, added "The charges levied against the Flambeau, and, further, against the news coverage will have to be greatly clarified.—The word "distortion" is ambiguous, especially when applied to the newspaper business. Facts are facts; they can be taken in many different lights, and can be interpreted to mean many different things.—The Flambeau interprets them as a newspaper, not an individual."

Controversy began early in the meeting, which was extended 30 minutes past the regular time so that Gaster could bring his charges.

After routine reports had been heard Senator Joan Halford introduced a resolution to provide for tape recording of Senate meetings. Her resolution also provided that the recordings should be available to the Flambeau and "other interested parties."

Senator Frank Shaw inquired as to why that should be done. Speaking for her resolution, Senator Halford said that an accurate record would help to remove the elements of human forgetfulness from reports of Senate happenings and would be a good check.

Upon a request for specific instances from Senator Joanos, Sen. Halford cited two cases about which she said there was numerous doubt and many

(Continued on Page 4)

Hall Of Fame Date Changed To Next Friday

Deadline for lists of names of outstanding seniors deserving of Hall of Fame has been extended to January 22, it was announced by the committee yesterday.

Special notice was given and spokesmen for the Hall of Fame committee said if the organization doesn't meet before the deadline, the group's president should submit a list of ten.

Any senior may presently submit a list of ten men or women who he thinks deserve Hall of Fame rating. The list must have not more than 10 names and all must be of senior status this year. Names submitted, the committee said, need not be members of the particular organization submitting a list. Anyone the nominators think worthy of the honor can be named.

Winners of the popular vote will have pictures placed permanently in Westcott Building and in Tally-Ho for 1953-54.

The Hall of Fame committee, set up by Student Body, will consider all names turned in and final selection, it was noted, will be around February 3. Selection will be on the basis of majority ruling.

Speakers' Bureau Is Reactivated By ODK; Tryouts Being Held

Student orators will soon get the chance to represent their school—with expenses paid—in speeches before high school, church, civic and alumni groups.

The ODK Student Speakers' Bureau is now being reactivated, announced Pete Nimkoff, chairman of the Omicron Delta Kappa project and president of Tau Kappa Alpha, national forensic honorary.

"Anybody with a flair for public appearances should give this a try," said Nimkoff. "They can speak on anything from Cicero to the Circus."

According to Dr. Wayne Minnick, TKA member who will judge the speakers, almost any topic of general interest will do. The theme may be of international, domestic, state-wide, community or purely school interest. The speaker should choose an area in which he is well informed.

Good humorous speeches are frequently sought, reported Minnick, and oral readings have proved quite popular. Competition is open to men and women from any class.

Speakers rated acceptable by Minnick, professor of public address who will judge the contestants, will be scheduled by the University Alumni Association — which is providing the funds — for performances at convenient dates during the second semester.

"Last year under the sponsorship of ODK, men's leadership fraternity, fellows like Bob Ducker and Dick Bradley represented FSU away from the campus," said Nimkoff. "I hope some sharp students will be interested this time too."

Entry blanks may be obtained from Nimkoff at the Sigma Chi house or in the James Building from Dr. Minnick, who is ready to help anyone prepare a speech or reading. The deadline for tryouts is February 12th. The performance should run a minimum of 12-15 minutes, and a maximum of 25.

NOTICE TO SENIORS

If you plan to graduate in May, 1954, August, 1954, or February, 1955, you should file an application for a Degree in the Office of the Registrar immediately.

Alpha Delta Sigma Holds Tap Meeting Here Sunday Night

Nearly 30 interested men are expected to attend the first tap meeting of Alpha Delta Sigma, professional advertising fraternity here Sunday night.

Slated for Longmire First Floor Lounge, the meeting will give prospective pledges the chance to meet and talk with members of Florida State's Elon Borton Chapter, ADS, formed last spring as the first professional advertising society at FSU.

Announcing the meeting, Al Pierce, ADS president said he hopes to see a good number of interested men Sunday. Pierce, in pointing out the values of membership in a professional fraternity of one's choice said such a relation "Brings the student closer to his major field, and serves to help prepare him for his later life-work."

Numbered among Alpha Delta Sigma's present activities on campus are soliciting and processing all the local advertising accounts for THE FLORIDA FLAMBEAU. Besides this, ADS has been bringing to campus noted professional men in the field of advertising, radio, TV, newspapers and the like, in a lecture series. All lectures so far have been well-attended, according to Dr. Royal H. Ray.

Soraparu Releases Names Of Newest Honorary Members

Gold Key, Florida State University honorary men's group recognizing leadership and scholarship here will initiate five taps into the organization Sunday evening, President Paul Soraparu said today.

Honored men include Bob Canada, Colin English, Pete Nimkoff, Tom Simmons and Chris Young. The five have, according to Al Pierce, tap chairman completed tap projects designed to give service in various ways to the University. Projects will be revealed at a later time, Pierce said.

At the group's meeting yesterday to arrange initiation ceremonies, Treasurer Bob Foley reported that the leadership honorary had donated $25 to the 1953-54 Campus Chest Drive. Foley pointed out this money was raised by coke sales at the Homecoming Dance this year, as Gold Key's fund-raising project for the period.

February 21-25 Set Aside For Intelligent Faith Week

By ELKA FRANK

Intelligent Faith Week which will be held from February 21, through 25 this year, will feature as two of the guest speakers John Havea and Dr A Kristian Jensen.

John Havea is a native of the Tonga Islands and was chaplain to the Queen of Tonga, who was recently visited by Queen Elizabeth II and is the only other reigning queen in the British Empire. Studying at Drew Seminary, N J, now, the minister plans to return to his home country and teach Old Testament Religion in a seminary and college English in Tonga. He also plans to serve as pastor of a church there.

One of several missionaries captured by the Communists when they invaded South Korea in 1950, Dr. Jensen spent almost three years in Communist prison camps. He was released in May 1953 at the "intervention of Soviet Authorities in Moscow," and was reunited with his family and friends, who, with the exception of his wife, had believed him to be dead. As a prisoner, Dr. Jensen went through many rigorous experiences including a death march from one camp to another, during which many soldiers and civilians died.

Born in Nasborg, Denmark, he came to this country in 1914, and started working in greenhouses and restaurants, and as laborer on railroads. Later he studied at Cornell College, Iowa, and at Boston University School of Theology. The Doctorate of Divinity was given to him by Cornell College.

For many years now there have been programs on the campus of Florida State University emphasizing the place of religion in the total educational experiences of students. One of the primary purposes of Intelligent Faith Week is to help the students realize that every person's life is based on faith, and to help them understand the importance of intelligent faith.

Speakers who, like Dr. Jensen, have suffered from the unfortunate consequences of unintelligent faith, and who have seen others being persecuted by it will be featured in the program. Under their guidance every student will be given an opportunity to think through these principles which are basic to his life.

News Briefs

DAMES MEET

The Dames Club Homemaking group will meet Monday, January 18 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. R. P. Hunter, 1535 Hickory Ave. The speaker will be Mrs. Jane Shearer. Mrs. Shearer will discuss the topic of Interior Decorating.

KAPPA DELTA ELECTS

Joan Mynihan was elected president of Kappa Delta, national social sorority here at a recent meeting. Miss Mynihan will take office at the beginning of the Spring semester.

Other officers will be Pat Flynn, vice-president; Betty Jo Miller, secretary; Sally Fussell, treasurer: Mary Carolyn Branch, assistant treasurer; Nancy Warner, rush chairman; Florence Getzen, editor; and Sandra Carter, house chairman.

Appointees to other offices will be named at a later meeting according to spokesmen for the group. The new officers will be installed at the close of this semester.

COMER, EUBANKS ENSIGNS

The Tallahassee Naval Recruiting Substation announced this week that two Florida State University graduates, members of the WAVES have been commissioned as Ensigns in the U. S. Naval Reserve. The two, Patricia Ann Comer and Martha Arden Eubanks will be assigned to duty at naval shore activities.

Miss Comer is affiliated with Zeta Tau Alpha sorority and Miss Eubanks was a charter member of Gamma Phi Beta.

Exchange Teacher Impressed By Friendliness Of Americans

By JOYCE POTTER

The friendliness of the American people was one of the things that made the greatest impression on Dr. Clelia Mangia De Crescenzo, Science teacher of Calvino Technical Institute, Trapani, Sicily. She will leave FSU today after visiting and observing biology classes since Monday.

"Everyone I meet on the streets speaks to me although I do not know them," she explained. They are also very willing to give me directions and information."

Coming to this country under the auspices of the Fulbright and Smith Mundt Acts, she has been visiting different colleges and high schools in the United States. The teacher exchange program permits the visiting teachers to understand American life, democracy, and education.

Mrs. Crescenzo arrived in New York last September and, after a short orientation program in Washington, D. C. started on a tour of the different educational institutes.

Being a science teacher, she is interested in the way those classes are taught. She explained that science courses taught in American colleges correspond to the level of those same courses taught in the Italian high schools. Mrs. Crescenzo did not think that Americans have enough Science background before coming to college.

"Most Americans study superficially," explained the vivacious visitor. "They do not know what a real examination is."

However she applauded the informality between students and teachers. She especially thought the class room behavior is fine. This is due to the respect, she felt, that the students seem to have for each other and the teacher.

Although she commended the program of extra curricular activities in high schools she felt that they were over emphasized. In Italy they do not have any of the activities.

The Italian high schools are specialized. There are Science, Home Economics, Agriculture as well as many other types of schools. She regrets, however, that their schools do not teach as many of the practical vocational courses as American schools do.

When students in Italy go to college they are working for their doctors or masters degree. There are no graduate or undergraduate students.

In Mrs. Crescenzo's opinion, American people have many friends but few very close ones. In Italy the people only have a few very close friends for whom they would do "practically anything."

That Americans have faith in their government and do not look towards the future with fear was high on her list of good points. The Italians, who

(Continued on Page 4)

Campus Sing Set For May 15-16

The Florida State University Campus Sing has been set for Saturday and Sunday, May 15 and 16, according to Delano Driver, spokesman for the committee in charge.

Campus Sing is sponsored annually by Sigma Alpha Iota and Phi Mu Alpha, national music honoraries. The contest is open to any fraternity, sorority, dormitory group or other nonmusical organization.

Assistance from persons who are not members of the sponsoring honoraries is allowed but the final performance must be conducted by a member. Anyone who is active in the organization, either graduate or active, is permitted to sing with the group.

Military Presents Annual Ball; 'Auburn Knights' Will Play

The Military Ball, annual presentation of on-campus military organizations, will be held tomorrow night from 8 to 12 p.m. in the Suwannee Room, it was announced this week. The dance will be formal.

Isaac Hamilton, Lieutenant in AFROTC, who is in charge of the ball, revealed that the "Auburn Knights" of Auburn will play. He added that this orchestra played at the Pan-Hellenic Dance last December and was commended by many students for the quality of its music. Neville Malloy, student at Florida State University will be Master of Ceremonies.

These who have planned the dance expect a capacity crowd since attendance is compulsory for all ROTC members who, with their dates, will number 1200. Also many military and administrative figures and faculty guests are expected.

The "Scabbard and Blade," honorary military society, will present the "Crossing of the swords," traditional high spot of the military ball. Members of "Scabbard and Blade" will wear their official emblems for the first time this year.

Cadet Captain William Newberry, president of the "Scabbard and Blade" said that there was difficulty in obtaining a charter from the headquarters of the honorary in Washington, D. C., however the ceremony will definitely be observed Saturday night.

Decoration for the ball will be in a military theme, with the colors red, white and blue predominating.

Democracy Requires People To 'Gamble On' Criticism

"A society where free discussion is inhibited either by governmental action or by social pressure tends to become an aggregation of robots." . . . John Chamberlin.

The Florida Flambeau is deeply honored.

It joins the ranks of some of the great newspapers of the world hy being investigated. Its voice is strong enough to hear. Its eyes probe deeply enough to hurt.

In some ways the coming investigation is quite different from the ones in which McCarthys try to smear and squelch opposition. It was clear that many of the Senators voted for the investigation merely to clear the Flambeau of the charges made against it, rather than let them go said but unattended.

That is why we of the staff are more than willing to cooperate in this instance, even though it is not completely clear that the Senate has the power of suhpoena, and even though we are opposed to legislative investigations of newspapers in general.

We appreciate the majority attitude of the Senate in this matter.

In some respects, however, the investigation bears a similarity to McCarthy's attack on the New York Post, Peron's suppression of La Prensa and Hitler's crushing of many noted German newspapers.

That similarity is the irritation shown hy public officials at criticism hy the press, and the belief hy those puhlic officials that it is within their realm of authority to censor or crush criticism.

The criticism made against the Flambeau thus far are rather vague. As relayed to columnist Beverly Lacayo by Senator Gordon Gaster, who made the original charges in Senate, they consist of: continual slurs on another campus publication, attack at individuals without grounds, and distorted presentation of news. We issue advance warning that the accusations must be more specific than these at the committee hearing, or those who make them will be opening themselves to loss of face.

We admit only one thing. Though it may come as a shock to some, we are human. We sometimes make mistakes; we sometimes do not attain our goal of top quality.

There the admission ends. We have striven for honesty an dstriven for quality.

We have hardly approached the acid comments of ex-editor Earl Dobert about the Senate, and our mild jabs at Smoke Signals (let's not be coy, boys, that is the name of the puhlication) 'hardly compare with the numerous barbs printed under former editor Boh Griffin.

In short, we believe we have been moderate in our criticisims. Are we being asked to remain completely silent, vocally castrated, while things that should be hrought to the attention of the student body are kept shouded in semi-mystery?

This is America, remember? Those statements about the value of critisism in a democracy are more than words. To keep our government even vaguely representative, we have to have powerful voices to call attention to errors, to express dissent.

For the privilege of a free press we must run the risk of coming in for criticism ourselves. We must put up with Chicago Tribunes and Daily Workers (two organs rumored to be more obstreperous than even the Flmbaeau). When we try to silence opposition, we look rather small.

We on the Flambeau staff try to serve the needs of the campus, and we find that there are more people on campus than amhitious politicians. Though we have received our share of hrickbats, we have also received numerous congratulations from the "just plain people" for making them think, even when they disagreed with us.

We on the Flambeau intend to defend freedom of the press and freedom of expression to the limit of our ahilities. We will continue to pour salt into open wounds. We believe we have the support of the student body.

• HERBLOCK

The Florida Flambeau is proud to announce the addition of Herblock political cartoons to its regular features.

We have tried to bring quality to our news, features and editorials, as well as hroaden the outlook of the newspaper. Mr. Block's noted cartoons on national and international affairs should add considerably to this end.

Herbert Block draws for the Washington Post and his work is syndicated worldwide to such newspapers as the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, the Chicago Sun-Times, the Atlanta Journal and the London Economist.

He should be looked upon by students as a columnist, expressing his own opinions on topics of importance. His quality is unquestioned. He has received such awards as the Pulitzer Prize, the Heywood Broun Award, the National Headliners Club Award, the American Newspaper Guild Award and the Sigma Delta Chi Award.

We feel that Herblock is a distinguished addition to the Flambeau.

"There Must Be Something I Can Do About This"

THE FREE LANCE

A Lion Is In The Halls, Decency Out

By BRUCE GALPHIN

"We're gonna march on, move on, descend on Mertin Dyckman, an' hring your cherry bombs along, just in case."

Maybe I'm just prejudiced. Maybe I just don't want to lose hoth my rewrite editors in one big blast (Mortin and Oscar Johnson are roommates).

But somehow I object to having a large, sand-packed firecracker set off in the door of room 204, West Hall.

I hate to make preachments about "good" and "bad" or "right" and "wrong I hate to be the one to point out such a blast could seriously have hurt the occupants of the room. That seems to go without saying

I hale, also, to remind the "Little Mims" boys that Counselor John Blackburn is hardly one to tolerate such dangerous damnfoolery . . . that he is going to mete out strong disciplinary action.

Rather, I think I should issue a warning to hot-rod reporter Dyckman:

Martin, stop saying what you believe. Stop being honest. Slop dreaming you have certain rights that others will respect.

The Vendetle boys have never learned about this "rights" stuff. They always reply to honesty and intelligence with violence.

You've upset certain senators hy calling things the way you see them. You've upset your dormmates by issuing a somewhat overcolored denunciation of their noise. A bombing is a mild retort in the eyes of some of these individuals. Just think what revenge you might expect from anyone who might be both a senator and a West Hall resident.

My advice to you, Martin, is to conform to the pattern of your generation. Crawl into a shell, don't think, and give up your convictions. It's a lot safer.

You might even consider becoming a Vendetta boy yourself.

Senators Express Dissatisfaction

Dear Editor:

We, as members of the University Senate, would like to express our dissatisfaction with your distorted presentation of the recent action by the senate in regard to the proposed roll call bill and subsequent amendment.

In your front page story and also in your lead editorial, it was inferred that the senate members were incompetent and, in rejecting a regular roll call vote, were attempting to hide this incompetency by avoiding the publication of their voting record This is not true, and had the complete text of the arguments been presented, it would have been ohvious to one and all that it was not true.

We resent your editorial slander in reference to "a private cluh of the elite who run things to their pleasure"

You say: "Some means must be provided to let the people know what is going on Such is the system in the national Congress and the State Legislature. Such was the intention of Senator Moore's bill."

This is a glaring distortion. In Congress it takes one-fifth of the members present to obtain a roll call vote. In our own student senate it takes only one member to ask for a roll call vote

And the final bill as passed by the student senate provides for publication of all roll call votes. All that the senate rejected was the impractical policy of having a roll call vote on any bill or resolution, regardless of how petty or insignificant it might be Should a single senate member desire such a roll call vote he may ask for it at any time.

You failed to explain this. The freshman reporter who covered the senate meeting failed to explain this.

You say in your editorial that "it is remarkable that we should have to explain such basic things about democratic forms of government" to the representatives.

Perhaps you should check the facts before you render your "explanations"

Signed:

Frank G. Shaw, Jr.; Ann Leinback, Wayne Terry, Joan

(Continued on Page 4)

The Florida Flambeau

BRUCE GALPHIN — EDITOR

AL PIERCE, news editor — BOB FOLSOM, managing editor

Feature Editor ... Jaylaan Robertson
Sports Editor ... Dava Kennedy
Campus Editor ... J. Gary Campbell
Copy Editors ... Dick Victory, Sylvia Parrish
Rewrite Editors ... Oscar Johnson, Martin Dyckman
Photographic Editor ... Joe Caldwell
Art Consultant ... Franklin Adams
Sports Staff ... Ken Kingary, Bob Taylor
Junior Staff ... Dot Thomasson, Pat Dekle, Mary Elizabeth King, Tom Hall, Betty Bishop, Lona Cochran, Barbara Bachman, Joyce Potter

NANCY LOWE — BUSINESS MGR.

MIRIAM SAWYER, advertising manager

Business Staff ... Mary Wagon, Virginia Vaughn, Alice Lang, Joe Caldwell
Exchange Editor ... Pat Robson
Exchange Staff ... Margaret Dellinger

Advertising solicited by Alpha Delta Sigma and Gamma Alpha Chi.

Distribuution arranged for and procassed by members of Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity

The Florida Flambeau, published twice weekly by the Students of Florida State University, Tallahassee, Florida

The Florida Flambeau is represented nationally by the National Advartising Service, 420 Madison Avenue, New York 17, New York.

Member: Associate Collegiate Press, Intercollegiate Press

Telephone 2-8000, extension 4821 — 211, 213 Longmire Bldg.

Let It Be Said

By DICK VICTORY

The show's the thing, the rage, the fad
Upon hearing them say it I feel the cad
Because each time that they do
I feel like yelling, "Yeah, sez you."

I saw From Here To Eternity again Tuesday night. By the time the last scene was being flashed upon the screen it had worked me in quite a mood. So after the leis and destiny had been tossed to the mercy of the sea in the finale, I was quite shaken hy what followed. What I'm referring to is Esther Willisms' calcium-filled smile. As far as I'm concerned, at that moment it belonged in a Ipana Ad and nowhere else.

Whenever a picture with force is presented to the public, there should be a five or ten minute intermission directly following for the audience to attempt to reflect upon and contemplate about its meaning.

It's nobody's fault hut the theater manager with dollar marks in his eyes. I imagine it was given similar treatment all over the country.

That film was a document, yet a benediction.

It should have been presented as such.

I will now name the three basic kinds of movies and give an example of each.

Science-Fiction. There are three requirements made of these.

(1) They must be in 3-D and technicolor.

(2) They must be ridiculous.

(3) They must star Richard Carleson.

A typical one was The Beast From 20,000 Fathoms. It was concerned with a mixed-up mermaid who didn't have what it takes. Oh, she used Deep Root lipstick all right. That's the lipstick that won't ruh off, won't eat off, won't kiss off and won't hurn off. Free chisel inclosed with every tube. Anyway, she underestimated the washability of the salt solution. And if there's anything a male land native hates it's a plain mermaid.

There there's the combination Love Triangle and Adventure. For example, Mogambo. (It means the greatest).

Between three encounters with wild apes and body to body conflict with Ava, Gable manages to (1) Have a beautiful blonde that is married go beserk over him; (2) Get very drunk; (3) Have his lungs practically punctured by native spears, (4) Keep the beautiful hlonde's husband in the dark, and (5) lead countless safaris safely through the jungle.

This one has a rather unusual ending. Gable re-evaluates each of the babes and decides to marry one of the wild apes. Darwin would have loved it. And he's dead.

The final type is the Musical Comedy.

Theme: Boy meets girl. Boy makes girl. They break up. Boy then marries girl. Not realistic

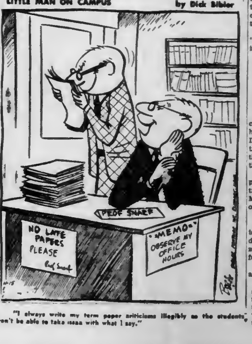
A fine example is "An American in Paris."

It's all about a guy who loses his passport when he tries to smuggle Ertha Kitt over the border.

"Pour les oiseaux." Let the censors look that one up. And it doesn't mean the greatest in French.

Dear Mama Seminole

Dear Mama Seminole,



All students on reservation grow longer faces, rougher foreheads, and redder eyes as X Day approaches. One student flunked his chemistry flat last week. He expressed the idea that Silicon, Oxygen, and other minor ingredients, equaled open door. Upon examination his theory was shattered and naturally his grade was cut very badly—along with other parts of his anatomy.

Real enlightened opposition party members in Washington making very serious and hitter attacks on Presidential economy. Statements are reading something like this, ". . . how can he, ("Ike"), claim to be cutting government spending when he spends over $50 a morning on breakfast guests and flies his whole family, plus golf clubs, all over the country for vacations No one ever bothers to answer remarks of such gravity but a rebuttal might sound like this, ". . . what about the $13 hillion reduction in government spending Anyhow, Augusta is only half as far as Key West and golf clubs don't weigh nearly as much as pianos.

Great decisions of deepest significance are hanging in the balance here too Mama. The Seminole government is to vote on a measure allowing the passage of a bill which would allow the appointment of the chairman of an election to elect a senator who could pass a bill making the vote on a measure legal. If this legislation slips past the glaring of the faculty and administration, there is talk of a vote on a measure allowing the passage of a bill which would allow the appointments to the chairman of an election to elect a committee who could nominate a senator who could be elected to pass a bill making the action on a measure legal. The members of the student body are sitting on the edges of their referendums, chewing their filibusters waiting for the outcome.

Love all,
George Seminole.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS — by Dick Bibler

"I always write my term paper criticisms illegibly so the students won't be able to take issue with what I say."

CAMPUS CARAVAN

Last Senate Most Interesting To Date

By BEVERLY LACAYA

Tuesday's Student Senate meeting was probably the most interesting to date. Here's what we have been able to unscramble so far. A motion was introduced and passed to the effect that the chairman appoint a committee of not less than five and not more than seven senate members, with the power to subpoena, in order to investigate possible misuse of the Flambeau

Charges made against the Flambeau in supporting this request were as follows: Continual slurs on another campus publication (referring prohahly to the various jibes made hy columnists, including myself, concerning the Smoke -Signals); attacks at individuals without grounds (in this case they undoubtedly refer to the exchange of insults between Drear Pewson and Warren Cobb); and, distorted presentation of news (which relates to the recent Flambeau news story on the Senate's discussion of Coyle Moore's "Roll Call Vote" bill. The bill provides for a compulsory roll call vote—this vote to be published—on every bill, motion or resolution going through Senate.)

With regard to this last item. Senator Gordon Gaster feels that his speech on the bill was either misquoted or misinterpreted by the Flambeau to connote the idea that if such a bill were passed the Senate would start voting for popular appeal. Actually the essence of what he said in senate was quite different, Gastor claims. As we heard it from him and a few others present the statement expressed the thought that if a record were kept of every vote that every senator made, then, come spring, there would be too many re-elections based—not on how much work or constructive effort had been expended by each senator on the important projects, but merely on whether or not a senator had sat at all the meetings and voted so as not to offend any one.

Half the people swear he said one thing: half the people swear he said another. Which it was we will never know.

But, in order to avoid further misunderstandings, a motion was introduced to provide for tape recordings of senate meetings. Then the blow came—an amendment to this motion providing that the tape be unavailable to anyone but senators, except by Senate consent. The motion, passed AS AMENDED, thus eliminating its original intent of straightening out quotations, and carrying with it the deliberate implication that Flambeau reporters were maliciously misquoting and distorting senate meetings, because the fact that senate would have records might act as a deterrent to future Flambeau infamies.

The results of all this are fairly obvious, as people who used to greet each other in normal tones are either not speaking at all or having verbal knifing contests. The whole atmosphere is very discouraging and brings to mind something that a favorite professor once told me with regard to student activities: ". . . like a top, always in motion but never moving anywhere."

My own analysis is undoubtedly colored by friendships with the people involved, but for what it's worth I'll give it here.

First: The Flambeau has, as a whole, maintained a high level of news coverage and editorial policy. Such unfortunate incidents as the Drear Pewson column and the equally slanderous reply are not, I hope, considered editorial policy as they are not of a permanent nature.

Second: The Senate should expect criticism from the press, but they have a perfect right to be angry if they are misquoted, whether literally or in essence. If this is their complaint, then there was no sound reasoning behind the move to tape their sessions and yet not let these tapes be used by the press.

Third: The chairman of Senate can hardly expect to establish rapport with the senators and have a hard-working group if, on the one hand he is the supposedly impartial presiding officer, and on the other hand he sits on the side lines and publicly ridicules the group or individual members.

Fourth: Personality conflicts are evidently the cause for the attacks and counter attacks and should be recognized for what they are. Students who are not emotionally involved can and should step in and improve the situation which, although it's pretty sad, is not irreparable.

As much as the professor's statement grated on my nerves at the time he spoke, every day students prove him right hy worrying more about advance elections, free publicity, getting revenge, and testing their power than they do about going all the way with their present responsibilities.

ETCETERA ETCHINGS

Portrayal Falls Short Of Real Cantor

Film biographies have always been a bombshell at the box-office for the production studios, but sometimes the many mad movie moguls make monstrous mistakes.

In the latest film biog. The Eddie Cantor Story, the character portrayed by Keefe Brasselle is shallow and has conflicting emotions. Nature did for Eddie Cantor eyes what the make-up man tried to reproduce, only failed. In close-ups, you can see the make-up on Keefe. Authaykeed. Trying to imitate Eddie's high-pitched voice (not on songs, that's dubbed in) in talking, Keefe uses falsetto . . . Aside from being too tall to play Cantor and with pic shots accentuating it, Brasselle is misplaced in a crazy-mix up-picture.

One film coming out soon will be The Glenn Miller Story starring James Stewart as the bandleader The film is good for the story and acting according to revues, but U-I's play is on the music, natcherly . therefore, relying on the songs to sell the film and not the talents of Stewart and his co-star June Allyson. Why doesn't U-I wiseup?

George Arliss in the thirties used to portray people to such an extent that school students used to picture Washington and Jefferson as looking like the luminary. Arliss died and for a while the producers postponed the biographical films. If J. Stewart keeps it up, he'll have a record of portrayals as long as Arliss'

To my mind, The Jolson Story was one of the best. Maybe, because it was one of the first of the renewed faith in biographies. This was 1946, five years after the last big hiography came out, Sergeant York. There were other biographical films like Pride of the Yankees a year or so after 'York' but still producers were tip-toeing. Now, they drip like a leaky roof.

In Crazylegs, All-American, the story was so hypoed on Elroy Hirsch that a lot of the facts were soft-peddled. For instance, Joan Vohs, who portrayed Mrs. Hirsch, never met up with the real wife . . . an oddity in biographical films. (The actors usually meet their counterparts if possible). Actually, the real Mrs. was getting ready for a divorce at the time the film went into production. Reason: Another women. She's since united with Elroy saying, "I see now in the film what I should have been to him."

Yep, film biographies are pretty good . . . they may not be true, the characters may not give good impressions of their counterparts, but they're interesting. I wonder how they fix up The Manassa Mauler, the story of Jack Dempsey starring Kirk Douglas. Wonder if it'll mention the breakup of his society romance recently. It certainly won't be as clean as The Joe Louis Story which I hear is pretty good.

PREDICTION FOR 1954: Frankie and Ava will make up. Marilyn Monroe will marry Joe DiMaggio. Lili will be best pictureu of the year with From Here To Eternity making an oscar sweep. I wish Shane and Stalag 17 would catch some. Mario Lanza will resume his career. Reissues will be on the market. Jack Webb will drop out of "Dragnet" on video and audio and resume with "Pete Kelly's Blues." Radio will have more listeners than video viewers in cities where both medias are prevalent. Howard Hughes will act as a leader for a revision in film code laws Sandy will not die, but Pony will. Cinema Scope will be the thing with 3-D wearing off. Laurence Tiarney will continue to wear a shiner and Zsa Zsa will try to make more news.

THE FLAY-LANCE

Emperor Wang And The Radiant Joy

By BOB RICE

In his seventieth year (so history says) the Emperor Wang, having ruled the Empire to the telligentsia, determined to retiretelligentsia, determined to retire. Calling Go Long, his Chancellor, he bade him assemble the wise men of his Empire and place the reins of government in their hands This done, be departed to a distant palace, intending to spend the rest of his life contemplating the infinite, an exercise which the urgency of State affairs had rendered difficult, if not impossible.

After six months of contemplating the infinite, however, being siezed with the urge to return, he suddenly appeared at the palace and called on Go Long to give an account of the difficulties which had been overcome.

"There have been no difficulties, Patron of Veracity," said Go Long, smiling "Or, alternatively, if there have they hava been successfully overcome. Or, alternatively, if they have not been overcome, it is not in the public interest to give details."

"Hmm," said the Emperor, "there would appear to be a flaw in that reasoning somewhere."

"It is the usual government reasoning, your Majesty," replied Go Long stiffly." Government procedure being always correct, the Detector of Inquity must see at once that flaws are non-existent."

"True " said the Emperor, "The contemplation of the infinite must have warped my judgment. Then I may take it that under the control of the Committee of Wise Men the Empire is better governed than ever?"

"That statement is not to hyperbolical," said Go Long cautiously "The Committee of Wise Men has devised many new sets of laws and regulations."

"With what end?" asked Wang.

"This insolent worm was about to explain," replied Go Long. "Under the new regulations each citizen will be able to live a freer, fuller and nobler life than before."

"Good," said Wang. "Let us go and see them living it."

Accordingly they went into the street called the street of Unfinished Ambitions, where the first thing they saw was a man wearing the canque, with a torturer guarding him.

"Recite the crime of this scoundrel," said the Emperor, stopping.

"Scourge of the Unrighteous," replied the torturer, "this ruffian's offense is very serious indeed. He made use of a blasphemous expression (which I should be sorry to repeat) concerning the Committee of Wise Men "

"Infamous!" remarked the Emperor. "Nevertheless, if there are any extenuating circumstances I shall be glad to hear them. Begin."

"Oh, Merciful Master of All Creation," began the man, "once I was a scholar in your University. One day the Committee of Wise Men came to bring Enlightenment and Radiant Joy into our life. They called before them the assembly of teachers and ask, "What is needed to bring Enlightenment and Joy to your University?"

After a moment's hesitation, a voice replied, "Let there be a dining place where we may eat without our scholars rabbleous presence."

"A section of the library, where none but the worthiest of ourselves may partake of the fruits of wisdom," replied another. "For are we not the teachers? Have we not reached our ultimate, and should we not be so honored?"

"True," cried yet another. "As we are the dispensers of knowledge, let our privacy be attended by scribes who can tend to ur needs. Provide us palaces within these walls where we may rest in Enlightenment and Radiant Joy. A place to escape these pestilent seekers of knowledge."

It was then the Committee of Wise Men decreed, Those who dispense the knowledge rightly deserve the homage of all. Let their temples be built. Restrict their libraries. Give them the homage they so deserve."

I humbly prostrated myself at their feet and inquired as to the merit of wisdom. "Is not the needs of the uneducated to be filled, before the luxuries of the few? Give us books. Do not destroy what we have Lend us the wisdom of Confucius, and consider us as equals."

"Away." Cried the Committee of Wise Men. "Your Enlightenment and Radiant Joy shall come through your teachers. Demand not, for you shall receive as is given."

"It was then I committed my unpardonable sin, Oh, Prince of the Universe."

"What was the expression you used?" asked the Emperor curiously.

The man told him, and Go Long and the torturer shuddered.

"Admirable," said Wang. "Go Long, have that expression inscribed in letters of Gold in every government office at once. Release the prisoner, decapitate the Wise Men, and proclaim to the Empire that Wang will contemplate the universe no more."

Deletion

Dear Editor:

In the article "Florida Fast Becoming Center For Motion Picture Industry" the writer forgot to mention Winter Haven Florida, home of Cypress Gardens. Already more than 400 news-reels and 75 movie shorts have been filmed here. Also part of Twentieth Century Fox' Moon Over Miami and M-G-M's On An Island With You were made here. Because of this Cypress Garden has been nicknamed "a camera man's paradise."

In the article mentioned above the writer mentioned the movie Easy to Love, staring Esther Williams. The writer said, "Many underwater scene, which the movie Williams' Easy to Love are made in Marineland, Florida." After seeing one of the first showings last year I can remember only one underwaeter scene, which the movie says was shot in New York City.

Easy to Love was the story of Cypress Gardens, and was filmed almost entirely at beautiful Cypress Gardens. It is the story of Dick Pope, owner of the gardens, and was centered around the life of an Aqua-Maid, played by Esther Williams.

In this movie starring with Esther Williams was Van Johnson, Cyd Charisse, and Tony Martin. All of whom lived in privately owned homes during their six months stay in Winter Haven.

Scenes for this movie include a number of local girls modeling and skiing. Additional scenes were filmed in downtown with several at the Haven Hotel. Other scenes were taken in the many canals about the city, and others were shot at the home of Dick Pope.

Sincerely,
LOUIS TILLERY

Seminole Cagers Score Easy Wins

The Sportlight

by Dave Kennedy
Flambeau Sports Editor

TATUM TO STAY AT MARYLAND . . . A note concerning one of FSU's foes next season - - - Seems it was rumored that Jim Tatum, present Coach of the Nation's number one team, the Maryland Terps, was seeking to establish headquarters elsewhere. Tatum reportedly was "sowing his oats," in the vicinity of North Carolina State, to the tune of $20,000 and a ten year contract. However, Tatum told reporters, "There is absolutely nothing to the report that I told North Carolina State my terms would be $20,000 and a ten year contract. I do not believe in contracts. I am perfectly happy at Maryland. Somebody has the wrong ideas about this meeting. I am here in an advisory capacity only—to help State set up a good athletic organization."

SEMINOLES TO BE STRONG IN '54 . . . Being the busy little man that he is, Coach Tom Nugent hasn't let any moss gather under his feet. Up to date he has signed at least five of the most sought-after football players in the South. Most recent to add their John Doe's to Grant-in-aid Scholarships are two of Virginia's All-Staters, John Haywood and Leon Bryant. Nugent also announced today the signing of five North Carolina athletes. They are Ends Pete Overton and Jimmy Overton, and Jimmy Trado of Henderson, Guard Jimmy Trulove of Sanford, Halfback Steve Dean of Oxford Orphanage and Quarterback Sam Walden of Tabor City. This group added to the contingent of boys announced the other day should make the Seminoles a mighty Tribe for 1954. This team will undoubtedly give any opponent they face in the coming season a great fight and will prove beyond a doubt that they belong in the ranks of the "Major College" teams. Plaudits go to Coach Nugent and his fine staff for their undying efforts.

Jack Egan

TENNIS AROUND THE CORNER . . With the coming of the new semester, Coach Pitchford's boys begin practice at the varsity courts. Headed by last year's Captain Jack Egan, the team opens against Miami. Other returnees include Hal Schaus, Dave Kennedy, Tom Cundy, Joe Harris, Tom Morgan, and Don Wyly. Returning to FSU after a two year stretch in the Army is Shelby Creagh, who will prove a great asset to Pitchford and Company.

BASEBALL RECEIVES A BLOW . . . The baseball team will take to the field this season without the services of Billy Campbell, veteran second baseman, who was forced to withdraw from school. The Seminoles will sorely miss this boy. However, they should have a good season as usual.

ONE-PLATOON HERE TO STAY?? The NCAA football rules committee, after hearing some 40 proposals to liberalize the limited substitution rule, turned them all down in their final session of meetings at Sarasota.

Their closing statement was, "We were not willing to make any changes until we have had another year of experience with it."

ALL-AMERICAN REID PATTERSON and the University of Georgia invaded the Tribe Gym last nite and proceeded to cause Coach "Bim" Stults to push to use all of his strategy that he could devise for the crucial meet. Patterson set new records in the S.E.C. last season when he won the 50 and 100 yard free style events. In the Southern Regional A.A.U. meet he won the 150 yard Junior National backstroke event. To top off his season's great exhibition of swimming he went on to win the N.C.A.A. 100 yard free style events. Georgia placed second in the S.E.C. last year thus you can see the reason for Stults' concern.

EDITOR'S NOTE: IT IS RUMORED THAT ONE OF FSU'S GREATEST ATHLETES WILL RETIRE, OOPS, PARDON ME, GRADUATE THIS COMING FEBRUARY. THIS BOY? IS A STRIKINGLY GOOD LOOKING AND WEALTHY MEMBER OF SAID COLLEGE. HE APPARENTLY SEEMS TO HAVE ACCESS TO THE SIDE DOOR OF THE PI PHI SORORITY HOUSE. WITHOUT A DOUBT, ALL MUST HAVE BY NOW RECOGNIZED THIS PERSONALITY AS THE ONE AND ONLY BOB ADAMS.

Intramurals

By ART KENNERLY

In the painful, rushed lull before the death of this semester, the athletes of the dormitory and fraternity intramural leagues are wrestling around in an effort to knock the leaders out of their top positions. For the last couple of days all eyes have been cocked toward the all-important intramural track meet next Tuesday and Wednesday.

All of the fraternities and eight teams from the dormitories are planning to take a crack at the exhausting track title. The five dormitory entrants: Senior Hall, the Penthouse Gang of West Hall, the Methodist Student House, the Rebels of West Hall, and the first, fifth, and seventh floors of Florida Hall.

Loaded with valuable pointage that will help in the grab for the athletic-supremacy trophy, the intramural track meet is always a free-for-all endurance test and sore muscle producer.

At present ATO is the leader on the golf course. Sigma Nu and Lambda Chi will club the golf ball around to see who will meet the ATO's for the winnership.

In tennis doubles, the two first-class teams of SAE and Lambda Chi played yesterday. The winner of this match will swing against the top gun of the losers' bracket.

The losers' bracket of the tennis doubles play includes Kappa Sig, KA, Sigma Chi, and ATO. The winner of the Kappa Sig-Sigma Chi Tennis tilt will meet the winner of the KA-ATO match to determine who is to be in line for a shot at the big-dog winner of the winners' bracket.

Starting Monday, the dormitories will start golfing and tennising. And at the beginning of next semester, basketball will be haunting the fraternities and the dormitories.

VALENTINES . . . Hallmark, Gibson, Norcross

VALENTINES
VALENTIN
VALENT
VALEN
VAL

We have hundreds of beautiful and colorful cards for you to choose from. They are conveniently displayed and are itemized as to Sister, Mother, Brother, Humor, Etc. Prepare to laugh when you look through all the humorous cards. Come on in and look around—we also have Val. sealed gift wrappings.

208 S. ADAMS

SPECIALS AT
M & N CAFE

TUESDAY—SOUTHERN FRIED CHICKEN
French Fries; Chefs Salad; Dessert and Beverage
75c

SUNDAY—WONDERFUL FILET MIGNON
French Fries; Chefs Salad;
$1.00

FRIDAY
SEAFOOD PLATTER

Delicious Shrimp, Trout, Scallops, Deviled Crab, Hush Puppies, French Fries, Salad.

$1.00

Rollins Tampa, Fla. Southern, F. S. U. Victims

KEN KINGERY
Flambeau Sports Editor

THE Florida State Seminole basketball players apparently recovered from injuries or anyway the shock of their slight mishap a week ago today. The cagers seemingly gained their mental and physical capacity back as they set Rollins, Tampa, and Florida Southern down in that order.

This was a very tiring road trip, not to mention other incidents. They ended up playing three straight nights and winning all three.

F.S.U. 82 ROLLINS 72

ROLLINS COLLEGE jumped to a 13-point lead in the opening minutes, but proved inconsistent in the remainder of the game, to allow the sharpshooting Seminoles a commanding lead which was never bettered.

The Seminole star defensive forward, DICK ARTMEIER, showed great skill as a scoring forward by racking up 22 points, and taking scoring honors for the evening. Dick kept the Rollins team on their toes by sinking long set shots. This opened their defense to allow Wernke, Oler, and Benson to score 15, 13, and 13 points respectively under the basket.

TOM DELLAHAN, who is getting to play more ball now, since his brilliant relief work in previous games was second high scorer with 16 points.

Bob Machardy, Rollin's all-state guard was the standout on the Tar team. He racked up 14 points, one point ahead of his teammate, PanTuzzi, another guard.

F.S.U. 73 TAMPA 63

THE SEMINOLES kept their command of the Tampa Spartans last Tuesday night as they returned to old form and breezed to a 73-63 victory after a nip and tuck opening quarter.

The lead changed hands six times in the early moments, but F.S.U. finally moved ahead in the fading minutes of the first period and stayed there for the rest of the game.

HAM WERNKE sparked the F.S.U. offensive by tallying 27 points.

DICK ARTMEIER proved effective again for the second straight night to add 20 points to the victory.

Marty Brooks, scoring sensation for the Spartans, led the Tampans with 15 points. Marty was hampered by an eye injury in the last quarter, and was removed from the game.

Other standouts were "ever improving" Rick Benson and "Deadly" Jim Oler.

F.S.U. 98 FL. SOUTHERN 80

ENDING up a very successful road trip, the Seminoles of Florida State set a torrid offensive drive to beat the Florida Southern team 98-80. The Seminole team scored more than usual, while the Southern team ripped the cords for quite a sum.

At the first quarter the score was tied 21-21, which was a lot of scoring for the usually cold Seminoles in the first few minutes.

HAM WERNKE again led the Seminole team to an impressive win by scoring 27 points. His teammate, JIMMY OLER, racked up a very fine 18 points.

The F.S.U. cagers will travel to Deland Saturday to face the powerful team and then will return here for the second game with Rollins Tuesday.

VOLLEYBALL COACH

Florida State University's head volleyball coach, William T. ("Bill") Odeneal, is the author of the feature article in the current January issue of the Journal for Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Odeneal's three-page look at the increasing popularity of volleyball as a recreational and competitive sport is entitled "Volleyball—Major Sports."

An action picture of the FSU volleyball team appears on the cover of the magazine, which has a wide circulation among the nation's coaches and health and recreation directors.

Tom Burst

Football Gains Five Georgians

By KEN KINGERY
Flambeau Sports Editor

The Florida State Seminole football team took another lift Tuesday when they signed five South Georgia College stars including all-southern high school star Gene Cox. Gene, former all-southern fullback for Lake City several years ago, will help the Seminoles ground attack a lot.

All five of these boys will graduate from South Georgia College this spring, and will be ready for spring practice. For once, these transfer students will be eligible for competition this fall as juniors.

The other four are Don Gardiner, 185, 6-2 end from Atlanta, Charles Kicklighter, 220, 6-3 teckle from Savannah, Ga., Ashton Cassidy, 170, 6-1 quarterback from Statesboro, Ga., Pete Cox, 165, back from Albany, Ga.

Pete Cox, however, has been inducted into the Army and the Seminoles will have to wait awhile on him.

Coach Tom Nugent, head football coach, has pronounced himself "extremely pleased" over the acquisition of these five players.

Volleyballers Enter USIV Tournament

By KEN KINGERY
Flambeau Sports Editoe

On February 26 and 27 the Florida State Volleyball team will enter the United States Intercollegiate Volleyball Tournament. This is the firts annual Southeastern meet, and it will be held at Davidson College.

Davidson Athletic Director Paul K. Scott said several days ago that nine entries have already been accepted. They will include Florida State, Davidson, Elon, South Carolina, Erskine, Alabama State, High Point and Lynchburg, Virginia, College. The University of North Carolina may enter a team, Scott said.

N.C. State Changes Date To Oct. 16th

By KEN KINGERY
Flambeau Sports Editor

FLORIDA STATE University's football team moved over and made room for University of Maryland today, in a roundabout way.

Athletic Director Howard Danford announced that this year's game with North Carolina State at Raleigh has been shifted from Nov. 6 to Oct. 16 at the request of Wolfpack officials.

THE N. C. STATE people explained they have a chance to play Maryland on Nov. 6, the only date the Terrapins have open. Maryland's attraction as a "money game" made the arrangement very desirable to N. C. State.

FSU's consent to the change was given with some reluctance. The Seminoles had planned to leave Oct. 16 date permanently open as a rest between engagements with Villanova and Auburn.

NET RESULT was further toughening of FSU's already rugged opening slate. One of the primary reasons Seminole officials agreed to the change is that they want to maintain good relationships with their opponents, though there were other, more complicated reasons.

FSU Enlists Virginia Stars For Football

By KEN KINGERY
Flambeau Sports Editor

TWO OF Virginia's most sought after high school football stars, teammates Leon Bryant and Johnny Haywood of South Norfolk High, have signed grant-in-aid scholarships at Florida State University.

Bryant, a 5-11, 195 pound guard and Haywood, a 6-1, 190 pound fullback, both were named to the Virginia All-State squad. These two boys were instrumental in leading South Norfolk to a winning season last fall.

"WE ARE highly enthused in getting these boys," Coach Tom Nugent said. "They will be two of our outstanding players."

Assistant Coach Winston Siegfried, who watched Bryant and Haywood in action last season also had plenty of praise for the pair.

NUGENT also announced the signing of five North Carolina athletes to football grand-in-aids. They are ends Pete Overton and Jimmy Trado of Henderson, guard Jimmy Trulove of Sanford, halfback Steve Dean of Oxford Orphanage and quarterback Sam Walden of Tabor City.

Stults Well Pleased With Work Of Boys

TWO MAINSTAYS OF FSU'S SWIMMING SQUAD
Backstroker George Cooper (left), Freestyler Ernie Stock

COACH BIM STULTS, very well liked swimming coach here at F.S.U., when asked in a recent interview how his team would do this season replied, "Well, I don't know, we're losing our best sprinter soon" (he was speaking of Baruch, outstanding and only returning letterman in the sprints this year). "Even though we have one of the smallest squads we've ever had, it is the hardest working squad."

Coach Stults was born in Toledo, Ohio on a frosty morn in 1908. He received his schooling or masters at Ohio State University. His past record shows for itself. For one, Fremont High in Ohio won 5 out of 7 state championships, and never placed lower than second. Then he was an assistant coach at Ohio State when they won the AAU and Collegiate Championships.

THE TEAM has been working very hard since practice started. People just don't realize the work those boys do. More than half of the boys work somewhere on Campus for their Scholarships.

All these boys are hard workers and are anxious to do their best. Try to find time to see your swimming team in the next meet; you'll never regret it.

FAIVER'S DRIVE-IN "TALLAHASSEE'S LARGEST AND FINEST"

BAR-B-QUE CHICKEN or RIBS
Hickory Smoked — Charcoal Cooked
½ Chicken or Large Order Ribs Plus French Fries, 2 Rolls, Celery & Pickle
$1.25

SHRIMP or OYSTERS
and French Fries, 2 Rolls, Celery & Pickle
$1.00

JUMBO HAMBURGERS
"WORLD'S LARGEST"
Mustard & Pickle 45c

OPEN DAILY
8 A. M. - 12 Midnight
Delivery Service Call
Sat. 2-1860 Sun.

FOOT LONG HOT DOGS
"WORLD'S LONGEST"
25c

½ GOLDEN BROWN FRIED CHICKEN
Plus French Fries, 2 Rolls, Celery & Pickle
$1.25

CHICKEN GIZZARDS
8 TO ORDER AND FRENCH FRIES
2 Rolls, Celery & Pickle
$1.00

CHICKEN IN A BASKET
¼ Fry, French Fries, Rolls, Pickle and Celery
75c

RESTRING WITH ASHAWAY
BRAIDED RACKET STRING

STANDS OUT in play
• Harder Smashes
• Better Cut and Spin

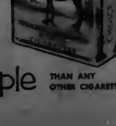
STANDS UP in your racket
• Moisture Immune
• Lasting Liveliness

COSTS LESS than gut
APPROX. STRINGING COST:
Pro-Fected Braid....$6.00
Multi-Ply Braid......$5.00

At tennis shops and sporting goods stores.

How the stars got started...

Sauter-Finegan Orchestra
AMERICA'S NEWEST, MOST COLORFUL DANCE BAND



Eddie Sauter and Bill Finegan, leaders of America's most excitingly-different dance band, met in 1939 as struggling young arrangers. Ed had studied trumpet and drum at college, worked up to arranging for "name" bands; Bill had studied in Paris, won a spot with Tommy Dorsey. After 13 years of pooling new ideas, they formed their own band. It clicked!

Bill Finegan says: "WITH ME, CAMELS CLICKED INSTANTLY. THE FLAVOR'S HOW I LIKE IT, THE MILDNESS JUST RIGHT."

Eddie Sauter says: "I'VE TRIED MANY BRANDS, BUT I GET MOST PLEASURE FROM CAMELS. YOU WILL, TOO!"

START SMOKING CAMELS YOURSELF! Smoke only Camels for 30 days and find out why Camels are first in mildness, flavor and popularity! See how much pure pleasure a cigarette can give you!

For Mildness and Flavor

Camels agree with more people THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE!

Parade Of Progress Featured In Doak S. Campbell Stadium

General Motors' program, Parade of Progress, 201 under way yesterday in Doak S. Campbell stadium. Running from 2 to 10 daily the program will continue through Sunday, January 17.

The Parade of Progress is a scientific educational road show telling how research and engineering have benefited the country, and how they offer even greater advances for the future.

The Parade carries its own special "big top." the Aerodome. The 200 foot one of its type in the world, the "Dome" is suspended from above by aluminum alloy girders rather than propped up from within by poles.

In an openins speech of welcome to the spectators at a special previous showing Wednesday night, John E. Ryan, director of the Parade, explained that even though their caravan carries no wares to sell, they are striving to show in a non-commercial manner tell the dramatic story of American progress in cities and towns in all parts of America.

"One of the most important objectives of the program is to seek to interest youth in making careers in the technical professions, and to look ahead to and dream of the many wonderful discoveries and inventions that are to be made and perfected by the fresh and eager young minds," stated Mr. Ryan.

Yesterday's audience heard the scratchy reception of the radio of 1925, as compared to modern high fidelity micro-wave transmission. They also saw an old fried on a stove that never got hot and a tiny motor run on sunshine.

Most of the Parade's outside or "court" exhibitions are contained in 10 futuristic, Streamlined 33 foot long streamlined coaches have 16 foot side panels that open to form stages and exhibit agas

Harlow H. Curtice, President of General Motors, has announced that GM plans to keep the parade an the road indefinitely, and that it will visit cities throughout the United States.

The admission is free and the show is non-commercial in nature.

LOSE A CLASS RING?

Lose a 1928 class ring? One has been found.

Miss Jane Adams, director of the Lonmire building, has one in her office on the first floor of the buildina. The owner may reclaim the ring by identifyina it.

Church News

CANTERBURY CLUB

Last Sunday Ann and Russ Hall, the Nominating Committee submitted its nomination slate to the Canterbury Club. The proposed officers of the 1954-55 Vestry are as follows: John Cooper, President; Helen Whitemore Vice President; Nancy Warfield, Secretary; Spencer Roads, Treasurer; Jack Hopkins, Duke Woodhall, Ann Wall and John Wave, Vestrymen-at-Large. Also elected were members of the Canterbury Club which will be held this Sunday night. nomination, will be accepted from the floor, and the election of the 1954-55 Vestry. Elections are open to everyone.

There will be a celebration of Holy Communion at 8 a.m. and morning prayer at 11:00 a.m. on Sunday, January 17.

CANTERBURY CLUB supper will be held Sunday evening at 5:00. The meeting of the Canterbury Club will be held directly after supper.

The Study Group will meet Wednesday night, January 20, from 7:45 to 9:00 p.m. at Russ Hall. The topic for discussion is Holy Matrimony. All students and faculty are invited to attend

CHRIS YOUNG, President of the Russ Hall Vestry, announced that plans are now under way for the annual Retreat at Camp Flastacovo The Retreat will take place the weekend of February 5-7. Young stresses the point to all students, said Letitia Silver, publicity director.

SATURDAY NIGHT this week will be couples night with guests invited to bring dates to the service, which will be aeain at 7:30 p.m. The choir meets at 7:15 p.m in the rear of the church auditorium.

All Episcopal students are reminded of the Greater Council meeting which will be held this Saturday, January 17 at 9:00 p.m at the FSU House

LAST WEEKEND at the meeting of the state MSU Executive Council in Gainesville, the Governor of FSU was chosen to represent the Florida BSU as a student summer missionary to Nassau and Cora Mae Rickey was selected as seminar leader for the State Revival team

HILLEL

Members of Hillel Foundation and anyone else interested will hear Dr. Joseph Golden of the Florida State University School of Social Welfare speak on Intermarriage Sunday night at Temple Israel at 8.

Members of Hillel Foundation here are sponsoring the talk and noted refreshments will be served during the evening. Everyone is invited to hear Dr Golden.

News Briefs

AUTHORS LECTURE

Drs. Clark Ace Allen and Marshall R. Colberg, both of the Department of Economics here will attend the Southern District Sales Conference of the McGraw-Hill Book Company, Edgewater Park, Miss., beginning Sunday.

The meeting will be held at the Edgewater Gulf Hotel, a resort said. Purpose of the trip, according to Economics Department notations, is to familiarize sales representatives with the nature of the new textbook written in part by the two professors. Also collaborators in the book was Dr. J. M. Buchanan.

ECONOMICS CONVENTION

Dr. James M. Buchanan and Dr. Marshall R. Colberg of the Florida State University Department of Economics will attend the conference of the Southern Regional Education Board in Atlanta January 21-22. "Highways in Southern Development" is the title of next Friday' meeting.

Dr. Colberg will represent FSU. Dr. Buchanan is assistant Director of the conference. The conference will also be attended by University and highway department officials from all over the southern region.

Discussion is expected to center around the role of universities in highway economics training and research.

GRADUATES TO REHEARSE

Seniors will graduate on Saturday, January 30 in the Ballwanner Room, according to a recent announcement by Charles McDaniels, one of the Marshals of the graduating class.

McDaniels urges everyone to attend the rehearsal, which will be 9:30 a.m. Saturday morning in the Suwanee Room. Each Senior will receive five graduation tickets there.

It was revealed by McDaniels that tassel for the differents colors are available at the FSU University Bookstore and that invitations will be available there after January 26.

ACE MEETS

The Student Branch of ACE will meet with the Tallahassee Chapter of ACE on Monday, January 18 at 3:33 p.m. at Kate Sullivan School.

Transportation will be available at the Domitory Reception Library before 3:15. The FSU Student Branch, which is presently in the process, urges all members to attend. Refreshments will be served.

OFFICERS SOUGHT

A representative from the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, Macon, Georgia, will be on the FSU campus January 18 and 19 to see qualified persons, both male and female, about commissions in the Navy and Naval Reserve

College graduates or those presently enrolled, who will complete their work to get a degree in the next six months are eligible to apply. Those who are obligated to serve military duty under current selective service regulations will have to apply for the officer candidate programs which require from two to four months of schooling before the applicaria receive commissions.

While on the campus the team will be located at the University Bookstore. More information will be available there.

K. D. P. INITIATES

Forty-seven new initiates of Kappa Delta Phi, honorary education honorary at Florida State University, were announced by fraternity officials yesterday.

Space permitting, the names will appear in the next issue of The Florida Flambeau.

FLAME HONORED

Roy Flynn, director of public relations at FSU, has been granted membership in the National Association of Educational Broadcasters, the board of directors announced recently.

Flynn's duties include active direction of the FSU station which is expected to go on the air within the next 2 months.

LIBRARY HOURS DUE JAN. 27

All students, including graduate students must return library books on or before Wednesday, January 27. An additional charge of 25c per book will be made for each book subsequently returned since since library records must be cleared at the close of the semester.

BOOK EXCHANGE

Students Book Exchange hours for trading and selling used textbooks have been announced by members of Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity here.

Starting January 25:
8 to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday.
February 1, 2, 3rd:
8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Anyone wishing to sell books is urged to bring them with him as a great demand is expected following registration.

Gaster Accuses

(Continued from Page 1)

charges and counter-charges following Gaster's speech.

Sen. Wayne Terry, speaking in favor of the amendment, stated that it would be an accurate way of keeping a good record of what goes on and noted that it could facilitate a permanent record.

Senator Shaw quickly moved to amend the resolution to permit only the Senate to hear the recorded rewritten. Details, he moved to amend the resolution by striking "the Flambeau and other interested parties" from line to whom the tapes should be available.

"Why give the benefit of hearing them to someone else?" he asked. "It would be a great deal more to our advantage to have them available only to members of the Senate."

Shaw was intimated that if the Senate had a means of proving that somethine had or had not been said no mistakes would be made in Senate reports in the Flambeau.

Arguing against this amendment, Sen. Sales protested that the purpose of the resolution was to keep anyone from making a misquote, not to provide for a correction. Sen. Hall later introduced a further amendment which was passed after heated discussion, and now makes the tapes available to the Flambeau and other interested parties with Senate approval.

Senator Chris Young attempted a substitute amendment which would have allowed any one Senator to invite an outsider to hear a tape His motion failed on a majority vote

Senator Bradford had previously introduced a substitute amendment which would have allowed outsiders to hear the tape in the presence of at least one Senator. Her motion failed for lack of a second.

Before Sen. Hall's amendment was passed, Chief Justice Jackson, who was present as an observer, sent a suggestive note to the chair, expressing the belief that such reservation of the tape would be unconstitutional.

Sen. Shaw protested the announcement of Jackson's opinion, charging that the Chief Justice a member of the judicial branch, had no power to give opinions before the Senate Jackson later replied that his opinion was merely only for Lucy and was not intended to be read before the Senate.

Other business conducted by the Senate included the introduction of a Sheetin, by Coyle Moore of a bill to provide for recitation of the elements of each election and advertising posters

The first reading of the bill was accepted

After a complaint by Sen. Hall that the number of Senate Signals and Student Directories printed was insufficient, the Organizations Committee was assigned to the matter.

Early in the meeting Sen. Hall moved that the Senate approve a voluntary insurance program for the university and that Mr. Rod Shaw, business manager, be asked to find a suitable policy and submit it to the Senate for final approval. Her motion was passed unanimously

The Senate cancelled the meeting of January 26, due to final examinations.

Calendar Of Events

TODAY

4:00 p.m. English Coffee Hour, Robert Shane presenting a dramatized version of "Manfred," by Byron. Westminster House

4:00 p.m. Chemistry Seminar. Dr. R. A. Dutcher "I. of Florida's, "Milestones in Vitamin Research", 306 Science.

4:00 p.m. Physical Sciences Seminar. Dr. Hubert B. Goodrich (National Research Foundation), "Development of Pan Pigmentation." 308 History

5:00 p.m. Dairy Club Meeting. Senate Room

5:00 p.m. Intramural Finals Basketball.

6:00-7:30 p.m. After dinner coffee and open house at Wesley Foundation.

7:00 p.m. Tri-State Speech Festival through Saturday, 401 Lonmire.

7:30 p.m. PBLA Club. Business meeting and program. Trophy Room, Student Union.

8:00 p.m. Symphony Orchestra, Robert Sedore, conductor Opperman Hall.

8:30 p.m. Cavalier - Collilon Informal Dance. Music by Ravens. Student Center.

8:30 p.m. Faculty Square Dance. Lonmire Lonmire

SATURDAY, JAN. 16

Opening of exhibition, "The Fine Floridians—15,000 Years of Florida History" University Museum, Dante Hall Building.

1:00 - 5:30 p.m. Panhellenic Workshop, Lonmire Auditorium

2:00 p.m. Florida A. A. U. Gymnastics team

8:00-12:00 p.m. Military Ball Suwannee Room.

8:15 p.m. Senior Recital: Jane Parkman, soprano. Joanne Poe accompanist Music Hall.

SUNDAY, JAN. 17

4:30 p.m. Gold Key initiation. Small Lounge, Lonmire

8:00 p.m. Hillel Foundation Dr. Golden will speak on Intermarriage. Temple Israel

OTHER STUDENT HOUSES REGULAR MEETINGS.

MONDAY, JAN. 18

7:00 Chapter meetings

8:00 Dunbar Club. Mrs. Jane Sawyer, "Interior Decorating." Home of Mrs. P. R. Hunter, 1535 Victory

9:30 "F" Club meeting. Student Lounge, Longmire.

Dissatisfied

(Continued from Page 2)

Halford, Charles Conlter, Nancy Graham, Patty Martin, Renie Hall, Gordon Gaster, Bob Bertin, Lillian Avis, Jimmy Sales, James U. McCuley, Jane Harper, Chris Young, Carolyn Close.

Editor's note: While "checking my facts," I find that it takes one-sixth, rather than one-fifth, of Congress to approve a roll-call vote. Also, I suggest the author check the difference between "infer" and "imply," between "slander" and

I'm sorry you could not take the editorial as it was intended.

Students To Edit Capital Newspaper

Professional students of the Florida State University School of Journalism, under the leadership of Dr. Sidney Kobre, are writing and editing Tallahassee's Capital Labor News this month.

In an article of the News, Dr Kobre announced that though the Cooperation of Searle Haddyn, editor and James E. Dye, publisher of the weekly publication, the students themselves are being given an opportunity to engage in practical newspaper work and to see "how the wheels go round."

Kobre said that the students have been training for this work during the past year at the journalism school. They have covered all newspaper beats in Tallahassee, writing live stories about city hall, county building, Federal building or Post Office, and the Courts. They have also issued a weekly laboratory newspaper, "The Tallahassee Star," at the school.

Dr. Kobre, in his article, said, "This issue is an example of the workshop cooperation which can be shown by local institutions toward Florida State University departments and schools. What benefits and strengthens the university and its students helps Tallahassee."

The students who are producting this month's CAPITAL LABOR NEWS are members of Dr. Kobre's classes in REPORTING PUBLIC AFFAIRS and INTERPRETING THE NEWS.

4-H Club Meets; Name Is Changed

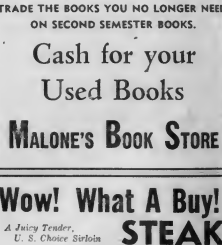
The University 4-H Club is now the Florida State University Collegiate 4-H Club The name was changed at the January 12th business and work meeting held on West Campus.

Also discussed was the Rural Youth Conference and the Florida State Fair in Tampa

The Youth conference will be held March 26th and 27th, on the FSU campus The State Fair is planned for the 12th through the 14th in February

At Tampa, the members have been asked to present a 15 minue program on the morning of 4-H Day at the fair.

The Home Demonstration staff has asked the club members interested to working at the 4-H course in June to consider staying the week between graduation and the course.



FSU's TV Has Kilenyi As Guest

Featured tomorrow as guests the week on Florida State University's TV show. "At the Piano" will be the internationally famous composer, Professor Edward Kilenyi.

Opening the program with Kilenyi's Etudes, Professor Kilenyi will include Signature Etudes and Revolutionary Etudes. Among the Studies will be Caprice Viennois von Dohnanyi and Rhapsody by Liast.

Professor Kilenyi is now recovering in Tall-hassee while testing music at FSU and making frequent appearances throughout the nation.

I . . . to help you look your actions in a somewhat different light, but I'm sure you've found your tongue. The Flambeau is always willing to print signed letters.

Meet Old Friends Make New Ones AT THE AMBER HOUSE

"Food That's Fine"

Remember—
SAVE MONEY—
TRADE THE BOOKS YOU NO LONGER NEED ON SECOND SEMESTER BOOKS.
Cash for your Used Books
MALONE'S BOOK STORE

Wow! What A Buy!
A Juicy Tender, U. S. Choice Sirloin
STEAK
Served With 2 Vegetables drink and dessert . . .
What Dessert!
The Smoothest Piece of Pie You Ever Threw Your Lips Over!
90c
at CAPITAL CAFE
314 S. MONROE TALLAHASSEE

CASH! For Your Used Text Books
Whether Used Here or Not Old Editions
New Editions
UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE
"IN THE STUDENT CENTER"

Where Can You Get Such Specials All Week But At...

TUES:
Juicy Broiled
Filet Mignon
French Fries
Chef's Salad
$1.00

THURS:
Spaghetti with Cheese
Salad
Lemon Cream Pie
.95

FRI:
Whole Broiled
Lobster
Drawn Butter
Chef's Salad
$1.25

SAT:
Golden Fried
Half Chicken
French Fries
$1.00

SUN:
Delicious
Roast Turkey
Dressing
Cranberries
$1.00

Exchange Teacher
(Continued from Page 1)
have been through so many wars and have seen the communist supression, of late live cultureby.

Her only criticism of the American way of life was the racial segregation problem. She feels there should be no difference in the colored and the white people. However she did not feel that this problem could be solved in a short time, but that it would take years

"I have enjoyed my visit to your country and would like to come back in a few years," said the dark-haired Italian, who is leaving America the last of February for her homeland. "America is such a progressive nation that there are sure to be many changes."

Dr. A W. Ziegler, Associate Professor of Botany, who is FSU Chairmen of General Business conducted her Tallahassee program.

WANTED Roommate for man FSU graduate—or adult for room Kitchen privileges in private home—766 N. Woodward St.— across from campus.

The Silver Slipper is now open Sundays, at 12 Noon . . .
featuring:
Regular Luncheons every day . . . .
—•—
Our Week-end Special . . .
Regular $3 Filet Mignon
Juicy and broiled to perfection
with:
Onion Rings
French Fries
Mushrooms
Garlic Bread
and
Chef's Salad
Silver Slipper
now $1.95

Turner's
SALE OF MEN'S Nunn Bush & Edgerton
SHOES
Now In Progress
Nunn Bush Shoes
Black
Brown
AA to D
7 to 12
Values to $22.95
$14.90
Edgerton Shoes
Black
Brown
A to D
6½ to 12
Values to $14.95
$9.90
MEN! This Sale will last for a short time only—So, plan to attend right away and save many dollars on your shoe needs for now and later.

On Saturday Night It's the FLORIDAN
You'll Enjoy Dancing to the Superlative
Quintones
Every Saturday Night at the Floridan Hotel
Downtown Tallahassee

Glenn photographers remind you . . . .
You'll Soon Need Identification Pictures of Yourself and Glenn Has a Special Offer To Make
You can have a portrait sitting and 6 proofs to choose from; Glenn will make up the one you choose into 12 wallet-size I-D portraits, carefully retauched, PLUS an 8x10 black and white finished portrait in a falder
FOR ONLY $8.95
Call Glenn Photography
3-0115 for appointment
P.S.: You Can Still Get 3 Unretouched I-D Size Photos for $2

SKINNER GIVES TWO READINGS —See This Page

The Florida Flambeau

ALLEN FORECASTS ECONOMIC OUTLOOK —See Page 2

Vol. XI. No. 23 | PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA | Tuesday, January 19, 1934

Educator Speaks At Annual Fete; Subject Is Law

Harvard Scholar Is Main Speaker At Arts-Science Dinner

Arthur E. Sutherland of Harvard Law School will speak tomorrow at Florida State University, as announced today by Dr. Charles S. Davis, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

The University's "Manners and the Country's Laws" will be Sutherland's subject in addressing the fourth annual PSU Arts and Sciences banquet at 6:45 p.m. tomorrow in the Governor Room.

Sutherland will also address the annual PS political science banquet at 5 p.m. today on "The Supreme Court's Unfinished Business" in Longmire Auditorium, and all public is invited to the lecture.

Dr. Marian Irish, head of the Political Science Department and chairman of the banquet committee, said the university's action is sponsored by faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences.

The Harvard law professor has attained outstanding success in his field both in his home state, New York, and in the U. S. government. After being admitted to the New York State Bar he became secretary to the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States Supreme Court. He was a delegate of the N. Y. State Constitutional Convention in 1918. In 1919 he associated with the American Commission that settled Near East and Asia Minor.

Sutherland has a distinguished Rhodes scholar record from 1941 to 1945 when he was discharged a colonel, the rank he had held in the Organized Reserve Corps. During his service he received the Legion of Merit with cluster.

He is a member of the American Law Institute, and both the Harvard and N. Y. State Bar Associations. Sutherland was a professor of law at Cornell University from 1945-1930. He has served on the Harvard law faculty since 1930.

News Briefs

The films dealing with atomic energy will be shown tomorrow at 4 p.m. in the auditorium of Sage Hall, 124 Science Building, under sponsorship of the Department of Physics. This was announced by Dr. Rowland Johnson who obtained the films from the Atomic Energy Commission.

The films, Operation Doorstep and Atomic Power, are open to the public. They show the latest developments and effects on houses and buildings in Nevada and the Pacific Proving Grounds. Also shown will be operation of the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, the development center of the AEC.

Dr. Arthur E. Sutherland of Harvard University Law School, "Manners, Customs and the Country's Laws" at the annual Arts and Sciences banquet tomorrow night at 6:45 in the Suwannee Room.

The annual university-wide election is sponsored by the faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences. Serving on the committee are Dr. James Richardson, Dr. Bert Dainer, Edmund Lewis-Dural, Dr. Sam Meyers, Dr. Wilbur Beckham, Miss Elizabeth Thompson and Dr. Marian Irish, chairman.

Cooper To Conduct TV Show Tonight at 7 in Ft. Lauderdale

Dr. Irvin Cooper, professor in the Florida State School of Music, will conduct a series of two television shows in Ft. Lauderdale tonight. The show will feature boys and girls of the Naval Air Base School and teachers of Broward and Dade Counties.

The program, to be called "Broward County Musical Achievement Series," will last from 7 to 7:30 p.m. over WIOD. Dr. Cooper said that in the first time of 15 minutes the boys and girls will be taught a song employing four staging units and will finish the half hour singing as a four-part choral chorus.

He plans to show viewers some new ideas about the scope and limitations of the chalked voice, various stages of the changing. Cooper stated "I will also demonstrate my methods of discovering boys in whom this change has taken place and their integration with other traditionally known vocal types."

Tonight's program will offer a type of actual teaching methods that are usually employed by Florida General Extension Division course, "Elementary School Music Orientation and Administration," taught by Dr. Cooper to the Florida State School of Music.

The program is described by Cooper as "An extra class period to give a demonstration of actual teaching methods a week during the school semester for which she receives credit toward a university degree."

Miss Ruth Cornell, supervisor of music in the public schools of Tallahassee, and Miss Ruth Richardson, head of the public schools at McColl University, is also president of the International Peabody Association of Music Clubs, demonstrated his technique to music students in the Florida State School of Music during 1930 about 400,000 teenage students.

This year the entire seventh, eighth and ninth grades of the Tallahassee Junior High School, numbered by Cooper as voice students. They have been invited to show approximately 8,000 of the nations top music educators Dr. Cooper's new concepts in junior high school choral technique.

The demonstration will occur at the Atlantic District National Conference in Chicago, March 26 through 31.

Cornelia Otis Skinner Performs on Series

Cornelia Otis Skinner.

Cornelia Otis Skinner, prominent American actress and writer, will appear as a feature of Wilde's "Lady Windermere's the Florida State University Artist Series tomorrow night and Thursday night, January 20 and 21 at 8:15 in the auditorium of the Leon High School.

Included in her program will be the presentation at three of the plays which first won her fame. THE WIVES OF HENRY VIII, THE LOVES OF CHARLES II, and MADAME OF THE HUDSON. This last play was written by Miss Skinner.

Students may obtain tickets by presenting their activity ticket number 21 at the University Bookstore. Tickets for the public, faculty, and administration went on sale today at the bookstore for $2 each.

In addition to her success as a monologist, Miss Skinner has attained a recent years appeared in several stage productions in which she had a long and successful New York and road enasement in "Lilium Delhasse," "The Search for Signatures," "Wing Wind" and also enjoyed a delightful success in New York and another on a West Coast tour as the star in a revival of Oscar Wilde's "Lady Windermere's Fan."

Miss Skinner has spent some time in Hollywood assisting in the filming of "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," the book which she wrote in collaboration with Emily Kimbrough. While in Hollywood she appeared in "The Unsuited" with Ray Milland and Gail Russell.

She has also extended her talents to the world of radio and television; she wrote the scripts and co-starred with Roland Young in a national radio series, "William and Mary." She has also become one of TV's most popular stars.

Her latest literary accomplishment is "Family Circle," the story of her distinguished theatrical parents, Otis Skinner and Maude Durbin. Four of her most popular humorous books have been collected in one volume under the title, "That's Me All Over." Also, her amusing pieces for the New Yorker have been collected in two books, "Soapsuds Are Sweet" and "Excuse It, Please," according to the Assistant Registrar.

Instances where a student takes one course and then finds that he has failed the first part of it, said Price, will present a big problem, but the Registrar's Office will just have to face it. "It will take two days of grading to record grades as out and they should be completed by Wednesday, Feb. 14 for 1 and 5. Classes start Wednesday."

Price added that Florida Statisters should go ahead and register unless they are definitely told for a course, see your academic dean for a new schedule form and have the change approved. Changes will be allowed for one week after classes start. The last day is Feb. 10."

Explaining further the examination schedule, Price revealed that the time for which exams are given depends largely on the enrollment of the class or group taking the test. Groups exams are held first on the schedule. "Departments will have the privilege of over 150 for small group exams and exceed 150 for large group exams, all of which are listed on the first page of the schedule."

He continued that students who have more than three exams on one day should come to the Registrar's Office and see him so that changes may be arranged. "When this happens we usually try to change the time of the third examination on the schedule to the conflict hours. If there is already one scheduled for this time we give permission for the student to confer with the instructor to work out a time convenient to the two, he said.

"One of the most common problems that arises in connection with the examinations is students desiring early examinations. Instructors are allowed to take early exams."

Price said that in case an emergency arises and a student cannot take the exam as scheduled see his dean and make arrangements.

(Continued on Page 4)

Film Features FSU Mermaids In Florida Premiere At State

The Florida premiere showing of "Water Swim phony," a Grantland Rice Sportlight film, featuring the Florida State Tarpon Club plays at the State Theatre in Tallahassee, January 20, 21, 22, and 23.

The movie of the Tarpon Club was filmed last April at Wakulla Springs and Cypress Gardens, and shows the activities of club in 17 Seminole maidens.

Appearing in the film-short are the Misses Betty Lou Wharton, Lou Shirne, Dollie Lewis, Ann Terrell, Jan Richlaser, Anita Richardson, Hopie Fuller, Nancy Nancy Black, and Pat Comer.

Also Marion Meade, Sue Hamilton, Sylvia Cloter, Cherie' King, Margaret Peters and Jo Cavanaugh.

PSU's mermaids perform many formations destined for a watery ballet to the music of the PSU Symphony. Two of the synchronized swimming stunts are the swim-fests called planking and the back walk-over.

Other water formations which require much practice to perfect, and clock-like timing to perform many stunts which have highlighted past swim productions on the campus.

The water wheel, an elaborate star shaped pyramid, a split pattern, and revolving pyramid are among their feats of formation to the PSU Symphony.

The clear waters of Cypress Gardens and Wakulla Springs form the background of the film. Second Grantland-Rice Sportlight featuring PSU activities. Released a short time ago was the one on the PSU circus.

Members of the Tarpon Club will be honored guests at the Florida Theatre on one of the showings.

The 1934 Tarpon products will be a special event scheduled for February 15-20. Titled "Hello Neptune," the annual event will feature 13 sparkling numbers with 200 Tarpon members and 21 "minnows" performing.

ROTC Announces Permanent Rank For 49 Students

Permanent rank for non-commissioned officers of the Florida State University Air Force ROTC corps was announced by Lt. Colonel Paul W. Campbell, professor of air science and tactics.

Appointments are called following several months of competition among the cadet officers and noted in the program.

First Sergeants with the rank of first master sergeant, include Robert L. Berle, Dewey C. Bryant, William C. Staneh, William Wateen and Curtis J. Lewis.

Cadet technical sergeants, in the position of flight sergeants with the rank of master sergeant, include Kenneth D. Bliss, Thomas E. Perkins, Dean C. Pohl, Joe Harris, Raymond Lee Bryant and David Colliss.

Pauline R. Hollis, George C Martin, Richard D. Deland, G. Donn Teel, James H. Tanuis, Jr., Joseph Graham, Joseph Orcasani, Erich R. Weber, Harold Wilson, Lawrence Hall and G. Woodhull.

Staff sergeant rank, for cadets who had the position of squad sergeant, has been awarded to Robert Lee Bell, Dean D. Burkett, Richard N. Bittner, Charles J. Cunningham, Robert A. Crevasse, Charles F. Pallin, Raymond Kicklitter, Frederick B. Jaicks, Harvey E. Hampton, James E. Jones, Robert H. Leslie, Charles E. Mann, Richard A. Magoon, Robert Brown, Jay F. Perkins, Byron M. Powell, Donald E. Smith, Ronald C. Kaelieff, Robert F. Fahy, J. T. Williams, Jr., Edward B. Thies, Richard N. Wagner, Clyde R. Walker and Anthony J. Gaddon.

Gaddon. heavers have been awarded the rank of corporal and through 81.

Price Comments On Final Grades, Exam Schedules

Students shouldn't worry about conflicts in final examination schedules or registering for the wrong hour, knowing they have failed another, according to H. Hoyt Price, Assistant Registrar. He declared that the Registrar's Office follows established procedure in both cases.

Price stated that "If two examinations are scheduled for the same time, the one coming first on the exam schedule is given at the stated time and the conflicting one is given later." The time set for, such instances is Friday, January 26 between 1 and 5 p.m. according to the Assistant Registrar.

Martin-Vegge Dies; Funeral Services Held

Funeral services were conducted yesterday for Dr. George Boyd Martin-Vegge, assistant professor of history at Florida State University. A victim of the nearly-always-fatal Hodgkin's Disease, Dr. Martin-Vegge passed away at the Veteran's Hospital, Coral Gables, where he has been under treatment for the past month.

Born in Miami June 14, 1922 and graduated from the University of Miami in 1943, he received a Master of Arts degree from Florida State University in 1946. After a year of teaching in the history department there, he left in 1948, for Southern University of Texas where he received a Doctor of Philosophy degree in 1951. The following Fall, he returned to Florida State as an instructor in history.

Serving in the Navy during World War II, Dr. Martin-Vegge retained his association through membership in the local reserve unit. He was the Executive Officer, Naval Reserve, Electronics Division, 4-13, under Lt. Commander Kelley Hunt.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Mary Jayne Medlin, a son, George Boyd, Jr., his parents and a student body who feel his absence greatly.

Myers Selected As '54 Sponsor By Military Group

Miss Sally Myers, a sophomore at Florida State University, was recently selected from a group of a dozen candidates by the officers of the local military Officers' Club during 1954.

The Officers' Club was organized last year at FSU, being made up from the ROTC and AFROTC cadet officers. Last October this group elected a queen to reign over them in the ball, military society, scabbard and blade.

Miss Myers, the summer the Officers' Club in various military so- see his dean and make arrange-

(Continued on Page 4)

FSU Graduate Students Reach Halfway Point at Mexico City

By TOM HALL

Robin Mills and Morgan Smith, FSU graduate students in anthropology, have reached Mexico City, Mexico. This is the news that Mills and Smith had been made to travel southward on an motorcycle and expedition to the borders of Central America.

After long months of preparation, the two FSU students assistance of Dr. Hale G. Smith, head of FSU's Department of Anthropology, the expedition has it's last reached the half-way point. Armed with letters of introduction from the governor of Florida, Dr. Smith received his letter of the Florida State University Panama Expedition which did archaeological and ethnobotanical research during the summer of 1952. He also was the member of a research botanical and archaeological expedition to Cuba.

Their purpose on this trip is to gather material for graduate study in anthropology and archaeology for exhibits at FSU. Major emphasis in research in the Department of Anthropology and Archaeology is being centered in the Circum-Caribbean area which includes Florida, the West Indies, Central America and the Caribbean coast of South America.

The general geographical location of their route is the Pan-American Highway. This will be altered if local conditions prohibit. Mills, however, does not make the entire excursion over land with no recourse to commercial transportation such as rail, truck or boat. This does not preclude barrors or native canoes.

Their archaeological research will be carried out chiefly through the proposed trip to go. The work will consist of surveying and photographing the areas of prehistoric burial mounds, surface collections of pottery, bone and other artifacts will be made. The ethnobotanical work will be in the contacts with, and the study of, contemporary primitive peoples of the lands they use for medicine, fiber and food.

Mills and Smith spent several days in Victoria, Mexico, where they made preliminary collections of data on native herbs and plants. Many of these pictures have already been sent to FSU by Mills and as the excursion progresses will be sent back.

Upon arrival in Mexico City they joined, for five days, a Mexican Archaeological Society field trip to Mount Tlalac where they explored excavations of the Aztec pyramids.

Their tentative plans are to leave Mexico City about the middle of January and travel to Oaxaca where they will remain approximately a month. Mexico City College field trip on location there. Mills and Smith have set no special date for their arrival in Panama, but hope to reach it by early spring.

Major sponsor for the expedition is the Wenner-Gren Foundation for Anthropological Research, Inc. of New York City who has supplied them with two Ex-

(Continued on Page 4)

"What Does He Think We Are — Legislators?"

Museum Exhibition Held Over; Four Age Sequences on Display

The story of the high points of civilization down through a million years, the "When, Where, and Why: 1,000,000 Years of Inventions" exhibition has been held over at the University Museum until March 10.

Dr. Hale G. Smith, director of the museum said that the exhibition may receive a write-up in a national publication.

The exhibit was developed by the Department of Anthropology and Archaeology and is a self-explanatory display concerning the energy and development of civilization.

Featured are mechanical and electrical devices that illustrate how man has advanced from the stone age. The exhibits manipulates these machines by buttons and the developments may be readily seen.

Also pointed out by the exhibit is how the amount of energy harnessed and put to work rates culture of an age as high or low, and that the more power harnessed by a civilization, the higher its culture rating. The exhibit shows culture in this light by means of seven dioramas, the ages, with the present age consequently rated as the most developed.

The entire exhibit shows four main sequences with continuity apparent because a large part of the culture of an age is passed on to the next. The periods presented can be roughly classified as "stone", "agricultural," "steam" and "atomic."

Smith has explained the exhibit by the following way. "In the beginning man used approximately one-twentieth of one horsepower. Energy then is depended on the sun for his main source of energy — for growing crops and for heat. Advancing to the modern age, man utilized petroleum and consequently at present time, where we are piping the use of atomic energy. In about 2000 years all of our fissioning material will be utilized and we will then have to turn the sun as our source of energy."

His research into this subject has been exhausted as a source of energy, it will be necessary to return to the sun's energy, and that will call for new methods to harness energy since by then stored solar energy, coal, oil and gas will be completely exhausted.

The display is developed along scientific lines but is designed to be comprehensible to the average viewer.

Economics Book By Three Teachers Upcoming in April

A book dealing with economics from the citizen approach, written by three FSU professors, will be released by McGraw-Hill Publishing Company in April.

Entitled Economics for Public Policy, written by Drs. Clark Allen, James Buchanan and Edwin Mansfield, the theory of the economics department, shows how national economic problems affect you as an individual.

Most books this car written in economics have a theoretical background assumption that there is always full employment. This book, however, is concerned with the problem of unemployment which should better prepare the individual to deal with economic problems in a depression.

The book, preferred to by the economics faculty as the "A B C's of Economics" takes a definite stand on many of the issues in an unbiased way, they declared.

Thus, this new book gets the reader's knowledge and also his devastating necessary for a politics minded citizen in economic problems he might face.

Boosters Offer Cash Awards For Art Designs

The opening of an art design competition was announced last week by the Boosters Association, a group of Tallahasseans who are interested in promoting Florida State University.

Cash prizes and defense bonds will be awarded for the design of a new Booster membership card design, and a $25 bond will also be awarded for a Booster slow emblem.

The competition was announced by Mr. Charles Rosenberg, local businessman and president of the Boosters, and Dean Karl G. Kurz, member of the PSU school of music.

Although the basic problems involved in this contest are much the same as those met in any arts education students chiefly, Dean Kerstetter and Professor Karl G. Kurz, Rosenberg, Head of the Department of Art, stressed the fact that the contest is university-wide. Any student is eligible to compete and should send in his or her winning design, they pointed out.

Judging for the contest will be on the basis of suitability, design originality, general appeal and artistic distinction. The deadline for entries is Monday, March 5, at 5 p.m. The winners will be announced in the FLAMBEAU on Tuesday, March 9. For more detailed contest information, see Professor Lewandowski, Department of Art.

COMMITTEE SUGGESTS

The Boosters Association committee has recommended that whenever possible, Florida State University functions and honorees make arrangements to hold their meetings within the new Student Activities Building.

The Longmire Building is for student use but has been overcrowded by groups which could be held in other places, the committee stated. This would leave buildings for organizational use, and do not have other places to meet.

The lounges, which may be reserved for any recognized organization, are for parties and social functions.

Committee Hears Misuse Charges Tomorrow Night

Flambeau Hearing Will Be Aired To General Public

Charges that the Flambeau has been misused by its staff will be aired before the special Student Senate investigating Committee tomorrow evening at 7:30. The committee hearing will be held in the Senate chamber on the second floor of Longmire Building.

Committee chairman Roy Chapman emphasized to a Flambeau reporter yesterday that the hearing will be open to the public. "In the event that too many attend the hearing in the Senate chamber, it will be moved to Longmire Auditorium," he added.

Although the committee has the power to subpoena, Chapman said testimony will be heard on a voluntary basis.

Members of the committee are Senators Jimmy Boone, Phoebe Jackson, Wayne Terry, Joan Tavvel, Jimmy Joanne, and Charis Coulter.

Both sides will be allowed to present their views, stated Chapman yesterday.

Chapman presumed that Senator Cecil Combs will cite the case against the Flambeau Gasparilla Festival Edition charges at last Tuesday's Senate meeting, when he accused the Flambeau staff of failure to promotes made for it at the start of the issue.

He intimated that the Florida Flambeau has not avoided its responsibilities upon individuals and conditions," that the Flambeau has been used to attack "another campus publication "with a vitriolic" and that it has been guilty of distorting news presentation.

Flambeau Editor Bruce Galphin has denied the charges. In an editorial issue after the debate had heard Custer's accusations Galphin answered the charges that "the charges presented to the committee are more or less the result of personalities, so that the committee's time will be wasted."

Answering the charges of "news distortion," News Editor Al Brown stated, "The Flambeau interprets . . . (sic) as a newspaper, not a publication." Head of the Department of Art, referred to a question of facts and how the public and the press interpret them.

A question of subpoena was brought up at the original meeting, in that a motion to set up the committee, Senator Terry moved the committee have the power to subpoena, and, if findings merit, to set up impeachment proceedings. Chapman at first ruled the question whether the committee body had the right to subpoena. An unofficial opinion came from Dick Bailey, Student Body attorney of the University Honor Court. Jackson said that the Senate could subpoena.

The issue has attracted statewide attention through newspapers in Sunday columns by several campus correspondents.

DELTASIG BEARS

Don Marveon, owner of Marveon's Department Store will be the speaker at the Delta Sigma Pi, National Business Fraternity, meeting on Wednesday night in the Governor's Room of the Union Center at 8 p.m.

He will discuss organizing the retail business. Everyone is invited and refreshments will be served.

University Singers Will Present First Winter Concert Tomorrow

By MARY ELIZABETH KING

University Singers will present their first formal winter concert of 1864 tomorrow night in the Opperama Music Hall at 8:15. The group is composed of 40 voices and a three-day tour of Panama City, Pensacola, and Bloxnatown.

Dr. Irvin Cooper, director of exceptional interest to all students. There is always full employment which is an exotic combination of "Sweet Adeline" and "Father Abraham."

"For the first time we are featuring a number of soloists," said Dr. Roosevelt, director. "The policy before has been to feature the entire group. Now we are calling attention to outstanding individual talent."

Selections from Georges Gershwin's Porgy and Bess will include "I Got Plenty of Nothing," "Summertime," with soloist Miss Ella Hayden, and "It Ain't Necessarily So," with Bobby Hicks and Barbara Foster as soloists. Claude Rhea and Pat Masters will be soloists for "Benedictus."

Other numbers on the varied program will be Handil's 18th century sacred numbers "O Admirabile Commercium," and his "Ascendit Deus." four Gypsy songs by Brahms, "Gypsies" by Faure, Six Chansons by Paul Hindemith, "Brazilian Fantasy" by Villa-Lobos, and "Down Bel Beamin" with Eugene McSwain soloist.

Among the folk songs and Negro spirituals will be "La Os, King Jesus" with Wendell Barthell, soloist; "Honor, Honor" with Miss Ella Hayden, soloist; "Oh, What A Beautiful City" with Robert Fisher soloist; and "I Don't Care Where" with Gail Jackson and Ed Cargill as soloists.

David Ward-Steinman, freshman accompanist, wrote a special arrangement of Johnny Comes Marching Home" that was introduced for the first time in Florida by University Singers.

The group, organized five years ago, has made a name for itself and received good revenue by local newspapers on their recently

(Continued on Page 4)

Allen Sees Small Decline In '54 National Prosperity

Editor's note: The following remarks are excerpts from a speech by Dr. Clark L. Allen, chairman of the economics department, before the Tallahassee Chamber of Commerce on January 18. We have omitted most of the review of last year and concentrate on predictions for 1954.

Instead of the slump annually predicted since the close of World War II, 1953 was the best business year in American history. With 5% of the world's population we produced 65% of the world's manufactured goods . . . More people were employed than ever before and few (1½ million) were unemployed . . . The gross national product was up 5% over 1952, while the cost of living was up only 1%.

In 1953 for the first time more than half of American families lived in their own homes. Farm prices dropped 10% and farm income 7% (to $13 billion) — but it was the seventh best year in history for farmers.

(The problems we face are:)

Parity price supports of farm products must be modified . . . Arrangements for trading with Europe must be worked out . . . Competition will be fierce in 1954 . . .

The Administration has already indicated that it regards economic stability as more important than a balanced budget. This points to an important shift in Republican thinking. If a serious downward trend threatened, the government would undertake a public works program at federal, state and local levels.

PREDICTIONS

1. Federal Budget. Outlays for defense and mutual security, atomic energy and other national security programs are expected to remain at very high levels. Many items of expenditure, such as interest on the public debt and veterans' compensation, are relatively uncontrollable under existing law, and others are difficult to reduce. Budget receipts, on the other hand, are likely to decline because of tax cuts and moderate decline in corporate and personal incomes. The federal deficit will increase materially.

2. Industrial Production. The best guess is that total industrial production will decline 6 or 7% from the record high of 1953, which would put it at about the 1952 level.

3. Commodity Prices. The BLS index of wholesale prices declined moderately from 111.6 in 1952 to 110.0 in 1953. A continuation of the decline to an average of about 108.0 may be expected for 1954.

4. Cost of Living. The BLS index of consumers' prices rose slightly in 1953 to an average of 114.3 from 113.5 in 1952. This index will probably average between 113.0 and 114.0 in 1954 — about the same as 1952.

5. Employment. The number of workers employed in 1954 will probably be only slightly less than in 1953—probably about 61.5 million — with the number of unemployed probably averaging almost 2.5 million. Unemployment may rise to a level of 3.5 million, and even this would not be serious. But in any event the increase in unemployment will be sufficient to alarm many people and may be responsible for unwise legislation.

6. Labor Disputes, Strikes. Some wage rates will increase and demands for fringe benefits will expand in 1954 in spite of an increase in unemployment. An increase in the number of strikes and the number of man-days lost as result of strikes is almost certain in 1954.

7. Retail Trade. Sales in 1954 are projected at about $170 billion, the second highest level in our history.

8. Farm Income. Cash farm income, including government payments, declined to about $31.0 billions in 1953 from $32.6 billions in 1952. A further decline of about a billion dollars, to $30 billion, seems to be a good guess for 1954.

9. Personal Consumption Expenditures. National income, which was $308 billion in 1953, will probably fall to about $300 billion in 1954. Personal consumption expenditures should amount to about $228.0 billion in 1954, which is about the same as $231 billion in 1953, but well in excess of the previous record of $218.1 billion in 1952.

10. Construction. Private and public construction expenditures in 1953 totaled about $34.6 billion, the seventh successive year of record-breaking outlays. Such expenditures will probably fall off slightly in 1954 — to about $33.5 billion.

11. Plant and Equipment Outlays. Plant and equipment outlays by business, which totaled $26.5 billion in 1953, will probably decline to 26.0 billion in 1954.

12. Population. The average population for 1953 is estimated at 159.5 millions, and for 1954 is 162.1 millions. The per cannia national income in 1953 was about $1,931, and for 1954 will be about $1,851.

13. Government Debt. By the end of 1954 it will be about $285 billion. This means, of course, that the statutory debt limitation of $275 billion will have to be raised.

14. Savings by individuals. Liquid assets of individuals (currency, demand deposits, time deposits, savings and loan shares, and U. S. government securities) reached a total of about $200.0 billion in 1953. This will likely increase to about $205.0 billion by the close of 1954.

15. Bond and Stock Yields. Yields on bonds are likely to be less in 1954.

"Come In, Ezra — How's The Weather Out There?"

Dear Mama Seminole

I thinkum that the weather is getting very dangerous here on the reservation. Georgie saw students indoors practis dressing at bird while walking broadside into tree. When spring fever arrives in January examinations haven't a chance.

Dr. Randel finds the purpose of a University is to thoroughly confuse students. Is it possible that he is referring to those "crazy mixed up palefaces" in the Senate and Flambeau? I sometimes believe that both groups think that the freedom they possess is something born on a silver platter and not something that must be earned. When a press organization is stupid enough to take part in asinine arguments typical of a certain Senate floor, it should set nipped in the bud.

Of course the Senate is about as free of administrative control as Custer was of the Sioux's cabbies or a left wing Republican in the sail mines of Siberia, so how should they be expected to know how to respect such a rare commodity. A recent Georgia incident demonstrated the real position of a college newspaper so there is no true knowledge of freedom there.

Here in sunny Alabama, that sone both sides will be able to see over the wall of personal bitterness and reconcile the obvious, student co-operation on the otter side.

Speaking of freedom, Mama, I have nothing but pity for the poor vandals who persist in extinguishing the lights that serve them, thus shrouding the various buildings in deathly darkness. The people who love freedom will guard it closely even at the expense of the freedom of those who abuse it.

In all this talk of freedom I am reminded of the words you gave me as I left the home reservation. In this land, liberty, a possession of all, is only the right to earn it. Freedom, a possession of few.

Love all,
Georgi Seminole.

Letter to Editor

Solution

Dear Flambeau:

As Freshmen Women Senators we are amused and amazed in the conflict between the Flambeau staff and the University Senate All year long the conflict has been raging, but most students do not realize it until the Senate Investigation and all the talk about the will call vote Many things have been said on both sides that have been misinterpreted

It is high time that someone woke up and started being "big about his of this. It seems to us that no one has thought of applying Christian attitudes. Father, God is left out of politics—there seems to be no place for Him in the two-party-system. The Golden Rule has changed to "live and let live" evil lumbo him as he does unto you." One vets revenge at all costs Brotherhood seems to have been forsaken Some people are so ridiculously stupid that they will not even speak to one another We think it is time that both sides quit wasting time by smearing one another, and get down to their enemies and talents for something more constructive But part of the "Sermon on the Mount" can express our ideas much better than we can.

"Ye have heard that it hath been said Thou shalt love thy neighbor, and hate thine enemy.

"But I say unto you, Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you.

"For if ye love them which love you, what reward have ye? Do not even the publicans the same?

"And if ye salute your brethren only, what do ye more than others? Do not even the publicans so?

"Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect."

If both sides tried this—the relations between the Student Government and the University newspaper would be much improved.

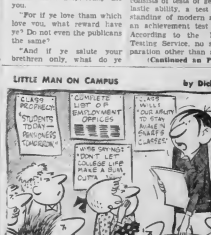
Sincerely,
Jane Soper
Carolyn Cline
Jo Jones

Herblock

Dear Editor,

Congrats on the decision to publish Herblock cartoons. Those outstanding works will be a real contribution to the Flambeau.

Sincerely,
JAMES B. PLEEK



Graduate Program Formed In Public Communication

Candidates for admission to medical school in the fall of 1955 are advised to take the Medical College Admission Test in May, according to the Association of American Medical Colleges. Although there will be another test in November, candidates taking the May test will be able to furnish scores to institutions by the time the medical colleges begin their selection.

Candidates may take the MCAT on Saturday, May 8, 1954, at one of the 309 testing places in all parts of the country. The MCAT consists of tests of general scholastic ability, a test on understanding of modern society, and an achievement test in science. According to the Educational Testing Service, no special preparation other than a review of

(Continued on Page 4)

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

"Don't select one of the professors for the commencement speaker—We've

On The Good, Bad About Longmire

By GENE LAWLER

Dropping my customarily-affected first person plural and likewise partially discarding my inhibitions, I am dedicating this column to Longmire. I speak not of the building but of a living people. Depending upon definition, Longmire consists of 50 or 100 or more students whose university lives are bound up with student government and publications. They are the meeting-doubters, the office-seekers, the committee-servers, the honor-getters, and the convivery-drinkers.

Reports indicate that Longmire is in bad shape. Those who used to greet each other in normal tones are either not speaking at all or screaming and loud knifing contests," says one observer "Even love is perhaps exaggerated, but to claim that all is radiant joy would be unrealistic. What might have been a friendly disagreement over brief student politics has developed into a whipped zeal and a hateful concoons. For what it's worth, I say:

Sincerity: The Senate is guilty of a lack of sincerity. With a couple unfortunate exceptions, Senate debate has always been dignified. Several Senators, like Jackson and Joanos, seem to be the very personification of honesty.

It is unfortunate, however, that as TV Smith says, "Sincerity is the cheapest of political virtues." Sometimes sincerity is done by misguidance that inadequately or inaccurately legislate on sincerity alone.

Sense of Duty: Rather spotty here, not the group, but individuals are outstanding. No will dispute the dependability of committee chairmen like Bullis and Halford. It goes without saying, however, that a few could stand a stiff poke in the conscience.

Ability: Understandably, little more unevenly than Sincerity. Debate at times exhibits a spectacular lack of thought. In contrast is the utter concentration of Solos and the cool interjections of Bullis and Jones.

Sense of Purpose: Not entirely lacking, this quality is mostly latent. Bidets-aired tempting details and faced with actuality as they present. Senate has largely "ignored its function as the number-one student policy-making group.

When Senate has actually legislated it has usually been for the purpose of improving its own rules or smoothing out friction procedural. Only it that meetings are held and officers elected properly is precisely the same as balancing a magnificent machine, keeping it well-oiled and in good adjustment, and then not putting it to some use.

It is for this reason that at the end of the year a proposal—informed of all the Senate must scratch his head and say, "Gee, just what did it accomplish anyway?"

But then, it is impossible to expect miracles from Senate. Human behavior invariably follows the principle of least effort, and it is far simpler not to hold meetings, seek offices, serve on committees, do research and make controversies. Far too many, that is the essence of Longmire.

ETCETERA ETCHINGS

'Winged Victory' Had Biggest Cast

By DAVID DREIS

The Forty-fourth Street Theater was packed on the night of November 20, 1943. The city of New York was jammed as usual with people readying themselves for a journey the following week. The stores were lining up Old Nicks for the Christmas season, but at the theater the audience was just settling down to the usual performance. The curtain went up and the first showing was on of Winged Victory" by Moss Hart.

It wasn't a spectacular show as far as stars were concerned. A name on the long list brought hardly a reception because of the fact that it was night-club bill. Most of the players were in show-business before this date, but the fight was still to shine.

The eighty-six players consisting primarily of men of the Army Air Forces and a few women, Sgt. Kay Hilsdale, Cpl. Julie primed experts. For they were. One was that their "chance" and with a war for them to tangle, they couldn't take up on it. They knew many people would forget them. People who could help them. The only thing is that many people didn't forget. They didn't forget the kind of talent that was there with low-priced talent. Today, getting the acting talent together would cost in the millions.

From this play came people in all forms of show-business . . . for the war isn't that long. Acting parts for Lon Clayter, Phyllis Averon (Don and Phyllis were married after this), Pvt. Mel Ruick, Pvt. Lee Kevin McCarthy, Pvt. Elliot Sullivan, Pvt. Peter Lind Hayes and Pfc. Edmund O'Brien, Pvt. Alan Baxter, Pvt. Grant Richards, S-Sgt. Danny Schaal, Cpl. Gary Merrill, Sgt. George Reeves (He plays Superman on video), Sgt. Zeke Manners, Pfc. Ray McDonald, Sgt. Victor Young, Sgt. Ray Middleton, Sen. Pvt. William Marshall, Pvt. George Farrell, Pvt. Karl Malden, S Sgt. Peter Lind Hayes, Pvt. Lee J. Cobb and Pvt. Michael Dunne

Many will not recognize all these names for their results, but all areas of show business. What is really sad is that the big-time batting average of any Broadway show.

Also ADDED: Looking over the stock of quotes for the year which gave pleasure of yocks.

Clifton Webb, explaining why he didn't give comic strips: "I'm the same reason Rembrandt didn't give comic strips."

Dick Haymes on his marriage to Rita Hayworth: We don't think alike, we just want the same things. The only difference is that I'm a man and she's a woman."

Ed Wynn, in hunting license: "It's a good thing I'm not in season."

Phil Silvers on seeing a model home: "Sure, what time does she get off work?"

Variety: Wonderful about brevity. It's a strange substance. "It's a good thing I'm not in season."

Phil Silvers on seeing a model home: "Sure, what time does she get off work?"

Variety: Wonderful about brevity. It's a strange substance. "It's a good thing you have it, you've lost it.

THE FLAY-LANCE

Let's Look To Facts For A Change!

By BOB RICE

In the game of "knock-knock," or "I've got a skeleton-in-the-closet-lock," it is indeed gratifying to know that there are individuals who that can still maintain their sense of balance.

Politics, personalities, and thwarted ambitions, have become the scapegoat for blame for many individuals who have long been respected members of this community. The matter of fair play, unprejudiced consideration of others, the right of individual thought, and the honesty of the individual seem to have been relegated to a back position. In the present campaign, the overcoming of insulted (and real) insults, and "I-told-you-so's."

After watching the knocks, and counter-knocks, that have taken place I have come to the conclusion that certain facts have been overlooked that should be considered. A great deal has been said, and can, about raising the ability and leadership of John Buchanan. For this subject I would like to make the following personal observations: First, John has been a good, progressive, and has been mis-interpreted. The improved format of the paper, the wider coverage of the news, the new features, to mention Herblock's cartoons, many, have been an addition to campus life that has been lacking for granted. His brilliant editorials have caused much criticism, especially from people who should have done well to honestly review the situation and seek improvement where it was needed.

The opinion that editorial comment, no matter how badly needed, should be restricted to the editorial page, rather than the front page, is one of a shrinking many. The Flambeau differs from normal newspapers in the sense that it is not served and operated by one publisher, who dictates the style and policy to be employed. It is a University newspaper, with all students, university personnel represented. In my estimation, Mr. Dalphin realizes that the has given space to criticism, both worthy and ridiculous, and has not raised a censoring hand to anyone, with any comment.

On the other hand, the fact that personal interpretations are made, and that the reporting and onto the front page is a debatable point. Personally, I don't think the university is going to collapse because of it. I have been neglected, originated by Mr. Dalphin. If it has happened it has happened every time since the paper began, to some extent or other, and will be with us for all of the days to come. I do believe it should be criticized when it is not, and I have made to correct it when it does. Being a student newspaper, the student body has a right to expect both sides of all facts to be given, regardless of personal feelings.

This constant barrage of knocks is another example of personal enmities, and the violent reactions on each and every aspect of merit proposed on the campus, is a disgrace to the university, the student body, and every individual concerned. If the student government, the newspaper, the magazine, and each individual concerned, will take a comprehensive attitude toward this campus, it is within our united capabilities and attempt to leave something substantial behind, that when there would be something left to show we were people of substance when the years have past.

If all the energy put into "I am so," this university was concentrated into an honest striving for improvement, it would soon discover the key to happiness, success, and economic upturn. Let's hope we wake up while we still can.

The Florida Flambeau

BRUCE GALPHIN — EDITOR

AL PIERCE, news editor — BOB FOLSOM, managing editor

Feature Editor ..... Jayleen Robertson
Sports Editors ..... Ken Kingery, Dave Kennedy
Campus Editor ..... Gene Lamsfield
Copy Editors ..... Dick Victory, Sylvia Parrish
Rewrite Editors ..... Oscar Johnson, Martin Dickman
Photographic Editor ..... Joe Caldwell
Art Consultant ..... Malcolm Adams
Junior Staff ..... Dot Thomasson, Pat Dehn, Betty Elizabeth Knox, Tom Hall, Berry Bishop, Lona Cochran, Barbara Ann Kennerly, Bob Taylor

NANCY LOWE — BUSINESS MGR.
MIRIAM SAWYER, advertising manager

Business Staff ..... Mary Wagon, Virginia Vaughn, Alice Lang, Joe Caldwell

Exchange Editor ..... Pat Gibson
Exchange Staff ..... Margaret Dellinger

Advertising solicited by Alpha Delta Sigma and Gamma Alpha Chi.
Distribution arranged for and processed by members of Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity.
The Florida Flambeau, published twice weekly by the Students of Florida State University, Tallahassee, Florida.
The Florida Flambeau is represented nationally by the National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Avenue, New York 17, New York.
Member Associate Collegiate Press, Intercollegiate Press.
Telephone 2-8000, extension 4821 211 213 Longmire Bldg.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT CONFERENCE

Dentzer Explains Necessity Of ISC

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of articles on the Fourth International Student conference, to be held next month in Istanbul, Turkey. The writer, William T. Dentzer, was president of the United States National Student association during 1951-52 and last year worked in Leiden, Netherlands, in the office of the Coordinating Secretariat of National Unions of Students and international student organization. He is now studying law at Yale University.

By WILLIAM T. DENTZER

The International Student conference and the Coordinating Secretariat of National Unions came into existence because of the manifold necessity for international student cooperation and the abject failure of the International Union of Students (IUS) to service this end.

There had been an International Union organization in the 1939's, but it was swept away in the torrents of the Second World War. After the war's end, in 1946, a World Congress of Students met in Prague, Czechoslovakia, and created the IUS in the hope that it could provide common ground for students all over the world.

The many attempts of students in the western world to find some way in which to cooperate with the IUS to bring tribute to their good faith, have achieved a lot and again, representatives of the western national world were yet willing and hoping to reach some reasonable modus vivendi.

But the Second World Student Congress of the IUS in August, 1950, proved to be "the last straw". There were proclaimed, frequent and violent demonstrations for North Korean regime of Kim Il Sung, Russia and medals for the North Korean dictator, and a great denials of speaking rights to several prominent western student leaders. The IUS was at the height of its partisan-political insanity.

To representatives of western national student unions present at this congress it became apparent that "something had to be done" to save some of the IUS if anything was to be accomplished toward promoting international understanding and cooperation among students.

This thinking soon found expression in action when the national unions of Sweden, Norway and Denmark issued a joint invitation for an international student conference to take place at Elsinore, Denmark in December, 1856. The invitation stated specifically that the conference was not to be identified with the purpose of serving as a platform for general political discussion, nor for the formation of a new international student organization.

The Stockholm conference determined a program of practical activities for the year ahead and resolved that this program should be implemented by delegating each national union some responsibility for carrying out one project . . . Thus the Second International Student conference was held in Edinburgh, Scotland in January of 1953. A review of the program spelled out one year ago and of its fulfillment showed little had been accomplished.

It was on the positive basis to insure implementation of the decisions of the annual International Student conference that the Coordinating Secretariat was created as the permanent administrative agency of the conference

The Secretariat's offices were located in Leiden, Netherlands. In five short months, the work in cooperation with national unions resulted in the Third International Student conference — the largest representative international student meeting ever to take place.

The Sportlight

by Dave Kennedy

Flambeau Sports Editor

SEMINOLES OPEN A TWO-GAME SLATE AT HOME . . . The Indian Cagers, after a tour around the State go against Rollins College tonight in an effort to duplicate their previous win over their dangerous Tars. Following Rollins into the Tribe fold will be Florida Southern. With these two games behind them, the State's Cagers travel to Georgia where they meet Mercer, in some again, Coach Kennedy and his Tribe will play the Hurricane from down Miami way. This undoubtedly will be the "game" of the date . . . February 5th, at the West Campus Gym.

MCGINTY'S INCREASE . . According to Bill McGinty's column, FSU's genial Coach, Tom Nugent will add either a coming football player or a peppy cheerleader in the near future . . . Considerate Coach!

FSU SWIMMERS TOP IN THE SOUTH? After reading the results of the Georgia-Miami meet, we are inclined to think so. Georgia fell victim to the University of Miami tankers by a 46-30 score. The Seminoles decisively beat the Bulldogs by a 49-35 score. However the University of Miami with after the Georgia Tankers had been disqualified. The Georgia men won over Florida, and last year's SEC Conference Champs . . . Thus, with the way things are shapes up, it appears we are the best in the South.

"ABILITY AT PIANO KEPT MISS EAGER FROM NAZI DEATH" This was the caption of a recent story in the Miami Herald by Richard Evans. I found it one of the most interesting and unique stories I've read in a long time. I'd like to take a few quotes from it . . .

"Robert Fischer, a boy who was allowed to stay alive in a Germ concentration camp only because he could play the piano, is leading life much more today playing basketball at Miami High school. The Czechoslovakian youth isn't a "big" star for the high-flying Stingarees, but the 16-year-old has overcome mental and physical blocks that would have forced a weaker individual to quit it terrible. Bobbi also had a hand in winning the 300-yard medley relay.

"MY LIFE BECAME one of nearly 22,000 refugees at the age of 4, and The Germans let me live only because I could keep them entertained with my piano playing. Most of the kids were put in the concentration camps because they were useless and a burden."

"A popular high school student has since given up piano playing for his new love — basketball. "I can still pound out a few licks though, however," he said.

ROBERT, BORN in Csacs on June 16, 1929, and later of Vranska was imprisoned during the early days of World War II along with his two grandparents, who later were killed.

After the Fischer family had been reunited (much by chance), a succession of the fathers' who still is unheard from', plans were completed for bringing the three of them to the United States to settle here in New York."

HE ARRIVED in New York on Jan. 27, 1947. After a two-year stay our uncle decided to send us south for our health," continued Robert who weighed just 68 pounds upon landing in the United States after a "diet of potatoes and an occasional piece of meat in camp."

Fischer, now a 150 pounder, at the seventh man on Miami High's starting quintet.

Fischer had never seen nor heard of basketball before coming to Miami. He was a sparkplug on the junior varsity squad at Miami High in his sophomore and juniior years, and made all the squad as a member of his squad next year.

NUGENT WORKING HARDER THAN EVER . . . That man Nugent never seems to stop for a breath. Most recently, news has leaked out that he has been approached by the University of Maryland for a possible game in 1950. Tom Nugent has certainly lived up to his promises to put FSU in the ranks of "Big Time."

Try Quality Dry Cleaners
For Expert
Pressing
Repairing
Altering
Special
1 Day
Service
Pickup or delivery
Call 2-5097 215 W. College

Remember—
SAVE MONEY—
TRADE THE BOOKS YOU NO LONGER NEED ON SECOND SEMESTER BOOKS.
Cash for your Used Books
MALONE'S BOOK STORE

There's Good Food at M & N Cafe!
SPECIALS:
Today Whole Fried Shrimp Plate French Fries Salad 85¢
Tomorrow Juicy Broiled Filet Mignon French Fries Salad $1.00
Fri. Seafood Plate French Fries Salad $1.00
M & N CAFE
E. JEFFERSON ST. TALLAHASSEE

F.S.U. Tankmen Outswim Ga. Team

Six Pool, Two School Records Set By Teams As Seminoles Emerge Victorious Over Ga. Squad

The Seminole swimming team had complete command over the Georgia Bulldogs last Thursday night, as they whipped the star-studded team 49-35 before a packed gymnasium.

George Hirshberger and Ernie Stoke were two of the many standouts. They both racked up new school marks. George is a first semester freshman and already is one of the mainstays of the team. He not only won the 220-yard freestyle, but finished only a hand's length behind All-American Reid Patterson, Georgia star. Hirshberger's unbelievable time was a startling 2 minutes 18 seconds and 6 tenths

Bob Stuke—Ace Diver

Ernie Stoke, star individual medley artist, sprinted the 150-yard course in the very short time of one minute, 36 seconds and 7 tenths. Ernie also had a hand in winning the 300-yard medley relay.

Mike Tacherriti, another freshman, took the 440-yard free-style with no danger except for his swimmate Joel Lurie, who is a sophomore. Mike, who is permitting to be one of the best freestylers in the state, was his first place in college competition. Lurie, who failed to letter by a hair last year, showed his best performance by beating out Georgia's Hal Stotts for second place. Joel has improved greatly from his freshman year, and with the experience from last year, is a better than even bet for next year.

FSU took first and second.

Hal Stotts, breaststroke speedster of Georgia, set a torrid pace against Dick (Toad) Rhoton of Florida State, but he finished only a shoulder ahead as Dick put on a last minute spirit. Stots hurled the pool record in that swim, with the time of 2 minutes, 27 seconds and 4 tenths. Dick although he finished second broke the record too, but since he didn't win, only Stots will get credit for breaking it.

Florida State's Georgy Cooper thriller the jam-packed gym with his endurance special, the 200-yard backstroke win over Terry of Georgia. Georgy, who rets on perfect form and his powerful arms, broke the pool record without being pushed. Cooper's time was 2 minutes, 19 seconds and 3 tenths. Shipley of FSU placed third in the race, crutting beat out on the last turn.

The fans saw what might be the world champion freestyler in the making, when also, Reid Patterson, the lanky Kentucky senior of Georgia, won the 50-yard freestyle, easily, Reid, just 19 years old, is the youngest man carrying the title of State Champion in his senior year of high school, and he has shown he knows his stuff in the water. Reid is a round man on the team, will be leaving next semester. His loss to the team will be greatly felt and will even weaken the team collosibly.

Coach Nugent and Hirshberger were the two Seminoles on Patterson's tail from start to finish in the 100-yard race. The crowd was on it's feet as George Hirshberger almost beat Patterson. It was won by a toughast.

Charlie Crews finished third in the 150-yard medley. Charlie is one of the team's best backstrokers.

Florida State's fancy diver, Stuke, took first place as he turned in his best performance ever. He seemed very calm and his form was perfect. Beaty was third.

Here is the final rundown of all the events and all the times.

SUMMARY

50 yards freestyle 1st Patterson (G); 2 Stokes (F) 3 Beaty (F)	time :23.3
This broke Patterson's own pool record.
150 yard individual medley 1st Reid (F) 2 Rois (G) 3 Crews (F)	time 1:46.3
This broke the old pool and school record.
Fancy Diving (1st Stuke (F) 2. Boyd (G); 3. Beaty (F)
220 yard freestyle 1st Patterson (G); 2. Hirshberger (F) 3. Allen (F)	time :2:11
This also broke his own record.
300 yard backstroke 1st Cooper (F) 2. Terry (G) 3. Shipley (F)	time 3:18.3
This set a new pool record.
300-yard medley relay 1st Florida State (Cooper, Stoke, Beaty)	time 3:07.2
220-yard freestyle 1st Hirshberger (F) 2. Floyd (G) 3. Patterson (G)	time 2:18.4
This set a new school record.
440 yard freestyle relay 1st Georgia (Floyd, Arnold, Murray, Patterson)	time 3:27.2

Finland Has Few Universities, Low Salaries, Says Randall

"Finland's educational system is typical of most Scandinavian countries: there are very few colleges, universities and professors," stated Dr William Randall, professor of English at FSU.

Dr. Randall recently completed an assignment as visiting professor of literature for Obse University in Helsinki, Finland.

"In Finland," he related, "there are only three universities and very few teachers' colleges and technical institutes." He said that in the school a rector or chancellor signifies the head authority. Each school is divided into four sections; law, medicine, physiology and psychology. For nearly all schools there's only one professor, but, if he can afford it, there might be a docent or assistant professor, a visiting teacher, or a high school teacher doing part-time work.

For any position in the college there is a great deal of competition. A faculty international committee chooses the person to fill a vacancy.

Professors have no offices and most student conferences must be held at the professor's home. Teachers have an extremely low salary but this is compensated by the very high prestige and public esteem.

All or nearly all college students are industrious and have a serious outlook on life. The whole responsibility is on the student. Most students are poor and provide for their own welfare. There are no organizations for recreation, counseling, or religious help unless they are student owned and operated. Dorms are sponsored by alumni groups or students themselves.

In the classes, which are entirely lectures, no grades are given, no rolls taken, and no records whatsoever kept by the university. Students have a course books in which a teacher may make comments, but even this isn't compulsory. Anytime is typical of most Scandinavian countries: there are very few colleges, universities and professors," stated Dr William Randall, professor of English at FSU. a student feels that he is ready, he may take an examination for degree.

Students and teachers in Finland have a studious life with poor conditions but they gain full benefit of a well-rounded and specialized education.

Keepsake Diamonds
LeCoultre Watches
PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRS
110 E. Monroe St. Phone 5-1401

Seminole Cagers Fall To Classy Stetson Five

The Florida State Seminoles failed to keep command of the Sunsan Haitars in their second encounter, as they fell very hard by an 82-68 score.

Rich Benson, 6-foot-7-inch center who has been hitting here of late, ripped the cords for 16 points. Early in the third quarter Elvk was called out on fouls. This didn't hurt the Seminoles though, as Gary

Intramurals

By ART KENNERLY

Today is the day of strain for the fraternities and the dormitories. A momentary spotlight is on the track competition today and tomorrow.

THROWING ALL THEIR best and endurance into the track meet, the dormitory men and the Greeks will be trying to gamble likely skill for the points that could add up to possession of the athletic trophy. And some longtime records may go down the drain.

Here are the best that dormitory and fraternity trackers have been able to do since the initial track matches started in 1947:

3 FLORIDA FLAMBEAU Tuesday, January 19, 1954

DORMITORIES

100	Al Woodham	10.5
220	Al Woodham	24.7
440	Bolin	56.7
880	Bolin	2:17.4
Hurdles	Lohmeyer	15.3
Mile	C. Fitzsimmons	5:17.3
Relay	C. Fitzsimmons	1:41.2
High J.	Lohmeyer	5.7½
Broad J.	C. Fitzsimmons	19.2½
200	Relay	1:46.8

FRATERNITIES

100	Carson (TKE)	10.1
220	M. Pitchford (ATO)	24.7
440	M. Pitchford (ATO)	56.9
880	B. Wagner (SN)	2:15.3
Mile	B. Wagner (SN)	5:05.6
Hurdles	Haggerty (PAT)	14.8
Relay	Haggerty (PAT)	46.9
Discus	H. Caffrey (SAE)	128.2
High J.	Ray Thompson (SAE)	5.8½
Broad J.	Ray Thompson (SAE	19.6½
Mile Relay	(ATO)	3:47.1

The records show that the fraternities have the edge on the better timers, distances, and heights. Some folks are wondering what the best from the fraternities and the dormitories could do against each other in a campus-champ contest. Possibilities?

Gym Personalities

By BOB GUTTINO

Numerous inquiries from the Mecca Marauders as to the identity of the Seminole gym team's latest acquisition leaves me no alternative but to here let his history for this issue.

Florida State's latest claim to fame is Rafael Lecuona, one-time Cuban representative for Don Rappa poco stick company.

Rafael is a native of Havana, Cuba, where he first entered gymnastics in 1946 at the Centro de Dependiendej gymnasium. Soon after he started working out Rafael entered competition for the gym and won the Novice Championship of Cuba with a first place win on side horse and parallel bars and third place all-around. Following this, he entered the Central American Games at Columbia during Dec. of 1946, only 11 months after he began his career in gymnastics. In these games Rafael took first on side horse and long horse, second all-around and third high bar.

The following year, 1947, Rafael went to the National AAUs at Dallas, Texas, and placed 6th on the side horse.

In 1948 Rafael was voted best gymnast of Cuba and sent to London as a member of the 1948 Cuban Olympic Team.

1950 Yland Rafael once a sain at the Central American games. This time in Guatemala. Here Rafael won first on parallel bars and high bars and second on long horse and all-around.

In 1951 at the Pan American games in Argentina Rafael placed first on side horse (FSU's Bill Zeetsheim placed second in this event) and second all-around (Bill Zeetsheim first,) second long horse and high bars. This was the first time any of Lecuona and Zeetsheims, who soon became close friends.

In 1952 Rafael was sent to the Olympics at Helsinki, this time as captain of the Cuban Olympic Gymnastic Team. At Helsinki Rafael once more met and competed with Bill Zeetsheim and also became acquainted with Don Holder, co-captain of this year's gymnastic team.

During 1953 at the Chicago AAUs Rafael again met Zeetsheim. This time Bill mentioned the possibility of Rafael attending Florida State. Rafael spent a summer of indecision. Finally, the prospect of a college education won out over the pays stick industry and Rafael arrived to register last September.

In addition to his numerous other awards Rafael was also voted Best Gymnast of Cuba for five consecutive years (1948-53) and for this was presented a special trophy.

BURNS OVER BURNING

(ACP)—"I dislike communism on the extreme," I feel any means directed against its destruction are fair."

And, an anonymous news editor Paul Bacon of the University of Toronto's student newspaper replied in his job. He was protesting the burning in effigy of Sen. Joseph McCarthy by fellow students, who hung and roasted the senator one night with the full support of the paper.

2 MORE WEEKS TILL GRADUATION
Come In Today And Get Those Graduation Presents, Gifts For Anyone and Everyone
Jewelry Sterling Coff Links
Compacts Shaving Kits Jewelry Boxes
Tie Clasps Desk Sets Books
See Our Hundreds Of Valentines Gift Wrap And Trim!
Also Graduation Cards
FOUNTAIN
208 S. Adams

Philosophers Work On Latest Projects

Dr. Edgar H. Henderson, a member of the Philosophy department at Florida State University, is currently at work on his latest project, an advanced study on the philosophy of Kant.

Kant was the philosopher who crystallized Socratic thinking by presenting absolute ethics on right and wrong.

Dr. Henderson said that Kant advanced the theory that the scientific intellect had no right to deal with morality. Kant reasoned that they had no place in this problem, because everything is theis, is relative.

Another member of the philosophy staff, Dr. Anna Forbes Liddell, will present a paper on "Time and the Doctrine of Pre-Existence" to the Southern Society for Philosophy of Religion meeting in Chattanooga, Tennessee, March 4-6.

Rich Benson—Sparks Team

Weld, 6-foot-seven-inch center took command of the pest sby.

Ham Wernke hit for 9 points. That's very good considering what a stiff defense the Haiters had set against him.

Dick Artmeier, star forward, sank a much-needed 15 points to

(Continued on Page 4)

FLORIDA
Today:
"Vicki"
Jeanne Crain
Wed. Thru Sat.
"3 Sailors And A Girl"
Jane Powell
Gordon MacRae
Gene Nelson

STATE
Today:
"Easy To Love"
Esther Williams
Wed. Thru Sat.
"Forever Female"
Ginger Rogers
William Holden

CAPITAL DRIVE-IN
Tues. & Wed.
"Big Leaguer"
Edward G. Robinson
Vera Ellen
Thurs. Fri. Sat.
"To The Shores Of Tripoli"
And
"Iron Mountain Trail"

GLOBE HIGHWAY DRIVE-IN OUTDOOR
Tues. & Wed.
"Captain Horatio Hornblower"
Thurs. Fri. Sat.
"I Was A Male War Bride"
Cary Grant
Also
"Hiawatha"
With
Vincent Edwards

HOW THE STARS GOT STARTED . . .
Donna Atwood
AMERICA'S NO. 1 "QUEEN OF THE ICE"
DONNA ATWOOD says:
"I was 13 before I put on skates. It's had dancing lessons and this was fun!
In three months, I surprised even myself by winning the Pacific Coast novice championship.
Three years later — the National Ringles and Pairs. Then I joined the Ice Capades.
Skating's still fun!"
A STARTED SMOKING CAMELS ABOUT NINE YEARS AGO. I FIND CAMELS' DELIGHTFUL MILDNESS AND FLAVOR JUST ME JUST RIGHT, YEAR AFTER YEAR! YOU SHOULD TRY CAMELS!
CAMEL
Start smoking Camels yourself!
Make the 30-day Camel Mildness Test. Smoke only Camels for 30 days — see for yourself why Camels' cool mildness and rich flavor agree with more people than any other cigarette!
for Mildness and Flavor
CAMELS AGREE WITH MORE PEOPLE
THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE!

Seminole Cagers

(Continued From Page 3)

be second high scorer for the Seminoles

The Sietson Hatters poured on the coal after intermission and stepped away with revenue in their hearts. They played a different type of ball altogether than they did against the Seminoles in Tallahassee when they were beat out 74-71. The Hatters outscored the Seminoles in every quarter but mostly in the third and fourth.

The two teams sparred with defensive tactics in the first quarter, Stetson moving out to a 17-9 lead entering the second frame. By halftime, the Hatters held a 37-20 edge. After three quarters it was 57-45.

Big John Imgrund was the high scorer of the game, talllies 22 points. John, recently returned to form, is one of the best guards in the state.

Jimmy Oler scored 9 points and Tom Burst was held tight to three.

Rollins College will be Florida State's next foe. They will invade Tallahassee tonight for the second meeting. The Seminoles trounced the Tars 82-72. Then Thursday night Florida Southern will attempt to come back after a sound whipping last week 96-80.

STUDENTS STRIKE IN PROTEST

(ACP) — Students of Brandi, 40,000 strong, staged a three-day general strike in protest against increasing attacks on personal safety and freedom of the press.

Direct cause of the strike was the murder of a student who was working as a newspaper editor.

Candidates Advised To Take Medical Exams in May

A new graduate program in public communication, designed for students interested in journalism, public relations, propaganda or communication research has recently organized by the Social Science Division of the University of Chicago.

Beginning this year, the degree of Master of Arts in Communication is available at the University of Chicago. This degree will be awarded to students who successfully complete communication process and its effects on opinions, attitudes, and behavior.

This new program includes courses on the relationship between organization of the communication industury and the nature of its products; on techniques for measuring the effects of press, radio, television and film; on propaganda and psychological warfare; and on the latest findings of communication research. Other courses supplement undergraduate preparation in the basic social science disciplines.

Because previous training and career objectives of students may vary widely, course requirements are purposely kept flexible. Graduates with an undergraduate major in a social science can normally complete all the requirements for the M. A. in Communication within one year. Further information about the new degree program may be obtained from the Committee on Communication, University of Chicago, Chicago 37, Ill.

Want to Learn to Flunk Out? Here Are Fifteen Useful Hints

Following are 15 easy ways in which to fail a course, as written by Jack Soward for the Oregon State Daily Barometer:

1. Enter the course as late as possible. By changing your mind after classes have started after classes start you should be able to avoid classes until the second or third week.

2 Do not bother with a textbook.

3. Put your social life ahead of everything else. If necessary, cultivate a few friendships in the class. Interesting conversation should be able to drown out the noise of the lectore.

4. Whenever how seedy most professors look and treat them accordingly.

5. Make yourself comfortable when you study. If possible, draw up an easy chair by a window.

6. Have a few friends handy during the study period so you can chat when the work becomes dull.

7. If you must study, try to lump it all together and get it over with. The most suitable time would be the last week of school.

8. Keep your study table interesting. Place photographs, magazines, daffish bowls, games and other recreational devices all around you while studying.

9. Use memory devices on everything you learn. Since they are easy to forget, this approach prevents your mind from getting cluttered up with stale facts.

10. Never interrupt your reading by checking on what you have learned. Revelation is not very pleasant anyhow, since it shows up your deficiencies.

11. Avoid bothering with mathematics. If you plan to use any,how so that you can get pictures of airplanes during the lecture, try to follow the simple arrangement: Keep all the sines for a given day on the same sheet of paper.

12. Remind yourself frequently how dull the course is. Never lose sight of the fact that you really wanted to sign up for something else.

13. Review only the night before examination, and then only this to trying to guess what the instructor will ask.

14. Find out exactly when your final examination will be over so that you can plan to forget everything about the course at that moment.

15 Stay up all night before important examinations. You can spend the first half of the evening discussing your determination to "hone" and the latter half drinking coffee.

Speech Department Sponsors Student Festival, Workshop

For the second consecutive year the Speech Department of Florida State University is playing host to high school students from Florida, South Georgia, and Southeast Alabama at a Speech Festival and Workshop which is being held on campus today and tomorrow.

The Workshop will center around two major fields, dramatics, which is being directed by Dr. Paul Huber and debate, which Dr. Greg Phifer is directing. Those students who are also interested in impromptu and extemporaneous speaking, after dinner speaking, and original oratory, will meet with Dr. Wayne C. Minnick this afternoon.

Tonight Dr. Lynn Orr will hold a special workshop on the problems which were encountered in producing Romeo and Juliet, the last play of the FSU Commitment series.

Tomorrow morning will feature a debate on the 1954 national high school question, "Resolved, that the president of the United States should be elected by direct vote of the people." On the affirmative team will be Norma Trippodo and Herb Lazayo. The negative will be supported by Tom Lewis and Jennings Rehwinkle.

Following the debate, a panel discussion will be conducted by Dr. James Prather of the Department of Political Science, Dr. Paul Pichard of the School of Public Administration, and Miss Edna Hollingsworth who is a graduate assistant in forensics. Dr. Phifer will serve as moderator. The meeting will end with an additional tea at three debates.

(Continued From Page 1)

Myers Selected

cial events that occur throughout the year.

Other candidates for the sponsorship were Miss Gerry Sellers and Miss Carolyn Johnson.

Serving offices in the Officers' Club at present are: Cadet Capt. Robert Newberry, President; Cadet Major Frank Bean, Executive Officer; Cadet 1st Lt. Robert Clark, Treasurer; and 2nd Lt. John A Wenster, Secretary.

(Continued From Page 1)

ROTC Announces

mellode Oswald T. Geiger, Jr., Paul L. Grimmitzo, Thomas J. Morgan and Robert C. Stuke.

Next fall those cadets who are not non-commissioned officers and qualify as college seniors will compete for cadet commissioned officer rank. The cadets are among 123,000 enrolled in Air Force ROTC at 207 colleges and universities throughout the United States, Hawaii and Puerto Rico, who are competing for commissions in the United States Air Force Reserve.

(Continued From Page 1)

Price Comments

ments to take it at a later date. Such permission should be received previous to the change.

Returning to the question of failing final exams he revealed that students who fail more than half of their work (except first-semester Freshmen) are suspended for one term if it is the first time, and expelled from the university if it is the second. gen.

Church News

EPISCOPAL

Episcopal students at FSU elected their officers and vestrymen-at-large recently for the year 1954. John Cooper was elected president; Helen Whitemore vice president; Nancy Wakefield, secretary; Spencer Rose, treasurer; Charlotte Beam, Jack Watson, Ann Wall, and John Wave, vestrymen-at-large.

The new vestry will be installed at the morning service on Sunday, February 7, following the retreat for students at Camp Seminole February 5 and 6. The committees for the retreat have been named as follows: Registration; Alberta Large, Jimmy Joanis, Irma Cox, Lee Brown, Margaret Nash, Charlotte Reid, John Ware and Spencer Roads.

Transportation: Mary Tisdock, Bert Miller and Helen Whitemore. Food: Mary Jo Griffin, Nancy Wakefield, Harry Gaines and Jack Watson; Program: Mildred Crekenberger, Lillian Avis, George Bonn, Cecil Carleton, Beth Tillerson, Barbara Blank and Lucille Turnage; Publicity: Ann Wall, Mark Cone and Susan Linebaugh.

Holy Communion will be celebrated at 7:05 a.m. tomorrow The Study Group will meet at by Rose Hall from 6 to 8 p.m. It is the second of three meetings devoted to the subject of Holy Matrimony. Everyone is invited to come

METHODIST

The Fifth Quadrennial National Methodist Student Conference held at the University of Kansas was the subject of a report given Sunday night at the Methodist Student House "Christ Transformias Culture" war the theme of the conference, which was held from December 28 to January 3.

Members of the Wesley Foundation at FSU who attended were: Rhoda Birthasel, Joy Thornton, John Roddenberry, Carroll English, Anne Morgan, Jane Scott, Evelyn Mott, and Jane Juskinson.

One of the outstanding lectures at the conference was delivered by Ralph Sockman, author of "How to Believe" and pastor of Christ Methodist Church in New York.

Students from many races and foreign countries were present at the conference. The unselfish stand of these students was against segregation in public schools as one of the wars of the Christian transformation of culture.

Reports of the meeting were carried by many nationally known newspapers.

(Continued From Page 1)

FSU Graduate

furo model Zundapp motorcycles for the trip. The motorcycles are being furnished through Mr. Floyd Frazine of St. Petersburg.

The school's Department of Anthropology is lending technical aid and equipment such as camera, film, compass and supplies.

A recent letter from the expedition to Dr. Smith, told of the many difficult conditions they they have encountered. Over some 13,000 feet high required cavating trip atop a mountain the use of emperin number three for five days due to lack of oxy-

Debate To Feature Indian Participants; Topic Undecided

Florida State University will be host to debators from India for the first time in the history of the International debate held here each year. The Indian debators will be at FSU for the 1954 debate slated for April 20.

In previous years debators have been from Great Britain. Topic for the International Debate has not been decided according to Dr. Greg Phifer of the FSU Department of Speech. He said that the subject will be chosen from among "Resolved: That the world government is the only solution for world peace," "Resolved: This house believes plenty is more prosperous than poverty," and "Resolved: Indian neutrality is necessary for understanding between east and west."

Florida State's debators have not been named yet. The Department of Speech encourages anyone with previous experience in public debate to try out.

(Continued From Page 2)

Graduate Program

science subjects is necessary. All questions are of the objective type.

Application forms and a Bulletin of Information, which gives details of registration and administration, as well as sample questions, are available from pre-medical advisers or directly from Educational Testing Service, Box 592, Princeton, N. J. Completed applications must reach the ETS office by April 24.

Project To Measure Consumer Preferences in Citrus Juices

By MARY E. KING

An investigation on the problem of measuring consumer's preferences in citrus juices is being conducted by Professor Morse, a professor of Family Finance and Economics at Florida State University.

An experiment testing consumer's preferences is now in process. Members of 5E Tallahassee families are taking the juices. The families will grade the juice on a ten-point scale from poor to exellent. Experimental stations have picked and processed the fruit used from special groves and to certain specifications.

A few years ago the research staff stocked some of FSU's fraternity houses with juices. The research experiment was successful and showed the student's juice preference at breakfast, lunch and supper.

The project and its various phrases have been conducted since 1940. It is a local investigation showing the various methods of studying dimensions of consumer problems.

"People ought to be able to get in markets what they want," reasoned Professor Morse. "We want to find out in general what they want so that the product may be labeled and standardized."

The research is supported by Florida's Citrus Commission. Professor Morse first became interested in consumer preference in 1937 and his interest grew in 1939 when he studied the types and degrees of taste in eggs.

University Singers

(Continued From Page 1)

completed tour of West Florida reports have said.

Director of the Pensacola chorus, Mrs. Martha Parker, commented, "The concert will provide an opportunity for high students and also the general public to hear a concert by an outstanding collegiate group. Various high school groups sponsored dinners on tour.

Officers of this well-known campus organization are: Bob Davis, president; Gail Jackson, vice-president; Lynn Longbotham, secretary; Herb Hickenbottom, manager; Ellen Snow, public relations; and Tom Wilkstrom, student director.

Dr. Housewright is nationally known as a choral conductor and is also author of several published articles on early American music. He is president of the Southern Music Educators Conference.

Neil Gentry Elected President of FBL; Convention Planned

Neil Gentry was elected president of the Future Business Leaders of America for the spring semester recently. Bonnie Hazlett was chosen secretary. Joyce Johnson and Neil Gentry were both elected to serve as corresponding secretary.

These officers are being vacated by Sheilah Graham, Roberta Holander, and Maria Stewart, who graduate January 30.

The meeting was also held to organize committees to plan the necessary work for the state FBLA convention that meets with the Florida State campus in the month.

This is our most important activity of this year," said Dr. Glen Murphy, sponsor of the FSU chapter which is host for the convention.

Tentative plans for the convention include three general sessions, election of state officers, a tour of the capitol, contests for the best exhibits, reports, and scrapbooks, and the banquet at which the new officers will be installed.

One of the highlights of the meeting will be demonstrations by Mr. Charles Zoebek, nationally famous shorthand expert, and Miss Mary Palunas, a typewriting champion.

FOR ALL YOUR PHOTOGRAPHIC PROBLEMS COME IN AND SEE US A COMPLETE PHOTOGRAPHIC LINE

PICTURES DEVELOPED AND PRINTED

Tallahassee Camera Center

Across From The Florida Theater

123 No. Monroe Tallahassee

Where Can You Get Such Specials All Week But At...

TUES:
Juicy Broiled
Filet Mignon $1.00
French Fries
Chef's Salad

THURS:
Spaghetti with Cheese .95
Salad
Lemon Cream Pie

FRI:
Whole Broiled
Lobster $1.25
Drawn Butter
Chef's Salad

SAT:
Golden Fried
Half Chicken $1.00
French Fries

SUN:
Delicious
Roast Turkey $1.00
Dressing
Cranberries

Seven Seas

INTERNS and JOB HOPEFULS Glenn photographers remind you . . . .

You'll Soon Need Identification Pictures of Yourself and

Glenn Is still making A special offer

You can have a portrait sitting with 6 or more proofs to choose from; Glenn will moke up the one you choose into 12 wallet-size I-D portraits, carefully retouched, PLUS on 8x10 block and white finished portrait in a folder.

FOR ONLY $8.95

Call Glenn Photography

3-0115 for appointment

P.S.! You Can Still Get 3 Unretouched I-D Size Photos for $2

THE AMBER HOUSE

Warm And Frendly As The Old . . .

This Is The Most to say the least!

Tallahassee's Largest Selection of Full Course Dinners . . .

. . . . All for one price!

10 Different Choices With 5 Deliciously Different Pies Specially For You . . .

At A Low, Low 85¢

at Capital Cafe

314 S. Monroe Tallahassee

Be Thrift Conscious!

SMOKE REGULAR OR KING-SIZE CHESTERFIELD...

AMERICA'S MOST POPULAR 2-WAY CIGARETTE

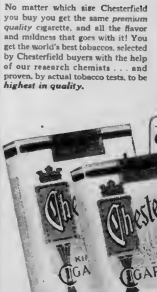
THE QUALITY YOU WANT

No matter which size Chesterfield you buy you get the same premium quality cigarette, and all the flavor and mildness that goes with it! You get the world's best tobaccos, selected by Chesterfield buyers with the help of our research chemists . . . and proven, by actual tobacco tests, to be highest in quality.

THE LOW NICOTINE YOU WANT

Before we buy tobaccos for Chesterfields, our laboratories take samples from all over the tobacco country and analyze them for low nicotine content. The extra care pays off! In recent "tobacco tests," the six leading brands of cigarettes were chemically analyzed. The findings: of them all, Chesterfield is highest in quality — low in nicotine.

THE PROOF YOU OUGHT TO HAVE



A group of Chesterfield smokers have been examined by a doctor every two months for almost two years, 45% of them — on the average! — have been smoking Chesterfield for well over 10 years. The doctor's examinations show . . .

no adverse effects to the nose, throat and sinuses from smoking Chesterfield.

SINUSES NOSE THROAT

Consider Chesterfield's record with these smokers — with millions of other smokers throughout America. Change to Chesterfield and enjoy the taste and mildness you want — highest in quality — low in nicotine — best for you!

Enjoy the TASTE and MILDNESS you want

CHESTERFIELD BEST FOR YOU

Meet Me at THE MECCA

Chapman Named
Men's Veep
See Front Page

The Florida Flambeau

Senate Clears
Flambeau of Charges
See Below

VOL. XL, No. 26 — PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA — Friday, January 22, 1954

Senate Approves Rules for Signs During Elections

Coyle Moore's Bill Provides Protection Of Campus Property

The Student Body Senate Tuesday passed Senator Coyle Moore's bill to regulate the placement of election posters. During discussion it was brought out that similar policies have been dictated for some time by the business office, and that passage of the bill would merely set the rules down in black-and-white as part of the elections code.

The act provides for the protection of university property and for the prompt removal of campaign posters. A special set of rules for distribution of campaign posters in women's residence halls was incorporated as part of the bill.

Several inquired why no special rules were included for men's residences. Dean of Women Katherine Warren, pointing out that the women's regulations were merely substantiating policies set by the women's residence halls staff, added that the enforcement of whatever men's regulations may exist is left to the discretion of each residence counsellor.

In brief, the act provides that election placards may be posted anywhere except in women's residence halls with the following limitations: Candidates must remove their placards within 48 hours after defeat in a primary election or defeat or victory in the final election. Adhesives stuck to wooden and brick walls must be removed.

No nails, tacks or adhesive except on wood or metal will be allowed. If university property is damaged the candidate whose name appears on the placard is responsible, if the party who placed the placard cannot be identified. In women's dormitories placards may be placed on bulletin boards except official ones, on special screens and in recreation rooms. Posters may not exceed 12 inches by 18 inches in size.

Senator Joan Halford, author of the resolution to tape-record Senate debates at the discretion of the chair, rose and moved that the tapes be available to the Flambeau and other interested parties. Her resolution originally included that provision but it was amended to reserve the tape for Senate use exclusively.

Miss Halford, pointing out that her original intention was to prevent possible misquotes of Senate procedure; not to correct such mistakes after they have been made.

Senator Frank Shaw, who favored amending her resolution at last week's meeting, again spoke against making the tapes available to outsiders.

He noted that the meetings are open to anyone who wishes to come, "including the Flambeau," and that if tapes are depended upon for recording quotes they may be mis-interpreted. Shaw then invited Dean of Women Katherine Warren to state her views.

Miss Warren agreed with Shaw on some points and praised the purposes of Miss Halford's resolution. In agreeing with Shaw, however, she noted that in a tape-play back gestures and facial expressions are absent and the tone of voice may be changed or misinterpreted.

She recommended that the resolution provide for the chairman to be present at tape playbacks and interpret meanings which might be understood.

Senator Jackson reported that the student directories do not come from activity funds and are printed by the registrar's office mainly for the faculty and staff. Extra copies are distributed to students, she noted. Miss Jackson added that 300 more copies were to be distributed today at the bookstore.

Senator Jackson moved a committee be appointed to investigate the possibility of having more directories in future years. Named to the committee were Senators Patty Martin, Renie Hall and Coyle Moore.

Vice-President Lillian Avis was appointed head of a committee to report on Senate procedure at women's house meetings. Members of her committee will be Senators More, Shaw and Martin.

NEXT ISSUE POSTPONED

Next issue of the Florida Flambeau will be February 5, Editor Bruce Galphin said today.

Originally slated for an issue on January 26, Flambeau senior staff decided this would work a hardship as it was in the middle of examination week.

Jaycees To Sponsor Miss Tallahassee Contest

A two-week, all-expense paid trip valued at $5,000 may be a dream come true for some lucky Florida State University miss if she's picked Miss Florida of 1954.

Top prize of a trip by air to Switzerland will be awarded to the prettiest, young, talented beauty in Florida. However, this is only one of several prizes some "lovely" may win, according to Lloyd Olson and Sonny Tinney, co-chairman of the local Jaycee Miss Tallahassee beauty pegeant, who announced the local contest today.

A Miss Tallahassee antrant must be at least 16 and not more than 25 years old as of September 1, 1954. She must be sanctioned by a Jaycee club with an official franchise. She has to be single, never have been married and be of good character.

The entrant, Olson said, must be a resident of Florida, or a registered student at a school within the state of Florida. She must be able to appear in three phases of the contest; evening gown and bathing suit appearances, and talent, either amateur or professional.

Following initial screening by a five-member Jaycee Entrant's Committee, the contest will be held the first week in February.

One set of judges, two educators and three prominent citizens of the community will select the winner.

Miss Tallahassee, in addition to other prizes, will win an expense paid trip to the Miss Florida Contest at Winter Haven February 15-17, and the chance for the trip to Switzerland.

The state contest is sponsored by the Florida Citrus Exposition who will provide all expenses to send Miss Florida winner to the nation-wide Miss America Contest in Atlantic City, New Jersey, Olson said.

Miss Florida will also become Florida Citrus Queen, reigning for one year. In addition to the holiday in Switzerland, complete with chaperon, she'll receive a $500 set of luggage, a $300 wardrobe of travel and sportswear, diamond wristwatch, portable radio, compact, set of jewelry, and a year's supply of perfume.

Miss Florida will also receive a number of trips to large northern cities for TV and radio and personal appearances. Finally the big moment at Atlantic City to compete for $25,000 worth of scholarships.

This year, six maids of honor will be selected to grace Miss Florida's throne, Olson said. Each will receive a wristwatch, portable radio, set of jewelry, compact and supply of perfume. Every Miss Florida contestant gets a Jantzen bathing suit.

At home, Miss Tallahassee will probably receive a handsome educational scholarship, Olson said. Fred Drake Jr., chairman of the contest awards committee, said representatives of several of Tallahassee's leading merchants and professional people set up an educational scholarship.

"They said the scholarship would be a fine way to help one of the community's lovely, talented young ladies further her career," Drake said.

Interested girls may make application in the office of the Chamber of Commerce in the Floridan Hotel, Rose Printing Company, or the Florida State University Student Center, Olson noted. He added all applications must be in by Feb. 2 at 8 p.m. when the preliminary screening will be held.

Harvard's Sutherland Stresses 'Centralization In Government'

In a lecture Tuesday night on "The Unfinished Business of the Supreme Court," Arthur E. Sutherland, professor of law at Harvard University, said that America is moving step by step toward a more centralized government. He compared the rate of movement with the melting of glaciers in the ice age. It is so slow that it is hardly perceptable.

Dr. Marian Irish, head of the Florida State University Political Science Department, introduced the speaker to a crowd that packed Longmire Auditorium. Dr. Irish was a student at Harvard last year on a Ford Fellowship.

The Harvard law professor was secretery to the late Justice Oliver Wendel Holmes of the United States Supreme Court after being admitted to the New York State Bar. He has a distinguished European war record from 1941 to 1945 when he was discharged as a colonel, the rank he now holds in the Organized Reserve Corps. Among his awards is the Legion of Merit with cluster.

A member of the American Law Institute, Sutherland was professor of law at Cornell University, 1945-1950. He has been on the Harvard law faculty since 1950.

Sutherland stressed the fact that a new Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court is not appointed every day. It is a great step, because in the history of the court only 13 have served, and three men alone served a total of 84 years as Chief Justice.

The Chief Justice has a group of eight chartered individualists under him who are carefully selected, Sutherland said. He added, however, that the future should not be thought of as a time when Chief Justice Warren will mold the court even though he will have a definite affect on its decisions.

"It may be expected to take a stand on various issues, and what theri stands will be is something that should interest many," Sutherland said.

The Supreme Court, according to Sutherland, is faced with two great uncertainties. One is: What is the function of the Supreme Court? What is its task? The second uncertainty is: Granted these tasks, how shall it perform them? The court has already settled some of these tasks, Sutherland said, but all judicial doctrines do not stay settled or last forever which is good and is as might be expected

Sutherland pointed out that someone has to decide what is right and wrong on issues, and the court does have that job. In order that there be one decision and only one, all other governmental powers are barred from making the decisions that the Supreme Court makes.

The phrase "due process of law" has been defined by the court to mean "a general mandate of fairness in government"

(Continued on Page 3)

Boda Featured On WMBR-TV In Jacksonville

Florida State University's TV series, "At the Piano," tomorrow will feature the noted pianist George Boda of the FSU School of Music.

Professor Boda will open the program with two sonatas, one in D minor and one in D major, by Scarlotti followed by the first movement of Mozart's Sonata in A minor. He will then play three short preludes which he wrote himself. Closing the program will be Saraband and Toccata by DeBussy.

Noted as a composer as well as a pianist Professor Boda's compositions have been among those performed at the Semi-annual Composers League for the last six years. This year one of his marches will also be performed at the Lexington, Ky., Band Festival.

Being of a versatile nature Professor Boda has not only toured as a soloist in a lyceum series but was chosen over fifty contestants as apprentice conductor to George Szell, head of the Cleveland Symphony.

During the life of the late Albert Spalding, internationally known American violinist, Professor Boda was his accompanist during all performances on the FSU campus.

On the music faculty for six years Professor Boda is also very active in sports such as golf, tennis and is a member of the Professor's Softball Team.

At the conclusion of the school year Boda will take a year's leave of absence to work on his doctors degree in music.

LIBRARY HOURS

LIBRARY HOURS for Examination week have been announced.

Friday, Saturday, Monday, and Tuesday, January 22-26—8 a.m. to 11 p.m

Sunday, January 24—8 p.m. to 11 p.m.

STUDY HALL (Stacks closed but entire library open for study.)

Friday, Monday and Tuesday, January 22, 25 and 26—10 to 11 p.m.

Saturday, and Sunday, January 23 and 24—5 to 11 p.m.

ON TV . . . Roy Flynn, director of Public Relations at Florida State University, questions renowned pianist Edward Kilenyi in connection with the latter's appearance on a television program in Jacksonville. Florida State University School of Music faculty members participate regularly on WMBR-TV's program "At the Piano."

Men Approve Roy Chapman Vice-President

Roy Chapman was elected vice-president of men's affairs yesterday afternoon at men's Senate meeting Chapman was previously a senior senator.

The election of a new vice-president was necessary after Wayne Terry announced his withdrawal from Florida State.

Last duty of Wayne Terry will be to submit a formal resignation to President Carothers on January 26. Dave Bachman moved that Terry's resignation be accepted as of January 26.

Terry felt that since he was stepping out of office he could recommend as individual to this office. He then recommended the nomination of Gordon Gaster.

Gene Lawler then stated that it would be unconstitutional because of Gaster's class standing. Terry then questioned the exact words of the constitution and recalled that the men's vice-presidency shall be selected by their respective senators. Lawler then read from the constitution the requirements. Wayne replied that he had overlooked that section. Gaster was disqualified because he was a sophomore.

Jimmy Joanos moved that since there was no pressing need the election be put off. The motion was seconded but later withdrawn because of Coyle Moore's statement that if it was put off, there might arise unwarranted competition and hard feelings. Gaster also added that it would be practical to fill the office now since there was a quorum.

Joanos then nominated Roy Chapman. Donnie Hollis was also nominated but withdrew. Since there were no more nominations, Coyle Moore moved that Chapman be elected by acclamation vote. Chapman was then elected unanimously.

In the Constitution of the Student Body of Florida State University, Article V, sections C and G, stipulate the procedure of filling the vacancy. The sections

(Continued on Page 3)

Graduation Set For January 30; Pearson Speaks

Graduation exercises for approximately 225 seniors and graduate students will be held Saturday, January 30 at 4 p.m. in the Suwannee room.

Dr. Jay F. W. Pearson, President of the University of Miami at Coral Gables, Florida, will be the speaker. The subject of his speech has still not been disclosed.

Class marshalls to serve at this January graduation will be Jane Merlin Turvaville, Charles McDaniel and Floyd Risely.

Special music will be provided by Claude Rhea who will sing "If With All Your Hearts" by Mendelsohn. The seniors will enter the Suwannee room to the strains of Strauss's "Festival Procession" while the recessional will be Ceremonial Music by Purcell.

Dr. Samuel R. Neel, University Chaplain, will give the Invocation and Benediction.

Candidates for graduation according to the school in which they will receive their degree are:

SCHOOL OF NURSING
Bachelor of Science in Nursing Education
Elisabeth June Mangler

SCHOOL OF BUSINESS
Bachelor of Science:
Robert Eugene Adams, Gordon Potter Blitch, Jr., Charles Michael Cain, Marshall Murel Clardy, Leo Crutchfield, Cecil Harold Dunn, Jr., Ralph Rilbert Duxbury, Emma Jeans Folsom, Harry Jay George, David Charles Graham, Jr., William Blitch Graham, Ralph W. Hanks, Roberta Adele Hollander, Doyle Evoy Butto, Betty Johnson Kerzan, John R. Kerzan, Mary Esther Lapinski.

William E. McClellan, Jr., Robert Gay McKenzie, Daniel Webster Miller, Mack Ray Murray, James E. Naugle, Raymond Edward Nelson, Clynch Newsome, Jr., Julia Mary O'Grady, Billie C. Pouncey, John William Silcox, Jr., Ernest L. Smith, Mavis Margean Stewart, William A. Tartt, Jo Ann Moon Thompson, Sara S. Waskom, Betty Peters Zoll

SCHOOL OF JOURNALISM
Bachelor of Science
Nancye Ann J. Clark, William Dingwall

SCHOOL OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION
Bachelor of Science
Jack C. Bruner, Mary Gaines Chambers, Alva Ray Commander.

(Continued on Page 3)

News Briefs

KA Elects

Jim Crews of Kappa Alpha social fraternity here was elected president of that group last week at regular elections. Crews will replace Jim Ball, former executive officer.

Others elected to leadership positions were Bill Durham, vice-president; Ray Rogers, secretary; John H. Smith, corresponding secretary; John Stanley, historian; Tom Watts, treasurer; K. D. Bliss, censor; David Smith, sergeant-of-arms, and Donnie Hollis, custodian.

Committee members appointed were John Smith, Nat Copenhaver, Gene Kirchoffer, Bob Porter and Paul Krieger.

ZETA EXECS NAMED

Miss Mary Ruth Armstrong, Junior at Florida State University, was elected president of Zeta Tau Alpha, social sorority, Monday night.

Other newly-elected officers include Nancy Lou Fagan, vice-president; Jean Stigler, treasurer; Susie Tindall, secretary, and Sally Darnell, corresponding secretary.

Anne Yates was elected Pan Hell representative; Sue Hern-

(Continued on Page 2)

Installing CinemaScope Gives Shortage Problems To Theater

By BRUCE M. GALPHIN

Buying CinemaScope screens and projection lenses is not as simple as walking to the local camera store and placing your money on the counter. Most theaters have to wait as anxiously as their patrons for the latest in motion picture improvements.

Take the local Florida theater, for instance. They've wanted for some time to install the CinemaScope equipment, but they found that there's a shortage. The process is so new that manufacturers haven't yet caught up with orders for the extra-wide, curved screens and the anamorphic lenses that are the secret of CinemaScope.

Twentieth Century Fox pushed the production of Professor Henri Chretien's invention as a part of the race to develop new, improved motion picture techniques.

Three-dimensional movies were one of the industry's first answers to the problem of a slump, but since 3-D has many inherent disadvantages, such as the use of glasses and poor depth of focussing, rival producers look to a process more acceptable to the public. Many people now feel CinemaScope will become standard, whereas 3-D may die out.

"CinemaScope is not a substitute for a story, or merely for good actors. But, it does give the studio more octaves in which to tell the story.

New octaves is an apt description of the technique. The ratio of width to height is about three times that of the old small screens. At the heart of the process is the anamorphic lens, which bends a wide angle on to a conventional strip of film. A similar lens mounted on the projector, spreads the picture back to its former width for theater viewers.

Furthermore, CinemaScope for the first time provides true stereophonic sound. Former movies which claimed to have stereophonic sound actually had a second track dubbed in after production. CinemaScope has four sound tracks, which are recorded during the filming process. The affect is exceptionally naturalistic.

It was a lucky thing for the Florida Theater that it waited as long as it did, however, because equipment is changing rapidly. Instead of a separate sound box to handle the stereophonic sound, producers have reduced the size of the sprocket holes on the film and recorded all four tracks on the film.

And though the Florida as a smaller theater had to wait for its equipment, its smaller size is also an advantage.

According to RCA engineer Bill Bradley, who is helping install the equipment, the shorter distance from floor to ceiling means better focussing will be possible.

The first showing in CinemaScope here in Tallahassee will be The Robe, opening January 27.

REPLIES . . . Editor-in-Chief Bruce Galphin of The Florida Flambeau testifies in behalf of the newspaper during the Wednesday night hearing on charges of misuse. Seated at the table behind Galphin are committee members Wayne Terry (left), Chairman Roy Chapman, Phoebe Jackson and Jean Tavel. Flambeau Copy Editor David Dreis holds microphone for tape recording.

Sandspur Music Will Be Aired On Local Disc Jockey Shows

Lets Face It and Blue Summer, both forthcoming ballads in the February production of Sandspur's Panorama are being cut on records and will be played on local disk jockey programs according to Lee Andrews, composer and Sandspur director.

Andrews said the disc will feature on one side LET'S FACE IT, a medium bounce from Panorama's opening scene," and backed by the "Stardreamers" on vocal, Dave Ward Steinman and Ricky Powell on instrumentals. Flip side is, Andrews said, BLUE SUMMER, a blues number to be featured at Panorama between acts by the "Stardreamers."

Interviewed for news of the February all-student production, Frances Bailey Stokes, producer told the Florida Flambeau there will be no dialogue, but Sandspur will not be a variety show. "Each act has a definite theme which is carried out through dance, vocal number and the actions of the cast," she noted.

Choreography in the Latin-American scenes includes: Samba, rumba and tango. Soloists are: Barbara Vickers, David Harmon, Lucille Turnage, Jim Fadigan and Diann Hood.

The song HIM sung by Delano Driver will be interpreted in dance by Patsy Cooper and Ed Franklin, Miss Stokes said.

The dance chorus which consist of 25 members have been practicing six nights a week. Miss Stokes, herself a participant in Sandspur for the last two years says "greater interest seems to be shown this year than ever before, by the chorus."

"For the first time, since the beginning of Sandspurs, help has been received from members of the faculty," she added.

Acknowledgements to faculty help will appear in a later issue.

English Department Offers New Courses In Poetry, Writing

Courses that depart from the traditional pattern of composition and literary history will be taught by the English faculty this spring.

"Creative Writing" (English 304) will be offered at 8 a. m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Dr. Paul Stoakes, professor of English, who has written extensively for magazines and has had six years work with the federal government, in Washington and abroad will teach the course.

For students who would like to learn to write poems, Dr. Walter Blackstock will teach "Writing the Poem" at 8 a. m. the same days, Monday-Wednesday-Friday. Dr. Blackstock, who who has written a biography of Theodore Dreiser for his Ph.D. from Yale, has published hundreds of poems, including five collected volumes.

Townspeople are invited to enroll in these two courses in creative writing

Miss Mildred Henry's course "Introduction to Poetry" (English 305) serves as an excellent foil to Dr. Blackstock's course, and Dr. Griffith Pugh's course in "Readings in the Short Story" (English 309) complements "Creative Writing", although students may try novels or plays as well as short stories

Another recent addition, also taught by Dr. Stoakes, is "Writing and the Teaching of Writing" (English 406). This is a practical course for present or prospective teachers of composition, especially on the high school level. It provides either graduate or undergraduate credit, and is offered at 12 noon Monday-Wednesday-Friday.

Dr. Pugh has developed a course in "The Literature of the South" (English 437) offered 9:30-11 a. m Tuesday and Thursday.

In addition to these newly-developed courses are "Shakespeare's Later Plays" (English 317), taught by Dr. Hudson Rogers; "The Romantic Poets" (English 305), Dr George Yost; "The English Renaissance" (English 415), Dr Mary Parmenter; "American Drama" (English 457), Dr Claude Flory and "The English Novel to 1800" (English 466), Dr. James Preu.

Graduate offerings for the spring include "History of the English Language" (Dr. Rog-

(Continued on Page 5)

Book Exchange To Open Doors Next Monday

The Alpha Phi Omega Book Exchange, scheduled to open its non-profit doors to buyers and sellers Monday, has a newer and more efficient way of running their business, according to Don Van Nus, chairman of the exchange committee.

Van Nus said yesterday the system has been completely re-organized. He said a new filing system is expected to eliminate all unnecessary filling out of cards. Now, he noted, the seller has only one card to fill when he offers his book for sale. He noted his price on the volume and it's put on the shelf. When the book is sold, a card is sent to the seller, he added.

Filing will be according to courses, Van Nus said, adding that a list will be available at all times when there's doubt over some book and the course that requires it.

Van Nus said APO is opening the Longmire Book room Monday and Wednesday of next week for anyone wishing to put books up for sale. Regular book selling hours are set for all day Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday following registration on February 1. After that, the agency head declared, the exchange will do business on Thursday and Friday of registration week from six to eight p.m The following week the exchange will open its doors every week night from 6 to 8 p.m.

Van Nus said he hopes, with definite hours and a simplified system for filing books and cards, that "The Bookstore will be of service to everyone on campus."

Spokesmen for the service group said yesterday Alpha Phi Omega has engineered the book exchange since 1951 after getting its initial start from the Junior Class of 1950.

APO HOURS

Alpha Phi Omega Book exchange hours have been announced, according to the group's spokesmen here.

The exchange will be open for book trades from 8 to 8 p.m. Every weekday for the next three weeks.

During registration week, they said, books can be bought and sold all day on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Book Exchange is located in the Longmire Basement.

Committee Finds Insufficient Basis For Impeaching

Members Commend Improved Flambeau; Make Suggestions

A special senate committee to investigate possible misuse of The Florida Flambeau issued an unofficial report yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock in which it said it found insufficient evidence to justify impeachment procedures.

The report made suggestions for improvement of certain aspects of the Flambeau but at the same time commended the paper for "the improvements evident in this year's paper over the last . . ."

Committee chairman Roy Chapman emphasized that this was not a final report, since it lacks acceptance and approval by the entire Senate.

Committeewoman Phoebe Jackson pointed out that some committe members did not feel it proper parliamentary procedure to release the report before the next Senate meeting. Those opposed to release yesterday were Senators Charlie Coulter, Jim Soles and Wayne Terry. A majority composed of Senators Roy Chapman, chairman; Joan Tavel, Jackson and Jim Joanos approved the release.

The report followed a committee hearing Wednesday night from 7:00 to 8:00 p.m. in which Senator Gordon Gaster, who leveled the original charges against the Flambeau, and editor-in-chief Bruce Galphin were the principal witnesses.

Gaster specifically charged distortion in the news coverage of the Senate meeting of 5 January, 1954; objected to certain entries on the Flambeau's Christmas list, to parts of the column called "The Needle," to editor Galphin's column about Roy V. "Harrass" and the question about whether 1/5 or 1/6 of congress is required to demand a roll call vote.

Galphin replied to these specific charges (see lead editorial, page 2) and went on to defend the record of the Flambeau. He pointed to its record of achievement, read from Flambeaux of previous years to show a difference in editorial tone, read a list of things the Flambeau had criticized this year and cited ways in which he thought the Flambeau needed improvement.

Galphin said the fact so few things had been criticized out of what might have been, that the staff wondered whether political considerations had not colored the accusations

Gaster said biased material had been appearing in the Flambeau ever since Galphin was approved as editor

The following is the committee's report. Senator Joanos said that the clause "while it may have been in bad taste" was inserted into section two because committee members were split in their opinions.

1. The disagreement between the Editor of the FLAMBEAU and a Senator as to whether it takes 1/5 or 1/6 vote in the national Congress to obtain a roll call vote was a misunderstanding. There was no misrepresentation of Senate proceedings regarding this matter.

2. The "Free Lance" column by Bruce Galphin on Roy Harris, or "Roy Harass,' while it may have been in bad taste, was a

(Continued on Page 5)

FSU Journalist Pens Article About Value Of Newspapers

The American newspaper is the nation's number one news medium, Dean Laurence R. Campbell of the Florida State University School of Journalism asserts in the January issue of the American Press, national trade journal for home town newspapers.

"If all of our newspapers were shut down tomorrow," he said, "the collapse of government and paralysis of industry would be a matter of days. We would plunge into anarchy and chaos."

Writing on "What's Good About Newspapers," Dean Campbell lists nine reasons why the American newspaper is indispensable. Its editorial leadership in community service is duplicated by no other local institution.

The ordinary Russian, he said, does not know what a real newspaper is. His masters in the Kremlin "don't want the truth to get in or out" either in Russia or its shadow states.

Newspapermen welcome searching criticism, Dean Campbell said, but they deplore the unfair attacks of five kinds of "habitual" critics who disregard the limitations as well as the unique services of the press.

"First, there is the common scold," he said. "He always has a mad on — a pet peeve to publicize. He's always grumbling, whining and complaining about the newspaper. He is sure that civilization stinks, but he doesn't think a newspaper should be as sensational about sin — yet he demands the truth.

"Second, there is the stuck pig," Dean Campbell continued. "He's sore because a newspaper sometime or other stepped on his toes. If the newspaper has found that he's a hypocrite, a shabby citizen, or a candidate for a gravy train, he doesn't want his privacy invaded.

"Third, there's the space grabber," he added. "Often he's a build-up boy who seeks the spotlight. He gobbles up publicity the way a Russian delegate chants a veto. If he can get public attention by assailing the press, he'll stoop to anything, not worrying about the truth of what he says

"Fourth, there's the Communist," Dean Campbell noted. "He hates the newspaper be-

(Continued on Page 5)

Flambeau Lists Its Faults For Senate Committee

Frankly we were somewhat surprised at the Senate committee hearing Wednesday night. We had gone in thinking of all the things we might justly be criticized for, but the accusations were essentially the same old thing.

We felt defiatat that we had no more battle to do, so along with our accomplishments we listed what we felt to be some of our own faults.

We admitted, for instance, that we had not always been alert enough to keep up with certain important campus events. We expressed our regrets at having given poor publicity to the senior class on three separate occasions.

We said we realized poor proof-reading had allowed numerous typographical errors to remain in the paper.

We confessed to not enough variety in columns and not enough human interest features. We regretted lack of darkroom facilities prevented our having more timely pictures.

We explained that we were working toward improving these valid criticisms.

We furthermore read a list of things we have criticized that dwarfed the list prepared by the opposition.

The points of argument, however, centered about our coverage and editorial treatment of a Senate meeting, about our full force attack on the censorship of the University of Georgia's Red and Black by Regent Roy V. Harris, parts of our Christmas list and portions of the now-deposed column, "The Needle."

Our defense varied with the charges. In the case of the Senate report, we pointed out that a news story cannot be a verbatim transcript and that a reporter must excerpt what he considers important. We suggested that if six or a dozen senators would independently write a news account of any one Senate meeting, they would come up with as many variations.

We tried to get an outright accusation of deliberate distortion, but none was forthcoming.

In the Roy V. Harris case we defended emphatically our right to bring such matters to the attention of the student body. We found it quite the opposite of a crime to turn in critical analyses of the situation.

We said we felt a few people took the Christmas list too seriously, and we reminded those present that the senior staff itself had voted "The Needle" out of print.

Doing a little arithmetic, we figured that the charges leveled at us referred to slightly less than one per cent of the total copy the Flambeau has printed this year. The faults we ourselves listed covered much more copy.

That set us to wondering. If there were so many faults that might have been criticized yet there were so few that were brought up, was it not possible that the opposition was unusually sensitive to certain points? Was it possible that criticisms putting potential candidates for the spring elections in an unfavorable light were the real sins we were being chastised for? We could not answer the question.

This editorial was written before the committee made known its findings, and we don't know just what they are going to report. We merely have printed our defense.

● CORRECTING CORRECTED CORRECTION

Flambeau editors can be wrong. Even political science teachers can be wrong on the spur of the moment. But in the end everything works out.

For the sake of offended civics students, constitutional law majors, senators and informed students, we wish to make a correction on a correction on a correction, or at least a clarification thereof.

In the national Congress, it requires a one-fifth majority to request a roll call vote. In the state legislature, it requires one-sixth.

THIS TRUTH WILL OUT: AND THE TRUTH WILL MAKE US FREE.

● INTELLECTUAL ATMOSPHERE

Eating lunch with an Ivy-League-bred professor the other day, we began talking about the status of the University of Florida in comparison with other higher institutions of learning, including their faculty and student groups.

The professor brushed all notions that the University of Florida was any more than "favorable" in comparison with other Southeastern colleges and universities, much less with more prominent Northern schools. Generally, he was inclined to think the academic air on the campus was below the average of most other colleges.

Students spend more time on extracurricular and other projects rather than the books; professors spend more time on cutting the lawn and playing bridge than doing research.

This is one reason, he said, that the University cannot rank as a top national institution.

For many years student bull sessions have produced the conclusion that an anti-intellectual atmosphere on the UF campus exists in contrast to pseudo-intellectual or just plain statistical surroundings at other universities. The conclusion was founded on the basis that although there were many students of high intellectual pursuits on campus, the general run of the mill student was not of this nature. Therefore, they would agree, the general campus attitude is non-academic.

Whether there is or is not an intellectual approach on the campus we cannot judge.

Many professors are denied research for lack of facilities and money; we have been told, but if this is the reason for the lack of research on a huge scale here in all departments is another thing we cannot judge.

Now that the University is entering its second century it is time to look into these statements, because they are not the thoughts of just one professor or a group of students sitting around chewing the fat.

They are examples of insight that the conditions of the University have allowed to be created.

In a very large way this stirs us. If these ideas about the University's intellectual rating as well as other educational aspects is little more than low-rate, we should look into this and see what other people think and see what the University has to say about it.

When we have assembled all of these opinions and facts from the University's Administration, faculty and student body, possibly we will know a little more about our intellectual standing. —C.D.B.

—The Florida Alligator

● EVOLUTION

Communications from London . . . provided the startling news that the bearded fellows who dig up fossils have made a gruesome . . . the study Piltdown man, one of the few links between man and monkey, was no man but mostly monkey.

This is startling news indeed, for Mr. Piltdown has held a revered position in biology and history texts used on this campus.

Even mighty Sampson should be stirred. Millenniums ago, with the jawbone of an ass, he made a monkey of man. Now the jawbone of a monkey has made an ass of man.

—The Heights Daily News
New York University

● BE WARY OF BOOKS

We would prefer to assume that the honor system is working 100 per cent, at least in some lines of university activities. We would prefer not to be forced to write this editorial.

But we cannot turn our backs on the facts. We feel it necessary to warn the students of an existing danger.

According to reports from the University Book Store, numerous students are victims of an end-of-semester wave of book-stealing. Presumably, the thieves sell the books. Though these cases can sometimes be caught, the big turnover at the end of the semester makes it difficult.

Our only suggestion is to keep a close watch on your books.

The Florida Flambeau

BRUCE GALPHIN — EDITOR

AL PIERCE, news editor
BOB FOLSOM, managing editor

Feature Editor ..... Ken Kingery, Dave Kennedy
Sports Editor ..... Jerry Campbell
Campus Editor ..... Dick Victory, David Dries
Copy Editors ..... Oscar Johnson, Martin Duchman
Rewrite Editors ..... Joe Caldwell
Photographic Editor ..... Franklin Adams
Co-Columnists ..... Art Kennedy, Bob Taylor
Sports Staff ..... Don Thomasson, Pat Dailey, Elizabeth King, Tom Hall, Betty Bishop, Lona Cochran, Barbara Bachman, Jayson Lewis
Junior Staff ..... Jaileen Robertson

NANCY LOWE — BUSINESS MGR.
MIRIAM SAWYER, advertising manager

Business Staff ..... Mary Watson, Virginia Vaughn, Anne Lang, Lou Calpakes
Exchange Editor ..... Pat Robson
Exchange Staff ..... Margaret Dellinger

Advertising solicited by Alpha Delta Sigma and Gamma Alpha Chi.
Distribution arranged for and processed by members of Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity.
The Florida Flambeau, published twice weekly by the Students of Florida State University, Tallahassee, Florida.
The Florida Flambeau is represented nationally by the National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Ave., New York 17, New York.
Member Associate Collegiate Press Intercollegiate Press
211, 213 Longmire Bldg.

Telephone 2-8000, extension 4621

Let It Be Said

By DICK VICTORY

Remarkable, this thing called TV
Yet I think it never will be
So effective as what lets a fella like Marion scream ant. "Stella"

These new "TV zone" shows do something strang to me. They usually feature as the MC some weird-looking character with all kinds of complexes.

The subjects of these shows? Ah, yes. To give some guy or girl as strange as the MC some cash. They're usually very deserving. They're usually the same or their line's just thin or they have finished this sentence correctly in three words or less: I would like to be on the Before this show I had a Soviet premier speak . . . As you can see, this one has a all-woman panel.

Yes, they're very deserving.

On. Justice. On. fairness. On, all sorts of things that ain't. Now, the three favorite shows, and excerpts from each.

Your Name's a Shame. This is the pathetic little program that brings many stirring moments.

R. Q. L. "Sir, may I ask your name?"

?: "You may."

R. Q. L.: "Yes. Well sir, what is your name?"

?: "Disgrace. J. Paul Disgrace."

R. Q. L.: "That's a shame."

Distrurse: "Yes, isn't it."

WHAT'S MY RACKET? It's supervised by John Daily. Even his name implies he's rascal and always on schedule. With the program, that is. The contestants are well-known hoods and other dishonorables from in and around the Tallahassee area. Such law abiding citizens as Brother Person and Georgi Seminole appear on the panel to erase-examine the contestants.

Georgi and Dreer (in unison): OK buddy, what's your racket?

Guest: I'm a salesman.

G & D: What do you sell?

Guest: Shes.

G & D: How about selling a few to the senate?

Guest: I'll have to have references. Real names, Dreer in the chair and Georgi seems to fear.

Dreer: How about it, Georgi?

Georgi: No speakum.

Dreer: Mumble. Civil rights. Mumble. 5th amendment.

This last one isn't exactly a panel show, but many people pan it anyway.

THIS IS YOUR WIFE? A well known group of Tallahassee smashes the reasons and results of marriage.
They found (1) Most men marry women, and then again.
(2) Some men are happy.
Needless to say, it's needless to say.

Dear Mama Seminole

Dear Mama Seminole,

Dr. Dorgett says the pasuum English use no need unum Indian talk any longer. Wat's the matter me in next letter for real good English. Seminole talk is all right for Seminole now you in college requires more educated phrase like "Sure you ten! Here's to good health and short hangover! He sure looped me that one. Dig that crazy cat.

Speaking of cats, one of the most upstanding fellows on the campus got her tail caught in the door to the art reference room in the library. You know, it was a week and a half before anyone found that poor mother. That is enough to give anyone kittens.

There are some worthy people around this joint that really know how to appreciate a good library. They are known as professors. It is really surprising what you can sing seen in the library quite frequently will do for your grade point average. You don't have to read anything educational. Just look at the NEW YORKER cartoons, or the MODERN PHOTOGRAPHY. If you really want to make the prof's eyes jump, be seen thumbing over one something by John Dewey, or Emerson, or, for sure, your favorite prof's own book.

There is one really wonderful thing about that library though. They certainly are saving money this year. I grab my book satchel and rush for the door and a nice little lady curls her finger at me. After asking about the weather and un-zipping my brief, and glaring into it I finally stroll out the front door to see the rear of the last bus pass over the horizon.

The three-mile hike is nothing compared to the bush insult to my dignity and honor. There are other organizations which have such efficient systems of checking—most prisons, the Communist party, the FSU Senate. I wonder just how much per student, subtracting the wages of the checker, is saved by the process. Merchants have found such systems to be such poor public relations that they are unprofitable.

I also wonder just how much a student would pay to be trusted and to overcome the dishonesty of others. I further wonder how much in dollars and cents value, six thousand students would receive from the example of honor and trust I found to be so refreshing and inspiring in a world of mistrust, when first entered Florida State.

Love all.
Georgie Seminole.

THE FREE LANCE

Here's Bouquet Of Kudos, Brickbats

By BRUCE GALPHIN

The coming first semester graduation is giving me an uneasy feeling. It makes me realize that in four short months I myself will be leaving FSU and the life I have known for four years.

Just when I am beginning to get in the pace of things, just when I begin to feel I have a real place in the university (student) status quo (standing), the end comes in sight. It's most discouraging.

Of course the thing I will miss most will be all the friends, acquaintances and assorted characters I have met here. Some of them will be hard to forget.

So I want to take this chance to pay tribute to one of my best columnists, one of my favorite people. All year long I have enjoyed and fumed at Beverly Lacayo to the effect that I have said so in your column. What do you mean you're deadly ill? Get in that column. I don't care if you are leaving town and have three exams tomorrow, get it in.

Or else it runs:

"What will that girl say next?" which means, "What will the people say next after reading this column?"

I was only kidding, Beverly. The fact is that no matter what subject Beverly wrote on, few ever got hot under the collar. She had a way of pulling over whatever she had to say in a reasonable, interesting manner. In between the bits of campus gossip and humor were always philosophical thoughts.

Of course the thing I will miss most will be all the friends, acquaintances and assorted characters I have met here. Some of them will be hard to forget.

So I want to take this chance to pay tribute to one of my best columnists, one of my favorite people. All year long I have enjoyed and fumed at Beverly Lacayo to the effect that I have said so in your column. What do you mean you're deadly ill? Get in that column. I don't care if you are leaving town and have three exams tomorrow, get it in.

Or else it runs:

Going from one extreme to another, but staying on the subject of departure. Quite a number of people will be surprised (pleasantly or otherwise) to learn that Wayne Terry is transferring out of FSU to Kentucky.

I have had the privilege of knowing Wayne almost as intimately all the way down the line . . . on almost every topic. I have observed his methods as well. He believes in the stirring up method, by various methods, behind the diamond charm if necessary. He may or may not be right (I think not) but he certainly has been successful. And one must certainly give him credit for selling quite a number of political candidates to the student body. Those who depended on Wayne for election are going to find quite a hush spot around FSU.

Come to think of it, I wonder if Wayne is not going to Kentucky to better certainly have a future in politics.

Wayne, Wayne. Come back Wayne!

CAMPUS CARAVAN

On Free Enterprise, F's, Freedom

By BEVERLY LACAYO

FREE ENTERPRISE IN BACK!

Hero of the day is fellow columnist Dave Dreis who has wandered from the ivory tower and has enough to work up his own radio program and get it sponsored by Palwer's Drive-In. The program (1:30 to 2:00 over WTNT) features college student opinions, a three hour course; you eat it the day before and the day after hoosiers-of-the-week and a short course; proceed in the same order as the first course and then again at Christmas, soon you are failing nothing at all, and your worries are over.)

1) If you have been naive enough to think you were getting by, and along about January your inhibitions crumble, a short course will really make you sweat as he had added much to the campus interest in Student Government, which interest is generally apathetic in the absence of scandal.

COME BACK, WAYNE THERE'S WORK TO BE DONE WAYNE. SPRING ELECTIONS ARE COMING, WAYNE. THE PEOPLE NEED A HAND-ED. WAYNE, COME BACK.

ETCETERA ETCHINGS

Dreis Picks Mikeman's Job Best

By DAVID DREIS

What's the best job to get in the acting profession? Well, you may not realize it, but the guys and gals who do their emoting before a microphone get my nod for being in the best job for acting profession offers.

If all actor can crack into this golden circle of thespians, then he can be set for life with the security and the money good to better, depending on your individual talents.

Perhaps the best job in acting is steady employ of advertising agencies, announcing and writing syndicate is pulling down as great a salary as the big screen star or a top-flight footlight performer, but the chances of him remaining in the top of his field for a long time is better than the footlighters.

Karl Swenson is one example of the top-flight radio actor who has to go through the mike check. Swenson may not be known by that name, but certainly you know Lord Henry Brimford who found 'Our Miss Brooks' and her gang minus town in Silver Creek, Colorado, or the zany inventor Lorenzo Jones and his wife Belle down on Bell 10 the booby-hatch. Okay, so you're not a soap-opera listener, but surely you've listened to Mr. Chameleon, the detective of many disguises.

'That's Swenson . . . getting paid from all those shows.

Some radio actors make most of their money sticking with one character and Bruce Beatie is one sterling example. The husky radio actor is known to 'Mike Hale-child as Tennessee Ernie, the Lone Ranger.

Dwight Weist is an ace announcer who has the commonies of many a radio program. He's on his way a few bucks by playing The Second Mrs. Burton's first husband.

When a radio actor is able to get notice in supporting roles, the networks are quick to offer him a contract, and that he doesn't flit from one to another. Larry Dyer is now starred as Lt. Danny Clover in "Broadway's My Beat" over CBS, but fame and fortune made his name as "Mr. Dis-trict Attorney" and everyone knows the Stan Freberg character who made his name as the voice of the Pepsodent man which he copied from a real life Pepsodent freak . . . This feller used to handle a show called "Johnny Madero" over Mutual.

Sometimes an actor's voice becomes so identified with the character he plays that actor becomes a steady job. Good ole "Mary Backstage, Noble Wilhas had the same one playing her since its inception. "Della Stalks" voice is also a recognizable one. She's been on the air for 19 years.

Albert Aley and the rest of the actors on "Let's Pretend" have been with the show since Nila Mack started it almost 20 years ago. The actors such as Aley and Bea Benaderet have steps to seem get emotion-filled in the pretty easily.

Everett Sloan has been a top radio actor for years, but has recently gone cinema. He is still making his radio bow to get to a microphone. Frank Lovejoy was starred in the film when he was playing Dick Powell's "Richard Diamond, Private Detective" on "Mr. Friend Jane" for many years.

Ted Bliss, radio director-producer and many times writer-actor of "Suspense" now has his wife Agnes Moorehead, his wife Cathy, who portrayed the "Lady Vanishes" on "Big Jon" Friend Irma." The show is called, "On Stage" and is a pretty good ditty.

Yep, the other emoters latch on to jobs of loot in their find. Some of them stay steadier, too. They may not have great looks, but failure has provided them with a characteristic voice and as long as radio exists so will they.

THE FLAY-LANCE

Efficiency Of Soda Shop Challenged

By BOB RICE

With all the committees, subcommittees, and sub-sub-committees currently at work in the Senate, it's about time one was appointed to look into some of the many campus institutions that need probing.

Latterly under the Senate's feet is a problem that several hundred students face daily. That problem is the Longmire Soda Shop itself, and I'd like to tit it. As students attending a state institution, paid for and supported by public funds, they have a right to expect efficient, courteous service, regular hours, and a pleasant atmosphere, as well as well prepared food. It is indeed unfortunate that their expectations have suffered so badly, and it is little wonder that their resentment is becoming more and more apparent.

Now specifically, are students asking for? Cleanliness, courteous service, well prepared food, and a genial atmosphere, with the stress on the latter. I they should have had without having to request it. If this is of all precautions you have taken into every letter and are headed for A D or an F, then cut as often as possible before and after a school holiday or that you'll end up with as few hours of the desired course as possible. (This strategy works in the following manner: you have fallen students, a three hour course; you cut 8 the day before and the day after hoosiers-of-the-week and a short 2/3 of your credit and now are failing nothing at all, and your course; proceed in the same order as the first course and then again at Christmas, soon you are failing nothing at all, and your worries are over.)

3) You have been naive enough to think you were getting by, and along about January your inhibitions crumble, a short course will really make you sweat as he had added much to the campus interest in Student Government, which interest is generally apathetic in the absence of scandal.

COME BACK, WAYNE THERE'S WORK TO BE DONE WAYNE. SPRING ELECTIONS ARE COMING, WAYNE. THE PEOPLE NEED A HAND-ED. WAYNE, COME BACK.

Letters to the Editor . . .

Short Coke

Dear Editor of the Flambeau:

We are three Freshman girls who attended the committee hearing against the Flambeau the other night. We don't know what they will decide, but we thought it was very interesting to find out what really goes on in student government.

It's obvious that the girl senators are the only ones that can think straight. Jimmy Soles is good too. We don't like the way everyone picked on poor Gene Lawler. After all he is the president of our Senate. The committee shouldn't have let people get so mean. They also mentioned ugly words like Ex-Lax and Castor Oil Manship.

We sincerely think that if people would be nice to each other and love each other like a brother, or even like a friend, this world would be much nicer and life would be happier everybody.

We also think Bruce Galphin is a nice person. In fact, so was Gordon Gaster. They should both run and have a short coke together until this nasty thing is settled.

Sincerely yours,
Betty Jane Gunnels
Martha Ann Wells
Billie Jo Baker

(Continued on Page 3)

Dr. Hay Advises Students Interested In Foreign Study, Consider Britain

[Students] who wish to travel [and] study abroad may wish [to] [go] into courses offered by the [Brit]ish Universities, Dr. Marioo [Hay], Professor of Education, an[nou]nced this week.

[Br]itish Universities have com[bin]ed since 1948 to organize an[nual]ly a special program of sum[mer] schools providing primarily [for] the needs of postgraduate stu[dent]s from the Universities of [Ame]rica, Europe and the British [Com]monwealth. The cost is small [and] reasonable.

In 1949, Florida State University had three students who were accepted to study at the University of Edinburgh in Scotland. The farmer students who traveled at Europe under this [pl]an are Elaine Adams, eBtty [...], and Martin Psimer, now [...]

[Alt]hough the number of places [is] restricted and the courses are [int]ended mainly for postgraduate [stud]ents, including teachers in [univ]ersities and schools, applica[tions] are carefully considered from [stud]ents with suitable qualifications, [espe]cially undergraduates in their [last] two years at a University.

[L]asting six weeks, the schools [are] recognized for grants under [the] G I Bil. of Rights, and credits [are] counted at American Universi[ties]. An important aspect will be [the] [tutori]al work in small groups ar[ran]ged on the lines of the tutorial [syst]em at British Universities.

A limited number of partial [sch]olarships are awarded to [qu]alified students who would not [be] able to go to Europe without [the] financial aid of the scholar[shi]p.

[Dr.] Hay recommends the Uni[vers]ity of Edinburgh in Scotland [to] undergraduates who might be [inte]rested in the course offered—[The] Development of Modern [West]ern Civilization' History, Lit[erat]ure Ideas'. The subject will [be] studied in two sections—(a) [Hist]ory (b) Litereture and Ideas. [Stud]ents will be asked to indicate [whi]ch of these two sections they [woul]d prefer to study.

[Dr.] Hay also recommends the [Univ]ersity of Oxford in London for [grad]uate or upperclass students interested in studying 'Politics and Literature in the Twentieth Century.'

The cost of each course, which includes tuition and excorsions farming part of the course, board and room for six weeks is approximately $204 in American dollars.

For travel coovenience, the Cunard Steamship Company offers special student passages at reduced rates for successful applicants. The student tourist fares on these ships are from $170 to $175 each way, and the cabin-class fares range from $220 to $235 each way.

Interested studants should contact Dr. Marioo Hay for further details on qualifications and applications far admission ta the Universities. Special round-trip rates for successful applicants are also offered ta students at $300 and $320 round-trip sailings.

Another way of getting to and from Europe at minimum cost is offered by the Castel Felice lines. On special student sailings, a limited number of students and teachers cao travel to and from Europe without cost by serving on the educational and recreational staff of the Castel Felice.

Duties of the staff include assistance with the program of lectures and discussions about the European countries and problems of the educational tourist, language classes, the newspaper and library; and supervision of the deck games, swimming, talent shows, dances, moving pictures and shipboard discipline.

Minimum fares aboard the Castel Felice are $130 each way and $140 each way, depending on the point of departure.

For further information on application for staff duty or bookings, students will find the information posted on the bulletin board in the Flambeau office.

NO TALK, NO COMMENT

(ACP)—Students at the University of Colorado could raise no comment from university Pres. Ward Darley when the invitation of Aaron Copland to speak on campus was canceled.

Copeland, Pulitzer prize winning composer, was invited to deliver the fourth in what has been an annual series of lectures. Questioned on whether the lecture was canceled because an Illinois congressman, recently charged Copland belonged to from 21 to 30 subversive organizations, Pres. Darley would only answer, "The lecture has been cancelled."

Sutherland

From Page 1

which means that when laws are made, they must be fair to citizens, Sutherland said.

Throughout his speech Sutherland cited cases of the Supreme Court in the past and pointed out ways that the court has gained power and decided what powers it should have.

In conclusion Sutherland said the Supreme Court performs a function like counting to 10 when someone gets mad before he says anything. In this age when people are apt to be angry and harsh, Sutherland says that there should be some agency to count to 10, and he suspects that the Supreme Court will always have a degree of unfinished business.

FSU Journalist

Fram Page 1

cause he knows that a free press and a free people are inseparable. He knaws that Commnnism cannot succeed anless the newspaper is muffled and manacled. He would handcuff the mind and shackle tha soul of every free man.

"Fifth, there is the ivory tower agitator," he concluded. "He shouts that newspapers all the time are guilty of any sin any newspaper committed any time. His evidence may be inaccurate, incomplete, and insubstantial, yet he continued to make sweeping generalizations.

"One fact is certain," Dean Campbell warned. "When we read the obituary of the free press, we shall read the epitaph of democracy."

Graduation Set

From Paga 1

Mayo Drake, Bennie Wendel Jones, F. Malcolm McMullen.

Bachelor of Arts

Harold Edwin Long.

SCHOOL OF SOCIAL WELFARE

Bachelor of Science

Sara Brewton Avery, Joy Carter, Caroline C. Clark, Mary Helena Fry, Mary Alberta Louthan, Marylaide Granaghan Newell.

LIBRARY SCHOOL

Bachelor of Arts

Helen Marie Black, Hannah Josepaina Kunkle, Gay Hamrick Laffitte.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC

Bachelor of Music Education

Lera Judith Carver, Elizabeth Annette Darsey, Elbert William Head, Esther Jane Elise Merlin.

SCHOOL OF HOME ECONOMICS

Bachelor of Science

Dorothy George, Josephine Katherine Johnston, Joyce Elizabeth Parrott, Phyllis Ann Pittman, Marie J. Sims, Mary Ann Thomas, Patricia Sue Vines.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

Bachelor of Science

James Arnold Adams, Josephine Olema Alvardo, Nancy Sue Baxter, Caroline Gene Boldi, Louise Marie Brashaw, Harry Randall Bringger, Virginia Barbara Di Cristafaro, Sara Mary Ellis, Kenneth Joe Englehart, Cynthia Ann Faneuf, Mary Helen Folds, Sarah Evalyn Gossman, Ruth Spencer Griffin, Elizabeth Ann Hill, Fred W. Hoover, Lucy Hargrave Hudson, Alice Maxine Johnson, Frances Louise Johnson, Alice M. Johnston, Minnie Frances Jones, Harriet Haywood Knight, Ellen Juanita Lawrence, Donald Paul Linton, Helen Aline Mansfield, Martha Elaine Marcum, Sandra Benson Marks, Pearl D Martin, Mary Wanda McClung, Bobbie Lou McPherson, Nathetta Mae McWherter, Virginia Louise Merrill.

Dorothy Hargrove Buck, Barbara Jean Butler, Billie Deve Casey, *William Joseph Chesser, Willie Louise Commander, Caroline Euphemia Cox, *Glen E. Clark, Richard Walker Mize, Marvin Albert Molinow, Virginia Leona Norris, Robert Patrick O'Connell, Jeanne Parsons, Mary Ella Patrick, Maudie Pierce Phoebus, Lorraine L. Powlus, Ruby Margaret Reeder, Frances Serena Rumbley, Doris Partin Schauttest, Benjie Hodges Schroeder, Dolores Gwendolyn Smith, Edna Ann Spencer, Rossie T. Stanfill, John Deterick Stanton, Barbara Katharine Thomas, William Toole, Gloria Jean Ward, Ruth Jones, Weekes, Pencie Eugenia Wester, Bob C. White, Jean Elizabeth White, Jerry Anne Wood.

Bachelor of Arts

Barbara Anna Barnett, Ja Claire Cannon, Elizabeth Palermo Friend, Ann Jones Lacy, Josephine Spicola, Phyllis Celia Whisenant, Nancy Cannon Wilson.

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

Bachelor of Science

Charles Lamar Brown, Cosmo Daniel Cardone, Clarence Alfred Carpenter, William Chavers, Amos S Cobbey, Richard W. Conn, James Percy Coombs, John Wilmer Curry, James Gilbert Delafave, Dennis Beecher Parrott, Thomas John Paulis, John E. Rehn, Kenneth Wayne Smith.

James Louis Friend, Jane Power Gardner, Geraldine R. M Harrington, Robert Malcolm Henry, Marianne Virginia Hussey, Howard Thomas Kelly, Raymond Krupe, Nancy Jewell Miller, John C. Neill, Vann Eugene Streety, Elsie Martha Ulmo, Steven Albert Zatyka.

Bachelor of Arts

John D. Ayres, Jr., Charles H Bogdahn, Carolyn Fredricka Briles, Flora Ida Callin, Donald Clemens Chaplin, Dorothy A. Dean, Catherine Begina Devina, Robin Nelson Downes, Earlynn Vana Grant, Beverly Maria Laaya, Virginia Jo-Ana Lundy, James Paul Ristig, Jr., Beverly Parker Wright.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

Master of Music Education

Mabel Allen Vincent

Master of Music

John Fenton Spratt.

Master of Science

Eugene E. Boelling, Edwin Bailey Browning, William Clarence Burdeshaw, Richard C. Burriss, Donald Lyvonn Cribbs, Robert Bigelow Des Jardines, Mabel Ruth Dix, Hal H Dunning, Lydia Boyee Faula, Clarence W. Hardiman, Alvin Herman Hecht, Jr., Helen Lazar Hightower, Hugh Stanley Hill, Bernard Hirsch, Robert Gerald Jones, Bert Fredrick Kremp, William Clyde Mathews, Honor [...], Robert Edward Mills, Orrin Bert Powell, Jr., Marguerite Cassels Reeves, Homer Joe Rutherford, Jr., Chester Earl Sias, Theo. E. Sommerkamp, Rudolph Speis, Earle Charles Taylor, Sandra Fleming, Padgett Vanderripe, Mazie D. Walker, Beverly Jean Renmeert Woods, Jack Whitney Woods.

Master of Arts

Glenn T. Allen, Jr., Lou Jean Crum, Kathryn Lee Duggan, George High Frank, Elva W. Gray, Richard Johnson, Jay Louis Ladd, Ruth Manners, Tayle Menke, John Francis Murray, Lois Bardin Wood.

Advanced Master of Education

Huey Thaxton Murphy.

Master of Social Work

Ruth D. Painter.

Murphree Hall Reception Held For Guest-Star

Blood, sweat, and tears, is the stuff Miss Cornelia Otis Skinner says her essays are made of. Miss Skinner was honored at a small reception in Jennie Murphree Hall, Wednesday evening.

The prominent writer and actress appeared at the reception after her performance at Leon High School. Abont 100 guests chosen from the faculty and student body attended.

The guests questiooed Miss Skinner on her travels and work. It was noticed by many of the guests how easily they could become fascinated with Miss Skinner—her personality and her conversation. Many said it was evident that she was at ease and enjoyed talking to people.

Miss Skinner told her admirers how she posed an essay. She stated that the birth of the writing is done in anguish, but she felt the work was worth while when the writing was completed.

She told her listeners at the reception that she always kept an ear apen far accents. She stated that she sometimes doesn't hear what people are talking about because she is so attracted by their accents..

The play "Blood and Sand," some years ago, featured Miss Skinner and her father as a team. Miss Skinner was heard to remark that she worked as hard on the one line in that play as she did in many of her larger parts.

The best-seller, which she wrote in collaboration with Emily Kimbrough, Our Hearts Were Young and Gay, was made into a movie a few years ago.

A book more recently written by Miss Skinner is titled Family Circle. It is the story of her distinguished mother and father, Otis Skinner and Maude Durbin.

Men Approve

From Paga 1

read as follows: "The Men's Vice-Presidency and the Women's Vice-Presidency shall be filled by an election my majority vote in their respective Senates. . . . All succeeding officers must have the same constitutional qualifications as the original elected officers." Section A outlines the scholastic qualifications and gives the requirement of Junior and Senior standing for vice-presidents.

Would-Be Tycoons 'Play The Market' At Duke University

(ACP)—Student engineers work with actual motors, home economics majors bake cakes with real flour and—at North Carolina's Duke University—finance majors play the market with real money, reports an article in the December issue of Pageant magazine.

Source of the money is a Winston-Salem philanthropist who has supplied a $10,000 cash fund to the university to give students practical experience in investment techniques. The money has been set up in a trust fund; young investors aren't a penny richer if they run up to a million dollars, nor do they starve if they loose every red cent.

There are only two hard and fast investment rules: students can't sell short, and they can't buy on margin. Each term six students are chosen to serve on a board of directors, with the complete say about what investments will be made, when stocks will be bought, when sold and how they'll hold on to them.

If threads wind around the rotating brush in your vacuum cleaner, run a pair of scissors lengthwise through the bristles to clip the thread; brush off.

News Briefs

From Page 1

don, house president: Barbara Meadows, house vice-president: Jane Smith, social chairman. Betti Lawrence, ritual chairman; Sue Humphreys, scholarship chairman; Denise Dever, song leader; June Yates, historian, and Virginia Ann Cook, rush chairman.

Plans were made for the sorority's annual weekend which will be on February 27. An international party is being planned for that Friday night and a formal dance on Saturday.

SAE ELECTS

Frank Shaw was re-elected president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon at their recent election. Also elected were Bill Carraway, vice-president; Bill Stanick, secretary; Jerry Myeer, treasurer, and Boh Critendon pledge trainer.

The elections were held Monday, January 18.

CAMPERS, AWAKE!

Organizations planning to engage Camp Seminole's facilities during the second semester should make reservations soon at room 212, Women's Gymnasium, according to Nancy V. Alexander of the office of the camp director.

Advance reservations are permitted after February 1 on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday between 1:30 and 2:30 p m.

Recording secretary, Lihby Fahle; corresponding secretary, Dons Hell; historian, Pat O'Brieo; marshall, Emily Pace; journal correspondent, Anita Brunson; membership chairman, Joan Johansen and council-member-at-large, Grace Schatsman.

They were elected Monday, January 18.

PI KAPPA PHI, TOO

Members of Pi Kappa Phi, national social fraternity here recently elected officers for the Spring semester.

Alan Sundberg was named president, while Vic Spoto was elected treasurer. Secretary's office will be filled by J. Gary Campbell; Frank Bean, historian; Leo Almerico, warden, and Tom Althauser, chaplain.

MILITARIST ORIENTED

Lt. Col. Philip S. Greene, professor of Military Science and Tactics here, spent two days recently at Ft. McPherson, Ga., being oriented on Third Army matters.

While at the Army Headquarters, Col. Greene met with Maj. Gen. Edward T Williams, Deputy Commanding General, Thtrd Army.

Col. Greene was briefed by all staff sections of the Third Army.

DENYES IS EDITOR

Dr. Arliss Denyes, Physiology Department, has been appointed a consulting editor to a new publication for the State of Florida. The Everglades Natural History Association sponsers a magazine entitled Everglades Natural History which began publication in March, 1953.

The magazine contains many short articles by naturalists on various forms of lifa and their activities in the Everglades. This relatively unknown area has long fascinated biologists and a magazine for the purpose of recording the wildlifa of this region should be of great interest to all persons who enjoy knowledge or experiences in the out-of-doors, according to spokesmen for the Physiology Department here.

SWEETHEART DANCE

Jennie Murphee will hold its annual Sweetheart Dance February 15. Five candidates for queen are Gail Stone, Carmine Ranieri, Ferrel Dewitt, Cheyney Sanderson and Betty Lou Whittle. Pictures of the candidates have been posted at the dormitory.

The identity of the queen, to be chosen from the five soon, will be withheld until the night of the dance, spokesmen said.

Students Learn From Federal Administrators

The School of Public Administration here expects a good bit of the know-how in running governments to be transplanted at Florida State University during thee spring Semester.

Top federal administrators will serve as visiting lecturers in the School of Public Administration next semester, bringing to life the facts of textbooks.

Heading the list of visiting lecturers will be Eugene M. Zuckert, member of the Atomic Energy Commission, and F. P. Brassor, executive secretary of the recently created Hoover Commission on the Organization of Government

Other topics to be delivered during the semester in the course called "Administration and Management in the Federal Government" will be on foreign operations, department of defense, post office department, United Nations Federal Field Service and the Internal Revenue service.

Dr. Paul Piccard, visiting professor in the FSU School of Public Administration who will conduct the course, said that because the course has a new topic, the students wha have taken the course under this title before can take it again for credit. Last year, top TVA administrators presented a practical study of their organization. In 1852 the Secretary of Commerce and members of his staff gave FSU stadents an inside view of the commerce department.

Dr. Wilson K. Doyle of the School of Public Administration here said, "This year we are covering a variety of topics in our Federal course so students can experience first hand administrative problems throughout our national government."

Efficiency

(Continued from Page 2)

A well organized, and efficiently run soda shop should have, in our estimation, (1) a clean floor, (2) clean tables, (3) a spotless fountain area, (4) clean silverware, and (5) unlittered tables.

The facts show that (1) it's almost impossible to find an empty tabla that isn't completely covered with refuse, (2) both the table and floor are filthy, (3) the fountain area could stand more atteotion, and (4) the silverware is not clean. Even a beginning student in Hotel and Restaurant Management knows that these things are necessary. After five months of seeing it the soda shop staff should know it also.

Courteous service is another matter. Several of the employees ara exceptionally helpful, but those that are not more than neutralize the pleasant impressions left hy those who are. No one likes to be ignored, insulted, or snapped at, and they are certainly not going to pay for the privilege of receiving abuse. This would not be tolerated in a private business, and there is no reason why it should be here.

The well-prepared food is non-existent. Cream in coffee is measured with an eye-dropper; sandwiches, if prepared by the soda shop to order, are literally slapped together and thrown at the customer; chile is served cold more often than it is hot: hamburgers are supposedly kept warm in a pie plate on a hot plate; and to ask to have a new bun cut, instead of using one that has been hardening for a day, brings threat of capital punishment.

There is a new, hardly used, stove in the back kitchen that could easily keep food in edible shape. It's too bad that the students are not receiving the use of the money that tax payers put into it.

There are very few times that a student can order a sandwich after 2 during the week, or 12 on Saturday. With the Seminole room open during this time, for storage, it looks like some arrangement could be made for food supplies in case of shortage. After five months of "sorry, but we're out of sandwiches" it seems that a careful look at the buying and serving policy would be in order. In the days of refrigeration, spoilage is a very poor excuse.

The genial atmosphere deals with the same problems shown in courteous service. Among the complainst made by the administration against the student body has been "they won't patronize our facilities." Well, you can't blame the students. A customer goes where he gets his money's worth, and even at cut-rate prices, the Longmire Soda Shop isn't one of them. The resentments gathered here, and elsewhere, are held against the entire university program, and until the university takes an interest in cleaning up these conditions, student patronage and morale will remain at low ebb.

SOPHOMORES CUT MOST

(ACP)—Among students at Smith College, sophomores are the most prone to cut classes. A recent poll showed 53 per cent of the sophs cut at least once a week, and for three main reasons: Studying for exams, dull classes and out-of-town weekends that conflict with Saturday classes.

There are about 200 species of carnivorous mammals.

Campbell Speaks on Preventive Measures for Juvenile Problem

What can Florida do to protect its greatest resource . . . its vast army of children and youth?

This was a question raised by Dr. Doak S Campbell, presideot of Florida State University in a recent address befors the Bradenton Woman's Club.

"Our answer should be affected by our consideration of the things that could possibly happen to this, our most precious resource," he said.

"Just as we have soil erosion, so can we have its counterpart, a sort of human erosion wherein the fine productive qualities in human beings can be neglected and lost."

The university president said one of the erosions of youth is juvenile delinquency. He said the causes of this condition are fairly easy to understand.

"Most of them can be controlled if we are willing to take the trouble to work consistently at the problem," he said.

Dr. Campbell pointed out that preventive measures are more effective and less expensive than remedial or restorative measures. He said there is one significant difference between the conservation of human and material resources.

"This generation of young people are yanng and impressionable for but a short time." the speaker said. "Opportunity to conserve the best that is in them comes bat ance and is of short duration. Wa cannot afford to wait a more convenient season.

"Every social agency, the homes, churches, schools, clubs—all organizations that are interested in human betterment, will be required to do their utmost if we are to prevent what might well be an impairment of our greatest resource."

Dr. Campbell pointed out that two factors have operated to give Florida a youth population of great proportions at this time. Ha said the birth rate, greatly redaced during the depression years, began ta accelerate in the late 28's.

"From 1939, due to the onset of the war the rate was further accelereted so that we are now experiening in our public schools a critical condition," the university president said. "Shortages of housing and teaching force are to be found in practically every community in tha state."

Committee Finds

From Page 1

satire and expressed the opinion of an individual and not that of the whole editorial staff.

3. Regarding the column entitled "The Needle," which recently was a feature of the paper, the committee suggests that the Flambeau editorial staff use more discretion and have higher standards in the future choice of columns to appear in the paper. Wa also strongly recommend that tha Flambeau print a front-paga blanket retraction and apology for the detrimental comments made on individuals during the time "The Needle" appeared in the paper.

4. There should be more accuracy in news coverage, particularly in important front page news articles. We suggest that direct quotations be printed only with the verification of the person quoted. As to the particular article in question, which appeared on Jan. 8, 1854, and concerned the roll call bill passed by the Senate, we feel that it unintentionally misrepresented the Senate proceedings in regard to that bill.

5. All columns should be signed by the writer or by a well-known pseudonym.

The editorial staff should be above using obsecenity, actually or implied, in editorials. The staff was guilty of this charge on December 15, 1853, in the "Staff Pens Letter to Santa" editorial.

Editor Galphin, asked for comment, said he thought the committee's report was "quite fair," and added that the staff "will seriously take the committee's suggestions into consideration."

47 Girls Initiated Into Local Chapter Of Kappa Delta Pi

Kappa Delta Pi, local chapter of the national education honorary here initiated 47 members into the ranks last night, spokesmen said today.

New members of the honorary include Laura Grace Fox, Frances Johnson, Maurice Peterson, Bette M. Syrgley, Sara F. Whitehead, Annette Darsey and Dolores Hicks.

Jean Hinson, Bette Sue Fryer, Joan E. Mynihan, Patricia M. O'Brien, Joan Hedelin, Ann Moore and Shirley Simpson.

Also, Valeska Taxwood, Rath Spencer Griffin, Irene M. Hall, William E. Head, Harriet E. Ramsey, Juanita King, Beverly Bennett and Pat Guthrie.

Also, Mary H. Hargrove, Eva Nesbitt, Dorothy Eisenstein, Frances Helms, Jane Townsend Scott, Helen Whitmore, Mary Ann Bohlayer, Peter Dunn-Rankin, Sonya Meyer, Yvonne Warren and Betty Karzan.

Also, Juanita Wimberly, Joyce Johnson, Lois McPhers Preston, Letitia Silver, Syble Snell, Mavis Stewart, Anibel Tyrell, Naida Ann Whittle, Betty Zoll, Pat Duane, Loretta Green and Marian Payne.

A program followed the initiation ceremonies at which Dr. Simon M. Davidian, traveler and authority on the Near East, spoke on "What Is Russia Trying to Do?"

Dr. Davidian, pastor of the Christian Church in Tallahassee, is a native Armenian. Educated in the U. S., he has had many years of platform experience, having been with Rotary Institutes of International Understanding, National Lecture Bureau and the Midwest Bureau.

ALPHA XI ELECTS

New officers for Alpha Xi Delta are Madelyn Ricker, president; vice-president, Priscilla Holmes; treasurer, Nancy Brenner; Assistant treasurer, Betty Sullivan.

English Department

From Page 1

ers), "Studies in Chaucer" (Dr. Ben Carroll), "Studies in Renaissance Poetry" (Dr. Carmen Rogers), "Pope, Swift and Johnson" (Dr. Sarah Herndon), "Modern English Literature" (Dr. Kellogg Hunt), and "Seminar in American Realism" (Dr. William Randel).

At least three of these courses will be scheduled at times convenient for high school teachers.

MALONE'S BOOK STORE
Used Books
Cash for your
ON SECOND SEMESTER BOOKS.
TRADE THE BOOKS YOU NO LONGER NEED
SAVE MONEY—
Remember—

You Have to Be Pretty Smart . . .
TO GO TO COLLEGE!
But you don't need a Ph.D. to know a good bargain when it slaps you in the face . . . like the 10 DINNER CHOICES with 5 DELICIOUS PIES for the ridiculously low price of 85c at CAPITAL CAFE
Come in for Lunch, Dinner or in-between!
Across the Street From Sears Roebuck

FLORIDA
Wed. Thru. Sat.
"3 Sailors and a Girl"
JANE POWELL
GORDON MacRAE
GENE NELSON

CAPITAL DRIVE-IN Friday & Saturday
"To the Shores of Tripoli"
RANDOLPH SCOTT
MAUREEN O'HARA
and JOHN PAYNE
also
REX ALLEN
in
'Iron Mountain Trail'

PERRY HIGHWAY OUTDOOR
Friday & Saturday
"I Was a Male War Bride"
CARY GRANT
and ANN SHERIDAN
also
"Hiawatha"
With Vincent Edwards and Yvette Dugay

STATE
WED. THRU SAT.
"Forever Female"
GINGER ROGERS
William Holden - Paul Douglas
Also
F.S.U.'s TARPON CLUB
In
"Water Swimphony"

STARTS WEDNESDAY, JAN. 27th
THE FIRST PICTURE ON THE NEW MIRACLE CURVED SCREEN!
CINEMASCOPE

A Magnificent and Great Story of Love, Faith ... and Spectacle!
The Robe
TECHNICOLOR
No Special Glasses Needed!
BURTON · SIMMONS · MATURE · RENNIE
MATINEE 75c EVENING $1.00 KIDDIES 40c
FLORIDA
Box Office Feature at Noon Opens 11:45 a.m.

Remember—
SAVE MONEY
TRADE THE BOOKS YOU NO LONGER NEED ON SECOND SEMESTER BOOKS
Cash For Your Used Books
Malone's Book Store

Candlelite Buffet
EACH SUNDAY
6 — 8 p. m.
the Green Room
Floridan Hotel
$1.50 Per Person
Child's Portion .75

Like Drive-Ins?
or do you
Like a Place to Sit Down and Be Served?
or do you
Like Free Delivery Right to Your Door?
QUAKER HOUSE
on the Quincy H'way
Just off the campus and serving delicious sandwiches, lunches and soda fountain items . . . Specially for you!
Come Out Tonight!

Seniors Selected For Appearance In Publication

Thirty seniors from Florida State University have been selected by their classmates and juniors as the outstanding members of the class and will appear in Who's Who In American Colleges and Universities publication, it was announced yesterday.

The thirty seniors will appear as FSU's outstanding students in this year's national publication.

Selected from eighty turned in by a committee of juniors earlier this month, the thirty were chosen by secret ballot by seniors attending the last class supper in December.

Selected are Ardis Bourland, Milton Carothers, Jane Conyers, Colin Enslish, Betty Sue Fryer and Bruce Galphin.

Carolyn Gola, Ruthie Spencer Griffin, Richard Guttine, John Howard, Beverly Lacroix, Polly Lassiter and Eugene Lawler.

Also, Yvonne McCarthy, Charles McDaniel, Jane Merlin, Sonya Mever, June McGill, Katherine Marrow, Margaret Nuccallah, Kirne Newlin, Margaret Jean Parham and Pat Renick.

Rounding out the list are Shirley Knisht Revell, Judy Simpkins, Roy Staton, Jean Shepherd, Betty Whitmore, Chris Young and Marv Ann Zeiger.

Who's Who has listings from about 850 colleges and universities all over the United States. The organization also offers a placement service and gives each of the students honored a certificate of recognition.

Beaming the regal smile of a true queen, Miss Mary Margaret Williams is shown just after receiving the crown at the annual Military Ball. Fifth annual social event staged jointly by the Air and Army ROTC units, its dance drew some 1,200 cadets and guests. Highlight of the affair was the ceremony at the Tallahassee Municipal Auditorium's entrance at the queen under an arch of scabbards formed by the military cadets.

Miss Williams' court included Shirley Harper and Dorothy Jakobsen. She was escorted by Lt. Col. Paul W. Campbell, professor of air science and tactics here.

Northland College Experiments In Preceptorial Group System

ASHLAND, Wis. (IP)—A statement concerning the newly organized Northland College Preceptorial Group system has been released here by Dr. George B. Streeter, academic vice-president. We, at Northland," he declares, "are hopeful that this system will get some of the 'boys' out of the large school, and, in addition, contribute something new to the discipline of education." He reads as follows:

The concern in recent years for an integrated program of studies in college has largely focused on symptoms of general dissatisfaction. This movement has been most active in the large universities. This is probably in part attributable to the "Star System" so widely used in these schools. A department is organized around one or more big names," naturally revamped for their scholarship, although not often either sought by or available to the general run of students. Around these "Stars" are organized a group of less-renowned but equally specialized scholars and would be scholars whose hope of fame and salary lies in research and publication. It is small wonder that there is widespread concern about the lack of unity resulting from such ae instructional organization.

The smaller colleges can seldom afford the broad offerings of the large school. Many of they could there would be a serious doubt as to the wisdom of presenting a few of course offerings so long and varied that only an authority on college curriculum could detect the shades of difference between them and only an expert casuistry could justify the overlap.

It is the feeling at Northland College that the integrative process must ultimately place within the student rather than within the curriculum if it is to be of significant. In order to facilitate the integrative process, Northland has instituted its Preceptorial System. To brief, this system consists of organizing the students, in groups of 8-12 students, each the concern of a faculty Preceptor. He is primarily charged with the responsibility of helping the student to see his educational experience as a meaningful pattern.

The means for doing this vary greatly from group to group. The group as a whole work out the ways and means of sharing and interpreting their experiences. This approach differs from the tutorial method in that the Preceptorial System is a social system. Experience meet and work together as a social group. In this type of system college becomes a social experience, rather than a purely personal one. This is a safeguard against a sterile intellectualism and "lone-scholar" scholarship which is sometimes as restrictive and narrowing as no education at all.

The mechanics of the Preceptorial System are simple. Each Preceptor, as the groups called, meets at least twice a semester as a group. These meetings are informal and take place in the coffee shop, at the professor's home or wherever else the group wishes to meet. Topics for discussion may be developed by the group or by the faculty or by any individual or organization which has a suggestion. In addition, the faculty member meets with each member of the group at least twice during the semester. Too often some students are in everything and some students remain only a name in a certain row.

Under the Preceptorial System every student is the concern of some faculty member. No one is overlooked. This concern is not the perfunctory concern of some faculty "advisers" who make certain that the student has completed his program of studies nor is it the limited concern of some counselors whose interest is only the vocational, curricular, or emotional problems of the student.

You'll Enjoy

DANCING

to the Superlative

Quintones

EVERY SATURDAY

Floridan Hotel

Where Can You Get Such Specials All Week But At . . .

TUES:
Juicy Broiled
Filet Mignon
French Fries
Chef's Salad
$1.00

THURS:
Spaghetti with Cheese
Salad
Lemon Cream Pie
.95

FRI:
Whole Broiled
Lobster
Drawn Butter
Chef's Salad
$1.25

SAT:
Golden Fried
Half Chicken
French Fries
$1.00

Seven Seas

SUN:
Delicious
Roast Turkey
Dressing
Cranberries
$1.00

INTERNS and JOB HOPEFULS Glenn photographers remind you . . . .

You'll Soon Naad Identification Pictures of Yourself and

Glenn Is still making A special offer

You can have a portrait sitting with 6 or mare proofs to choose from; Glenn will moke up the one you choose into 12 wallet-size I-D portraits, carefully retouched, PLUS an 8x10 block and white finished portroit in a folder.

FOR ONLY $8.95

Call Glenn Photography

3-0115 for appointment

P.S: You Can Still Get 3 Unretouched I-D Size Photos for $3

Radio Free Europe Contributes To Defeat Russian Propaganda

By FRED HYROLD

Just what can I do to help in the fight against Communism? Almost all freedom loving Americans ask themselves this question at one time or another.

One answer to this question can be found in a contribution preceded the Red Radio's announcement by many hours, ft to Radio Free Europe.

Radio Free Europe is a public service enterprise, run by the American people free from government supervision or interference. The cost is met by the many men and women who have contributed $100 to this non-profit organization. Many notables have endorsed and supported the great work, the most famous being the President of the United States, Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Radio Free Europe is not in any way connected with the Voice of America. There are six independent radio stations in Europe broadcasting truth through the Iron Curtin to the oppressed people of East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria.

The news received by sets behind the Iron Curtain is the only way the West has to fight the lies and propaganda which pour from the Kremlin. Radio Free Europe's purpose is to scoop Communist radio. For example, their announcements of Stalin's illness and Berla's arrest nouncement by many hours, ft ter in the timins of the Red reiase of this news.

How do we know that our money isn't being wasted? Do we know that the people behind Iron Curtain are listening? Letters of hope and encouragement from all over the Iron Curtain lands, with the risk of the writer being sent to prison camps or shot. These letters tell how the programs are getting through to the Voice listeners.

On the transmitting end of these radio stations are well-trained personnel, each person with a specific, well-defined task, representative of American business and labor have investigated the operation and endorsed it, finding it the most efficient organization of its type.

1st Semester Exam Schedule

Classes will end Friday, January 22, 19:00 p.m. Examinations will begin 8:00 a.m., Saturday, January 23, and end 13:30 p.m., Tuesday, January 26. Examination periods are of two hours.

All sections of the following courses have examinations at the same time and will be held at the place announced by the instructor:

COURSE	TIME OF EXAMINATION
Accounting 201	Monday, 3:30-5:30 p.m.
Chemistry 101, 102, 103, 105	Saturday, January 23, 7:00-9:00 p.m.
Business Law 331	Saturday, January 23, 7:00-9:00 p.m.
Chemistry 101, 102, 103, 105	Tuesday, 3:30-5:30 p.m.
Economics 201, 202	Friday, January 22, 8:00-10:00 a.m.
English 100, 101	Saturday, January 23, 1:00-3:30 p.m.
Food & Nutrition 105	Monday, 3:30-5:30 p.m.
Geography 101, 301, 302	Thursday, 10:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.
Geology 101, 102	Saturday, January 30, 8:00 a.m.-10 a.m.
History 101, 102, 165, 215	Tuesday, 8:00-10:00 a.m.
Humanities 101, 102, 103	Monday, 7:00-9:00 p.m.
Library Science 315, 500	Saturday, January 23, 3:00-5:00 p.m.
Mathematics 105	Monday, 8:00-10:00 a.m.
Mathematics 110	Thursday, 8:00-10:00 a.m.
Military—Air 101, 201, 301, 401	Monday, 1:00-3:00 p.m.
Army 101, 201, 301, 401	Monday, 1:00-3:00 p.m.
Modern Languages—1st and 2nd Year	Wednesday, 8:00-10:00 a.m.
Personal Development 105, 106	Wednesday, 7:00-9:00 p.m.
Physical Education—Women—115, 118, 215, 216, 217, 358	Monday, 1:00-3:00 p.m.
Physical Science 101	Tuesday, 10:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.
Social Science 101, 103	Saturday, January 30, 8:00-10:00 a.m.
Social Work 105, 305	Thursday, 7:00-9:00 p.m.
Speech 101, 105	Wednesday, 3:30-5:30 p.m.

Examinations for courses not previously listed are listed below. They will be held in the class room where the sections of the courses meet.

EXAMPLE: If you have an 8:00 or 8:30 class on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and if that course is not listed on this page you will take the examination in your regular class room Friday, 8:00-9:30 p.m., January 29, 1954.

COURSE	TIME OF EXAMINATION
8:00 or 8:30 M. W. F
8:00 or 8:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week	Friday, 3:30-5:30 p.m.
8:00 or 8:30 Th. Only
8:00 or 8:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week	Thursday, 3:30-5:30 p.m.
9:00 or 9:30 M. W. F
9:00 or 9:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week	Wednesday, 10:30 a.m.-13:30 p.m.
9:00 or 9:30 Tu. Th. S
9:00 or 9:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week	Thursday, 8:00-10:00a.m.
9:30 to 11:00 T. Th.
10:00 or 10:30 M. W. F.
10:00 or 10:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week	Saturday, January 23, 10:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.
10:00 or 1:30 Tu. Th. S.
10:00 or 10:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week	Friday, 7:00-9:00 p.m.
11:00 or 11:30 M. W. F.
11:00 or 11:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week	Thursday, 1:00-3:00 p.m.
11:00 or 11:30 Tu. Th. S.
11:00 or 11:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week	Tuesday, 7:00-9:00 p.m.
11:00 to 13:30 T. Th.
12:00 or 12:30 M. W. F.
12:00 or 12:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week	Friday, 10:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.
12:30 to 2:00 T. Th.
1:00 or 1:30 M. W. F.
1:00 or 1:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week	Monday, 10:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.
1:00 or 1:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week	Saturday, January 23, 3:30-5:30 p.m.
2:00 or 2:30 M. W. F.
2:00 or 2:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week	Tuesday, 1:00-3:00 p.m.
2:00 or 3:30 T. Th.
200 to 3:30 T. Th.	Wednesday, 7:00-9:00 p.m.
3:00 or 3:30 M. W. F.
3:00 or 3:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week	Wednesday, 1:00-3:00 p.m.
3:00 to 4:30 T. Th.
COURSE:	TIME OF EXAMINATION
3:00 or 3:30 T. Th.
3:30 to 5:00 T. Th.	Thursday, 7:00-9:00 p.m.
4:00 or 4:30 M. W. F.
4:00 or 4:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week	Monday, 8:00-10:00 a.m.
4:00 or 4:30 M. W. F.
4:00 or 4:30 meeting 4 or 5 times a week	Monday, 8:00-10:00 a.m.
4:00 or 4:30 T. Th.	Tuesday, 8:00-10:00 a.m.

Courses meeting two hours a week will take the same schedule as the three-hour courses unless otherwise shown on this schedule.

In case of conflict, the examination which appears first on this schedule will have preference over the other examinations. Please make arrangements with the instructor of the conflict examination to take the examination Friday, January 29, 1:00-3:00 p.m.

Students are not permitted to change sections for examinations. Night classes will have their examinations at the first regular class period time during examination week, except those having group examinations.

Classes meeting on Saturday only will have their examination Saturday, January 30, 10:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.

Students who have more than three examinations scheduled for one day, please contact Mr. Price, Assistant Registrar, 102 Vencent Building, telephone extension 4301, in case of four examinations in one day, the third examination in the student's schedule will be changed.

A candidate for graduation may be excused by his instructor from taking the final examination in a course in which he has maintained, without question, a "B" average at the time the examination is scheduled. Candidates for degrees who are excused to take examinations will have them scheduled by arrangement with their instructors not later than Tuesday, January 26, 1954.

The lecture period of a laboratory course will determine the examination time for such courses.

This examination schedule is published with the approval of the Faculty Senate Committee on examinations.

BOOSTER CLUB

Rules for the forthcoming Tallahassee Boosters Club-Florida State University designing contest announced previously in the Florida Flambeau are mimeographed and now obtainable in the office of Mr. Rudolph Jegert, instructor in the Department of Art.

Anyone wishing further information to the contest is urged to consult the rules sheet before inquiring of the Art Department.

Calendar Of Events

FRIDAY, JAN. 22

7:30 a.m. Morning Watch, Miss Evelyn Stewart, Stetson University student who was a summer missionary to Cuba, will speak. BSU House, 302 West Call.

4:00 p.m. Chemistry Seminar, Dr. Werner Baum, "Mechanism of Decarboxylation." 306 Science.

SATURDAY, JAN. 23

8:00 a.m. Examinations begin.

9:00 a.m. Meetings of interns Louzinne Auditorium.

2:30 p.m. "At the Piano," FSU television series, presenting John Bods, pianist. WMBR-TV.

DRINKING SPREE

(ACP)—A "milk campaign" is now being tried out at the University of Vienna, Austria. All students have been given the chance to drink milk between lectures at reduced prices.

If the campaign meets with student favor it will be tried out at other universities.

Students Get Individual Instruction In Stevens College Communications

COLUMBIA, Mo. (I.P.)—Individualism of instruction in Communication Skills at Stevens College has become the point where it is may be said that almost every student has her own course in this area of study. The placement conference with each first-year student illustrates the techniques which have been developed by the staff.

All new students are first given paper and performance tests in various elements of the course Each student is then ranked with the others in speech, writing, and speaking-listening. The results of each of her tests and performances, together with her rankings, are recorded on a special folder for Communication Skills, which is the central record of her work in the division. The folder also contains samples of her written work and her test measurement as to her needs. Her own opinions have been found very useful in identifying needs uncovered by the tests or performances.

The student is then assigned an appointment time for her placement conference during one of her regularly scheduled class periods for the course. The staff of the Communication Skills staff is available in one room at this time. Her writing, also, is given her Record Card and sent to one of the instructors. She and the instructor often decide together on a year's program in Communication Skills which will best meet her particular patterns of demonstrated needs and present or potential interests.

Her program is first arranged so that she receives any instruction she needs to demonstrate her competence in all of the areas in which she is not already reasonably proficient. If it is apparent that she can reasonably be expected to accomplish this in less than a year's time, she may pursue some special interest in the communication field during part or all of the year.

At least nine types of classes are available to the average student each semester at the hour for which she is registered. These include so-called single - emphasis classes in reading, in writing, and in speaking; dual-emphasis classes in reading-speaking, writing; and special interest classes, each emphasizing some particular aspect of reading, writing, or speaking on a more advanced level. Many non-special interest classes are open to her at hours other than her regular class period.

In addition, many special help sessions are available in the Reading Clinic, the Speech Clinic, the Writing Laboratory, special Communication Skills classes in typewriting, remedial classes in spelling, special arrangements for assistance with parliamentary procedure or the investigative process—in fact all of these may be used by her and are arranged for at this conference.

ROTC Chooses Freshman Queen Of Military Ball

Mary Margaret Williams, sponsored by the Army ROTC of Florida State University was elected Military Ball Queen at the annual social function of the non-commissioned military organizations. Miss Williams was attended by Bill Johnson and Shirley Harper, members of her court.

The Military Ball held in the Suwannee Room last Saturday night from 8 to 12 p.m. was highlighted by the Auburn Knights who provided the music.

Mary Margaret, a freshman at FSU, comes from Bartow. Florida where she was active in high school. Her major is Mathematics Education and she is a member of Tarpon Club here on campus.

Two dozen roses and a cup for the highlight of the dance was presented to this lass who is one of the finalists in the Miss FSU contest.

The "Crossing of the Swords" by the Scabbard and Blade, honorary military society, as the Queen and her Court were presented to the audience was one of the highlights of the evening. Members of Scabbard and Blade wore their official emblems for the first time this year.

Harrison Fisher, of Florida State, sang "I'm Yours," accompanied by the Auburn Knights. Mr. Fisher is a Music major on the campus. Also as a part of the program, the Auburn Knights did "take-offs" on other name dance bands in the nation such as Jimmy Dorsey and Benny Goodman. A quartet from the band played "Dixie" and "When the Saints Go Marching In."

Black Gaining Popularity For Fashion - Wise Men

By TOM HALL

Black's Sound Grab: Not in the least. The charcoal color suit and sportswear has invaded the F.S.U. campus and the men find it quite popular.

Although black may appear a bit morbid for some gentlemen, it nevertheless has gained considerable popularity since the opening of the fall semester.

The cut of the suit is one important element in gaining with color that enters into the choosing of a suit, coat or trousers. This year's style is looking very much like the "Zoot" suit of circles that grandpa used to wear. Narrow shoulders, three-button, single breasted and flap pockets are the stylish requirements.

They are just like the good old days, but very handsome.

Ties and vests are the vogue and this time in rather colorful, yet conservative hues.

Ties are much narrower than those grandpa wore and are diagonal striped. Vests are usually various colors and contain checks or sometimes solid colors.

Conservative looking shaded ties are also active in the realm of a well dressed man. Tab collars and French cuffs are dominant.

Socks above have passed the garter while white socks, saddle oxfords and dark leather shoes are prevalent. Incidentally, socks and coats are to be worn dirty to completely conform to the style.

Socks show a marked decided lack of color in that the style is conformatively sure conservative. Bright colors are definitely on the dark side and grays.

The dark blue blazer-type sport coat is seen quite often with a medium gray pair of trousers completing the outfit.

Tweed suits of medium gray or brown are not seen too much at present, but a prediction along that line says they will come like they have very soon.

Considering all. It appears that the so-called Yankee fashion is here to stay. It started in the East, has finally invaded the South. It looks like the styles are here to stay, so saving Confederate dollars to buy Eastern fashions might be wise.

For Sale

1948 CHEVHOLET for sale. Good condition. Best offer. Call 3-0003 evenings.

Remember—

SAVE MONEY

TRADE THE BOOKS YOU NO LONGER NEED ON SECOND SEMESTER BOOKS

Cash For Your Used Books

Malone's Book Store

VALENTINES . . . Hallmark, Gibson, Norcrom

VALENTINES
VALENTIN
VALENT
VALEN
VAL

We have hundreds of beautiful and colorful cards for you to choose from. They are conveniently displayed and are itemized as to Sister, Mother, Brother, Humor, Etc. Prepare to laugh when you look through all the humorous cards.

Come on in and look around—we also have Val. sealed gift wrappings.

208 S. ADAMS

Alford Brothers

SENSATIONAL CLEARANCE

Of Men's Fall Furnishings

All Merchandise From Our Regular Stock at Great Savings! Beginning With Dollars Days . . . .

Sport Shirts

Were	Now
2.95	1.95
3.50	2.50
3.95	2.95
5.00	3.50
5.95	4.50
6.95	4.95
7.95	5.50
8.95	6.50
10.95	7.95
15.00	9.95

Socks

Were	Now
.75	2 for $1
1.00	.75
1.50	1.00

Sweaters

Were	Now
3.95	2.95
5.00	3.50
5.95	4.50
7.95	5.50
8.95	6.50
10 & 10.95	7.50
11.95	8.50
17.95	11.50

Neckwear

Were	Now
2.50	1.50
2.95	1.95
3.95	2.50

includes Bows

Underwear

Were	Now
1.25	1.00
1.50	1.25
Nylon Shorts
2.50	1.50
Nylon Undershirts
2.95	1.95

Belts

Were	Now
1.50	1.00
2.00	1.50
2.50	2.00
3.50	2.50
7.50	5.00

Our Fall Shoes and Suits Are Still on Sale!

1/4 OFF on Jackets (Lined or Unlined) Robes

GREATLY REDUCED: Wallets, Leather Kits, Jewelry

Gloves, Handkerchiefs, Pajamas, Slipper Sox, Keds.

Alford Bros.

212 So. Monroe St.

The Sportlight

by Dave Kennedy
Flambeau Sports Editor

FIVEASH HONORED . . . Bobby Fiveash, though hampered by injuries throughout the 1953 football campaign still managed to garner quite a few of the memories of the season that were lasting about. "Among his souvineers," Fiveash, who hails from Bainbridge, Georgia, was able to obtain his being named an honorable mention to the Little All-American team. All State Back and as the Outstanding player in the State. Fiveash, along with Coach Tom Nugent will travel to Daytona, Fla., to receive his award as outstanding player at a Banquet this Saturday night.

Bobby, as you all know, will be ineligible for play this coming season.

HERNKE SCORES 26 . . . FSU's Helms All-American Ham Wernke apparently fully recovered from the mishap which occurred about a week and a half ago, while the team was in route to Miami, scored 26 points last Tuesday night at the West Campus Gym to lead the Seminoles to an easy victory over the Rollins team.

Tommy Dellahan, a sophomore from Chicago, Indiana, added in a half-dozen one-handers from more than 20 feet out. Dellahan has proven himself worthy as a starter. Until the recent South Florida road trip, he wasn't even being considered for a starting berth.

DUANE GORDON had his finest night of the season. The ambidextrous senior took turns along with Wernke and Oler, in hooping the rebounds.

FLORIDA STATE'S GYM TEAM TO TRAVEL . . . Florida State's talent laden gym team will take to the road February 5 and travel to Atlanta, where they take on Georgia Tech.

PRICE THE BEST . . . Dr. Hartly Price and his team will, on Feb 13 participate ni the Alabama Invitational.

Dr. Price is recognized as one of the most competent coaches in the history of gymnastics in the United States.

Competing with the best gymnastics talent in the land, Dr. Price has led FSU gymnasts to three national team titles in two season, the NCAA and AAU crowns in 1951 an drepeated as NCAA team champion in 1952 after being edged out of a second straight AAU title. In 1853 they title.

In addition Dr. Price is credited with developing FSU's Olympic stars Bill Roetsheim and Don Holder.

HOWEVER, NATIONAL honors and titles are not exactly new to the Seminole Coach. At Illinois, his teams won four NCAA titles and twice copped the national AAU.

Dr. Price was born in Brisbane, Australia, where he was a road-out athlete. He came to the U. S. in the early '20's. He received his BS degree from Springfield College where he was a member of the gym team.

DURING WORLD WAR II, Dr. Price served as head of gymnastics and tumbling at the Navy's Pre-Flight school in Iowa. He served as coordinator of gymnastics for the Navel aviation program and authored the Navy's Tumbling and Gymnastics Guide." During this written numerous magazine articles.

Dr. Price received his doctor's degree from New York University in 1945.

IN 1948 PRICE was awarded the research award from the American Academy of Physical Education and in 1850 was listed in the monthly supplement of "Who's Who in America."

A firm believer in permitting his gymnasts to work out their own problems, Coach Price is a stickler for insisting on hard work and strives to build within his competitors a keen desire to excel. Thus, you can see by the numerous titles and the keen sense of competition which prevails that Coach Price's policy is one of the best.

Gymnastic Team Meets Ga. Tech Febuary 6th

BOB GUTTING

Sat. Feb. 6th Georgia Tech at City, N. J. and Rafael Lecuona of Atlanta. Sat. Feb. 13th Alabama Invitational at Gadsden or Auburn. Sat Feb. 20th Florida AAU at Tallahassee. Sat. Feb. 27th SWEDISH OLYMPIC TEAM at Tallahassee.

With this tough schedule facing them next month the members of Dr. Hartley Price's Seminole gym team will square off in two squads Feb. 3rd for an unrequited meet that will decide who is to participate in what events.

Team captains will be Olympic men Don Holder of Jersey Havana, Cuba.

Nucleus of the Garnet team will be Don Helder, Jack Mites, and Pat Sigworth, who will compete in the majority of the events reinforced by Bill Kanlow on parallel bars, Jim Fallcrass and Dick Ireland on trampoline, and Lauren Young in tumbling.

Core of the Gold team will be Rafael Lecuona and Joe Taylor, who are apparently being groomed

(Continued on Page 8)

Pretty Beat From Exams? Fall in to

THE AMBER HOUSE

FOR THE GREATEST IN Dinners — Snacks — Coffee
Ice Cream — Baked Goods
Sandwiches — Hospitality

Arrow Sports Shirts Hailed Inter-Collegiate Champs!

One again, Arrow sports shirts have beat out all competition and won the title of campus champions. Winners on two counts . . . style and comfort . . . these champion sports shirts are now available at all Arrow dealers.

ARROW
TRADE ® MARK

SHIRTS • TIES • HANDKERCHIEFS • SPORTSWEAR

FSU Cagers Roll Over Rollins, 85-68

Ham Scores 26 Points To Spark Victory

By KEN KINGERY
Flambeau Sports Editor

With the help of set shot artist Ham Wernke, the Seminoles pulled away in the third quarter to win over the Rollins Tars 85-68 before a satisfied crowd at the West Campus gymn last Tuesday night.

Ham set the Indians on fire by pouring 12 points through the hoop in the third quarter. This rapid scoring spree broke the Tar's five-game domination, and the Seminoles were never headed.

Wernke took scoring honors for the night with a booming 26 points.

Jimmy Oler, the other scoring threat racked up 18 points, four of which came from the foul line. Tom Dellahan played one of his best games by starring in both offense and defense, and scored 12 points. He finished with four fouls on him. He and Wernke both had four fouls on them at the end of the game.

Rick Benson, who seems to hit easier on road trips, rather than home stands, hit for 8 points. Armmeier hit for 7 points.

Dellahan, a sophomore from East Chicago, Ind., wasn't even considered for a starting berth until the recent South Florida road trip. His kept the Seminoles in the ball game there with some fancy long distance shooting, and one handers from more than 20 feet out.

The Rollins team from Winter Park opened with a bang. Out of the first 10 points, nine hit the cords. This was the reason for the 22-19 score at the end of the first quarter.

The Seminoles finally took the lead with a minute and a half to go in the second quarter. Tom Dellahan sank a one-handed jump shot to give Florida State the lead.

Duane Gordon played one of his best ball games by snatching rebound after rebound left, under both baskets. Oler, 5'11" guard and Ham Wernke, 6'9" guard also rebounded well in the game.

Wernke was in his old form. This boosts his average to 18.6 points per game. He has scored 278.

Florida State has now reversed their record of last year, when they won two home games and lost nine. They went after No. 10 against Florida Southern here last night. The score was not in when the story went to press.

The Seminoles now take nine days off from their schedule to dig into final semester exams. They will travel to Mercer the 30th of January which is Saturday week.

Results

Rollins	FG	FT	TP	Fla. State	FG	FT	TP
Feldman, F	2	0	4	Dellahan, F	4	4	12
Hall, F	1	0	2	Wernke, F	11	4	26
Castello, C	2	0	4	Bond, C	1	1	3
Benson, G	3	2	8	Armstrong, G	3	1	7
Kocsky, G	0	2	2	Warbach, G	2	0	4
Armmeier, G	3	1	7	Gordon, F	3	0	6
Pantelis, F	1	0	2	Oler, G	6	6	18
Pantelis, G	1	1	3	Brewer, C	1	3	5
Campbell, G	1	0	2	Gilbert, G	0	0	0
				Gloyd, F	1	0	2
				Hall, G	1	0	2
TOTALS	16	06	68	TOTALS	33	19	85
ROLLINS		22	19	11	19—68
FLORIDA STATE		19	24	21	21—85

Free throws missed: Florida State—Dellahan 2, Wernke, Brewer, Benson, Oler, Wernke Rollins—Castello 2, Feldman, Pantelis, Hasler 3.

Tom Dellahan

Intramurals

In Probably the most successful and well-attended track meet in the short history of intramurals at Florida State University, the campus athletes from the dormitories and the fraternities finished off the two-day contests on Wednesday, with two or three of the fraternities and one of the dormitories literally running away with everything.

Phi Delta Theta. Alpha Tau Omega. and Sigma Nu were the top crews in points in the fraternity phase of the meets. Hester Hall was the leader in the dormitory portion of the meets, winning every contest except the broad jump; playing football does help.

Here is the way the dormitory matches came out:

1. Senior Hall	64 pts
2. McDonalds	51 pts
3. Pirates (West)	22 pts.
4. Fla. Hall & Rebels (tie)	7 pts.
5. Penthouse Gang	none

The fraternity matches came out like this:

1. Phi Delt	48 ¾ pts.
2. ATO	34 pts.
3. Sigma Nu	28 pts.
4. Delta T Delta	17 pts.
5. SAE	8 ¾ pts.
6. KA	3 ½ pts.
7. Sigma Chi & Theta Chi (tie)	2 pts.
8. Lambda Chi	1 pt.

All others failed to place.

Apology: the intramural track record printed last Tuesday were a bit inaccurate and out-of-date. Many things printed in the Intramural column will be unavoidably wrong. Moral: do not believe anything that is in the papers.

According to the intramural office's far-away West campus, here are the best runs, jumps and throws of this week's Tuesday-Wednesday track battles:

Dormitories

100 — Odom (Tr. Hall)	11.0
220 — Odom (Tr. Hall)	25.0
120 — Brown (Sr Hall)	17.3
880 — Manning (Sr. Hall)	2:19.3
Hurdles—Brown (Sr Hall)	14.2
Relay — Senior Hall	48.3
Discus — Jones (Sr. Hall)	114.5
Shot — J. Brown (Sr. Hall)	6.6
Jav. — J. Sawyer (Pirates)	12.0
880 Relay — All teams scratched

Fraternities

100 — McCoy (SPD)	10.2
220 — McCoy (SPD)	23.2
120 — Fisher (Sig)	16.4
880 — Crenshaw (ATO)	2:15.5
Hurdles — Taylor (ATO)	14.4
Shot — Frazeier (PDT)	39.9
Disc — Frazeier (PDT)	120.5
Jav. — McCoy (SPD)	139.0
880 Relay — Sigma Nu	1.39.2

Taking a back seat while the tracksters were bathing in their glory, the fraternity golfers and tennis players were doing their thing too.

In golf, the Sigma Nus took on the job of tanning Kappa Alpha's Southern drawl yesterday. The winner of the

(Continued on Page 6)

From The Sidelines

By Ken Kingery
Flambeau Sports Editor

JOHNS SAYS "PLAY BALL"

"Recently at the Tallahassee Quarterback Club banquet, Acting Governor Johns observed 'I can't see for the life of me why Florida and F.S.U. cannot have some friendly rivalry like Alabama and Auburn.'"

"This observation, of course, evoked resounding applause from the 600 club members and their guests, as they met in the American Legion Home where the banquet was held."

WON'T USE HIS POSITION

"The Chief Executive made it clear that he would not use his official position to pressure the schools into playing each other. Its obvious as it can be that some where along the way the State Board of Control will get wind of this, perhaps with instructions to inaugurate a Florida-FSU football series as soon as possible."

"One big draw back on this is, FSU wants to play U of F in all sports, not just football alone."

SIDE BY SIDE

At this banquet, Coach Tom Nugent of FSU, and Bob Woodruff, athletic director and head football coach at U of F, were seated side by side at the head table as Gov. Johns talked.

Coach Tom Nugent, and Dr. Howard G. Hurlard, athletic director at FSU, was pleased at what Gov. Johns said, and they didn't hesitate to say so.

Woodruff ignored the possibility of U of F and FSU playing athletic relationships However, the students and fans of both schools must realize the position Woodruff is in. He said, "We have to play six

5 FLORIDA FLAMBEAU Friday, January 22, 1954

Southeastern Conference opponents each year."

Also at the banquet, the guest speaker Ralph Jordan of Auburn, stated his feelings about the coming Auburn-FSU game next year: "I hope Auburn and FSU can go down through the years with their schedule. We are mighty pleased to have them play us."

Commenting on Johns' statement about Florida and FSU playing Florida State Athletic Director Howard Danford said, "We have 11 games for 1954 but we have several openings for 1955."

Nugent said, "I am heartily in accord and was pleasantly surprised that he would say that from the platform."

Woodruff is not afraid to discuss this controversy to anyone. Last Tuesday night he told the Quincy Quarterback Club he didn't have a chance to tell the Tallahassee Quarterback Club how he felt, and stated he didn't want to evade the issue. He said, "half of my friends want me to play FSU and half of them don't." Coach Woodruff showed a good sense of humor all the way through his talk. People should think before they speak when they say there's nothing holding the issue back. The University of Florida would not profit by playing Florida State University, only Florida State would, no matter what the result was. FSU is just going "big-time" football this 54 season. Give U of F a chance to see their mistake.

Landis Beats Out Alpha Xi To Win Intramurals

By MARY ELIZABETH KING

Landis Hall triumphed over Alpha Xi Delta, 44-43, in Girls' Intramural basketball which ended Tuesday afternoon. After a fast, n/p and tuck battle, Landis was ahead when the whistle blew, ending a two minute overtime required because of a tie score after four quarters.

This year's entrants in basketball intramurals were divided into four leagues. Gilchrist - Reynolds-Byrnes were champs of the first league after winning four games and losing none. Alpha Xi Delta was champ of the second league after beating Broward Hall, Jennie Sudduth Dixon, Delta Zeta, and Alpha Delta Pi. Phi Mu won the third league, and Landis was champ of the fourth league by beating Delta Gamma, Alpha Chi Omega, Cawthon, and Kappa Alpha Theta.

In the girls' double elimination tournament Landis beat Phi Mu. Gilchrist-Reynolds-Byrnes, and Alpha Xi. Alpha Xi beat Phi Mu and Gilchrist-Reynolds-Byrnes.

Alpha Xi Delta, one of the few sorority teams to reach finals, and Landis Hall displayed fine teamwork and individual skill.

Leading scorer was Shirley Simmons, closely followed by Charlotte West.

Myrt Herndon, head of girls' intramurals reported that there was an increasing interest and participation in intramurals. She forecasts that the new league system of intramurals will produce better teams and spirit.

About 200 girls, comprising 20 teams, went out for basketball this year. Myrt said that the petition this year, a good season next year can be expected.

The members of the All-Star Basketball team were chosen by their team work, speed, maneuvability, social-co-operation, and individual skill in playing. The 24 girls were divided into the Garnet and Gold teams and played an All-Star game Thursday afternoon.

Members of the All-Star teams were: Charlotte West, coach; Pat Folsom, coach; A. J. Bassett, Hall, Bassett Sudduth Dixon, Delta Zeta, and Alpha Delta Pi. Phi Mu won the third league, and Landis was champ of the fourth league by beating Delta Gamma, Alpha Chi Omega, Cawthon, and Kappa Alpha Theta.

In the girls' double elimination tournament Landis beat Phi Mu. Gilchrist-Reynolds-Byrnes, and Alpha Xi. Alpha Xi beat Phi Mu and Gilchrist-Reynolds-Byrnes.

Alpha Xi Delta, one of the few sorority teams to reach finals, and Landis Hall displayed fine teamwork and individual skill.

Leading scorer was Shirley Simmons, closely followed by Charlotte West.

Myrt Herndon, head of girls' intramurals reported that there was an increasing interest and participation in intramurals. She forecasts that the new league system of intramurals will produce

Myrt Herndon, Landis Hall, speedy, manable, social-co-operation, and individual skill in playing. The 24 girls were divided into the Garnet and Gold teams and played an All-Star game Thursday afternoon.

Members of the All-Star teams were: Charlotte West, coach; Pat Folsom, coach; A. J. Bassett, Hall, Bassett Sudduth Dixon, Delta Zeta, and Alpha Delta Pi. Phi Mu won the third league, and Landis was champ of the fourth league by beating Delta Gamma, Alpha Chi Omega, Cawthon, and Kappa Alpha Theta.

In the girls' double elimination tournament Landis beat Phi Mu. Gilchrist-Reynolds-Byrnes, and Alpha Xi. Alpha Xi beat Phi Mu and Gilchrist-Reynolds-Byrnes.

Alpha Xi Delta, one of the few sorority teams to reach finals, and Landis Hall displayed fine teamwork and individual skill.

Leading scorer was Shirley Simmons, closely followed by Charlotte West.

Myrt Herndon, head of girls' intramurals reported that there was an increasing interest and participation in intramurals. She forecasts that the new league system of intramurals will produce

FSU, Emory Form New Student Group

A Southern University Student Government Association, realized as a need by a number of campuses for the past few years, is now being organized under the co-sponsorship of Emory University at Atlanta and Florida State University.

The new association will enable students of the participating southern universities to exchange ideas and pertinent information through workshops and clinics. It will allow the students to collect and publish vital material and benefits from "interexchange services."

The Southern UGA is to be wholly a student body organization, a cooperative effort of undergraduates so ther may better govern themselves by pulling together and pooling their resources as a regional unit.

Beginning steps for organizing the association were taken last spring, soon after campus elections of new student governmental officers.

Milton Carothers, newly elected president of the FSU student body, sent out letters to six other universities interested in forming the organization. He immediately had a reply from Gilbert Turner, new president of the Emory student body, saying, "Yes, Emory is definitely interested." In fact, Turner was in process of sending out similar letters.

Carothers and Turner met during the summer in Tallahassee. At that time they decided to have FSU and Emory co-sponsor invitations to six schools to set up plans for the organization.

An October meeting was held at Emory. As a result of the invitations, Emory, University of Florida, University of Alabama, University of Tennessee and Georgia Tech were represented. Tentative plans for the organization were drawn and a committee was appointed to make a final draft for a constitution.

The constitution committee met December 12 at Gainesville. It consisted of the student presidents of Emory and FSU and also the University of Florida president, Jim Harris.

Currently, the constitution is being submitted to various student senates or legislative bodies for approval. When five universities ratify the constitution, invitations will be sent to a greater number of southern universities to attend a first annual meeting of the organization May 5 at Emory.

In addition to the six universities sparking the organization meeting, membership invitations will be sent to University of Mississippi, Louisiana Polytechnical Institute at Auburn, University of Kentucky, Vanderbilt University, North Carolina State University, University of North Carolina, University of South Carolina, Duke University, University of Virginia, Louisiana State University, Tulane University, Washington and Lee University, Mississippi State University and University of Mississippi.

IDEA FOR FLAMBEAU?

(ACP)—The Cambridge, England, student newspaper, Varsity, came out recently with a three-dimensional picture supplement produced by the American "stereoscopix" process.

$ CASH $ FOR YOUR USED TEXTBOOKS

Receive ½ of Price You Paid On Some Titles.

$ Examples: (we pay) $4.00 For:

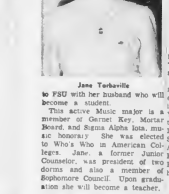
More Than ½ Price Paid For Some Titles.

Webster's Dictionary

$2.50—Exploring Journalism
• Writing and Thinking—$1.25
$2.50—Art Through The Ages

$2.00 — Rhetoric Case Book
• Basic Mathematics—$2.25

UNIVERSITY BOOKSTORE
"IN THE STUDENT CENTER"



BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY TALLAHASSEE COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY
"Coke" is a registered trade mark. © 1953, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Seniors Readying For Graduation As Nostalgic Moments Are Recalled

By JOYCE POTTER

To Freshmen, graduation seems to be too far away to even visualize, while to the Sophomore or Junior it is not quite so far away. However to the many seniors who will graduate on January 30 it has at last become a reality. For four years they have worked towards this goal.

According to Jane Merlin Turnville who made it in 3½ years, it has been hard but lot of fun. Jane, who became Mrs. Turnaville on December 20, will be returning to FSU with her husband who will become a student.

Jane Turbaville

This active Music major is a member of Cornet Key, Musical Board, and Sigma Alpha Iota, music honorary. She was elected to Who's Who in American Colleges. Jane, a former Junior Counselor, was president of two dorms and also a member of Sophomore Council. Upon graduation she will become a teacher.

Ray Krupe, a Physchology major, will start to law school at Gainesville after graduation. Ray, president of Theta Chi social fraternity, transferred to this school at Gainesville doesn't mean that I am a traitor," pointed out Ray.

Olema Alvardo will return to her home town, Tampa, to teach. On her list of activities is membership in Kappa Delta Pi, education honorary, Les Phares, American Association for Childhood Education, and she was vice-president of the Reynolds dormitory when she was a Junior Counselor. Olema claims that the years have gone by very fast and she will miss college. "However, I'm ready to go," she added.

Lem Alvarado

Dot Dean plans to find a job in comm.ercial art. She has gained experience for this by working in Gimbel's Dept. Store in New York one summer in the Advertising department. An art major, Dot has done art work for Smoke Signals, and painted the three Homecoming archways at Bryan Hall. Being social chairman of Beta Psi takes up much of her time also.

Ruthie Spencer Griffin, behind known as one of the Flying Decosmos in the FSU circus or a cheerleader, will join her husband in Miami where she will teach the first grade. This pert miss is a member of Mortar Board. Garnet Key and was elected to Who's Who in American Colleges. She was also a Junior Counselor and member of Kappa Alpha Theta, social sorority.

Clyneh Newsome Jr., a business major will enter the Marine Corps as a Second Lieutenant. After the service, he hopes to enter law school. He is a member of Alpha Kappa Psi business honorary and Lambda Chi Alpha, social fraternity.

Beverly Lacayo, well-known for her work in student government, will journey to California to enter Art school. Although a math major, Bev has hopes of becoming a fashion illustrator. She has worked on Flambeau and is in the varsity debate team. Bev's plans that she has loved every minute, but that she is ready to go. "Come back, Bev!"

Carolyn Bolles's most immediate plans are to get married and tour Europe on her honeymoon. This political science major is a member of the Dramatic honorary, history honorary, and worked in radio and dramatics as a French major. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority.

Cliff Fales, a transfer student from West Palm Beach Junior College, has quite a record for his one year at FSU. Cliff is a member of the Marching Chiefs, Delta Sigma Pi, the University Symphonic Orchestra, Men's Glee Club, Collegians, Phi Mu Alpha, music honorary, and work at the Westminster Chapel take up much of his time.

After graduation, Cliff will enter the army. He plans to teach high school some day. "Although attending the Music School was a wonderful experience," he explained, "I have enjoyed the time I have spent at FSU so much that I could have been here all four years."

With graduation only a few days away, plans for the future are foremost in the minds of the seniors

"NEW MEMBERS"—of the Alpha Council are picture d above with their president. From row: William Timmons, Robert Porter, Pete Soles, Al Ackerman, Bob Temple and Harvey Hall. Second row; Paul Kroeger, Albert Harrell, Jim Kaufman, Jerry Gunderson, Bruce Pacetti. Third row; Ray Wagner, Charlie Ad-kinson, David Bachman, Dick Steinberg, and George Carver.

Cornelia Otis Skinner Delights Audience With Satirizations

By DOT THOMASSON

In the most casual presentation of the season, Miss Skinner in many a day, Cornelia Otis Skinner walked onto the stage at Leon High School auditorium last night, said hello then lapsed into a delightful hour of satire and entertainment. The subtle humor of the stories was enough to set the somberest to laughing.

A study, per sea in subtitles was first of all Miss Skinner first gave an interpretation of a mother in her first attempt at a reasonable explanation to her small son of the facts of life enunciated with imaginary telephone calls by which she sought advice on how to broarch the subject, the sketch brought gales of laughter from the audience.

Next in her series of satirizations on typical Parisian tourists, Miss Skinner brought out the best in the setting she portrayed. The audience progressively chuckled, guffawed and finally burst out with applause as the versatile Skinner emanated the Brooklyn girl "completely assured" in the mysteries of the great city; the debutante with the overpowering worldly "I've lived" air. Quickly transforming into an old lady, a sophisticated wife who tells of her affair with a Frenchman, and the "worldly" young woman.

Notable was Miss Skinner's portrayal of an artist. She sets the stage with a simple chair and weaves a story around the mere suggestion of an artist's gallery, to all her sketches. Miss Skinner uses a large-brimmed hat which, she claims and sets out to prove, with minor changes in dress and act, can change the personality and character of the wearer.

Last night married her third time to the Florida State University campus. She was here last in 1938 and in 1937 prior to that.

Miss Skinner said of FSU in an exclusive interview, "I am very impressed with the presence of Florida State University since I have been coming here." She noted there is a marked difference in the attitude and spirit of the students from what it was in past years.

Miss Skinner was tendered a reception Wednesday evening after her first performance here by Jennie Murphree In conversation, the artist noted that she was quite surprised at the insight of the people she liked to have stage careers. She commended

Per.odical Prints Former Professor's Comment On U.N.

Lester H. Phillips, a former Florida State University professor, has had an article on "United Nations Membership Admissions and Rejections" published in the last issue of "Social Studies," a periodical for teachers and administrators.

A visiting professor of political science last year at Florida State University, Dr. Phillips has now returned to the University he Redlands in California where he is a member of the faculty.

In summarizing the status of the United Nations' membership, Dr. Phillips finds that it "remains considerably short of the ideal of universality."

He concludes that there is little doubt that all the non-Communist applicants would receive the required two-thirds majority vote for admission by decision of the General Assembly.

"In revolutionary crime reconsideration of the rejected applications by the Security Council, the Assembly has in fact indicated in advance that it considers most of these states to be qualified under the Charter.

"The prevailing attitude of the members of the organization favors the principle of universality, but they feel they can by stop to approach universality as conditions of the Charter now stand."

Audience Praises University Singers At Latest Concert

The Brazilian Psalm, written by a top contemporary South American composer, Jean Berger, was the favorite of the audience of University Singers first formal concert on campus Wednesday night. The psalm of praise is pictorial and combines sacred text with Latin-American rhythms. David Ward-Steinman accompanied the chorus on bongo drums.

University Singers, directed by Dr. Wiley L. Housewright, will repeat Wednesday night's program in many Florida cities, possibly including Miami, Miami Beach, Lakeland, Eustis, Gainesville, Orlando, and Ft. Pierce.

The concert was a festival of choral and solo singing running the gamut in subject matter from religious works of Handel to popular selections from Gershwin's Porgy and Bess.

Comedy relief was provided by Bob Davis, president of the music group, who staged an impromptu imitation of Dr. Housewright previous to the concert.

Gymnasts

(Continued from Page 5)

ed for starting positions in future all around competition.

Rendering able assistance in six of the ten events will be the Reyna twins, Joe and Carmine, both completing their last year of collegeo competition.

Others reinforcing the Gold team will be Jim Taska, All American bracketing champ, who is also being drilled for future all around work, and MacDonald Brokenbrough on high bar, Larry Weston in tumbling, Benny Wallace in tumbling and rope climb and Dick Gutting, NAAU and AAU trampoline champ, who will enter competition this year as a tumbler.

Intramurals

(Continued from Page 5)

Sigma Na-KA match will self against the Kappa Sigs. And the winner of that match will meet the Phi Delts to see who will play the ATO's for the championship.

Tennis doubles records show SAE, Phi Delt, KA, ATO, and Pi KA in the loserz bracket section. The momentary mooral of the winners' bracket is Lambda Chi Alpha. Yesterday the ATO's and the Pikes went into battle on the tennis courts to start the elimination duels.

Both golf and tennis doubles will have to be completed during the second semester. Even the amateur athletes have to take exams.

Next semester will feature basketball, volleyball, bowling, and swimming in the intramural leagues.

Church News

EPISCOPAL

Training 'or the Ministry will be the theme presented throughout the Episcopal Church on Sunday January 24

Sunday is known as Theological Education Sunday. The 11 a m. service at Bishop Gallal will be conducted ny 9 students of the St. Matthias Men's Guild. Members of the Guild are the leaders while others are taking special courses in preparation for the Ministry.

Men students interested in entering more about the Ministry as a vocation are invited to join with the Episcopal students at the Morning Prayer. Cary Fitzgerald will act as crucifer, assisted by Clarice Graves and James Crosther. Chris Young will read Morning Prayer while Spencer Roads read the first lesson and Bert Miller, the second Paul Whitehead will read the Psalm. George Gunn will bring the spiritual message for the day and in subject matter from religious works of Handel to popular selections from Gershwin's Porgy and Bess.

Comedy relief was provided by Bob Davis, president of the music group, who staged an impromptu imitation of Dr. Housewright previous to the concert.

CHILDISH REACTION

(ACP)—When John Clarke, a pre-law student at Texas A&M wrote a letter to the editor of the Battalion, student newspaper, he received a warning to "get out of town in 30 calendar minutes" or set shoved around by his fellow students.

The reason? Clarke's letter had criticized the student body for "childish actions."

Remember—
SAVE MONEY
TRADE THE BOOKS YOU NO LONGER NEED ON SECOND SEMESTER BOOKS
Cash For Your Used Books
Malone's Book Store

Dinner Specials Designed to Fit Your Pocketbook and Your Taste.
TODAY
DELICIOUS SEAFOOD PLATTER
Shrimp, Trout, Scallops, Deviled Crab,
Hush Puppies French Fries Salad
$1.00
SUNDAY DINNER
WONDERFUL FILET MIGNON
DONE TO A JUICY TURN !
French Fries Chef Salad
$1.00
Enjoy Other Delicious Specials Every Day at . . .
M&N Cafe
E. Jefferson Street

Tri-Delts Offer $200 Award In Scholarship

The 1954 Tri-Delta General Scholarship Competition is now being held on all campuses where there are chapters of the national social sorority, a report stated recently.

Women students wherever there are Tri-Delta chapters may apply during this time. It was noted that girls do not have to be a member of a sorority, but must be well-qualified and show promise of being valuable citizens in future communities.

Two hundred dollars will be the maximum award for any one scholarship, the report noted. There are 96 campuses the country over included in this year's competition.

Judging the respective merits of applicants will be the Tri-Delta Committee on Awards. Winners will be notified by May of this year, the notice said. Scholarships will be forwarded to them at the beginning of next semester, or the term for which the award is desired.

Applications are now available for Florida State University Women in Dean Katherine Warren's office. Westcott building. After completion, the applications are to be sent to Mrs. Charles C Perrin, Box 717, Pasco, Penn.

Reynolds Diamonds
Gruen Watches
PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRS
102 S Monroe St. Phone 3-1460

The 'Robe' Begins Wednesday At Florida; Based Upon Book

The Robe, based on Lloyd Douglas book of the same name, and filmed by 20th Century Fox in CinemaScope and Technicolor, comes to Tallahassee next Wednesday at the Florida Theatre.

RECREATING the imperial pageantism of Rome and the stirring strenuous life garment soldiers vamished for beneath the shadow of the cross, The Robe stars Richard Burton as Marcellus, Jean Simmons as Diana, Victor Mature as the Greek slave Demetrius, Michel Rennie as Peter, and Jay Robinson as Caligula, Prince Regent of Rome as well as later Emperor.

The Robe will play at the Florida from January 27 through February 3.

CURRENTLY PLAYING at the Florida is the musical, 3 Sailors and a Girl starring Jane Powell and Gordon MacRae in the crazy-mixed-up story of a Broadway musical financed by the sailors and marines. Gene Nelson adds some fancy tapping to the picture, and Jack E Leonard the comedy.

It's Freedom, and its coming to the Florida Sunday, January 24, through Tuesday January 26 featuring Terry Carol and Jeanne Dru, the backbone centers around gamerous lovely Lizzie Steer's widow, and underworld intrigue on the island of Macao

LYLE BETTGER, who recently earned the title "Hollywood's Most Handsome Heel," in a contest conducted by fan club organizations throughout the country, plays a typical co-starring role in Forbidden.

The Grandland Rite Sportsmen's Water Swmpabout, featuring the FSU Tarpon Club is currently showing at the State Theatre through Saturday, as a special premier of this film in Florida.

FEATURED AT the State along with Water Swimphony is Forever Female, starring William Holden and Ruth Roman.

Terry Bids Adieu; To Finish College At U. of Kentucky

In a special interview with a Florida Flambeau reporter, Wayne Terry, five-year-old, in charge of men's affairs disclosed that he will be transferring to the University of Kentucky in the summer. He must transfer because he is required to have 15 semester hours in residence in order to enter the pre-la school at either of the colleges.

It is indeed unfortunate that my future course of study makes it necessary for me to leave F.S.U. at this time, Wayne stated. Although I have visited many university campuses in the last few years, I've found none that could compare with Florida State."

Wayne is from the Bronx, Terry, five-year-old, is chief executive of the Alpha Kappa Psi business honorary and Lambda Chi Alpha, social fraternity.

Beverly Lacayo, well-known for her work in student government, will journey to California to enter Art school. Although a math major, Bev has hopes of becoming a fashion illustrator. She has worked on Flambeau and is in the varsity debate team. Bev's plans that she has loved every minute, but that she is ready to go. "Come back, Bev!"

Carolyn Bolles's most immediate plans are to get married and tour Europe on her honeymoon. This political science major is a member of the Dramatic honorary history honorary, and worked in radio and dramatics as a French major. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority

Cliff Fales, a transfer student from West Palm Beach Junior College, has quite a record for his one year at FSU. Cliff is a member of the Marching Chiefs, Delta Sigma Pi, the University Symphonic Orchestra, Men's Glee Club, Collegians, Phi Mu Alpha, music honorary, and work at the Westminster Chapel take up much of his time.

After graduation, Cliff will enter the army. He plans to teach high school some day. "Although attending the Music School was a wonderful experience," he explained, "I have enjoyed the time I have spent at FSU so much that I could have been here all four years."

With graduation only a few days away, plans for the future are foremost in the minds of the seniors

IT'S ALL A MATTER OF TASTE

Me, didn't like the pretty hat
That I had set my heart on;
No argument on tuckies, though—
We buy them by the carton!

Georgia Lee Herring
Colorado A. & M.

When you come right down to it, you smoke for one simple reason . . . enjoyment. And smoking enjoyment is all a matter of taste. Yes, Luckies taste better in a cigarette. And Luckies taste better.

Two facts explain why Luckies taste better. First, L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco . . . light, mild, good-tasting tobacco. Second, Luckies are actually made better to taste better . . . always round, firm, fully packed to draw freely and smoke evenly.

So, for the enjoyment you get from better taste, and only from better taste, Be Happy—Go Lucky. Get a pack or a carton of better-tasting Luckies today.

The college survey clearly shows
Now smart set students are-
Where Lucky Strikes again.
The smoothest smoke by far!

William Hanlon
Holy Cross College

COLLEGE SMOKERS PREFER LUCKIES

A comprehensive survey—based on 131,000 student interviews and supervised by college professors—shows that smokers in colleges from coast to coast prefer Luckies to all other brands! The No. 1 reason: Luckies' better taste!

You may be from a northern state
You may be from Kentucky,
But, nationwide, here's one great tip:
Be Happy and LUCKY!

Gwendolyn N. Jenkins
Flint University

LUCKY STRIKE
"IT'S TOASTED"
CIGARETTES
L.S./M.F.T.

COPR., THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER
CLEANER, FRESHER, SMOOTHER!

BENNETT'S DRUG STORE
SPECIALS

$2 Revlon Aquamarine LOTION NOW $1.10

$1 Tussy Wind and Weather LOTION NOW 50¢

$6.00 VALUE! Rubenstein Estrogenic Hormone Twins now only $3.50

$2 Dorothy Gray DRY SKIN LOTION ONLY $1.00

$2.25 Dorothy Gray DRY SKIN MIXTURE ONLY $1.00

$1.75 Tussy Lanolin SHAMPOO 8-oz. NOW $1.00

Remember—
SAVE MONEY
TRADE THE BOOKS YOU NO LONGER NEED ON SECOND SEMESTER BOOKS
Cash For Your Used Books
Malone's Book Store

The Florida Flambeau

VOL. XL, No. 27 — PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA — Friday, February 3, 1956

Andrews Quits Sandspur Staff
See This Page

Officials Cancel AAUP Confab
See Lead Story

Andrews Resigns Sandspur Post Over Music Riff

No Replacement Named As Yet To Vocont Position

In a move to "avoid further friction" between musicians and the directive staff, Leo Andrews last week resigned from his position as conductor of the all-student-produced "Panorama" musical slated for the end of this month.

Andrews, appointed early in the semester as director of the musical after having submitted the musical score, said he hasn't seen "quite eye to eye" with orchestra leader Johnny Bailey on interpretation of his scores.

Andrews said he's "worked on the music for two years" adding he had some "pretty good people to cook it over during this time. So I don't like to "No one staying with them," referring to the critics on the musical staff of the production.

Asked whether he'd allow his name to be used this year, Andrews said he feels "there are too many people involved in the production to just give it to me." He added he thought more in the production "fired their hopes up," inferring he wouldn't want to be the cause of their disappointment.

Commenting on his relations with the rest of the 1954 Panorama staff, Andrews said he thought the choreography is excellent" dances' dancers are good" he noted. "Frances Bailey Stokes is producer and choreographer." She does an excellent job on the choreography."

Andrews, with no plans for the future said, "I had hopes of production Sandspur next year. But I guess this will kill them now." Adding a final note, the ex-director said he's had much experience in show business and musicals and how, he feels he's qualified to make a production like Sandspur a success.

I hope the music as interpreted by the Bailey orchestra turns out right," Andrews concluded.

Comment on the resignation of and appointment of a replacement for Andrews was not immediately had at FLAMBEAU press time as Producer Stokes could not be reached.

Mr. Fred F. Vagel, counselor to student activities and faculty sponsor in this week the administrative forces here, said he feels Andrews will be "The best and the most successful yet." He said he is "sorry to see Leo leave the production."

Carlisle Floyd Presents Recital Tonight 8:15 In Opperman Hall

Program Features Musicol Compositions Of Beethoven, Moussorgsky, Prokofieff

Pianist Carlisle Floyd, assistant professor of piano in the School of Music will present another in the series of faculty recitals tonight at 8:15 in Opperman Music Hall.

The program will be free and open to the public. It will open first with Beethoven's Sonata in A major, Opus 101, Allegretto, Vivace, Adagio, Allegro. Among Beethoven's last piano works, was chosen by Floyd for its "sustained and predominantly lyrical" musical qualities.

The sound of bells is used for interest in the other two selections, both by contemporary Russian composers. The bells produce a somber effect in Prokofieff's Sonata No. 7, according to Floyd, composed music. Some of his while in Moussorgsky's Pictures from an Exhibition "the sound of bells is triumphant."

The latter work consists of a set of short pieces expressing

Present Method Of Registration Eases Situation

Registration is better than ever according to Charles Walker, registrar. "Many faculty members and students commented on this year's registration as having the shortest lines and requiring the shortest length of time," Mr. Walker stated.

An estimated 5,000 students will be registered by Saturday. Over 2,000 students registered at the gym on Monday and Tuesday. Thursday night registration was held for night classes and Saturday registration will be tomorrow.

Class schedules may be changed, courses dropped or added without loss of credit through Wednesday, Feb. 11, the registrar's office said.

Some students may find a few courses with small enrollments discontinued.

"The system of reservation slips for English 101 was very successful," Mr. Walker added. Other departments sometimes use similar devices to ease registration.

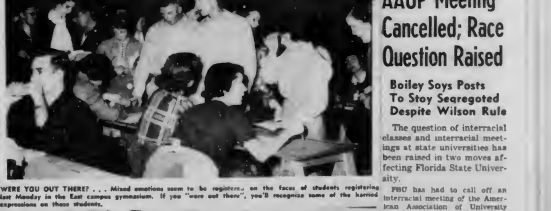
The present method of registration, which is in effect the next fall, Walker stated. Last fall's registration was created to eliminate confusion from freshmen and upperclassmen registered at separate times. More than 200 new students registered at Florida State this semester.

Aside from regular student registration, 30 students from the local community are expected to register for the new courses offered by the Tallahassee crews and department at the University.

The Arts Education department at FSU is offering an additional series in contemporary design which includes everything from wallpaper to home jewelry to refinishing furniture. William Watson will be the instructor.

The course is planned primarily for Florida homemakers who experience in the areas, but advanced students will receive individual attention. Fundamentals of the materials in everyday environment will be emphasized.

Other courses in education such as "Industrial Health," and "Contemporary Education" are offered.



The amount of credit earned by extension, correspondence or workshop courses is limited to undergraduate, per semester for in-service teachers is restricted to four semester hours.

Advanced graphoanic conducting by Dr. Thomas Dehnazi, field work in oceanography by Dr. Ira Gabrielson, modern interpretations of the life and teachings of Jesus by Dr. Robert Gladden, are among courses to fill by George Milne in

(Continued on Page 6)

Business Staff

There will be a meeting of the Business Staff of the FLORIDA FLAMBEAU Wednesday, Feb. 10 at 5 p.m. at the Flambeau office. All staff members and those interested in working on the business operations staff are urged to attend.

WERE YOU OUT THERE? . . . Mixed emotions seem to be registered on the faces of students registering in the Law Ministry in the East campus gymnasium. If you "were out there", you'll recognize some of the horrid expressions on those students.

"BUT JUST EVERYONE . . . is taking Solid Toning 906 this semester." Six students above take time out during registration to make out schedules, fill cards and unwind red tape.

AAUP Meeting Cancelled; Race Question Raised

Bailey Says Posts To Stay Segregated Despite Wilson Rule

The question of interracial classes and interracial meetings at state universities has been raised in two moves affecting Florida State University.

FSU has had to call off an interracial meeting of the American Association of University Professors scheduled for April.

President Doak S. Campbell, in explaining the necessity of the action, referred to the State Board of Control's interpretation of the State Constitution.

"Through the years, the Board of Control has taken the position that the constitutional provision for the education of the races separately applies to all higher institutions that are under the Board of Control and that it applies in all respects. Specific questions have been raised with the Board from time to time covering this item, and they have consistently maintained the position stated above."

The AAUP, in a letter sent to all faculty members of member institutions who planned to attend the convention, made the following statement:

"With extreme regret the Executive Council of the State University must report to its associates that it is impossible to serve as host for the Sixth Southeastern Regional Conference planned for Tallahassee. The invitation as extended to the Regional Council was based on the vote of the Chapter subject to concurrence by the University administration. The President of Florida State University concurred and joined in extending the invitation. It developed, however, that as we proceeded with specific plans for handling this responsibility we encountered misunderstandings regarding the nature of interracial gatherings. We had not expected administration to be in the current practices in this state and in neighboring areas where bi-racial professional meetings are not uncommon."

(Editor's note: The Florida Academy of Sciences held an interracial meeting at the University of Florida in the spring. The University of Florida is under the same Board of Control which makes policies for Florida State University.)

Senator Bailey and Vernon High are first. For the rest of this month Leon County High School and Jefferson County High School of Monticello, and Madison High School will be visited. Hillsborough High School Miami Edison High, Crawfordville High and Robert E. Lee.

According to Dr. Lastinger, Bailey's remarks followed Dufrene Secretary Wilson's directive prohibiting the establishment of segregational practices in schools attached to institutions of higher learning.

Neither complaint against Wilson's directive came from Federal court yesterday here in Tallahassee at the U.S. Court House of the Ku Klux Klan, concerned with Wilson's order on grounds of unconstitutionality.

Whitcomb Conducts Clinic Tomorrow In Opperman Hall

Manley Whitcomb, director of the Marching Chiefs, and recognized as one of the nation's top bandmasters, will conduct the first clinic tomorrow in Opperman Hall for high school spokesman said today.

He has invited high school musicians from all over the state to attend the clinic and expects a large number of high school students to sit in on the FSU clinic.

Both the University Symphonic Band and the Marching Chiefs of 100 Florida State University musicians will participate in the band clinic.

Members of the Coda Iota Valhalla, "The Hut of Beta Yaks" Kappa Sigma social fraternity announced the following officers for the spring semester:

Scott Baylor—President.
Cecil Bestler—Vice-President.
Russell Johnson—Pledge trainer.
Walter Wood—Secretary.
John May—Treasurer.
Don Smith—Social Chairman.

Miss Tallahassee Preliminaries Held; 14 In Finals Tomorrow

Fourteen girls, selected on the basis of poise and beauty, were chosen to be finalists in the Miss Tallahassee contest in a preliminary run-off Monday night. The final selection of Miss Tallahassee and two runner-ups will be made Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. in the women's gym.

Jack Madigan, chairman of the Jaycee entrants committee announced the finalists, all of whom are FSU students as: Delores Ann Byrum Flynn, Sarah Ann Fennell, Nan Wigginton, Mary Bolton, Marian Gessler, Pat Russell, Betty Jo Hamilton, Betty Farthing, Joyce Carad, Jeanne Ann Bouriand, Anita Wall, and Martha Slaten.

The girls will compete for the title of Tallahassee crown Saturday with the reward of a $250 Vogue scholarship given by H. H. Blumberg and a all-expense trip to Winter Haven this month to compete for the Miss Florida Crown.

The winner will also be able to sell a rental gown and a bathing suit to wear in the judging as a part of the awards.

An entrant in this contest could not be over 25 years of age and had to be at least 18. She had to be sanctioned by a Jaycee club with an official sponsorship and also be single and of good character.

The Jaycees also expected that the competitor be a resident of Florida or be enrolled in a school or college in the Florida Panhandle.

There are three phases of the judging: Formal wear, bathing suit appearances and either amateur or professional talent.

Grover Hall has entered the con-

(Continued on Page 4)

Administrators, Teachers Meet Here For Talk

More than 100 college administrators and classroom teachers from 14 states have registered for a Conference on Evaluation in Higher Education, to be held here February 13 and 13. it was announced yesterday.

According to a report, " top southern educators will thrash out such academic problems as how to measure progress in special fields of study. The conference is being jointly sponsored by FSU and the Educational Testing Service in Princeton, the report said.

Already registered, it was noted, are art college presidents, deans, and other top academic heads from colleges and universities from Tenessee , , , to West Virginia and Florida."

Principal speakers at the opening session will be FSU President Henry Chauncey of the Educational and Testing Service, and Dr. Ralph Tyler, research chairman of the board of examiners at Pakistan State.

FSU President Doak S. Campbell will welcome the group here highlighting the conference will be panel discussions, question and answer periods, lecture series topics emphasizing humanities, social sciences, natural sciences and communications.

Dr. Murphy Authors Article On Business

Dr. Glen E. Murphy, associate professor of Finance in the School of Business, is the author of an article in the summer issue of the National Business Education Quarterly.

Titled "The preparation of a progressive business educator should not be limited to the study of subjects according to Dr. Murphy, but should continue through his professional career.

Dr. Murphy lists in his article many ways in which business educators can continue their preparation and development. Among them are attending service on school committees, holding workshops, and studying professional magazines and house organs.

Annual Intelligent Faith Week Scheduled For February 22-27

Intelligent Faith Week will be held this year at Florida State University from February 22 through 27. This event is scheduled annually to give students an opportunity to participate in religious discussions that might help them to examine their beliefs.

Detailed plans for the week were made at a meeting of the publicity committee recently. Committees of students and faculty members have been formed to support the activities of the week.

According to publicity chairman, Jane Scott, committee chairman of the executive committee is President Doak S. Campbell, committee is Dick Moore; arrangements committee is headed by co-chairmen Sarah Whitehead and Pinky Nesbitt; Stan Tippin heads the committee on book displays; Pat Stevens and Betsy Van Pyper are co-chairmen of the hospitality committee.

Jimmy Jones is chairman of the committee on transportation; Jerry Hall is chairman of the recording committee; co-chairmen of the publicity committee are LaVerne Jennings and Nancy Pagan; the organizations committee is under the direction of Lil Avis and Caroline Close; and Jimmy Hall and Wally Dyson are co-chairmen of the publicity committee, also.

Chairman of the seminar committee is Jerry Fortune, she committee is headed by Judy Dunn and Doris Bondi head the workshop committee; Jimmy Hall is in charge of the mass meeting; the faculty luncheon is under the direction of co-chairmen Ben Richard Adams and Dr. Hugh Stickler; chairman of the Sunday supply schedule committee is Mary Elizabeth Hamilton and the chairmen room appointments committee is headed by Chaplain Sam Neel.

University of Miami President Addresses Graduating Class

It is time for Florida to outgrow sectionalism, Dr. Jay F. Whidden, president of the University of Miami, said the mid-term graduating class of Florida State University in commencement exercises January 28 in which FSU President Doak S. Campbell followed more than 200 degrees.

As the commencement speaker Dr. Pearson told the graduating students, "I believe we have an obligation to the University of Florida. Over 28 years I for one have had the privilege of serving north Florida, west Florida, central Florida, south Florida, and Florida and New Florida."

Dr. Whidden urged members of the forms that have been used and objectives agreed upon by members of the state could have been devised by the Communists in an effort to "divide and destroy us."

Turning to the role the young graduates before him could play in helping Florida Dr. Pearson said:

"As you take your place in life, if you are elected to the state legislature, take a state-wide view. If you marry a legislator, use the influence that only a good wife can, to make sure your husband develops the stature his ability and education demand of him."

The university president said no part of Florida can get along without the rest and the state—room appointments committee is

Chiefs Practice Drill Patterns For Famed Gasparilla Parade

Florida State University's Marching Chiefs, disbanded since the end of the football season, have recently been seen on the drill field brushing up techniques in preparation for their trip south to Tampa Sunday to take part in the famed Gasparilla parade which will be held on Monday.

Mr. Manley Whitcomb, band director, has announced that the band's participation in the annual celebration will consist mostly of straight marching with several special routines presented by the majorettes along the line of march. Lady of Spain, American We, and a group of FSU school songs will be included in the marches to be played during the parade.

Three commercial buses will transport the 115 members of the band to the nationally-known festival. Accompanying Mr. Whitcomb and Mrs. Whitcomb, Mr. Harry Schmidt, and Mr. Robert Brunsard. Ar-

(Continued on Page 4)

Meeting Adjourned When Senate Lacks Enough For Quorum

The regularly scheduled meeting of the Student Body Senate was adjourned Tuesday for lack of a quorum.

Absent were Sens. Roy Chapman, Lillian Avis, Chris Young, Ann Leinbach, Will McCants, Charis Coulter, Phoebe Jackson, Jim Hays, Gordon Oaster, James Hall and Coyle Bowen.

Among the matters on the Agenda for Tuesday's meeting was a report by the special committee to investigate purchase of the Florida Flambeau. Already released unofficially to the Flambeau, this report cleared the staff of grounds for impeachment.

On tap for next week's session is a speech by Student Body President Doak Campbell, who will discuss the proposed amended Student Body Constitution.

Still on the table is Sen. Jean Halford's amended tape recording resolution.

According to Senate Secretary Connie Cook, the following absences were recorded for the month of January: Excused: Carolyn Cheek, Jo Ann Cook, Jim Moore, Charis Coulter, Joan Cavel, Dave Bachman and Nancy Bevis. Unexcused absences were Bob Serto (twice), Jim McCauley and Jim Joanos.

Teams Present Talent Series In Assemblies

"Starting today teams of talented students from the campus will present a series of assembly programs in Florida high schools," states Dr S. T. Lastinger of the FSU school of education. "Object of the talks will try to encourage teaching as a career for the teen-agers."

Four teams will alternate trips throughout the state and scholarship, educational and placement opportunities will be discussed.

Chapter and Vernon High are

According to Dr. Lastinger, Bailey's remarks followed Dufrene Secretary Wilson's directive prohibiting the establishment of segregational practices in schools attached to institutions of higher learning.

Neither complaint against Wilson's directive came from Federal court yesterday here in Tallahassee at the U.S. Court House of the Ku Klux Klan, concerned with Wilson's order on grounds of unconstitutionality.

FSU Musician Will Conduct Ohio Symphony

A musical panorama of representative American folk songs make up Ernst von Dohnanyi's "American Rhapsody" which will have its world premiere at Ohio University's semicentennial celebration February 21 at Athens, Ohio.

The Hungarian born composer who is professor of piano and composition at Florida State University, will go to Ohio, and personally conduct the Ohio University Symphony Orchestra in presenting the premiere performance.

Dr. Dohnanyi wrote the choral ody especially for the 150th celebration. The is his sixth appearance as guest artist at Ohio University, oldest in the Northwest territory, where as visiting professor he lectures to a master class.

As a climax to his visit this year, Dr. Dohnanyi will give a campus community recital the afternoon of February 28, especially planned so that people in a large area can see him play. He will play five of his own compositions, as well as the works of old masters.

Also during his visit, Dr. Dohnanyi will give a convocation concert, especially for the student body of Ohio University, a feature of the year-long celebration now underway.

Last spring Dr. Dohnanyi and his personal friend, the late Albert Spalding, violinist, gave a concert in Athens, which was one of the final public appearances of the late violinist.

Dr. Dohnanyi will be accompanied by his wife on the Ohio trip. She will be honored guest of the university president, Dr. Vernon Alden. Mrs. Dohnanyi is famed by Karl Ahrendt, head of the school of music, a former professor of violin at FSU.

Physics Department Sponsors Atomic Display At Tampa Fair

Florida State University's Department of Physics is sponsoring the current Florida State Fair in Tampa, which ends February 11, official reports.

The exhibit displays a working model of an atomic reactor, Geiger counters and a lightning generator which produces half a million volts of electricity, they said.

Dr. Geenter Schwarz, FSU physics department head, who is in charge of the display, revealed that it is centered around a series of five exhibits. "For example," he said, "there are Geiger counters, which measure ionizing radiation, and a number of samples of radioactive materials. We are trying to show how atomic energy is used for peace-time applications."

Dr. Schwarz said some of the radio-active minerals will be set up under special conditions where spectators can view them under "black light," which glows them a

News Briefs

Mrs. Dora Skipper

Mrs. Dora Skipper, prominent in the field of education in Florida, will speak at the Dance Guild supper meeting Wednesday beginning at 7:15, according to Mary Kulynitch, instructor of women's physical education. The dinner will be open to the general public, both men and women.

Postmaster In Ill

William H. May, for many years postmaster of the FSU post office, and longtime resident of Tallahassee, is seriously ill in Tallahassee Memorial Hospital. Formerly connected with the Tallahassee post office and manager of a local chain store, Mr. May is a Mason and charter member of the Golden Age Club.

"At the Piano"

Frantisek Zachara, Polish-American concert pianist, will be featured guest on the FSU television program "At the Piano" on Saturday at 2:30 p.m. over WFSU-TV, according to Zachara, he is also a composer, he will also play some of his compositions.

First Piano Quartet

The First Piano Quartet will appear at FSU on February 29, under the auspices of the Artist Series. The matinee is scheduled for 3:30 and the evening concert will be at 8:30. The same program will be played for both performances.

TAX FORMS HERE

Individual income tax return forms are now available in the Office of Student Activities, Room 19, Longmire Building.

Mr. Fred Vogel, Counselor for Student Organizations, will be glad to furnish any information necessary to students who need it.

Trade Course Equipment Makes Education Far More Expensive

Interesting food for thought about the cost of running a university is provided in a column by Bruce Barton appearing in the Florida Times-Union of last Sunday.

The columnist points out that parents who foot the bill for their children's university expenses are well aware of the larger and larger costs. Education is an expensive thing, they concede.

"What kind of an education?" asks Barton.

"It costs only a few dollars to open up the language and culture of ancient Greece. It takes no dark rom to learn to appreciate poetry, no huge TV antennae to study history," he says.

The hulk of the hills for modern universities consist of equipment in the teaching of trade skills. Barton believes this is unfortunate: "Libraries must keep on buying books, and science departments demand more and more elaborate equipment. But I really believe that the average student would slash their budgets radically if they would get back to a sound and solid education.

". . . It seems to me that all (this specialized training) is more than an economic waste. It is just tragic that a boy or girl should spend precious months on uselessmanship and market surveys when he might never get another chance to delve deeply into Shakespeare or Milton."

He suggests the proper way to learn the trades and skills now being taught in college is to go to work in them.

As examples of the way "classical" courses are being submerged by the new "practical" ones, he lists the following comparisons gleaned from the college catalogue:

"18 course s in photography, compared to the 1717 in philosophy; 49 in home economics, compared to 14 in U. S. history; 23 courses in journalism, compared to five in the literature; and the same number in radio as in the Bible, the history of Christianity and theology combined."

We do not know what catalogue Mr. Barton was reading. It was not FSU's, but some slightly weaker examples could be stated here.

WHY FSU IS WORTH MILLIONS

"Why does the University
Grow richer, day by day—
Its buildings high,
Its fields so wide—
Whence comes this mighty sway?"

"The answer, Sir, though hard to see—
Like microscopic tittle—
'Tis 'cause the students
Bring so much
And take away so little!"
—William R. Reece

"Now, Don't Be Shocked"

Let It Be Said

By DICK VICTORY

Neutrality is a very strange thing
Upon your head it may bring
The wrath of man and the sling
Of those who speak and say nothing

All quiet on the West Hall front.

A temporary silence settled over that home-away-from-home during exam week. It was quite a contrast. The Dormitoopers even took time out from throwing cherry bombs into Dyckman's window (That name again). Sorry John, but I just hate sleeping dogs.

It's been such a neutral period that there's nothing to write about except neutrality. And since its taboo for me to write about that, I won't say a thing this week. We'll just glance around the nation and see who the important people are saying about the important issues.

Jimmy DiMaggio about marriage "I haven't been this worn out since my last season with the Yanks."

Frank Costello after registration: "Anyone for Russian Roulette?"

Jim Bridenia, after some: "Sorry sir, I have no gun. Will a pocket-knife do?"

James Roosevelt about a shady past: "I was framed. But if I can't run in California, I can always go to Florida and find everybody else does."

Joe McCarthy (R.-Wis.), about Investigations: "With baseball season coming up, Boston and Cincinnati will be next."

Ernest Hemingway about near-fatal airplane crashes: "Next time that Old Man will go for Sea."

'Rubi' about money and matrimony: "If Fort Knox were only a wife!"

Dick Tracy about plot: "Babies in trees! Could, you've gone too far. You were bad enough before, but now you're getting down to Senator Sam's and Arthur Godfrey level."

Quote to end quotes: Great Chinese philosopher Confusion about word economy: "Two nations who can't eat will soon graduate to hot, and then the crazy boasters go right out of this world."

—Ka.

AT THE MOVIES

Cruel Sea, Hondo Billed As Popular 'Robe' Held

Hands and The Cruel Sea, two dramatic best-sellers come to the screens at the Florida and State theatres next week.

The 3-D portrayal of the twelve week Hondo, written by Louis L'Amour, comes to the State theatre Wednesday, Feb. 16. Hondo stars John Wayne in the title role and introduces Geraldine Page in her first screen performance.

Two co-stars in the picture are Lee Aaker, who plays the part of Angie Lowe's Geraldine Page' and Ord Fal, a Hollywood director as Hondo's bodyguard. The latter had some difficulty during the filming in the Mexican desert, with temperatures reaching 120 degrees. Fal, or Sam as he is called in the movie, received a protective coating on the pads of his paws to keep them from burning as he rotted through scenes in John Wayne's films.

The British production of The Cruel Sea, based on the story by Nicholas Monsarrat, comes to the Florida theatre Sunday and Monday, starring Jack Hawkins, Donald Sinden, Denholm Elliott, and Virginia McKenna.

The Cruel Sea is a story of the ocean and the way it affects the lives of the men aboard two ships struggling to survive the sea's cruelty. Virginia McKenna, as Julie Hallam, provides romance in the role of a girl in port who lives the agonies of her sea-going man as she waits for his return. The sea is the villain, the men the heroes and the ships the heroines.

Also present in The Robe is being held over at the Florida theatre through Saturday. The cinemascope production in technicolor stars Jean Simmons, Richard Burton, Victor Mature, and Jay Robinson in the character roles from Lloyd Douglas' book.

Playing Friday and Saturday at this week at the State is Siren of Bagdad in technicolor with Paul Henreid and Patricia Medina in a harem-scarem arabian nights escapade.

Wings of the Hawk, Technicolor tale of a Yankee adventurer and a Mexican border bandit, come starts Sunday at the State. The U-I production stars Van Heflin and Julia Adams. Van Heflin carves in fight in a full-scale rebellion against Mexico's federal leaders for rights in a newly discovered gold mine.

FOUR TIMES AS CORNY

(ACP)—A new variety of corn —four times as sweet as any now known—has been developed by a botanist at the University of Illinois. The extra sweetness is caused by a rese cated "shrunken-2." The new corn is expected to be placed on the market sometime within the next three to six years.

"On the other hand it's good to have a student like Wentnal, in class . . . It completes the other end of the curve."

Letters to the Editor

Ode on Erring

TO YE EDITOR:
To your tribulations and trials
May I add my complaints?
Not 'cause of who I am
But because of what I ain't.
To be listed with 'girls'
of Kappa Delta Pi
Did very little for me.
To lift my spirits high!
I've passed as a man
For forty odd years,
And now you've added
To my woeful sad fears.
Frustrations' I've got 'em!
And completers too!
And all this I blame
Directly on you.
KDP took me in
But that's not the point.
As a man or a 'girl'
Did I really count?
How about Peter Dunn-Rankin
And William E. Head?
Are they ladies also?
Have we all been mis-led?
You've got some good writers,
Research they should do
To give us the facts
We sure wish we knew
My wife is angry
Not at you but at me
For she just plain wonders
How these things can be.
My child has long languished
For want of some brothers
And suddenly finds herself
Blessed with two mothers!
As far as I know
I'm not really a belle,
And so I say you,
Just wotthehell?
MAURICE K. PETERSON.

Get It Straight

Dear Editor:

Of the 47 girls recently initiated into the local chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, Flamboyant, 22! one was a four-year letterman on FSU's varsity swimming team and has just been accepted into Officer Candidate program of the United States Navy.

If it will help to set the record straight Kappa Delta Pi is a co-educational honorary in which there are a few men. My roommate and friend for the past 13 years happens to be one of the few.

It might be a good idea to read your article before heading it in the future.

Yours truly
TONY STORMONT,
818 W. Pensacola St.
Tallahassee, Fla.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Our humble apologies to Maurice Peterson, William E. Head and Peter Dunn-Rankin . . . also to the 44 women.

All That Pretty?

Dear Sir:

I'm an instructor at the Army Ordnance school.

A few evenings ago I was with a group of fellow instructors when we saw a film on sports at Florida State University. It depicted in particular the activities of their women's swimming club.

After we left the theater a discussion ensued on the film in question. As our group consisted of married men, we were, over the country, many questions arose on what we saw. It seemed to us that the percentage of the girls attending the university was very high, and then again "Are most of the coeds as pretty as those shown in the film?" "Does the Women's Swimming Club have an edition outside the State of Florida?"

Last summer I saw an aquashow given by a group of girls from California, but they couldn't match those beauties from Florida. The show was put on by Fort Dix, New Jersey.

If you could answer any of the above questions it would be greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,
Joseph Milano
Pvt. 2 Ordnance
US 51258803
9237 TOTC TOS Co. A
Box 409
Aberdeen Proving Ground
Maryland.

Fervent Defense

Dear Mr. Editor:

I am writing to you from this unidentified sanctuary, the FSU Infirmary, to tell you at desk's door. For the benefit of unthinking students I thought it my duty before I shuffle off to inform them of a horrible experience I've had. Immediate cause of my approaching demise that they may guard themselves and so avoid a similar fate.

This morning I (shudder) decided to partake of breakfast in the Soda Shop. I have done these many years. It chanced that while I swallowed the delicious beverage which have inevitably preceded my ceremonious entrance through Doors at this venerable eating establishment for as long as I can remember. Doors at this venerable eating establishment for as long as I can remember. Fellowship Christian editorial concerning this self-same Soda Shop.

Immediately thereafter the Chimes rang and impressionable I, a character, was plunged into the interior of Lonamire as Florida State University, was formally entered as sponsor of the refuse piled chest-deep in the room. I fought tooth and claw 1934.

But to no avail. I was in manity pressing at me from every side. Above me loomed silver service which I immediately dumped on the floor, in order to separate the knives and forks from the 13 slimy Junior Staff ..... Dot Thomerson, Pat Davis, Mary Elizabeth King, squarely in the left eye, hurled with practiced care by an enraged student. As I grabbed her by the throat, forced her back against a dinay wall and simultaneously screwed up a 13 quantity of litter from an empty table with my free arm.

Before I could throw these revolting items at her, she shoved me violently back with one foot, and carefully reduced the furniture with the aid of the fixtures (purchased at public expense). At gun point she persuaded me to help her shoot eye upon me always, poured a cup of coffee over me and plunging it into my cup. With a tea ball in my hand clutched to my breast I crawled to the nearest corner, where I lay 'ill promptly buried beneath 3 music majors, 1 saboteur, and an unidentified person with a skull and cross-bone tie. I would have survived, I just know I would but, sometime later as the white-coated attendants were carrying me out the door, the Final Blow came . . . a waitress SNAPPED at me, while the cashier moved in and gave me an excruciating REHUPP. The memory of her cutting remark was the last thing I remember.

As I choke . . . write these words I can . . . recall the last pleasant days 'fore before Rice . . . (gasp) . . . when I labored under the delusion that I was partaking of a hurried but heartwarming meal . . . (choke) . . . in my favorite haunt . . . whose . . . (rattle) . . . name . . . The Soda Shop.

P. S. For those who need a more colonied explanation, let me say that I think the editorial in the last issue of last semester's Flambeau about the Soda Shop is all wet. The Soda Shop is the same bustling dispensor of good food it always was.

A faithful but severely tried reader of the Gospel,
Reward Mr. Hartley, B.H.F.
157 Magnolia Hall, Box 7461.

MYERS SPONSOR

Miss Sally Myers, a sophomore at Florida State University, was recently selected as sponsor of the FSU Military Officers' Club for 1954.

Miss Myers, a graduate of Plant High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Myers. Her address is 2425 Jean Circle, Tampa.

The Officer's Club is made up of cadet officers from Army and Air Force ROTC contingents. The group has participated Sidebands, and Blade, national military society, for a charter.

Sponsors usually sponsor the time to receive a 4 cream Club in various military social chenoe and olive sandwich that occur throughout the year.

The Florida Flambeau

BRUCE GAFLIGN — EDITOR

AL PIERCE, news editor	BOB FOLSOM, managing editor
Feature Editor	Jayleen Robertson
Sports Editors	Ken Kingery, Dave Kennedy
Campus Editor	Gary Campbell
Copy Editors	Dick Victory, David Dreis
Rewrite Editors	Ocer Johnson, Alfred Hall
Photographic Editor	Joe Caldwell
Art Consultant	Frank-le Adams
Sports Staff	Art Kennerly, Bob Taylor
Junior Staff	Tom Hall, Betty Bishop, Lona Cochran, Barbara Thomson, Joyce Fuller

NANCY LOWE BUSINESS MGR.
MIRIAM SAWYER, advertising manager

Business Staff ..... Mary Wegon, Virginia Vaughn, Alice Jay, Joe Caldwell
Exchange Editor ..... Pat Robson
Exchange Staff ..... Margaret Dellaney

Advertising solicited by Alpha Delte Sigma and Gamma Alpha Chi.

Distribution arranged for and processed by members of Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity.

"The Florida Flambeau, published twice weekly by the Students of The Florida State University, Tallahassee, Florida. The Florida Flambeau is represented nationally by the National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Avenue, New York 17, New York."

Member: Associate Collegiate Press, Intercollegiate Press
Telephone 2-8000, extension 4821

THE FREE LANCE

Bachelor Girl Gets Bachelor Degree

By BRUCE GAFLIGN

There was a great stir in T. J. Murphree's Five and Dime Store. Millie Hofover, long time clerk at the handkerchief counter, was getting a college degree!

Na one denied that Millie was a hard worker. Long lean and somewhat hatchet-faced, she was the only responsible to attract born ever if we count under 12. But the energetic she might have used otherwise she put into her work. She was a whiz behind the handkerchiefs.

Yes, Millie was a hard worker, but no one ever suspected she was also so intelligent. A college degree! Another girl quickly you could credit to Millie was perseverance, but she really stuck to it until she got her BE.

It all began a couple of years ago when Millie stopped by the Panama Diner for lunch to see whether the new Perry Mason detective story had arrived. It had, and Millie was ready to leave when she noticed Mrs. Streeter, the head librarian, near display of college catalogues.

That Mrs. Streeter was a funny one. Always putting up displays about screwy things no one was interested in. But this one turned out to be different. Millie's attention was drawn immediately to a bright yellow and red catalogue with the inscription on it, "Florida mill University . . . right here in the city.

Cyndall hadn't been farring too well financially as its old days of gracious academic, book-learning kind of teaching, so they got a new man in to run things. Liberal education went out and liberal arts courses, vocational and graduation requirements came in.

Still, most of the catalogue was pretty dry, and Millie was about to put it down when she happened to notice the College of Business section. She read it through right then and there she decided she would have a college degree. It seemed that the College gave 15 semester hours credit to anybody who had, as Millie was ready to leave when she noticed Mrs. Streeter, the head librarian, near display of college catalogues.

Most of the aid several educators received was moral.

PRIVATE CITIZEN

Unscrambling Political Alphabetics

By GENE LAWLER

Next Tuesday President Brockhaus will present to the Student Senate the formal constitution of SUSCA.

With the addition to the maze of alphabetical interest-legiate organizations, one is amused by the thought that perhaps we need a statement of foreign policy from FSU's student government. Then a bewildered student may be left with easily unscramble SUSGA, SIASG, FISCA and SUSA.

Briefly the organizations are:

SUSCA: The Southern Universities Student Government Association. FSU is slated to be host next spring for the get-together of the Student Governments of the other large universities of the South.

SIASG: The Southern Intercollegiate Association of Student Governments. FSU nee FSCW has been a member of this women's government organization since time immemorial. Judy Simkins, Secretary of State, is vice-president and in charge of planning the SIASG convention here this spring.

FISCA: The Florida Intercollegiate Student Government Association. Participants will be nearly all Florida junior colleges, colleges and universities only FSU and U. of F are declared non-members. FSU with over just 5,000 students.

NSA: The United States National Student Association. Formed in 1947, this organization nee has about 350 members. The only student government association to concern itself with matters of interest an this campus, it has been detested here many times, with anti-NSA forces holding the upper hand in student government the last couple years.

What purpose do these alphabet soups serve? Besides providing an array of organizations must represents a considerable mutual publicity and the inculpation of student politicians well-developed grearcuoruses.

First, these associations can help train campus leaders and equip them with ideas. This they try to do. NSA conducts an annual Student Body President's Conference and SUSGA will hold annual workshops.

Second, they can aid their member campuses by a variety of services. NSA conducted on an interscampus basis a bulletin service, easily unscramble SUSGA, SIASG, FISCA and NSA.

With the additions to the maze of alphabetical interest-legiate organizations, one is amused by the thought that perhaps we need a statement of foreign policy from FSU's student government. Then a bewildered student may be left with easily unscramble SUSGA, SIASG, FISCA and NSA.

Briefly the organizations are:

SUSCA: The Southern Universities Student Government Association. FSU is slated to be host next spring for the get-together of the Student Governments of the other large universities of the South.

SIASG: The Southern Intercollegiate Association of Student Governments. FSU nee FSCW has been a member of this women's government organization since time immemorial. Judy Simkins, Secretary of State, is vice-president and in charge of planning the SIASG convention here this spring.

FISCA: The Florida Intercollegiate Student Government Association. Participants will be nearly all Florida junior colleges, colleges and universities only FSU and U. of F are declared non-members. FSU with over just 5,000 students.

NSA: The United States National Student Association. Formed in 1947, this organization nee has about 350 members. The only student government association to concern itself with matters of interest an this campus, it has been detested here many times, with anti-NSA forces holding the upper hand in student government the last couple years.

What purpose do these alphabet soups serve? Besides providing an array of organizations must represents a considerable mutual publicity and the inculpation of student politicians well-developed grearcuoruses.

ETCETERA ETCHINGS

There Are Comedians And Comedians

By DAVID DREIS

A few columns back we said we were going to talk about the different types of comedians. But we could help cease the questions of those who better in the comedy field. So, to get on with it all, let's put comics in categories.

Quip comics: Bob Hope leads the pack with his flip and fast style. And Hope is A-1 on radio and movies only, in my opinion. On personal appearances shows and night spot ditties, he fails. Hope's timing is not primary, probably the best slight of hand comic around. Bert is video's.

Situation comic: In motion pictures Jack Carson gets my vote for doing the most in situations, but on radio and television Jack Benny and Wally Cox in "Mr. Peepers" is the hero.

Revue comedian: Bobby Clark and Phil Silvers are in the top brackets on this division for the stage, but on television, it's Sid Ceasar.

Comedienes: Night clubs; Kay Thompson; Radio, Judy Davis; Television: Lucille Ball; Radio: Marie Wilson.

The entertainers: These are the performers who can do almost anything the audience calls for. They can dance, sing, act and joke. This is the place where the performer wants to climb. To some, it takes a life-time. To others, as soon as they get the break they become noted.

Eddie Cantor, Al Jolson and Jimmy Durante are examples of revue comedians who have made their names in a succession of hits in different media. Danny Kaye and Donald O'Connor are examples of movie entertainers; Paul Winchell, the ventriloquist and Jackie Gleason have become 'entertainers' with numerous straight and comedy roles. Gleason besides doing all types of comedy even has his orchestra leader for Capitol Records.

If Kay Thompson s ever decides to make another night club debiim night clubs, this girl will be a sensation and terrific . . . in fact she does more 'take-offs' than a strip-teaser.

For instance, on a Neel Cawley and play:

"Reginald!" . . . "Cynthia!"
"Sir!" "Sack!" . . . "Sir!"
"So soon?" . . . "Yes—Cynthia, we must talk" . . . "Yes, Reginald"
"You mean—" . . . "Quite."
"I'm leaving" . . . "Oh, so soon, Reginald" . . . "No" . . . "Evelyn?"
"Yes" . . . "No" . . . "Coo-ky!" . . .

"Pre-cisely" . . . "Cook!" . . . "Tonight" . . . "Tonight" . . . "I see" . . . "I'm glad. Horace and I are off" . . . "Horace?" . . . "Oh" . . . "So" . . . "Alry?" . . . "No" . . . "Leslie?" . . . "Yes" . . . "Well, cheerio." (Music begins.) . . . "Reginald" . . . "Cynthia, I love me?" . . . "Precisely" . . . "Wait, wait" . . . "Frightful" . . . "Marry me?" . . . "Instantly." . . . "Oh, Reggie, you're such a brick through the whole ugly mess."

Yes, comedians come in all sizes, shapes and colors in types, stereotypes and tintypes, but the comedian who combines and is comic in one camp cannot be better than a comedian in another camp. Ghosts in the Africa 1918 better than Miss America 1918?

Swift Makes Grant To FSU School of Home Economics

A research grant of $5000 has been granted to the Florida State University School of Home Economics by Swift and Company, announced Wednesday by Dean Ida Mae Gray. The money will be used to study to oxidation changes in meats.

Dr. M. Wells, professor and director of food and nutrition will supervise the research program under the grant, spokesmen said.

An example of the work to be done, they noted, will be a study of absorption and reflection of light at meat surfaces by graduate student Marian Faulkner. These experiments will give a measure of change in the pigments present.

Dr. Metts of the University Food Service, stated "The money left in the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

CAMPBELL WRITES

"Makeup for Beginners" is the title of an article by Dean Lawrence R. Campbell of the Florida State University School of Journalism in the December issue of Scholastic Editor, official publication of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

From The Sidelines

By Ken Kingery

Flambeau Sports Editor

U. of F. Ignores F.S.U.

After all the talk about the "big" and the Florida State Seminoles starting athletic relationships, it was solved not long ago by Coach Bob Woodruff in Gainesville. He announced to the public that they are dropping The Citadel and Stetson from their 1954 schedule, to take on Mississippi State and Clemson.

FOR NEXT SEASON

Who could men o-ne or many things. Either the Gators are making room for the Seminoles in future schedules or they are trying to leave us by playing other opponents.

After consulting several Gator fans and students, we're inclined to believe they really want to play us. Coach Woodruff said as much when, "No other State school in the south plays three consecutive schools, and I don't think we should." Perhaps they are making room, let's hope so.

TRACK TEAM MAY GET A LIFT

Chances for a top flight hurdler on the Seminole track team look fairly good. The State transfer from Miami High is considering entering Florida State next semester. Bill Burroughs, slender first semester freshman at Miami U. has been thinking very strongly of joining the Seminoles sometime in the near future.

Problems begin to arise due to the rule stating "in order to participate in any sport a transfer student must be enrolled in the school for at least a year." This means that Bill will not be able to run if he comes this summer or until next season. However, he will be able to participate in the A. U. meets this spring.

BOXER AND OTHERS LOST

Nugent said he expects about 45 players from last season to report for spring drills. Newcomers, mostly junior college graduates and recently discharged servicemen, will swell the turnout to around 60.

The squad will hold a preliminary "track counting" meeting on Thursday.

Dinner Specials Designed to Fit Your Pocketbook and Your Taste.

TODAY

DELICIOUS SEAFOOD PLATTER

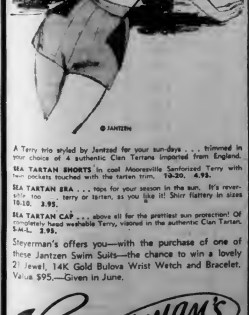
Shrimp, Trout, Scallops, Deviled Crab, Hush Puppies — French Fries — Salad

$1.00

SUNDAY DINNER

WONDERFUL FILET MIGNON

BONE TO A JUICY TURN !



French Fries — Chef Salad

$1.00

M&N Cafe

Enjoy Other Delicious Specials Every Day at . . .

E. Jefferson Street

© JANTZEN

A Terry trio styled by Jantzel for your sun-days . . . trimmed in your choice of 4 authentic Clan Terrans imported from England.

SEA TARTAN SHORTS in cool Moorspindle Santorized Terry with Terr rockets touched with the tartan trim. 1-9-20. 4.98.

SEA TARTAN ERA . . . tops for your season in the sun. It's reversible, too . . . terry or tartan, as you like it! Shirr flattery in sizes 7-9-11. 3.98.

SEA TARTAN CAP . . . above all for the prettiest sun protection! Of completely hand washable Terry, visored in the authentic Clan Tartan. S-M-L. 2.98.

Steyerman's offers you—with the purchase of one of these Jantzen Swim Suits—the chance to win a lovely 2 Jewel, 14K Gold Bulova Wrist Watch and Bracelet. Value $95.—Given in June.

Steyerman's

THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR QUALITY

F.S.U. Swimmers Topple Texas Aggies

Swimmers Take Third Straight In Downing Jacksonville Navy

By KEN KINGERY
Sports Editor

The Florida State Seminole's natators took their third straight victory of the season as they decisively out-swam the Jax Navy Air Station 56 to 37 in the Naval Air Training Center Pool, last Saturday night in Jacksonville.

Boasting a fine 4 and 0 record, the Seminoles swam many of their star swimmers in exhibition. George Cooper, ace backstroker, didn't even make the trip.

Joel Lurie had a busy night as he placed in three events. Norm Shipper, one of the best all-round men on the team, was high point man scoring 16 on 200 meter backstroke and also had a hand in the winning 300 meter relay.

James Julian, Star Freestyler, took the 100 meter freestyle as George Hirshberger, another standout in the freestyle class took the 220 meter event. Lurie placed second behind him. Charles Crowe, who has been swimming just about every event these days, tried his hand at the 150 meter individual medley and came out ahead of his teammates in the event.

In the 200 meter breaststroke, Steve Bailey churned the course in a nine minute and fifty seconds and 14 seconds.

Don Evans, ace diver, took his specialty event, the three meter fancy diving, and his diving partner, Bob Hastilling placed second.

The Navy-Marine swimmers rallied first in the 440 meter freestyle and the 400 meter freestyle relay with Frank Montagna looping the scoring in the freestyle and relay.

The main difficulty in the Seminole appearance was the large pool in which they had to swim. In Jacksonville, the pool is set out in meters as the FSU pool is measured in yards. The events seemed longer to the team and their turns were uncertain. This didn't stop the Seminoles from taking eight of the 10 events.

SUMMARY

300-meter relay—Won by Florida State University (Shipley, Valverde, Schertz); Time: 3:46.

200-meter free style — Won by Hirschberger (FSU), Lurie (FSU), second; Time: 2:20.3.

50-meter free style — Won by Julian (FSU), Carr (JAX), second; Twitty (FSU), third; Time: 26.7.

200-meter breaststroke — Won by Crowe (FSU), Valverde (FSU), second; Holmes (JAX), third; Time: 2:50.

Fancy diving — Won by Stuke (JAX), Evans (FSU), second; Hastilling (FSU), third.

200-meter backstroke — Won by Shipley (FSU), Lurie (FSU), second; Cheeks (JAX), third; Time: 2:30.

150-meter individual medley — Won by Crowe (FSU), Lurie (FSU), second; Wilson (JAX), third; Time: 2:00.

400-meter free style — Won by Montagna (JAX), Lurie (FSU), second; Carr (JAX), third; Time: 5:39.3.

400-meter free style relay — won by JAX Navy-Marines (Holmes, Jay, Carr, Montagna); Time: 4:56.3.

300-yard medley relay — 1, FSU (Shipley, Bailey, Valverde), 3, Texas A&M, 3:03.3. Time FSU and Texas A&M 3:03.3.

50-yard free style—1, Julian, FSU, 2, Hirschberger, FSU, 3, Carr, Texas A&M 25.4.

150-yard individual medley — 1, Black, FSU, 2, Crowe, FSU, 3, Cooper, FSU 1:40.3.

220-yard free relay—1, Cameron, Texas A&M, 2, Julian, FSU, 3, Valverde, FSU 2:10.3.

100-yard free style—1, Evans, Texas A&M, 2, Julian, FSU, 3, Valverde, FSU :59.3.

200-yard backstroke—1, Cooper, FSU, 2, Shipley, FSU, 3, Saylavich, Texas A&M 2:29.3. Time FSU and Texas A&M.

100-yard breaststroke—1, Bailey, FSU, 2, Black, FSU, 3, Smith, Texas A&M 1:09.3.

440-yard freestyle—1, Hirshberger, FSU, 2, Lurie, FSU, 3, Carr, JAX 5:39.3.

400-yard free style relay—1, Texas A&M (Burns, Spotch, Koepf, Burns) 3:43.2.

Two FSU Squads Meet Navy Teams In Double-Header

Florida State University's rambunctious basketball squad will journey to Jacksonville tonight in an attempt to sweep a unique double-header from Jacksonville Navy.

Coach Bill Odenea's Seminole volleyballers, winners in eight of nine matches this season, are first up for the volleyball-basketball twin bill.

FSU's yearling cagers, coached by former Seminole star Lee Benjamin, clash with the Navy's basketball unit in the afterpiece.

State's volleyballers trimmed Jax Navy to win the St. Petersburg Invitational tournament in December and repeated over the Sailors in Tallahassee last month. Odenea looks for a much tougher time on the Navy's home court, however.

Leading the Seminole volleyballers is Howard Gould, a lithe, 6-1 Chicago marvel who was an All-American in 1952 and 1953.

FSU's front cagers will be making their last appearance on the road this season. Benjamin has nominated Center Bob Williams, Forwards Bobby Walters and Bobby Ward, and Guards Doug Bond and Fred Twomey to star against the Navy quintet.

Philosophy Society Elects Hay To Post

The annual regional conference of the American Philosophy Education Society was held at Florida State University for the first time January 29 and 30. The group set another first by electing a woman, Dr. Marvin Hay, professor of education at FSU, president.

Faculty members and administrators present included President Doak S. Campbell, who made an address of welcome and spoke at the banquet; Vice-President A. B. Martin who spoke at the tea and at the banquet; Dean Theodore Friis who served on the panel discussion of "Significance of Philosophy of Education in the Evaluation of Teacher Education Programs," and professor James McClellan who served on another panel, "Freedom of Inquiry."

Tracksters Plan Ten Contests During Spring

Florida State University's track team will compete in 10 meets, 5 on a dual basis during the spring semester, Dr. Ken Miller, head track coach, and Director of Athletics Tom Leonard announced today.

The Seminoles open their season in the Atlantic Coast Conference's Indoor Games at Chapel Hill, N. C., February 20.

FSU will meet Georgia, Georgia Tech, Loyola University of New Orleans, University of Miami, Mississippi Southern College and Rollins College University in dual competition.

Only two lettermen from the 1953 championship squad will return even in six dual meets will return this season. They are Captain Carlos Fraundorfer, an all-around performer from Tampa, and distance runner, Jim Jarrett, of Lewisburg, Pa. Both are juniors.

The only new meet on the 1954 schedule is the Southwestern Louisiana Relays.

Florida State has an all-time dual meet record of 16 victories against nine defeats.

The schedule:

February 27—Atlantic Coast Conference Indoor Games at Chapel Hill, N. C.

March 27—Florida Relays, Gainesville.

April 3—Mercer University, Macon, Ga.

April 10—Southwestern Louisiana Relays, Lafayette, La.

April 17—Florida A&M University, Tallahassee.

April 24—Georgia, Georgia Tech.

May 1—Loyola University of the South, New Orleans.

May 8—University of Miami, Tallahassee.

May 15—Mississippi Southern College, Tallahassee.

May 22—Georgia A&U, Atlanta, Ga.

FSU Cagers Meet Miami Squad At 8

Tallahassee, Feb. 2 — Florida State University's varsity basketball team, owners of the best intercollegiate record in Florida, are working overtime this week getting ready for Friday night's Tallahassee showdown with the University of Miami.

Head Coach Bud Kennedy and Assistant Coach Mike Lotz have directed the tribe through two long scrimmages. Miami, 76-49 victors over FSU in Miami early last month, is the only stars five in the Seminole schedule that FSU hasn't defeated this season.

Boasting a 10-18 over-all record, the Seminoles have swept two games apiece from Tampa, Rollins and Florida Southern, while splitting a pair with Stetson.

Seminoles Trim Southern, 96-72

Tallahassee, Jan. 22.—Florida State's basketball Seminoles popped a school record last night as they rolled to a 96-72 conquest of Florida Southern here last night.

Earlier this season Bud Kennedy's boys had set a school mark for points scored in a single game when they topped the same Southern team by 96-80 in Lakeland. Last night's total of 96 put the Seminoles one better.

A new record for field goals made also was set, with 39 being the ago. FSU pumped in 37 against Southern.

Individual scoring honors for the FSU team last night went to Jimmy Oler with 28.

Dick Bernard had his best night of the season, hitting 21 points before fouling out shortly before the start of the last quarter. Dick Artimeier, who had 16 points, was playing one of his top games before bowing out on fouls midway the third stanza.

Duane Gordon turned in a gem of a defensive game. Ham Wernke connected for 17 points, including nine in the last quarter.

Bill Leach, playing his final game for Southern, racked up 23 points. He got 20 in the first half.

Leach graduates next month.

FSU				SOUTHERN
	Fg	Ft	Tp		Fg	Ft	Tp
Artimeier, f	6	4	16	Wood, f	0	0	0
Gordon, f	1	0	2	Barker, f	1	1	3
Bernard, c	9	3	21	Bowers, c	1	0	2
Burns, g	1	0	2	Gilchrist, g	0	0	0
Brazen, g	7	3	17	Leah, c	11	1	23
Wood, g	0	0	0	Stinson, g	2	0	4
Reeves, g	0	0	0	Hoisgrand	1	0	2
Oler, g	11	6	28	Dekle, g	1	0	2
Totals	39	11	96	Totals	23	20	72

Mercer Bears Top Seminole Quint, 76-63

Macon, Ga., Jan. 30—Mercer University pulled away in the last five minutes of a rough-and-tumble basketball engagement here Saturday night to decision Florida State's Seminoles, 76-63, 80's.

The score was tied 58-58 with five minutes left. Mercer's Richard Reid put a pair of hand shots from the side to send the Bears up 62-58. Freese tactics helped Mercer the rest of the way as FSU sought vainly to bang to the ball.

Fouls hurt the Seminoles heavily. Officials chalked 33 personals against them, 18 against Mercer. Seminole star Ham Wernke hit 17 points before he fouled out with three minutes remaining.

FSU was behind 16-12 after a quarter, fell back further at 28-19 and 40-31 midway the second stanza. But Jimmy Oler, who had 19 points for the night, led a surge that brought the Seminoles a 32-32 halftime knot.

With Wernke sticking, FSU moved in front, 62-50, by the end of the third period.

Tommy Mixon, 6-6 forward, was the big gun for the Bears with 20 points. Reid had 17.

The victory gave Mercer an 6-7 edge in the all-time series between the two teams.

FSU				MERCER
	Fg	Ft	Tp		Fg	Ft	Tp
Artimeier, f	6	4	16	Mixon, f	8	4	20
Gordon, f	1	0	2	Bowers, f	1	0	2
Bernard, c	9	3	21	Reid, c	7	3	17
Burns, g	1	0	2	Hall, g	1	0	2
Wernke, f	7	3	17	Hyde, g	0	0	0
Wood, g	0	0	0	Hodges, g	0	0	0
Reeves, g	0	0	0	Hug, g	1	0	2
Oler, g	11	6	28
Totals	36	13	63	Totals	28	26	76

Dick Rhoton Sets New Record, Julian Top Man

By KEN KINGERY
Sports Editor

Coach Bim Stull's red-hot swimmers recorded their 19th straight dual-meet feat Tuesday night against the touring Texas A&M aggies in comparatively easy fashion.

RHOTON STARS . . . SETS NEW RECORD

An excited full-house at FSU's natatorium pool watched Dick Rhoton, slender nine-year-old Sophomore sprint the grueling 100-yard breaststroke event. He set a new FSU record, going the route in 2:32.8.

Erale Stock, and George Cooper were some of the many Seminole. Erale, a husky freshman, better known as "Pete", turned in the finest performance of his career to whip the favored Kilpple, Aggie swimmer in the 150-yard individual medley event. He won Kilpie's first defeat in two years of collegiate competition. The big ruebened senior, George Cooper tied his own record in the 200-yard backstroke, with Shipley placing second.

Kilpple seemed to meet all sorts of trouble that night. He lost his first 440-yard freestyle of the season to the well known Georgia Hirshberger.

George, a freshman from Fremont, Ohio, was pushed all the way by the Aggie star, and the final time for George was 5:14.5. This was his second best time of his life.

Mike Tuckivel, an up-and-coming freestyler, had a showing plenty of spunk, pushed his way to win the 500-yard freestyle event in the 6:40.5 mark of Texas.

James Julian, was the high point man of the meet. He sprinted ahead of Horne, Aggie freestyler in the 50-yard freestyler event, and placed second behind his same foe in the 100-yard sprint.

Gymnasts Lock Horns With Tech In Atlanta

By BOB GUTTING

Saturday, Feb. 6, the members of Florida State Seminole gym teams will journey to Atlanta to lock horns with Tech's best. But Georgia Tech's best will not be enough, according to Nick and Louie, best pilots for the local broom factory. They predict a 15-point win in favor of FSU and, if past records are any indication, they may be right. The last time Florida State encountered Tech's gymnasts was in 1951, when the Seminoles really scalped the Engineers, 70½ to 49½.

Entering collegiate competition the first time for the Garnet and Gold is Joe Taylor, sophomore rings man from Philadelphia. Although Taylor has been at FSU for a year he was not eligible for collegiate competition due to a new AAU ruling that prohibits freshmen from entering college meets.

Taylor, who holds the Florida A.A.U. still rings and Georgia A.A.U. flying rings championships, is a major point getter and is expected to place high on rings against Georgia.

Others making the trip include coach veterans as Don Holder, member of the 1952 of this year's co-captains. Pat Signorelli, Southern Intercollegiate parallel bars champ and also a co-captain this year, Jack Hiles, National A.A.U. flying rings champ and one of the top rings men in the country, and Dick Ireland and Jim Padigan, who are among the top ten trampoline men in the country and represent a dual threat to trampolinists throughout the country.

According to Mr. Harley Price, FSUs outstanding gym coach, the Georgia Tech meet represents "only the beginning" of a touch gym schedule designed to get the gymnasts in top condition for the coming meet with the Swedish Olympic team. At last report this famed touring squad defeated mighty Penn State, winners of last year's NCAA meet.

Golf Hopefuls Meet This Afternoon

Varsity golf candidates are requested to meet Dr. Don Veller, golf coach, at the Country Club Golf Course this afternoon at 3:00 Anyone else interested in golf may attend the meeting.

Records — Free!

University Bookstore will have a DAILY DRAWING of all Records Book Sales!

Save your Receipts, put name and address on back and drop in the Box at the Bookstore!

Prizes — Daily —

Original Recordings of the

FSU Fight Song

See University Bookstore Today!

CAPITAL CAFE

Every Day a Rock-Bottom Special For You 95¢ All For One!

Tues: U. S. Choice Club Steak

Wed: ½ Fried Chicken Thurs: Juicy Filet Mignon

Fri.: Dos. Fried Shrimp

Sat.: Broiled Lamb Chops

All Above Served With Baked Potato

Sunday Special ROAST TURKEY

All the Trimmings

SPECIALLY SERVED EVERY DAY WITH ALL SPECIALS

CAPITAL CAFE

ACROSS FROM SEARS

RESTRING WITH ASHAWAY BRAIDED RACKET STRING

STANDS OUT in play
- Harder Smashes
- Better Cut and Spin

STANDS UP in your racket
- Makes Shots Pay
- Lasting Liveliness

COSTS LESS than gut
Arrives, strung, post Pre-Posted Brist... $6.00 Multi-Ply Braid..... $5.00

At tennis shops and sporting goods stores.

How the stars got started . . .

for Mildness and Flavor CAMELS AGREE WITH MORE PEOPLE THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE!

WILLIAM HOLDEN says: "My Dad, a chemist, wanted me to follow in the business. But I got the play-acting bug in school and college. I was in a couple short at the Pasadena Playhouse when they picked me to test for 'Golden Boy'. I never worked so hard in my life. But the success of the picture made it worth it!"

I'M FOR CAMELS! I've FOUND THEY GIVE ME EVERYTHING I LIKE IN A CIGARETTE — GENUINE MILDNESS, REAL FLAVOR, YOU'LL LIKE CAMELS, TOO!

William Holden

Star of "Forever Female"

Start smoking Camels yourself! Make the 30-day Camel Mildness Test. Smoke only Camels for 30 days — see for yourself why Camels' cool mildness and rich flavor agree with more people than any other cigarette!

Canadian Educator Speaks To Faculty On Music Methods

Methods of teaching music in elementary schools are very much the same in Canada and this country, according to Lloyd Slind of the Florida State University music education faculty.

He will be loaned to his native Canada February 8-11 as a visiting professor to lecture at two Alberta Teachers Association meetings and conduct workshops in music methods at the two province centers, Calgary and Edmonton. About 3,000 teachers will attend the meetings and at least 500 will be involved in the workshops.

Lind came to Tallahassee direct from Canada in the fall of 1951 to join the FSU faculty. He was supervisor of music in the schools of Regina, capital of the Canadian province of Saskatchewan, next door neighbor of the province of Alberta.

Last summer Lind returned to Canada to teach summer school in a Victoria municipal auditorium in British Columbia. Some 1,700 music teachers enrolled in his classes, sponsored by the provincial department of education. Lind has agreed to repeat the Victoria music summer school again this coming summer.

His set of books called "Melody, Rhythm and Harmony," published in 1953 by Mills Music Co., is widely used by elementary public school teachers both in the United States and Canada.

Keepsake Diamonds
Exclusive Watches
PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRS
109 S. Monroe St. Phone 3-1462

RECORD YOUR COLLEGE MEMORIES
Pictures Give You Lasting Enjoyment
• FILMS • RULES • ALBUMS Developing & Printing
Tallahassee Camera Center
Across From the Florida Theater

FLORIDA
Playing Thru Tomorrow
"THE ROBE"
IN CINEMASCOPE
—•—
Sunday & Monday
"The Cruel Sea"
Jack Hawkins
& Donna Sydney

CAPITOL
Through Tomorrow
"The Gunfighter"
GREGORY PECK
—•—
"Under the Red Sea"
HANS H

PERRY HIGHWAY
"CITY OF SAFETY IN PERRY AVENUE"
Through Tomorrow
"City of Badmen"
Joanne Crain
Dale Robertson
—•—
Sweethearts on Parade
Lucille Norman
Ray Middleton

STATE
Today and Tomorrow
"Mission Over Korea"
John Hodiak • John Derek
—•—
'Siren of Bagdad"
Paul Henreid
Patricia Medina

Formals
for that important Sandspur Dance are now in Girls: came in and pick out yours from our New Stock of Ballerinas, floor length gawns . . . with yards of lace and tulle— In Aqua, Blue, Cream, White, Black, Red.
In Taffeta with sparkling sequins and all the frills to make you the Belle of the Ball!
Select Your Formal Early at
P. W. Wilson Co.
So. Monroe Tallahassee

INITIATES . . . recently initiated as members of Gold Key, men's leadership honorary, are (left to right) Christopher Young, Robert Canada, Peter Haskell, English and Thomas Simmons. The students were selected on a basis of leadership, service and scholarship.

From Page 1

Miss Tallahassee

test will receive a token to remember it by. The runner-ups also receive gifts.

Among the judges will be Karl Kuerstener of the Music Department, Dr. Howard Dunforth, Director of Athletics, and Barbara Frye, head of the United Press Bureau in Tallahassee. Lloyd Olson and Sonny Tinsley are co-chairmen of this local Jaycee beauty pageant.

The final judging will be open to the public. Admission is $1.00 for adults and $.50 for students.

NEWS BRIEFS

MARKETING ESSAY

Rules for the 1954 Ulhmann Awards Grain Marketing essay contest for college students were announced today by Richard F. Uhlmann, President of Uhlmann Grain Company, spokesman for the Chicago Board of Trade, contest administrative agency.

Cash prizes totalling $1250.00 will be distributed to writers of the 14 top papers entered. Competition will be divided into two divisions — one each for graduate and under-graduate students. First place winners in each division will receive $200.00 and will be given an all-expense-paid trip to Chicago to receive their awards.

All graduate and under-graduate students enrolled in any college or university in the United States or Canada are eligible to compete. Entries can deal with any phase of the marketing of wheat, corn, oats, rye, soybeans, soybean oil meal, oats, and cotton. Judgings will be based on originality and evidence of independent thought and study. Length of manuscripts cannot exceed 20 double-spaced, typewritten pages for under-graduates and 30 pages for graduate students.

Entries should be submitted to the Chicago Board of Trade public relations department not later than June 1, 1954.

LIBRARIANS MEET

Norman L. Kilpatrick, Florida State University Director of Libraries returns today from meetings of the American Library Association in Madison, Wisc., and Chicago.

Kilpatrick was recently appointed chairman of the Special Committee on Relations with Subscription Book Publishers, a committee to develop better cooperation between the reference book section of the American Textbook Publishers Institute and Librarians.

A member of the Council of the Division of Cataloguing and Classification, Kilpatrick will represent the Division in discussions to be held with F. S. Department of Education representatives on the subject of library statistics.

DEPARTMENT APPOINTS

Mr. George Milton, graduate students in the Department of Art at F. S. U., has been appointed to teach an evening course in painting according to Professor Lewandowski Head of the Department of Art.

The course, entitled "Painting in Oil," will meet on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings from 7:00 to 8:00 p.m. during the coming semester and will carry three semester hours of credit. Any students who have the necessary prerequisites. Others may take the course without credit, Lewandowski said, but such students will be given the same individual attention and emerge in as many of their own painting projects as the students earning credit.

NEW PREVIEW ROOM

Film Previews will be shown in the Trophy Room at the Student Center Tuesday, February 9, instead of Wednesday, where they have been shown in the past.

Shown will be "Pinner Printing Mr.-hods", "Special Lays in Pulsetury", "Sprinboard", "Farmer-Fisherman" and "Frontier Farmers of Alaska." They will start at 7:30 p.m. and end at 8.

SPANISH COURSE

A course in conversational Spanish, open to townspeople and students at Tampa during this semester at Florida State University.

Known as Spanish 208, "Spanish for Conversation," the course will be conducted by Marjorie S. Judy, instructor in the department of modern languages. Thursday, 7-9 p.m. History Building from 7-8 p.m

From Page 1

Present Methods

an idea of the areas of study to be offered adults this semester at FSU.

Three special extension courses co-sponsored by the General Extension Division of Florida will be offered for three hours credit each at Chipola Junior College this semester.

Open to persons following an academic program or profession-al career; the courses are Retail Advertising and Sales Promotion, a study of publicity, advertising and display; Office Management, an examination of the principles and practices of office management; and Property Insurance, a full study of contracts, risks and titles.

A course titled "The United States Today," carrying two hours credit is offered for residents and townspeople by the American Studies program.

Dr. William Randel of the English department, chairman of the American Studies program, will deliver the first lecture this Tuesday night, "Is there an American Civilization?", will be his topic.

During the course, specialists in many fields will discuss anthropology, geography, and sociology concerning culture and its American setting.

American progress in politics, science, history and religion will be discussed later on

CAN'T TRUST ANYTHING ANY MORE

"ACP—His faith "materially shaken" in the power of crystal balls, Dr. Albert Hyma, professor at the University of Michigan, has sued his Detroit spiritualist for $18,400.

A fellow of the Royal Historical Society of London and of the Guggenheim Memorial foundation, Hyma became a believer in the spiritualists in 1927. Her financial advice, he said, has been nothing but wrong. At one time the professor even mortgaged his house to get $9,500 he needed to hook up a tip.

During the seances the spiritualist would connect Hyma with his mystic "godfather"—English author Thomas Carlyle.

Campbell Reveals Winner Of Tourney

Lakeland High School's Bartow team coached by Coach Hugh School's CHS Chatter to win the fourth FSU School Press Tournament-Bi-Mail, Dean Laurence R. Campbell of the Florida State University school of journalism announced today.

The Lakeland staff scored 110 points, winning first class ratings in five contests and a third class entry in one contest. Clearwater scored 105 points.

Mirror Lake Junior High School's Mirror of St. Petersburg won the top position for junior high schools. Pensacola's W. A. Blount Junior High School's Pat B Bloauhy was second.

Tallahassee Leon High School High Life, St. Petersburg High School's Palmetto & Pine, and Pensacola High School's Tiger Tales won favorable recognition. The next tournament ends February 28.

From Page 1

Chiefs Practice

rangements have been made for the entire group to be housed at the Fort Homer Hesterly Armory. The group will return to campus either Monday night of Tuesday morning.

When the marching band disbanded last fall, Mr. Whitcomb divided the group so that now most of the members are contributing their musical talents to either the symphonic or the concert orchestras. Both of these organizations have concerts planned for this semester.

New Critics Praise Lewandowski Mural As Finest Of Five

A mural by Edmund Lewandowski, head of Florida State's Department of Art, has won praise from a New York Times critic as "unquestionably the finest" of five murals which are to decorate the Father Peter A. Brooks Union building of Marquette University, Milwaukee.

Using Greek and pictorial symbols in his mosaic mural to describe the life of the late Father Brooks, Mr. Lewandowski won the inspiring praise of Times critic Aline B. Lounsheim.

Said the critic, "the artist has harmonized well the life and meaning of the life of Father Brooks by using the universal and timeless language of symbols, religious and heraldic. From the "chi rho" symbol for Christ and the alpha and omega . . . the beginning and the end — to a stylized violet as the state flower of Wisconsin, the Fleur-de-lys sibled for the City of St. Louis.

"He has organized these into a pattern which becomes an ordered artistic design and he has used the mosaic medium—glistening gold and color as pure and clear as that of Byzantium—with sensitive understanding. The mural has a dignity and aseteness which many modern murals lack; it respects its wall; and it has the kind of simplicity and the reticence which make it peculiarly apposite to its place and function."

The five murals given to Marquette University were patroned by Gimbel's Inc., which is sponsoring many artistic achievements previously.

Calendar Of Events

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 5

6:00 p.m., Episcopal wintr conference and retreat. Rev. Jack Harrison, Jacksonville Beach, will be the director. Open to all interested people. Camp Flastarowa.

8:00 p.m., Basketball. FSU vs. Miami. West Campus Gymnasium.

8:15 p.m., Faculty Recital. Carlisle Floyd, pianist Music Hall.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 6

2:30 p.m., At the Piano," FSU sponsored television show featuring Francisek Zachera WTWH-TV.

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 7

11:00 a.m., Installation of Vestry, Altar Guild and Acolite Ruse Hall.

6:00 p.m. Hillel Foundation open house for all new and old students. Temple Israel, South Copeland and St. Augustine Street.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 8

7:30, The final selection of Miss Tallahassee and two runner-ups will be selected tonight in the women's gym.

8:15 p.m., Certificate Recital Opperman Music Hall.

From Page 1

University of Miami

itself Then, at last, our country will be truly free and invincible."

The invocation and benediction were given by Dr. Sam Neel, FSU chaplain. Claude Ray, tenor from Tallahassee, sang "O With All Your Heart," from "Elijay," by Mendelssohn.

Music for the recessional, "Ceremonial Music," by Purcell, was played on the organ by Mrs. Ramonco C. Beard of the FSU School of Music.

DRIVE OUT AND HAVE A Tall Thick Dairy Queen Blizzard
DAIRY QUEEN
1017 N. MONROE
11:00 TO 11:00 DAILY

Like Drive-Ins?
or do you
Like a Place to Sit Down and Be Served?
or do you
Like Free Delivery Right to Your Door?
QUAKER HOUSE
Call 2-8677 on the Quincy H'way
Steaks, Chops, Chicken, Sea Foods, deliciously cooked and served . . .
Large Variety of Sandwiches to Choose From—Largest Soda Fountain in the South!
Choice Swift's Meats Served

EAGES BEAVERS . . . find one of the more efficient entrances to registration is the women's gymnasium Monday. Abandoning the lines for the high adventure of ladder-climbing are Dee Stephens, Edil Roberts, Virginia Allen, Bill Chapman.

Advertisers Honor Rushees At Social

Alpha Delta Chapter of Gamma Alpha Chi, national professional advertising fraternity for women, will entertain rushees at a tea and social hours Tuesday, February 9, 4:30 p.m. in the Small Lounge. Longmire, spokesman said yesterday.

The local chapter of Gamma Alpha Chi was installed last May while the fraternity, the only such group for women in the world, was founded at the University of Missouri in 1920.

Active and professional members will serve as hosts at the tea. These include Grace Bize, Nancy Carter, and Janet Vanoucr, as active members on campus and Mrs. Kitty Mays, WTWT; Mrs. Roy Flynn, WTAL; Miss Kathryn Perkins, Capital City Bank and Mrs. Royal H. Ray as professional members in Tallahassee. Dr. Royal H. Ray, head, Department of Advertising, is faculty adviser.

You'll Enjoy
DANCING
to the Superlative
Quintones
EVERY SATURDAY
Floridan Hotel

CHURCH NEWS

NEWMAN HOUSE

Last week ended another semester at the Newman House, and those who looked in in September would scarcely recognize the house today.

The downstairs rooms have been repainted and the floor varnished, and the office has been entirely redecorated in a very pleasing manner. Outside a barbecue pit, a new pronoise of many wonderful picnics, is under construction.

In the entrance hall a mural depicting the Nativity, has been painted. The painting done by Dorothy Mayhew, assisted by Helen Salacz, has very pleasing modernistic lines and the blue and pink of Mary's attire is wonderful.

The library, which contains some of the best Catholic fiction and many non-fiction books, has been re-arranged and the books cataloged by Carolyn Grumbly. Students are welcome to study there.

Since the first of December the Newman Club has been publishing a weekly bulletin for Catholics on the campus. The paper, which will gradually be increased to two and three four pages contains announcements of interest to members of the club and articles concerning Catholic doctrine. Mary Rose Heints and Angie Rose Palermo are co-editors.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Arthur A. Buttrey of Carmel, for California, former Army Chaplain and widely known lecturer on Christian Science, will speak here Feb. 11, 1954. It was announced by the Christian Science Organization on the FSU campus.

Mr. Whitney's topic will be "Christian Science: A Religion of Answered Prayer. Now on extended lecture tour, he is a member of the Board of Lecturership of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. He will speak in the Longmire Auditorium at 8 p.m. on Thursday February 11, 1954. Members of the FSU Organization have invited the general public to attend without charge.

CANTERBURY CLUB

The Rev. Edward Harrison of St. Paul's by the Sea at Jacksonville Beach will lead the annual Episcopal Retreat at Camp Seminole this weekend. The retreat begins at 5 p.m. today, and ends at 6 p.m. tomorrow, Feb 6, following the final session. The retreat is well planned and promises a very profitable time to those attending, according to a Canterbury spokesman.

There will be the Installation of the Ruse Hall Vestry for 1954-55, the members of St. Catherine's Guild, and the acolytes of the St. Matthias Guild for Mass at the 11 a.m. prayer service on Sunday, February 7. The vestry being installed includes: John Cooper, president; Helen Wingo, more, vice-president; Nancy Wakefield, secretary; Spencer Rhodes, treasurer; Charlene Beam, John Wave, Ann Wall and Jack Watson, Vestrymen-at-Large.

The weekly Canterbury Club supper will be held at 6 p.m. Sunday at Ruge Hall. Directly following the supper there will be a meeting of the Canterbury Club.

There will be a meeting of the Study Class on Wednesday night, February 10, from 6 to 8 p.m. at Ruge Hall.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

New officers for 1954 were elected by Zeta Rho Chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha.

They are Tommy Fountain, President, Bill Corbett, Vice President; Dr. Wesley T. Harter, Faculty adviser; Alar Martin, Secretary; Gerald Faircloth, Treasurer; Jim Bishop, Social Chairman; Harold Carlin, Ritual director; Tracy Harrison Pub Chairman; and Wayne Patton. Pledge Trainer.

Where Can You Get Such Specials All Week But At...
TUES:
Juicy Broiled
Filet Mignon
French Fries
Chef's Salad
$1.00
THURS:
Spaghetti
with Cheese
Salad
Lemon Cream Pie
.95
FRI:
Whole Broiled
Lobster
Drawn Butter
Chef's Salad
$1.25
SAT:
Golden Fried
Half Chicken
French Fries
$1.00
Seven Seas
SUN:
Delicious
Roast Turkey
Dressing
Cranberries
$1.00

Alford Brothers
SENSATIONAL CLEARANCE
CONTINUING NOW!
All Merchandise From Our Regular Stock at Great Savings! Beginning With Dollars Days . . .
Sport Shirts
Were Now
2.95 . . . . 1.95
3.50 . . . . 2.50
3.95 . . . . 2.95
5.00 . . . . 3.50
5.95 . . . . 4.50
6.95 . . . . 4.95
7.95 . . . . 5.50
8.95 . . . . 6.50
10.95 . . . . 7.95
15.00 . . . . 9.95
Sweaters
Were Now
3.95 . . . . 2.95
5.00 . . . . 3.50
5.95 . . . . 4.50
7.95 . . . . 5.50
8.95 . . . . 6.50
10 & 10.95 7.50
11.95 . . . . 8.50
17.95 . . . . 11.50
Underwear
Were Now
1.25 . . . . 1.00
1.50 . . . . 1.25
Nylon Sheer
2.50 . . . . 1.50
2.95 . . . . 1.95
Belts
Socks
Were Now
.75 . . 2 for $1
1.00 . . . . .75c
1.50 . . . . 1.00
Neckwear
Were Now
2.50 . . . . 1.50
2.95 . . . . 1.95
3.95 . . . . 2.50
includes Bows
1/4 OFF on Jackets (Lined or Unlined) Robes
GREATLY REDUCED: Wallets, Leather Kits, Jewelry
Gloves, Handkerchiefs, Pajamas, Slipper Sox, Kods.
Our Fall Shoes and Suits Are Still on Sale!
Alford Bros.
212 So. Monroe St.

Chavers Replaces Andrews On Sandspur Post
See Page 1

Marlies Gessler Tries For Miss Florida
See Page 1

The Florida Flambeau

VOL. XL, No. 28 PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA Tuesday, February 9, 1954

Carothers Wins Rotary Approval For Scholarship

Attends Edinburgh To Study English After Graduation

Florida State University's president of the Student Body, Milton Carothers, told the FLAMBEAU yesterday he has been named one of 102 outstanding college students to receive a scholarship worth between $1,500 and $2,400 for foreign study.

Carothers said he will leave for the British Isles following graduation from FSU in June to study at University of Edinburgh. He said his major field in college will be advanced work in English.

Nominated by the Tallahassee Rotary Club, the 21-year-old student body head said he is one of 102 college students from 27 different countries to receive the coveted award.

Carothers' award, one of the highest in the group given out, is a part of the annual $165,000 worth this year. Carothers said the entire plan, originated in 1947, has amounted to a total of $1,500,000. Awards have been made to 385 youths in 56 countries.

Recipients, Carothers said, become Fellows or Ambassadors of Goodwill are selected by their communities Rotary Clubs. They must be between the ages of 20 and 29, have a college or university degree, and have scholastic standing. Diplomatic and personality qualities rank high, Carothers noted. The student government chief explained he was not given without regard to race, creed or nationality.

The scholarship winner said he is the only student "on Florida campus as recipient of an award" by Rotary International committee for scholarship program. They and the Rotary program is unique in that the student is in constant contact with Rotary members and their families while away as the club has branches all over the globe. There are more than 6,000 Rotary clubs, they said, in 82 countries and geographical regions.

MILTON S. CAROTHERS

Senate Hears Carothers Talk On SUSGA

An address by Student Body President Milton Carothers will highlight this afternoon's session of the Student Body Senate. The meeting will be held at 4 in the Senate Chamber, second floor of the Union Building.

Carothers is expected to outline the proposed Constitution of the Southern Universities Student Government Association (SUSGA) and urge its adoption by FSU.

This student governments of FSU and Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., may be noted, have led in the formation of SUSGA.

Also on the Senate agenda is the report of the special Senate committee which has been investigating charges that the Flambeau had been misused.

The committee, headed by Senator Bob Rutland, has announced that it has found "insufficient basis for making a formal charge" at this time.

Senator Jean Halford has announced she will re-introduce the proposal for co-recreation. The resolution, once amended, was tabled by the Senate at its last official meeting so that Sen. Halford could have a chance to study it further.

The report and the resolution would have occupied last Tuesday's meeting but action was due to lack of a quorum the meeting was adjourned five minutes after it was called to order by Gene Lawler, Senate president.

News Briefs

GRADUATE CLASS

Two "dutch-treat" luncheons are scheduled for the graduate class this week, the first to be held on Thursday and the other Saturday, February 11.

Dr. Carothers, Dean of the Graduate School will speak at the Thursday meeting which is 7-9 p.m. in the south wing of the Seminole Dining Room. On Saturday a swimming party for pre and present graduate students will be held in Landis Recreation Room at 8 p.m.

MEETING CALLED

Officials of the Student Branch of Association for Childhood Education International announced a meeting will be held on Wednesday, February 17 at 7:30 p.m. in Lonsmire Auditorium. At the meeting election and installation of officers will finally be made.

They urge all members to attend since it is an important meeting.

FSPA CONFAB

Florida Scholastic Press Association will hold its annual convention at FSU April 23 and 24. Their advisers will be called upon to advise on the yearbook and household edition.

AVIATION INFORMATION

Counseling and information service among aviation cadet programs will be provided by Lieutenant Robert Anderson of the Tyndall Air Force Base aviation cadet selection detachment here on February 24 and 25.

Lieutenant Anderson will be in the trophy room of the Student Center from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. on those days. He emphasized that this was not connected with the AFROTC program and is for the purpose of informing. No recruiting will be handled during the stay.

MUSEUM DISPLAY

"The First Floridians, 15,000 Year of Florida History," is the current exhibition at the University Museum.

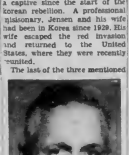
Museum officials said that "the exhibition traces the development of Florida's pre-historic Indians from before Columbus's time to the present."

Also being exhibited in the display "When, Where and Why: A Million Years of Invention." Both exhibits will continue being open to the public without cost through March 10.

SOCIAL WORKERS

Social Work Club members will hold a meeting tomorrow night, 7 p. m. in the small student lounge in Lonsmire Building, it was announced yesterday.

Intelligent Faith Week Include Speeches By Three Missionaries Noted In Asian Work

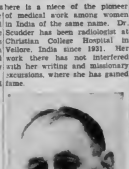


Three prominent missionaries with wide experience in Asiatic missionary circles will be among the speakers contributing to this year's Intelligent Faith Week.

The week long non-sectarian religious observance program on which will feature nine eminent speakers is scheduled for Feb. 21 through 28, here at FSU.

Those three speakers include an educator with 23 years experience in China, a man described as one of the five survivors of North Korean prison camps including a gruelling death march, and a medical technician at a hospital in India.

The three respectively, are Dr. T. Andrew Roy, Dr. A. Kristian Jensen, and Dr. Ida B. Sculler. Dr. Roy will personally direct the Intelligent Faith conference to be held during that week.



Roy, who is eighth two years at the University of Manking before the communist takeover there over and was also in China prior to Japanese domination since 1930, figured as director of Christian activities among Chinese students.

ANDREW T. ROY

Jensen, the war prisoner, who was captive since the start of the Korean rebellion. A professional missionary, Jensen and his wife had been in Korea since 1929. His wife escaped the red invasion and returned to the United States, where they were recently reunited.

The last of the three mentioned here is a niece of the pioneer medical work among women in India of the same name. Dr. Scudder has been radioinist at Christian College Hospital in Vellore, India since 1921. Her work there has not interfered with her writing and missionary sessions, where she has gained fame.

KRISTIAN JENSEN

FSU Artist Series Features Brilliant First Piano Quartet

The first piano quartet will present two concerts, under auspices of the FSU Artist Series, on Thursday, March 25. Matinee and evening performances are at 3:30 and 8:15 p.m. that day.

Distribution of student tickets for the concert began Tuesday at the Bookstore. Tickets may be obtained by students in exchange for activities card No. 3. There is no additional charge.

It took four countries to produce this talented group of men, who are brilliant pianists, outstanding chamber musicians and renowned conductors. Representing Austria is Anton Dermer, Italy claims Glauco D'Attili, while Austria is the birthplace of Frank Mittler and United States player is Edward Edson.

All were well-known soloists before they combined their talent into a "United Nations" quartet and in America they became one group. No conductor is necessary as they feel no need for one, nor do they employ an arranger. For a particular selection, each make a four-piano arrangement, then play and discuss them, end up by combining the best parts of all four.

Tallahassee programs will consist of a kaleidoscope of short brilliant compositions of varied tempo and moods, ranging from Bach to Shostakovitch.

ODK Speakers' Bureau Seeks Competent Men and Women

A number of students have filed application for the ODK Speakers' Bureau roster, but more competent speakers are needed, reported Pete Nimkoff, bureau chairman.

"A new angle has come up which makes this opportunity even better," said Nimkoff. "Good men speakers will have the opportunity to show merits of the University in many different parts of the State."

Interested speakers, however, may be either men or women. Those topics may be suggested to University life interesting to Alumni Clubs, civic groups or high school students.

An expense account for this traditional FSU activity is provided by the Alumni Association through the courtesy of Miss Mildred Parrish, the national Secretary.

Application forms which must be filled out may be procured from Nimkoff at the Sigma Chi house or from Dr. Wayne Minnick, professor of Speech who is advising the project and handling the audience.

Paul Sorenyo, graduate fellow from Chicago, Ill., is president of the FSU circle of Omicron Delta Kappa, national men's leadership fraternity. Bruce Gelphin, Flambeau editor, is vice-president, and Milton Carothers president of the Student Body, is treasurer.

Chairmen Give Work Reports Of Faith Week

A joint meeting of all the committees for Intelligent Faith Week, Feb. 21-28, was held on Sunday night at 9 p. m. in the Student Union Theatre. A report was given by each committee on the work that has been done so far.

Dick Moorer, speaking for the program Committee said that the speakers will be set up in all the details and it is hoped to be out by the end of this week.

Members of the committee to arrange for rooms for the visiting missionaries, Sarah Strickland and Pinky Nowlin, announced that arrangements have been made for the speakers to stay in sorority and fraternity houses and in the dormitories.

Tommy Simmons and Betty Sue Fryer, Hospitality Committee, will serve as hosts for speakers during the week. Jimmy Conner, chairman of the transportation committee will work with them.

Laverne Jennings and Nancy Fagan, heads of the Breakfast Committee said that everyone is urged to attend the breakfasts which will be held every morning during his week at 7 a. m. in the basement of the Westminster Church.

The publicity department is divided into three subcommittees, each with a head over the overall head. Franklin Adams is the main publicity director. The newspapers will work in connection with public relations and publicity, and radio and television.

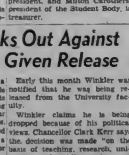
Joan Setzer, Seminar Committee, has arranged for speakers at the Wednesday night banquet in the dorms. This year the seminars will be held in the student lounge in the form of informal discussions.

George Bunn, worship committee, stated that four meetings are planned. They will be held in the Mission of the Church" and ministers of the various denominations will take part in it. A choir will also take part.

The main subject of Helen Whitemore of the luncheon committee is the theme of the week. There are now on sale and are $1.

Stan Tipps announced that a Faith Week will be placed in the library and religious books will be on sale in the bookstore.

After all the committees were heard from, Dr. B. R. Neel, Chaplain, gave a summary of the committee activities and outlined more plans for Faith Week. Dr. Raymond of the Chemistry department who will be one of the speakers for the Faith Week, spoke to the group on his experiences in International work camps.



Others working on committees are Ralph Hicks, Recording, and Lillian Avis, Organizing Housing.

Dames Give Show On New Fashions

University Dames, graduate women, and their husbands will stage a fashion show tomorrow evening in the Gymnasium auditorium at 8 p.m." announced Mrs. Dean Kiely, president. All members of the Dames, the invited guests, and prospective Dames are welcomed, Mrs Kiely added.

Wearing apparel furnished by Bertha Cook Fashions will be modeled by members of the Dames. Models are Mrs. Frank Conner, Mrs. Ralph Becker, Mrs. Albert Strickland, and Mrs Bruce Clare. Also Mrs. Edgar Parmer, Mrs. Stanley Asplund, Mrs. John Maginniss and Mrs. Frederick Ritzmann. Hair styles will be done by Harriet.

The ushers committee is headed by Mrs Gerald Rack and Mrs. Robert Rothenberger. Tickets to be arranged by Mrs. Frances Hunter and Mrs. Hiusel Kier.

Pretty, brown-eyed Mrs. Mimh Brown poses proudly at prettily at a step on the head of the Venus de Milo Display as "The First Floridians" ceremony on display at the University Museum.

Professor Speaks Out Against Conservatives; Given Release

(ACP)—"It is all right to be a conservative when you are young," Early this month Winkler was sentenced to nine months and was released from the University farm.

Winkler claims he is being dropped because of his political views. Chancellor Clark Kerr, in the decision made "on the basis of teaching, research, university and public service, and professional competence." Peter Odegard, chairman of the political science department, calls Winkler "a very gifted teacher and a thought control.

Winkler also claims the Daily

(Continued on Page 2)

Debate Team Tie Mississippians In Hattiesburg

Florida State University's debate team tied for the negative championship at the Gulf States Speech Tournament sponsored by Mississippi Southern in Hattiesburg, Mississippi last weekend.

FSU's negative of sophomore Beverly Duperrouex and junior Pete Sundell won 6 decisions in four rounds, shared the negative championship with the University of Florida, and were rated one of four "superior" teams in the senior division.

The intercollegiate debate question is "Resolved: that the United States adopt a policy of free trade."

Norma Trippodo, freshman from Miami, won a superior certificate in the junior competition of senior women's interpretative reading.

She also rated "excellent" in extemporaneous speaking. Simroff was rated excellent in interpretation, superior in debate, and won the extemporaneous speaking but was disqualified for speaking under the time minimum.

Beverly Duperrouex was rated "good" in interpretation and rudes debate. The affirmative team of senior Gene Lawler and Pinky Nowlin, 2 wins and lost two, tying for third place among affirmative teams. Lawler was also treated to order Memphis State, Mississippi Southern, Mississippi State and Mississippi State College for Women.

Dr. Ellen Hall is graduate assistant in debate, accompanied the team. Dr. Hall is former head of Discussion and Debate at FSU, states that his plans for FSU debate team activities to be held February 18-19, are already complete.

Academy Has Financial Aid For Students

A new fellowship for research in Naval History has been created available to Florida State University graduate students, as a recent announcement by the United States Naval Academy.

The new fellowship is open to an interest in naval and military history. Each will be administrated ability in research. Stipend for the fellowship to be called "The James Forrestal Fellowships in Naval History," will be awarded by the heads of individual fellows.

Appointments are made for a two year renewable basis and will vary between $3,000 and $6,000 per annum according to the need. The fellowships are open to men with appropriately subscribed gifts and are not supported by government funds.

Definite plans for their proposed research must be presented in all candidates for the Naval Fellowships as a long-range project in the United States Naval field of naval history as an aid to better understanding of current and future problems of national defense. The committee will also require a statement by a particular attention to their potential contribution to understanding of the role of sea power to the security and stability of the United States.

Those appointed to Fellowships will be required to occupy themselves, on a full-time basis, with studies in the specific subject of the grant. In addition, it is hoped that fellows will be available from time to time for consultation with faculty members and midshipmen of the United States Naval Academy concerning their research.

Dean Hudson Band Provides Music For Sandspur Dance

Officials have selected Dean Hudson and his band to play for the Sandspur dance which will be held in the Suwannee room Thursday from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Featured vocalist will be Ann Lorain who has done nightclub and TV and work.

Ray Anthony was the first choice of the dance committee but there were not sufficient funds at that time. Bob Crosby was next on FSU, revealed Mr. Fred Yost', Counselor to student activities. But Crosby and Hudson were secured, Anthony was not available. "The committee chose Hudson as the band that most exploited Yogel.

"We have reminded that Hudson's is an outstanding band. "I am willing to make a proposition with the students," he stated. "Hudson will give a special performance in the Amphitheater on Saturday afternoon, February 20 at 2 p.m. Those attending the dance will have a chance to hear Hudson at that time and then be good be to." Yagel remarked that the decorations will be extra special.

Dean Hudson is now the record-holder at two of the nation's leading entertainment spots the past year, he topped the all time attendance record at the Commodore Perry Hotel which has played the nation's top bands. In addition, Hudson's band shattered the honors with Guy Lombardo in breaking all existing records for dance engagements at Andy Charkares' Vogue Terrace in Pittsburgh.

All graduate students of University of Florida, Hudson send special invitations to those attending the University of Florida. Hudson and several members of his orchestra are band professionally and were graduated from Florida Seminoles." Beginning with local affairs, they began to play dates all over Florida.

Wittle at a University Prom, Tommy Dorsey, who was playing the nearby ace and heard the band and became its Godfather and sponsored it on a national series of nation-wide engage-

(Continued on Page 5)

MARLIES GESSLER

Marlies Gessler Chosen Winner: Miss Tallahassee

Competes For Title Of Miss Florida In Winter Haven

Veteran beauty queen, Miss Marlies Gessler, a sophomore at Florida State University, was named "Miss Tallahassee" Saturday night at the Jaycee-sponsored contest in the women's gym. She will represent the city at the annual Miss Florida competition in Winter Haven next week.

Miss Anita Wall and Miss Martha Sizelen, also of FSU, were chosen as the runners-up in a field which included seven other contestants.

The rules of the contest required the girls to appear in evening gowns and bathing suits and also to display some type of talent. Marlies, who is majoring in art, chose as her talent a short talk on spring and summer fashions and sketched two fashion illustrations.

Martha's talent was displayed in a pantomime entitled "With a Song in My Heart." Anita, the current "Miss Gymkana," did a monologue as her part of the show.

James T. Vocelle, chairman of the Physical Education Department and one of the judges, crowned the new queen. Philip Bowden included Georges Norris, Mrs. Barbara Frye, Dr. Ralph Hollis, Dr. Karl Arbuckle, and Dr. Adolph Karl. Dr. Arbuckle and Dr. Adolph Karl are also members of the FSU faculty.

The production, "Panorama," is slated for February 18, 19, and 20. The only matinee show will be on Saturday afternoon at 2. Admission is 75c, as in previous years.

The chorus group this year is the Sigma Kappa sorority under the direction of Arden Wright. Helen Alice is in charge of the dance. Bob Rice is chairman of decorations and George Mallory has organized Bob Collins' as publicity chairman.

Sandspur Dance will be Feb. 20 at 9. Deane Hudson's dance band will play for the dance. Miss Booker explained that she tried to make connections through the New York agency and had gotten a date set for Ray Anthony's band but they didn't have the money. But Miss Booker's business office decided to back the dance with the money needed. Anthony's band had taken another engagement Deane Hudson's was the only available band. The production chief has heard that Hudson's orchestra is danceable and the music will be enjoyed. Hudson will stage a free show on Saturday at 4 in the auditorium.

Admission for the Sandspur dance is $1.25 a person.

Panorama will open with a "Florida American scene called "Si, si, pulga." The closing scene is in Basin Street. Costumes for each will be made by society type of New York in the Twenties. Costumes for the Orient, have been almost completed.

The production will differ from the traditional lines of the usual Sandspur. Instead of musical comedy with speaking lines and a central plot, Panorama will feature several numbers of different moods and types.

Tickets for information and questioning.

"This film is in clear, neutral-density plastic," explained Dr. Royal H. Ray, head of the Department of Advertising.

Alpha Delta Sigma and Gamma Alpha Chi, professional advertising for men and for women will be co-sponsors of the affair marking the third in a series of five professional meetings to be presented by the groups during the school year.

Pictures, shown on Interstype's Fotosetter machine at work, later it handles various sizes and styles of type, measurement and other typographic information. Demonstration is made of the machine to show its adaptable use in the new photo-composing and servicing performance.

How the product of the Fotosetter machine is used various sections of the graphic arts is shown including lithography, gravure and screen as well. Method of steps saved will be shown in the film and demonstrated. Every one is invited.

BUSINESS STAFF

There will be a meeting of the Business Staff of the FLORIDA FLAMBEAU Wednesday, Feb. 10 at 5 p.m. at the Flambeau Offices. All staff members and those interested in working on the Flambeau business staff are urged to attend.

Journalists View Advertising Movie Wednesday Night

Substitution of the camera for the printed word in reproducing advertising and news matter will be demonstrated to students here in advertising, art, business and journalism classes at the two hr minute sound film "A New Era In Printing," in color this week.

Formation Of Candidates' Clubs Considered Hopeful Indication

"Get on the Bandwagon," say the posters.

Tey are talking about the formation of a Brailey Odham for Governor Cluh tonight at 8 in Longmire Auditorium.

The Flambeau does not intend to endorse any candidate in the gubernstorial primary scheduled for this May, but we do beartily endorse the student interest shown in the race.

Ours is often called the silent generation, the most apathetic, closed mouthed, uninterested generation in a long time. Although this is a generalization, it is altogether too often true . Either through fear or complacency, we keep quiet. If we bave convictions, we do not voice them.

That is why it is hopeful to see such things as the formation of a club supporting a candidate for state office. We won't be trite hy delivering sermons on the duties of the electorate to take part in its government. We'll just say that the coming election can be important to every citizen of the state. It may be even more important to the university than to other state groups. A person is looking out for his own interests when he knows his candidates.

We understand there will soon be an announcement of the formation of a LeRoy Collins for Governor Club, too. We hope that there will be a lot of students at both these meetings, not only to lend s hand to their respective choices for governor, but also to lend enthusiasm.

We urge all interested students, whether supporters of Odham or not, to attend tonight's meeting. And when the Collins group announces, we hope students will direct their attentions to Collins' campaign, too.

These are well-worn words, we know. but we repeat them in bopes that they will be heeded for a change.

OUT OF PLACE

The cornerstone unveiling on Wednesday marked an approximate mid-way point in the construction of the Patterson armory.

We feel, in an abstract way, that armories are misplaced on the campus of liberal arts colleges, particularly wben they are intended for use by reserve and military components in no way connected with the school. Certainly they contribute little to education, as such. We further see in the armory an obstacle to the possihle abolition of compulsory ROTC at the Heights. No valid reason, in terms of benefit to students, has been forwarded for the continuance of a policy that makes two years of ROTC mandatory.

—The Heights Daily News
New York University

Letters to the Editor

Flambeau Afraid?

Dear Editor:

I am surprised that you could print a news story as significant as the banning of interracial meetings here on campus without making editorial comment.

The Flambeau this year has seemed to have a more fearless tongue than in the past and has begun to sound like a college newspaper. But this case was a notable and very bad slip, it seems to me

I know that one simply doesn't discuss racial relations in polite (bourbon) society down here. I know, too, that it is almost impossible to discuss the subject rationally. The very hint of banning segregation is enough to stir blind hatred to the boiling point.

But with the AAUP meeting, no one was proposing to end segregation. No one was breaking a precedent, because interracial meetings have already been held at another state university in Florida

The effect of the order, then, is a step backward. It is another victory for hoary-haired sectionalism and another defeat for gradualism. It is cowardice and lack of vision.

Why did you choose this time to remain silent. Could it be that the Flambeau is afraid?

Sincerely,
Name withheld by request.

Editor's nate: Why, sir, did yoo choose to have your name withheld?

Poor Interpretation

Dear Editor:

We were somewhat disgruntled on reading your news article concerning the cancelling of the American Association of University Professors meeting which was to be held at Florida State University We are somewhat confused as to why this was done According to your article it would seem that the Board of Control's interpretation of the state constitution is the only cause of the cancellation.

We have had the greatest respect for the Board of Control. Their efforts to build FSU into a great university in such a few years, to provide it with the best instructors and to equip it with the best buildings have made us very grateful and proud of our university. But their recent interpretation of the state constitution concerning the race question seems to defeat all their efforts Not their efforts to maintain high enrollments and subsequent intake of tuition or their efforts to satisfy our parents and grandparents and those of us who do not seem to realize that the Civil War ended eighty-nine years ago and that nothing has come from segregation except the satisfying of our vanities. No, it isn't these efforts that have been defeated by the Board's action — rather strengthened. (Actually, as we see it, the Board has taken no action at all, but has merely upheld tradition — a tradition that, as mentioned above, has brought no concrete results that we can think of except complying with personal prejudices.)

We have thought in the past that the Board's main concern was for the students of the institutions over which it has control. Many of us are ready and willing for racial integration to take place on the university level and would not want the Board to think that it is for us that they have, "through the years," taken theri position. Also, we would want the Board to know that since we are in an institution af bigher learning, many of us feel that we are able, or would be if given the chance, to get along with members of other races. If it is concerned about mere skin color why does it allow members of the yellow and brown races, whom we have come to know and appreciate as a result of their study among us, to mingle with us so closely?

We cannot understand such seeming immaturity, or if not immaturity, such petty self-concern, among those whom we look to for leadership and promotion of high ideals in education and democracy. To us there is no hope for the race problem, and no one can deny that it is a problem, until we are allowed, at the highest level of developed intelligence, to mix and meet on equal sta-

We realize that the decision was probably influenced by tus. as the AAUP would have done at FSU.
pressure but we would also take our stand: We believe that the Supreme Court is just in its proclamation that racial segregation is illegal that it does not work for the common good and therefore is not democratic. This issue is supporting petty sectionalism and is not working for the best welfare of all. Our level of living will never be on a broad enough base to work for equal chances for all until we can at least work together with the Negroes, beginning on the intellectual level

We have seen Negroes and whites going to classes, living and eating together on the graduate level, which is at least a start, in a sister Southern state — Louisiana — without serious repercussion. We aren't for closing or combining our state institutions over night but can't something be worked out when meetings concerning those of the highest intellectual achievement—our professors — are to take place where learning is supposed to know no territorial boundaries?

Sincerely,
Ann Pride Brown
Carroll Engflish

Awareness Needed

Dear Mr. Galphin,

Congratulations on your editorial "Trade course equipmeot. . . " in the February 5 issue.

While there are much better arguments against the degeneration of most of our institutions of bigher learning to trade schools than the high cost of trade-course equipment, unless students become aware of this trend and join with the opposition to this situation, the degeneration will continue. Surely there must be a considerable proportion of college students who want an education for its own sake, who are capable of profiting from academic subject matter, and who are willing to take issue with the present dangerous trend

Sincerely yours,
Harold J. Humm

Editor's note: Certainly cost is one of the weaker arguments, although it may be a potent one to law-makers and tax-payers. This editorial was merely one of several the Flambeaa has run this year discussing the question af specialization. See particolarly the Free Lance af 18 November and the lead editorial of 4 December for discussians of the snbject at more basic levels.

Not Just In Denmark

Dear Editor:

I would like to commend the University Cafeteria on their recent record of a week's good food and service. However, since all the parente have gone home and taken their graduates with them or left their unsuspecting freshmen here to starve to death, I have noticed that the usual routine has again set in. No new year's resolutions have been kept as far as the Seminole Dining Hall is concerned.

Classes began last Wednesday and with it the old succession of barbecued franks and veal steak on the menu. Now don't get me wrong, I happen to like, in fact I love, barbecued franks and veal steak too—but there's a limit to the number of times a week my poor stomach will take such a diet without revolting.

As for steak in general, I have seen it described in a hundred different delectable ways on the menu that says special, only to be disillusioned to find that Swiss steak, measured Wednesday to be 1¼" long by ½" thick at the rate of 30 cents a throw, or 10 cents a bite, is nothing but hamburger covered with gravy. This is true

(Continued on Page 3)

The Florida Flambeau

BRUCE GALPHIN — EDITOR

AL PIERCE, news editor — EOB FOLSOM, managing editor

Feature Editor — Jayleen Robertson
Sports Editors — Ken Kingery, Dave Kennedy
Campus Editor — J. Gary Campbell
Copy Editors — Dick Victory, David Dreis
Rewrite Editors — Oscar Johnson, Martin Dyckman
Photographic Editor — Joe Caldwell
Art Consultant — Franklin Adams
Sports Staff — Art Kennerly, Bob Taylor
Junior Staff — Dot Thomasson, Pat Dekle, Mary Elizabeth King, Tom Hall, Betty Bishop, Lona Cochran, Barbara Bachman, Joyce Potter

NANCY LOWE — BUSINESS MGR.

MIRIAM SAWYER, advertising manager

Business Staff — Mary Wagon, Virginia Vaughn, Alice Lang, Joe Caldwell
Exchange Editor — Pat Robson
Exchange Staff — Margaret Dellinger

Advertising solicited by Alpha Delta Sigma and Gamma Alpha Chi.
Distribuution arranged for and processed by members of Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity
The Florida Flambeau, published twice weekly by the Students of Florida State University, Tallahassee, Florida.
The Florida Flambeau is represented nationally by the National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Avenue, New York 17, New York.
Member Associate Collegiate Press, Intercollegiate Press
Telephone 2-8000, extension 4821 — 211, 213 Longmire Bldg.

Post Office

Dear Mama Seminole . . .

Dear Mama Seminole:

Me findum merit in heap hig study of business writing. We takum note on meeting minutes and find minutes on U G A board very poorly written, hut then how can one be expected to write something about nothing.

Big man on campus name Walker have big show last week. He finally made witb remedy for the Station Two Blues. Many students were overheard voicing their appreciation. Even bookies make with smile and "may we help you?" Not nearly so loudly does "I'm sorry but that section is closed," ring down the halls of the registration building. Uncle J. F. is over in Europe trying not to give one incb to an uncompromising ambassador from another hull-headed country. They say a vicious or no reject our proposal and we can't accept or won't even consider their terms. In the news reel they are "bloodthirsty war-mongers." and we are peace-loving democracies. News agencies are said to use the same story but just change we and they around. Strong base adjectives give warped view which breeds mis-trust on both sides of the fence, BUT, truth is truth, whether bent or not? Mis-use of freedom brings loss of same.

Honesty at FSU is standing at new bigh according to Student Book Exchange. Tbey report that student cooperation in the cooperative book selling system has practically eliminated all errors or losses. Come to mind the words you gave me, "CONFIDENCE AND TRUST ARE DISHONESTYS GREATEST ENEMIES."

Love all,
GEORGIE SEMINOLE

Letter to Editor

Discouraged

Dear Bruce,

When I read your article in last week's Flambeau, "Bachelor Girl Gets Bachelor Degree," I felt discouraged. Discouraged because somewhere along the way we educators, elementary, secondary, and university, have failed. When a man like you has come through our public school system and has not learned to respect the dignity and worth of each individual, then many of us must have slipped.

Did you know, Bruce, that so-called "classical" education at whose shrine you are evidently worshipping, is a "hang-over" from the education of the freemen of Athens? It was alive and dynamic during their time. Today, it is as dead as the fish-grabbing - with-the-bare-hands curriculum became in the Sabre-tooth Curriculum You probably remember that story. Long after the streams were muddy and there were no fish in them the schools continued to teach fish-grabbing-with-the bare-hands because that was what their teachers, their parente, their grand-parente, "their uncles, and their cousins, and their aunts," had been taught when they went to school.

"Millie," your little handkerchief clerk, would not have had an opportunity for schooling during the days of the freemen at whose feet we grovel. She, a clerk in a store, would have been one of their slaves. Today, "Millie" has had her opportunity for an education which meete her needs.

Philosophically, one of the fundamental assumptions of our American culture is that every human personality is of equal worth and dignity. The assumption has the historical and structural support of the Constitution of our United States. We may not live up to this in its entirety but when you see teachers and institutions at the elementary, secondary, and college level trying to make education dynamic and functional, then we do have concerted attempts to uphold our constitution for which my ancestors and probably yours, fought and died.

Transportation and communication have made rapid changes in our world. Even though education a socielty tries to adjust we are confronted with the "cultural lag" If you had some distance to travel in an emergency or otherwise you would not use a horse and buggy just because your grandparents might have had the finest in the country, you would probably use a jet plane. The atom has made vast changes in our society and we must adjust.

After all, Bruce, even though your story was in caricature in so far as the girl, the school, and the situation were concerned, was she not doing the same thing you are doing? Her work in the store was helping to fit her for a business career for which she had the gumption to get while working and which added to her practical knowledge Your experience in writ-

(Continued on Page 3)

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

"Helle, Registrar's effice? Miss Stumpfritz has just withdrawn from Cherry Pie Eaking 301."

THE FREE LANCE

Party Needs Talent, Goals, Humility

By BRUCE GALPHIN

A year ago a vigorous group of students were eager to start a political party on campus. They did, calling it the Second Party, and swept virtually every office in the student body and class elections.

A handful of stodents this year are even more anxious to run for office than last year's aspiring politicians, bot no one will make the formal announcemeot af a party. Would-be "leaders" do little mare than glare at each ather out of the corners of their eyes. They think a party would be fine, hut they are loathe to organize one.

There are several reasons why they are unwilling to take the first step.

First of all, there is a certain stigma connected with parties here on campus. If there had been two well organized parties last year, the party system would have been properly launched. As it was, though, FSU's politicians were too anxious to win office and too unwilling to stand for a significant platform.

As a result there was assembled under one name an absurd conglomeration of Mark Hannas, Franklin Roosevelts, Joe McCarthys and William Jenninga Bryans. The party coold hardly promise anything tangible, because the views of its members were too divergent. Instead, it afered platitndes, which are always vate-getters among the uninformed.

A single party today would face rough times against a group of clever independents.

Second, the young politicians fear being iniators because they would be sticking their necks out and giving the opposition a chance to prepare attacks before coming out themselves.

Third, there is a lack of any genuine talent in the field thus far. In incompetent hands, a party could fall flat.

I believe there is need of a party system in FSU student politics, primarily to present an organized front in working for student intereste, but I think the parties should know what they are doing and where they are going.

Specifically:

1) The small cliques who attempt to control student government at present should drop the paranaid attitude that they are the god-chosen leaders of the people. That is, they should stop playing the game af dividing np offices amang friends and start looking for talent among the "masses" wbom they claim to represeot. Some af the people most qualified to be representatives of the stodents wont even try because they can't stand the stench ef back-stage politics. Others were squeezed ant by the cliques. The result in too many eases is a lifeless student government, devoid of intelligence, imaginatian ar sense of direction.

2) Parties should have strong, definitive platforms. It is ridiculous to hear politicians say, "But there are really no issues." If they want issues, why don't they stop listening to wheeze of their own gas and bear some of the complaints of their constituents?

3) They should organize now, and openly. Of course they want to win, and if they are not careful, they might not. A little humility is in order bere, bowever. Isn't there some old saw about being "servants of the people"? Do they want to present the issues to the students, there to staod or fall; or da they simply want to win office?

Time is fast running out, and if the student politicians do not come up with some answers soon, this column stands ready to point out unmercifully the foibles in their electioneering.

THE SPECTATOR

Triangle Imminent In May Election

By WARREN COBB

The state political scene is eurrently a state of confusion pending the Supreme Court's decision on the eligibility of Acting Governor Johns to run for the tyo-year term.

Frank West, Williston attorney, brought suit against Johns when the latter filed bis qualification fee for the Democratic primary in May.

Last week West argued his case before the Sopreme Court against two highly experienced attorneys — Lawrence Truett of Tallahassee and Francis Whitehair of DeLand. From all accounts, tha tyro West received a sound coatroom drubbing.

But that is not to say the court will rule in favor of Johns. They must decide whether or not the Cabinet Budget Commission had the right to roll back the $3,000 increase in the governor's salary at John's request as "an economy measure." The last Legislature, of which Johns was a member, increased the salary by that amount through an appropriations act. At the same time, they rejected a separate bill increasing the governor's salary. If the raise is valid and the governor's salary is actually $15,000 (the amount on which the qualification fee of all three filing candidates to date has been based), then Johns is ineligible.

However, Johns' attorneys claimed that the executive has the right to reduce salaries from the amounts fixed in tbe appropriations act as a matter of expediency in case of financial crises. West claimed this provision of the act was unconstitutional and maintained tbat the Legislature has the power to fix an official's salary in any manner it chooses.

It is an interesting and significant question The intriguing part is that the salaries of the Supreme Court justices, the very men who must decide the issue, were raised simultaneously in the same appropriations act. And six out of the seven accepted the raise.

Of caurse, it is sheer hypocrisy to contend that the state could not afford to give the governor a $3,000 yearly increase but COULD afford to give each member af the Supreme Court the same amoont—an appropriation of $21,000 per year.

It is hypocrisy, but it may enable Charley Johns to be the third candidate in May. If the court declares him ineligible, it is rumored that Comptroller Clarence Gay will enter the race with the John element behind him against Brailey Odham and LeRoy Collins.

Collins' eligibility has also been contested by West on the same grounds—i. e., Collins was a member of the Legislature that voted for the $3,000 increase in the governor's salary. But Collins is not in the same predicament as Johns on that score, for bis Senate term expires in November and the term for governor does not begin until next January. This was the decision of the Supreme Court in 1928 in the identical case of Senator John Taylor. If the court is at all consistent, Collins will be eligible to run.

It appears rather likely that the race will be a bitter one between Collins, Odham, and Johns.

Bot while Johns' attorneys and political chicanery may have saved him from disqualification, it is probable that he has eliminated himself in the eyes of tha electorate by his condnct as "acting gavernor."

He will probably be low man on the totem pole in May, political columnist Allen Morris notwithstanding.

As one newspaper, the Fort Meyers News-Press, sees it, one of two things would result from this unholy triangle:

"Either the two loud-mouths (Johns and Odham) will raise such a rumpus between themselves that the sober and serious Collins will be in danger of being overlooked . . . or else the able Collins with his solid record and his positive program will such such a strong appeal to the voters entertained but hardly edified by the antics of the other two that Collins will be the man they choose. . . ."

ETCETERA ETCHINGS

Movie, TV Oscar Line-Ups Forming

By DAVID DREIS

It's now February which means that by next month all the awards will be announced for movies and television. Since we discussed the Academy Awards last November, just going off on a limb for the ten best pics in my opinion and mentioning the TV awards oughta suffice today.

Then ten best pictures in my opinion, in order, are: (1) Lili; (2) From Here Ta Eternity; (3) Shane; (4) Stalag 17; (5) The Cruel Sea; (6) Roman Holiday; (7) Julius Ceasar; (8) Forever Female; (9) The Robe; (10) Miss Sadie Thampson. The pictures named are for my all-around enjoyment . . . not necessarily 'art.'

BIGGEST DISAPPOINTMENT: BLOWING WILD. It had a great east, Gary Cooper, Ruth Roman, Barbara Stanwyck and Anthony Quinn, but had a great deal of unnatural picture. WORST PICTURE: SANGAREE with Arlene 'Doll' and Fernada Lamas. BIGGEST SURPRISE: CRUISING DOWN THE RIVER wilb Dick Haymes, Audrey Totter and Billy Daniels.

Now for the television awards with the nominstions already in. Many FSU students don't know about television and some of its fine shows, even some people who can get video don't know about its fine shows, but that's a matter of opinion . . . which is where the nominations come in.

Best television dramatic program: Kraft TV theater, Philco-Goodyear Playhouse, Robert Montgomery Presents, Studio One, and U. S. Steel Hour. My choice: U. S. Steel Hour.

FOR BEST SITUATION COMEDY: Burns and Allen, I Love Lucy (the winner last year), Mr. Peepers, Our Miss Brooks, Topper. My choice: Topper, based an Thorne Smith's books and characters Bob Sterling and Anne Jeffreys direct copies of Cary Grant and Constance Bennett wha played thair roles in the mavie. Leo G. Carroll portrays Cosmo Topper, mild-mannered banker, with the same agility that the late Roland Young displayed.

Variety show: Colgate Comedy Hour, Jackie Oleason, Omnibus, Show of Shows, Toast of the Town. My choice: Omnibus emceed by Deems Taylor presenting drama, comedy, ballet and vaudeville acts all on one show every week.

News or Sports: Camel News Caravan, Gillette Cavalcade of Sports, NCAA Football Games, Pabst fights, pro ball, See It Now. See It Now, done by Edward R. Murrow gets my vote.

Public Affairs: Adventure, Bishop Fulton Sheen, Meet the Press, Person to Person and Victory at Sea. My choice: Meet the Press.

MYSTERY, ACTION or adventure: Dragnet, Fareigo Intrigue, I Led Three Lives, Suspense, The Web. This is a tough one, but Foreign Intrigue following reporters for internatianal press services gets my vote. The program is filmed in Europe. It's based

New program: Adventure, Ding Dong School, Letter To Loretta, Make Room For Daddy, Person to Person and U. S. Steel Hour. My choice: U. S. Steel again.

Children's program: Adventure, Ding Dong School, Kukla, Fran and Ollie, Super Circus and Zoo Parade. My choice: Ding Dong School.

Male star or regular series: Sid Ceasar, Wally Cox, Jackie Gleason, Donald O'Connor, Jack Webb. Choice: D.O.C.

Female star: Eve Arden, Lucille Ball, Imogene Coca, Dinah Shore and Loretta Young. Choice: Dinah Shore.

Outstanding personality: Art Godfrey, Edward R. Murrow, Martha Raye, Bishop Sheen, Jack Webb. Choice: Jack Webb in an edge over Murrow.

When the winners are announced at a big dinner Feb. 11, eheck this list and see how we come out. Movies come in Mareh . . . puhleese . . . don't eheck!

Letters to the Editor . . .

Close Patio?

Dear Editor:

Rumor has it that plans are being made to close in the patio of the Student Center. It is assumed, for the purpose of obtaining more space for tables.

If this is the case, let us review the facts. The elimination of the patio, as such, would only serve as a temporary solution at the cost of student relations and the unmaterialized recreation program. Can the school afford this? We believe not.

Complete student support of the Student Center has never materialized, according to those in charge of it. As they are the ones who should know, the next problem posed is, why?

The answer is obviously seen in the unfulfilled promises for a recreation center. The solution lies in giving the students what tbey were promised, a recreation center, instead of a "glorified" dining hall.

To correct the situation would be very simple. There is abundant space in the "Trophy Room" for ping-pong tables, table shuffleboard, and a few pool tables. Space could easily be provided for outdoor shuffleboard and a miniature golf course. If this sounds preposterous, let us bear in mind that Mrs. Bateman has even suggested dancing on the roof.

Whether it's dancing on the roof or dancing in the dark, the fact remains we want, and need, dancing space. While we are cognizant of the fact that adequate space is often available during the week, the fact still remains that there is not nearly enough room on weekends.

Without the patio, both the atmosphere and dancing space will be stifled. We do not feel tbat this is in the best interest of the student body or the university and we feel certain that many others feel this way, too. How do you feel?

Hopefully yours,
INTERESTED STUDENTS

EXAMS A LA CARTE

(ACP)—News item—from The Stute, Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, New Jersey:

"Tau Beta Pi has again prepared exam problems from previous years to help the student body get ready for the term's shakers. An important new addition will be the insertion of answers, a feature which will make the old 'exam copies even more popular. These review exams will go on sale for ten cents per copy."

Professor Deplores Ways Now Existing In Teacher Colleges

MAYWOOD, Ill. (I.P.)—Deplor- ing the fact that today in view of conflicting philosophies, many people feel that teacher education colleges should be turned into "sheer vocational schools or 'teacher factories,'" Dr. Harry Stillwell, professor of systematic education and director of student relationships at the Chicago Lutheran Theological Seminary, stated here, points out that teacher training colleges, faced with these conflicting views, "must draw up a set of principles for education, but that any principle can be made to push a cleavage."

Dr. Stiller said that some people feel the solution for teachers colleges is to take the middle of the road and teach technique, leaving without the study of the world in the light of history. As a result they would turn out "weary functionaries" in the manner of a "ready factory."

Instead of adopting either the "hard" or "number" principle, Dr. Stiller suggested educators face the fact that today in view of the many diverse backgrounds, "in his talk, "Number and Word—A Perspective for Education," Dr. Stiller will dwell on the fact that until the 19th century, the world was explained as a "word." Everything was expressed as an idea, a thought. In the modern day, however, the world is explained with everything broken down to its component parts.

Modern education in a democracy should combine everything from social science to running and work toward a goal. Democracy is based on public education, Dr. Stiller declared. Dr. Stiller felt that we should teach democracy as the word of God, the word and the world of number as co-exist in balance. He concluded that the modern trend in the drive into education with set principles, we miss the boat.

Evaluation Will Be Clarified At Educators Council Meeting

"Evaluation is one of the perennial problems in higher education, which will be clarified at a planned conference with a group of its important leaders being discussed," stated Dr. Hugh Stoker, director of FSU educational research and service.

The two-day council meeting starts at 9:30 AM for approximately 10 educators from colleges and universities in 14 states, who discuss important issues at evaluations.

Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N. J. and FSU will co-sponsor this event. Classroom professors, evaluation specialists for the next part: from University of Florida, Michigan state, and the campus educators.

Dr. Stoker will preside at the morning session where President Doak S. Campbell of FSU will make an address of welcome. Henry Chauncey, President of the national testing service will speak on "Problems of Evaluation in Higher Education." Dr. Paul L. Dressel will discuss "Evaluation in the Cooperative Study of Evaluation in General Education."

Leading the meetings will be Dr. Lewis B. Mayhew, Michigan State; Dr. Robert Lawrence, Dr. Paul L. Hanna, Dr. C. F. Byers and Dr. J. J. Corrigion all of the University of Florida; Dr. Robert D. Miller, Dr. Ben F. Rogers and Dr. Thomas P. Lewis of FSU.

Dr. William E. Coffman of the Educational Testing Service will be featured dinner speaker and his subject will be "Evaluation Services in Higher Education." Dr. Campbell will preside at the meetings.

Dean Charles S. Davis of the FSU College of Arts and Sciences will preside at the general session the second day. Dr. Mayhew will discuss "Developments in Testing for Critical Thinking and Attitudes."

There will be a question and answer period plus a panel discussion. Dr. Dressel will conclude the conference with a summary.

School Reports Excellent Profit For Last Year

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (I.P.)—The $35,000 profit shown by the University bookstore for the 1952-53 school year has been built up based on the 10 per cent upon and the Intramural Sports program, according to a committee report made by Chuck Kelly, vice president of the University of Arkansas. The service group investigating committee announced that the $35,000 was broken up into:

Approximately $4,500 for refrigerator bottle outstanding addition wing added to the Student Union building; $3,000 given to the Intramural Sports program; $4,500 used to help balance Student Union operating expenses; against the amount gleaned for that purpose from student fees; and $17,000 set aside for the remodeling of the Student Union Building. The remainder, or about $6,000, has been kept by the bookstore in an emergency fund.

The committee's report also stated that token approval has been given by University officials to halt the 10-cent charge for the cashing of checks by the bookstore on banks on par. The book list was obtained by the committee from the Federal Reserve Board.

The examination was told that the average student wage rate on the campus is $1 cents per hour. An additional 14 cents would be needed to raise the wages to a standard. This would mean $3,000 per month or $27,000 per year.

Authorities Acclaim Study Best Seller

"Challenge to Librarianship," recent publication of the Florida State University studies, is acclaimed best seller and a re-issue is being considered for the current volume, officials said today.

Research Council at FSU provide a means for early publication of research papers by members of the faculty. Studies is under published under the auspices of this group, they explained.

"The central theme on librarianship is built: "The cold war is being fought with ideas, and how we are going to get the ideas which expresses our way of life to the people on the fringe of the Iron Curtain," according to Louis Shores, dean of the FSU library School.

University Bookstore sold out completely and has more than 50 requests piling up from many parts of the world. France, England, India, South Africa, Philippines, and Hawaii are included, they said.

The essays appear in the publication, and each takes a different way to fight the cold war. They consider the Voice of Information Programs, methods of speeding research, microphotography as a means of organizing information more effectively for all research, use of audio-visual media, how to eat the truth about the American heritage out to the world, and other factors.

Colleges Studying Plan To Establish Scholarship Policies

(Continued from Page 1)

BRUNSWICK, Me. (I.P.) — Fourteen New England colleges are studying a plan designed to end competition for brilliant students. The plan involves the establishment of a sort of clearing house for scholarship awards.

The plan was first proposed by John U. Munro, director of Harvard's financial aid center, at a meeting held on the Bowdoin College campus.

Presidents of Harvard, Dartmouth and Amherst, the other colleges participating in the discussions, Nathaniel L. Pusey, Bowdoin, Brown, Middlebury, Colby, Clark, Williams, Vermont and Trinity. (A committee comprised of President Nathan M. Pusey, Harvard; John Dickey, Dickey of Dartmouth and Charles W. Cole of Amherst was named to set up a common scholarship policy.)

Dean McGeorge Bundy, dean of Harvard's faculty of arts and sciences, were quoted as saying in a joint statement: "Harvard certainly agrees that it (the scholarship plan) is something we want to go on." Other comments were—Henry M. Wriston, president of Brown: "We think it is a good move. We all have slightly different ways of calculating financial need (and) we need a cooperative arrangement." Victor L. Butterfield, president of Wesleyan: "I think it is an excellent idea. It seems a way of doing basis for equitable judgment of needs," Cole, of Amherst: "The common scholarship competition has become undignified."

TB Board Appoints Faculty Member As Committee Head

Mrs. Margaret Bristol of the social welfare faculty here has been appointed chairman of a committee to study present social service operations, according to a recent announcement by the State Tuberculosis board.

Mrs. Bristol stated that the committee is made up of hospital personnel and said that it was appointed by the tuberculosis board because it is "Interested in providing the same high calibre of service in the social service department that it now has in medical and nursing service." She asked that the study be completed by the end of May."

The committee is made up of four medical directors from various Florida hospitals, Dr. R. L. Brock; Dr. W. L. Pettis; Dr. Frank Mandel and Dr. A. M. Dietrich of Tampa, and four social service workers. They are Miss Nelson; Miss Gary Sims; Mrs. June Crops and Miss Caroline Gere. Also serving on the committee is Miss Princess Wilson, director of nursing at the Tallahassee Hospital.

The committee met with Mrs. Bristol last week at the W. T. Edwards Hospital for a first meeting and will begin definite functions of hospital social service and set up standards and working policies.

Army Offers Funds To Student Nurses

"Any qualified registered nurse enrolled in FSU School of nursing may attend school and receive the full pay and allowance of a second lieutenant on active duty in the Army," announced Miss Vivian M. Duxbury, dean of the School of Nursing here.

The registered nurse student program has been established by the army as an educational program to prepare the professional nurses who care for patients in army hospitals.

To qualify for this program, the applicant must in addition to meeting professional, physical and personal standards be appointed in the Army Nurse Corps Reserve, and must agree to serve on active duty for a period of three years. This includes the time spent in educational study, and meeting all requirements for a bachelor's or a master's degree within the one year.

"The student nursing program is designed to aid those individuals who are currently enrolled or accepted in colleges or universities in a course leading to a bachelor's or master's degree in one of the fields of nursing," stated the Dean.

Further information on qualifications may be obtained from Dean Duxbury.

Six Reading Days Precede Exams

NEW LONDON, Conn. (I.P.)—A reading period of six days at the end of each semester is now in effect at Connecticut College for Women. This period of self-directed reading precedes the review period and semester examination schedule here. Courses in which this plan is used do not have further reading period.

Approved by the faculty, after a two-year trial period, it has been found that most courses have benefited by a "time to think" with the student plans concentrated study of supplementary course materials. Book lists are prepared and aid is given by the faculty and the staff of the college library. Students are held responsible for materials read, through questions included in course examinations.

LOST: One pair glasses in red leather case. Finder please return to Nicholas Emery Hall 1826 or 125 Gilchrist Hall.

Sororities Adopting New Quota System At Wittenberg

SPRINGFIELD, O. (I.P.)—The Panhellenic Council at Wittenberg college has voted to adopt a quota-limitation system. This system, formulated from years of experience, will replace the present membership statistics, is designed to prevent large membership splits within a range. It will place the small groups which are desiring to build up their membership at a definite advantage and prevent little penalty on the large group.

The quota-limitation formula, which will go into effect next fall, must be computed each year. The system does not use state quotas, but rather is based with enrollment trends. The formula upon which the plan is to be computed each year as follows: Seventy-five per cent of the freshmen women enrollment divided by six plus all new transfer students and sophomenon who desire to rush will be invited.

Each sorority will be allowed to take this number of pledges at the beginning of rush and only throughout the year. The freshman and upperclassman quotas will be computed and pledges until the limitation number is reached.

If and when new sororities appear on campus, these same formulas will be used to establish the seven, eight, or nine, as the case may be, will remain in use. Since enrollment increase cannot be anticipated with high accuracy over a period of years.

(Continued from Page 1)

Letter To Editor Naples Correspondent

Dear Sir:

I am a student at the University of Naples. I would like to correspond with some students of your university. Therefore I am going to help me by publishing this request in your magazine. I speak fluently French and, of course, Italian, too, and I shall be able to write also in Dear language. My hobbies are: good music and art, to collect stamps; among sports: tennis and football.

Thanking you in advance, I remain

Yours faithfully,
Mr. N. Maccio
Via Marghertta 56
Nola (Naples) Italy

(Continued from Page 1)

Discouraged

ning on the Flambeau is giving you some practical experience in preparing you for the journalistic career by which you aspire.

On second thought, Bruce I'm not so worried about you. Have you heard the maxim, "only green fruit grows"? You know, I had a "classical" education in one of the "brisk" schools of the country but I would not limit a college course only to those who care to take a course such as the one which I took. Would you? Think it over!

LUCILLE SHAW

(Continued from Page 3)

Not Just

and never my stomach nor my pocketbook will tolerate the thoughts of steak—our stomach and my vision didn't combine when it comes to that point.

I see the menu — Seminole Steak, Minute Steak, Swiss Steak, Smothered Steak, Steak a la gravlata, Beef Hash, Beef Patties, and my stomach gets all set. In fact it actually starts jumping up and down in the fashion of the meat it was fed the day before last when someone accidentally said Giddrap!

Perhaps I could stand hamburger and even make believe it is actually steak if only—but I'm not. Ground beef were fresh enough to butter without its being fried in two and crumbling at the first gentle stroke of butter. Even one-day old bread would be appreciated.

It's lucky that I had my microwave along on the way to Biology class at 1 o'clock because I only have an hour for lunch and anyway, who minds standing in line for 50 minutes when you have only 10 minutes left to indulge in your 75 cents worth of a healthy?? lunch? Anyway, that's all it helps to be able to find the food on the plate—even if it is hamburger veal steak, or barbecued franks, two slices of stale bread, two stalks of Dessert, your peas and a pint of milk.

Please cafeteria, if you only tell the truth about the ground meat and quit tossing my poor hamburgers and steaks, perhaps I can stand it for the rest of the semester.

Sincerely,
Famished

P.S.—In a recent study by the FSU chemists on a sample of last week's two-day serving on sponge cake a la cafeteria they found its size to be similar to some new type of synthetic rubber.

Holland's Restaurant
Complete Soda Fountain and Restaurant Service
Excellent Food At All Hours
Holland's
Facing The Capitol
at 106 E. Pensacola in Tallahassee
Air Conditioned

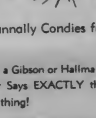
'Red' Hunter Labelled Mentally Dishonest

ACP)—A 18-year-old pre-law student at the University of Colorado who's avocation is hunting Reds has been branded "intellectually dishonest" by the university board of publications.

The student, Dwight D. Murphey, charged "a Communist conspiracy on our campus" and, together with a state legislator, instituted a political science professor as using pro-communist textbooks in his "Government of Eastern Asia" class.

The story began when Murphey brought a 1,200-word press release to the Colorado Daily in which editor Red Angove refused to print on the grounds that portions of it were libelous.

Murphey was not enrolled in the Asia course, nor had he read the textbooks. He based his charges solely on the fact that four of the authors studied in the course—Lawrence K. Rosinger, T. A. Bisson, Owen Lattimore and John Fairbank—have been accused of being Communists before Congressional committees.



Another board member, the director of the college of journalism, asked if the authors were "convicted or accused" Communists. "Well," Murphey replied, "these people are so slippery you can't prove anything before a court of law. So other means must be taken."

The board limited Angove for his actions and labeled Murphey "irresponsible and intellectually dishonest."

Meet Me at THE MECCA

Score A STRIKE!

With that Special person . . . Send a Valentine Box of Delicious Norris, Johnston's, Hollingsworth or Nunnally Condies from our fresh stocks . . .

DEAN HUDSON

in Chattanooga, Tennessee. This is involved in a personal appearance tour that took her to New Orleans, where she won first place in a beauty contest.

Since that time she has appeared in night clubs and on radio and television in Miami. She has also toured Cuba and Mexico making appearances.

Admission for the dance will be $1.25 per person or $2.50 a couple.

DON'T FORGET! . . . a Gibson or Hallmark Valentine Card That Says EXACTLY the right thing!

Free! Records Given at a daily drawing . . . Just put your name and address on the back of your Bookstore receipts, drop in the Special Box and Win A Record—Drawings Daily!

at University Bookstore
In The Student Center

Russians Familiar With Our Phrase: 'Down the Hatch'

(ACP)—Russian students are familiar with the American idiom, "down the hatch," reports Dr. Lowell Mason of Ohio college editors now touring the Soviet Union.

The seven editors (see ACP) Fenigro Service, Jan. 21 spent a New Year's Eve with students of Moscow University and, according to Dr. Mason, editor of the University of Minnesota Daily, welcomed 1954 in true Russian style.

"Festivities started," Schoolhead reports, "with a floor program in the university auditorium. Following that the seven Americans and a group of Russian students retired to a private midnight supper and dance in the house.

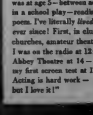
"The first toast—to world peace, incidentally—was with vodka. There is no sipping the stuff. The Russian was quite familiar with the idiom, 'down the hatch,' and were insulted that everyone complied. After that there were more vodka toasts to peace and champagne toasts. Then followed toasts with champagne, cognac, wine and beer. In that order. We experimented with the toasts were Russian style and called Russian dishes."

Four of the seven American editors' party had to be helped to bed after the celebration. From Moscow, the tourist editors headed 1,800 miles south to Azerbaijan, one of the 15 Soviet Socialist Republics, and from there to Georgia, Rostov, Yalta, Kiev and Minsk.

Soviet Premier Malenkov turned down the editors' request for a personal interview.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Student editor Schoolhead will write a series of articles for ACP Feature Service immediately upon his return. Watch for them.

Australian Stresses University Research



The Florida State University Seminar technique of graduate study will be introduced in Australia by Dr. Ian G. Ross, an Australian chemist who has just completed a 13-month stay here. Ross plans to take back to his country a new slant on the significance of research work in universities.

At a luncheon given him by the Chemistry Department before his departure, Ross stated: "It is absolutely necessary in advanced education for the student to achieve such a mastery of his field that he can work up-to the border of the unknown and recognize it, and push beyond it.

"Only by doing research work in a field can one also cover the limits of knowledge in it. In this way he develops a full sense of perspective which helps him to judge his later endeavors in other fields, and incidentally enables him to teach as a elementary phases of the subject with true competence."

Dr. Ross came to FSU after completing his doctorate studies at the University of London, and worked with Dr. Michael Kasha, professor of chemistry, in the university's n e w spectroscopy laboratory.

HOW THE STARS GOT STARTED...

MAUREEN O'HARA says: "My first stage appearance was at age 5—between acts in a school play—reading a poem. I've literally bleed acting ever since! First, in clubs, churches, amateur theatricals. I was on the radio at 13; in the Abbey Theatre at 14—had my first screen test at 17. Acting is hard work—but I love it!"

"WHEN I CHANGED TO C*MELS, I FOUND I WAS ENJOYING SMOKING MORE THAN EVER! CAMELS HAVE A WONDERFUL FLAVOR...PLUS THE RIGHT MILDNESS!"

Maureen O'Hara
Lovely Hollywood Star

for Mildness and Flavor

Camels agree with more people

THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE!

START SMOKING CAMELS YOURSELF!

Make the 30-day Camel Mildness Test. Smoke only Camels for 30 days. See for yourself why Camels' cool mildness and rich flavor agree with more people than any other cigarette!

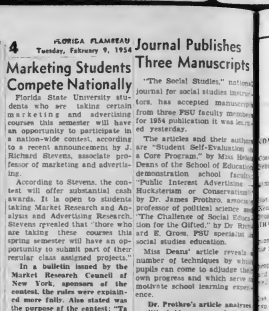
Hometown Girl Is Baffled By Fishnet; Is Taken In By Those Big Oranges

By JOYCE POTTER

It can be mighty lonesome in a st dormitory on Saturday night, as I was a lov'y Frosh and still too plumb scared to go to them off-limits places I'd heard about, so I too. Why anyone with an ounce up and decided I would see if I of sense knows that there net could find someone else at home. won't hold that orange until last As I wandered down the hall I fix that hole in the bottom of it. bumped into a group of girls who Well then, just tempt them by were headed for the door. throwing this orange back and

Somehow in all this rush I got forth across that floor, and kept turned around and was headed right throwing it back and forth until straight for the door too. So I they're all ready to go. stood there though, why not go along and see it to me. I wouldn't do it. I wouldn't, where the crowd is going. pinsy like and wave their arms

Every few minutes these stripped-suited fellows would blow that whistle and then the boys would step throwing the orange at the net for a minute or so.



These crazy-mixed up men would and fix our barn up the same way then run like a rabbit into one of that I like a rabbit likes to do. the blew that whistle. They would put fun. But by cracky, I'm going to on the heads on their shirts as use a net with a bottom in it so

Now the whole crowd yelled and around or some other silly thing. I was getting right tired of all anyway so I looked around and everybody else was having something, or drink so I up and got me a big orange, drink. I did.

Well they just kept right on bouncing this orange all over the floor and some numbers to keep [illegible] at the end of the barn for quite a while.

Then everyone started yelling that they were all up and ran town them stairs and started out of this barn as I am following them. When I come to find out I was on the way back to the house that I started from and I was plumb suckered out.

I sure want to remember that barn though so I can go home oranges will stay in it.

"Atomic Energy Booth" . . . erected by the Florida State University department of physics is one of the features at the State Fair in Tampa. The booth includes such things as Geiger counters, a lightning generator and demonstrations with radioactive substances.

Lessons Broadcast by Teevee Making Viewdents of Students

(ACP)—A glowing, glimmering, glittering, glorious new breed of college professor—a breed forced to lecture to a handful of technicians and a real live audience while maintaining the grinning nerchbonleurs of some of Hitlon U. listen in on their business.

This phenomenon has so convincingly demonstrated itself as an educational force that college faculty members are actually going to school again to learn how to teach over the air. Many educational institutions are carrying on mammoth fund-raising campaigns to finance non-commercial, strictly educational channels of their own.

Throughout the country, colleges and universities are offering W.W. courses in "viewdents" or "teledents." Professors must learn to use the medium's top entertainers, for a flick at a disk and the "view-dent" gets class.

Latest to attempt TV teaching, and the first in New England, is the University of Bridgeport, Conn.: The Bridgeport classes will be broadcast 30-minutes a day and are offered free-of-charge to the local commercial station. At present only Intro "Living" and Literature" and "Personal Adjustment in Family Living" are conducted, but more are to come.

While the Bridgeport station donates the time, several schools like Western Reserve University in Cleveland, meet their financial problems by charging fees and having college credits to TV students.

Others have decided the best way to get on the air is for them to own and operate an educational channel.

Iowa State College, University of Houston (Texas), University of Southern California and Michigan State College now have applications for TV and construction permits have been granted to the University of Illinois, University of Kansas, Kansas State College, University of Pittsburgh, University of North Carolina, Ohio State University and University of Washington.

Six construction permits have been granted to the University of Regents of the State University of New York, which plans to build an extensive state-wide educational TV stations.

Grand-daddy of the colleges and universities engaging in television activities is Iowa State, where TV was experimented way back in 1932. WOI-TV, the college station, now originates more than one-fourth of the filmed material being used by the educational stations. Incidentally, WOI-TV last week boosted its power to 100,000 watts, almost double that of any other station, giving it an output as strong as that of any TV station in the nation. Now Iowa State officials are making plans to transmit in color.

Television authorities at Northern State, Michigan and North Carolina are in the process of constructing transmitters, lower 1,000 feet high, at Silver Hill, Md., for the Signal Corps and France's Eiffel tower for the Washington monument.

Producing educational programs for commercial TV stations and operating their own educational channels are only two of the methods colleges and universities are using to harness TV.

Mademoiselle Announces Poetry Contest For Girls

By GEORGE GOLDSTEIN

"Beauty is a poet. Beauty little same, where- do I go to glorify my name?" stares many a young beauty-to-be, as the struggle endures or that he has created.

Look no further there's a poem in your future (with a catch yet if you enter the Mademoiselle poetry contest and try to cop the Dylan Thomas award worth $100 there are two awards worth the same price.

It is for females only and they must be under 26 (that should be easy on a woman will admit she's over!) One prize will go to a college student and the other will go to a woman regardless of her school training.

In conjunction with the February publication of the late Dylan Thomas's verse play Under Milk Wood. Mademoiselle magazine is offering this contest. Publication of the play marks a literary milestone for fashion magazines.

Thomas, who has been called the modern Keats, handed his revised manuscript to Mademoiselle's editors only a week before his untimely death at the age of thirty-nine. Illustrations of Thomas at home in his native Welch village which inspired the play, may well become a collectors item.

Forms submitted to the Mademoiselle contest may not have been published previously except in college publications. No writer may send more than three copies and entries should be double spaced typewritten material on white paper. Age, address and "in college" or "not in college" should be clearly marked.

Judges of the contest will be Mademoiselle editors, who read all copies submitted up to April 15. Address your entries to Mademoiselle magazine, 575 Madison Avenue, New York 22, N. Y.

Journal Publishes Three Manuscripts

"The Social Studies," nationa journal for social studies teachers, has accepted manuscripts from three FSU faculty members for 1954 publication It was announced yesterday.

Articles and their authors are "Student Self-Evaluation a Core Program," by Miss Rebecca Dean of the School of Home demonstration school faculty; "Public Interest Advertising . . ." Buckaroos or Conservationists by Dr. James Prothro, associate professor of political science, and "The Challenge of Social Education for the Gifted," by Dr. Rose M. Grant, FSU professor of social studies education.

Miss Deans' article reveals a number of techniques by which pupils can come to adjudge their own progress and which serve to motivate school learning experience.

Dr. Prothro's article analyzes political ideas currently being advanced through business advertising, examining a few such ideas with those of early American conservatism.

Dr. Grau discusses the various proposals for educating brilliant students and points up the support of providing individualized instruction to promote the full development of such youth. The article summarizes a speech he delivered before a meeting of the National Council for the Social Studies.

Marketing Students Compete Nationally

Florida State University students who are taking certain marketing and advertising courses this semester will have an opportunity to participate in a nation-wide contest, according to a recent announcement by J. Richard Stevens, associate professor of marketing and advertising.

According to Stevens, the contest will offer substantial cash awards. It is open to students taking Market Research and Analysis and Advertising Research. Stevens revealed that 'those who take both courses will have an opportunity to submit as part of their regular class assigned projects."

In a bulletin issued by the Market Research Council of New York, sponsors of the contest, the rules were revealed more fully. Also stated was the purpose at the contest: "It is hoped it will lead to the study of marketing research."

The council revealed that awards will range from $25 to $100, and that it is not a prize competition requiring special work but that "The basis of the award is nomination by an instructor and the submission or evidence of personal accomplishment in the study of marketing research.

By avoiding a prize competition and distributing the awards to students on the basis of already prepared work in courses in the subject, the Council hopes to obtain a large number of candidates and thereby create effectiveness of the awards in stimulating interest in marketing research on college campuses throughout the country."

Kryptokar Diamonds
Custom Mountings
PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRS
107 E. Monroe St. Phone 3-1167

Like Drive-Ins?
or do you
Like a Place to Sit Down and Be Served?
or do you
Like Free Delivery Right to Your Door?
QUAKER HOUSE
on the Quincy H'way
Call 2-8677
Steaks, Chops, Chicken, Sea Foods, deliciously cooked and served . . .
Large Variety of Sandwiches to Choose From—Largest Soda Fountain in the South!
Choice Swift's Meats Served

Wisconsin Hedges On Traditional Idea Of Speech Fredom

MADISON, Wis. (I.P.) — The University of Wisconsin's traditional freedom for students to join organizations of their choosing and invite off-campus speakers to address them was revoked recently in a memorandum warning students of the "possible consequences of membership in organizations declared by official action as subversive."

The statement was approved by the students and faculty on the University's Student Life and Interests Committee after an eight-month study. The committee named the Labor Youth League as the only organization on this campus "which appears on the attorney general's list." University officials reported that the League claims a membership of 30.

"The Labor Youth's League is an organization operating under the laws of the United States and the State of Wisconsin. It may operate legally with no more hindrance than pertains to an artistic or social organization, and its members now face no inedfiat consequences because of membership. Membership in the Labor Youth League may have serious consequences for its members in the future: they may find it impossible to obtain federal employment; they may find it impossible to obtain employment in any industry working on defense contracts; and they may find it impossible to obtain a passport."

The comittee statement, defined in detail both "the possible consequences of joining a group that appears on the attorney general's list," and "the possible consequences of joining an organization registered by the Subversive Activities Control Board."

The U. S. attorney general, the statement reported, has, for the information of other departments of the executive branch a list of organizations which, on the basis of investigation by his department, he judges to be subversive.

This list, the committee reported, is available for student inspection both in the offices of the Student Senate and the chairman of the Student Life and Interests Committee. No campus organization has been asked to register with the Subversive Activities Control Board.

Notre Dame Professor Criticizes Kinsey; Says Work 'Invalid'

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (I.P.) — Dr. Alfred Kindsey, principal author of Sexual Behavior of the Human Female, has been criticized by the head of Notre Dame's sociology department for using statistics which are "questionably valid" and building upon them a philosophy which is "uniquely humanly invalid."

Dr. John J. Kane, a specialist on marriage and the family, declares that Kinsey "has invaded the field of social philosophy where his authority and ability can be severely questioned." His statistics cannot be projected on all American women. But despite these reservations, Dr. Kane concedes that Kinsey's findings are like the scientific data available on the subject.

"Let's not dismiss Kinsey as a crackpot," Dr. Kane cautions. "Let's remember that while this book may do some harm, it may also do great good. If America is alerted to the decline of moral standards, and realizes the importance of religion in regaining them, we may all have cause to remember Professor Kinsey with gratitude," he states.

"Kinsey's findings reveal that certain types of illicit sex behavior have increased in recent decades." Dr Kane notes. "He (Kinsey) confirmed statements by religious leaders that religion is the most effective method of curbing immoral sex behavior. Again and again in the course of his investigations Professor Kinsey found that the devout Catholic, Jew or Protestant was least likely to engage in immoral sex behavior."

Journalism School Announces Courses In Educational TV

Two courses in educational television are being offered this semester by Florida State University, according to a recent announcement by the School of Journalism. To be given in Jacksonville and Ft. Lauderdale, the courses are open to school administrators, teachers, principals and civic group leaders.

Daniel Wozniak, professor in the School of Journalism, will instruct the courses, to be called "Television and the Community." Officials revealed that Wozniak will make flying trips to both cities twice a month during the semester to direct the programs. The general extension division will finance this travels.

Officials said the courses will "Present televisin as an instrument of education and service to the community. Methods of interpreting the community to a mass audience, television tools and techniques will be among the subjects considered."

Wozniak believes that news programs should aid each other. "Newspaper, radio and television are complimentary in the coverage of news," he said. "The three have different techniques; news papers can see more thorough, and both radio and television stimulate the public to reading newspapers."

Wozniak will be in Ft. Lauderdale February 4 and Jacksonville four days later for registration and organization of the extension courses, to be held in cooperation with commercial stations in both cities.

Joining the FSU faculty last fall, Wozniak came from Iowa State College where he was owns editor of WOI-TV for three years. During that time he wrote, produced and narrated documentary programs. On the FSU campus he teaches basic courses in radio and television. Next fall he will teach several new courses in the same fields to be offered theo.

Educators, Businessmen Meet To Discuss Exchange Theme

BOSTON, Mass. (I.P.) — Representatives of three major points: I. What is the businessman's stake and need in strengthening liberal arts graduates?; 2. Why do liberal arts graduates have more broad and merit strengthened cooperation between business management?; 3. Why and how should business management and the academic world cooperate to strengthen the liberal arts graduate?

Facts and figures were given to prove that the businessman has a good background in humanities is far more important than the skilled person who lacks judgment and ability to reason. The speakers stressed the need for the teaching of more English, and that more attention be given foreign laneuages.

"If a group was very forceful in asserting that a better correlation between industry and humanities would benefit everyone," said Dr. Barre. "It was strongly recommended that professors should visit industry and businessmen should visit colleges in order to farther "greater understanding between, the two branches."

Catholics Announce Plans For Weekend

John Platone, president of the Newman Club, has announced that the club weekend will begin Saturday. The festivities will begin in the evening with an informal dance and buffet supper.

At the dance to be held in the Newman House, a queen and two attendants, to be elected by members of the club, will be presented. Votes may be cast at the Newman House on Saturday morning or they may be given to Annette Straub, N. Cawthon, until voting closes on Wednesday evening.

The party will begin with the buffet supper at 7 p. m. The hall will be decorated for the occasion. Co-chairman of the weekend, Patricia Perez and Annette Straub, are planning entertainment for the evening.

Patricia and Annette have also planned a picnic at Camp Seminole for Sunday afternoon. Unpaid members of the club will be charged a small fee for the picnic announced the executive council Thursday evening.

There's Good Food at M & N Cafe!
SPECIALS:
Today Whole Fried Shrimp Plate French Fries Salad 85¢
Tomorrow Juicy Broiled Filet Mignon French Fries Salad $1.00
Fri. Seafood Plate French Fries Salad $1.00
M & N CAFE
E. JEFFERSON ST. TALLAHASSEE

How to win hearts and influence ladies on VALENTINE'S DAY
SEE The Vogue

From The Sidelines

By Ken Kingery

Flambeau Sports Editor

COACH KENNEDY NO 1. PROPHET

After the loss to the Miami Hurricanes in the Magic City, Coach Bud Kennedy said, "we'll beat Miami in Tallahassee on January 5."

And so it was, as late Saturday night rolled around, the packed house of almost 4500 fans knew this prophecy had come true.

Coach Kennedy also predicted that the team would better last season's record which was 11-11. From now on, on Coach Kennedy's office door there should be the sign, J. K. Kennedy, Prognosticator.

HERE'S TO MARY KATE MILLER

Miss Mary Kate Miller, Physical Education instructor has promised to help the FSU Soccer Team get uniforms, to mark off the field, and supply the team for their coming meets.

One of the biggests assets to the team is the interest many girls are showing. Teh boys themselves have the spirit to try out with the Physical Education department's help they will be well-known soon.

Eduardo Del Risco is the only professional on the team. He has a 4 year contract with e club in Peru, and has already played ten years of his time.

Intramurals

By ART KENNEDY

Sports Writer

All good things must come to end. Phi Delta Theta does not believe in this, though. Last night the Phi Delts walloped the Lambda Chis down to walk off with the intramural-fraternity tennis doubles. And so far the Phi Delt boys have won every fraternity athletic event that has come along: football, track, tennis singles, tennis doubles, et al. Life seems rosy, indeed.

Right now the dormitory teams are fighting over tennis singles, tennis doubles, and golf matches. The fraternities are finishing up their golfing title.

Tomorrow at 4:30, the intramurals managers will meet to map out intramural activities for the rest of the year.

And on February 23, basketball games will be the sport that the dormitories and the Greeks will be gunning over.

Soccer-ites Meet Cadets Sunday In Foreign Version

Florida State's newly organized Soccer Team takes on the Bainbridge Air Cadets here this coming Sunday.

The Soccer team consists mostly Foreign Students, and they are hoping to upset the Cadets to avenge a three score loss to them several weekends ago.

European Soccer is very different from the kind of soccer we have America played in Physical Education Classes. Their differences are: 1) the U. S. has 9 men while the Europeans have 11, 2) the European ball is considerably heavier than the American type, 3) the European game is set off differently, having corner penalty zone formed as in lacrie rather than the U. S. six yeu-circle.

The team has positions just as the other team sport. They have two forwards, 3 halfs, 5 forwards and a goalie.

They are set up in positions on the field in this manner You goal is the center of the field. Right back and left back, Right half-center half-left half, Right Wing-Right Insider-Center forward-Left insider and Left Wing. The Wings and insiders are considered forwards.

The biggest problem now for FSU Soccer Team is the need of experienced soccer coach or manager. George Stumert, will appreciate any one that can understand the rules and have any ability whatsoever, to join at 20054 or contact him in the Florida Hall.

The field in which they play is the field behind the gym Annex. It is set to seat people by every day of a game. The players have no substitution system they have one player available to play, say a broken heel or something. They play 45 minute halves, with only 15 minutes rest in between.

The sport is very fast and requires very quick thinking. In fact and in Peru they draw as high as 26,000 people, more than most World Series games.

Here are the players, and the starting line up to date:

Eduardo Del Risco—center forward

Cornelius Van Dorp—center half

Seri Veijs3ren —right back

Hersyk Der Hovhannissian—left back

Michael Doran—right half

Sean McGlynn—left half

M. Shams Ahmee—right inside

Charles Vervenne—left inside

Norman Furth—goalie

Dr. Finch—right wing

Lawrence Zuber—left wing

FSU Squads Fall Victims Of Jax Navy

JACKSONVILLE — Florida State's freshmen basketballers and varsity volleyball team fell at the hands of Jacksonville Navy outfits here last night (last week).

The Husky Seminole cagers bowed, 75-72, after leading virtually all the way. They held 19 point leads at the end of the second and third quarters but could not survive the Navy's last-minute rally. Don Alford and Bob Williams led the Tribe with 23 and 17 points. Jax Navy's Grobee had 22.

It took four matches for Jax Navy volleyballers to win three decisions and drop PSU. The Navy crew won the first two, 16-13 and 15-6, before losing the next to PSU in the best, 15-13 Navy took the deciding match, 13-6.

Gene Lewis was high-pointer for the winners. Howard Gould sparked the Seminoles.

Coach Bill Odenkal noted that PSU's passing and blocking was "off" and said his team made a lot of mistakes. FSU's volleyball record for the season stands at 4-4. The Seminoles next faces an Albany, Ga., YMCA team in Tallahassee tomorrow night (Saturday night).

FSU	Jax. Navy
Alford 8 6 23	Ford 2 2 6
Twomey 2 4 8	Layne 2 3 11
Williams 6 5 17	Roberts 1 0 2
Roth 1 0 2	Cassidy 1 0 2
Gould 4 1 9	Grobee 8 6 22
Ward 2 0 4	Johnson 2 0 4
Speed 1 0 2	Cook 0 0 0
TOTALS 26 16 75	TOTALS 19 11 72
FSU	20 32 50 72
NAVY	22 36 50 75

Free throws missed: FSU—Alford, Williams, Alford 2, Ward 2, Jacksonville Navy—Take 3, Layne 2, Roberts 2, Grobee.

Volleyballers Trounce Ga. YMCA Squad

Coach Bill Odenal's Florida State University Volleyball Team came from behind to defeat the Albany Ga. YMCA, here on Tuesday in the West Campus Gym.

The Seminoles dropped the first game, but went on to win three straight by the score of 16-13, 15-6, and 19-7 in an overtime.

All American Howard Gould set the pace by killing the ball every chance. Another standout was Ray Johnson, who by the way is from Albany.

PAY TALLY-HO DEBTS

A warning to campus organizations with delinquent Tally-Ho accounts was issued yesterday by Al Shuler, business manager of the PSU yearbook.

Shuler announced that unless these debts, some 30 in number, are collected by March 1, the name of the organization owing them will be turned over to the Student Organizations Committee.

RESTRING WITH ASHAWAY BRAIDED RACKET STRING

STANDS OUT in play
- Harder Smashes
- Better Cut and Spin

STANDS UP in your racket
- Resists Immune
- Lasting Liveliness

COSTS LESS than gut
APPROX. STRINGING COST: Pre-Packed Braid...$6.00 Multi-Ply Braid.....$5.00

At tennis shops and sporting goods stores.

ASHAWAY BRAIDED RACKET STRING Choice of the Champions

Seminoles Squash Miami 79-69 In Daring Final Plunge Saturday

Tech Piles Up Under Staters; Third Gym Win

The National Champion gymnast from Florida State tumble powerful Georgia Tech for their third straight dual meet success of the season.

Don Holder took firsts in the side horse, followed by Signorelli and Miles, and the High bar, where Miles pleased second with Bancroft third.

On the parallel bars, Pat Signorelli took the top spot, barely beating out Holder by one point. Taylor rallied for the third spot. Dick Miles lifted his way to win the flying rings, and teammates Taylor and Tanaka.

In tumbling, which is always one of the favorite events, Larry Weston walked away with the blue ribbon as Wallace, Elder, and Miles placed behind him. The trampoline event found jumping Jim Padgian taking first, Ireland placing second.

In the last event Don Holder took his third blue ribbon for the evening. He took the rope in 5.3 seconds. Miles was second with six seconds.

The final score was 86-26, in the Seminoles favor.

SUMMARIES

Side horse: 1—Holder, 152; 2—Signorelli, 211; 3—Miles, 256; 4—Carney (Tech), 296.

High bar: 1—Holder, 174; 2—Miles, 268; 3—Signorelli, 290; 4—Bender (Tech), 295.

Parallel bars: 1—Signorelli, 256; 2—Holder, 257; 3—Taylor, 264.

Flying rings: 1—Miles, 276; 2—Taylor, 286; 3—Tanaka, 295; 4—(Tech), 297.

Tumbling: 1—Weston, 205; 2—Wallace, 210; 3—Elder, 215; 4—Miles, 225.

Trampoline: 1—Padgian, 197; 2—Ireland 204 3—Smith (Tech), 215.

Rope climb: 1—Holder, 5.3; 2—Miles, 6.0; 3—Shell (GT), 8.10; 4—Tech.

Gridders Head Afield Today In 1st Practice

Scrimmage Needed At First Session; Grid Coach Asserts

After feasting on the training table for a whole week the Florida State Seminole football team takes to the practice field for their annual Spring practice today.

The Seminoles like all other teams in the National Collegiate Athletic Association, are limited to 20 practice sessions spread out over 36 days. The Seminoles won't waste any time buckling down to business.

Coach Bill Nugent said "because of the limited period a scrimmage has been ordered for the first day of practice—Tuesday."

FIFTEEN NEW-COMERS

Out of the expected 62 candidates, fifteen lineup new-comers will report to Coach Nugent. The fifteen have just enrolled this past week. There will be 27 returning letter men, to give the team some experience which will be very much needed.

"Quarterback is by far the most prominent position to be filled," Nugent said, "We're strongest up front, and except at ends and as far as depth is concerned, we have very little tested strength in the backfield. We have a lot of fine prospects, though."

BACK FROM LAST YEAR

Ends: Lettermen—Taylor, Leonard, Others—Pramuk, Hall, Walsh, Griffis, Kennedy.

Tackles: Lettermen — Makusiecki, Barker, Stark, Olsen, Others—Gibson, Hall.

Guards: Lettermen—Pacifico, Bates, J. Jacobs, Others—C. Jacobs, Steele, Parker.

Centers: Letterman — Crumbaugh, Others—Johnson — Gunn, Haddon, R. Green, Veth.

Quarterbacks: (3) Letterman — Cleary, Cox, Others—Bowden, Harper, Mendoza, Meeks.

Halfback: Letterman — Metts, Dehaan, Crabbe, C. Green Others — Davis, Swilley, Walker, Dolan, Others.

Fullback: Letterman — Grimsley, Hall, Others—Hall, Micciol, Pachenmayer.

Note: Eddy Johnson, FSU's utility player who interred at guard as a freshman and at end for the past two seasons, and Billy Bunch, a 185 lb. lettorman at guard, will get a look at tackle.

THE 15 NEW COMERS

Ends—Al Kerr, JC—Junior college graduate, HS—high school graduate; Ed Bennett, HS.

Tackles: R. Hudson (JC), Jackson, Miss., Larry Sizzo (HS), Jacksonville, Fla., James Thiele (H), Bradenton, Fla.

Guards: Charles Kyshlipher (JC), Dearlie, Ga., Richard McCall (HS), Miami, Fla., Robert Pachenmire (JC), Miami.

Guards—Frank Carter (HS), Lisbon, Ohio, Jerry Hall (HS), Miami, Fla., Ken Hinson (H), Live Oak, Fla.

Centers—Ed Kercher (S), Miami, Fla., Sherlon Blackmon (JC), Jacksonville.

Backs—James Cassidy (JC), Statesboro, Ga.

Halfbacks—James Beech (T), Deland, Fla., Lewis Jamison (HS), Miami.

Fullback—Gene Cox (JC), Lake City, Fla.

DIAGNOSIS: DE-ICER

(ACP)—You think you've got problems.

Consider the case of the decorative water fountain at Southern Methodist University.

It isn't run in the winter—it might freeze. And it isn't run in the summer—because there's a water shortage in town that time of year.

Last week the SMU student council voted unanimously to try to get that fountain flowing.

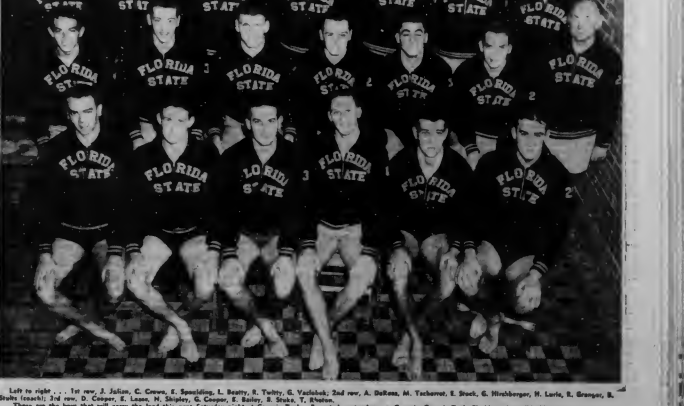
How are they going to do it? Easy. Use anti-freeze, and let it bubble all winter.

The deadly free throwing exhibition by the Florida State Seminoles in the last two minutes of Saturday's game stared off a red hot Miami Hurricane team to give the mythical state college basketball title to the F. S. U. team.

Leading the Hurricanes by the score of 52-13, at the end of the first quarter, the Seminoles lead seemed to disappear, as the Magic City crazed kid them all angles. By the end of the third quarter, the Hurricanes lead the ball game 56-53. Soon the Indians were on to the invaders little trick and Sophomore Dick Artmeier hit a free threw to put F. S. U. ahead.

The desperate Miami team tried in every way to get their hands on the ball, resulting in three fouls in quick succession. Rick Benson, Jim Gier and Artmeier made two free throws in each case. The Seminoles led at his free throw line, connecting on 32 of 39 attempts, while Miami hit for 21 out of 34.

This was F.S.U.'s eighth victory in ten games against state foes, a better record than any other Florida team. The largest crowd ever to witness a game this season was on hand to see the best game of the season played by the Seminoles.



Even with the hindrance of an unlikely automobile accident involving five top players, the hustling tribesmen, have raced to 111 victories already and have will play their last game here three more chances to increase the total.

Jim Gier's 26 points led the Seminoles, Benson and Wernke followed with 15 apiece. Both Artherburn and Denton of the Hurricanes scored 20 points.

F. S. U. will travel to Loyola Feb. the 13, then to Ga Teech-nia the 17th of the month. They

Artmeier	4	3	11	Schiavoni	3
Benson	6	3	15	Wernke	6
Brown	3	1	7	Price	2
Gier	7	12	26	Artherburn	8
Hurst	1	1	3	Denton	8
Burns	2	1	5	Whitefield	0
Price	0	0	0	Hall	0
Weidhofer	0	0	0	Wood	0
Gordon	0	0	0	Carson	1
Totals	23	32	78	Totals	24
FSU					23
MIAMI					11

Free throws missed. FSU—Artmeier, Benson 1, Gier 1, Wernke 0; Miami—Schiavoni 3, Klima, Price 3, Artherburn 3, Denton 4, Sewell.

Left to right . . . 1st row, J. Julian, C. Cowen, E. Spaulding, L. Beatty, R. Tuttty, G. Vasilakos; 2nd row, A. DeRoss, M. Tachavrot, E. Stock, G. Hirshberger, H. Lurie, R. Granger, S. Stules (coach); 3rd row, D. Cooper, E. Lazar, N. Shipley, G. Cowper, E. Bailey, S. Stules, T. Rhodes.

Those are the boys that will carry the load this next Saturday night at Georgia Tech. Expected contenders are Georgia, Georgia Tech, Florida and possibly Miami.

QUESTIONS and ANSWERS about SANITONE

our better dry cleaning that gets out All the Dirt!

Q. CAN YOU REALLY GET OUT STUBBORN SPOTS?

A. Yes, our skilled spotters know how to treat unusual stains and special fabrics.

Q. WILL PERSPIRATION ODORS DISAPPEAR?

A. Yes, all perspiration stains and odors are removed, and garments are restored "daisy-fresh" every time.

Q. WILL THERE BE A STALE CLEANING ODOR?

A. Never! Clothes are always returned fresh and clean!

Q. WHY DOES THE PRESS LAST LONGER?

A. Because Sanitone Service is "over-service." Our operators are carefully trained to press clothes properly.

Q. DOES IT COST MORE THAN ORDINARY DRY CLEANING?

A. Not when you discover Sanitone is the complete service that guarantees satisfaction every time.

SANITONE

Exclusively Ours In Tallahassee

SUPERIOR CLEANERS

204 S. Monroe St. Phone 2-8652

IT'S ALL A MATTER OF TASTE

I've tried so many cigarettes, all brands from A to Z— But nothing beats that better taste It's Lucky Strike for me!

Charlene Bernstein State University of Iowa

If you're the kind of guy that hates to see his money wasted Here's a tip that goes for doughty Luckies by this carton!

Allison Danzig Cornell

When you come right down to it, you smoke for one simple reason . . . enjoyment. And smoking enjoyment is all a matter of taste. Yes, taste is what counts in a cigarette. And Luckies taste better.

Two facts explain why Luckies taste better first: L.S.M.F.T — Lucky Strike means fine tobacco . . . light, mild, good-tasting tobacco. Second, Luckies are actually made better to taste better . . . sworn round, firm, fully packed to draw freely and smoke evenly.

So, for the enjoyment you get from better taste, and only from better taste, Be Happy—Go Lucky. Get a pack or a carton of better-tasting Luckies today.

L.S./M.F.T. — LUCKY STRIKE

Where's your jingle?

It's easier than you think to make $25 by writing a Lucky Strike jingle like three you see in this ad. Yes, we need jingles —and we pay $25 for every one we use! So send as many as you like to Happy-Go-Lucky, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y.

In all the campus coffee shops where students congregate, You'll hear enthusiastic shouting "Lucky Strike—they taste grand!"

Kenneth Miller Johns Hopkins University

LUCKY STRIKE

CIGARETTES

"LUCKIES"

DOPR., THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER CLEANER, FRESHER, SMOOTHER!

Calendar Of Events

TODAY, FEBRUARY 9

12:00 noon. Biochemistry Seminar. David Dever, "Lithopeterins." 306 or 124 Science.

12:30 p.m. English Dutch Luncheon. Reports of Professional Meetings. Dining Room.

1:00 p.m. Ully Panhellenic annual Valentine Luncheon. Miss Katherine Warren, FSU Dean of Women will be the speaker. Suwannee Room.

4:00 p.m. Meteorology Seminar. Dr. N. E. Ledeur, "Papers Presented at the New York meeting of the American Meteorological Society." 124 Science.

4:30 p.m. Gamma Alpha Chi (Women's Advertising Honorary) Tea. Small Lounge, Longmire.

7:00 Meeting of a new Journalism club for any men or women who are interested in the subject. First meeting will be held in room 466 Lonergan building.

7:30 American Studies Lecture. Dr. William Kendel, "Is There an American Civilization?" 217 Music.

7:30 p.m. Film Previews. "Painter Painting Methods," "Special to Miss Foster by Frank Farmer-Fisherman," "Frontier Farmers of Alaska." Trophy Room, Student Center.

TOMORROW, FEBRUARY 10

5:05 p.m. Faculty Senate. Longmire Auditorium.

5:00-6:00 p.m. Alpha Delta Sigma initiation. Small Lounge, Longmire.

7:00 p.m. ACE meeting. Longmire Auditorium.

8:00 p.m. Dames Club Fashion Show, with Harriett the Hair Stylist and Bertha Cooke. Large Lounge, Longmire.

8:00 p.m. Alpha Delta Sigma and Kappa Delta Phi sponsor a film, "A New Era in Printing." Thomas Martin, Mgr. Southern Bell Telephone Co. There are also invited to attend the film. Student Lounge, Longmire.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 11

2:30-4:30 Social Welfare Supervisors Meeting. Small Lounge, Longmire.

5:00 p.m. Alpha Delta Sigma "Quantitative Studies on Sodium Succinate in the Dog," by Dr. Ines Greene. 414 History.

5:00 p.m. Biological Class Dutch Luncheon. Dr. Milton Carothers will be the speaker. South Smith.

6:45 p.m. Physics Seminar. Dr. Hans Bethe, "X-ray from Multi-Muonic Atoms."

6:30 p.m. Phi Delta Kappa dinner meeting. "X-ray from Multi-Muonic Atoms."

7:30 p.m. PTA Valentine Party Club Room. Lonmire.

8:00 p.m. Lecture on Christian Science. Arthur C. Whitney of the Christian Science Board of First Church of Christ, Scientist Boston, Mass. Sponsored by the Christian Science Organization. Longuire. Auditorium

8:00 p.m. Book Meetings in Women's Residence Halls.

Judges Award Coveted Crown To FSU Miss

Miss Barbara Foster, an 18-year-old Florida State University freshman, won the coveted "Jeanie With the Light Brown Hair" Crown at the annual Stephen Foster Ball on White Springs resi-

Miss Foster, a member of University singers, had a leading role in Die Flandermaus. She told reporters that she was not related to Stephen Foster.

A group or distinguished judges headed by A. Walter Kramer, a representative of the American Society of Composers and Publishers, unanimously selected the Tampa Miss as the winner on the basis of her soprano voice as well as her beauty.

As all expense paid trip to New York to appear as guest soloist on the Band of America's national broadcast was presented to Miss Foster by Frank Farmer, noted conductor. Mr. Lavalle, who wirecued the contest said Miss Foster's appearance would be scheduled for some time in the next few weeks.

A $350 scholarship was also presented to Miss Foster. This was given by the famil pof the late Morrison Foster, who was Stephen Foster's brother.

Four of the 14 entries in the contest were selected to serve in Miss Foster's court. They were: Jeanene Godwin, 17, a pianist from Hawthorne; Betty Sue Grady, 18, a soprano from Quincy; Joy Elmabeth Woods, a pianist from Winter Haven; and Dale Hall.

Miss Delano Driver, an FSU junior, was also a contestant. Miss Driver was Pinellas County's entry.

Coordinator Gives Students Advice; Problem Solutions

By PAT FLYNN

Freshmen at Florida State University get acquainted with their newly primarily Coordinator of Office of Coordinator of Student Welfare, located in Westcott.

This title is as complicated as the matters handled here. Dr. Commodore, located in Westcott, and Miss Hilda Tinsley, assistant, have already begun orientation plans for next year. Also work is continuing to help undecided upperclassmen choose a major field. Last spring there were 216 undecided, now there are 84.

The greatest task undertaken is to advise freshmen. Freshmen are kept on each student from the time he enters the university, until graduation. Freshmen are assigned counselors to aid them with any problems which might arise. If there is such difficulty in speech, reading, or English, advice is given and a recommendation is made to see them. a special clinic in that work on campus.

Each school in the university has an upperclassman counselor, and the office of coordination supervises all such activity. Although there is no difficulty in directly or indirectly goes through the office of coordination.

Studies on the adjustment of foreign students have been made, and one is being conducted now on the adjustment of social welfare majors.

All of these various activities are carried on so that each student may be better adjusted and more successful in college.

Church News

John M. Swomley, Jr., acting national secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, will be guest speaker at the Methodist Student House, February 12. Eleven students and faculty members will hear him speak on "Alternatives in Reconciliation." Mr. Swomley was formerly vice-president on the National Council of the Methodist Youth and is minister of the Methodist Church. For over six years he has been actively associated with labor in its struggle for full against universal military training, serving as director of the National Council Against Conscription.

"America, Russia, and the Bomb," "The Road to War," and numerous pamphlets on disarmament, militarism and war are some of the articles that the minister has written.

In the summer of 1950 Mr. Swomley traveled for several months in Europe studying social problems in various countries and went to the Middle East for a study of tensions there. In 1952, after speaking in the British Isles he visited Spain and Algiers.

Last year he toured Spain and Germany.

CHANGE IN THEOLOGY HOUR AT WESTMINSTER HOUSE

Beginning on Thursday, February 11th, the Theology Hour at Westminster House will meet at five p.m. instead of six. This change will be made in order to enable those students who eat at sorority and fraternity houses to attend the discussion group.

Dr W T. Martin pastor of the First Presbyterian Church will come to the House for conferences at four-thirty each Thursday with the students. Theology Hour will be held promptly at 5:00 and is the main meeting.

All wishing to eat supper at Westminster following this program are asked to sign up at the house by Thursday at noon

Mid-year initiation for the Westminster Fellowship will be held on Saturday, February 13 at 9:00. All Presbyterian students are invited to attend all or part of this retreat.

CANTERBURY CLUB NEWS

The Eucharist at the Trinity for 1954-55 and the St. Catherine's Guild took place at the 11:00 a.m. Morning Prayer service at Ruze Hall last Sunday. The Vestry for the coming year is composed of: President, John Cooper; Vice-President, Helen Whitemore; Secretary, Nancy Wakefield; and Vestry Jen-at-Large, Charlotte Frank, John Ware, Ann Vick, and Jack Watson. Margaret Nash was installed as the President of the St. Catherine's Guild. The other members of the Guild who were installed Sunday evening are Brown, Palch Williams, Patty Andrews and Lucille Turnage.

Father Edwin Church, Choir Director, announced Sunday that the Choir will not practice at the usual time on Thursday evening, but that this week's practice will be held at 7:00 at 8:00 p.m on Wednesday night. Anyone who is interested in singing in the Choir is invited to come.

John Cooper, President of the Vestry, announced that the first meeting of the Vestry will take place Thursday evening following the 10:00 p.m. Compline service.

There will be a meeting of the Study Groun this week from 8:00 to 9:00 p.m. Wednesday evening. All interested persons are invited to attend. The subject being used for study this year is the Book of Common Prayer.

Studies Center To Be Set-Up For Japanese

URBANA, Ill. (I.P.)—An American Studies Center is to be established in Kyoto, Japan, by the University of Illinois and two Japanese universities with funds provided by the Rockefeller Foundation. It will be the first such to offer courses for native undergraduates as well as seniors for advanced study.

Taking part in the project are Kyoto University, a national university, and Doshisha University, a private school in the same city. The center will have three objects: promote the study of American subject matter by Japanese undergraduates, develop interest in American studies by other Japanese universities, particularly in Western Japan; and promote research in American studies by Japanese scholars.

Director Royden Dangerfield of the Institute of Government and Public Affairs at the University of Illinois has been named by Prof. Hemmig Large, provost, as chairman of the committee to administer the program. The center in Japan will begin activities in February. It will be directed by an American professor selected by Illinois and appointed a member of its staff with salary from Rockefeller funds. Two will be appointed annually, each for seven months with terms overlapping so both will be in Japan during the university summer session.

RISKY TO BE RISQUE

(ACP) — Publication of Soft, humor magazine at the University of Wyoming, has been stopped by the university board of trustees. The trustees said the jokes were too off-color.

The magazine can continue to publish only so long as it is an university-sponsored. Several college magazines are operating without subsidization, but Sunshine Shack just gotten in the black after four years of deficits, decided yet whether or not to try to come out without university aid.

Try Quality Dry Cleaners For Expert

★ Special 1 Day Service

Pressing Repairing Altering

Pickup or delivery

Call 2-5097 215 W. College

Where Can You Get Such Specials All Week But At...

TUES:
Juicy Broiled
Filet Mignon
French Fries
Chef's Salad $1.00

THURS:
Spaghetti with Cheese
Salad
Lemon Cream Pie .95

FRI:
Whole Broiled
Lobster
Drawn Butter
Chef's Salad $1.25

SAT:
Golden Fried
Half Chicken
French Fries $1.00

SUN:
Delicious
Roast Turkey
Dressing
Cranberries $1.00

Seven Seas

NYU Head Explains Prohibition Of Fraternity Discriminatory Clauses

ALBANY, N. Y. (I.P.)—In a statement elaborating upon the action of the Board of Trustees of the State University of New York prohibiting discriminatory practices of national ties at social organizations in State-operated units of the University, President William S. Carlson explained that the national organizations representing Sigma Alpha Sigma, Alpha Sigma Alpha Corelland, the two sorority chapters at the Teachers Colleges have been suspended, and similar action at the Albany College of Teachers Rho fraternity at the College ers all 62 members resigned in extra curricular programs interdashed with the administration tune to such a degree in educa-policy, said Dr. Carlson. tional opportunities as they of the colleges and the State Uni- "One of the pillars upon versity now drawing students of which the State University of Negro and Jewish students. New York was founded is that

Dr. Carlson declared that national representatives of these groups had tried to enforce "discrimination in the selection of their members against the wishes of State University students in the chapters." In some cases, he added, this was despite contrary statements in the organizations' own constitution. At the same time, condone these practices among the exclusive organizations which it recognizes. The academic and they cannot be severed and each affected by contradictory standards."

Mainstays Again Dominate The Top In 1953's Best Vocal Recordings

By DAVID DREIS

The past year showed an upheaval in the music industry with former hit-makers again riding heap.

The crest of the top tuner and newcomers bouncing out with a hit record.

Last January, Joni James was the last becomine one of the nation's top female vocalists. In her first attempt for MGM records she came out on the short end of the sales. On the second, she was number one with "Why Don't" and You Believe Me" rating the top spot. Perry Como was holding on to her position with "Don't Let His Stars Get In Your Eyes."

Teresa Brewer had hit one or twice before with selling records, but she switched to Coral her discs just didn't seem to catch on. Finally, one song did, kept moving up and in February it pushed all others out of the way with "Till I Waltz Again With You." Jo Stafford kept her top position as No. 1 female vocalist of the previous year with "Keep It A Secret."

In March, for month's and took hold and Patti Page wasted little the 10 moves with Doctor ran them in the Window." Kay Starr followed quickly with a multiple-million recording of "Side By Side" but it couldn't push Patti off the top.

In April, Nat King Cole kept a himself in the picture by scoring with "Pretend." Eileen Barton who's only No. 1 was "If I Knew You Were Comin' I'd Baked A Cake" came out with her arrangement of the song, but Nat's many followers wouldn't let her through. Joni James succeeded with "Why Don't" and pushed the tune to the top with a double-barrelled arrangement of a hillbilly ditty "Your Cheatin' Heart."

May was strictly for instrumentals with three dividing top honors, "The Song From Moulin Rouge" burst out following the film with the top disc being that of Percy Faith and Felicia Sanders, Les Baxter popped up with "Unchained Melody" but "Ruby" Gol Richard Hayman was making his big push as the background music at the film, "Ruby Gentry."

June was the month for Frankie Laine and Eddie Fisher Jane Froman had waged "I Believe" first, but it was Frankie's arrangement which made the big three. Eddie Fisher scored his first hit of the year with "I'm Walking Behind You," snaring the number one spot. "Downhearted" and "How Do You Speak To An Angel" by Fisher also were top songs, but couldn't push any tunes out of their firm positions.

The best disc of the year was released in July as Les Paul and Mary Ford returned to the recordings with "Vaya Con Dios." Nothing could get in the way of this one for July or August although other positions were being shuffled around with Perry Como's "No Other Love" and the Ames Brothers scoring on their first RCA disc since Crosswitch from Coral. "You, You, You."

The religious tune had come into its own in the last months but nothing to compare to September's "Crying in the Chapel" by Jane Valli. Per Wee Hunt was away a long time before "O."

October was "Dranuet" month with Ray Anthony playing the Dragnet Video score and Stan Freeman waxing "St. George and the Dragnet." Eddie Fisher came back again with "Many Times."

November, Art Godfrey fired Julius LaRosa and "Eh, Cumpari" soared to the top. Tony Bennett double-headed with "Rags To Riches" and "Stranger In Paradise."

Last December Patti Page rode the skyrine with "Changing Partners' and Perry Como tenored sales of "Papa-Loves-Mama." Now It's January and the big song is "Oh, My Papa" with that Fisher grin again.

In between these big songs, the Hilltoppers came through with three mild hits. "P. S. I Love You" I'd Rather Die Young" and "Love Walked In."

Publication Deals With New Attacks Against Cold War

"Challenges to Librarianship," a Florida State University Studies publication dealing with what means library science has at its disposal in the fight against totalitarianism, is now on sale.

The University Bookstore is sold out of the white, paperbound volumes, it has been noted. They take up less room than from overseas, are pilling up a reserve in many storerooms.

The central idea, as expressed by Dr. Louis Shores, dean of the Library School is, "The cold war is being fought with ideas, and how are we going to get the ideas which express our way of life to the people on the fringe of the Iron and Bamboo curtains?"

Nine essays appear in the publication each considering a different way to fight the cold war. They take up such topics as information programs, methods of speeding research, microphotography as a matter of organizing information more effectively for use, use of audio-visual media; how to get the truth about the American heritage out to the world, and other factors.

Travel Offered To Tour Europe At Small Expense

Want to travel to Europe this summer at a minimum cost? Here's one opportunity offered to students and teachers.

The one-class ship CASTLE FELICE, offers the chance to a limited number of students and teachers to travel to and from Europe without cost in serving on the executive and recreational staff of the 1954 student sailing.

Duties of the staff include assistance with the program of lectures and discussions about the European countries and problems of the educational tourist, language classes, the newspaper and library; and supervision of the deck games, swimming, talent shows, dances, mailing pictures and shipboard discipline.

Americans and Europeans who have been studying or teaching in the United States who wish to make a visit write to the CASTLE FELICE Staff Council Study Abroad Inc., 250 West 57th Street, New York 19, N Y.

Students with the qualifications to assist in recreation on the shipboard might be interviewed. Others who are qualified to help in the language classes, newspaper and library, have an excellent opportunity in the Study Abroad Inc., plans.

The liner has many of the luxurious features not usually found on student ships: an entire deck of public rooms and lounges, an entire upperdeck of dining rooms with complete table service, a built-in tiled swimming pool, ample covered deck space, seven decks, and can comfortably accommodate approximately 1,000 passengers.

The CASTLE FELICE will sail for Havre, Southampton and Bremerhaven June 4 from Quebec and June 30 from New York. the return voyages are scheduled from Europe August 6 for Canada and August 23 for New York. Minimum fares are $130 each way from or to Quebec and $140 from or to New York.

Anyone interested for further information may contact Jasleen Robertson at the Flambeau office.

BERTIE JOONS JOE

(ACP) — Canadian students have found a substitute for panty-raiding.

A month ago University of Toronto students—dressed in Ku Klux Klan robes, and shouting "Burn Out for Jesus"—marched and burned Sen Joseph McCarthy in effigy.

Now more irate students at the University of British Columbia have undertaken anti-book burning. The stump up, in effigy, Colliers magazine editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, McCormick's dummy was stuffed with copies of the Tribune's paper and hung before being set ablaze.

The burning was a protest against the Tribune's recent attacks on Lester B. Pearson, Canadian Minister of External Affairs.

Pitcher Frank Sullivan, Boston Red Sox rookie up from Albany, of the Eastern League, is 6-6½ and weighs 215.

FLORIDA
Today
"The Cruel Sea"
—t—
Wed. Thru Sat.
"The Eddie Cantor Story"
Keefe Brasselle
Marilyn Erskine

STATE
Today and Wed.
"Ruby Gentry"
Jennifer Jones
Karl Malden
Charlton Heston
—t—
Thurs. thru Sat.
"Broken Arrow"
Also
"Marshal of Cedar Rock"

FLORIDA DRIVE-IN THEATRE
Today and Wed.
"She's Working Her Way Through College"
Virginia Mayo
Gene Nelson
—t—
Thurs. thru Sat.
"Shark River"
Also
"The Steel Lady"

STATE
Today
"Wings of the Hawk"
Van Heflin
Julia Adams
—t—
Tomorrow thru Wed.
"Hondo"
John Wayne

When you pause...make it count...have a Coke.

DRINK Coca-Cola

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY TALLAHASSEE COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY
"Coke" is a registered trade mark.
© 1953, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Patronize Our Advertisers

Tulip Top . . .

A blooming beauty that proves to frequent-flyers: cording persuades the slimmest waist-to-hip lines . . . effects fabulous treatment at bra line. Bra is lined with Pellon, the miracle fabric that melts you, shapes you exactly how you'd like . . . and no bones about it! For more curve-allure, bra lining is open for "Accents," Fantasy's water-resistant bust pads. Free-action patented inner panty gives all the comfort and fit in the world . . . for swimming or play. All done in Sun Taffeta . . . that bright fabric allliance of Acetate and Laton . . . "Worshfast" dyed for color permanency . . . 8 beach-worthy colors. 9-15 14.95.

Free Chance to Win This Lovely 21 Jewel 14-K Gold Bulova Wrist Watch Value $95—with the Purchase of One Jantzen Swimsuit at

Steyerman's

THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE FOR QUALITY

Hall of Fame
Selects 10 Seniors
See Page 1

The Florida Flambeau

Columnist Says
He Loves 'Millie'
See Page 2

VOL. XL, No. 29 — PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA ST ATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA — Friday, February 12, 1954

Ten To Receive Hall of Fame's Highest Honors

Plaque Will Name Five Men, Women Chosen By Juniors

The names of ten seniors, chosen for the 1953-54 Florida State University Hall of Fame were released today.

Five men and five women have been accorded the school's highest honor for "outstanding participation and citizenship in campus activities." With a few of their contributions, they are:

June Conyers: Vice-president in charge of Women's Affairs, Secretary of Honor, Homecoming Queen's Court

Connie Gola: Secretary of the Senate, President of Cotillion, President of Jennie Murphree

Beverly Lacayo; Secretary of Forums, Flambeau Columnist, Varsity debater

Yvonne McCarthy: Chairman of Women's Judiciary

Judy Simpkins: Secretary of State, junior senator

Milton Carothers: President of the Student Body, Vice-president Omicron Delta Kappa

Bruce Galphin: Editor of the Flambeau, Phi Beta Kappa, Vice-president of Omicron Delta Kappa

Dick Gutting: NCAA and AAU Trampoline champion, Career Day Master of Ceremonies

Gene Lawler: Vice-president in charge of Legislative Affairs, Flambeau columnist, Omicron Delta Kappa

Kivne Nowlin: Chief Justice of the Traffic Court, Varsity athletics, Omicron Delta Kappa

The Hall of Fame is intended as the highest honor to be bestowed upon a senior who has exemplified the ideals of leadership scholarship and service.

He or she must have rendered outstanding leadership in the fields of scholarship, politics, organizations, publications, athletics, the dramatic and speech arts, music and University functions.

The ten seniors so honored have gained recognition in at least two "major" and one "minor" fields.

They were chosen by a committee of juniors appointed by the President of the Student Body and automatically headed by Dave Collins, President of the Junior class.

Its members were Junior Senator Charis Coulter, representing the Senate, Justice Betty Ann Munroe representing the Courts, Liz Vana from student organizations, Smoke Signals editor John Howard from publications, and Attorney-General Pete Nimkoff representing the Cabinet.

Dean of Women Katherine

(Continued on Page 4)

Museum Curator Designs Interesting Display; Traces Florida Indians From Distant Past

By BOB GUTTING

Contrary to popular belief, the first Florida tourists were not the Seminole Indians. This fact is brought out in the current display at the University Museum, titled, The First Floridians.

The attractive display, designed and created by Tiazo Miake, Museum Curator, and James Van Eirmen, graduate assistant, traces the history of the Florida Indians during the past 15,000 years.

The versatile Seminole warriors did not appear on the Florida scene until somewhere around 1700, long after the first tourists from the north were well established.

The display traces the arrival of the first Indians from Asia via the Bering Strait and their eventual migration southward and eastward until they arrived in Florida, probably 15,000 years ago.

Spears and throwing sticks which scientists believe the Indians used to hunt mastodons, animals now extinct, are a part of the exhibit.

Although not very much is known about these peoples at the present time, it appears that the earliest peoples lived for the most part along the coast and waterways of Florida. The use of the dugout canoe was the easiest way to travel on their food-collecting expeditions.

The sites of old Indian villages, temple mounds, burial mounds, and other features are sometimes hard to find today. Having been deserted for so many years, nature has again taken over and covered most of them with shrubs and trees.

The building of modern towns has destroyed some of these places. Cities like Jacksonville, St. Augustine, Daytona, Miami and Tampa all were once occupied by prehistoric peoples.

The most obvious remains of the Florida groups are the high shell mounds that can be noted along the coast. Shells from these mounds are exhibited. The mounds grew due to the accumulation of waste from the daily meals.

The shells and bones from meals were thrown to one side of the house and little by little the mounds began to rise, sometimes attaining a height of 35 feet or more. When the waste began to crowd the house, these prehistoric peoples simply moved.

When the Spanish first came to Florida they found four strong tribes present. They were the Timuca who lived along the east Atlantic coast, the Appalachee Indians who covered an area from the Aucilla on the west coast, past the Tallahassee area; the Calusia who controlled the western Gulf coast area; and various groups of Indians in the glades including the Tequesta of the Miami region.

The Department of Anthropology and Archaeology at Florida State University is now doing active research on the prehistoric remains of the Florida Indians as is the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at the University of Florida.

Ten years ago, virtually nothing was known of the prehistoric Indians of Florida but due to the work of the two state institutions, the current exhibit is historically valuable as well as interesting.

Carothers Calls For Ratification Of New SUSGA

In a speech to the Student Senate Tuesday afternoon, Student Body President Milton Carothers recommended that the Senate ratify the constitution of the Southern Universities Student Government Association.

"It is my opinion that this will be one of the most useful steps that this Senate will be called on to make," commented Carothers. "This association is not anti-any other organization but has a positive, not a negative, motive," continued Carothers.

He declared that SUSGA would most adequately meet the needs of the Southern universities who have been invited to join. According to its constitution, he commented, SUSGA will be ratified when five of the invited schools pass on its constitution.

The schools invited, he noted, include FSU, University of Florida, Emory University, Ga. Tech, Auburn, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina South Carolina, Vanderbilt, Stetson, Virginia, Tulane, Washington and Lee, Mississippi State and Tulane.

After praising this year's student government and declaring that it has "gained more respect than in any other year," Carothers made a number of recommendations to the Senate."

The Student Body President recommended the Senate present a voluntary health insurance plan to the Student Body. "I feel the policy should cover all students at all times during their academic year for all types of accidents." He further recommended the cost be kept to ten or fifteen dollars a year

Carothers urged the Senate to give the proposed Student Body Constitution "careful consideration" when it is received from the Faculty Committee on Student Affairs.

Carothers pointed out the provision for a summer student government and suggested that portion of the constitution be given "considerable time." He also singled out as worthy of careful study the section on finance.

Carothers asked that the proposed constitution be changed to abolish the office of Secretary of Forums and the duties of that office be given to the Secretary-of-State. This suggestion, Carothers pointed out, was that of the now-graduated forums secretary, Beverly Lacayo. Carothers also advocated establishing an under-secretary of state.

In addition, he gave attention to student budget problems, noting that many student organizations must be encouraged to submit their budgets on time to the Student Budget Committee.

"When the budgets of the various organizations are presented to the Senate," commented Carothers, "I think that they should be carefully reviewed, especially regarding the matter of student salaries."

NEED PUGH

"We would appreciate if students would please sell their Pugh's Guide to Research Writing at half price," states University Bookstore officials.

Reason for this demand is the book is needed on the Seminole Campus. The Bookstore is completely sold out.

This is a fountain? . . . . It sure is—or will be. Shown in construction is the decorative prop to be used in this month's all-student production "Panorama", slated at run from the 17th to 20th in Opperman Music Hall.

Senate Proposes Annual Football With Gainesville

Gaster Asks That Students Be Placed On Committees

The Student Body Senate topped off a heavy agenda Tuesday afternoon by requesting student representation on faculty committees and a football game with the University of Florida by 1955.

Senator Gordon Gaster moved to request Senate President to ask the president of the university that students be placed on faculty committees making policies "directly affecting" the student body.

When asked for an example Gaster referred to the committee which draws up the schedule of class days. The measure was questioned by Sen. Coyle Moore, who asked if it were necessary to include all committees Gaster replied that such a provision would take care of special issues and special committees. His motion was passed unanimously.

Sen. Coyle Moore introduced a resolution expressing the thanks of the student body for the Board of Control's recent statement in favor of athletic competition with the University of Florida, and furthermore requesting that football rivalry begin "not later than 1955."

Senator Gaster attempted to have a further statement added to the resolution, asking that race track scholarship money be evenly divided between the state universities, but Vice-President Roy Chapman moved the previous question before Gaster could elaborate on his proposition.

Moore's resolution was passed unanimously.

Senators Gaster and Charis Coulter reported that the only break between now and Easter could be gotten only by cutting a day from the Easter vacation and adding it to the weekend of March 11. Senate sentiment was in opposition to this proposal.

Sen. Phoebe Jackson then moved to recommend that the Easter holidays remain the same and that the Senate still endorse an additional holiday. Her motion was passed unanimously.

Two appointments by President Carothers were approved. Kitty Peacock was confirmed as a member of the Honor Court, replacing Mary Louthan. Duane Gordon will replace Roy Chapman as senior Senator. Chapman was elected vice-president in charge of Men's Affairs by the Men's Senate recently.

Sen. Joan Halford, noting the results of her committee's investigations of the University Bookstore, announced her committee will investigate the Bookstore's announcement that faculty members will be given ten per cent discount on books and school supplies.

Vice-President Chapman read the report of his Flambeau investigation committee, clearing the Flambeau of "grounds for impeachment." His motion to accept the report was passed unanimously.

Sen. C. Moore, in a committee report, suggested three methods of electing candidates for multiple offices. He suggested either electing them by a plurality vote, by a group system, or by electing representatives from districts.

Senator Halford announced the possibility of having the field experience class of the school of business type Senate debates from tape recordings for use by groups including the Flambeau. She requestde a two-week trial program of her proposal, which was granted.

Signals Plans Story Contest For Third Year

Editor John Howard of Smoke Signals, today announced the third annual literary contest. Sponsored by the humor magazine, the contest annually awards a cup to the winner.

Editor Howard revealed the appointment of Managing Editor Margaret Horrox as general chairman of the contest. "Margaret will select the staff of judges and make any other necessary rules," he added.

The entries, due in Longmire before midnight, on March 15, must be short stories of not less than 300 words or not exceeding 1,500 words, Howard said.

Of either literary, humorous, fictional or historical content, the stories must be submitted typed and double-spaced.

Last year's literary award cup went to Warren Cobb. Under present rules on the succession of winners, previous winners are ineligible for first prize. Smoke Signals will highlight the winner in its last issue of the current year.

'Faith Week' Will Feature Nine Outstanding Speakers

A series of addresses, said to be the most outstanding inter-denominational event of the winter season in Florida, will be presented here during Intelligente Faith Week Feb. 21-28 by the Florida chain of Missionary Assemblies.

This organization, which functions through a local committee, brings speakers from around the globe who represent many denominations and tell of the work that the Christian Church is doing on the missionary level.

This year's program includes the Moderator of the oldest Evangelical Christian Church in the world, Pastor Achille Deodato, of the Waldensian Church of Italy.

The Waldensian Church sponsors the famous Agape, village of Christian love in the Alps. This church has followed the flow of Italian migration to the Americas, having many organizations in this country.

After graduating from Waldensian Seminary in Rome, Pastor Deodato went on a postgraduate scholarship to Edinburgh, Scotland, and while there held an assistant professorship, lecturing on Italian literature.

Miss Louise Woodford of St. Petersburg, State Director of the Chain of Missions for the past 24 years, who chooses the speakers, arranges the itineraries and organizes the local committees, also travels with the Ambassadors on their tour.

Church News

NEWMAN CLUB

The Newman Club weekend will be celebrated on Feb. 13 by a buffet supper and an informal dance at the House and on the 14th by a picnic at the Seminole Camp on Lake Bradford.

Voting is now in progress to elect a queen and her two attendants. Votes may be case at the Newman House until closing time this evening.

The buffet supper will begin at 7 p.m. on Saturday evening, followed by entertainment and dancing. Co-chairmen of the weekend are Pat Perez and Annette Straub, sophomores.

EPISCOPAL

John Cooper, newly elected president of the Ruge Hall Vestry, will preside at the dinner meeting of the Canterbury Club on Sunday evening at 6 p.m. at Ruge Hall. Slides showing the activities of the Episcopal Student Center and Chapel will be shown at this meeting. All Episcopal students on campus are automatically members of the Canterbury Club, which has no membership dues.

Services this Sunday at Ruge Hall will be Holy Communion at 8 a.m., and morning prayer, with choir and sermon at 11 a.m.

Chaplain Morley announces that confirmation instruction for students desiring to be confirmed in May has started this week. Appointments for instruction may be made to fit the individual student. Other students interested may make arrangements by calling the chaplain at Ruge Hall.

The Ruge Hall Vestry at its first meeting considered recommendations to fill vacancies on the Canterbury Council. These recommendations will soon be submitted to the Canterbury Club for approval.

METHODIST

The pros and cons of universal military training will be discussed tonight at the Methodist Student House. The speaking program is to be carried by honor guest John H. Swomley, secretary of the Fellowship Reconciliation.

Swomley, noted for his vigorous stand against universal military training will speak during a coffee tonight at 8:30. His topics will concern world peace.

Recently appointed as perma-

(Continued on Page 3)

Journalists Elect Officers For Club

Warren Cobb was elected president of the newly formed journalism club, Sigma Theta. The organization, sponsored by the School of Journalism, ratified its new constitution.

Men and women students interested in journalism may attend the group meetings which provide cultural, social, and professional advantages. Jim Powell, of the Tampa Tribune, and H. G. Davis, local and out-of-town newspaper men, expressed keen interest in the club.

The goal of the group, according to spokesmen, is a possible chance of affiliation with Sigma Delta Chi and Theta Sigma Phi, professional journalism fraternities for men and women.

Annual Tarpon Water Show Starts Monday; Runs Week

The Tarpon Club will hold its annual show Monday through Saturday, Feb. 15-20 at the Women's Gym pool, beginning at 8:00 p.m., according to Ann Coreyll, publicity director. Seats may be reserved at the gym for the Friday and Saturday performances.

The show, to be called "Heavens Above," will consist of twelve numbers performed by members of the club. "Most of the numbers will be done as individual performances by Tarpon Club members and 'minnows,' or pledges to be initiated soon," she said.

"Two of the numbers will be duets,' she stated. "One will be by Lou Shrine, President of the club, and Dick Myers, and the other by Jan Eichinger and Nancy Wahner."

The Tarpon Club is a swimmers' organization at Florida State University.

Running Gives Piano Recital This Evening

A mixture of the traditional and the novel in concert music will be presented by pianist Joseph M. Running tonight at 8:15 in Opperman Music Hall, as another in the series of School of Music faculty recitals.

His program will open with compositions by Mozart, Schubert and Brahms. Following the intermission he will play rarely heard works by two Hungarian composers, Zoltan Kodaly, a contemporary, and Liszt.

He will play Mozart's "Rondo in D Major," Schubert's "Impromptu in G Flat," and Brahms' "Variations and Fugue on a Theme by Handel." The latter work, Running says, is one of his favorites.

The two selections by Kodaly are from the opera "Harry Janos." The first "Intermezzo," is based on an ancient Hungarian folk song, according to Running, and the latter, "Viennese Clock," represents music played on a mechanical clock.

Running will close his program with a Liszt sonata in the style of a fantasia, "After a Lecture on Dante."

This selection, commented the pianist, is not often played, but in his opinion it is "one of the great composer's biggest works for solo piano, probably ranking second only to Liszt's 'Sonata in B Minor' in scope."

Running, who has performed as a concert artist in many states, will accompany NBC baritone William Shriner at a Stetson University Artist Series concert Monday. He is scheduled to appear on the FSU "At the Piano" series February 27 on WMBR-TV, Jacksonville.

Survey To Show Educational Costs In Southern States

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (I.P.)—The South is about to get badly needed light on the question of how much money it will have to spend in order to have an adequate educational system during the next 13 years, according to an announcement by Dr. Rupert B. Vance, Kenan professor of sociology at the University of North Carolina, who is one of eight nationally distinguished educators who will conduct the study.

Known as the Education Lead Study, the project is under the direction of Dr. John K. Folger, on leave from his duties as chief of the Technical Services Division, Human Resources Research Institute, Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala. Plans for the study were formulated at a meeting of a nationally distinguished advisory commission held last fall in Atlanta, Ga.

Dr. Vance reported that the study will estimate the number of students the South will have at each school level from first grade through graduate school, year by year and state by state, from now until 1976. The 14 states from Maryland to Texas are included and estimates for the most distant future can be made as new data make them practicable, he said.

An estimate of the costs of educating the future school and university population of the region, which is expected to increase sharply, will be contained in the study, Dr. Vance explained. "One objective of the study," he said, "is to provide a basis for achieving effective cooperation among leaders of higher education and secondary school systems."

CLUB RECORDS

Arrangements have been made for storage facilities for organizations' records, according to the Counselor for Student Organizations.

According to Vogel, the purpose of these facilities is to provide a means for incoming officers to have information available to them concerning the club's activities of the previous year.

Education Field Scholarship Is For Students

"Competitive examinations to fill vacancies for General Scholarships for the Preparation of Teachers will be held in Tallahassee at Leon County High School," state officials. "Blanks which must be presented filled-out at the exam may be obtained from the Education State Scholarship office, Room 215, Education Building.

College students who have lived in Florida for a year and are enrolled in the school or division of education in their college are eligible. High school students who plan to prepare for careers in education may also compete.

Scholarships are worth $400 a year. In the event the number of scholarships available to a county is filled, a student is advised by the State Department of Education to take the examination on the assumption that there will be unused vacancies in other counties.

According to scholarship chairman Dr. S. T. Lastinger of FSU School of Education, "If a student plans to take the exam, he should be certain to have his application blank perfectly signed by his county superintendent of public instruction, or school principal and his parents.

Fill in all supporting information in order not to get caught in a last-minute rush.

News Briefs

SELECTIVE SERVICE

Students intending to take the Selective Service College Qualification Test should file application at once, Selective Service Headquarters announced today.

Information may be obtained at any local board. Applications must be postmarked no later than midnight, March 8, 1954. Results will be reported to student's Selective Service local board.

VVS INITIATE

The 35 girls selected in December on a basis of attractiveness, personality and poise as Village Vamps taps were initiated yesterday, according to Betty Ann Munroe, president.

Village Vamps, a service honorary that selects freshman girls, held the initiation at the Zeta Tau Alpha House.

PHI DELTA THETA

Eight new officers were elected recently for the Phi Delta Theta Social fraternity, with Steve Dailey being elected president.

Other officers include Bob Berto, vice-president; Dale Wienegard, secretary; Earl Long, chaplain; George Carnes, librarian; Tom Ehrhardt, house manager, and Sam Faulkner, steward.

Among the latest activities celebrated by the Phi Delts was an Arabian Nights Dance held February 6.

ARTS CONFERENCE

"Significant Forces Shaping Industrial Arts Education" is the theme of an Industrial Arts Conference being held here today and tomorrow.

Sponsored by the FSU arts education department, the conference will feature Dr. Gordon O. Wilbur as consultant. He will give addresses on "Industrial Arts Contributes to General Education" and "Industrial Arts in a Curriculum for a New Age."

Other speakers include A. B. Martin, Dr. T. Q. Srygley and L. A Vergason.

The groups will discuss "Improving Design Quality in Industrial Arts," "Developing Facilities and Activities for the General Shop Program," and "The Unique Role of the Industrial Arts in the Total School Program."

Representative Speaks Here On National Work Camps

By ELKE FRANK

What to do with a summer? To help student decide this, Miss Anne Queen, representative of the American Friends Service Committee is at Florida State University until tomorrow.

The service committee plans work and workshop programs here and abroad, divided into four different categories. Students interested in the program may plan to see Miss Queen while she is here by contacting Dr. Sam Neel, University Chaplain, for an appointment.

The four plans include work camps, for the most part in Europe and other foreign countries; workshops, only in the United States; industry-intern, closely affiliated with labor relations; and interning in mental hospitals.

The last two are money-earning plans, while the first two are mainly service and educational, with a nominal cost involved for room, board and transportation.

Services rendered by the Friends committee were discussed recently at a meeting for planners of Intelligent Faith Week. Among those present was Dr. Raymond K. Sheline of the chemistry department, who has spent several summers in Europe under one of these plans. Said Sheline, "If I ever be asked to give a commencement speech, I would urge each one of the graduates to spend one year in a work camp."

It is the opinion of Sheline that the experience gained in a work camp is most worthwhile. Sheline expressed the hope of directing a camp himself some day.

The work camp program deals with cooperative services in such countries as Mexico, Alaska, Japan, Guatemala, the United States, and in Europe. The only costs involved are living expenses. The work periods are interspersed with the value of a vacation abroad, including tours.

The workshops, held only in the United States, consist mainly of discussion groups. Religious, political and social leaders are often speakers at these conferences.

The internship groups, divided specifically into industry and mental institutions are the money-earning progress available to the students, according to releases.

The industry groups correlate closely with labor and are terminated by discussion groups on conditions and ideas on the labor problems.

The mental-institution aides earn about $110 a month after room and board. In this program, students are divided into groups regardless of faith and backgrounds, leading toward a better understanding of the viewpoints held by others of different backgrounds, socially, economically, religiously, and politically.

These experiences, according to Sheline, tend to "enrichen their lives."

'Riflers' To Meet Noted Opponents In Competitions

Opponents of the Florida State University Air ROTC Rifle Team this year will be notable, according to officials.

Competing with the local team will be such units as Notre Dame, Baylor, Purdue, Princeton, Indiana, Pittsburg, Texas Christian and UCLA, they said.

Under the direction of Major Martin E. Lichte and M/Sgt. John Tipton, the team, who sport new coats and gloves, fired at

(Continued on Page 4)

Flying Professor "Takes Off" For Weekly Extension Course

A Florida State University "Flying Professor" will teach another course in FSU's program of extension courses in St. Petersburg, it was revealed today.

Prof J. Richard Stevens of the Marketing and Advertising faculty, formerly a senior sales representative for Remington Rand Corp., will journey to St. Petersburg Junior College campus once a week to instruct in special problems of the small businessman.

The course, designed for and about the small businessman, opened this week, according to spokesmen for the General Extension Division of the State.

Because the small businessman does not have an extensive organization at his command, Stevens points out, he must act as his own salesman, accountant and buyer, as his credit and personnel manager, accountant and adviser. He said he must be a "Forecaster and a planner."

The class, according to Stevens, will study day-to-day and long range business problems and the technique for solving them. He noted emphasis will be placed on manufacturing, wholesale, or retailing in accordance with the interests of the students.

Stevens, a graduate of Iowa State University, has a master's degree in marketing. Prior to joining the FSU faculty, he was associated with Union Light and Power Company of Chicago and served as an assistant to the vice-president and general manager of Newman Lynde and Associates, Inc., advertising agency in Jacksonville.

Randel Points Out Opinions Of World Affect Our Culture

Whether America has or has not a civilization all its own depends much on the opinion of the rest of the world.

DR. WILLIAM RANDEL, of the FSU English Department, brought out this point in the first of a series of lectures in a Seminar of American Studies.

Dr. Randel pointed out that America, in its short history, has not had the opportunity to establish too many art forms that may be called exclusively American. This and the apparent disinterest of the American government to participate in the International Art Exhibitions has given the outside world a rather low opinion of the status of American culture and thus of American civilization, he said.

THE SEMINAR will include various departmental representatives who will conduct lectures and discussion periods.

During the course of the semester, talks on modern American journalism, economics, music and political science will be offered by Dr. Sidney Kobre, Dr. V. Dillingham, Dr. Wiley Housewright, Dr. Marian Irish, and others.

THE SEMINAR of American Studies is being conducted by the English Department in the form of a series of Tuesday night lectures in the Music Building at 7:30 p.m. The purpose of the course is to give students or interested observers of American culture and advance, the opportunity to observe America's achievements and peculiarities in many fields.

Odham Supporters Hold First Meeting

The Brailey Odham for Governor Club met Tuesday night to discuss the possibilities of Florida State University students helping the candidate to win the campaign for governor.

At the meeting, Mr. E. C. Allen, Leon County treasurer for Brailey Odham, spoke on the principals Odham stands for and what Florida Staters could do in regard to his campaign.

Temporary positions on the club are filled by the following students: Overall chairman, Phil Kelly; Motorcade chairman, Dave Kennedy; Reporting, Dave Kennedy and Phil Springer; Membership committee, Nancy Base and Joyce Markhame and Poster committee, Edna Runnels and Loretta Cantella.

Officials of the club revealed that those interested in joining the activities are invited to attend a meeting tomorrow night in Longmire Auditorium at 8 p.m.

Tragedy Is Millie's; Farce Is System

By BRUCE GALPHIN

The story of Millie McIlvoy is a tragedy. If there are elements of farce in it, the editrule is painted not at Millie but at the system which claimed to give her an education.

Millie, you remember, is the handkerchief clerk who won a bachelor's degree by getting college credit for her work in a dime store.

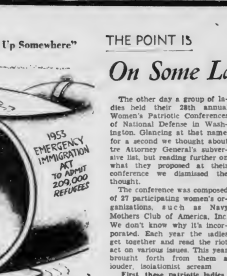
Some people think it was poking fun at Millie, but nothing could be further from the truth. Millie is the backbone of the nation, and I love her dearly. Not only do I love her, but I have more respect for her dignity and faith in her intelligence than do most of the time-wasting so-called faculty for her democratic rights.

I believe that Millie is essentially an educatable human being. I think she could get something more out of college than trade techniques; that she could better understand the world she lives in, gain an appreciation of the arts and in general become a better citizen. I believe furthermore, that she and all other citizens of a democracy deserve an education.

But Millie is being cheated. The professional educators who run our schools agree that she should have her schooling, but they do not respect her intelligence enough to believe she would profit from the broad, liberal education I have mentioned. They believe learning a trade is more important to her.

Millie's professors, who have exerted tremendous effort to provide her educational facilities but then have removed the vital content. Millie is a slave to her school system, hacked by its narrow, unimaginative rules.

Yet there is tragedy amid the farce, for the educators sincerely believe in what they are doing; they consider their type of education professional; it's dynamic. The practicality, I fear, is deceptive, and the dynamic aspect is like those of a bulldozer, powerful because they have such energy behind them but able only to level and crush.



Under modern division of labor, it is impossible for one person to know the details of very many things professional; at the same time it has grown even more important for the useful understanding and hoir the complex parts of society fi into the whole As Edna St. Vincent Millay said in her poem Conversation at Midnight:

Science is so tall that no man sees its face:
...We have given eyes to one,
and hands to another:
No man can both climb, and see.
We have specialized ourselves out of any possible
Acquaintance with the whole.

If a person is to see an integrated picture of his society, there is no other way than to study the broad principles underlying the many different phases of our knowledge. This is often called the classical approach to education, but it certainly does not imply just a study of ancient civilizations and dead men's philosophies. Classical, or liberal arts, education should be as alive as today, dealing with current, pressing problems. No amount of memorization will take the place of education old-fashioned.

I have such strong belief that the way to learn a profession is by actually working in it, but I do not think that college is the place for vocational training. The four years is little enough time for learning the things a person needs to be a good citizen.

Yet the tragedy of Millie is forever being repeated more and more often, and the tragedy is being glorified. If the trend is not halted before long, we will be a nation marching toward intellectual sterility.

Let It Be Said

By DICK VICTORY

I ask myself again and again what makes a teacher teach? Is it because they want to lift ano mold and reach into the fallen depths of ignorance and best and heat it once again. Or is it simply to eat?

Midterm and new classes breed strange academic bedfellows. The first period in each class proved quite amusing this semester as it does in the second half of any semester.

Notice the first time the roll is called.

Most of the students draw complacent stares from the teacher, but a few he or she calls by first name or pauses at the familiarity of it. These students rate a "special smile" or a "frindl frown." In the latter, although it is not positive, I think that only in this year things were different. A cruel cruek was played with the students as the guinea pigs. No midterm break . Nobody got their grades until—too late.

This means that the students who usually pick the same instructor if they get a extra good grade or "gift" the first semester had to guess. A few cursed wrong. These are of the "fricid frown" variety.

Now to tote the hands that feeds me. No, Dad, I'm not talking to me, although I see your point. However, many times the teachers are the guilty ones, because they give the grades. (Most of them don't like the word give; they choose to say you earn your grade. It is the rare teachers who don't like the word grade.Grades can be calculated, learning can't. Just another unnecessary evil. But at this point I can't offer a better system, so off my neck, boys.

A few general characteristics can be attributed to just about all professors. Each of the classes, which is usually dismissed the first day before he gets down to the ritual of teaching. What he says and what he thinks.

Enter John Phooey, noted educator.
He speaks: "Ladies and gentlemen,
He thinks: Athletes and misfits.
He speaks: "It will be my pleasure
He thinks: I shouldbe at the thought
He speaks: "To teach you this semester
He thinks: Of trying to get them in your thick skulls
He speaks: a course which you have so nobly registered for
He thinks: a course which you think is 3 hours of crip
He speaks "In the hope of learning.
He thinks: In the name of God, why?
He speaks "Now. I'll see you Monday afternoon at four, and class dismissed "
He thinks: Ah, three whole days without the sight of you. Get out of here.

Moral: Thoughts are stranger than diction.

Some Ladies Who Belong Home

The other day a group of ladies held their 28th annual Women's Patriotic Conferences on National Defense in Washington. Glancing at that name, for a second we thought about the Attorney General's progressive list, but reading further on what they proposed at their conference we dismissed the thought.

The conference was composed of 27 participating women's organizations, but the Daughters of the American Revolution, Mothers Club of America, Inc. We don't know why it's incorporated, though, and we'd like to get together and read the riot act on various ladies who have brought forth from them a louder, isolationist scream.

First, these patriotic ladies called for "swift Congressional action to withdraw from the United Nations." A speech to the group by Senate Majority Leader, appearing for the 13th, that "all the ladies that the United States had furnished 50 per cent of the United Nations forces in Korea and said that was "not a fair distribution." It would be a disservice, he continued, if "we let our allies believe that we approved that performance."

Then, one of the ladies attacked the United Nations as a propaganda arena for Soviet Russia, and, in addition, blasted the Georgia Washington back into the spotlight. She said partly, "I wonder if George Washington would say, 'I warned you against foreign entanglements many years ago and I warn you against them now.' "

After they tried to do away with the United Nations the ladies took to task the following: opposed general free-arms repatriation; opposed admission to Hawaii; opposed the St. Lawrence Seaway; charge that "for many years the Carnegie, Rockefeller, Ford and other foundations have been used through ill-advised grants and trusts to brought forth from them a louder, isolationist scream.

First, these patriotic ladies called for "swift Congressional action to withdraw from the United Nations." A speech to the group by Senate Majority Leader, appearing for the 13th, that "all the ladies that the United States had furnished 50 per cent of the United Nations forces in Korea and said that was "not a fair distribution." It would be a disservice, he continued, if "we let our allies believe that we approved that performance."

Then, one of the ladies attacked the United Nations as a propaganda arena for Soviet Russia, and, in addition, blasted the Georgia Washington back into the spotlight. She said partly, "I wonder if George Washington would say, 'I warned you against foreign entanglements many years ago and I warn you against them now.' "

After they tried to do away with the United Nations the ladies took to task the following: opposed general free-arms repatriation; opposed admission to Hawaii; opposed the St. Lawrence Seaway; charge that "for many years the Carnegie, Rockefeller, Ford and other foundations have been used through ill-advised grants and trusts to other media to undermine the American way of life by fostering statism and opposing individualism." Therefore, the delegates decided to withdraw investigate. A pamphlet was distributed to the delegates representative and on it asserted that it was a "sensational fact" that "Russia has taken over all her bears shocking similarity to the Red Flag of China" and then added in red print in a note

"While the Russian Arms Banner and the United Nations flag bear this striking similarity to design the reader must not forget that the U.N. emblem flag is the same color as the Jew color of a flag copied from the Russian Arms Banner."

On the other hand, the delegates had something constructive to say. They endorsed the "practice of marksmanship. We take it now that instead of people on weekends trooping in their cars for an outing at the beach or golf course, they go instead to the firing range. Former golfers will be asking "What did you shoot today? 45 or carbine?" And receiving the reply, "You should have seen that bullseye."

Also the ladies approved the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act. They walled for the American flag to pass before films and before sporting events starting.

We have mentioned all the issue these patriotic ladies has taken a stand on so the reader will know that they are attempting to do lip help our National Defense. They are somewhat similiar to that group of ladies in Houston, Texas a while back that wanted to burn the books so we wouldn't be books influenced by subversive literature.

Perhaps a movement should be started where all the housewives leave the homes and form patriotic groups so they can burn more books, speak out against all issues, and tell to the Congressmen what to burn or tie down the paths of destruction.

For, that is what we need: patriotic ladies groups.

PRIVATE CITIZEN

On Minding, Free Will, Hallucinations

By GENE LAWLER

"No, boa, I just don't have my costume." I told him. His face purple, Galphin seized an armful of books and brought it down on my head. I fell to the floor protesting. He was methodically grinding his heel in my face before I went under.

My spirit was nearly free that evening. Free enough to float over to anthropology department where a dozen earnest students were in session. "Oh, Leslie White, they pleaded. "reveal to us the secret of the mind!"

I telepathed White not to bother to leave Michigan and took to mentally projecting myself. "Oh, humble students." I whispered, "the secret of the mind is simple. Mind is minding." I let them gasp and then went on. "Mind is to the body as sharpness is to the knife."

They all nodded in revelation except for one. This female skeptic was mumbling "but what about memory . . ."

Telepathing her relision, I appropriacty quoted Pupe to her: "Remembrance and reflection, how allied!"

What this portitions seem from thought divide!

Firm is the knowledge that mind is but a property of the body, they were all in satisfied contemplation as my spirit eased its way out through the window. As Edna St. Vincent Millay said in her poem Conversation at Midnight:

Science is so tall that no man sees its face:
...We have given eyes to one,

Time Killed The Comedian In Chaplin

By DAVID DREIS

He made nations applaud him while they jibed him, while they envied him, while they hated him, while they loved him. Today, the character has changed, but the talent hasn't and the silent screen's greatest comedy star . . . Charles Spencer Chaplin.

On the stage at ten when his father died and mother became ill, young Charles was one of the light incandsitive Lads' when he developed his pantomimic genius as a tap dancer.

He became the page boy to "Sherlock Holmes" when it was performed by William Gillette. After this, he developed his flair for comedy and left for the United States with every cent he could muster up. He was 21. This was the REAL beginning.

It was 1910 and movie companies were mushing for talent. An agent saw him in Philadelphia vaudeville two years later and offered him a picture contract. He joined Mack Sennett with the Keystone company. The 'beginning' was beginning with a salary of $150 a week In 1914 he made Making a Living with Chester Conklin. He moved to Essany pictures, then the biggest company, beating top stars such as Francis X Bushman and others.

After Essany, he made 12 two-reelers for Mutual films and then decided to direct his own films for the company. By 1921 he was established as a top-flight comedian of these shorts. Chaplin wasn't satisfied with the short films and decided that a picture three times as long would be a big success. The Kid, with Jackie Coogan made a name for Charlie Chaplin.

Tired of working for a salary, he founded his own company and Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford and D. W. Griffith formed the United Artits Corporation. Chaplin made The Gold Rush considered by movie historians as the greatest works of comedy art on the silver screen. THE GOLD RUSH, THE CIRCUS, CITY LIGHTS, MODERN TIMES and the WOMAN OF PARIS. By the time all were produced, it was 1934.

Bernard Shaw loved him and said that he was the world's greatest artist. He could write his book for which Chaplin was paid a dollar a word. A Comedian Sees the World. It had 50,000 words. His ideas, however, unknown to the world and everyone read about it in installments for the Saturday Evening Post.

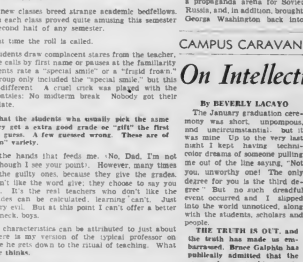
In 1916 Modern Times made its appearance before, but released then was the talkies' first picture. Chaplin waited and waited. Finally in 1940 he satirized the axis Jenkins and Miss Sarah Jones, powers in The Great Dictator both affiliated with the State in which he spoke for the first Bord of Education in Georgia.

Dear Mama Seminole

Dear Mama Seminole,

But brave in his repee across way here have call in for madden —when phone ring brave answers—"Hello sex machine"—after a pause for collection of his senses, the female prof. slenderfied herself to party at the other end of line After another short pause for collection of wits both parties are said to be back to normal blood pressure.

Me findum "Ike" making great popularity in the absurdity of opposition attacks: Al tribes of Demo. party are suffering from the Deep seated hangovers of the Truman Lambasting Corp. Possibly they missed the course in Temperate Talking Tactics. Add a new course.



Big Prof announces first day to his six students that course had over 500 A's last semester—the following day to his 56 students he added—not one of them was in PSU.

Government send heap big list of victims of McCrucumstance to the library for a new book entitled "Let's Be Sane" and crisis and song-writing make him one of the most outstanding performers in the entertainment. Be wrote the music to Limelight . . . no not Chackrfield. Chaplin.

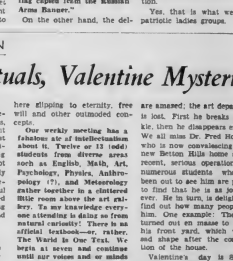
SCHOOL LIBRARIANS

Miss Margaret Sayers, former director of the New York Library School Chaplin . . . different . . . unknown, unknown to most of the world and everyone read about it in installments for the Saturday Evening Post. Florida Association of School Librarians.

Other guests at the conference then was the guest this morning with an address by State Supt. Thomas Bailey. Miss Virginia Mc-Call Barron, Miss Sarah Jones, and Miss Sarah Jones, both affiliated with the State Board of Education in Georgia.

CAMPUS CARAVAN

On Intellectuals, Valentine Mysteries



By BEVERLY LACAYO

The January graduation ceremony was a long, monotonous, and uncircumstantial; but it was major to the 1954 graduating class. Twelve or 13 (odd) students from different areas such as English, Math, Art, Psychology, Physics, Anthropology — and Meteorology — rather together in a cluttered little room above the art gallery. In a few moments they'd one a stenuling is doing so from natural science to the most official textbook—or, rather, The World in One Text. We learned a little of everything until our voices and or minds no longer could take it and all the voices tend to hold out a little longer. After this we adjourn to the Sweet Shop where we eat the smokehouse and talk sharp intellectual nothings.

As an ex-college student I'm utterly thrilled by the thought of going on around me.

Before I left Gainesville, our hats should be off to Milton Carothers who has given his university so much of his time and leadership while maintaining a good perspective scholarship. Was he really a 2.8 this last semester, Milton?

BURSAR MR. MISSING PERSONS: His associates worry; his students weep; his friends are amased; the art department is lost. First he breaks so subtle, then he disappears entirely. We all miss Dr. Fred Stolnitz who is now convalescing in his home in Gainesville after a recent, serious operation. The numerous students who have been in his class will be pleased to find that he is as jovial as ever. He in turn, is delighted to find that how many students are there. One example: The 8a.m. turned into mass confusion in his front yard, which was in and shape after the construction of his home.

Valentine's day is Sunday, and I think it is open Saturday mail. For the last few years I have, on each St. Valentine's day, sent him a card received looks more interesting on the outside. but, which, when opened, invariably reads, "I'm looking for a Valentine — but utterly thrilled by the thought of I were all alone with you, I'm sure the lights down and I'd sneak out!" This and other similarly ego-boosting dillies have brought cheer into my life at the sweetheart season in years gone by. What will it be tomorrow?

I have a sneaking feeling that BURSAR MR. MISSING PERSONS: His associates worry; his students weep; his friends

Letters to the Editor

Good Sense

Dear Mr. Galphin:

This is a note to express my appreciation of the consistently high quality of this year's Flambeau. The issue of February 5 in particular adds a new zest to time high! I am sure that I have never seen a better paper on any campus.

The trend throughout the University in the State University in particular toward vocationalism disturbs a good many of us. Education is described as quackery in our society which will not be tolerated; I have profound faith in the good sense of the American people. This belief is confirmed by the price of liberal education.

In addition to expressing my respect for your editorial values, I wish to congratulate you upon the technical excellence of your paper. For some reason not quite clear to me, even the letters to the editor have for the most part reflected a maturity which is missing on undergraduate publication.

Keep up the good work.

Sincerely,
CLARK LEE ALLEN.

The Facts, Ma'm

Dear Editor,

Since the letter of last issue on the Student Center was so specific, let us start with facts. First, there remains no doubt but that the patio at the student center will be used to feed in.

Secondly, the original plans called for an area twice the size of the present building, with recreational facilities foremost in mind. By the time the plans were ready to go ahead, look at what happened.

Thirdly, the elimination of the patio will only result in less dancing space, with only minor relief for the rush hours.

Fourth, an extension of the building proper is in order, as its present size is so small as to appear odd in the face of proposed buildings if the fifty year plan.

If the student center is to be the center of the university, they'll need a lot more room than they have now. Elimination of the building is destruse as this time, with more recreational facilities for students, the cost will be incurred eventually and the students need the facilities now as well as they'll need them in two years.

Sincerely,
Observant Sophomore.

Do It Now

Dear Editor,

Last issue's letter to the editor on the problem of the Student Center shocked me.

Not because the inquiry and for the purpose of the letter, we can assume that the statement in the letter that the patio was at the Student Center will be closed in.

Actually, although the possibility of letting students participate in the administration policies is remote, I can't for the life of me see the point in ruining the one road thing about the ridiculously small student center.

The temporary alleviation of the dancing problem by adding the handful of tables that could be squeezed into the patio space, would at best serve as such—only as a temporary alleviation.

Within not too long a time, real relief will be sought, bringing it to an unavoidable expensive. Why wait?

The "Frustrated Students" who wrote the letter should be commended on the clarity and broadness of their argument. By all means, leave the patio and expand the Student Center in the other direction

Sincerely,
Not Ill. Difresut.

Use Suwannee

Dear Editor,

I agree whole heartedly with the "Frustrated Students" who wrote in the last issue about the Student Center.

It should be mentioned again that the Student Center was built as a recreation center, not as a dining hall.

Eating space is needed desperately. Therefore, here is a suggestion to whom it may concern. The Suwannee Room was pointed in the grade of enlisted men and enter an eight weeks officer training course.

Dear Mama Seminole

Dear Mama Seminole,

But brave in his repee across way here have call in for madden —when phone ring brave answers—"Hello sex machine"—after a pause for collection of his senses, the female prof. slenderfied herself to party at the other end of line After another short pause for collection of wits both parties are said to be back to normal blood pressure.

Me findum "Ike" making great popularity in the absurdity of opposition attacks: Al tribes of Demo. party are suffering from the Deep seated hangovers of the Truman Lambasting Corp. Possibly they missed the course in Temperate Talking Tactics. Add a new course.

Big Prof announces first day to his six students that course had over 500 A's last semester—the following day to his 56 students he added—not one of them was in PSU.

Government send heap big list of victims of McCrucumstance to the library for a new book entitled "Let's Be Sane" and crisis and song-writing make him one of the most outstanding performers in the entertainment. Be wrote the music to Limelight . . . no not Chackrfield. Chaplin.

SCHOOL LIBRARIANS

Miss Margaret Sayers, former director of the New York Library School Chaplin . . . different . . . unknown, unknown to most of the world and everyone read about it in installments for the Saturday Evening Post. Florida Association of School Librarians.

Other guests at the conference then was the guest this morning with an address by State Supt. Thomas Bailey. Miss Virginia Mc-Call Barron, Miss Sarah Jones, and Miss Sarah Jones, both affiliated with the State Board of Education in Georgia.

Program Enables Women To Get Early WAVE Rates

The U. S. Navy recruiting station in Tallahassee has announced that the direct commission program for WAVE will end in March and a new program will take its place.

In the present program selected applicants are directly appointed in the grade of Ensign, then sent to Newport, R. I., for 12 weeks indoctrination and subsequent assignment to duty. Applications for direct commission and enrollment in the last class of the program must reach the Bureau of Naval Personnel, Washington, D. C., before March 1.

Under the new program, which will go into effect after the March 1 deadline, eligible women may apply for enlistment in the Naval Reserve. Those selected will be sent to Newport for eight weeks of Officer Candidate Basic Training. Upon satisfactory completion of the course they will be sworn in as ensigns in the Naval Reserve.

The Florida Flambeau
BRUCE GALPHIN — EDITOR
AL PIERCE, news editor
AOE FOLSOM, managing editor
Feature Editor ..... Javeen Robertson
Sports Editor ..... Ken Kingery, Dave Kennedy
Campus Editor ..... J. Gary Campbell
Copy Editors ..... Dick Victory, Dave Dreis
Rewrite Editors ..... Oscar Johnson, Martin Dickman
Photography Editor ..... Joe Caldwell
Art Consultant ..... Franklin Adams
Sports Staff ..... Art Kennerly, Bob Taylor
Junior Staff ..... Dot Thomassen, Pat Dekle, Mary Elizabeth King, Tom Hall, Betty Bishop, Lona Cochran, Barbara Ann Hutchinson
NANCY LOWE — BUSINESS MGR.
MIRIAM SAWYER, advertising manager
Business Staff ..... Ann Kingston, Virginia Vaughn, Alica Lang, Joe Caldwell
Exchange Editor ..... Pat Gibson
Exchange Staff ..... Margaret Dellinger
Advertising solicited by Alpha Delta Sigma and Gamma Alpha Chi.
Distribution arranged for and processed by members of Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity.
The Florida Flambeau is published weekly by the Students of Florida State University, Tallahassee, Florida
The Florida Flambeau is represented nationally by the National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Avenue, New York 17, New York.
Member: Associate Collegiate Press, Intercollegiate Press
Telephone 2-8000, extension 4821 211, 213 Longmire Bldg.

From The Sidelines

By Ken Kingery

Flambeau Sports Editor

ONLY THREE LEFT

The Florida State Seminole cagers will face three of their toughest contests before the season is over. Saturday, they will travel to New Orleans to take on the powerful Loyola squad. Coach Red Kennedy's boys will face one of the powers of the South that night. The Loyola team slipped by the Seminoles in their last meeting by the score of 80-76.

The Georgia State Teachers will be ready and waiting for the Seminoles on the 17th. Again the cagers will take to the road, this time for their last road trip of the season. The classy Teachers, winners of the Gator Bowl Tournament, have revenge at heart, since they dropped a hard fought game in December, the final score read Florida State 58, Ga. Teachers 38.

Then in the last game of the year, Arkansas State will invade the local campus gym, to take on The Seminoles, in what promises to be one of the best of the season. Last year the Seminoles took the Indians by 11 points, however both teams have improved but it's hard to say which one have the edge.

This is the best season F. S. U. has had since 1936-51. In that season the Seminoles racked up an 19-8 record. This year they have a 11-6 record so far. The final record is very unpredictable at this date.

SEMINOLE TANK MEN FACE BIG TEST

The toughest test the Seminoles have faced all season is the list of enough men to compete in their meets. Although it was unnoticeable to the spectators, it's been a constant worry to coach Bob Bible. The boys have been swimming at least two events apiece in duel meets and even though they won their last two dual meets, a big meet such as the one they are going to today, presents many other problems.

In this meet, 7 schools are invited. They are: Georgia Tech, The U. of Georgia, Florida, Kentucky, (all of these teams are Southeastern Conference), others are Florida State, Duke, and Emory.

The big difference between meets such as these and a dual meet is any team can enter as many as four men and in a dual meet they are restricted to only two swimmers. A team such as Georgia, has at least three men for every event. Florida State doesn't have even enough men to enter every event, at least not at their best.

Dinner Specials Designed to Fit Your Pocketbook and Your Taste.

TODAY

DELICIOUS SEAFOOD PLATTER

Shrimp, Trout, Scallops, Deviled Crab, Hush Puppies — French Fries — Salad

$1.00

SUNDAY DINNER

WONDERFUL FILET MIGNON

DONE TO A JUICY TURN!

French Fries — Chef Salad

$1.00

Enjoy Other Delicious Specials Every Day at . . .

M & N CAFE

E. Jefferson Street

BIB 'N TUCKER—Beach clothes are best clothes . . . and Jantzen makes sure you're the loveliest one about . . . in your best Bib 'n Tucker. Best because it's made of Sun Taffeta, a lightweight quick-drying fabric combination of Acetate and Laton! Best because it's styled to curve and camouflage where needed . . . precise gathering that belittles your middle . . . trims the tummy! Best figure-maker is the Jantzen bra . . . cuffed in a petal style that curves your figure . . . covers your faults! 10 colors that are the envy of beach umbrellas! 10-18. 14.95

SPECIAL OFFER—You have the chance to win the beautiful 21-jewel, 14-k gold Bulova wrist watch and hand shaver above—value $95—with the purchase of a Jantzen swim suit—Drawing will be in June at

Steyermans

"Gymnast Trying For Fourth Win At Alabama," Sez Doctor Price

Meet To Be Held Saturday

Although Faith can move mountains, it is doubtful that this young ladies muscles will be needed to win the Alabama Invitational meet. In fact, the eminent Dr. Moosian has predicted a Seminole shutout.

The Florida State gymnasts, trying for a fourth straight win, will divide into two squads, the Garnet captained by Don Holder, and the Gold, captained by Pat Simonetti. The purpose of this two squad system, according to Dr. Hartley Price, is to develop a sharp feeling of competition within the squads.

Other teams taking part in the meet at Gadsden will include Auburn, Gadsden High, and Georgia Tech. Competition from Georgia Tech and Auburn is expected to be moderate, but FSU may encounter difficulties with Gadsden. Long known for their fine gym teams, Gadsden gymnasts have always been in previous encounters with Florida State.

At last year's Florida AAU Keither of Gadsden did a double back and twist with no turns on the trampoline to edge out the Seminole squad by a slim two-tenths of a point to cop first in that event. Much improved, he returns this year as a major threat to Dick Ireland and Jim Fadjuk. Florida States brilliant trampolina artists.

Bolstering the Seminole line will be the Reams Twins, Joe and Carmine, and Jack Miles, who did a terrific job at last week's Tech meet, Rafael Lecuona, captain of last year's Cuban Olympic team, Don Holder, member of last year's Olympic team and Pat Simonetti, this year's co-captain who also did a spectacular job at Atlanta.

These men are slated for all-around work at Gadsden. Reinforcing this line-up will be Larry Weston, tumbling, Dick Ireland and Jim Fadjuk, trampolinists, Jack Tanaka and Joe Taylor, rings men, Benny Wallace, rope climbing expert, and Bill Koslow, parallel bars.

Winter Sports Pile Up Fine Team Records

Florida State University's four winter sports teams, two of them undefeated, have racked up 25 victories in 33 dual starts for a .784 percentage.

Coach Bud Kennedy's basketballers, enjoying their best season since 1950-51, have an 11-6 reading. In volleyball, Coach Bill Odenea's Seminoles have won seven of nine matches.

FSU Frosh Met Jax J.C.C. Here Last Nite

By KEN KINGERY
Sports Editor

The strong Jacksonville Junior College five invaded Tallahassee last night, to take on the freshman basketballers of Florida State University. The Baby Seminoles before this game had beeo looking for it's second win of the season in eight starts.

The Tribe faced this same team in Jacksonville earlier in the season and dropped a close decision. Coach Lee Benjamin's boys also lost a further to another Jacksonville entry—Jax Navy, 75-72.

The Jacksonville Junior College cagers are considered one of the top Junior College fives in this area. One of the top-point producers on the Dolphin squad is George Kalilah who performed only briefly for the Seminoles last season.

The starting line-up for the clash was: Don Allard and Bobby Ward forwards, A. J. Jarvis and Fred Twomey guards, and 6-4 "skyscraper" Bo Williams at the center post.

D. Kennedy Resigns As Sports Editor

Former Sports Editor, Dave Kennedy recently resigned as Flambeau Sports Editor, it was learned today.

Dave is now working for Bailey Odham in his campaign for Governor. The Flambeau Staff hated to lose Dave, He has served very faithfully and efficiently. His name won't be off the sports page long though, when Lemula season rolls around, he'll make the headlines time after time. GOOD LUCK, DAVE!

Church News

From Page 1

cent official) directors of the Methodist Student House are Mr. and Mrs. Austin Hollady. Holady, a graduate of Emory, was formerly associate pastor of the First Methodist Church in Orlando.

Mrs. Holladay is a graduate of Wesleyan College. Official hostess for the student house is Mrs. William Vradenberg.

CHRISTIAN

Slides on world travels will be shown at the home of Mr. Davidian Sunday night at the Disciple Student Fellowship Valentine party. The party, to be held at 1820 Roswell Drive, starts at 5:30.

Transportation to the party, at which a light supper will be served, will be provided, leaving the front of Gilchrist at 5:15.

Patronize Our Advertisers

Golfers Have Intra Squad Match Today

Coach Don Veller's Florida State University golfers limber up for the forthcoming George Washington Birthday tourney with an intra-squad match this afternoon at the Tallahassee Country Club.

Veller, former FSU grid mentor now in his second term as Seminole golf coach, said that today's results would determine the squad's individual rankings for the tourney.

Only two letterman make up the nine-man Thrbe roster. They are Jimmy James, senior swimmer from Miami and Randy Church, a sophomore from Dothan, Ala.

However, Veller has several freshman prospects who may take up the slack. Probably the outstanding newcomer is Buzzi Berry, a Tallahassee product, and former state high school champion.

The Seminoles, who posted five wins against four loses last season, don't move into the dual meet portion of their schedule until next month.

DANCE GROUP

Tryouts for the Theater Dance groups will be held February 17 through 19 at the East Campus Gym dance studio, according to Shirley Knight Revell, president of the group.

The dance group tryouts, open to both men and women, are to be held from 5 to 6 p.m. on each of those days. The first two days will represent practice, with actual tryouts taking place on the third.

Keepsake Diamonds
Lenoire Watches

PAUL TURNER
JEWELER

REPAIRS
105 E. Monroe St. Phone 3-1447

A.A.U. Volleyball Tournament Date Set For March 6

Florida's 1954 state AAU volleyball tournament is set for St. Petersburg's Boca Ciega High School March 6.

The announcement was made today by Dr Howard Danfrod, Florida State University director of athletics and state volleyball chairman.

More than 15 teams are expected to vie for the championship. Florida State's Seminoles are defending champions of the tournament, which is sanctioned by the national AAU and the United States Volleyball Association.

The deadline for entries is Monday, March 1.

FOR SALE 16-foot runabout—fiberboard engine cover, windshield, convertible top, will haul 10 fishing, recreation or sporting gear, crabbing. Call Chester Ewing, Tel. 58 Marks, Fla.

Miller Edits Articles On Sprinters

Florida State University's head track coach, Dr. Ken Miller, is the author of one of the feature articles in the February issue of the Athletic Journal.

The article, entitled "The Tra-Flat Man," presents a detailed study of the 10-second sprinter.

Two former Florida collegiate greats are pictorially featured on the cover of the magazine. They are John Poston, ex-FSU standout who holes the Seminoles' 100-yard dash record :9 3 seconds, and J. "Pops" Hall, the University of Florida's brilliant high-jumper.

It's a Ship'n Shore® blouse action shirt in delicious parfait checks

All Colors: 30 to 38

$2.95

Turner's

Hey! I'll meet you for dinner! Where? OK! Great!

the AMBER HOUSE

Parker Urges Educators Teach Foreign Language

NEW YORK, N.Y. (I.P.)—Deploring the tendency in schools and colleges to ignore the study of modern foreign languages, Professor William R. Parker of New York University recently urged educators, "for the sake of our country and for the sake of man's hope for peace on earth, to prepare more and more Americans to meet the rest of the world half way linguistically."

Professor Parker, executive secretary of the Modern Language Association of America and professor of English at NYU's Washington Square College of Arts and Science, pointed out that more than 40 per cent of the total high school population in 1915 was studying a living foreign language, and then added that, according to statistics, fewer than nine per cent of today's students in all American schools and colleges are ever enrolled in a class in a modern foreign language.

"I am not interested in blaming anyone for this," he said. "Few people foresaw the kind of world we now find ourselves living in. The important concern is to make sure that many people clearly see it now, and that they see the new relevance of foreign language study as a means to a solution." The NYU professor offered a seven-point program as a substitute for "the Language Curtain of our isolationist past."

1. Let American parents see to it that their children acquire no snobbish and insidious prejudice against foreign speech and customs.

2. Let foreign languages be introduced, along with information about foreign lands and people, in all kindergartens and elementary schools so that our children will learn early and naturally that to be "foreign" is not to be queer or unfriendly.

3. Let foreign languages be available in every high school and let them be required of students who exhibit any facility in learning them.

4. Let foreign language degree requirements be restored in all liberal arts colleges which have foolishly abandoned them, and let colleges and universities recognize a changing world by teaching a foreign culture along with and through the foreign language.

5. Let adults who once studied foreign languages now brush up on them co-operatively in service clubs or women's clubs with the aid of local teachers, and let educated foreign-born Americans help the native-born to acquire a second language and some knowledge of a second culture.

6. Let educational leaders recognize the importance of foreign language teachers to the welfare of our country and express that recognition in terms of salaries and opportunities for in-service training.

FLORIDA
TODAY & SAT.
"The Eddie Cantor Story"
KEEFE BRASSELLE
MARILYN ERSKINE
SUN. THRU TUES.
"Strange Voyage"
JEANNE CRAIN

CAPITOL
TODAY & SAT.
"Broken Arrow"
also
"Marshal of Cedar Rock"
SUN. THRU MON.
"Confidentially Connie"
VAN JOHNSON

FLORIDA'S FAMOUS OUTDOOR
TODAY & SAT.
"SHARK RIVER"
"THE STEEL LADY"
SUN & MON.
"Redheads from Seattle"
RHONDA FLEMING
TUES. & WED.
"Springfield Rifle"
GARY COOPER

STATE
TODAY THRU WED.
"HONDO"
Starring
JOHN WAYNE and introducing
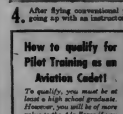
GERALDINE PAGE

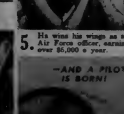
College Men!

Fly with the Finest in the Air Force

QUALIFIED APPLICANTS WIN WINGS AS AIR FORCE LIEUTENANTS, EARN OVER $5,000 A YEAR!

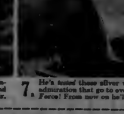


1. Pilot training begins at Lackland Air Force Base, where Aviation Cadets get 3 months of officer indoctrination.



2. It's a hard grind, but Cadets also find time to relax.

3. In primary training the Cadet flies his first planes, a Piper Cub, and the T-6. Later he will fly the more advanced T-28.



4. After flying conventional planes, he moves on to jets . . . going up with an instructor in the T-33 trainer.

5. He wins his wings as an Air Force officer, earning over $5,000 a year.

6. Then winds up his training with the latest and fastest planes in the air.

7. He's doing those officer wings . . . And wins the respect and admiration that go to every jet pilot in the United States Air Force! From now on he'll rule the skies in an Air Force jet.

• For a fast, exciting and rewarding career, make your future in the sky as an Air Force pilot. As a college student, you are now able to join that small, select band of young men who race the wind in Air Force jets. You'll have the same opportunities to learn, advance and establish yourself in the growing new world of jet aviation.

Fly as one of the best

The pilot training you get in the Air Force is the best in the world —the kind that makes jet aces. You'll learn to fly the fastest, latest planes in the air—and fly them safely and well. Those who look to the skies will look to you for leadership and confidence.

Into a brilliant future

You'll graduate as an Air Force lieutenant, earning over $5,000 a year. Your Air Force wings will serve as credentials for important positions both in military and commercial aviation. Air Force wings mark you as the very best in the flying profession.

—AND A PILOT IS BORN!

U.S. AIR FORCE

WHERE TO GET MORE DETAILS:

Contact your nearest Aviation Cadet Selection Team, Air Force ROTC Unit, or Air Force Recruiting Office, Or write to: Aviation Cadet, Headquarters U. S. Air Force, Washington 25, D. C.

How to qualify for Pilot Training as an Aviation Cadet!

To qualify, you must be at least a high school graduate. However, you will be of more value to the Air Force if you stay in college, graduate, and then volunteer for training. In addition, you must be between the ages of 19 and 26½, and in top physical condition. If you think you are eligible, here's what you do: Take your high school diploma or certificate of graduation together with a copy of your birth certificate down to your nearest Air Force base or recruiting station. Fill out the application they give you. If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet Training Class!

Four Baking Science Majors Write Article For Magazine

Four Florida State University executive training for the bakmen, majors in Baking Science, ing industry.

have had an article published in "Baking Interest," national baking publication. The article dealt with FSU's Baking School.

The four, Paul Soraparu, George Lannuier, Charles Black and Frank E. Bean, attended the annual production conference of the Southern Bakers Association at Atlanta.

Members of the SBA at the conference said that "The young men's zest for what they were doing was so heartening and visibly pleasurable" that the editors of "Baking Interest" asked the Florida Sisters to set down their views and let them be known to the readers of that publication.

The article, "Report to the Baking Industry," stated that the FSU baking course was industry-conceived and initiated. It was visualized and advanced by the Southern Bakers Association because of the feeling of its members that there were altogether too few young people receiving

The School of Baking was inaugurated at FSU in 1951, with Dr. L. A. Rumsey at its helm. The school offers four separate courses in baking operation and management.

Rumsey and the four students attended the Atlanta conference last September to give an account of the progress of the FSU baking school to the SBA. His four students went along to report their own views on the specialized schooling.

Paul Soraparu, a graduate student in Baking Science, said, "The average college graduate will not be unduly demanding when he is out seeking a job. But he does feel and rightly so, that he has something to bargain with. After all, he has given from four to six years of his life beyond high school level to academic study, plus having spent six to nine thousand

What's My Name ? Watch Flambeau Tuesday

Ritlers' To Meet

From Page 1

the 33rd annual William Randolph Hearst trophy match recently.

Team members, according to spokesmen, include Kenneth Macpike, Don Remington, Frederic Jaicks, Tom Ehrhardt, Bob Spaulding, Harvey Hampton, Russel Bardin, David Walker, William Cuberly, George Davis and Anthony Wheat.

dollars in thieving that education.

According to George Lannuier, baking is like any other science in that it has gone through a long process of evolution and steady growth. He believes that college training is definitely necessary if one wants to reach the top in baking.

As one who has had five years of experience in the baking industry, Charles B. Clark had this to say: "We at Florida State are obtaining a well rounded education through the fields of business, general education and scientific knowledge of chemistry and baking."

Frank E. Bean, who worked this past summer in both production and sales for a wholesale plant added, "I feel that about the only thing that will stop me or any of my fellow students from being successful will be our own personal laziness. We have a wonderful opportunity and should be able to go just as far as we want, provided we are willing to work for it."

Calendar Of Events

TODAY, FEBRUARY 12

4:00 The weekly series of English Coffee Hours will be resumed on Friday, at the Westminster House. These Coffee Hours are open to all interested persons, students, faculty, staff and friends of the University.
7:00 Stamp Club, 108 Social Welfare.
8:00 Basketball game, PEU vs. Miami, West Campus Gym.
8:00 Oldchrist — West Hall Dance, formal, West Hall Lounge.
8:15 Faculty Recital, Joseph Running, at the piano, Music Hall.

TOMORROW, FEBRUARY 13

2:30 "At the Piano" FSU television show, Carlisle Floyd, WMBR-TV.
7:30 Valentine Party for new and present Graduate Students, Landis Recreation Room.
8:00 Pi Kappa Phi Dance, Tallahassee Country Club.
8:30 Faculty Square Dance Student Lounge, Lonamire
9:00 Alpha Omicron Pi Dance, Duval Hotel.
9:00 Sigma Kappa Dance Tallahassee Women's Club.
9:00 Jennie Murphee Dance, formal, Lonamire Aud.

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 14

Services at various downtown churches and Student Houses in the morning.

Religious meetings at the Student Houses in the morning.
Valentine Day for young and olds in love.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 15

6:00 Tarpon Show, "Heavens Above," in the Women's Gym
9:00 F Club Student Lounge.

COMING EVENTS

Campus: High Sierra.
7:30 Tuesday, Cawthon Wednesday, Florida Hall Thursday, Senior Hall
8:00 Friday, West Hall Monday, Landis
The Story of Louis Pasteur.

Ten To Receive

From Page 1

Warren and Dean of Men Louis Corson also served on the committee.

Other pre-requisites for the honor include a minimum 1.3 over-all scholastic average, and attendance at FSU for at least four semesters.

They will be recognized by individual pictures in the Tally-Ho, certificates to be awarded at an appropriate ceremony by President of the University Doak S. Campbell, and a plaque to be displayed in the Longmire building.

AEC Sponsors Fellowships For Students

College seniors majoring in chemistry, physics or engineering are eligible to apply for Atomic Energy Commission sponsored graduate fellowships in radiological physics, according to a bulletin received recently from Oak Ridge.

As many as 75 fellowships may be awarded, with fully-accredited graduate study to be carried out in these locations. It was noted. One program is operated jointly by the University of Rochester and Brookhaven National Laboratory, another by the University of Washington and the Hanford plant of the AEC, and the third by Vanderbilt, conferred with the Oak Ridge Laboratory.

In each case, stated the bulletin, nine months of courses work at the educational institution is followed by three months of study and field training at the cooperating AEC installation. Study work is applicable upon a degree.

Radiological physics, the subject covered, is concerned with health physics, radiation monitoring and control, radioisotope measurements and similar work connected with the use of radioactive isotopes or the release of nuclear energy.

Basic stipend for fellows, the bulletin announced, is $1600 per year, with an allowance of $350 each if married and an equal additional amount for each dependent child. Tuition and required fees at the universities will be paid by the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, which administers the program for the AEC. Additional information concerning the program may be obtained from science department heads or by writing the University Relations Division of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, P O Box 117, Oak Ridge, Tennessee.

Fraternities To Rate Selves By 'Profile' In Gettysburg Plan

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (I.P.) — Dean of Men Robert Fryling of Gettysburg College recently submitted to the local Interfraternity Council a "Chapter Profile," by John O. Moseley, by which each fraternity may rate itself. In the rating pamphlet the questions are asked primarily to evaluate the groups' organization and man-building processes.

Within the covers of the questionnaire are topics dealing with houses, maintenance, advisers, pledges, finance, and chapter meetings. Implied by the chapter dealing with public relations are the goals of good relations, not only with the members themselves, but also with the society which is in any way connected with the fraternity and the college. A few of the branches on the public relations tree are the administration, parents, alumni, neighbors, civic projects, townspeople, other fraternities, independent groups and the faculty.

Also suggested by questions in the booklet are ways of obtaining good scholarship. It recommends study halls, tutors, awards, scholarship advisers, records and minimum cuts.

Concerning constitutions and by-laws of the chapters, Mr. Moseley proposes that these documents be available to the members and pledges of the group. He also requests that they be kept up-to-date within the chapters and national organization.

According to the pamphlet, college fraternities depend for their very existence on good public relations, mutual understanding and genuine co-operation. The most futile and foolish quest pursued by fraternity men either

For One Afraid

(Editor's note: The following is a poem written by Walter Blackstock of the FSU Department of English and accepted for publication in the New York Times.)

Ever and ever, watch him run from these:
From sunsets caught like robin-breasts that stain
The snow-banked hills—from symphonies of trees,
Delirious with pizzacato rain.

Eternally, behold his sudden flight
From lyric lips that murmum faith and fire—
From velvet corridors of candle-light—
From sighs of untranslatable desire.

O watch him cower before the pristine birth
Of mornings, lemon-cool with dew and haze—
O watch him burrow, mole within the earth,
Who never knew the starlit flame of days.

as a pastime or for business is the ranking of college fraternities, either on a given campus or nationally. To rate a chapter is to compare every one of its operations with a set of standards which are kept high enough to be ever unattainable yet not too high to be seen and understood. . .

Patronize Our Advertisers

Like Drive-Ins?
or do you
Like a Place to Sit Down and Be Served?
or do you
Like Free Delivery Right to Your Door?
QUAKER HOUSE
Call 2-8677 on the Quincy H'way
Steaks, Chops, Chicken, Sea Foods, deliciously cooked and served . . .
Large Variety of Sandwiches to Choose From—Largest Soda Fountain in the South!
Choice Swift's Meats Served

Special for Sandspur
Regular $26.95 Dinner Coat
Now a Low $18.95
See the "Mr. Formal" . . . lightweight fabrics, more casual lines and "Flexible" tailoring add up to informal comfort in formal wear!
You'll Feel better, Look more impressive in the new
"Mr. Formal" Dinner Jacket
At a Special Now at $18.95
P. W. WILSON CO.
Tallahassee

FOR YOU . . . Free Monogramming
ON CHOICE LETTER WRITING PAPER
Just Bring This Advertisement and Present at the Counter for the Best in Stationery.
AND
Free Monogramming
OFFER CLOSES TOMORROW!
Select also from the largest variety of Valentine and Greeting Cards in town!
HOUSE & GIFTS
209 S. ADAMS

COAST BOUND?
PEDAL PUSHERS
AT PUSHOVER PRICES!

Twills
Denims
Cuff Styles
Toreador Styles
Plain Colors
Stripes
Fancies
SIZES 10 - 18
Priced from a low of $2.98 UP TO $5.95
MAYERON'S
College Avenue at Adams

You'll Enjoy DANCING to the Superlative Quintones EVERY SATURDAY Floridan Hotel

"The girl who had everything, but—"
Elizabeth Taylor
my daughter

At 16, she was the favorite of millions and had been acclaimed one of the world's great beauties—but no boy would ask her for a date, and she sobbed her heart out like any other teen-ager! Here, Elizabeth Taylor's mother, who once worried about her "funny-looking" baby, tells the true story of the price her daughter paid for being too beautiful. Get the February Ladies' Home Journal, on sale today!
FEBRUARY LADIES' HOME JOURNAL
A CURTIS MAGAZINE

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. says . . .
FOR more than thirty years we have used research day in and day out learning about tobaccos and cigarettes in the public's interest.
Continuously we and our consultants have analyzed, experimented with and smoked all kinds of tobaccos . . . especially Southern Bright, Burley, Maryland and Turkish cigarette tobaccos.
Our own cigarettes and competitive brands have been submitted to the most exacting scientific scrutiny including thousands of analyses of millions of pounds of tobaccos.
From all these thousands of analyses, and other findings reported in the leading technical journals, our Research Department has found no reason to believe that the isolation and elimination of any element native to cigarette tobaccos today would improve smoking.
For four years we have maintained in the smoker's interest an intensified larger scale diversified research program. A half-million dollar 30-ton machine, the world's most powerful source of high voltage electrons, designed solely for our use has tested tens of thousands of cigarettes. This program has already given to us direct and significant information of benefit to the smoking public.
Our consultants include Arthur D. Little, Inc. of Cambridge, Massachusetts, "one of the largest and most reputable industrial research organizations in the country" (From Business Week Magazine) and eminent scientists from leading universities.
Today the public can confidently choose from a variety of brands—by far the best cigarettes ever made by the tobacco industry.
Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

3 Brands
Tested and Approved by 30 Years of Scientific Tobacco Research
Copyright 1954, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Vol. XL, No. 30 — PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA — Tuesday, February 16, 1954

Education Costs Should Be Deducted
See Page 2

'Heavens Above' Opens In Women's Gymnasium

Contest to Name Streets Opens Today!
See Page 3

Torpon Shaw Runs At 8 Each Night Throughout Week

The first showing of "Heavens Above," 1954 Tarpon Club show, was featured last night at the Women's Gym swimming pool. It will continue there each night this week at 8 p.m. through Saturday.

Reserved seats are still available for the Friday and Saturday night show at the main office of the gym, spokesmen said yesterday.

The club's 39 members put on about twelve numbers all centered on a trip through outer space. The acts in order of presentation are "Star Light, Star Bright," "And The Sun Comes Later Thunder," "Space Cadets Parade," "When I Take My Own I Might," "Moon Maidens," "Outer Silly Splashings," "Is It Done?," "Silhouettes In Movement," "Let's Stop And Stay Awhile," "Window To Heaven," "Our Last Glimpse Of The Sun" and "Return To Earth."

Three of the acts, "Moon Maidens," "Is It Really Heaven?" and "Let's Stop And Stay Awhile" were performed by the 21 pledges of members. Their final initiation was marked by the show, their first public swimming appearance. And they are now full-pledged members.

Judy Shrine, president of Tarpon Club, and Dick Meyers teamed up to present a duet "Return To Earth." A comedy number, "Outer Silly Splashings," was directed by the sophomore duo of Jackie Shrine and Sally Ann Hall. Action during the act was accompanied by sounds of the song "You Belong To Me Out of Nowhere."

Last night's program will be followed in each of the coming performances, according to Franklin Hall, assistant professor of Women's Physical Education and Miss Kroier, instructor in the swim department. The former is faculty advisers for the Tarpon Club.

Miss Hall said that she believed that the swimmers demonstrated "tremendous possibilities" in the performance of their numbers. She added that perhaps the "most effective" act was "Star Light, Star Bright" during which 39 girls were turned off and the only illumination was from body lights attached to the swimmers' girls, who engraved light patterns on the pool's surface.

Special praise was reserved by club members for narrator Chris Vann who "did all the acts in character in a unique narration." Miss Hall stated, "The success of the show concerns four of the heaven. Each person or routine is part of the

Before the "Heavens Above" show is given a dedication is voted by divers Earl Heeg and Vivid Lester for benefit of early arrivals, Miss Hall said.

Committee heads in charge of staging "Heavens Above" were Judy Shrine, Coryell; Lights, Jean Sisler; Music, Pat Slater; Art, Ann Carysel; Staging, Dorothy Brown. Costumes, Pat Slater and Dot Baldinger; Properties, Jo Ann Program, Bona Allen; Posters were members of the Tarpon Club and Pat Carter is music technician.

Honorary Reveals Photo Exhibition For All Collegians

Kappa Alpha Mu, honorary fraternity devoted to photojournalism, recently announced its annual 50-print International Collegiate Photography Exhibition for college students. The deadline for pictures should be marked not later than April 1, 1954.

The contest, sponsored by the Eastman Kodak Company, is of national recognition to those persons who enjoy taking pictures as photography. Students who enter the contest need not be members of the fraternity.

Four classes will be judged in the contest, including News, Pictorial, Picture Story, and Feature Sequence. Winners in each division will receive a Kodak Retinette 1B camera, and the runner-up will receive certificates of honorable mention.

Judging will be held at the University of Kansas, where the fraternity's annual convention is April 4. All prints entered for their first public showing.

Then under the sponsorship of KAM, the pictures will be displayed at colleges and universities throughout the United States.

For entry forms or information write to Print Chairman, Bob Stewart, Room 114, School of Journalism, University of Houston, Houston, Texas.

The Florida Flambeau

Meet To Include Ten of South's Forensic Teams

Some ten colleges and universities are expected to compete in Florida State's Fifth Annual Invitational Debate Tournament Friday and Saturday on the campus.

Those institutions already registered include Georgetown University's School of Foreign Service, Appalachian State Teachers' Colleges, Mississippi Southern University, Mercer University, Georgia Tech, Emory University, Florida Christian College, the University of Miami, and FSU.

For the first time in five years, the University of Florida will not compete, causing preocupation with high school debate tournament as the Gainesville campus.

Dr. Orreg Phifer, Head of Debate here, reports that 14 student debaters will represent FSU on the question, "Resolved: that the United States should adopt a policy of free trade."

The affirmative teams are Norma Trippodo and Carolyn Close, Gene Lawler and Bill Twitty, Bill Hall and Jerry Smith. Negative teams are Jacqueline Hammond and Jean Ninkoff—winners in the Gulf States Tournament recently—and Bill Hall and John Roberts, Jonathon Rehwinkel and Jerry Smith.

Tom Woods and Herb Lacayo will also debate one side, still undecided, at the tournament.

Carolyn Close and Paul Wraxe are entered in original oratory competition; Gene Lawler and Pete Ninkoff in impromptu speaking. Extemp will compete in after-dinner speaking.

All sessions except the finals of after-dinner speaking will be held in the social building of the Baptist Church. The public is invited.

Dr. A. Craig Baird, nationally-known authority on debate and personally Professor Headdress at FSU, will be the featured speaker at the opening session.

First Piano Quartet Will Play Next In Artist Series Program

Perfarm in Leon Auditorium February 25; Features Selections of Debussy, Mozart

By BARBARA BACHMAN

The first piano quartet ensemble in the world will present a number of classical selections in another artist series concert Feb. 25 in the Leon High School auditorium. Among the selections on the program are: Clair De Lune by Debussy and Rondo ' Haffner Serenade" by Mozart.

Buses will run leaving the Music Building parking lot at 7. Arrangements to ride should sign one of the lists either in the Public Relations office, Auditorium or the Music Building bulletin board.

When the idea for four pianos being played acoustacously was first brought to Edna Phillips Coman, program officials of the National Broadcasting Company were startled, but after everyone agrees that it was a good idea, according to reports.

Adele Carter, Glauco D'Aitili, Frank Mittler and Edward Edson, professors of music faculty of Padinan, compose this first professional piano quartet ever to be heard in America.

Since very little distinguished music have ever been written for four pianos, except for a little known work of Bach's, the domain of four piano ensemble is very limited. Ensemble is virtually their own. Mr. Edson said that no single one of these has the arrangeing. They decide on a selection, each of them arranges it for the four pianos, they play it, and then after discussing it, usually combine the best parts of the four arrangements.

Mr. Carter says that people disagree as to what they sound like. Some say that together they sound like one piano, others say they sound like four pianos, and still others say they sound like a whole room full of pianos.

The quartet has no conductor. They say that they know each other so well that it is impossible to get out of time. Often they have started playing in four separate rooms only being able to hear each other, but even then they never miss.

The piano quartet is something new in the field of chamber music quartet because it took four musicians to produce it. Garner in Physical Science, Jill Hall from Italy, Mittler from Austria, and Edson from the United States, and they took America to fuse these talents into one group.

The astounding success of the piano ensemble has simulated unusual interest in the piano and in the field of music written for orthodox instrumental combinations, and the quantity seems to be not crowded with good music.

Listeners are invited to suggest compositions that they would like to hear arranged for four pianos. The quartet's weekly concerts have been based largely on these.

Contest Planned To Name Streets In FSU Campus

Probably everyone's familiar with several popular campus names, like "What's My Name?" and "What's My Line?"

Also, probably everyone will agree they're interesting as well as rewarding — to the person on the program.

Here's the chance at a lifetime for smart, quick-thinking Florida Staters to gain an honor for themselves as well as doing their school and their fellow students a good turn. Everyone can join. What are we talking about? What's the contest we're talking about? Why, it's the famous STREET NAMING CONTEST being scored by the Florida FLAMBEAU and GOLD KEY, men's honorary fraternity on campus.

No more will FSU's main artery be referred to as "the street by the Education Building," or "the street that goes in front of the gym. In honor of Chris Young, Gold Key tap man, the new road will be named originated, "This must come to an end."

Here's the chance to name the heretofore nameless streets of the FSU campus. Any and all names officially adopted and incorporated into the University Master Plan Built—to have the honor of having named all of any of the "Main Streets"—streets!

Here's what to do:

There are eight (8) streets and lanes to be named. Each accompanying map, each by-way has been numbered.

For example: the street to your right on driving through Westcott gate is "Gate Number One Road." The street to the left of the gate which flanks the Science Building and University Buildings might be named South Gate Number One.

This idea could be carried out the street guiding your choice of names.

HOWEVER: A CENTRAL THEME throughout the campus which is theme of prominent buildings on

(Continued on Page 3)

Sandspur Production Set For 8:15 P.M. Tomorrow

Producer Stokes Praises Chavers, Others Who Helped

With premiere day set for tomorrow, the producer and director of "Panorama," this year's Sandspur production, has many worrying things to iron for the show, the music, and the performers themselves.

"The people are beginning to live their parts," commented director Bill Chavers yesterday. "That's very good, inasmuch as the dancers are, singers should put personality into it. They're putting everything they've got into the dancing and singing."

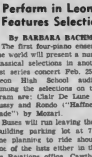
"Some of the songs are exceptional," said Chavers, referring to the songs which make up the all-music and dance show with love as its theme. "Especially, leading to 'Blue Summer,' 'Someone,' and 'Let's Face It.'"

Producer Thomas Bailey Stokes added that "these are the kind of songs you can't get away humming." The music itself was written by Leo Andrews.

Besides the musical the work of Chavers, who stepped in as director only two weeks after the resignation of Leo Andrews, "He just stepped right in and the production, as we know the secretary," said Miss Stokes in thankful tones.

She also extended appreciation to Dr. Robert Briggs, "for all in making time for advice and advice to singers." Dr. Wiley Housewright, Dr. Paul Darbin Smith, for advice; Mr. Charles Reisner, of the speech department, for help in diction; Art designing; Kitty Culpepper, set designer; Dance choreography, Betty Ann Nasrallah, costumes; Sigma Kappa sorors, under the direction of Jeanne Wright, which will sing "Lonesome for You," and "I Can't Forget," and Mr. Fred P. Vogel, for "the assistance, counsel, and helping with the handaches."

"Blue Summer," one of the top tunes written by Chavers, will be sung between scenes by a quintet. Dick Gutting will be featured in the number between scenes number entitled, "I've had a course in . . . ," and Dean Hudson will portray a bowery bum in another between scenes number.



Panorama features an interesting themes of love as portrayed in dance, song, and drama, in dialogue, but merely singing and dancing.

The choreography has been done by Producer Stokes, who has planned the routines for two previous Sandspur productions. Commenting on the work and responsibility of Stokes, she said, "The musical arrangements are simple and efficient to fit dances to music. The dances are lively, full of pep sounds and discover the proper timing for steps, constantly keeping in mind the theme which is most important.

"There is more cooperation, enthusiasm and better spirit from the dancers this year than the previous years," she concluded.

The last scene, she added, "will also hold audience interest. It (The Basin Street Scene) is the most humorous."

Ticket sales for the Friday and Saturday performances have been brisk, according to Miss Stokes, but the hour and a half production by the Sandspur staff in the store, Sweet Shop and the lower lobby of Westcott beginning today.

Dean Hudson

Hudson Offers Dance Music In New Style

The Sandspur Dance, held annually in connection with Sandspur week, will begin next Saturday at 3 p. in. in the Suwannee Room.

Music will be provided for the occasion by Dean Hudson, who bills his orchestra as the "New look in dance music." According to Bob Rice, decorations and publicity chairman of the dance, the admission will be $1.25 per person, with tickets available in Lower Westcott and the Student Center. Rice stressed that passages are optional.

An early evening concert will be given by Hudson's band in the Music building Amphitheater, Friday at 8 p.m. It will be an audience participation program, and will be free to the faculty, students and their friends, Rice revealed.

During the concert, each member of the audience will participate either by leading the band, by group and individual singing. In case of rain, it will be held at the Student Center.

Rice said that the concert has been going on for some time, with the latter provided by the Inter-Fraternity Council. He added, "these decorations are slaborate in order to fit the Homecoming motif."

Students who have been working on the dance include, Rice, Arden Wright, dance chairman; Margaret Hewett, decorations and publicity; and Shirley Ann Hall and Barbara Meadows who are in charge of production.

Also recorded by Hudson's band will be broadcast over local stations WTAL and WTNT the remainder of the week. According to Rice, Hudson's band has made appearances in many of the best places in the country. "It is one of the youngest and best bands on the road," he added.

(Continued on Page 3)

Jack Holmes Plans Study In Mexico

Jack Holmes of Florida State University has been awarded a fellowship by the Government of Mexico to study in Mexico City for a year, beginning in March and ending in mid-December.

Recipient of the honor was chosen by the Institute of International Education from among the country. The award carries with it a monthly stipend of $60, plus a "generous" monthly stipend to be paid by the Mexican government.

Holmes is a precictoral student, majoring in Inter-American Relations, with special emphasis on Latin American History.

He received his schooling in Jacksonville and has attended Florida State University from 1948 to 1952.

Library Welcomes Ideas From Students For Improvements

By FLORENCE PAYNE

It's an old building but new ideas are welcome.

In 1953, the state legislature appropriated $1,250,000 for building for Florida State University. This building should be a reality by the time certain things are built. At the present, however, the impossibility of obtaining materials to person Street at the edge of East Campus must suffice as the refuge for books and students here.

To meet the more urgent needs of the students, faculty, and faculty, several changes were made in the Library rules and activities planned by Miss Dismukes, the librarian and her staff. Some of these changes have been included in these changes, most noticeably being in the Reserve Room and in the Browsing Room.

The Reserve Room was redecorated and the furniture rearranged in order to make books more accessible to the students. To promote more student-faculty use of the Browsing Room, the department was moved to the front of the building on the second floor.

A student library committee has also been organized by Norman Klipstrick, Director of Libraries, was formed by the educational efforts of Mr. Klipatrick and the student government. This committee will serve from now on, as the st-

(Continued on Page 3)

Conyers Feels Faith Program Working Well

Miss June Conyers, chairman of the 1954 Intelligent Faith Week, said yesterday, "I feel that all of the committees have been working exceptionally well in planning the many necessary details." She added that she is certain that everyone is looking forward to an inspiring week, beginning on the first of next February 21 and continue through the 28th.

Program for the week includes breakfast for all every morning, discussion groups in various classrooms, at the dormitory tea on Wednesday, denominational tea at the fraternity and sorority houses on Monday, and speaking. Most meetings will be held in the music auditorium on Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Tuesday night Dr. A. Kristian Jensen, son of five Americans released from North Korean imprisonment last spring, will be the featured speaker and the A Choral Union will provide music. Denominational meetings with the University Singers will highlight the Wednesday meeting.

Miss Conyers said that will be the final luncheon in the Suwannee Room at 12:30 on Thursday. Featured speaker for this event will be The Reverend Wilburn T. Thomas, a field representative for the American Mission Boards who has spent several years in various countries of the East and Europe.

Dr. Claude Neel, University chaplain, has urged that all students take advantage of the excellent group of books on various religious subjects now currently on display in the library.

Nearly 150 students and 25 members of the administration and faculty have worked on the 14 committees in preparation for the annual affair according to spokesmen. Committees are in charge of representatives of all religious groups on campus. The executive committee includes Dr. Claude Campbell as honorary chairman; Fred Vogel and Richard Dyess as co-chairmen; Adair Conyers as vice-chairman; Dick Moorer and Mrs. Jack Shaw, secretaries; and W. K. Morsey, Dr. Sarah Herndon, and Dr. Wiley Housewright, consultants. Dr. Sam Neel in his capacity of University Chaplain.

Request Umbrellas

Special requests have been issued by Bill Hamilton, Chairman Bob Rice for large beach-type folding umbrellas and tables which are to be used at the Homecoming Dance. Rice said all loaned equipment will be greatly appreciated, cared for, and will be picked up and delivered if donators will call University, ext. 4301 and leave names.

Sociology Students Interview Persons For Intensive Study

By W. L. YERGASON

The student pressed the doorbell and slouching on one foot waited. He heard a voice and the door opened. "Yes?"

This is the sociology department of Florida State University. Could I have a few minutes of your time?

The scene was re-enacted many times as students enrolled in researchers worked as pollers for the Sociology department for the leisure time survey of Tallahassee.

The survey, initiated by Dr. M. F. Nimkoff, head of the Sociology department, under the sponsorship of Dr. John L. Haer, asst. Prof. of Sociology and Robert McGinnis, acting asst. Prof. of Sociology.

The survey took the form of a questionnaire that required from thirty minutes to an hour to give. Fifteen basic points of the eighty questions asked were: Do you like to live in this area? about his immediate neighborhood: the people, homes, appearance, and as a place to raise children.

2. Feelings of the person about the way in which the city is run: city officials, sheriff's office, etc.

Each day the thirty student researchers would turn in their results at the Sociology Research Laboratory in Bellamy where they would work for the day. Spreading out to all parts of the city they performed their duties. At the point they were assigned until they had completed it at home and got the questionnaire filled out or were refused an interview.

The percentage of refusals, according to Dr. Haer, was surprisingly low. "We had only about 8%," he said, "whereas the average survey of this kind held in, say, Chicago, would consider a 25% refusal as excellent."

The information was trasted on before being sent out with a questionnaire.

(Continued on Page 3)

Composers Competition Opens To Students At Florida State

The annual Student Composers Radio Awards Competition for 1954 is now open at Florida State University, according to contest sponsors.

Prizes totaling $7,500 will be awarded for "The best unpublished serial or vocal composition by student composers" selected from all over the United States, the sponsors added.

First prize will be $2000; second prize will be $1,500; third will be $1,000 and six more, totaling $7,500 will be awarded. Contest officials revealed that entries for the 1953 contest totaled 1,600 and they expect to receive the amount received the previous year.

The Student Composers Radio Contest is open to students of accredited conservatories of music, universities, colleges, secondary schools and private teachers in the United States, its possessions and Canada. All awards may be applied to tuition and subsistence.

Announced judges are: William Schuman, president, Juilliard School of Music; Earl V. Moore, dean, University of Michigan School of Music; and Henly Cowell, Peabody Conservatory of Music, Institute of Inter-American Composers Alliance.

Sponsors added that the group "will be assisted by leading composers, publishers and interpreters of music whose names will be announced shortly.

The award contest was recently approved and added to the "Approved List of National Contests for Secondary School Activities" by the Association of Secondary School Principals.

Contest rules, together with entry blanks, are available from Russel Sanjek, director SCRA Project, Pitts floor, 580 Fifth Avenue, New York 19, New York.

Yale's Griswold Lists 3 Trends Dangerous To Nation's Schools

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (I.P.)—President A. Whitney Griswold of Yale University warned here recently that three dangerous trends threaten "not only the institutional welfare of American education but its very mind and spirit."

In his annual report, Griswold stressed that if these trends are permitted to continue, "they will bring about a decline in educational collapse and cultural setback that will make Yale in the year 2000 A.D. no better than any other university could escape."

The trends which he cited are:

1. The acute shortage of school facilities and the threatening mounting pupil enrollment; 2. The even more acute shortage of competent teachers in secondary school teachers; 3. The "growing tendency to look on education as a force to end national educational problems."

Nowhere in American schools has already affected colleges and universities, Griswold pointed out. These higher institutions depend upon the schools "for their most essential raw material, and if the schools cannot or do not send them properly qualified material, the whole fabric of higher education is threatened and must suffer in both quantity and quality."

"Students who have been promoted through overcrowded and undisciplined classrooms, taught by inexperienced, poorly and improperly qualified teachers, and nurtured on subjects that do not challenge their intellectual minds and expand their vitis are poor material for college or university," he stated.

Already there are glaring examples of inadequate preparation among college students, chiefly in basic skills. Many cannot read or write the English language correctly, President Griswold said, and "their mastery of mathematics is appalling."

Since a teacher in Yale College is by no means unique in the low grades, though they pass with high marks for their knowledge of the subject they teach, though they may be at all competent to teach it if he had graded them in high school.

In analyzing the decline of the liberal arts as a force in the American educational system, President Griswold said that "these studies are disappearing under a layer of vocational and other substitutes like the languages in the Soviet Union, only this glacier reaches down deeper and goes further south to border. Throughout the majority of our secondary schools

(Continued on Page 3)

'Flying High' Tours Florida; Appears In Only Three Cities

Twenty-eight members of the famed Flying High, Florida State University circus group, returned to the campus Saturday after a three-day bunk to South Florida, for personal appearances in cities there.

Leaving Friday morning at 5:30, the group arrived in each city that night in Fort Pierce, Sanford, and Daytona Beach for an evening performance. Riggers, it was noted, proceeded performances by a day in order to set up for the group.

Appreciation was shown by the according to spokesmen, when tucson on the week-end trip. Chief Rigger Jack Mosher, the Bicycle built for Three, the Giant Wheel and the Perch Pole Artists, Jugglemaining these were acts on by double high bar, the Flying Devarenos, the Three Delmonts and acrobatics.

Mosher also says "very successful" according to reporters.

Semester plans for the entire group, according to planners, include trips to Valdosta, Lake City, Albany, Columbus, Tampa, Gainesville, Lakeland, St. Petersburg and Miami.

The "Big Show", or the Talladega Circus, FSU's annual stuff, will take place here May 6, 7, 8 and 9th.

Traveling on the week-end trip that completed were Ann Calla, Barbara Meadows, Jane Hutto, Betty Ann Munroe, Shirley Fallers and Janet Gordon, Jackie Shrine, Sally Ann Handley, Lee Vetra Armstrong, Marties Denney, Judy Brown, Jeanne Lesesne Anderson and Ina Jean Pruitt.

Also, Carol Caston, Diane Clark, Della Albert, Ellen Prentiss, Lee Parmalee, Pat Emmett and Patricia Ann Browder.

Bob Berner, Larry Mc. George Carnahan, James Martins, Sandy Sanderson, Jackie Fortune, Ron Smith, Larrie Nelson, Dick Reid, John Mabee, Bill Stevens, Ronald Skrlick, Billy Joe Norris and Jim Vause.

News Briefs

JOURNALISTS CLUB

The new Journalism Club, Sigma Theta, will have its second meeting tonight at 7:30 in room 406, Longmire. The first meeting held last week was attended by 35 students. A constitution was adopted and Warren Cobb was elected president. Other officers will be elected at the meeting tonight.

Men and women students interested in journalism, according to the club's purpose, may become active, should attend the meetings, which will be for social, service and professional advancement of the students.

The Journalists' Club plans an eventful affiliation with national professional journalism groups.

GRADUATE CLASS

Dr. E. Lee Vincent, physical education department, will be the guest speaker at the Graduate Physical Education to be held Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Physical Education Building. Subject of Dr. Mitten's talk is "The Role of the Wetzel Grid in Physical Education."

All mature and graduate students and faculty members are invited to attend these weekly "Dutch-treat" meetings.

PHYSICS SEMINAR

Dr. R. H. Bube of Oak Ridge National Laboratory will speak on "Photoconductivity

(Continued on Page 5)

Income Tax Reform Could Mean Education For Thousands More

Every year we hear the need for federal aid to education tossed around as a political football. The proponents come forth with excellent statistics to show the need for more aid, and the opponents always attack the ideas as socialistic or as encroachments upon states' rights.

Yet there exists one simple method whereby the government could help thousands more students go to college each year, and this plan could hardly be attacked on either of the two customary grounds.

The proposal is to make educational expenses deductible from income tax.

The arguments in favor of some sort of aid to college students and their parents are obvious, but we summarize a few points. First of all, facts and figures abound to show that while more students are attending institutions of education than ever before, still most cannot afford college. Furthermore, there is a wide discrepancy in the qualities of our schools. Even when students can afford to attend college, there is no guarantee that they are getting much.

Educational costs are rising. Perhaps we would better say skyrocketing. If the trend continues, there will be people from even more economic strata who cannot afford a college education. We do not feel this reflects well on our form of democratic government.

Yet no educational expenses can be deducted from income taxes. The widow who takes in laundry and scrubs floors to pay for her daughter's education cannot deduct a penny. The man who takes summer and outside work to pay his way through college must pay the full tax rate, without alleviation.

In effect, present income tax policies condone an unequalized system under which only the comparatively rich can afford college.

At present, tax payers using the so-called long form may deduct from their gross adjusted income all medical expenses over five per cent of the total income. What we propose is something similar to this for students and parents of students. If a student, for instance, earns $1200 in summer and part-time work, then all educational expenses over $60 would be deductible.

Let us suppose that this student's books amount to $60, and then let us suppose that other educational expenses for the year totaled $400. Then the student would be taxed only on $800. Being in this lower income tax bracket would probably save him about $100. This would mean a lot to a person whose income does not spread very far.

Similarly for parents who must scrape to send their children to college: one or two hundred dollars could well mean the difference between their being able and unable.

We do not pretend that this tax reform would be a final solution to the needs of education, particularly on the primary and secondary levels. But it would mean immediately that many more thousands could attend college, and it would abolish the government's tacit approval of college-for-the-rich-only.

"There's Been Talk He Believes In The Bill Of Rights"

Dear Mama Seminole

Dear Mama Seminole:

Heap big Biology professor tell of hrave with several yards of small intestine removed in operation because of a tendency toward constipation. Sister Susie in rear of room take notes . . . "Brave cure muffler trouble with straight exhaust."

Me think of move in big tribe called labor that needs throttling. Blind minded socialicrats buy most powerful car in world and put a little more confining governor on it every year. For every privilege an obligation . . . for every right a restriction . . . and for every labor victory a loss of personal freedom to work, advance and bargain. Papa Seminole tell me that union is organized to create the absence of the need for organized labor. How can a laborer who hasn't even the choice of safely refusing to belong to a union? Sure, me leave no doubt. Union has advantages . . . so has jail . . . I make a day and a warm dry place to sleep, free. Union is the end and secure jail for political, occupational rights and freedoms of working man

Big mama here on reservation holds family pow-wow with all maidens. Reminds Georgie of plowing class. Big chief's squad used to hold all maidens. She should have known all our maidens had been plowing for years.

Love all,

Georgie Seminole

Exchange Between Writer, Paper Typifies Docile Attitude Dominating Today's Youth

Editor's note: We feel there could be few better comments on the docility of our generation than this exchange between a letter-writer and the School at Illinois, Northern Illinois State Teachers College. The letter is the indictment, the reply typical of American students today.

The Writer Accuses

In light of the Northern Illinois issues I have received since last September, it is evident that you have sent free, if any, comments from your readers regarding the inferiority of your publication.

. . . This "picture weekly" I refer to abounds with supplementary news and views of past and future dances, old and new committees, athletic wins and losses, and "Klub Korner" chatter. What it adds up to is an elaborate school calendar — a printed bulletin board.

Where, I would like to know, are the essays, columns, short-shorts, editorials and letters to the editor which reflect some of the questions, answers and criticisms that I assume the students think about? Or am I jumping to assumptions?

At the present time a most vital controversy is being waged between "traditional" and "progressive" schools of education on innumerable college campuses. Yet what is found among the pages of your volumes is teachers college newspaper, no less) concerning this important issue? NOT A WORD.

. . . This is only one of the items that needs critised, thought-provoking literary treatment. Students' reactions to and interpretations and impressions of prejudice and politics, literature and languages, philosophy and history, and education and investigations need to be expressed.

. . . Perhaps to do this is a crying against your meeting your responsibilities as newspaper editor . . . and against Northern Illinois' student body as a whole.

And the Newspaper Replies

. . . How can a campus NEWSpaper avoid the covering of such events as dances, programs and club activities and be worthy of being a NEWS paper? To my mind a NEWSpaper does not primarily function to provide space for useless and long-winded philosophical dissertations which produce nothing but hunger, and for the most part, more insignificant articles and editorials.

. . . We receive about 40 papers from other institutions of about our size. Upon scanning them, you would find their editors also concern themselves with the more pressing matters, such as developing school spirit or promoting a Homecoming parade . . .

The Northern Illinois reflects the attitude, the adequacies and inadequacies of the whole institution by its treatment or non-treatment of matters. After all, if there is no student who wishes to write "interpretations of prejudice and politics, literature and language, philosophy and history, and education investigations," there are none printed.

If there are no such writers, then the Northern Illinois only reflects the interests and activities of the student body. If the Northern Illinois has failed to present space available to such writers, then it is inadequate and unworthy of being a paper.

● LETTER POLICY

The letters to the editor column in The Florida Flambeau has existed solely for the benefit of the students of the university. It has been their right to gripe, complains and to disagree with the newspaper.

We are proud to carry the letters to the editor column and pleased that at least some students are aware the newspaper in be another voice for them. But since here has been what we consider misuse f the column of late, we want to explain ur policy in more detail.

The Flambeau prints all letters which it receives with certain qualifications: they must be signed, and we reserve the right to withhold letters that make invidious attacks on individuals. The editor also may cut letters over 250 words if space requirements demand.

The letter writer may ask that his name be withheld, and this is the primary reason for making this statement of policy. We withhold names to protect writers in unusual circumstances. If such a request is made, we either withhold the name or the entire letter. This serves to protect students. But we do not intend to let the privilege be abused.

Henceforth writers requesting their names be withheld should show cause. Frivolous names on letters will no longer be considered.

We hope this statement does not scare away writers, because we are pleased to receive comments. It is for the protection of deserving students that we make the requirements on names withheld more stringent.

● WARNING

WARNING! Pretty but dangerous!

Mr. Shaw's office has warned us that construction on the Memorial wading superstructure of new Westcott auditorium for about the next 30 days. Some people find the process fascinating, but unfortunately damage to the eyes often results.

The tremendous light intensity can cause blisters on the eyes which last for days.

Though welding is no Medusa, we warn students not to watch directly.

The Florida Flambeau

BRUCE GALPHIN—Editor

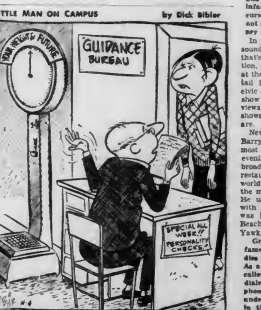
Bob Folsom, Managing Editor

At Pierce, News Editor

Jayleen Robertson
Charles Schaudt
Ken Kingery
Oscar Johnson, Marilyn Church, Mary Elizabeth King, Tom Hall, Betty Bishop, Lona Cozier, Barbara Bachman, Joyce Potter

At Pierce, Sports Staff

Art Consultant ..... Franklin Adams
Copy Editors ..... Sylvia Parrish, Dick Vetter, Gary Davis
Photographic Editor ..... Joe Caldwell
Junior Staff ..... Dot Thomasson, Mary Elizabeth King, Tom Hall, Betty Bishop, Lona Cozier, Barbara Bachman, Joyce Potter



NANCY LOWE—Business Mgr.

Al Markwitz, Advertising Mgr.

Business Staff ..... Mary Wagon, Virginia Vaughn, Joe Caldwell
Advertising Soliciting ..... Members of Alpha Delta Sigma Service Fraternity
Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service, Inc., 420 Madison Ave., New York, 17, N. Y.
Telephone 2 8000, extension 481. Box 1000, Ballard 211, 213 Longmire Building

Exchange Editor ..... Pat Hobson
Exchange Staff ..... Lil Haverid
Distribution ..... Members of Alpha Delta Sigma Service Fraternity

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University.
Member Intercollegiate Press.

"After reviewing your case, we're still in a quandry . . . Would you mind stopping around here for a moment?"

Too Many Books For Brooksville?

By BRUCE GALPHIN

When Americans speak of democracy they usually have in mind some favored and familiar form of government in mind. Democracy in stone dioes is a diarthlss and disquieting thing.

Take for instance, the teacher of democracy at Hernando County High School in Brooksville, who assigned her pupils to learn the differences between fascism, communism and democracy. Many of them found out that the students could find plenty of material indeed, she was amazed that she complained to school principal W. A. Bugnet.

The principal in turn told the library board and the local American Legion. Then the librarian contained what he termed communistic material. Soon after the FBI was informed of the dasterdly affair.

What was the communistic material? Why, books about the Soviet Union, and the magazines The Nation and New Republic.

Personally, I do not know exactly what books were on the list. There could have been some actually written by communists. The fact that Nation and New Republic were included on the objectionable list, however, leads me to believe the scare was pure hysteria.

NEW REPUBLIC is a sort of saturday-morning liberal magazine which has become almost indistinguishable in viewpoint from the liberal element at the Democratic party. THE NATION is perhaps the most honestly liberal magazine I have ever read. Its chief fault is liberal, but it is in no means doctrinaire. By no stretch of intelligent imagination could the magazine be labeled communist. Even the most morbidly assume the books on the list were also communistic only by twisted imagination.

But whether or not the books were "communistic" (whatever that means) is really beside the point. The students were assigned to study communism, and how else can they do so but by reading books on it.

The prevailing philosophy in teaching high school students seems to be one of benevolent dictatorial protection. Unfortunately benevolence is a subversive term, and it usually ends up meaning the repression of the privilege too weak or too ignorant to cope with important ideas.

To continue with the Brooksville incident, one of the library board members became a protector. Paul B. Parker, retired army colonel, defended from a committee of one to purify and uplift the library. In criticism of goodness, Parker used a list of approved books prepared by the national American Legion. All questionable books on communism were removed, and only Legion-approved ones remained.

The story fortunately does not end here. Public opinion and the Brooksville mayor, plus the majority of the library board, forced the replacement of the books. Nonetheless, the unusual remain as an example of how fanatical devotion to a cause can undermine it.

Odham, Collins And A Blood-Letting

By WARREN COBB

"When I come back to run for governor, I'm coming on my own and I'm coming for blood. . . ."

—Words to the words of Willie Stark, the Huey Long demagogue of the novel All The King's Men. And Willie's blood good as his word. He came back with a vengeance, ousting the governor's mansion on the hick vote and the power of rhetoric. You ask me what my program is Here it is, you peasants! And don't you forget it. Nail 'em up! . . . Nail up anybody who stands in your way!

There was no room for blood flowed. Ultimately, of course, it was Willie's blood.

There are many interesting parallels and contrasts between the state of Louisiana and the state of Florida, but Louisiana.

It would appear that candidate Bruce Odham is coming back hard this time for blood. He started his anti-machine campaign against the late Dan McCarty in 1952. He made a name for himself throughout the state; he displayed keen political acumen in his revolutionary "talkathons" which captured a large segment of the electorate; and he established himself as a magnanimous loser in his concession speech. But most important speech of his campaign.

It is probable that Odham realized he would be beaten by McCarty; he was aiming for the "come-back." This is it. The primary obstacle is Sen. LeRoy Collins.

The ODHAM RECORD, a 16,000 pamphlet published in Sanford by the Brailey Odham Campaign Fund, has become the premier outlining the Collins

The Record indicts Collins for being co-sponsor of a 1939 bill passed by the House which gave the Board of Conservation the right to set prices. Other charges: Collins' law firm has been counsel for the Dog Race Track, he has represented "several state agencies in the state," he favors e —"Lieutenant Governor," he is a member of a firm dominated and controlled by special interests, etc.

The Record goes on to give a summary of Odham's qualifications, praises from various newspapers and editorials, and outline of his program.

Odham has begun his campaign against the late Dan McCarty in 1952. He made a name for himself throughout the state; he displayed keen political acumen in his revolutionary "talkathons" which captured a large segment of the electorate; and he established himself as a magnanimous loser in his concession speech. But most important speech of his campaign.

It is probable that Odham realized he would be beaten by McCarty; he was aiming for the "come-back." This is it. The primary obstacle is Sen. LeRoy Collins.

The ODHAM RECORD, a 16,000 pamphlet published in Sanford by the Brailey Odham Campaign Fund, has become the premier outlining the Collins

The Record indicts Collins for being co-sponsor of a 1939 bill passed by the House which gave the Board of Conservation the right to set prices. Other charges: Collins' law firm has been counsel for the Dog Race Track, he has represented "several state agencies in the state," he favors e —"Lieutenant Governor," he is a member of a firm dominated and controlled by special interests, etc.

The Record goes on to give a summary of Odham's qualifications, praises from various newspapers and editorials, and outline of his program.

Odham has begun his campaign against the late Dan McCarty in 1952. He made a name for himself throughout the state; he displayed keen political acumen in his revolutionary "talkathons" which captured a large segment of the electorate; and he established himself as a magnanimous loser in his concession speech. But most important speech of his campaign.

Many Changes Effected In Library Reserve Room

By FLORENCE PAYNE

(This is the first in a series of articles about your University Library. See story on page 1.)

Last fall things began to happen in the University Library Reserve Room.

Changes were made in the arrangement of furniture and fixtures to make the room more comfortable for student use. Lounge areas were provided. Pictures were placed around the walls and attractive displays were featured.

Most of these changes were inspired by the resourceful Reserve Librarian Mrs. Beatrice Easley, assisted by Mrs. Rita Fogel, and Miss Doris Temple.

For your added convenience, additional changes will be made in the future.

At the present, title cards are being added to the card file to supplement the author cards now used. More books are being added to the open shelves to eliminate the necessity of waiting at the counter for your book needs.

The student will find in the reserve room those materials which have been specifically assigned for particular courses. The reserve room is on the ground floor of the library and books for each assignment reading are placed here. Books on reserve are not indicated in the main catalog; but in the reserve room there is a card file for books on reserve.

The following is general information on how to borrow e book from the reserve room:

ROOM-USE books must be used during the day in the reserve room only. They may be borrowed for overnight use from 8:00 p.m. until closing time, and on Saturday afternoons from 1:30 p.m. until closing time. They are always due at 8:30 a.m. the next morning.

Two-day books may be borrowed at any time during the day or evening. They are due one week from the day that you check them out. They may be returned anytime during the day or evening.

Fees: The penalty for keeping a reserve book overtime is ten cents per hour or fraction of an hour. This applies to two-day and one-week reserves as well as those for room and overnight use.

It is not humanly possible to please everyone or meet the needs of all students with general rules and rules we must have If you have a special problem concerning use of the reserve room or the books placed on reserve, you will find a sympathetic librarian on duty at the counter. Don't be afraid to ask for help—they want to help you whatever it is possible without depriving other students of their reserve room needs.

Even Deejays Specialize These Days

By DAVID DREIS

It started in Cleveland and rolled into an avalanche. That's the all-night disc-jockey and the "specialty" show. Now each of them disc-jockey is like calling hamburger specialty.

There are all sorts of deejay's but when said performer starts "specializing" he has entered the ranks of a night club, anything can happen.

Most of the big cities are haunted with these guys and gals. Each one of them is holding a better commentary on any subject than even the most learned professor.

Jo Miami, one deejay by the name of Arthur Godfrey is continually throwing barbs at the city's management, the refuse collectors and the next sarah-sluttering event that between cars to talk about when they call his number, Courtney has his control board at his finger tips and can hear the listener's questions. He merely plugs in the phone to the board and you can hear the caller asking for the low down on the earth weighs and any other bit of useful information. When he wishes curses or sounds drunk . . . not content with this and Courtney goes on his why.

In Chicago, Jack Eigen who sounds like fat Fred Allen, if that's e good enough description, is holding down the fort at the swank Chez Parve's every tail lounge. Eigen talks about erotic affairs, his problems and show business. He has interviews with prominent people and knows how dull many of them are.

New York homes a fella called Barry Gray who is probably the most hated and most loved of e evening commentators. His broadcasts from an all-night restaurant and cafe discuss the world affairs with the ease of the man who lived it and knew it. He used to be quite chummy with Walter Winchell when he was broadcasting from Miami Beach, but since shifting to Noo Yawk, it's been mine and Fury.

Gray is famous (or infamous) for the way he handles the telephone terrorizers. As a comeback to the cursing caller or the disagreeable dialer, Gray will peer into the phone and say: "Take a nap under a fire hydrant, that'll be the heavy traffic — live diaphragmatically" or something to that effect. One time a guest, publisher Reuben Client of the "Ri-a-ta," called Gray a sensational weasel sheet, took a swat at R. G. while guesting on the all-night stint. Gray picked up the microphone and described Client curly on the cranium. The tape recording of the show got raves from the listeners when it was replayed three nights later and the publicity, thanks to the press services, netted him a New York contract. This started moment for the Miami papers to be dubbed "the Gray Sheet." Gray is sometimes called "the Westbrook Pegler

Letters to the Editor . . .

Ah, Equalization

Before I sack in tonight I'm going to kneel and thank God that I'm not Small Fry. Deprived of the six shooter, or greet equalizer, as it is sometimes known, I'll also humbly murmur my gratitude for the fact that the instruments of homicide he has seen fit to put among us.

This is the reason why I was privileged to witness a little disagreement by two players on the football field this afternoon. What the fistiuffs were about I can't say, for I just happened along.

Anyway, in the course of a play these two fellows came to blows and began rolling around accompanied by all the grunts and groans peculiar to such activities. The coaches were right on the job for the fighting was stopped immediately. But behold, no sooner was it stopped than one coach announced he had enough of such petty rifts, and therefore these two were to strip off their equipment and the fight it out. The men complied to the letter and I was privileged to one of them was approximately 60 to 80 pounds heavier and 2 to 4 inches taller than the other.

On seeing this I naturally expected the coach to put an end to the affair. My expectations were short lived. He ordered them to mix it up instead. Over on the sidelines I consoled myself with the hope that Small Fry would be one of those rare, intelligent fast, cool and calm characters. I was doomed to disappointment, for as soon as the fight had started it was obvious Small Fry couldn't fight. He was awkward, slow and not quite e mess of Small Fry's nose, and so far as I could tell didn't get a scratch himself.

Disgusted, all this I. I feel most indebted to Mr. Colt, as I've said before, and the gent who first developed gunpowder for you see, Mr. Editor, they put the two lads on an even basis. Not that the fight wouldn't might. For it is a fact, sir, that however much we dislike a fight, we like even less a coward.

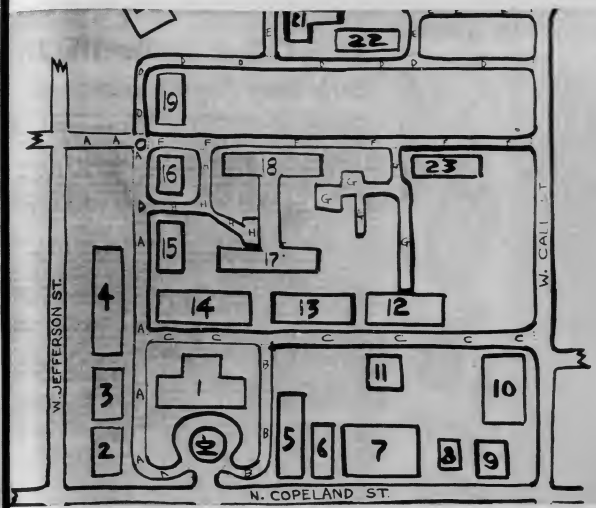
Sincerely yours,

CHARLES ADAMS

Rockefeller Ill Lists Four Living Mottos

(From the Daily Tar Heel, University of North Carolina)

There's a syndicated column or radio event—we can't remember which—featuring as his title, "Words to Live By." Recently we read some words of John D. Rockefeller III which seem to us words to live by. Mr. Rockefeller has to list:



1. Refrain from a tendency to repeat your ideas or way of life on other peoples.

2. Evince as much willingness to learn from them as help them.

3. Acquire a knowledge of their needs, aspirations and accomplishments.

4. Recognize that the success or failure of one people increasingly affects all and is the responsibility of all.

The four fundamentals, Mr. Rockefeller calls them. We don't know of a better foundation.

Council At Kent Asks Tax Relief On College Cost

KENT, O. (I.P.)—The Student Council at Kent State University has been asked to support a letter writing movement to change the present income tax law. With Congress again in session it is expected that the Hon. Burnet R. Maybank of South Carolina will appear before the Senate Finance Committee with an amendment for an inclusion of educational expenses, with medical expenses, which are deductible in the amount exceeding five per cent of net income.

A letter received here recently from the Student Council of the University of Louisville requested all leading colleges and universities, including Kent, to send letters to their representatives in Washington asking their support of this proposed amendment. These representatives must appear before the Senate Finance Committee, in session, to request the inclusion of the proposal in the tax bill for the next fiscal year. This is necessary because any matter relating to taxes is handled by the Finance Committee and any changes must originate in committee.

The University of Louisville has indorsed this proposed amendment and has urged its senators and congressmen to appear before the Senate Finance Committee on behalf of college students. Students there feel the passage of this amendment will relieve the unwarranted financial burden of today's cost of education, but will also raise the education al standards of our country in a manner which will take second place only to the recent G.I. bill benefits.

"Sweethearts of West Hall"—Mary Jane Robertson, center and her attendants Carol Lawley and Cookie Turkner were honored last Saturday at the West Hall formal.

A LADY NEVER . . .

(ACP)—At Syracuse University, New York, there's a campaign underway to stop coeds from smoking wile on the move across campus.

Says the Daily Orange student newspaper: "The type of woman who walks with a cigarette dangling from her lips is not the type to be found on the Syracuse campus or that Syracuse coeds would care to be associated with.

Cigarette smoking can be a graceful and complimentary habit for a woman—in the proper circumstance and situation. The proper circumstance and situation is not when hurrying across campus between classes, skirt-tails flapping in the wind."

The Yankees and Dodgers will play a night exhibition game at Miami, March 19.

OFFICIAL ENTRY BLANK

FLAMBEAU-GOLD KEY STREET NAMING CONTEST

NAME .....

ADDRESS ..... (Dorm, Sorority, Fraternity) Box No.

THEMES: (Name your choice of themes in order of preference, 1st, 2nd, etc.)

I .....

II .....

III .....

IV .....

V .....

VI .....

TEAR OR CUT OUT AND SUBMIT TO FLAMBEAU OFFICE BY SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 21.

1—Westcott
2—Science
3—History
4—Library
5—Education
6—Social Welfare
7—Music
8 and 9—Home Demonst.
10—Demonstration Schol
11—Longmire Bldg.
12—Jennie Murphree
13—Reynolds
14—Bryan
15—Broward
16—Gilchrist
17—Suwannee Room
18—Seminole Room
19—Landis
20—Florida Hall
21—Magnolia
22—Gymnasium
23—Cavthon

(Continued From Page 1)

Contest Planned

THEME for all street names is necessary. Your ideas could be based on the names of famous poets, presidents, or names of other colleges, to name but a few. Other suggestions are the names of famous Floridians, flowers, trees, native wise, names of countries, and so forth.

First, then the Flambeau and Gold Key want your suggested themes. From these, one central theme for the campus' un-named streets will be selected and resubmitted to readers for final names of each street in that theme.

Just CLIP THE MAP AND ACCOMPANYING CONTEST BLANK from this issue, enter your theme suggestions and submit your FILLED-IN FORM to FLAMBEAU, LONGMIRE BUILDING, CAMPUS. (Campus mail or deliver to special Flambeau box in person' no later than SUNDAY, FEB. 21. At that time, the winning theme will be chosen by a board of Flambeau and Gold Key officials. Then, in the Tuesday FLAMBEAU, FEB. 23, a WEEK FROM TODAY, the winning theme will appear again with this map for final street naming. Names of winners will be announced Tuesday, and at the close of the contest.

DON'T FORGET! FIRST CONTEST CLOSES SUNDAY! GET YOUR ENTRY IN EARLY! HURRY! HURRY !HURRY!

TEP Enters Sports; First Frat Showing

Eight charter members of Tau Epsilon Phi, national social fraternity recently established at Florida State University, will make their first public appearance February 23 when they compete in the inter-dormitory basketball tourney, fraternity spokesman said today.

Installed last month as a colony, the fraternity hopes to be recognized as a full chapter by the end of the current year, according to members.

Recently elected officers include Jerry Klonsky, president; Neil Lukow, vice-president; Leon Cuffer, secretary and Joel Lazar treasurer.

David Lebiang was named sports chairman. Sid Silverand Murray Berman make up the remainder of the young group's members. Spokesmen said the colony holds its weekly meetings in the homes of Tallahassee alumni.

Where Can You Get Such Specials All Week But At...

TUES:
Juicy Broiled Filet Mignon
French Fries
Chef's Salad
$1.00

THURS:
Spaghetti with Cheese
Salad
Lemon Cream Pie
.95

FRI:
Whole Broiled Lobster
Beurre Butter
Chef's Salad
$1.25

SAT:
Golden Fried Half Chicken
French Fries
$1.00

SUN:
Delicious Roast Turkey
Dressing
Cranberries
$1.00

Seven Seas

Library Welcomes

(Continued From Page 1)

dent voice in planning the new library. Members on the committee and the groups they represent are Evelyn Fredrickson, chairman; Margaret Keller, women's dormitories; Roy Chapman, men's dormitories; John Tippin, fraternities; Sam Smith, secretion; and Calvin Hasbrouck, town students.

James Lewis, senior class; Jerry Jones, junior class; Dick Bittner, sophomore class; and Dorothy Thomas, freshman class.

"To keep up with the rapid change in the appearance and improvements of the library, Flambeau will carry a weekly column devoted to these matters. Chairman Frederickson welcomes all student and faculty suggestions. She has advised everyone to drop suggestion slips at the counter in the Reserve Room.

MINNOWETTES

The famous "Pitch Lake" on the Island of Trinidad is soon formed of pitch. It is a vast deposit of asphalt. Great quantities are shipped to the United States for paving city streets.

"Truly a Miracle"

That's what I say about SANITONE —The Better dry cleaning that gets out ALL the dirt!

● SPOTS OUT EVERY TIME
● NO CLEANING ODOR
● LONGER LASTING PRESS
● COSTS NO MORE THAN ORDINARY DRY CLEANING

Exclusive in Tallahassee
At
Superior Cleaners
305 S. Monroe St.
Phone 2-8632

SHORT ORDER—The Jantzen method of serving your sportswear needs in a very effective way! Tailored Cotton Twill shorts, nicely belted, cuffed, pocketed . . . they can back-zipped to pure the hipline. In 12 wear-with-all colors. Sizes 10-20. $7.95.

STRIPED TOP of Jantzen-Knit Terry Cloth . . . a soft combed cotton circled in color at neck and sleeve. Sewn contrasting combinations in S-M-L Sizes. $ 2.95.

SPECIAL OFFER—You have the chance to win the beautiful 21-jewel, 14-k gold Bulova wrist watch and band shown above—value $95—with the purchase of a Jantzen swim suit—Entering will be in June at

Steyerman's
HOME OF DEPENDABLE FOOD QUALITY

Sociology Students

(Continued From Page 1)

questionnaire. They were cautioned against re-wording or emphasizing any questions, but were to read them as they were written on the form.

The 321 people interviewed were selected at random from the city directory. Two preservery studies were conducted to determine that the questions on the questionnaire were neutral and understanding. An attempt was made to have a fairly even ratio of men and women so that sex would not affect the results.

The survey, begun three months ago, is operating under a $1,500 grant from the Research Council of the University. Part of the grant was used to pay the student-researchers who rode the doorbells in Tallahassee.

Dr. Hare said they expected some correlation to be evident between the answers given and the social class of the person. For example, he said, a person in a low income bracket would be more apt to be dissatisfied with the city than a person of moderate means. The would not be entirely monetary, but one of participation. A person of moderate income usually belongs to one or more service city clubs and takes part in community activities. This participation, he explained, is primary to the satisfaction, or dissatisfaction of the person with his community.

All information is to be handled confidentially and no names were placed on the questionnaires, people interviewed were urged to speak freely and truthfully.

In addition to being a valuable scientific study when completed, the survey has supplied material for two graduate students who will write their master's theses on the subject.

No conclusions will be drawn, Prof. McCormis said, until all statistical work and a number of tests are completed some time in May.

JUST DON'T CARE

(ACP)—Earlier this year Pennsylvania State College changed its name to Pennsylvania State University.

Now the movement has spread westward.

News Briefs

(Continued From Page 1)

ear tomorrow at 4:45 p.m. in 124 Science. His subject will be "Analytical Correlation of Nuclear Radiations." Refreshments will be served at 4:30.

HEALTH CLUB MEETING

The February meeting of the Health Club will be held Thursday night, February 18, at 7:30 p.m. in small lounge on the main floor of Longmire Building.

Foreign students from Egypt, Pakistan and the Philippines will present a discussion of health problems and progress in their native countries. A question and answer period will follow their presentation.

All interested students and faculty are cordially invited to attend.

THEATER DANCE GROUP

Tryouts for the Theater Dance Group will be held tomorrow, Thursday and Friday afternoons, February 17, 18, 19 from 5 to 6 p.m. in the dance studio, Women's Gym. Wednesday and Thursday will be practice periods and Friday will be try-outs.

Anyone wishing to tryout may do so, according to Shirley Knight Savell, president. The dance group is open to both boys and girls and no previous training is necessary.

INCOME TAX HELP

The Internal Revenue Department will have its Deputy Collector at the university in Westcott Building, 2nd floor, opposite the Information Desk tomorrow, February 17, from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., to help faculty, staff and students prepare their income tax forms.

SOCIAL WORK CLUB

All social work majors and interested students are urged to attend a meeting of the Social Work Club here tomorrow night, at 7 p.m. in Longmire's small student lounge, it was noted yesterday.

A discussion on the "Different Fields of Service in Social Work" will be main feature of the evening.

GAMMA PHI BETA

Women of Gamma Phi Beta, national social sorority here an-via Closter.

Collins Supporters Will Hold Meeting

An organizational meeting for the "Collins for Governor" club will be held Thursday night, at 7:30 in the Senate Chambers, in Longmire Building, according to spokesmen for the group yesterday.

At the Thursday meeting, they said, a steering as well as other committees will be formed. Highlight of the initial meeting will be a talk and discussion by Charles Ausley, law-partner of the would-be gubernatorial candidate Collins, and one-time senator for the State of Florida.

(Continued From Page 1)

Hudson Offers

"He has appeared often on the radio program "Meet the Band" which is broadcast from coast to coast three times a week.

Rica went on to say that Hudson has put on his early-evening auditorium-participation show on numerous occasions in the past, and that Sammy Kaye's "It's Wanti To Lead A Band" is derived from this.

(Continued From Page 1)

Yale's Guswold

. . . the liberal arts," he went on to say, "were being smothered by vocationalism. But for this the colleges themselves were partly responsible. The elective rebellion against the old liberal arts curriculum had run wild and colleges were giving credit for everything from philosophy to fly-fishing.

"With the colleges setting such standards, how could the schools in their almost infinite diversity and their susceptibility to the moods of local boards be expected to do better?"

nounced recently their newly-elected officers for the term 1954-55.

President, Jane Wardlaw; Vice-president, Cecile Gaillin; Recording Secretary, Ann Hayes; Corresponding Secretary, Barbara Sears; Treasurer, Barbara Burke; House President, Rita Earle; Pledge Trainer, Carolyn Hicks; Rush Chairman, Libby Mauch; Panhellenic Representative, Sylvia Closter.

UNION FLAG-SITTER?

(ACP)—The Weekly Graphic of Pepperdine College (Calif.) is looking for a flag pole sitter. To publicize a school flag-a-thon designing contest sponsored by the paper, the Graphic says it will pay "union scale to anyone who will perch atop the flag pole in the administration building.

SLUMBER TOYS ARE HERE!

GIRLS: Why sleep alone when you can have your "Cuddle Bunny," — "Bunny Long Legs," or "Molly and Peter Rabbit" right next to you!

Also, you can even have music in bed with "Puffy," the musical Bunny . . . wonderful for Easter giving . . . shop early!

ALSO: Select Easter and Gift Cards from the Largest Choice in Town!

Wolfe & Peters
209 S. Adams St.

The Best Offer We've Made All Year!

'A Juicy, Broiled To A Wonderful Turn

choice Western Sirloin Steak

Served with

Golden Brown French Fries

Delicious Chef's Salad

For Only $1.00

Come In and Enjoy Our Other Specials, Too!

M & N Cafe

N. Jefferson St. Tallahassee

Peep At Spring Fashions Reveal New Trends

Denim Separables, Princess Styles Outda Short Skirt

By JOYCE POTTER

All around the campus are evidences that spring is just around the corner. With the new season will come new trends in women's fashions.

The latest talk in the dress style is the princess dress with the long flowing lines that complement the tall feminine figure best. The waistline can be found in practically any kind of material ranging from the finest linens to Indian Head and denim.

Most designers insist that the skirts will grow shorter, but far very little progress has been made in this direction. Denim is fast becoming one of the favorite types of material. Your Sunday best as well as that outfit that you plan to get to wear to the coast will be constructed of denim.

The popular fad, which is also very economical is to make separates in denim which can be worn in matching colors or with something else to make a completely new looking outfit. A favorite idea is to combine solid colors with stripes.

Full, full skirts are also at the top of the fashion list. However, the greatest error of all would be to let these full-skirted dresses be simply Whole La Marsh dresses some silence and set under these full skirts all types of crinolines and petticoats will be revealed. The brilliants red taffetas and nylons as well as the ruffled ones in soft pastel colors of the rainbow will help to make the full skirt stand out.

To the other extreme will be the very tight skirt and sheath dress. There will be on in between this year. A plain sheath dress will be a must in everyone's wardrobe. If the dress is in a conservative color or a neutral shade it can be dressed up or down according to the occasion.

Along with spring will come all kinds of artificial flowers. They fashion. Just pull your hair back in will be worked away at the waist line or will be popping from beneath pin a small bunch of flowers to a pert sandwich collar. They will be on a ribbon and you can get also be used to accent the neck- about your hair.

Shirts and blouses which look tres very much like men's are popular now and will not disappear with warm weather. The girl who is handy with scissors will cut out the sleeves of her favorite summer blouses and wear them all summer. However for the girl who does not want to cut up her blouses, the manufacturers will be making these blouses sleeveless.

MODELING TWO of the very latest fashions are June Yates, left and Sara Ahlskogen, right. June's dress is the new princess style made complete with the tiny french heels. Sara is displaying the popular sports outfit. Composed of a straight skirt, matching blouse, and boxy jacket, this is predicted to be a favorite.

This means that the bish but- on neckline will be popular! And needed especially opposite with a dainty bouquet of flowers to accent it.

Bracelets, bracelets, and more bracelets are in high demand. A young lady will not be satisfied to have just one bracelet she wears all of bracelets she wears all the time. Bracelets will range from heavy gold and silver ones to the daintier simple ones. Later on in the fall bracelets will be needed to dress up the sheath dress. It seems that short hair is becoming very popular, but for the girl who does not conform strictly to fashion there is another solution.

Speaking of the tiny waistline, it will play a prominent part in most of the fashions this spring. A dual for a little lup, the waist pincher can work wonders!

Another way to emphasize a tiny waist is with a belt. The new belts are to be worn a wide or contour belt. Coins, rings, chains and all types of paraphernalia will be attached to these belts. However, the plain leather ones will be very popular.

The sports outfit is another popular favorite. This outfit, composed of the straight skirt with a matching blouse and boxy jacket, is predicted to be one of the favorites for spring.

Another style that will be popular is fingernail polish this can be worn in almost any shade. The iridescent shades will be a must for all up-to-date lasses.

Accessories to some of the Italian designers, velvet will also go in a big way. The sports outfit is the form of bathing suits and shorts. Incidentally the trend in bathing suits and shorts seems to be the bloomer style with a tiny waist-

WITH SEVEN STUDENTS:

Travelling American Finds Russia Mixture Of Friendliness, Caution

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first ten in a series of six articles by Dean Schoelkopf, editor of the University of Minnesota Daily and one of seven American college editors just returned from a three-week tour of the Soviet Union.

By DEAN SCHOELKOPF
Editor, Minnesota Daily

The first Russians I saw were soldiers. Six of them—all young—climbed aboard our plane as soon as it landed in Leningrad airport.

A senior lieutenant of the Red army marched forward in the plane and looked quizzically at the seven American students dressed in student furry caps and coats. He reared his right hand to salute and addressed four or five sentences in Russian to the older passengers.

Then he turned to us and said in English, "Passports." After we had showed him our visas, the other five soldiers stepped aside to let us leave the plane.

We stepped into the chilly three-above-zero weather and were met by a young Englishspeaking official of Intourist, the official Russian travel agency. He welcomed us to the Soviet Union and told us we would be met in Moscow by other Intourist representatives.

But the warmth of his reception didn't erase the apprehension we had when the six soldiers boarded our aircraft. The strange scene was not the first of many unusual situations we were to encounter.

During the next 22 days in the USSR, we were to travel more than 5,000 miles by air, train and car. We were to talk to students in their schools, workers in their factories, farmers in their homes and directors and managers in their offices. During that time we detected absolutely no feeling of hostility to us personally.

Early in our trip, one of the two interpreters who travelled with us throughout the country asked us why we had come to Russia. We told him the answer was simple. Early last fall a few American college editors met in a student press convention (the ACP conference in Chicago) and decided they wanted to see this country, so little understood in the United States.

We applied to the Soviet embassy in Washington for visas and within three weeks Moore granted permission. The American visas (apartment) issued passports Dec. 23, and on Christmas day we boarded a plane for Russia.

Students at Stalin University in Tbilisi asked us who was paying for the trip. When we told them we financed the trip ourselves, one blue-eyed coed said in perfect English, "Ooh, you must be very rich."

"Boun-coule," shouted a black-haired lad.

We didn't know anything but bour-coose. Most of us had financed the trip through loans—in that respect we were alike. Politically, we were miles apart. Many of our group were for the one supported Eisenhower and four belonged to the Stevenson club.

We had differences of opinion almost every issue, and in that respect we provided a striking contrast to the Russian students we met, who agreed on almost everything in the area of religion, economics, politics and government.

Arguments on these subjects erupted frequently during our talks with Russian people. Those were the times we felt secure on—but through it all they remained completely polite to us.

Almost everywhere we were observed curiously. Compared to Muscovites, more accustomed to a visitine delegations, paid less attention to use than their countrymen in southern Russia.

In many areas we were the first Americans the Soviet citizens had ever seen. They looked us in the streets and crowded around us if we stopped to take a picture. It was not unusual to stop in a department store to buy a gift, and then turn around to find 25 to 150 Russians crowded around.

The only other Americans we saw in Russia were at the United States embassy in Moscow. We met ambassador Charles Bohlen and three times during our stay, once at his Spasso house residence during a luncheon he and Mrs. Bohlen gave for us.

The embassy there operates under tremendous handicaps. Practically no contact is permitted with the Russian people. Mail which moves through the Russian postal system, is opened before it reaches the embassy. All telephones are assumed to be tapped. Wires and miniature microphones have been found in the walls.

Russian police guard the entrance to the embassy 'round the clock. Russians who visit the Americans but more likely to prevent the Russian from entering.

A policeman is on almost every corner in the cities. But a sight even more common than that of policemen is that of Russian soldiers. We saw Red troops wherever we traveled. It was not at all unusual to see a platoon of soldiers with machine guns or rifles on their backs walking down the main street of a town. Russian soldiers poured off the trains we rode and from our hotel windows we could see paratrymen running and falling in the snow—on the rifle range—and at more near practice.

We were told not to take pictures which included railroad bridges, ports or airfields, and our cameras were taken away when we traveled by air.

Eleven Colleges Next Year Will Try Early Entry Program Experiment

BALTIMORE Md. — (I. P.) — spread interest, not simply in this fifteen widely scattered and varied American colleges and universities will next year award scholarships to 200 young men and women under the "Early Admissions Program," supported by the Fund for the Advancement of Education. The announcement was made here recently by Dr. Jon Otto Kraushaar, president of Goucher College, upon the mailing of circular letters about the program to some 21,400 high schools throughout the country. Dr. Kraushaar made public the details of the 1956 program in behalf of the eleven participating faculty of educational institutions, including a co-educational liberal arts college, a woman's college, a college specializing in the preparation of engineers, a municipal institution, two Negro colleges, and a western state university.

In the fall of 1951 the first group of 420 students entered the participating colleges. There are fifty will not have graduated and now three yearly groups, or approximately 960 scholars, enrolled in this program. They have been drawn from all over the United States, and, although they are only a small fraction of the nation's college population, their achievements should clarify a number of long-debated questions concerning the articulation of school and college work.

The three newest colleges, Dr. Kraushaar said, have undertaken to study not merely the academic performance but also the social and emotional adjustment of the early admissions students. Their achievements, he said, are being measured against those of their classmates who have elected to wait before they were called for military service.

The project evoked wide-

Caraway To Speak At Delta Sigma Pi Meeting Tomorrow

Wilson Carraway, president of Tallahassee State Bank and Treasurer of Tallahassee's Coca-Cola bottling co., will speak to members of Delta Sigma Pi, professional men's business fraternity here tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Trophy Room of the Student Center, Darrell Authier, fraternity president said yesterday.

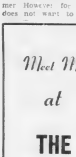
Carraway's talk will revolve around the "New Style of Banking." Authier said Mr. Carraway's information can be "valuable to anyone in business, and especially those planning on a banking career."

A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania where he received a degree in Accounts and Financing, Mr. Carraway served as member of the Florida State Legislature in 1947 when Florida State College for Women was co-ed and became Florida State University.

Authier issued a special invitation to hear Mr. Carraway to all male students enrolled in the School of Business and Economics as well as anyone else interested.

BEATS RAP WITH TAPE

(CP) — A speech junior at Kansas State College—with the help of a tape-recording of a telephone conversation—has talked his way out of the rap for four of six campus traffic violations.



Through his recording, he was able to prove to the judge that the campus police have no system of putting time marks on tires, and that they couldn't tell for sure whether or not a car had been moved during the space between.

Since his tickets were given for overparking in 15-minute zones, he simply claimed he had moved his vehicle to another spot every 15 minutes.

Kernodle Diamonds
Creative Watches
PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRS
107 E Monroe St. Phone 3-1467

TAKE flash pictures
OF YOUR PARTY FUN!
see us for KODAK Film and supplies you'll need!
return your exposed rolls to us for prompt, careful photo finishing Tallahassee
Camera Center
"Across from the Florida Theater"
123 N. Monroe Street Phone 2-8777

Meet Me at THE MECCA

The Age of Chivalry in All Its Glory!
The first M-G-M production in CINEMASCOPE
"KNIGHTS OF THE ROUND TABLE"
in Color magnificence
ROBERT TAYLOR • AVA GARDNER • MEL FERRER
FLORIDA
Matinee 75c—Evening $1.00
Starts Wednesday for One Entire Week!

FLORIDA
Last Time Today
'Dangerous Crossing'
With
Jeanne Crain
Michael Rennie
+
Starting Tomorrow
"KNIGHTS OF THE ROUND TABLE"
in CinemaScope!
Starring
Robert Taylor • Ava Gardner
Mel Ferrer
CAPITOL
Today and Tomorrow
"NIAGARA"
With Marilyn Monroe
Jacob Cotten
Joseph Peters
+
Thurs. Thru Sat.
"EYES OF TEXAS"
Rex Rogers and Andy Devine
Also
"CRIMSON PIRATE"
With Burt Lancaster
GULF DRIVE-IN
Today and Tomorrow
"Springfield Rifle"
With
GARY COOPER
+
Thurs. Thru Sat.
SOMBRERO"
Ricardo Montalban
Pier Angeli
Also
"CAPTIVE WOMAN"
Robert Clark
Margaret Field
STATE
Last Time Today
"HONDO"
In 3-D Starring John Wayne
+
Tomorrow and Thurs.
"Decameron Knights"
Starring
Joan Fontaine
Lewis Jourdan
With

Notre Dame Lets Its Honor Students Cut Without Limit

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (I.P.) — More than 475 Notre Dame honor students may be absent from class an unlimited number of times, according to a new University regulation announced here recently by the Rev. Philip S. Moore, C.S.C., vice-president in charge of academic affairs.

Undergraduates named on the Dean's Honor List as having earned a 3.00 percent or better quality class without penalty, but will be held personally responsible for any class work or lecture missed by being absent, Father Moore explained.

This policy of non-compulsory attendance at classes has always been granted to the top-ranking Graduate School and is being extended to undergraduate honor students and to students in the College of Law. Until now, students have been given a course if, in effect, students forfeited credit for a course if they were absent, except when sick more than three times in a semester.

The experience has shown that the good student, who is not under compulsion to go to class, never misses except for "serious reasons," Father Moore said. "We feel that the time has come for students to assume personal responsibility for their education. This new academic regulation recognizes the student's work habits and intellectual ability of certain students. We hope that it will provide further incentive to other students to make the Dean's Honor List and enjoy the concomitant privileges." Father Moore concluded.

Current Films Animate Tales Of Chivalry, Love

Two famous all-time classics come on the screen this week in Tallahasee—Dwamenon Nights and Knights of the Round Table.

From the famous bold classic, The Decameron, by Goivanni Boccaccio, comes "Decameron Nights," RKO production blending bits of Boccaccio's own life with three of his most fabulous stories of love.

DECAMERON NIGHTS stars JOAN FONTAINE and LOUIS JOURDAN in the leading roles.

Knights of the Round Table, spins two love-lines to Pimenta, JOAN FONTAINE, and Guinivere, the young widow's affections.

The first is "Pagando the Pirate," a spicy tale of a young wife who permits herself to be captured by a pirate to teach her husband a lesson. The second, "Ricciardo Con Virtue" concerns a bet between an elderly merchant and a young rourse on the former's wife's virtue.

Jean Fontaine spins the third story "The Doctor's Daughter" a matter of matrimonial mix-up which takes place when the wife is spurned by the husband chosen for her by the King.

FONTAINE and JOURDAN also play the leads in the three novelettes they relate.

DECAMERON NIGHTS shows tomorrow and Thursday at the State Theatre.

From L'Morte d'Arthue and Knights of the King, comes the story of King Arthur, his knights Sir Lancelot, and the beautiful Lady Guinivere.

Knights of the Round Table, in cinemascope, stars Robert Taylor as Sir Lancelot, Ava Gardner as Guinivere, and Mel Ferrer as King Arthur.

Sir Thomas Malory's L'MORTE D'ARTHUR is the reference most used in the filming of this production. The story of King Arthur's ascension to the throne and his famous sword Excalibur are among the famed sequences of the film.

Knights of the Round Table plays at the Florida Theatre for an entire week beginning tomorrow.

Friday and Saturday at the State is a Howard Hughes' production. Devil's Canyon, starring Virginia Male, Dale Robertson, Stephen McNally and Arthur Hunnicutt.

The Technicolor film involves five hundred desperadoes and one beautiful outlaw queen, Virginia Male, in the notorious outpost in the Arizona Territory in the 1890's, Devil's Canyon.

The story is fictional but based upon 'incidents which occured on the Territory just prior to the turn of the century.

LOST—Green Parker '51" fountain pen, silver cap, vicinity of Westcott and History Buildings Friday morning. Part of gift set. Finder please return to Martin Dyckman, at Box 583, West Hall, or Flambeau.

IS THIS BRAINWASHING?

From Student Life, Utah

College is about like a laundry—you get out of it just what you put into it—but you'd never recognize it.

MEN! Don't Miss Your Chance to Get a 'Mr. Formal' Dinner Jacket for only $18.95
A real buy, and just in time for Sandspur Dance and all other formals coming up this Spring $18.95 at P. W. Wilson Co.
Tallahassee

You'll Never Believe It!
Such Delicious Meals At Such Moderate Prices!
Your Choice of Many Selections of Meats, Served with two fresh vegetables, salad, drink, and choice of our Home-made Pies 85¢
Special at Holland's
Our Delicious Hot Turkey Sandwich, Egg Gravy, Potatoes, and Hot Dutch Apple Pie 65¢
New! Try Our Deliciously Different Tropical Fruit Ice-Box Pie!
You'll LOVE It!
Holland's
W. Pensacola
Air Conditioned For Your Comfort

Try Quality Dry Cleaners For Expert
Special 1 Day Service
Pressing Repairing Altering
Pickup or delivery
Call 2-5097 215 W. College

Soccer Team Outclasses Cadet Team

Lupino, Risco Star In Sunday Afternoon Tilt

By KEN KINGERY
Sports Editor

Nearly 200 fans stood around the new FSU Soccer field to watch their fast-moving and skillfully working soccer team engage a recent foe, and come out on top of the Bainbridge Air Cadets 3-1.

Led by team captain Eduardo del Risco, the team began from the starting kick as a team. Frank Lupino (Italy) started threatened the game, as he took the scoring honors with two goals. Lupino, in the first 45-minute half, teamed up with the other men at the forward line to set the Cadets back on their feet.

With the first half only 10 minutes old, Lupino came in close to the goal, faked to one end and walloped a steaming low one far from the reach of the Cadet goalie.

The Seminole squad didn't let off the Bainbridge boys for even one second. Albert Delmeule (Belgium) and Jose Ferro (Siam) teamed up with Peru's Carl Russ to set up another score just 15 minutes later. Eduardo del Risco got the assistance, with a very difficult angle to score the second point of the game. After the game Captain del Risco said, "I made once like that in Peru when I was 14 years old. It was lucky, very lucky to repeat it."

The whole squad then turned defensive to protect their fairly-wide scoring lead. Some brilliant half was the defensive line, John McGlynn (Ireland), Corsalis Van Derp (Netherlands), and Michael Doran (Finland). The entire Bainbridge squad was on the mark, and at the end of the half the defensive squad to have the Cadets outfooled.

Starting the second half neither team showed signs of tiring. In soccer, no substitutions are allowed, therefore the team members is definitely a test.

The Cadets then challenged the Seminoles defensive ties to a very stiff competition, forcing their offensive, Bainbridge reserved the goal-mouth for two well matched teams and Goalie Hans Hartz (Germany) This threat, cutting into the lins in deep assaults, kept the FSU goalie Jerry Deatz of (USA) and his very reliable backers Hayden Johnson (Canada) and Lawrance Zuber (USA) very busy.

The last few minutes to the minutes of the final half gone when Anderson, Dennis Cadet, smashed it across for the first and only score for the Bainbridge.

Cadet Captain Eberman (Belgium) then called for an all-out attempt to drive in, desperately to gain at least a tie with the Seminoles.

Lupino, who played mostly defensive ball in the last half, saw his chance and took advantage of surprised Cadet line to hit a very long drive that put the Seminoles at 3-1, and that's how it ended.

Here's how they lined up for the starting lineup: First the Seminole squad dressed in white and maroon jerseys.

(1) Norman Burth (USA), (2) Hendrik Der Hovhannisman (Iran), (3) Lawrence A. Zuber (USA), (4) John McGlynn (Ireland), (5) Cornelius Van Derp (Netherlands), (6) Michael Doran (England), (7) Frank Lupino (Italy), (8) Eduardo del Risco (Peru), (9) Albert Del Meule (Belgium), (10) Sert Lulling (Siam), and Brian Shirley (England).

Players for the Bainbridge Air Cadets were: (1) Eberman (Belgium), (2) Dalton (France), (3) Faro (Italy), (4) Caubert (France), (5) Perrussel (France), (6) Bolton (France), (7) Gallier (France), (8) Miranda (Italy), (9) Scott (France), (10) Anderson (Denmark), and (11) Van Damme (Belgium).

Scoring in the first half beat Total

FSU	2	1	3
Bainbridge	0	1	1

Scoring for FSU: Lupino 2, del Risco 1.

Scoring for Bainbridge: Anderson.

FSU Mermen Finish Third In Southern

ATLANTA, Feb. 13 — "Youth and Carolina State won the 400-yard free-style relay tonight to gain a tie with the University of Florida in the Southern regional intercollegiate invitational swimming meet at the Georgia Tech pool.

Both teams had 71 points. Florida State University took third with 67 and Georgia placed fourth with 35. Other teams were Kentucky 19, Georgia Tech 17, Auburn 8, and Duke 3.

Carolina into the last event on the card. Florida mermen held a 61-57 lead over North Carolina State.

The Carolina relay team trave-elled the distance in 3:38.1 — bettering the 3:40 pool standard set by the University of North Carolina team in the 1952 meet to win the event.

The only other pool record to fall was the 200-yard breaststroke. Harry Harris of Emory University, Ga., cut Butler-Tyrol his way the 200 yards in 2:24, bettering the record of 2:25.2 set off the record making swim in the morning trials.

Florida's Jim Berland and Ronnie Patrick finished second in their individual. Other finalists were Bob Stute of Florida State, Jerry Deatz of FSU, Happy Hill of Georgia and Bo Kidd of Georgia."

Here are the summaries for the Seminoles were Georgia Hirshberger, James Julian, Mike Tschirret, George Cooper, Norm Shipley, Bob Vaclaveck, Dick Wentz, Bob Stuke and Larry Beatty.

Hirshberger placed third in three events; the 220 and 100-yard freestyle events, and helped place third in the freestyle relay.

Julian took a third and fourth in the freestyle relay and the medley respectively.

Tschirret took a third, fourth and fifth in the freestyle relay, 1500 meter freestyle and the 220 yard dash.

Cooper placed a booming second in his specialty event, the 200 yard backstroke, and was on the 4th placing medley relay team.

Norm Shipley placed 4th behind Cooper in the backstroke.

Vaclaveck, an up and coming threat to all sorts of records, placed fifth ahead of Rhodon in the breaststroke event.

Ernie Stuck took two-thirds and one fourth in the .50 individual medley, freestyle relay and the medley relay respectively.

Bob Stuke and Larry Beatty tied down the third and fourth places in the fancy diving event.

This meet is considered the fourth best in the nation.

SUMMARY

300-yard medley relay—1. Florida (Burgess, Robinson, Auter), 3:11.1; 2. State, Georgia, Florida State, Tech 3:09.

50-yard freestyle — 1. Burgess, Fla; (W. C. State); 2. Bennett (Fla.); 3. Hirschberger (Ga.); Time: 0:27.1 (Ga.)

Breaststroke—1. Patterson (Ga.); 2. Harris (Ga.); 3. Sosis (N. C. State); Time: 2:24.

150-yard individual medley — 1. Mathieu (N. C. State); 2. Rodriguez (Ky.); 3. Stuck (FSU). Time: 1:52.2

Fancy diving—1. Stuke (FSU); 2. Beatty (FSU); 3. Brown (N. C. State); Points: FSU Three 91.5.

200-yard backstroke—1. Dutton (N. C. State); 2. Cooper (FSU); 3. Mark (Ga.); Time: 2:17.2 (FSU)

100-yard breaststroke — 1. Harris (Emory); 2. State (Ga.), 3. Robinson (Fla.) Time 1:07.4

440-yard freestyle — 1. Ruppenthal (N. C. State); 2. Tschirret (FSU); 3. Hungerford (Fla.) Time: 5:02.1

400-yard freestyle relay — NCS (Tolsson, Jones, Sosis, Mathieu), First in the FSU Time: 3:36.1

FSU Golfers Tie In Intra-Squad Battle

"Florida State University's golf team divided in to Garnet and Gold squads in a Nassau match Saturday, and battled itself to a 9-9 tie at the Country Club.

Jack Veahle had the low score for the match, a 71. Jimmie James was runner-up with a 72.

Coach Don Veller disclosed that the match, with a Tallahassee Men's Golf Association team is planned for Saturday.

Veller seemed pleased with the progress of his boys. He pending matches between Veghte, James and Burk Berry for the No. 1 spot.

Ken Peterson, who had a 30 on the back nine recently, was in and did not play Saturday Veghte recently had two "68's."

SUMMARY

Jimmie James (Golds) defeated Rant Berry, 2½ to ½

Jack Veghte (Garnets) defeated Bob Shuman, 2-0

Randy Church (Golds) defeated Tom Hall, 2-0

Harry Atherson defeated Gus James 2-1

Berry and Veghte defeated James and Shuman, 2-1

Church and G. James defeated Hall and Atherson, 2-1.

REAL INTE-LECT-SHUL

(ACP)—Students of beginning psychology at San Diego State College (Calif.) were asked recently to write down what they considered to be their "most valuable asset." Two answered "intelligence"—and both misspelled it.

Gym Spotlight

By Bob Gutting

On Saturday, Feb. 27th, the Swedish Olympic Team will appear in Tallahassee for an exhibition meet with the Seminole gym team. Although the outcome is somewhat predetermined, it will be an interesting exhibition and will mark the first time a foreign team has competed against Florida State at the East Campus gym.

Following is an outline of this famed touring team, which is composed of eight Swedish Olympic Team members and five additional Swedish National Champions.

WILLIAM THORESSON, member of Goteborg Gymnastic Association, 21 years old, a student, winner of the Olympic Gold Medal for free exercise, 1952, Swedish Champion 1952. Member of the Swedish National Team. Also an expert tumbler.

BORJE STATTIN, member of Gavle Gymnastic Association, 23 years old, is a typographer, Scandinavian Champ 1951, Swedish Champ 1951-1952. Member of 1952 Olympic Team. Member Swedish National team. All around gymnast, particularly on horizontal bars.

LENNART LUNDGREN, member Gelve Gymnastic Association, 24 years old, another typographer, member Swedish National team, Olympic team 1952. Specialties include horizontal bar, free exercise.

ARNE CARLTON, member Orebro Gymnastic Association, 29 years old, gymnastics director. Swedish Champ 1946-7, member Swedish National team since 1946, Olympic team 1952, good in tumbling and free exercise.

ANDERS LINDH, member Orebro Gymnastic Association, age 24, gym student, Swedish champ 1949-53, member Swedish National team since 1949, Olympic team 1952, placed sixth at Helsinki in free exercise, excells in tumbling and vaulting.

KURT WIGARTZ, member Orebro Gymnastic Association, 30 years old and a compositor, Swedish champ 1951, Member Junior champ 1951. Member Swedish National team and 52 Olympic team. Specialties are free exercise, long horse and tumbling.

STEFFAN KARLSSON, another member of the Orebro Gymnastic Association. 19 years old, Swedish junior champ 1953, youngest member on team. Specialty is tumbling.

HELLMUT ROHNISCH, Orebro Gymnastic Association, 28 years old, a compositor, Swedish champ 1945, member Swedish National team since 1946. Champion in horizontal bar.

REINE ERICKSSON, also from the Orebro Gymnastic Association, 28 years old, an adjuster, member Gymnastrada 1953. Specialises on long horse.

NILS SJOBERG, member Orebro Gymnastic Association. 30 years old, a clerk, member Sweden National team, 1948 Olympic team. Outstanding on horizontal bar and in tumbling.

LENNART MALMLIN, Stockholm Gymnastic Association, 23 and an electrician, member Swedish National team, specialises in tumbling and free exercise.

ARNE LIND, member Stockholm Gymnastic Association, 28 years old, a painter, excellent all-around gymnast, especially on long horse and free exercise. Member of 52 Olympic team.

AKE JANSSON, Stockholm Gymnastic Association, 24, an electrician, aspirant to free exercise world champ 1954.

ERIK LINDEN, coach, member Orebro Gymnastic Association, many times Olympic and National coach of Swedish teams. Famous for his modern gymnastics now in vogue in Sweden.

From The Sidelines

By Ken Kingery

Flambeau Sports Editor

GREEN TEAM . . . GREAT POTENTIALITY

After scanning over his track team Coach Ken Miller appeared optimistic over the future of the coming season. As things stand, the squad will be composed almost entirely of highly regarded but untried freshmen. If the team can stand up to the stiff college competition, they could be one of the best teams in the south.

Since last summer the track squad has lost a staggering number of key men, all of whom normally could have been counted on to give the Seminole thin-clads their greatest team this spring.

Bill "The Machine" Wagoner, who as a frosh was considered by coaches as a potentially great miler, and Jule Hurst, former school record holder in the mile, hurdles, both gave up track after mediocre sophomore seasons. Wes Minton who ran a 10.6 flight of low hurdles against Loyola last season — one of the best marks made in the United States by a freshman in 1953—is currently a Marine private. Woody Parker, heir-apparent in the spot of No. 1 quarter-miler in the entire sentiment this year, was drafted into the Army last fall. Bob Pearson, Orlando frosh, who was the state's top sprinter last spring, dropped from school at the end of last season just before Christmas.

Several other experienced track men are not out for the 1954 squad for one reason or another. Jack Kulzer, Pete Nimkoff, Jack Kinnett, and Bobby Jones are all sorely missed lettermen.

Despite the unenviable situation, Coach Miller optimistically says, "After all, anything else that happens to the team will have to be good!" Miller thinks his freshmen may be good enough to win two or three of the six dual meets on this season's schedule.

RESOLUTION

"WHEREAS during the past few years rapid strides have been made in the development of intercollegiate athletics for the Florida State University, and schedules have been strengthened to bring Florida State University into competition with more Southern institutions of academic rank, and

WHEREAS Acting Governor Charlie E. Johns has endorsed an annual football game between the Florida State University and the University of Florida, and

WHEREAS the Board of Control has unanimously rescinded its policy against a football game between the two institutions and indicated that athletic competition should be inaugurated in all athletic sports between Florida State University and the University of Florida,

BE IT THEREFORE RESOLVED:

1. That the Student Senate request, on behalf of the student body, that Dr. Doak S. Campbell, President, convey the thanks and appreciation of the student body to the Board of Control for rescinding its policy against football competition between the Florida State University and the University of Florida.

2. That the Student Senate express the desire of the student body in requesting Dr. Doak S. Campbell, President; Dr. Howard G. Danford, Director of Athletics; and the Faculty Committee on Athletics to take the necessary and proper steps to inaugurate complete athletic relations with the University of Florida immediately in conformity with the mandate of the Board of Control and that a football rivalry should be set for the year 1954.

3. That the Student Senate express the desire of the student body that Dr. Doak S. Campbell, President; Dr. Howard G. Danford, Director of Athletics; and the Faculty Committee on Athletics take the necessary and proper steps as rapidly as possible that will enable the Florida State University to be admitted to a reputable athletic conference.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that a copy of this resolution shall be transmitted to Dr. Doak S. Campbell, president; Dr. Howard G. Danford. Director of Athletics; and the Faculty Committee on Athletics."

Editors note: Every one should realize the problem Woodruff has in this controversy of football, what about the other sports such as Tennis and Track which will be coming up soon.

Loyola Survives Seminol Rally

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 13 (AP) — Loyola of New Orleans fought off a desperate last-quarter rally to defeat Florida State's basketball team 88-72 tonight.

FSU was able to score only two second 30 points against Loyola fieldgoals during the first period when the two teams met earlier which ended with Loyola ahead this season, was held to 12 points 2-11. Loyola substituted freely throughout the game.

Loyola scored the second period and the FSU dropped to 39-31 at the half.

The visitors came within two points of Loyola in the third period and tied the score three times in the final period but could never take the lead.

OLER RACKS UP 23

Bob O'Donnell, Loyola forward, and Jimmy Oler, Florida guard each had 23 points to share scoring honors for the night.

Guard Hani Wernke, who had

FSU				Loyola
Armstrong	2	1	5	Russell	3	2	8
Wallenhorst	2	0	10	O. Brent	2	5	13
Hartzog	2	0	4	Oler	9	5	23
Bennett	2	2	6	Hartz	2	0	4
Barnes	2	2	6	Collins	4	1	9
Wentz	2	2	6	O'Donnell	3	2	8
Byrnes	4	1	9	Barrett	1	0	2
Ward	1	0	2	Wernke	3	3	9
Burke	3	3	9	Beckett	0	1	1
				Tuohy	1	0	2
				Collins	1	0	2
Totals	22	26	72	Totals	37	19	88

FSU 11 20 26 31—72
Loyola 39 49 70 77—88

Four throws missed: FSU—Armstrong 2, Wallenhorst 2, Barnes, Wentz, Ward. Loyola—Russell 2, Oler 2, Collins 2, Barrett, Wernke, Beckett 2.

Referees: Gaston S. Cosnard and Richard Fenasson, (FSU).

Like Drive-Ins?

or do you

Like a Place to Sit Down and Be Served?

or do you

Like Free Delivery Right to Your Door?

QUAKER HOUSE

Call 2-8677 on the Quincy H'way

Come out and try our Superb Chicken, Lettuce, Tomato and Crisp Bacon Served on Toast,

Steaks, Chops, Chicken, Sea Foods, deliciously cooked and served . . .

Large Variety of Sandwiches to Choose From—Largest Soda Fountain in the South!

Choice Swift's Meats Served

RESTRING WITH ASHAWAY BRAIDED RACKET STRING

STANDS OUT in play
• Harder Smashes
• Better Cut and Spin

STANDS UP in your racket
a Moisture Immune
a Lasting Liveliness

COSTS LESS than gut
APPROX. STRINGING COST
Pro-Festival Braid.. $6.00
Multi-Ply Braid.....$5.00

At tennis shops and sporting goods stores.

ASHAWAY BRAIDED RACKET STRING
Choice of the Champions

Courtmen Practice For Coming Match With Tampa Mar. 16

The Seminole tennis squad will have its first official workout Monday afternoon, Feb 19 at 4:00, on the varsity courts.

Returning lettermen from last year's squad, which had a 15-3 record, are Tom Candy, Jack Egan, Joe Harris, Dave Kennedy, Tom Morgan, Hal Schaus and Don Wyly.

A new addition to the group who will be trying for a place on the varsity team is Shelby Creash, who lists his home at both Bradenton and Tallahassee.

The actions probably will open their season away from home. With the schedule almost complete, the first match is at University of Tampa, March 16.

Some other strong teams already on the schedule are University of Miami, Rollins, Georgia Tech and Georgia. Florida State University also wants on the list if a match date can be found.

A complete schedule should be ready for print within a short time.

CHICKS BOT TO GO?

(ACP)—At the University of Alberta, three radioactive chickens have been stolen from the university's atomic research laboratory. They aren't fit for human consumption, but, since they have a Geiger counter, the thieves will never know.

FSU Gridders Set For More Drills

"Stepped-up contact drills and more scrimmaging is on tap for Florida State University's gridders as the Seminoles move into their second week of spring football drills.

That's the schedule that Coach Tom Nugent had set up for his hopefuls who last week clicked off four of the 20 practice days allotted them by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

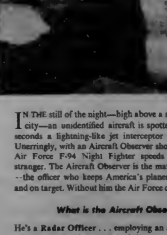
Nugent, who sent his 92 candidates through a rough head-knocking session Saturday, appeared generally well-pleased with their progress so far.

UNUSUALLY SPIRITED

"The fine spirit and competition for positions has particularly impressed me after only four days of contact drills," said Nugent. "The competition is unusually spirited for spring practice.

"So far, we've been able to live up to the plan that we have set. I'm impressed also with the condition of the squad at this early stage. Most of the boys reported in very good condition."

Nugent, who named the Seminoles to a surprising 5-5 mark in his first season at the FSU helm, placed a "satisfactory" stamp on the 15 newcomers in the Seminole camp. He also singled out halfback Gene Cox of Lake City, former Sentia Georgia star, and Jimmy Trade of Henderson, N. C., and center Bardetta Blackmon of Antioch, Miss., as the most promising.



In addition, he lauded a pair of Charleston, W. Va., veterans—tackle Ray Slash and center Eddie Johnson—as most improved among the old hands. Slash, a strapping 205-pounder, is in line for a first-string berth and is only a freshman. He lettered in guard last season. Johnson is having his first try at the pivot, having played guard and end halfback in his two previous campaigns. He is also a letterman.

Here's how Nugent lined his first team up at the end of last week's work: ends, Tom Feamster and Jimmy Lee Traylor; tackles, Bill Mosley and Mackewicki; guards, Al Pacifico and Dale Bates; center, Bob Crenshaw. Backfield: Corsi, halfbacks, Stan Dobos and Junior Mattei; fullback, Lonnie King. All are lettermen with the exception of Feamster, who got a transfer was ineligible last season.

Nugent said there was a possibility that he might send his charges through a game-condition scrimmage at the climax of the week's activity on Saturday.

Ray Mercer and Joe Holt, a pair of fullbacks, ajoined in Saturday morning's stiff workout. Mercer was transferred to FSU from Auburn with a fancy record on offense but a poor report card on defense. Turned in some shattering tackles that belied his reputation as a defender.

Included among injuries during the week were slight shoulder separations received by fullback John Grimer and center Eddie Johnson, and a pulled muscle that has slowed quarterback W. L. Harper.

The Aircraft Observer... eyes...ears... brains...of the Air Force Team!

I'N THE still of the night—high above a sleeping American city—an unidentified aircraft is spotted. In a matter of seconds a fighting-like jet interceptor takes to the air. Unerringly, with an Aircraft Observer showing the way, the Air Force F-94 Night Fighter speeds to intercept the stranger. The Aircraft Observer is the man behind the pilot -- the officer who keeps America's planes flying on course and on target. Without him the Air Force couldn't do its job.

What is the Aircraft Observer?

He's a Radar Officer . . . employing an all seeing eye that penetrates where human sight fails.

He's an Aircraft Performance Engineer Officer . . . knowing everything there is to know about his plane . . . keeping it fit for the skies and ready for action.

He's a Navigation Officer . . . plotting his plane's course . . . with an entire crew depending on him for a safe flight.

He's a Bombardment Officer . . . in full control of the plane over the target area . . . the Air Force Officer who "lowers the boom" on the enemy.

What the Aircraft Observer gets

He earns over $5,000 a year. His silver Aircraft Observer wings give him prestige and distinction, and he wears the bars of an Air Force Lieutenant. They mark him as the eyes, ears, and brains of America's Number One flying team.

What it takes to be an Aircraft Observer

The Aircraft Observer must be sound of limb, keen of mind, and above all, must have the determination to be the best.

To qualify as an Aircraft Observer you must be single, between 19 and 26½ years old, and a high school graduate. However, it will be easier for you and the Air Force if you stay in college and graduate before you apply. Then you, too, can be one of the best . . . as an Aircraft Observer.

WHERE TO GET MORE DETAILS:

Contact your nearest Aviation Cadet Selection Team, Air Force ROTC Unit or Air Force Recruiting Officer. Or write the Aviation Cadet Branch, Headquarters, U. S. Air Force, Washington 25, D. C.

U.S. AIR FORCE

PARTICIPATION BLANK
SPORT'S DAY FOR GIRLS

Saturday _____ February 28, 1954

Name _____ Box No. _____

CHECK FIRST THREE CHOICES AND NUMBER IN ORDER OF PREFERENCE

Volleyball	Tennis
Badminton	Tennis
Bowling	Archery
Basketball	Table Tennis
Swimming

RETURN TO CHARLOTTE WEST, BOX 1378 OR 324 SANDIS HALL

Anyone is eligible to enter, so let's have a good participation!

Girls Sponsor All Sports Day Here Saturday

Four southern colleges will participate in the annual Sport's Day festivities to be held at Florida State University on Saturday, February 20. The Sport's Day is being sponsored by the Women's Division of the University Recreation Association and the Department of Physical Education.

The schools that will attend are Andrew Junior College, Georgia State College for Women, the University of Florida and Florida State University. Letters were sent out to eighteen colleges and universities in the south before Christmas.

Anyone who is interested in participating on the FSU sports teams must fill out the entry blank below. Anyone is eligible to enter. The events which will make up the day's activities are to include volleyball, softball, swimming, tennis, badminton, archery, and bowling.

Included in the day's program will also be a banquet and program. The visitors from out of town will stay at the Florida State camp on Lake Bradford.

June McGill is the Chairman of the Women's Division of URA, and the sponsor is Miss Virginia Hicks of the Physical Education department.

22 Games On Slate For FSU Baseball Team

Dr. Howard Danford, director of athletics at Florida State University announced today that the FSU baseball team will play 22 games this coming season.

Some of the opponents they will meet are: Tennessee, Auburn, Duke and the defending Southeastern Conference champion, the University of Georgia.

Starting their third season under Coach Mashcrly, the Seminoles will play 22 games, 17 on their new East Campus diamond. FSU opens at home Jacksonville Navy March 12, in Jacksonville.

Nine lettermen return from the 1953 team that won 13 games, lost 10, and tied one. They are pitchers Max Long of Jacksonville; Jim Atwood, Hollywood; George Ilehmann, St. Petersburg; catchers Bob Wynn, Manchester, Ga.; Gary Ashley, Greenville, S. C.; second baseman Billy Campbell, Panama City; shortstop Billy (Coster) Mills, Tallahassee; centerfielder Bob Hudson, Sarasota, and Ham Wernke, Batesville, Ind.

A 40-man squad has been working out since Feb. 1. Mashburn said the Seminoles will hold intra-squad games every Saturday until the season opens.

The schedule:

March 12-13 — Jacksonville Navy at Jacksonville; 18—Georgia at Tallahassee; 19—Tennessee at Tallahassee; 20—Auburn at Tallahassee, 22—Davidson at Tallahassee. 24 — Jacksonville Navy at Tallahassee.

April State at Tallahassee; 29-30—Amherst at Tallahassee.

April 1-2—Duke at Tallahassee; 3—Georgia at Athens, Ga.; 7-13 — Southern Conference tourney; 15-16 —Georgia Teachers at Tallahassee; 23-25 — Stetson at DeLand; 30-May 1—Tampa at Tallahassee. 7-8—Florida Southern at Tallahassee

JJC Team Edges FSU Frosh, 83-81

Florida State's freshmen basketball team rallied sharply in the closing quarter here and very nigh but bowed to a flashy Jacksonville Junior College outfit, 83-81, on Jack Pini's field goal in the final half minute.

Pini was the man all the way for the Dolphins. He hit on 11 from the field, 10 from the charity line for a 32-point total. Teammates Stu Gregory and Dean Hodgson contributed 14 apiece to the Dolphin's balanced attack.

FSU loosed after a quarter of play, 18-11. The JJC crew upped the lead at half-time to 42-32. The Baby Seminoles started their push in the third period, cut the margin to 62-51.

It was a tied ball game several times in the final period, but Leo Benjamin's goal-line never quite gained control of the situation. The loss was their eighth in nine starts. Nearly all freshman games have been close decisions.

Bobby Waites pumped in 19 points, Bob Williams 19 and Don Allord 14 for FSU.

It was the 14th triumph in 15 starts for JJC, which plays Pensacola Junior College in Pensacola tonight and tomorrow.

JJC	FG	FT	TP	FSU	FG	FT	TP
Pini	11	10	32	Waites	7	5	19
Kurbatzi	1	0	2	Fromer	1	0	2
Gregory	6	2	14	Williams	4	7	15
Cheney	2	0	4	Byrd	1	0	2
Reynolds	3	2	8	Hecht	1	1	3
Hodgson	5	4	14	Allord	5	4	14
Bowers	2	1	5	Alford	3	4	10
Hocking	1	0	2
TOTALS	33	17	81	TOTALS	26	21	81
JJC					18	24	83—81
FSU					11	21	51—62

Free throws missed: JJC—Pini 2, Hocking, Reynolds 2. FSU—Waites 2, Williams 3, Alford 1, Koth 1.

Newspaper Disagrees With Speakers Say

(ACP)—Three forum speakers at Washington State College must have set some sort of record in collegiate circles last month when they reached an agreement on McCarthyism.

Two prominent townsmen and a professor found little to argue about the Wisconsin senator. As three speakers thought he was doing a fine job. An overflow crowd heard the trio tell why the senator was right in his actions, and the YM-YWCA, which had sponsored the forum, promptly the other nice a chance to air its views the following week. There was no time for questions from the audience.

Commended the Washington State Daily Evergreen: "All three seemed to have the idea that if you aren't for McCarthy you're against him, and if you're against him you're a deluded dupe of bomb - throwing conspirators. If not a conspirator yourself. This sort of stand takes the middle road right off the map. . . . This simple minded philosophy is not a healthy one. It can serve as a easy open for tyrannies of another nature and always happens when government by the many breaks down."

Calendar Of Events

TODAY, FEBRUARY 18

4:00 p.m. METEOROLOGY SEMINAR, Robert Radin of the Geophysics Research Directorate —Air Force Cambridge Research Center, "Project Jet-Stream" 124 Science.

4:00 p.m. HOME ECONOMICS SEMINAR, Aquila Berlas, "Pakistan—Its Growing Program of Home Economics Education for Women," 106 Science.

5 to 8 p.m. STATE SCHOLARSHIP HOLDERS' Club will meet in 202 Education Building.

7:00 p.m. JOURNALISM CLUB, 408 Lonnimire.

7:30 p.m. FUTURE TEACHERS of America, Large Lounge, Lonnimire.

7:30 p.m. FILM PREVIEWS, "Development of the Chick Embryo," "How Quiet, Helps at School," "American Revolution," "India Fights Kans," "A Picture of Britain," Trophy Room, Student Center. Everyone invited.

7:30 p.m. MODERN LANGUAGE LECTURE, Dr. Margaret Campbell, "Panama—Crossroads of the World," Lonnimire Aud.

7:30 p.m. AMERICAN STUDIES Lecture Series, "The United States Today": Robert Anderson, "The Anthropologist's Viewpoint." Open to all 215 Music.

8:00 p.m. ALPHA EPSILON DELTA (Pre-Med nonorary), 406 Lonnimire.

8:00 p.m. TARPON SHOW, "Heavens Above." Admission is free. Womens Gymnasium.

TOMORROW, FEBRUARY 17

4:00 p.m. BIOLOGICAL SCIENCES SEMINAR, Dr. T. C. Byerly, Chief, Animal and Poultry Husbandry Branch—Agricultural Research Service, USDA, "Problems in the Physiology of Reproduction of Livestock." 308 History.

4:30 p.m. PHYSICS SEMINAR M. E. Rose of the Oak Ridge Laboratory, "Angular Correlation of Nuclear Radiations," 124 Science.

5:00 p.m. GOLD KEY MEETING, 401 Lonnimire

7:00 p.m. SOCIAL WORK CLUB, Club Room Lonnimire.

7:30 p.m. AMERICAN SOCIETY of Public Administration, M. P. D'Angelo, of the Fovrin Operations Administration, will show films on, and discuss, foreign operation. Public invited. Student Lounge, Lonnimire.

7:30 p.m. FOLK AND SQUARE DANCE to be held in the Dance studio of the Womens Gym. Open to all students.

7:30 p.m. FBLA CLUB BUSINESS meeting to complete plans for the sale candy-corsages. Small Lounge, Lonnimire.

8:00 p.m. SIGMA XI, Dr. T. C. Byerly, "The Role of Genetics in Adapting Animals to Meet Changing Requirements in Human Food." 124 Science.

8:00 p.m. SANDSPUR PRODUCTION, "Panorama." Music Hall.

8:00 p.m. TARPON SHOW, "Heavens Above." Admission Free. Womens Gym.

8:00 p.m. DELTA SIGMA PI (business fraternity), Profession meeting. Wilson Carraway will be the speaker. All men students in Economics and the School of Business are invited. Trophy Room, Student Center.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 18

12:00 noon. PHYSIOLOGY SEMINAR, Richard Youtz, "The Role of the Nucleus in Differentiation." 414 History.

6:30 p.m. FILM CLUB. "Nanook" Lonnimire Aud.

7:30 p.m. HOME ECONOMICS CLUB, Large Lounge, Lonnimire.

8:00 p.m. BAKING SCIENCE CLUB, Student Lounge, Lonnimire.

8:00 p.m. NEWCOMERS CLUB, Honorable Robert A. Gray, Secretary of State, "Florida In Action." Home of Mrs. M W Carothers, 341 Mircourkee Road.

8:00 p.m. TARPON SHOW, "Heavens Above." Admission is free Womens Gym.

8:00 p.m. SANDSPUR PRODUCTION, "Panorama." Music Hall.

8:30 p.m. See 6:30 for listing.

MOVIE ON CAMPUS

1:30 p.m. Story of Louis Pasteur Today—Landis

Tomorrow—Cawthon

Thursday—Senator Hall.

VMI Date Moved To October 30th

TALLAHASSEE, Feb. 10—Florida State University's October 30 football date with Virginia Military Institute next fall, originally scheduled for Lexington, Va., will be played in Lynchburg. it was disclosed today.

New Officers Serve Longer Active Duty

All newly enrolled Marine officer candidates will be required to serve an extended period of active duty after being commissioned, according to General Lemuel C. Shepherd, Jr., Commandant of the Marine Corps.

Current and future officer requirements of the Marine Corps, as they are presently indicated, make desirable longer periods of active service for all newly commissioned reserve officers, General Shepherd said this week.

The Marine Corps has completed plans to make certain that a college graduate taking the Platoon Leaders' Class after July 1, 1954 will be required to serve three years of active commissioned service, instead of the present two-year term.

Officer Candidate Course candidates enrolled subsequent to February 1, 1954 are subject to this new policy change now in effect. Obligated active duty service does not apply to OCC and PLC candidates who are currently enrolled or to those applications are awaiting approval; these officers will serve officers now on active duty.

Aviation Is Subject Of Coming Talks

Naval and Marine aviation will be the subject of individual and group discussions February 16 through 18 when Captain Ira Kepford from the Jacksonville Naval Air Reserve Training Unit, Interviewing will be at Longmire Student Lounge.

The report stated that Lieutenant R. E. Hanna will be on the Florida State University Campus on those dates to interview students interested in military service in these fields.

Requirements listed include, between 18 and 25 years of age; Selective Service status prerequisite to application for cadet training; completion of a minimum of two years of college; single, and ability to pass physical and aptitude examinations.

Church News

WESTMINSTER HOUSE

The Westminster Fellowship, Presbyterian student group, will hold an open house at 9:00 p.m. Thursday night at the Westminster House. The open house will be in honor of Dr. Elton Trueblood, one of America's foremost authors of religious books who is guest minister this week at the First Presbyterian Church of Tallahassee.

Dr. Trueblood will be on hand to answer any questions that students may have, and direct to him in the informal discussion period. All students, faculty, and administration are invited to attend this open house.

CANTERBURY NEWS

The Rev. Everett Hewman King, Rector of the Episcopal Church in Perry, will give the first talk in a series of Pre-Lenten talks at Ruse Hall on Wednesday evening, February 24. The talk which will begin at 7:45 p.m. will be centered around the subject of personal evangelism. All students are invited to attend.

NEWMAN CLUB

As a part of the Newman Club's annual weekend Barbara Rynski was crowned queen following a buffet supper, inversan and dance Saturday night at the Newman House. Attendants to the queen were Helen Dardin and Betty Gooch.

Entertainment for the evening included Shirley Emmons singing "Love is Where You Find It" and a duet with Grady Toller, "Only Make Believe," Philip Kelly accompanied them.

Hey! Let's All Make It to CAPITAL CAFE where Every Day Is Special Day!

TODAY

U. S. Choice Club Steak
Juicy and Broiled to a Turn
95c

TOMORROW

Golden Brown Fried Chicken with French Fries and Chef's Salad
95c

THURSDAY

Juicy, Broiled Choice Filet Mignon
French Fries and Salad
95c

FRIDAY

One Dozen Fried Jumbo Shrimp
Golden French Fries, Salad
95c

SPECIAL TO FSU STUDENTS:
DRINK SERVED FREE WITH ALL SPECIALS

Come in Today! CAPITAL CAFE
Across from Seam Roebuck

Prettiest Coeds Seen Dancing With Men in Arrow "Radnor"

Outstanding social success of the current season is called Arrow Radnor . . . the rounded-collar shirt that has become a favorite of well-dressed men-about-campus. This popular shirt style is now available at all Arrow dealers — in white or colors, and in a variety of fabrics.

For free booklet, "The What, Ware and Wear of Men's Clothing," write to: Cluett, Peabody and Co., Inc., 10 East 40 Street, New York 16, N. Y.

ARROW
TRADE MARK

SHIRTS • TIES • UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • SPORTSWEAR

VA's TB Survey Helps To Check 1st Stage Cases

The United States Veterans Administration today announced the results of "an extensive war on tuberculosis" that it has conducted among veterans during the past four years.

During that time, over three million veterans were screened for signs of tuberculosis. Of these, 12,750 active and inactive cases were discovered, according to reports.

Officials of VA said that they "consider the number of new cases found and treated each month during tests as an achievement in the nationwide campaign to bring TB under control." Another benefit cited by VA is that such a search uncovers many early cases in time to effect a "speedy and lasting cure."

One of the important by-products, VA said, is the large number of chest diseases and abnormalities discovered during the survey. "Among these are serious conditions, such as cancers and heart diseases that require immediate attention. Thus, early diagnoses and treatment was afforded through the survey when delay might have been fatal.

According to VA officials, many "important advances in the field of research have been opened" for the use of the TB data developing from the program. They added that the figures also "are helpful in planning the most economical use of facilities for hospital treatment, outpatient care and rehabilitation."

"The mass type of survey," VA said, "already has proven its worth many times over and will continue to prove more valuable as time goes on and new sources of infection are discovered and eliminated."

Veterans Administration survey is still being conducted in all of its hospitals, outpatient clinics in regional offices and among all employees.

Panorama Seen As FSU Circus Sans Elephant

By MARY ELIZABETH KING

"Panorama" is almost a three-ring circus on stage. It has everything from chorus girls, dancers from the bowery, senoritas from South America, suave sophisticates, to a circus juggler.

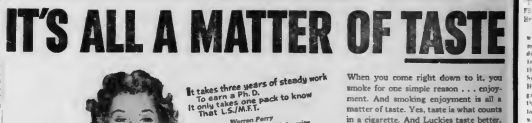
Don Rapp, juggler extraordinary, performs a fast routine about love between scenes changes and is also a dancer in the Bavin street scene.

Among the dancers are Barbara Vickers, David Harmon, Jim Jindra, Lorlie Turner, Claudette Corbet, Barbara Evans, Virginia Phillips, Diana Hood, Chaney Anderson, Lynn Schuler, Joan Breed, Carol Sieroby, Jim Fadain, Elaine Baisley, and Alex Hay.

David Dreis, comic, is on the receiving end of sultry Joanne Hosbach's kiss during a comedy scene on the lower east side. Delano Driver sings the beautiful and haunting "Him" Thalia Whitehurst and JoAnne Hosbach are also featured soloists. "Blue Summer" and "Someone" are two other love ballads composed by Leo Andrews. Ray Kocklter and Donna Lou Harper show that they're "Hungry for Love" in a realist duet.

This year's cast comes from nearly every school at FSU. Schools and departments represented include: education, business, arts and sciences, advertising, journalism, elementary education and music. Students from every class are involved in the production.

Sets for Basin street and South American numbers are completed. Tech scotty kraft walls, blackened and torn window screens and an old carnave can comprise the Basin street background.



Dancers have been working out routines since last semester. Music of the all-student production is exceptional this year. Frances Bailey Stokes is producer, Bill Chalmers, director, John Baisley, band director, and Leo Andrews, composer of the Sandspur musical. If the show was slated on the time students have contributed, it should be talked about for a long time to come.

"Dream scene" . . . features Sondra Darling. The Sigma Kappa sing-a-long chorus will accompany her in her song.

"Comic gets kiss" . . . . . David Dreis, comic lead in "Panorama", is pursued by Ja Ann Hosbach in a scene from this year's Sandspur.

IT'S ALL A MATTER OF TASTE

It takes three years of steady work To earn an L.S./M.F.T. It only takes one pack to know That L.S./M.F.T.

Warren Perry
Northwestern University

When you come right down to it, you smoke for one simple reason . . . enjoyment. And smoking enjoyment is all a matter of taste . . . taste is what matters in a cigarette. And Luckies taste better.

Two facts explain why Luckies taste better. First, L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco . . . light, mild, good-tasting tobacco. Second, Luckies are actually made better to taste better . . . always round, firm, fully packed to draw freely and smoke evenly.

So, for the enjoyment you get from better taste, and only from better taste, Be Happy—Go Lucky. Get a pack or a carton of better-tasting Luckies today.

COLLEGE SMOKERS PREFER LUCKIES

A comprehensive survey—based on 12,000 student interviews and supervised by college professors—shows that smokers in colleges from coast to coast prefer Luckies to all other brands! The No. 1 reason: Luckies' better taste!

We're rooting for our favorite teams
The arguments are loud.
But smoother-tasting Lucky Strike
Wins cheers from all the crowd.

Alice O. Ogden
Santa Barbara College

COPR., THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER CLEANER, FRESHER, SMOOTHER!

Student Unearths Corpse of Flastacowo
See Pages 1, 2

The Florida Flambeau

Tickets Go Fast For Sandspur Dance
See Page 1

VOL. XL, No. 31 PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA Friday, February 19, 1954

Campus Will Be Host To Leaders In Coming Week

Religious Leaders Have Seen Tragedy In Other Countries

Communism . . . Democracy . . . Religion are the current notes of the week of religious emphasis beginning Sunday during which time the Florida State University campus is expected to be a "beehive" of religious activity, according to spokesmen for "Intelligent Faith Week," the FSU version of the annual affair.

Proposed on the theory that every person's life is based on faith, and that no man can grow consciously that, life is ultimately materialistic or theistic, Dr. Sam Neel, University Chaplain avers, "Every individual should examine the data of life and accept that faith which is most intelligent and most meaningful to him."

Dr Neel, noting the highlights of the program, said "During the next week we'll have on campus two religious leaders who have seen first hand the tragic consequences which individuals and nations throughout the world have suffered as the result of unintelligent faiths." The religious leader said he hopes all FSU students will take time out this coming week to think through some principles upon which they base their lives.

Sponsored by the Florida Chain of Missionary Associates, a Protestant organization, the ministerial program is the only unique fact, will appear at local churches for Sunday School services, at some 12 classroom sessions. Speakers and their topics are listed in full in the last-completed IF Week program, Dr. Neel said.

Portions of the week-long emphasis on free religious activity will be numerous according to sponsors. Tuesday night will find Kristian Jensen, notable in the missionary field in Korea, briefing at a mass meeting in Doorman Hall. Dr. Jensen will talk on his three years behind the Iron Curtain. Highlighting the evening will be a presentation by Bertil Boer's original cantata "The Third Symphony," by the Men's Glee Club, directed by Herman Gunter.

Wednesday night, Opperman will again be the scene of a mass meeting featuring a panel discussion. All ministers will gather on the arena of the world that represent and University Voices, directed by Mrs. Hunwright, will sing with orchestra accompaniment. Thursday the Wednesday night meeting, to which everyone is invited, will be key words of the week, "Communism, Democracy and Christianity."

Favorite committees for the weeklong observances include: Dr Dean R. Campbell, the chairman; Fred Vogel, and Richard Dynes, co-chairmen; June Graves, vice-chairman; Jim Meyers and Mrs. Jean Maynard, programs; Rev. W. K. Morley, Sarah Herndon, Dr. Paul Reynolds, treasurer, and Dr. Sam Neel, Chaplain.

Dr. Neel issued his thanks to all committee members, heads and others who have worked in preparation for IF Week, all to numerous for publication at this time.

Group Plans Care Of Korea Orphan; Hindrance Feared

The International Students Club wants to make Intelligent Faith Week a "Creative Faith" Week as well. They have decided to aid the idea of adopting a war orphan from Korea or Western Europe, Estat Younathan, president, stated yesterday.

This would involve a campus-wide campaign each year to raise $150 needed annually for care of the orphan's living and educational expenses, he explained.

Anything over that amount would go towards the possibility of bringing the orphan to FSU for a college education when he became of age.

Due to fund-raising regulations the idea hits met with obstacles Younathan said that present regulations concerning fund-raising prevent such a campaign on campus.

Younathan feels the project should be considered as the cost per student would be a monthly three cents.

It would be an eternal humanitarian project to help students in other lands," stated Younathan. With this accomplished, institutional permanently. Younathan feels that FSU students could be foster parents in future world leaders.

"This is a mermaid!" . . . Narrator, Chris Young looks over part of the Tarpon cast. (Left to right) Ann Corbett, Pris Holmes, Mary Williams, "Minnie" Young, Dot Zubrod, Judy Jones and Nancy Wehner.

Tarpon's Heavens Above Ends 6 Day Performance Tomorrow

By JAYLEEN ROBERTSON

"Heavens Above!" "Did you have an accident?" This could easily be a question asked behind the scenes at the Tarpon production.

The adhesive-tasped mermaids are not wounded, however, but uniquely wired for light. One of the outstanding numbers in "Heavens Above," being presented tonight and tomorrow night for the last time is a black-out number titled "Star-Light, Star-Bright."

The 12 numbers combining lights, music, and water ballet transports the audience on an imaginative trip through the solar system.

Chris Young, narrator for the production, changes hemlines in the latest professional fashions, combining bathing suits, green velvet pantaloons, plumed hat, cap and gown for his series of lectures on the solar system.

"Spellbound," featuring Louise Shreve and Dick Myers, and "Dancing in the Dark," with Jan Eichinger and Nancy Wehner are two outstanding swim-duets of this production.

A young couple in "Let's Sing and Study Awhile," steal the act with their antics. The moon, played by Jerry Merrill, effects on their studies. Another of the many highlights of the show is a diving exhibition by Earl Haag and Carol Costain.

"Super Silly Splashings," a take-off on the three gubernatorial candidates in Florida, provides a comic note featuring the antics of three outer-space commuds and their control of a floating rocket ship.

The costuming of the show is highlighted with color sparking bathing caps, multi-colored bathing suits and solid hues, which show up well in the various colored spotlights.

The addition of gloves in one number adds sophistication to the synchronized ballet of the act. "Space Cadets on Parade," salutes the audience in march-time motorcycles.

Formations of stars, geometrical figures and the graceful transition from one figure to another marks the excellent timing and training which the Tarpon members have put into the production.

Student directors for the show are: Nancy Wehner, Jan Eichinger, Louise Shreve, Anita Richardson, Sue McCormick, Nancy Herndon, Jim Correll, Betsy Anne Theobald, Cherrie King, Pat Stein, Anita Bourland, and Janet Burroughs.

The cast includes Joan Paris, Barbara Belinger, Cynthia Brown, Nancy Ann Marx, Mary Margaret Williams, Joan Curtis, Jane Walker, and Margaret Gunter.

Mary Ann Batcheller, Jean Riggs, Ann Corbett, Anne Mullon, Linda Cleveland, Martha Sirkin, Jane Dorothy Zubrod, Geraldine Bethers, Pat Lorimier and Priscilla Holmes.

Alan, Marsen Davis, Sylvia Cavalieri, Eva Nesbit, Dale Leary, Tonya Moore, Marjorie Mangels, Judith Jones, Nancy Newmayer, are also featured.

(Continued on Page 6)

Senate Votes To Announce Camp Change

The University camp on Lake Bradford, long known as Camp Flastacowo, is now officially The Reservation, according to a resolution passed Tuesday by the Student Body Senate.

The resolution, introduced by Senator Joan Halford, provides that the name of the Student Control, on the request of President Campbell, approved the change last Spring, all student publications should be advised of the change and the name on the camp sign brought up to date

The student body approved the new name one month before it was submitted to the Board of Control last Spring. Through an unexplained circumstance the approval by the Board of Control hadn't come to the notice of the FSU Student Body until this week.

Other business conducted by the Senate included four confirmations of appointments by President Milton Carothers. Louie Schlitz was approved as chairman of the social standards committee, Sonya Meyer will replace Jim McMillan on the Judiciary, Rush Ann Mize will replace June McMillan on the Judiciary, and Scotty Dickinson will replace June Winters as secretary to the Judiciary.

Confirmation of the appointment of Don Cooke as chairman of Judiciary was tabled temporarily, pending her resignation as house president of Broward Hall.

Symphony Presents Spring Appearance At Opperman Hall

Florida State University's Symphonic Band, directed by Manley Whitcomb, will present its first annual spring concert March 3 at 8:15 p.m in the Opperman Music Hall, it was announced today.

The concert, free and open to the public, includes a variety of popular and classical selections, according to arrangement. It opens with Mosart's "Serenade in B-flat, No. 10."

Following intermission, the student musicians will present "Rhapsody" by Charles Carter, graduate assistant in music who has done arrangements for the FSU Marching Chiefs band.

Completing the program will be "Military Symphony" by Dvorak.

Gosser, "Zanoot" by Creston, "Irish Washerwoman" and "Sleigh Ride" by Leroy Anderson, "Musical Clock" Ianne, and

(Continued on Page 4)

"Let's call this one Jackson Street" . . . states Donna Fri, center. Donna is conferring with Bruce Bartlett and Walter Mundelein on their entries for the Flambeau Gold Key event naming contest. Contest deadline is Sunday, Feb. 21.

Liddell Claims Loyalty Oaths Are Harmful

By RICHARD L. HUNT

The popular myth that most of our college professors are Communists or atheists is actually unfounded, according to Dr. Anna F. Liddell of the Philosophy Department.

Considerable attention has been given professors as to their possible affiliations with Communistic activities in our country. Special publicity has followed those professors who have refused to sign loyalty oaths administered by the State Permanent Investigation Committee, and quite often their refusals have led to their discharge from the particular university.

Dr. Liddell explained that though our government feels that loyalty oaths are necessary, especially since Communistic tendencies can lead to such damaging results, there is great evidence that harmful effects are forthcoming.

"Many people unconsciously develop negative effect on the matter and conclude that: Professor X refused to sign a loyalty oath, therefore he is a Communist; and Professor Y, being a professor, must also be a Communist," she explained. "Even if Professor Y signed a loyalty oath, some will believe he only did to protect himself but actually does not maintain loyalty. This is, of course, an exaggeration but unfortunately this type of reasoning is often the case with many people.

"A similar erroneous assumption is frequent in respect to a professor's religious attitudes," continued Dr. Liddell, "and unfortunately played up by many misunderstanding students. Immaturity the childish religion is put aside for deeper thought. Sometimes a student on this passage this further meaning and believes it to be a change against religion." Then she cited part of the 11th chapter of First Corinthians, "for when I became a man, I put away childish things."

When one person in a particular field is accused, it seems that always in that field are suspected. This is hardly living up to the American standards. Right here might be a good time to caution those who would wave a scandalous finger too quickly.

"Our teachers all over the country are probably the most misunderstood while scholar workers. Withstanding this, they surely must have a great, almost sacrificing zeal to reach, considering the many other higher paying opportunities," Dr. Liddell emphasized. "Are not the schools the main source of instilling in American youth the knowledge of democracy? It might be wise also for us to consider many theories by the religious thoughts professors may offer before we hastily condemn them as atheists."

Baird To Speak At Tournament Opening Today

Ten southeastern colleges and universities will compete in the fifth annual Florida State University invitational debate tournament here today and tomorrow.

Debaters from four states and the District of Columbia will assemble to argue the question, "Resolved: that the United States should adopt a policy of free trade."

Florida institutions participating include Florida State University, the University of Miami, and Florida Christian College.

Out-of-state teams from Columbia will come students from Georgetown University's School of Foreign Service. Other entrants will be the University of North Carolina, Appalachian State Teachers College, Mississippi Southern, Mercer University, Georgia Tech and Emory University.

Featured speaker at the opening session will be Dr. A. Craig Baird, nationally-known scholar in discussion and debate and presently Florida State University Professor in Speech.

Debating affirmative for FSU will be Norma Trippodo and Bill Twyford; Dick Carroll, and Elise Florida.

Comprising the negative teams will be Beverly Dupervoual and Pete Kimbrell; Carol Schaefer and Fred Roberts; Tom Lewis and Jemmyann Reinvilloz.

Herbert Lazaye and Tom Woods comprise the seventh team.

FSU entrants in oriental oratory will be Jim Hall and Paul Waagz, in impromptu speaking, Bob Hodges and Bill Hall, and in after-dinner speaking, Jack Hoskins.

The final word is that six southeastern states and the District of Columbia will be represented in the 1954 International Debate Tournament. Twelve teams have entered—the two FSU entrants are David Lipscomb College of Nashville, Tenn. and Wake Forest College, N. C.

This makes it biggest debate tournament FSU has sponsored, the decision of the University of Florida not to attend.

Dr. Baird will be receptakes a trophy at our tournament the first time. FSU won second and Florida third.

Odham Motorcade Will Start Monday At Westcott Front

The campus Really Odham for Governor, club laid plans for a motorcade to welcome the candidate upon his arrival next Monday, at their meeting Wednesday evening.

Odham will speak over the air from the FSU Campus upon his trip from Dean Moores here in Tallahassee to his campaign tour of the state.

The motorcade will form in front of Westcott at 10:30 Monday night, tour the campus and then proceed to Dean Moores. Vice-Chairman Dave Kennedy has asked all those interested in the Odham campaign to join the motorcade.

Permanent officers were elected Wednesday night to serve through the remainder of the year: Chairman, Phil Kelley; vice-chairman, Kennedy

Mancini Blair, publicity chairmen, Kennedy, Phil Springer and Bill Hall; membership drive chairman, Judy Markham; poster chairman, Loretta Castillon and Lynn Bowman; motorcade chairmen, Kennedy, Hal Kastner and Dean Moores.

During their meeting, several important questions they would like to ask the gubernatorial candidate, Among those were: What do you think of the proposed FSU-UF football game? What do yes think of moving the Florida Law School to Tallahassee to allow use of the Keith Building? Do you think 18-year-olds should be allowed to vote?

Photo Contest Open With 'Folks' Theme

The Sylvania Electric Products Inc. has announced the opening of a flash photography contest that will close at 5:30 PM. The theme of the contest is "Folks Are Fun" and the prize money is $50,000.

According to George C. Connor, General Sales Manager of Photolamps, the "Folks Are Fun" contest offers "any eligible picture people having fun—at home, at parties, playing games or working at hobbies."

The grand prize is $5,000 in cash. Also to be awarded are two Chevrolet Corvette sport cars.

Only amateur photographers are eligible. Purtiser information may be obtained at any photo store displaying Sylvania "Blue Dot" flashcubes are sold.

"What is this thing?" . . . Inquires bewery bum, Don Rapp. Rapp gets a lively bit of juggling between scenes in this years Sandspur production.

"Torrid senorites cool off under a fountain" . . . in this South American scene from Sandspur, "Fiesta Senor" girls are flats to right, Jeanie Harper, Blaine Beasley, Carolina Stoudley, Diana Hood and Cherryn Sanderson.

Panorama' Show Gains Praise From Goers; A Sad Note, Too

By OSCAR JOHNSON

Playing to an audience composed mainly of faculty members, Sanspur's Wednesday night showing of "Panorama" was a hit from the start, generously sparkling with the original music of Leo Andrews. None of the hurriedness of the previous night's dress rehearsal was in evidence, and as one faculty member commented afterwards, the show was "simply marvelous." In fact, the cast seemed to enjoy putting on the show more than the dress rehearsal.

A sad note was added to the rehearsal by the reputed disappearance of several valises from the women's dressing room while it was going on. The doubtless will force precautionary measures to be taken for future performances.

When director Bill Chavers pushed back the opening curtain for the Wednesday night show, and the first scene, "Si Si Amigos" began without a hitch, he breathed a big sigh of relief and then relaxed for the schedule. "I always forget everything when I pull back the big curtain," he grinned. "Sasha" was the first act of "Si Si Amigos" and that a note of gayety to the show. It was followed by "My Lonely Heart," a solo beautifully sung by Thalia Whitehurst. Next was an eye-catching Rhumba, produced with real vigor by green and gold. Ricky Powell and "Miss Panorama" of the other solo came a sloppy tango, and "Blue Serenade" a dreamy piece suited perfectly to dashing.

The second scene, "Dream" was composed of three numbers, "Lonesome For You," "I Can't Forget," and a graceful dance by Frances-Bailey Stokes and Bob Murray. The first number featured a solo by Sandra Darling, with expert accompaniment by Jim Stamps. Kappa Chorus, which also sang "I Can't Forget," along with Delores Driver.

Everybody gets into the act

(Continued on Page 6)

Piano Quartet Will Play 18 Numbers, 2 Shows

The First Piano Quartet, only four-piano ensemble of its kind in the world, will appear, sponsored by the Florida State University Artist Series program, at Dean Hall School auditorium Thursday afternoon and evening, Feb. 25, spokesmen for that organization announced.

The group, organized in 1941 under the guidance of Silvio Vardaro, is made up of four men who were well-known soloists in their own right before joining forces to create the ensemble, considered unique among musical circles.

Featured at the matinee and evening performances at Leon, will be 18 numbers, the program reads, by a variety of composers including Liszt, Herbert, Chopin and Paganini.

Vardaro will also be featured in the tempos of the various numbers, reliones state. A march, board,

One World Is Still Possible, Says Educator

All of the peoples of the world will eventually come under one government, predicts Dr. Robert Redfield, head of the Florida University Anthropology department.

The educator said at the second in the new series of American Studies sponsored by FSU that he thinks at some time in the future the world population will have "Canadians and the others to the extent that all of the peoples of the world will be subject to the same government.

He predicted that the "world government" will come about by the "Silent Agents" of the development of the world asserting itself and coalescing.

Dr. Anderson thinks that people will be happy with the change, and he has some claims. "Man's assertion of vitalsecretion', his feelings that men are kin to one another will then take to the entire world population as the 'we' group," Dr. Anderson said.

Dr. Anderson believes the American culture is best now developed, because it keeps us healthier, on the average, and keeps us happier than any

(Continued on Page 4)

Hudson's Band Presents Concert In Amphitheater

Ticket Sales Set At 1500, Going Fast Says Foley

Ticketz for the annual Sandspur Dance are limited, Business Manager Bob Foley told the Flambeau today. Foley said the number of tickets to be sold has been set at 1,500 noting they are going fast.

Admission for the dance is $1.25 per person. Tickets are on sale in the Soda Shop, Student Center, and lower Westcott. Foley added, Sandspur Council is assisting with the sales.

The Sandspur Dance, held annually in conjunction with the Sandspur Production, is held the Saturday night after the 8 p.m. in the Suwannee Room.

The dance is one of the "big three" dances of the year, where women students receive 1:30 permission. Corsages are optional, spokesmen said.

Dean Hudson and the "New look in dance music" will be featured for the dance. Hudson's band will also present an early evening concert in the Music Amphitheater, tomorrow at 6

The early concert will be an audience participation program and is free to faculty and students. Members of the audience will participate by leading the band, or by group and individual singing. In case of rain it will be held at the Student Center.

Hudson's band has made appearances in many of the best places in the country and is said to be one of the most talented bands on the road. Hudson has appeared often on the radio program "Meet the Band" which is broadcast coast to coast three times a week.

Decorations for the dance are kept secret, but according to Foley, the theme this year is as elaborate and should rival the Homecoming motif.

Students who have been working on the dance include Rice, Mary Ann Batcheller chairman; Margaret Horror, decorations and publicity; Mary Wilson, Barbara Meadows, Carolyn Pearson, and Denise Johnsen on the production.

News Briefs

BALL IS PUBLICIZED

First Leon County Ball will receive publicity tomorrow and the weekend when Dr. Hale Smith of the Anthropology dept. gives a lecture on the clay ball caches from Leon County at the ninth annual meeting of the Florida Anthropological Society at the University of Miami, Coral Gables.

Others from Florida State attending the meeting include Vincent Crumata, graduate student, Dr. Ripley Bullen, graduate student and John W. Griffin, professor of anthropology.

SIGMA CHI WINS AWARD

Sigma Chi at FSU has been honored by its national fraternity with a second Literary award for outstanding achievement in 1952-53.

Epsilon Zeta Sigma topped other fraternities in scholarship for the third straight year and ranked fourth among Sigma chapters nationally.

NEW COURSE

A Red Cross Senior life-saving Course will begin Monday night at 8 in the East Campus pool. It was announced recently. Open to all students, students in the class will meet for two or three hours each week until the Red Cross requirement of 17 hours is met.

4-H AT FAIR

Twelve FSU Collegiate 4-H girls presented a skit at the FAL Short Fair in Dania recently it was reported. The girls were accompanied by Mrs. Gladys Kennon, Frances Clemons and Miss Alma Warren.

Girls who attended were Bonnie Bass, Peggy Campbell, Wylene Murff, Judy Markham, Girls in DeGrafenreid, Jeanne Brownlee and Carol DeVoto.

Plans for Tuesday to make plans for the election of new officers and the Rural Youth Conference in March.

GARNET KEY

Garnet Key women, honorary, is in charge of selling Coke during the Sandspur Production, according to June McMillan, chairman of the project. Proceeds go to Campus Chest.

PI PHI'S ELECT

Pi Beta Phi social sorority, elected officers for the SAE's at Eddie Party Wednesday night.

(Continued on Page 6)

Not Flastacowo, Not Seminole: It's The Reservation (We Hope)

We've known for some time that Camp Flastacowo isn't Camp Seminole, but do you know that Camp Flastacowo isn't Camp Flastacowo, either?

Camp Flastacowo hasn't really been Camp Flastacowo since 1947, but it's been Camp Flastacowo all the same. Now people just didn't think that was right, so they voted to change it to the Reservation. But it wasn't really The Reservation, either, or so people thought. But now everything is clear as a bell. Camp Flastacowo is The Reservation — or rather The Reservation is . . . or something.

CONFUSED? SO ARE WE.

To straighten things out a bit, here's how it goes: Flastacowo is a name formed from the first few letters of the words Florida State College for Women. This was acceptable for a women's college, but it was slightly anachronistic after 1947, when FSCW became Florida State University.

Other institutions' names were changed where they did not reflect the university's new, co-educational nature. The yearbook, which was also called Flastacowo, became Tally-Ho. The campus literary magazine changed from Distaff to Talaria. (Ultimately this became Smoke Signal when someone decided the best way to change a leopard's spots was to change its name.)

Only College avenue and Camp Flastacowo remained as anachronisms.

It only took from 1947 to 1953 for students to do something about the situation, though. Last year during the UGA election, students had a chance to choose from a number of suggested names, as well as to write in their own suggestions.

There really wasn't much of a choice. Students could pick from Camp Flastacowo, Camp Cypress, The Reservation, and Camp of the Pines. Students wrote in some more interesting names, like Happy Hunting Grounds and others we had better not print.

But so few people voted, elections officials said they would wait until later for a more significant vote. This year was only a preferential one and not binding.

There we thought the matter lay. At the first of the year, the Flambeau mentioned that some people were calling the camp Camp Seminole and said it would continue to call it Flastacowo until informed otherwise.

Now someone has finally taken the trouble to check. Senator Joan Halford has found that neither name is correct.

Last May 21, the Board of Control, acting upon the preference stated by 405 students, approved the name The Reservation.

The Flambeau is always glad to bring to the students the latest, up-to-the-minute news.

ETCETERA ETCHINGS

Moviemen Singing Censorship Blues

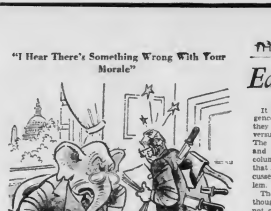
By DAVID DREES

Hey, kiddies! The crook nuts "get away" if all the commotion keeps up in Hollywood. Yep, the Breen office ree the Johnson office ree the Hays office is having hard headaches handed them.

Putting the scissors to some films and not to others is causing the row behind the shake. some dismay from groups who favor Ma Kettle and from groups favoring Martin Luther Thomas.

Come Back Little Sheba, because it was a famed play and any snip would've been noticeable, was left untouched although the Breen Boys admitted it "left quite a bit to imagination."

Recently the producers of The Moon Is Blue objected to the Breen office's notions about clipping some scenes . . . the Breen office can only "suggest" because any other way than self-censorship would be undemocratic. However, most films are abided by because the office is made up of producers themselves. Motion Picture Producers and Distributing Association.



In From Here To Eternity, the prostitute played by Donna Reed is allowed to go free. Many pressure groups objected to this, but the Columbia studio said, "After all, there's such a thing as psychological punishment. You can't have everyone being killed in the last act."

Films that have been questionable recently were Not As A Stranger, showing a racketeer and his mistress throughout; September Affair, wherein Joan married Joe Cotten and Joan Fontaine; and Man Without A Star. By Night, Stanwyck rips undershirt off Ryan; The Outlaw, Jane Russell's explanation is needed.

Yours truly,

GEORGE SHELDON LOCH.

Editor's Note — See The Free Lance today forJaman writing

Let It Be Said

By DICK VICTORY

Is not the soul we seek alone worth praise of that which people condone?
Or must our journey be one of flight far from flavor and into never-ending night?

It is everyone's duty to achieve greatness. Or at least attempt to. This singleness of purpose should guide the person lest he become a part instead of the whole. In what he achieves greatness is really secondary.

Greatness. Alone a meaningless epithet. But when applied to man is becomes a beacon, portrait of man's achievement and fulfillment of earthly obligation.

There are those who would argue against this word and the way of life it represents by attacking its philosophy of the individual held highest. However, this is not the case at all, because greatness can only be found in those who contribute to life, and in turn, mankind. Thus, it is not a singular thing at all, but a reverse manifestation of humanitarianism.

It is the price of existence, and this is what our generation will not realize. I can hardly see we could still be called the Lost Generation. How would we be lost? We were never "all there" in the first place.

But we choose to hide from this word, and while doing so, remain impotent and shallow, like pockmarks on the sands of Bahama. When with the terrifics of annihilation, we could become mountains.

The reflections above are born of the futility of the day. The sun has set on the day of greatness.

Look around. Who's great? In America: John Posters Dulleses; in British Alaz, there is no King. Who else could be? In China, er Formosa: Chiang Kai's a Wreck.

The world is sterile.

Only greatness remains a quality that few seek and even fewer attain. Lately, very few.

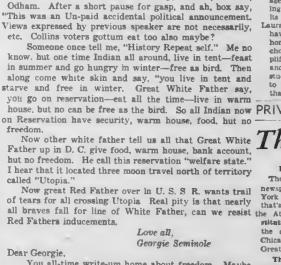
Dear Mama Seminole

Dear Mama Seminole,

Pow-wow called on reservation over election of big state chief. Bix box in Mecca say, Odham, Odham. After a short pause for gasp, and ah, box say, "This was an Un-paid accidental political announcement. Says expressed by previous speaker are not necessarily, etc. Collins voters gottum eat too also maybe?

Someone once tell me, "History Repeat self." Me no know, but one time Indian all around, live in tent—feast in summer and go hungry in winter. Free as bird. Then along come white skin and say, "you live in tent and starve and free in winter. Great White Father say, you go on reservation—eat all the time—live in warm house, but no can be free as bird. So all Indian now on Reservation have security, warm house, food, but no freedom.

Now other white father tell us all that Great White Father up in D. C. give food, warm house, bank account, but no freedom. He call this reservation "welfare state." I hear that it located three moon travel north of territory called "Utopia."



Now great Red Father over in U. S. S. R. wants trail of tears for all crossing Utopia. Real pity is that nearly all braves fall for line of White Father, can we resist Red Fathers inducements.

Love all,
Georgie Seminole

Dear Georgie,

You all-time write-um home about freedom. Maybe you tell me sometime what you mean. Seminoles and all other peoples give-um up act-um like in-di-viduals (wild animals) as soon as they band-um together for common good in thing call so-i-ety.

Love, Mama

Supports Odham

Dear Editor:

It is my contention that all college students should take an active part in their state elections and go supreme duty support of the candidates of their choice. It is for this reason that I present to my fellow schoolmates my views on the candidacy of Odham for the office of Governor of the State of Florida in the coming election.

It is my belief that Brailey Odham is the only candidate to be re wise that can appeal to the people of Florida the type which he will follow throughout his campaign. Mr. Odham has said that he is available at any time to answer questions which the people might want to ask; this he has done. Mr. Odham's opponents do not seemingly support such a policy, rather if they foster their present policy their entire campaign organization will be established on a "closed-door" basis.

Mr. Odham has made known his record in a clear and unemotional way. This record is available through the Campus Club for Odham or the candidate headquarters uptown. It would be well for the students to read this record and compare the facts as presented by Mr. Odham — to the opposite facts as given by his opponents.

Sincerely,
Graham C. Owen
West Hall.

Education's Main Problem Is Order

By BRUCE GALPHIN

It is a tribute to the intelligence of the student body that they are discussing liberal arts versus specialized education. The reactions, both favorable and derisive to my last two columns on the subject show that students' attentions are focused on this vital, basic problem.

The nature of the criticisms, though, indicates that I have not quite made my point clear enough. I have demonstrated too much on certain aspects of specialized vs. liberal arts and not given a clear enough picture of the whole. So I'd like to spend one more column attempting to outline the problem in its whole.

We should recognize:

(1) The need for specialized training. It's not a fad. It is basic to modern society. Nothing short of mass destruction of the peoples of the world could change the present division of labor of society. I would hate to go back to the days of tending all my needs personally.

(2) The need for a liberal arts education increases in proportion to increasing division of labor. The more people have to confine themselves to one field, the more they lose sight of the whole pattern of society. If we are to be more than cogs in a wheel, they must be given a chance to see and understand the whole wheel and all the wheels that make the entire machine.

Isolation of knowledge, though it may be a vocational ANY, is still a social taboo. The good citizen needs enough information about other fields to choose his leaders wisely and to set intelligently when he must make decisions concerning integrated groups of people.

(3) Specialization is obviously not that kind of education which lends itself to developing the "whole man."

(4) Since both types of education are needed, we should provide them both. But we should take them in their proper order and not confuse the one with the other. We should not abolish one by substituting the other and calling the latter by its name.

(5) Basic liberal arts education should come first. I must reiterate that liberal arts concerns itself very little with Aristotle and Socrates . . . only to the extent that these men's ideas have influenced modern thinking. Liberal arts should consist of an introductory acquaintance with the many aspects of our modern, complex and fluid society, not classical.

It should deal with the living issues that confront us today. In doing so it must refer to men long dead, for the development of society is evolutionary. The present rests on the past.

Both to prepare people to be more intelligent citizens and to help them decide what kind of work they want to take up the broad part of the education should come first.

(6) Present educational procedures militate against such liberal arts. Both the on-the-job training which takes students away from college in the name of a college education and the specialized courses which occupy their time on the campus subtract from their liberal education. There's nothing much they can do about it at present, the system prevents them.

One possible solution is a modification of the Chicago plan. Since there is nothing sacred about having 12 years of primary and secondary education, this system would consolidate this earlier schooling into 10 years. Then the student would attend a free liberal arts college for four years. If he chose, he could continue for two more years in professional training, either on the job or in the classroom.

Such a plan would mean quite a reorganization of our educational system. But as I can see, it is the most reasonable proposal to date.

Virtue Upheld, Or, Good Glorified

By BEVERLY LACAYO
AN ACT IN ONE PLAY

Ken: What's happiness? You can't buy happiness with it?

Dad: Well, well, a year at Monotheism has turned him into a Philosopher.

Laura: I'm certainly glad I'm going to U. of M., where they put quite so materialistic.

Ken: Is that so? Well I was joking around, but if you want to get down to brass tacks, all that religion and honor and service that they dish out at FSU doesn't fool anyone at M. U. You're still just a play school without the money and prestige to go with it. Besides, I'm in the pre-law course and I'll have to get a graduate degree anyway, so there's more to it than that.

Dad: Well, that's why you came home looking like a drowned rat?

Mom: It's no wonder your sweaters are out of shape, dear, with all that weight you pin to them.

Laura: Trivialities! You can't see the forest for the trees, I can't wait till next year — you and the ugly duck. The glorifying of one's self is thrilling. Self-sacrifice is the key to Real Satisfaction.

Ken: Yeah, but money opens any door, including that one. That's great, though. Sit. Keep it up, maybe if you practice hard you can become a real martyr — you'll make the Hall of Glory and have a full page picture in the year book.

Mom: Laura, do you suppose that all the girls who give their time and service at FSU get that type of recognition?

Laura: Whether this happens to some of them are lucky.

Laura: Father!

Dad: Sweet things. Into tolerant fatherly silence once more!

Laura: (changing subject) Ken, you remind me of my roommate Nellie. She has the most unfortunate looks that you do about money. Nellie's been elected Dahma Gi queen and Beer Queen and Miss Information and is now entering into what's less count. There must be a new queen of something-or-other chosen every week at school. That's the only trouble, there aren't many silly honors up at FSU! It's really a senseless farce. And wonderful girls like Nellie get the idea that there is something magic in being honoring or titles. They're caught up in the web of public approval and never realize that they've got the ground again. If Nellie would only realize what it's doing to her personality — she's just a shell . . .

Ken: For crying out loud, knock it off, will you! Tell your troubles — who knows? You home from the beach?

Laura: Mom, Dad! Listen to him! I can see they don't care about manners at M. U. now.

(Barking is heard in the background.)

Dad: What's that?

Dad: Just the dogs, dear, waiting for the younger generation.

ORDER ANNOUNCEMENTS

June graduates who will be graduated this semester for interim the Colonel's heart really stops should order graduation wasn't in it. The Tribune had announcements as soon as possible. announcements are now by ushers, at the registration. terfully distorted. Once the time for ordering occurs during Tribune declared, that "the line internship periods.

There Are Papers---And The Tribune

By GENE LAWLER

There are newspapers and newspapers. There is the New York Times: "All the news that's fit to print." There is the Atlanta Journal and Constitution: "Never sleeps with the dew." And there is the Chicago Tribune: "The World's Greatest Newspaper."

The Tribune is the largest non-tabloid American newspaper, and its circulation only to its tabloid sister, the New York Daily News. It is a colossus: when John Gunther wrote INSIDE USA he filled one chapter — "Chicago Tribune. Illinois, and Beyond" — with the publisher. "He write about the Middle West and leave the Tribune out is like playing Hamlet but not only without the Prince of Denmark but without Polonius."

Gunther compares the Tribune to Pravda and the Soviet Russia. Like Texas: "aggressive, sensitive in the extreme, loaded with braggadocio, expansionist and medieval." Like Russia: "big, totalitarian and blindly suspicious of outsiders, with natural resources not fully developed, a strong nationalistic streak, and hatred of such associated phenomena as the British, the British, and bourgeois politics."

For 28 years the Tribune has been under the sole command of Colonel Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher. To understand the paper is impossible without understanding the man.

First of all, the Colonel takes tremendous personal pride in his military record: "You don't see it much, but the fact is that I introduced the ROTC into the schools; that I introduced machine guns into the army; that I introduced mechanized cavalry; that I introduced automatic rifles: I was the first ground officer to go on the air and observe artillery fire . . .

"On the other hand . . . I have always been against the navy . . . that airplanes could ever sink battleships.

"I did get the marines out of Shanghai, but was unauthorized. I had to get the army out of the Philippines."

"Campaigns such as I have carried out deserve military commendation, and I received it in view of the accomplishment I may say without false humor — become a real martyr — you'll make the Hall of Glory and have a full page pic-

The Florida Flambeau

BRUCE GALPHIN—Editor

Al Pierce, News Editor Bob Folsom, Managing Editor

Feature Editor ..... Jayleen Roberson
Campus Editor ..... Ann Caldwell
Sports Editor ..... Ken Kingery
Rewrite Editors ..... Oscar Johnson, Mary Ann Owen
Sports Staff ..... Art Kennerly, Bob Gutting
Photographer ..... Dick Bibler

Art Consultant ..... Franklin Adams
Copy Editors ..... Sylvia Parrish, Dick Vertrey, Sid Dyer
Photographic Editor ..... Joe Caldwell
Junior Staff ..... Dot Thomasson, Mary Elizabeth King, Tom Hall, Betty Bishop, Lona Cochran, Barbara Bachman, Joyce Porter

NANCY LOWE—Business Mgr.
Al Markevitz, Advertising Mgr.

Business Staff ..... Mary Wagon, Virginia Vaughn, Joe Caldwell
Advertising Soliciting ..... Members of Alpha Delta Sigma, Gamma Alpha Chi.
Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Ave., New York, 17.

Telephone 2 8000 — extension 4821
213 Longmire Building

Exchange Staff ..... Pat Robson
Exchange Staff ..... Liz Haverod
Distribution ..... Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by the students of Florida State University, Member Intercollegiate Press.

Member Associated Collegiate Press

From The Sidelines

By Ken Kingery

Flambeau Sports Editor

STATE CHAMPS ENDS SEASON SATURDAY

The Seminole Basketball team will bow out of the sports picture soon, but their outstanding record won't ever be forgotten. When next season comes around, the Seminoles will suffer greatly by the loss of Edwin Reeves, and Duane Gordon. However, there are many freshmen now on the 'F' squad that should reinforce well enough to give Coach Bud Kennedy his best season yet.

Arkansas State will be the Indians' last foe of the regular season. This will be the first time Coach Kennedy's boys has encountered Arkansas this season. They played one game last year, with the Seminoles coming out on the short end, 88-77.

FSU SOCCER TEAM NEEDS SUPPORT . . .

Every one that saw the soccer game against the Air Cadets last Sunday realize that with some help from the University the FSU Soccer Team could improve 100 percents. The Physical Education Department has shown interest by giving them jerseys and also setting the new field for them.

There are other universities in te South that are helped by some ways or means, so this idea isn't something newly thought up I hope someday the Soccer Team becomes a varsity sport, it is next to impossible within a year or so but maybe someday.

FORMER FSU BASEBALL STAR GOES PRO . .

Ralph Bilinn, former Florida State outfielder and shortstop, has signed a contract with Tallahassee's Rebels, it was announced today by General Manager Bob Delaney.

The rangy, 6-2, 175-pounder had a brief professional fling with Topeka, Kansas, of the Class C Western Association last year but his classification is still in the rookie category. He was signed as a free agent.

Originally from Lake Worth, Bilnn played for FSU in 1952 and 1953. He is 21.

Delaney also disclosed that only a few front row box seats in the new section at Centennial Field remain unsold. He said there are several front row seats available in the old section, however.

Manager Johnny George and Delaney will fly to Miami tomorrow to attend the Florida International League meeting called by President Phil O'Connell. The recent sale of the Fort Lauderdale franchise to Robert Reidy and the resulting transfer to Miami Beach will be one of the chief topics. O'Connell has also asked that his successor be elected at this meeting.

Keepsake Diamonds
LeCoultre Watches
PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRS
107 S. Monroe St. Phone 3-1462

Moore are the biggest of the deer family.—Sports Afield.

Elk average 800 pounds; the worlds record is 1,104. — Sports Afield.

Pictures Live Forever
BRING YOUR DEVELOPING AND PRINTING TO US FOR THE FINEST QUALITY.
Tallahassee Camera Center
"Across From the Florida Theater"
123 N. MONROE

3 Big 7's
7 Days
7 Specials
at 7 Seas
Seven Seas
A Special Every Day
Just Special For You
FRI.:
Whole Broiled Lobster
Drawn Butter Chef's Salad
$1.25
SAT.:
Golden Fried Half Chicken
French Fries
$1.00
SUN.:
Delicious Roast Turkey
Dressing — Cranberries
$1.00
MON.:
Breaded Veal Cutlet
French Fries, Chef's Salad and Drink
85c
TUES.:
Juicy Broiled Filet Mignon
French Fries Chef's Salad
$1.00
WED.:
Fried Jumbo Shrimp
French Fries, Chef's Salad
85c
THURS.:
Spaghetti with Cheese
Salad, Drink Lemon Cream Pie
85c

Seminoles Take Ga. Teachers 89-85

Oler Scores 23, Leads Victory Over A Surprised Ga. Team; Gordon Racks Up 22 Points

Florida State University cagers bore down on Georgia Teachers College Wednesday with an 89-85 victory, in a game sparked by a lightning-fast trio of Seminole teammates.

Jim Oler, guard, aced top position on the scoreboard with 23 points. Following close on Oler's heels was forward Duane Gordon with 22, and Han Wernke, guard who rounded out the triple threat with 21 points.

All the beginning of the fourth quarter, Florida State legged 58-48, but pushed ahead with an eight point lead as the tempo reached a cruelly point. Georgia recovered quickly, however, and sought the tally up to an even 79-79. FSU, however, bested the contest with some fat moving left during the closing minutes.

Clincher for Florica State's cagers came at the free throw line, where Coach Bud Kennedy's boys netted sash 21 shots, while the Georgians completed only 13

High scorer for GTC proved to be Chester Webb with a booming 21 points.

Individual scores are as follows:

FSU	G	F	T	GTC	G	F	T
Wernke, f	6	1	13	Phillips, f	6	1	13
Gordon, f	10	2	22	D. Harris, f	4	4	12
Reeves, c	3	1	7	Bruce, c	3	3	9
Wernke, g	7	1	15	Webb, c	10	1	21
Oler, g	9	5	23	Hamrick, g	3	1	7
Gore, g	1	0	2	J. Harris, g	1	0	2
				Beliffe, g	1	1	3
				Ward, g	0	1	1
Totals	36	11	89	Totals	36	13	85

DUANE GORDON, senior forward from Madison, Wis., will be on the court for the last game of the season. This rounds up 4 years of well played ball for Duane. The Seminoles will miss him next season.

Weekend Of Sports Slated Here At FSU

Florida State University's basketball team closes its season here Saturday night against Arkansas State in a climax to a busy week of activity for the Seminole winter sports teams.

Coach Bud Kennedy's five are shooting their best season since the 1950-51 campaign when they won 18 and lost 6.

Hamerin' Han Wernke, FSU's Little All-American candidate, will be shooting for a double mark in this Saturday night's battle—the state scoring crown and the 400-point total.

This afternoon, Coach Bim Stultz' undefeated Seminole swimmers entertain Georgia Tech in the first campus pool affair, the first of two straight home meets. Saturday night they go against Southwestern (La.) State.

The Seminoles who have topped Jacksonville Navy twice, Auburn and Georgia, will not be going after their 10th dual win over a two-year period against Tech. Last year they kept their record of having never lost to an Engineer tank team, defeating the Georgians 48-38.

In another Saturday headliner, Coach Malcolm Kutz's champions, defend their Florida AAU title in the East Campus gymnasium. Also unbeaten, Coach Hartley Price's charges have won over Miracans, Minnesota and Georgia Tech in their three dual starts.

The same day, the Seminole volleyball team, coached by Bill Odenkirk, goes to Knoxville, Tenn., for the Smokey Mountain Invitational Tournament. They have seven matches this season, they are considered one of the top teams in the event.

Track Team Works For Coming Meet In N.C.

Florida State University's freshman-loaded track team, bolstered by only two lettermen, bears down this week in preparation for the first Atlantic Coast Conference indoor games at Chapel Hill, N. C., February 27.

The Seminoles boasting what Head Coach Ken Miller calls "the best freshman group in the Southeast," have been limbering up for their opener since February 3.

Twenty of FSU's 23-man squad are freshmen. The only lettermen are Junior Ken Jarrett, a distance runner from Lewisburg, Pa., and team Captain Carlos Fraundorfer, an all-around star from Tampa.

Five first-time candidates have been particularly impressive, says Miller. They are Jimmy Cartesi of Avondale Estates, Ga., a Georgia state quarter-mile champ last year; Larry Hounsha of Woodside, Long Island, New York City half-mile titlist in 1953; Tommy Brown of Bradenton, Joe Davis of Orlando, and Charlie Watson of Ft. Myers.

Brown, Davis and Watson were Florida high school hurdle champions last season.

Miller said he would enter a squad of eight yearlings in the freshman division of the Atlantic Coast Conference indoor games

Baird Joins Faculty To Teach Speech

Dr. A. Craig Baird, originator of international collegiate debates and nationally known scholar in argumentation and discussion, has joined the speech department of Florida State University as professor in residence for this semester, it was announced yesterday.

Dr. Baird, a professor in forensics for 42 years, will teach "Speech Criticism" for graduate students, announced Dr. Clarence Kelsey, head of the department here.

A past presidnt of the National Association of Teachers of Speech, Dr. Baird since 1938 has been professor of speech at the State University of Iowa.

It was under Dr. Baird at Iowa University that three present members of the Florida State University speech faculty, Dr. Edney, Dr. Orees Phifer and Dr. Thomas R. Lewis, received doctors' degrees.

Approximately 50 speech professors now teaching across America, also did their doctoral work under Baird, it was noted.

Patronize Our Advertisers

PARTICIPATION BLANK SPORT'S DAY FOR GIRLS

Saturday February 20, 1954

Name _____ Box No.____

CHECK FIRST THREE CHOICES AND NUMBER IN ORDER OF PREFERENCE

Volleyball _____ Tennis _____

Badminton _____ Tennis _____

Bowling _____ Archery _____

Basketball _____ Table Tennis _____

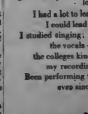
Swimming

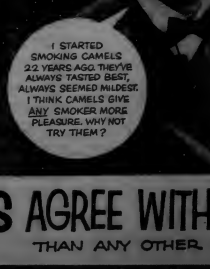
RETURN TO CHARLOTTE WEST, BOX 1379 OR 324 LANDIS HALL

Anyone is eligible to enter, so let's have a good participation!

FSU Golfers To Take On Loaded Schedule Soon

Dr. Don Veller's Florida State University golf team will tackle the busiest links schedule in Seminole history this spring, Director of Athletics Howard Danford said today.





Twelve dual meets and two tournaments—the Florida and Southern intercollegiate meets—are on the Seminole golf agenda announced today. The schedule includes matches with Georgia Tech, Auburn, Wake Forest, Davidson and Southwestern of Memphis.

Only two lettermen are back from last season's team, which copped five of nine dual matches. They are Jimmy James, Miami senior, and Randy Church, a sophomore from Dothan, Ala.

However, Veller, former FSU football coach who is in his second term as Seminole golf instructor, has several promising freshmen. The outstanding yearling is spunky Bunk Berry, a 130-pound Tallahassee product who was a state high school champion while shooting for Leon High School.

The schedule:

March 10—Stetson at DeLand; 11-12—Florida intercollegiate tournament at DeLand; 26—Auburn at Tallahassee; 23—Western Illinois at Tallahassee; 25—Davidson at Tallahassee; 26—Rollins at Tallahassee; April 2—Stetson at Tallahassee; 5—Wake Forest at Tallahassee; 14—Illinois State at Tallahassee; 24 — Rollins at Tallahassee; 26—Southwestern at Tallahassee; 28—Georgia Tech at Atlanta; 30-May 1—Southern Intercollegiate tournament at Athens; 16—Jacksonville Navy at Tallahassee.

How the stars got started.....

Vaughn Monroe
says: "In high school, I spent all my spare time playing with local bands.
I had a lot to learn before I could lead my own band. I studied singing; eventually did the vocals, and found that the colleges kind of liked my recordings.
Been performing for 'em ever since!"

for Mildness and Flavor
CAMELS AGREE WITH MORE PEOPLE
THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE !

FSU Gym Team Wins In Alabama

At the Alabama invitational meet held at Gadsden last Saturday the Seminole gym team swept to victory to maintain the Invitational title they have held for the past two years.

Taking the first three places in all but two of the events, Florida State left the competitors from four other schools in their wake as they took an easily lead which they easily held throughout the meet.

Toughest competition of the evening occurred in the form of the Koehler brothers who gave the Seminoles a rough time in tumbling and trampoline Howver, Larry Wrenn managed to turn in an excellent performance in tumbling to take first in that event closely followed by J. and R. Koehler.

On the trampoline Dick Ireland and Jim Fagigan tied for first, followed by J. Koehler. This proved to be the upset of the evening. It had been previously thought that Koehler would take first in this event, but according to Dr. Price both Dick and Jim have improved their trampoline forms to the extent that they are now considered possible contenders for the National trampoline title.

Taking the most places at the meet was co-Captain Don Holder, who took two firsts, tied with Rafael Lecuona for another first and took two second place wins.

At the final tally FSU men were awarded the first five places for all-around competition. The results were as follows:

First place—Holder.

Second place—Carmine Regua.

Third place—Joe Regua.

Fourth place—Joe Taylor.

Fifth place—Rafael Lecuona.

Saturday, February 26, the Seminoles will swing into action again trying for a fifth straight win at the Florida AAU, an event that has been won by the Florida State gym team every year since it was first organized in 1949.

TAIT ATTENDS PROGRAM

Dr. William Tait, director of the recreation curriculum at Florida State University, is in Chapel Hill, N. C., attending a three-day program which will wind up a year's study of recreation in 11 southern states by the Southern Regional Education Board.

Dr. Tait said the study was conducted to determine what type of recreation leaders are needed in the southern region.

Nugent Awards 27 Lettermen

Twenty-seven Florida State University football players, only four of them seniors, have been awarded letters for the 1953 season, Coach Tom Nugent said today.

Only five of the lettermen will be missing next fall. Senior lettermen include center Steve Kalenich, end Buddy Pyrah, and halfback Bobby Pivnah and Jimmy Montrose. Kalenich is a four-year letterman. Pivnah was voted Florida's "Player of the Year" last season. Center George Boyer, a two-year letterman, is headed for the Marines Thursday.

The lettermen:

Ends—Bervard, Jimmy Lee Taylor, Bud Leonard, Eddie Johnson.

Tackles — Al Makowicki, Bob Barber, Don Powell, Jim Gunn.

Guards—Jerry Jacobs, Al Pasiflos, Dale Eaton, Ray Stark.

Centers — Kalenich, Boyer, Bob Crenshaw.

Quarterbacks — Lee Corso, Harry Massey, Leonard Lewis.

Halfbacks — Pivnah, Montsorse, Stan Dobson, Junior Meits, Billy Graham and Carl Grenn.

Fullbacks — John Grimer, Joe Holt, Ronnie King.

Women Announce Members' Initiation

Women of Sigma Alpha Iota, national music honorary here, initiated 19 new members Sunday, members of the group said yesterday.

Initiates include Dawn Bishop, Anita Brunson, Barbara Cooper, Donna Lou Harper, Kathryn Jett, Candace Jones and Claire Kenyon.

Also, Phyllis Kean, Joan Meeker, Harriet Ramsey, Joyce Reynolds, Jean Scott, Martha Slayden, Loreta Smith, Ellen Snow, Norma Jean Sommerkamp, Sara Tormay and Lucena Williams.

AT TURNER'S
THE NEW PATENT SANDAL!
by EASYGOERS
$8.95
Turner's
SIZES 5 TO 9
WIDTHS AAA TO B

Hot Dog!
Let's Eat At the AMBER HOUSE

Q: Did Coed Win Falsely at Miami?
(ACP)—Chaos has spilt apart a highly publicized contest held last month in Miami Beach, Fla., to choose the "College Queen of the United States."
First of all, the third-place winner accused the winner—Toby Gerard of Miami—of wearing falsies. Miss Gerard promptly denied the charges, declaring, "No one could possibly know."
Then Rosaline Sappington, a University of Michigan beauty who participated in the contest, also claimed the judging was "not on the up and up." Miss Sappington said her hotel room was across the hall from that of the contest director, and that she heard the judges decide on a winner—"a girl from Texas who goes to his University of Miami"—the night before the contest was held.
"They wanted someone who would be around Miami after the contest," Miss Sappington said, adding, "I found out later that one of the judges was a man she (Miss Gerard) dated."

Byerly Says Dairy Cnsumption Warrants Aid on Improvements

Byerly on Genetic Improvement Kozer in Florida has initiated a The present rate at which the modified recurrent selection programme American is consuming cream in cooperation with breedmeat, poultry, eggs and milk ers, using progeny performance calls for a new need of help trials of licensed bulls is evidence that must be given to producers mercial herds of dissimilar breedin their search for genetic im- ing as a basis for breeding improvement. parental lines

This is the opinion of Dr. T. C. Byerly, chief of the animal and poultry husbandry research branch and service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, who was the Sigma Xi speaker last night at Florida State University in Tallahassee.

Dr. Byerly said that it is up to geneticists, through research, to obtain the best results in conserving feed for animals and poultry into food for human beings.

The Department of Agriculture has initiated cooperative beef cattle breeding research with 38 states and the territory of Hawaii," Dr. Byerly said. "The objectives of this programme are the development of breeding methods suited to improvement of beef cattle and the identification of lines of cattle with respect to their genetic capacity for rate of gain, market quality, reproductive capacity and other factors of economic importance.

It is projects of this sort which emphasize the need for discriminating blood and formulations to determine paternity in random mated beef herds, the speaker said. He pointed out that current projects in Wisconsin and Virginia are directed toward determination of the blood group situation in beef cattle.

"Slow, progress test improvement of dual purpose cattle may be of increasing importance as human population increases."

Deadline Thursday In Literary Contest

Deadline for the annual Smoke Dream Literary Contest is set for Thursday, March 11, at 5 p.m. according to Chairman Maryeast Horton. A cup is awarded the winner.

Material submitted must be fiction regarding some aspect of college life or college interest. The minimum length of the article is 1,500 words, and the maximum 3,000.

Watch the Flambeau for additional information on the contest.

Gold produced in South Dakota in 1932 weighed a total of 18 048 tons and, if assembled in real cubic form, would occupy 29 931 Dr. Byerly said. He told how cubic feet.

Educators Hold Training Meet In Tallahassee

Fourteen southern states were represented at a meeting held by industrialists and classroom professors at a meeting on the Florida State University campus on "Evaluation in Higher Education" February 12 and 13.

Present at the conference was Henry Chauncey, president of Educational Testing Service, who gave the key-note opening address. The started time, duration and education are interrelated, but that all evaluation is more complicated than it seems. "Evaluation instruments are tools, not infallible guides, to be improper handling," he revealed.

Other issues discussed at the conference included cost of the typical college graduate, advisability of accelerated programs for superior students and the relation between general education and specialization.

The deans concluded that the upper division curriculum "could not undue intellectual exertion of a student was looking for an easy way out." They recommended that a stiffer progress be adopted by colleges and universities to force the easy-going student to exert himself in curriculum capacity.

A few days after the conference Columbia University announced a new program which follows the recommendations in the deans' report.

Saturday morning was given over to sectional meetings held by Florida State University and University of Florida faculty personnel.

Church News

METHODIST

Andrew W. Orr, personnel secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church, will be the principal speaker at Sunday school, which will be held at 9:45 instead of Students House at 9:45, Feb. 21

Speaker at the fellowship hour following the 8:15 supper will be the Rev. Hikaru Yanashara a Japanese Shingihara a subject will be Japan.

A seminar will be held February 23 at the Methodist Episcopal Church. Members of the Wesley Foundation will meet to purchase tickets, see Anne Morrison, membership chairman on ticket sales.

Wesley foundation will hold a formal dance in the gymnasium March 2 at the Student House from 9 until 12 p.m. Students who wish to bring faculty guests should sign for the guests at the student House as soon as possible.

HILLEL

In conjunction with Brotherhood Week sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Hillel will observe its annual Brotherhood Service, Friday evening, February 23, at 7:30 p.m. in Temple Israel. Three speakers representing the Wesley Foundation, Canterbury Club and the Hillel Foundation, respectively, will speak on the general theme "What Is Brotherhood?" Hillel will act as host to a social hour following the service. All religious groups as well as students, faculty and friends of the University are invited to attend.

Dr. John Semmes of the Physiology Dept. will speak Sunday night on "The Nerve Impact on Medicine and Psychology." The service will be held at the Temple Israel at 8:00 p.m

Hillel of Florida is sponsoring a weekend at the University of Miami March 5-7. Miami's crapshot noises will be sent to interested members.

Rabbi Kravetz Hillel Director, spoke last Sunday on "Answering Questions Concerning Our Faith." The open house for new and old members was attended by about thirty students.

EPISCOPAL

Newly-elected 1934 officers of Gamma Delta, Lutheran Club students Organization, at Florida State University are Richard Wagner, president; Bill Hoffmann, vice-president; Judy Rebland, secretary; Beverly Rothhold, treasurer; Bill Evans, program chairman; John Tippin, publicity manager and Kirsten Nelson, historian, announced the club officials

Gamma Delta delegates from FSU plan to attend a study conference of the Gulf States Region, which will be held at Auburn University tomorrow.

CANTERBURY

Rupe Hall will have as guest minister this Sunday the Rev. Hikaru Yanashara. Rev. Yanashara a address to the Episcopal students is a part of the cooperative plan of Intellsens Faith Week being held next week on campus. The Morning Prayer service at which he will speak will be held at Rupe Hall at 11 p.m.

Mrs Kristian Jensen will be the guest of the Canterbury Club at its weekly supper at 8 p.m. Sunday evening. Mrs. Jensen will talk to the club members about her experiences in Korea. This is another of the talks being held in conjunction with Intellsens Faith Week. All students are invited to attend.

From Page 1

Symphony Presents

"Suite of Old American Dances" by Bennet.

The Marching Chiefs have been divided since football season into symphonic and concert units. For the first time, Whitcomb plans spring programs with each unit. Performance of the concert band is scheduled for March 31st.

From Page 1

One World Is

other culture has done to the people in it.

He said a definition of culture is "that complex whole which includes knowledge, belief, morals, law, and any other capabilities and habits acquired by man as a member of society."

Regarding culture as more self-directing and more binding upon man's actions than most people are accustomed to doing, Dr. Anderson said that culture is "autonomous, as a self-contained class of events, to be studied as the meteorologist studies weather and the physicist studies motion and electrons."

Man's organizations should be studied for organization's sake, and since they operate according to laws just as surely as do suns and moons.

He emphasized the job of the social anthropologist is to analyze man's culture and to suggest an approach to the problems it faces. He said that some of the problems now are racial antagonism, the fair distribution the goods we produce, means to increase our production, and a way to peace in our atomic era.

Calendar Of Events

TODAY, FEBRUARY 19

4:00 p.m. English Coffee Hour. The Osburns will be interviewed by Dr. J. M. Dorsett. Visitors welcome. Westminster House

8:00 p.m. Basketball. FSU vs Arkansas State. West Campus Gym.

8:00 p.m. Sandspur Production. "Panorama." Music Hall.

8:00 p.m. TARPON SHOW.

8:00 p.m. Tarpon Shoe. Heavens Above" Admission is free. Women's Gym.

TOMORROW, FEBRUARY 20

9:00 a.m. National Council of Teachers of English. Lonsmire Auditorium

2:00 p.m. Sandspur Production. Panorama." Music Hall.

2:30 p.m. "At the Piano." FSU television show featuring Robert Carmichael, WMBR-TV.

8:00 p.m. Tarpon Shoe. Heavens Above." For this performance tickets will be needed. "Performance is free; tickets are for seating arrangements. Get tickets at the Women's Gym.

8:00 p.m. Basketball. FSU vs Arkansas State. West Campus Gym.

9:00 p.m. Sandspur Dance with music by Dean Hudson and his Orchestra. Suwannee Room

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 21st

Intelligent Faith Week begins today. Services will be held at First Baptist Church, First Methodist Church, First Presbyterian, Capital Christian Church, Roman Church, Rupe Hall, Episcopal and St. Paul's Methodist Church, at different periods of the day there will be guest speaker in the churches

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 22

7:00 p.m. International Student Club. Student Lounge. L. B

8:00 p.m. "IT Week" sorority and fraternity groups meetings. Lonsmire Auditorium and Lounge Lonsmire

Faculty Members are reminded of the faculty luncheons to be held in the Suwannee Room at 1:00 noon each first three days of Intelligence Faith Week Reservations may be made through the Chaplain's office. Fee 272½ Charge is $1.00 per meal.

Tickets are available for the First Piano Quartet for only $1.50 matinee and $2.00 evening.

Campus Movie: Story of Louis Pasteur.

Today: West Hall

Next week: "Broody in Blue" Monday: Landis Hall

CONTEST DEADLINE DRAWS NEAR DEADLINE FOR FLAMBEAU GOLF KEY STREET NAMING CONTEST IS THIS COMING SUNDAY. DON'T FORGET! GET YOUR CONTEST BLANK IN NOW!

If all the bras bought by American women last year—$250 million worth—were laid end to end they would stretch from Hollywood to the Yankee Stadium more than 26 times, according to Louise Cambe, editor of Corset and Underwear Review.

Dr. Roady Praises Bench's Decisions In Governor's Case

The decision of the Florida State Supreme Court in the governorship case was based on reasonableness and common sense in that the judges didn't follow the strict construction of the constitution, said Dr. Elston Roady of the political science department here yesterday.

Commenting on this week's high court ruling that Acting Gov. Charles Johns will be eligible to run for re-election in May even though he participated in creating a pay raise for the governor, Dr. Roady said he doesn't think Johns participated in the way raise moves for selfish gains. This is the view taken this week by the majority of Supreme Court judges.

"The State Constitution says that no one may hold an office or receive a pay raise that he participated in creating in order to prevent selfish goals being attained by persons in authority to create such jobs," Roady said, partly quoting the state constitution.

"The two dissenting Justices," Roady said, "believed that, according to the constitution Johns is ineligible." He pointed out that it would be impossible to predict the Supreme Court decision on the question as to whether Johns or could succeed himself in 1936 or not.

"Since the decision of the Supreme Court is toward a loose interpretation of the constitution," the political science instructor said, "it is possible that the ruling could be that Johns could succeed himself as he could only be elected to fill an unexpired term and not a full one as such."

From Page 1

Tarpon Show

Allyn Smith and Barbara Oliver The Tarpon production will be presented tonight and tomorrow night at 8 p.m. concluding its six-performance run. The production is open to the public without charge.

International Students Meet, Elect Officers; Plan Semester

Members of the International Students Club at the first meeting of the semester elected officers and made plans for the coming semester. Three new committees were organized and additional members were added to the social committee.

New committees and their members are: Athletic Activities, Sean Mc Cormack, chairman; Cecil Rupp, Marilyn Lloyd and Oliva Seri; Publicity, Elke Frank, chairman; Stephanie Doran, Paul Castillo; Constitution, Julius Sikara, chairman; Cass Wells, vice - president; Helen Land, and Jane Wentworth; Whitmore, corresponding secretary, Barbara Williams, treasurer; Mary Stewart Bolden, pledge trainer, Janice Southerland, historian, Susan Phelps, rush captain; Betty Ann Muncroe, recording secretary; and John Thiel, scholarship chairman.

MILLER NAMED A. O. P.

Adreen Miller was named outstanding Alpha Omicron Pi of the year during the sororities week-ending celebration. Miller received a gold necklace which was engraved.

Square dances, buffet supper and a Ball rounded out different activities for the special days for the group.

ARTICLE PUBLISHED

The latest issue of the Publications of the East Tennessee Historical Society contains an article by Dr. Gwyn Pfeiffer, associate professor of speech here.

Entitled "Andrew Johnson Vs. the Press in 1856," the article was adapted from Dr Pfeiffers address at the annual banquet of the society in Knoxville, September 4, 1852.

The paper deals with Johnson's Swing. Around the circle and concludes that "What the papers said about the four was probably a more potent influence in the other election than Johnson's own words and deeds When the ins at 2 p.m. Interested students returned to Washington most observers found that the U.S. is invited to attend.

News Briefs

recently elected Phoebe Jackson as president.

Other officers include Dot Wells, vice - president; Helen Whitmore, corresponding secretary, Barbara Williams, treasurer; Mary Stewart Bolden, pledge trainer, Janice Southerland, historian, Susan Phelps, rush captain; Betty Ann Muncroe, recording secretary; and John Thiel, scholarship chairman.

MILLER NAMED A. O. P.

Adreen Miller was named outstanding Alpha Omicron Pi of the year during the sororities week-ending celebration. Miller received a gold necklace which was engraved.

Square dances, buffet supper and a Ball rounded out different activities for the special days for the group.

ARTICLE PUBLISHED

The latest issue of the Publications of the East Tennessee Historical Society contains an article by Dr. Gwyn Pfeiffer, associate professor of speech here.

Entitled "Andrew Johnson Vs. the Press in 1856," the article was adapted from Dr Pfeiffers address at the annual banquet of the society in Knoxville, September 4, 1852.

The paper deals with Johnson's Swing. Around the circle and concludes that "What the papers said about the four was probably a more potent influence in the other election than Johnson's own words and deeds When the ins at 2 p.m. Interested students returned to Washington most observers found that the U.S. is invited to attend.

Planning completed for the coming semester include publication as INC Bulletin, containing news of international as well as campus affairs, discussion of international abilities, and current club news. The bulletin is expected to create interest in international affairs and promote interest in the club. Plans for a trip to St. Augustine or other places of interest closer to Tallahassee were discussed.

The International Students Club will continue its social games. Soccer is an important one in the home countries of most of the foreign students as football in the USA. To date the ISC team has defeated Alpha Phi, both against Air Cadets from Randolphe Air Force Base.

This semester's bi-weekly programs will feature student discussions of current tradi-tions and ways of life in their own countries, as well as the faculty speakers formerly heard.

Meetings will be held every other Monday in the Student Lounge of the Lonsmire Building.

FLORIDA
UNTIL WEDNESDAY
"KNIGHTS OF THE ROUND TABLE"
In Cinemascope!
With ROBERT TAYLOR AVA GARDNER MEL FERRER

CAPITAL DRIVE-IN THRU TOMORROW
"Crimson Pirate"
with SURT LANCASTER
—o—
SUN. & MON.
"So This Is Love"
with Kathryn Grayson Walter Abel

FLORIDA DRIVE-IN THRU TOMORROW
"SOMBRERO"
Ricardo Montalban Pat Angeli
also
"CAPTIVE WOMAN"
Robert Clark & Margaret Field
—o—
SUNDAY & MONDAY
"DREAM WIFE"
Cary Grant

STATE
Today & Tomorrow
"Devil's Canyon"
With Dolly Roberson Virginia Mayo
—o—
SUNDAY
'Give A Girl A Break' with Marge and Gower Champion

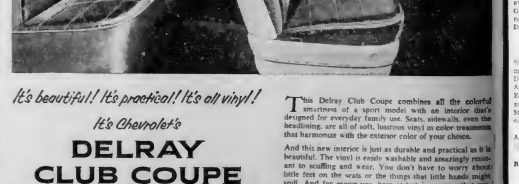
...cover everything... with our new slim jacket

10.95

As Seen on THE EX-CROOK CBS Network Television Show



Justin McCarthy

JUSTIN McCARTHY'S straight, uncluttered jacket can turn any skirt or dress into a suit You'll even toss it over shorts or narrow pants Heather ravon in a linen weave Covered buttons, convertible collar, narrow saddle stitching Almost a wardrobe in itself in gold, pink, blue, grey, aqua, brown, green, natural. Sizes 8 to 18

WILSON'S FASHIONS—2nd FLOOR

P. W. Wilson Co.
Tallahassee's Favorite Store Since 1837

You'll Enjoy
DANCING
to the Superlative
Quintones
EVERY SATURDAY
Floridan Hotel

It's beautiful! It's practical! It's all vinyl!
It's Chevrolet's
DELRAY CLUB COUPE
with the year's brightest new idea in interiors!

This Delray Club Coupe combines all the colorful smartness of a sport model with an interior that's designed for everyday family use. Soap, sidesplits, even the headlining, are all of soft, luxurious vinyl in color treatments that harmonize with the exterior color of your choice.

And this new interior is just as durable and practical as it is beautiful. The vinyl is easily washable and amazingly resistant to scuffing and wear. You don't have to worry about little feet on the seats or the things that little hands might spill. And for grown-ups, here at last is a coupe that provides all the between-seat knee-room of a 2-door sedan!

The Delray Club Coupe is only one of the wonderful new Chevrolet models that make up the lowest-priced line in the low-price field. Come in and look them over.

SEE YOUR CHEVROLET DEALER FOR ALL YOUR AUTOMOTIVE NEEDS!
Conveniently listed under "Automobiles" in your local classified telephone directory

Like Drive-Ins?
or do you
Like a Place to Sit Down and Be Served?
or do you
Like Free Delivery Right to Your Door?
QUAKER HOUSE
Call 2-8677 on the Quincy H'way
Steaks, Chops, Chicken, Sea Foods, deliciously cooked and served . . .
Large Variety of Sandwiches to Choose From—Largest Soda Fountain in the South!
Choice Swift's Meats Served

Student Government?
See The Free Lance
See Page 2

The Florida Flambeau

Themes Announced.
Contest Cotinues.
See Page 4

VOL. XL, No. 32 PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA Tuesday, February 23, 1954

Contest To Enter Phase To Decide On Final Names

Themes Announced For Each Street; Deadline Sunday

General themes have been selected in the Gold Key-Flambeau street-naming contest. The second phase of the contest is now open to choose specific names fitting the general categories already chosen.

The themes selected are these: Florida botanical names such as love, flowers, Florida cities, noted educators, Seminole chiefs, former FSU presidents, colleges, and universities, former governors of Florida, and confederate generals.

The blank carries, at the top, the winning theme for campus street names. All you do is look on the map, find a pictured street, select a name that fits the theme and make your entry in the line that corresponds to that letter in the blank. Do this with all the streets lettered on the map, mail or bring your completed blank to the FLAMBEAU office no later than Sunday afternoon, Feb. 28. Contest closes at 5 p. m. Sunday. Winners will be announced the following Tuesday in the Flambeau.

Contest response has been good, according to contest chief Chris Young. Young, who started the move as a Gold Key-Sap project, said yesterday, "We've had a fine turnout for the theme naming contest. Now the final tally on returns for the actual street nomenclature will be as big if not bigger."

Eight streets must be named. Fifth winners will be announced. Winners' names will be banned later when suggested street names have been approved by the Board of Control.

Don't miss the chance to name your campus street! Get your blank filled out and in the Flambeau Office today!

Fort Florida State University co-ed Erma Vause examines unique pieces of modernistic furniture and household accessories at the current FSU Art Gallery showing of "Design in the Southeast." Designed by craftsmen in the southern states, the "objects d'art" will be on display until Sunday at University Art Gallery.

'Design In Southeast' Begins Final Week; Finishes Sunday

"Design in the Southeast — 1954 " current display at the Florida State University Gallery, has entered its last week.

The exhibit, sponsored by the Arts Education Department, will close Sunday.

The display features the work of many noted Southern designers of furniture and household accessories.

Jack Waldheim, a member of FSU's art department faculty, is represented in the exhibit with his "Bar-wa" chair and by photographs of an arm chair and table set of his design.

The exhibit contains such articles as magazine and other chairs, pass pitchers, handthrown pottery, sunshiter set in stoneware, a chair and bench made of walnut and cane, drop leaf dining table, tables of all sorts, ceramics of many kinds including candleholders, and all kinds of textile fabrics.

Taiso Make, graduate student in the Department of Art, supervised the design and installation of the exhibit.

The exhibit contains works of industrial and artistic designers from all over the Southeast. Many of them are natives of the area while others moved to it from other localities, choosing the southern states as the ideal location for their work.

Floridians represented in the display include Ken Uyensara, who is well-known by people familiar with the Gulf Coast Art Center at Belleair. He has on display a variety of magazine and side chairs, pass pitchers and hand-thrown pottery.

The walnut and cane set is the work of Maxwell La Rieker, furniture designer and manufacturer of Miami. His furniture, designed mainly for the Florida climate, is sought after in other regions as well.

The ceramic candlesticks are the work of Mieka Petersham of Lauderdale.

Mrs. Helen Henderson, of Sanford, is exhibiting woven textiles.

Boer's Works To Be Played Here Tonight

A symphony written especially for Florida State University by Bertil Boer of the FSU School of Music will be performed for the first time tonight in honor of Intelligent Faith Week.

The Choral Union and the University Symphony Orchestra will join in presenting Boer's creation. This musical tribute to IF Week will be given at 7:30 in Opperman Music Hall, part of a general mass meeting. There is no admission and everyone is invited.

Mrs. Ramona Beard, FSU associate professor of music, will play an organ prelude. Two other FSU professors, Miss Betty Jane Grimm, contralto and Walter James, tenor, will also have solo parts. Four students, Alice Jane Bird, Claire Kenyon, Lorin Sandelmann, and Jane Owen will have featured parts.

The program includes a talk by Dr. Kris Jensen, Methodist missionary, who was one of the Americans released from Red Korean imprisonment last spring.

Freshmen Girls Fill Bryan Hall Posts

Newly elected officers of Bryan Hall women's dormitory here, were installed last Wednesday at the regular weekly tea.

In special ceremonies conducted by dean's president, Rose Howard, two vice-presidents, Martha Boone and June McManus were installed. Also installed were new social chairmen Anne Hodges, and Carolyn Armstrong. See Pain, Bernice Nettles, and Jane Nettles. The girls will assume duty March 1, according to the president.

Miami Debaters Take Top Spot; FSU Team 4th

Debaters from University of Miami defeated eleven colleges and universities here Friday and Saturday to capture Sweepstake honors in Florida State University's Fifth Annual Invitational Debate Tournament.

A record attendance from six states and the District of Columbia was present at the intercollegiate tourney, officials noted yesterday.

The Miamians beat their colleagues, sponsored said, with 18 victories and two losses in debate. Tied for second place were Georgia Tech and Florida Christian College, they said. Third place honors were copped by David Lipscomb College of Nashville and Appalachian State Teachers' College.

Florida State University's varsity debaters placed fourth in their tourney with a record of seven victories and five defeats in debate tabulations, officials prior." according to reports. This is a rating of 4.0 or above. Units rating 3.5 or above in tourney teams led with a 4.67 rating on the topic, "Resolved: That the United States should adopt a policy of free trade."

A rating of 4.0 was registered by the Florida State University team composed of Beryl Dupressoir and Peter Nimkoff, captain.

Other teams besides the Miami affirmative receiving "Superior" ratings were Florida Christian College, Georgia Tech, University of Miami negative.

Dr. Dewey Anderson, head of Department of Speech said that the winning Miami team argued the topic in every country visited, keep her allies in Europe out of the Soviet orbit, her economy stable and free herself of her huge surplus of goods is by adapting a policy of free trade with other countries." The Miami team did a superior job of supporting this claim," said Minnick.

FSU's winner in after-dinner speaking was Jerry Bloodworth, who spoke as "The College President Blackmails Congress." Barbon Udell of the University of Miami received the highest debater's rating, a perfect 5.0, and FSU's Peter Nimkoff was next with a 4.9. Perfect also for FSU, was another superior speaker.

New Student Body Keys To Be Made Available To Solons

Keys symbolizing membership in this year's student government will be given to the 14 city councilmen to use on doors shortly on a sliding scale of financial assistance.

Cost of the new budget holds out officers my the student government will pay two dollars of the cost with the office desiring a key paying the remaining dollar. It is said that preference will start with the major officers (president, vice-presidents and Senate secretary) cabinet officers, chair chairmen, Senate committee chairmen, chairmanship, and the courts by the chief justice.

Any officer desiring a key may call Jack Houser at the Phi Delta Theta House or Bill Lee at the dear. The deadline is March 1.

Russian Thousands Daily View Mummified Bodies of Leaders

(Second in a series of articles being run in the Florida Flambeau by a student visitor who visited Russia recently)

By DEAN SCHOELKOPF
Editor, Hesperian

(ACP)—Like a modern Mecca the town of Lenin and Stalin on the Moscow River overflows in contracts thousands of Russians who come to view the mummified bodies of their dead leaders.

From all over the Soviet Union they come to view the sacred marble mausoleum that stands next to the Kremlin wall. They come out of curiosity, reverence, duty—it is impossible to tell.

They stand in line for hours in the icy Moscow weather to make their pilgrimage. Like a great black snake, the double file of visitors winds for blocks down the Red Square to the entrance to the mausoleum.

They stand all along the line, at 25-foot intervals to maintain order. When the tomb is opened, at every stop the visitors are completely enticed Red Square.

We were pleased when our guides told us we could enter the mausoleum, for few Americans have been inside since Stalin was placed there Nov. 17, 1953.

About 4 p.m. on a dull, gray day, our group moved through a double police cordon to the head of a double line that had been forming six hours earlier.

Quartet Presents Two Performances Thursday

Florida State University Artist Series is presenting the First Piano Quartet Thursday in two concerts, matinee and evening, in Leon High School Auditorium. Curtains will be at 3:15 and 8:30 p.m. and tickets for the performances are on sale at the University Bookstore.

The first group of its kind, the quartet was a well-known NBC Artists group for many years and their RCA Victor recordings are among the best selling instruments. Many of the selections on the program are available on records.

Composing the group of pianists are Adam Garner, Gelauco D'Anlli, Prosper Miller and Edward Bilson. Until 1946, when the group was organized under Steinway Piano, each of the men were well-known soloists in their own right.

Using the same program for the afternoon and evening performances, the show will open with Paganini's "Variations on the Caprice in A Minor" and will be followed by Bach's "Prelude and Furge in C Minor," Mozart's "Rondo" Schubert's "Trout Variations" and Lusts "La Campanella."

After an intermission will come Webers "Invitation to the Dance" in four parts, Wagner's "Magic Fire Music" and Lust's "Second Hungarian Rhapsody."

A second intermission will be followed by Lecuona's "Malaguena," Dubussy's "Clair de Lune," Prokofieff's "March," Shostakovitch's "Polichinelle" by Villa-Lobos and "La Devinette" by Rossini-List.

Students can get tickets for either of the two performances by presenting the number three coupon from their activity book at the bookstore. Tickets are also on sale for the afternoon performance at $1.50 and the evening performance for $2. for the faculty and administration.

Buses will leave at 7:30 from the Music Building parking lot for those planning to come should sign one of the lists either in the Public Relations office, Carnegie Hall or the Music Building bulletin board.

Members of the famed "First Piano Quartet"

Fauls Studies Sex Behavior In Preschoolers

Florida State University has its own "Dr. Kinsey," according to a survey just completed by Dr. Lorene Fauls here. The only difference between the Florida study and the University of Indiana's Kinsey are the fact that Florida States' Dr. Fauls is dealing with much younger than the eminent sex researcher. Dr. Fauls has her own research, without the aid of corps of researchers.

Dr. Fauls is assistant in the department of psychology here. Mrs. Fauls is currently studying the sex roles of pre-school children. She recently completed a comprehensive study of 40 normal five-year-old children, an equal number of boys and girls enrolled in nursery schools and kindergartens of Leon County, Miss. Fauls recently learned of the noted Kinsey's interest in her work.

Commenting on her recent project, Mrs. Fauls said "People were wonderful. Our university backing was like an 'Open Sesame' all the way and only two parents contacted cooperated 100 percent," she said. "FSU's home economics staff was great."

Mrs. Fauls began her study by questioning the children to find what extent sex makes a difference in choice of toys, and the same time to determine how much children feel their parents differ in their attitudes toward sex.

She chose 10 subjects of both sexes who are only children, 10 boys with sisters, 10 girls with brothers, and 10 girls with sisters and brothers. Ages of the children were five in homes with both parents.

Using a picture interview technique, Mrs. Fauls showed her subjects cards depicting the child of the opposite sex engaged in various masculine and feminine activities with parents watching. For example, a card would show a little boy playing baseball with a similar child playing with dolls.

On the whole both the boys and girls interpreted these age-appropriate activities more often than the inappropriate ones. But the girls did better.

(Continued on Page 4)

Fox Performs In Opperman Saturday Night

The first solo organist to appear in the Opperman Music Hall under the auspices of the FSU Artists Series will be presented here Saturday night at 8:15, according to Mrs. Kay Vernon, spokesman for the group.

Appearing will be Virgil Fox, nationally known concert organist who holds the distinction of having been chosen as organist for the Riverside Church of New York after a two year search.

The organist, who has appeared as guest star in such famous cathedrals as Westminster, Lido Cathedral, and London, Notre Dame, Cathedral, and Dom, has besides appeared at the Rumsdale Church and the American Church in France and the Kings College Chapel in Cambridge, England.

Fox, who is in his early thirties, appeared also in triumphant concerts in Paris, Canterbury, Edinburgh, and Chartres Cathedrals after his discharge from the Army. Fox began a series of organ recitals at the Library of Congress under the auspices of the Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge Foundation. In his eleven days in this series, he played over 100 organ compositions from memory and was hailed by the press as "the artist of unusual skill and musical persuasion." it was reported.

Fox, because of his schedule of morning services in New York City, rarely flies up and from his concert sites.

During his college days at the University of Michigan, where all the honors available, gave five graduates recitals from memory and set a record unequaled before or since, it was learned.

The concert here Saturday is given in conjunction with the Tallahassee chapter of the American Guild of Organists.

Students may obtain tickets at the University Bookstore upon presentation of their number seven activity coupon.

Student-Circus Leaves To Tour State; Give Two Performances

Over fifty students of Florida State's student-circus "Flying High" will leave Thursday morning on a four-day tour in which they will give performances in St. Petersburg and Lakeland.

Planning to return on Sunday night, the circus troupe will head back to St. Petersburg Thursday night for its initial performance. Following the Thursday show, performers will leave for Sarasota where the Wednesday day they will be guests of the Ringling Brothers at one of their shows.

Friday and Saturday, Lakeland will be the site of the Southwest-publicized collegiate activity. Performers will be housed at the New Florida Hotel during their stay there.

The circus, under the direction of Jack Haskins, is breaking up its tour with short trips instead of the usual long jaunts.

Performers traveling are: Mary Williams, Shirley Barnes, Shirley Boulware, Arlene Bureau, Carolyn Calhoun, Ann Callahan, Sandra Carter, Diane Cormeron, Virginia Cook, Mary Ann Coutsoumbis, and Lee Davis.

Jimmy Hanks, Richard Woodhall, Sandy Sanderson, Carl Sheffield, Jerry Smith, James Crowthers, Edward Wyself, Nick Adams, Billy Barnes, Bill Fable, Enrique Ford, Jean Ford, Alan Ann Fraser, George Mill

(Continued on Page 4)

Kuerstener Directs State Symphony In Music Hall Friday

Dr. Karl Kuerstener, dean of the University's music school will direct the State Symphony Friday night at 8:15 in Opperman Music Hall.

Featured on the program will be Mr. Edward Kilenyi as piano soloist for the Rachmaninoff Concerto for Pran Linn for piano and orchestra. Other numbers on the program are Handel's "Brandenburg Concerto" in G major for strings and "Symphony No. 92 in G major ... Opus 48" four movements by Jean Sibelius.

The Sibelius composition is the sixth season is sponsored by the Service League of Tallahassee and the Florida State College for the performance the music department revealed.

Student Comments On Chinese Situation, Communist Control

By ESTHER RANCIER

"People of China are indifferent to Communism," said Dr. Yang C. Yang, a student for a Ph. D. at Florida State University. They are not for it, but not against it, however, insomuch as they will carry out orders imposed on them."

"The people do not care for Communism," Mr. Yang continues. "The troops stay between the people and Communism."

Commenting about the Nationalists on Formosa, Dr. Yang says that they cannot get help from the mainland. "It's not going to be easy to overthrow military forces ... China's too big. Besides, Chiang Kai-shek cannot get fed up with the Communists ... Then they must all leave."

"Under military orders you must go to what they say, no choice," explains Mr. Yang concerning the presence of Chinese troops in North Korea. Most soldiers, who were in Korea, didn't go just because they deserted it, or "they wouldn't be going to Formosa now."

Dr. David Yang was principal of a mission school during two years of Japanese occupation. He served in the Nationalist Army during the occupation also.

Of this period, he recalls, "They made it hard to get back, but'i got away from it. I had a way to maneuver."

They used military textbooks. Yang said, which which the Japanese occupiers used in algebra, geometry, and science books were given the Japanese version. These books contained no anti-Japanese propaganda. They were allowed to continue using the textbooks.

Yang was born in Pochow, China. He left the country in 1946 to study for his doctorate in political situation was so "unsettled" that he felt he should leave.

He left behind his parents and three brothers. It's been seven years since he has seen them. He says, quietly, "I hope I don't have."

Since his arrival in the United States, he has lived in Louisiana and Tallahassee. Last year he was president of the International Students' Club. He has two dear cases. "The Social Basis of Education."

His Ph.D. dissertion is on-

(Continued on Page 4)

Talks Delivered Here Emphasize Religious Strata

Missionaries Speak On Tongo Islands, Communistic Hold

The states of Christianity and the minds of peoples of the East fall into two different, strata, both within a few hundred miles of each other.

Evidencing this fact are talks delivered by several missionaries of the Protestant faith here in an intensive drive on campus for Intelligent Faith Week.

The Christian "climates" of two areas within a few hundred miles of each other vary as do night and day. This fact has been evidenced in talks marking the start of Religious Emphasis Week at Florida State University.

Dubbed "Intelligent Faith Week," the week-long emphasis on religion has brought to the campus noted men and women in the missionary field, Americans at the Westminster House yesterday, Dr. Andrew T. Kay, representative of the Red Sea, and America, as a Christian nation, must strive to present God to the peoples of the Communist-oppressed peoples. Dr. Kay noted that America should "demonstrate itself as a nation of Godly people against the polytheistic nation which is Russia.

Conversely, John Haves, chaplain to the Tongo Islands and that Tongo, a nation of 46,000 in the mid-Pacific, has had their members in the past 25 years. Rev. Haves said these citizens of Tonga is a member of the Christian Church in further contrast. Haves said, Tonga, not content to cut missionaries to other parts of the world has sent missionaries, too.

Seeking an explanation as to why Communism has taken hold in the Orient, the East, Dr. Kay said when the communists first entered the area, the students were the first to resist encroachment of the population who were receptive to communistic ideas. The people, Dr. Kay noted, feared Communism, however, as time went on, at the point-type of government they became hopeless and finally resigned too late, evidently, that Communism was their master.

Dr. Roy said the big job of the Western World is to make the Eastern countries realize we are interested in them and their welfare. He said the Communists have developed a full propaganda methods, telling of the West's dissatisfaction. But this said they need to be shown that we consider them important to world welfare.

Commenting on the basic problem in the East, Dr. Kay stated he doesn't think the underlying problem in China is of a political nature. In his mind, it is actually conflict between the forces of religion and of Mars. This, he added, makes it necessary to approach the problem from a religious standpoint.

A little of the West the Tongo Islands have no such troubles as has China, according to Rev. Haves. There is no party group or Intelligent Faith week yesterday.

He said the Tongo Islands show the effects of long years of Christianity in their lives. Seconed, he said by their low crime records.

Haves, speaking on the history of religion in his home country, said the people of Tonga long had an agreement with the British Commonwealth giving them freedom of administration in their own government. He said religious and free the constitutic Islands of Canada. Cook's time, however, that the Christian people maintaining law and order in their populace.

Husband Appointed Psychology Teacher

Dr. Richard Wellington Husband was appointed professor of psychology here by the Florida University President Doak S. Campbell, it was announced by the Florida Flambeau yesterday.

Dr. Husband comes from positions held at University of Wisconsin, Iowa State College, University of Hawaii and numerous colleges in the universities of Southern California, College of the Pacific and Stanford.

Dr. Husband's industrial experience includes employment with United States Navy, as well as training programs in war industries.

He is a member of the American Psychological Association, and a fellow in the Division of the Teaching of Psychology and the Division on Maturity and Industrial Psychology. Dr. Husband is presently president-elect of the Society of the Teaching Psychology.

INTELLIGENT FAITH WEEK:

Christian Sees Faith As Social Conscience

Intelligent faith is the realization that man needs spiritual awareness as much as food, clothing and shelter. Faith is the conscience of mankind, and without it man would be no more than any other animal.

Before man became civilized, he could not be said to have had faith, and as he began to organize into groups with other men he found that there were things he needed as a part of a society that he did not possess himself. He found that he needed laws to govern man's actions, and languages to transmit his knowledge. He needed government to keep the laws and school to organize the knowledge. Later he needed roads and wagons, methods of communication, boats and the thousands of other things that make up a modern society.

But besides these physical things, man found he had to have faith in something bigger than himself and bigger than his society. There were many things he did not understand. These were revealed to him by religion. He had to have a reason for living and obeying laws. He had to learn that he was only a part of a whole pattern that was both worldly and spiritual. These religious gave to him also.

There have been many religions in the history of the world. Some people had many gods. Some of these gods were fierce and unloving gods. With the passing of time, however, man came to see that there was just one God who was creator of the universe.

Christ came to the world to teach us more of the one God and his religion. He taught us that we must have faith and that above all we must love one another. It is this love, which is the reflection of God in man's actions, that will bring peace and happiness to mankind. It is an awareness that we must look on the needs of others as well as ourselves, that we are "our brother's keeper." This is what is meant by intelligent faith.

Non-Protestant Wants Others Represented

This is Intelligent Faith Week. This week, the relatively broad-minded and pious members of the student body will dutifully search among last year's programs and that pressed rose for a halo laid there to collect dust after the last IF program.

As an advocate of intelligent faith, the program is wonderful. As a conception of proper religion a attitude, it has its place. What then is the problem?

Compare the program with that on the University of Florida campus. The three main speakers there include a Jewish Rabbi, a protestant leader, and a Catholic layman noted for leadership.

But what of the program here on campus? Is there a Jewish rabbi? Is there a Catholic? Is there a Moslem? Is this a protestant Christian movement, or a movement towards better and more intelligent religion?

Among the broad-minded of all the faiths, the program is acceptable. So do Florida Republicans vote in the primaries. The program as it exists can not truthfully be termed mismanaged, but a different type of program would and should be more acceptable in all honesty.

The students, administrators, and religious leaders that work on the program are doing a most commendable job, and their earnest and direct honesty in their plain hard work deserve the heart-felt thanks of members of all faiths, as we're sure they must. But . . .

Modernist Sees Faith Underlying Ethics

The agnosticism which has sprung from the growth of scientific reasoning has failed to take into account one important fact: the ethical philosophies it has substituted for mystical and anthropomorphic religions of the past require faith as surely as do those more naive beliefs.

It does not require faith to believe facts demonstrable scientifically. It does not take faith to believe that water is composed of hydrogen and oxygen. It takes no faith to believe the age of the earth can be determined by the rate of radioactive decay of uranium.

Thus since the time of the Age of Enlightenment existing religions have been attacked by educated people for requiring faith. Science has relentlessly hacked away at the body of myths upon which religion is based, they point out. It has disproved the Bible and existing dogma. Things which depend on faith are dead, they conclude.

In place of the outmoded religions there grew new moralities: "greatest good for the greatest number of people," "dictatorship of the proletariat," and many others. Whether those who originally stated these ideals knew that these, too, rested on faith is immaterial. The point is that their followers too often have lost sight of the fact.

For if the principle of taking nothing on faith is carried to its logical conclusion, the question naturally arises. "Why have the greatest good for the greatest number?" "Why has a dictatorship of the proletariat?" Thus no faith eventually means no action, stagnation.

Should we return then to belief in the gods of ancient Greece, in virgin births and bodily assumptions? Of course not. We should base our ethical systems as nearly as possible upon the foundations of scientific findings, never contrary to them. If science says it is impossible for a human being to assume the forms of animals, man should not demand that the faithful believe in such contradictions. Rather he should prove that the movement of the cultures of the world is inevitably toward a single world government, then we should attempt to help this movement come about as painlessly as possible.

But we should never lose sight of the fact that wherever we say "should" in regards to social behavior, we are stating a kind of faith. If we temper ethics with scientific findings, and are willing to modify our beliefs in light of new discoveries, then we will have what we may truly call "intelligent faith."

ETCETERA ETCHINGS

Crooner Rates High In Music Industry

By DAVID DREIS

When Tin Pan Alley feels it necessary to perform, it always tries to wipe itself to a glossy shine with a scouring rag called, the crooner.

Yes, the Johnnie Ray's and Deacon Johnson's may come and go, with the soft easy style developed by Bennie Fields who worked it with his wife Blossom Seeley, the crooner goes on as one of the music industry's finest singers.

Rudy Vallee, the college boy who sang "My Time Is Your Time" through a megaphone, was possibly the first crooner to become a record sing Vallee today makes a few personal appearances, but his forte of saving his money in his early years has made him one of the wealthiest singers of the entertainment world. Sometimes he portrays a lushhead on the screen just for kicks.

Following close on Vallee's vocal chords was one of the finest crooners the music world has ever seen and will ever see again. He made his name on after him and was the first singer to have the men tried to imitate. His hit discs such as "Prisoner of Love" and "Out of Nowhere" are being re-released by RCA Victor. His name: Russ Columbo who died in the early thirties when he accidentally shot himself while cleaning his gun collection. There are many who believe Columbo has never been equaled.

When Russ died, the music companies were frantic looking for a replacement. Then the salesman's Rhythm Boys had a lead singer called Bing Crosby who was standing out like the Hillsboro' Jimmy Sacra and the Grand Canyon Dorsey. Bing sold the lead singer made his first record with Gus Arnheim's Cocoanut Grove nighterie, the name of Bing shone high. It was in that first recording that he met starlet Dixie Lee, later to become his wife.

In 1948, Tommy Dorsey's soloist set the crowds roaring. Frank Sinatra was throughout the great Bing Crosby style and he's done a bit over-singer to break Bing Crosby's string of placing fifteen straight tunes on the hit parade. He has succeeded eighteen so far . . . indeed. He didn't really set the nation on spirits of xanomenia until he became a single-lick.

When Sinatra crooned, women swooned. His being skinny ranked Crosby's gaff were and ears as far as laughs were concerned.

In 1943, Perry Como released his first Victor record, "Goodbye Sue" but Sinatra was raking on top and Dick Haymes was challenging so the record company dropped Perry. As a result Como tried to imitate Bing Crosby. He succeeded since this only "employed" him, he'd work his own tonsils to origin. For a replacement, Como moved to the top of the heap.

Arthur Godfrey's Hour of Scouts was being aired and Vic Damone took first prize and a recording contract. His first sold and moved him to the top.

After Damone a young singer called Eddie Fisher sneaked to first place and won some show engagements where at a Cafe Hill Mountain resort show. Eddie's star further rose on his youth's career. Eddie Fisher is the only singer to break Bing Crosby's

Yes, the crooner stays, so keep your eya on Jerry Vale, Jan Arden, and the numerous other newcomers who croon to swoon with tune for soon. Ah, rhyme waits for no one.

The Florida Flambeau

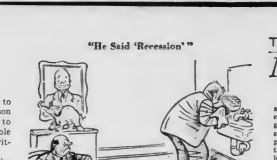
BRUCE GALPHIN—Editor

Al Pierce, News Editor — Bob Folsom, Managing Editor

Feature Editor ..... Jayleen Robertson
Campus Editor ..... Orchid Alonso
Sports Editor ..... Bill Caldwell
Rewrite Editors ..... Oscar Johnson, Martin Dickinson
Sports Staff ..... Art Kennerly, Bob Guttridge
Photographer ..... Dick Reutlier

Art Consultant ..... Franklin Adams
Copy Editors ..... Sylvia Parrish, Dick Victory, David Dreis
Photographer ..... Joe Caldwell
Junior Staff ..... Dot Thomasson, Mary Elizabeth King, Tom Reid, Betty Bishop, Lona Cochran, Barbara Bachman, Joyce Potter

NANCY LOWE—Business Mgr.
Al Markovitz, Advertising Mgr.



Business Staff ..... Mary Wagon, Virginia Vaughn, Joe Caldwell
Advertising Soliciting ..... Members of Alpha Delta Sigma, Gamma Alpha Chi
Nationally Represented by Mercury Publications, Inc.
420 Madison Ave., New York, 17.

Exchange Editor ..... Pat Robson
Exchange Staff ..... Lil Haavind
Distribution ..... Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by the students of Florida State University.
Member Intercollegiate Press.

Telephone 2-8000, extension 4821, 211, 213 Longmire Building

Member Associated Collegiate Press

Dear Mama Seminole

Dear Mama Seminole:

Once, on reservation, hrave raise corn for food. Some corn he give to hrave who weave blanket for warmth. By their own volition, both hraves were protected from cold and hunger. Both hraves enjoy life and freely give little corn and clothing to chief who protects land and mediates disputes.

New chief came and make new safer system. He take corn from farmer hrave and cloth from weaver hrave and, after taking a commission, he give to needs of both hraves enough corn and cloth. This work fine except when tribe get too big for chief to make exchange. Then chief get other hraves to make exchange. Then exchange hraves and chief get commission. Soon chief have to make check on exchanger, so other hraves take duties of inspection and commission for same. Commission get pretty big.

Other advantage of new chief's system is security. Brave no longer have to use mind to trade goods. Chief's men trade for them. Brave give freedom of choice plus three sections of goods for physical security. Mental facilities of bargain and plan for future become dead and decay. Government have future of all braves well planned.

Mistake not my words, Mama. I would not have big chief drop all duties. Big chief make good inspector when free trade fall down. Chief be mediator not merchant.

Sandapur have real thrill. Dance of the Flying Shoe or Barefoot Ballet. Big fight in hall over leading roll. La femme and la feline battle for position. With a wiggle of the toneil and a twitch of the tail, the cry of the victor from the old garbage pale. Fine show mama.

Love All,
Georgie Seminole

AT THE LIBRARY

Browsing Corner Features Materials For Faith Week

By FLORENCE PAYNE

This is Intelligent Faith Week.

Religious liberty is the outgrowth of the gradual broadening of men's minds through education and travel. Religion offered some intellectual stimulus to persons in almost every region of the colonies save the frontier. And on the frontier many among their Bibles and other religious books.

It is the hope of Mr. Norman Kilpatrick that all students, faculty and campus visitors will find some time this week to browse through the collection of outstanding religious works on display in the library foyer. Included in this collection are The Lucie of Beried by David Elton Trueblood and How To Believe by Ralph W. Sockman. There are approximately thirty books of outstanding quality and religious portraits included in the display.

This display was arranged by the library student committee.

Many of you who are new to the FSU campus may not be aware of the browsing corner in the lobby of the library. Throughout the school year, this special corner provides browsing materials of current interest to library visitors. This week the materials are in keeping with Intelligent Faith Week. At other times, you might expect to find information on our national holidays, our world problems, world leaders and similar subjects.

New books, both fiction and non-fiction, are also available for browsing purposes in this corner.

There are two glass display cases in the foyer. In these cases are placed books, papers, documents, pictures and small objects of interest to the library visitor. These exhibits are changed from time to time throughout the school year in order to keep the materials of current interest.

If you wish additional information on any of the materials you see on display in the foyer, there will be a librarian on duty at the information desk. Should this desk not be manned at the time of your visit, the librarian on duty at the circulation counter or reference desk will be glad to assist you.

THE FREE LANCE

Needed: Face-Changing In Longmire

By BRUCE GALPHIN

I used to think that FSU's administration was hub-bonded and dictatorial with student government on campus. I would sit in Senate as a Flambeau reporter, watch student Senators try to push through a piece of legislation, only to see it killed by a vote of the Committee on Student Affairs.

After three and a half years of it, though, I have come to feel that student government has deserved almost all it has received, or rather not received, from the university administration.

It's not that I am not in favor of student having some control over their affairs. I strongly support it. Nor is it that I believe the administration is all-wise and all-fair. But the administration has to keep the university on an even keel and cannot abandon it to chaos.

The administration, then, must have guarantee that responsible students with form sensible policies and carry them out. At present it has very few such guarantees.

I can say with no little pride that the Flambeau has said things unpleasing to the university administration this year without being called on the carpet. I attribute this to the fact that we have been moderate in tone. We have not called the administration a bunch of villains and horsethieves, which is what many student government officers and Flambeau people have done, in fact, in the past. We have had our differences of opinion, but we have tried to let them understand we were serious in what we proposed, that we knew what we were talking about.

Student government should differ with Westcott. It should primarily represent the desires of the students, and if those desires are the same as those of the university's officials, the time is out of joint. A strange miracle has come to pass.

But there is one overpowering obstacles to student government's coming of age. First, student's representatives must be acquainted with what they are talking about. Attending a Senate meeting is a painful demonstration that they usually do not. Second, they must learn to present their cases clearly and wisely. They must be ready to compromise. Name-calling is as fruitless as it is childish.

I mention all this now because student body elections are coming within a month's time. For many months now, the same old names and the same old faces have been hard at work trying to confirm their hold on student government offices.

In my opinion they have done satisfying things, but they have given little thought to the duties and responsibilities of the offices they seek.

Student government will get no further than ever if it's politics as usual this spring. We need competence, we need reason, we need fresh faces and strong blood.

I have several candidates who do not plan to run for office because they have too little confidence in student government's chances. They think there's little chance of breaking the stagnation in student government.

Therefore I would urge the students of Commons' students who are always hearing they are being represented but see few results to look among them. Consider who are able leaders. Do not be satisfied to let someone else do your choosing.

Support students who can make student government a well-functioning organization.

THE SPECTATOR

On Johns, Machiavelli, Memories

By WARREN COBB

For various and sundry reasons, the Supreme Court has decided that Charley Johns is eligible to run for governor and also receive his increase in salary. With the exception of Justices Terrell and Thomas, it seems the justices haven't even agree as to where they disagreed.

Political columnist John Keigh formed an interesting situation. Indeed, Johns' lawyer in commenting on the court's decision: I. If the pay was raised, Johns is not elected. II. If the pay was raised. 3. Three-fore Johns is not eligible.

But as Keigh pointed out, there is a fallacy somewhere. Johns has been elected and both the raise and the right to run, clearly contravene the revision stipulations of the Constitution.

As U. S. Supreme Court Justice Frankfurter once observed: "The supreme Court is the Constitution." And so it is on a state, as well as a national, level.

After the decision was announced, Johns issued a sententious statement that "the people shall not be deprived of their right to exercise their choice in a free and fair election for a man to complete the unexpired term of the late Governor McCarty."

This statement, coming from Johns, is suggestive of the Machiavellian adage that a prince must change with the times.

For it was the Johns faction itself which stared such an uproar when the provision of the holding of any election this year, making governor elect to serve as to where they disagreed.

Political columnist John Keigh formed an interesting situation. Indeed, Johns' lawyer in commenting on the court's decision: I. If the pay was raised, Johns is not elected. II. If the pay was raised. 3. Three-fore Johns is not eligible.

But as Keigh pointed out, there is a fallacy somewhere. Johns has been elected and both the raise and the right to run, clearly contravene the revision stipulations of the Constitution.

As U. S. Supreme Court Justice Frankfurter once observed: "The supreme Court is the Constitution." And so it is on a state, as well as a national, level.

After the decision was announced, Johns issued a sententious statement that "the people shall not be deprived of their right to exercise their choice in a free and fair election for a man to complete the unexpired term of the late Governor McCarty."

This statement, coming from Johns, is suggestive of the Machiavellian adage that a prince must change with the times.

For it was the Johns faction itself which stared such an uproar when the provision of the holding of any election this year, making governor elect to serve as to where they disagreed, until the entire term of McCarty on the basis of an ambiguous and almost ex post facto session paragraph in the Constitution. Indeed, Johns' lawyer stated before the Court (Ayres v. Secretary of State Gray) that Johns had already become (as acting governor) which amounts to a property right."

But we shall not digress to submit to Van Pepoli.

That the people of the people shall comment on the Johns administration? Will it censure or commend? That is the question to be answered in 1954.

The last Spectator asserted that it was unrealistic to consider Florida and a state as rather than a negative, force. This assertion has been disputed by several quarters. One observer has assured me that it will be Johns, not Caldwell, who enters the second primary. Another has pointed out that Johns' entire campaign facilities at the disposal of Johns in his capacity as acting governor. The latter argage is power.

But it is difficult to believe that Johns could even reach the second primary. His claim that he may win in the first is absurd.

Drunkenness, said Colton, is the vice of a good constitution and a good memory. The seemingly intoxicated condition of Florida governmental affairs may be attributed in large measure to a poor Constitution, and to the almost rely on the poor memory of the people.

But will they forget the actions ment of McCarty's State Road Chairman, Richard Simpson, who was indicted for the "malfeasance, and/or misfeasance, and/or incompetency" of work? Is others in a similar dismissal last November?

Said Simpson at that time: "This rosmes as na great surprise to me. I have felt that I will not fit into the present situation ever since the voting strength was concentrated so severely for refusing to give an engineering contract of around $4 million and another at in the $100,000 above the lowest proposal.

No denial or suit was forthcoming from Johns.

Are the memories of the voters of this state so short-lived? It is unlikely.

Although Charley Johns can play Brenagh with the Court and his own machinist, he will find the Florida electorate an unwilling Trilby.

Letters to the Editor

Dislikes Attitude

The headline "One World Is Still Possible" caught my eye while reading the Friday issue of the Flambeau. I thought I'd share Dr. Robert Anderson of FSU Anthropology Department the prediction that "all the peoples of the world will eventually come under one government . . . " I should like to pause for a short while to point out that at some point in the world's future, one nation will have centralized into a government which the world government will come about by force. Also, the strongest segment of the world asserting itself and enlarging."

To begin with I would like this to make it clear that my comment is not meant to deprecate in any way, the American culture which Dr. Anderson truly practices and has helped to be developed . . . " However, it is my belief that the assertion of "ethnocentrism", regarding one's own group as the center of human culture and other groups as inferior, is not the proper approach to bring about the harm change. In fact this same attitude has always created strife among nations and hindered so far development of a world society. History tells us of many cases of people who thought that their culture was the best that existed and tried to force it on the whole world through destruction of other cultures. Needless to say that their efforts were in vain, simply because the idea of a "dominant master culture" is a failure. According to the compliment paid to freedom and democracy, each cultural group has the right to develop her own traditions, and each citizen anywhere in the world has the right to follow the cultural pattern he desires. The slightest suggestion of the superiority of one civilization upon others, is sufficient to undermine the American leadership of the world.

Cultural Pluralism' and not 'ethnocentrism' is the proper approach to our problem. I envisage the emerging world society to be a 'multicultural' society built upon the principles of good-will, solidarity, and mutual respect. Cultural diversity will not only be as enriching factor but almost a necessity if such a dream is to be realized.

The enterprise is the largest that humanity ever undertook, and no one group of people, nor one nation can bring it about. It needs the cooperation of men of good-will and insight in all four corners of the earth.

Our responsibility toward this end are equally great. We must pursue all means that would further the diversification of the world sistem with humanity as a whole. I need further keener understanding of the contribution of the people of other cultures to the conservation and cultural and personal enrichment of our own as well as two of the main courses of action.

It is with great deal of pride that I have noted that ever since the International Students Day was celebrated on our campus, it has been its main objective to develop in its members a sense of world and American, a sense of appreciation for other cultures in order to reduce ethnocentrism.

Commenting on Dr. Anderson's statement that the world government will come about by warfare . . . " I should like to say that military power is rapidly losing its significance. The H-bomb and the A-bomb can no longer bring victory nor security. Sooner or later, nations will seek victory and security in another power that does not lie in the armaments of nations but lies within the hearts of men. Only the forces of love and understanding can bring about that the world government can be achieved.

The natural law of 'struggle for existence and survival of the fittest' that seems to be the main theme of Dr. Anderson's statement, I believe is a delusion based upon others, is sufficient to undermine the American leadership of the world.

Cultural Pluralism' and not 'ethnocentrism' is the proper approach to our problem. I envisage the emerging world society to be a 'multicultural' society built upon the principles of good-will, solidarity, and mutual respect. Cultural diversity will not only be as enriching factor but almost a necessity if such a dream is to be realized.

The enterprise is the largest that humanity ever undertook, and no one group of people, nor one nation can bring it about. It needs the cooperation of men of good-will and insight in all four corners of the earth.

Our responsibility toward this end are equally great. We must pursue all means that would further the diversification of the world sistem with humanity as a whole. I need further keener understanding of the contribution of the people of other cultures to the conservation and cultural and personal enrichment of our own as well as two of the main courses of action.

It is with great deal of pride that I have noted that ever since the International Students Day was celebrated on our campus, it has been its main objective to develop in its members a sense of world and American, a sense of appreciation for other cultures in order to reduce ethnocentrism.

Commenting on Dr. Anderson's statement that the world government will come about by warfare . . . " I should like to say that military power is rapidly losing its significance. The H-bomb and the A-bomb can no longer bring victory nor security. Sooner or later, nations will seek victory and security in another power that does not lie in the armaments of nations but lies within the hearts of men. Only the forces of love and understanding can bring about that the world government can be achieved.

The natural law of 'struggle for existence and survival of the fittest' that seems to be the main theme of Dr. Anderson's statement, I believe is a delusion based upon others, is sufficient to undermine the American leadership of the world.

Humanitarian Move

Dear editor,

Couldn't help but wince when I read in Friday's Flambeau the story about the International students day bring to speak a baby war orphan, who would eventually come to FSU if possible.

Their problem seems to be money, but it seemed incredible that ling applications is March 16.

Fellowship Offered June Graduates; Stipends To $1,200

Graduate fellowships in the fields of public affairs and public policy are now being offered to Florida State University students, according to a recent announcement by the Southern Regional Training Program in Public Administration.

The announcement stated that beginning in June, 1954, fellows will serve an internship with 1 of 10 agencies in the Tennessee Valley Authority, or a department in a city or state government. Graduate courses are open to them at the University of Alabama, the University of Tennessee and the University of Kentucky, leading to a masters degree in public administration.

Additional information on eligibility requirements is available at Educational Director, University of Alabama, University, Ala. The deadline for submitting

From The Sidelines

By Ken Kingery

Flambeau Sports Editor

U. S. TRACK TEAM SET FOR OPENING MEET

Coach Ken Miller's cindermen will take to the track this weekend against some of the hardest foes they will meet all season. After practicing for a month or so, Coach Miller hopes they are ready both physically and mentally to face such stiff competition.

The team is depending on the few amount of experienced men to lead the squad to another winning season. The Seminole team will be strong in the field events and the distance, at least that's how it looks at the first of the season.

After the season is started it will be easier to see who is strong in their event. There are many freshmen that will spark the squad this year. Great things will be expected of such distance men as Larry Hourihan, and Jack Casteel, Hurdlers, Joe Davis and Tiney Brown, and allaround boys Ron Weaver and Bob Verdannic.

Carlos Fraundorfer and Ken Jarrett are the team captains and they will also be the only returning lettermen. The weak spot of the squad will be in the sprints, due to the loss of several good boys last semester.

VOLLEYBALL TEAM CONTINUES THEIR BRILLIANT PLAYING

The Florida State Seminole volleyballers have just returned from the Smoky Mountain Tournament in which they won after a very long day of about 25 matches.

Some of the other teams came from Ohio, Indiana, Virginia, Kentucky. Notre Dame and many other teams were there.

Howard Gould, All American for two years sparked the Seminole squad to this all important win.

Last year the volleyballers were Florida A.A.U Champs with a 21-11 record.

Cagers End Season With Victory Over Arkansas

The Florida State Seminoles finished their best basketball season since 1951 in downing a very determined Arkansas State Razorback team 74-68, at the overcrowded West Campus Gym Saturday night.

With a burst of energy the Seminoles took a commanding lead over the Redskins of Arkansas, 16-5. The Visitors failed to score a field goal in the first six minutes, until Senior Joe Scott broke the ice with a close in basket. The first quarter ended with the Indians still in the lead by the score of, 21-14.

In the next two minutes Arkansas State pulled to within five points of the Seminoles as they hit on a lucky set shot, to close it 27-24. Coming back in the remaining minutes the Seminoles scored 20 points to the Redskins 10 and the half ended 47-34.

The closest the Redskins could get to FSU during the second half was 60-58 with six minutes remaining in the game. The Seminoles pulled away on three quick fielders and went into a semi-freeze during the last four minutes.

Five FSU players hit double figures. Guard Jimmy Oler was high with 17 points, hitting on 11 of 13 free shot attempts. Ham Wernke, the other half of the Seminoles dynamic guard combination, came through with 15 points. Jerry Westhafer and Dick Artavicier added 14 each, and Rick Benson got 13.

Westhafer and Diane Gordon played their last game for the Seminoles. Reserve forward Ed Reeves also will not be around next year.

Scott paced the Redskins with 24 points and took scoring honors for the night before fouling out with three minutes to play. Forward Jim Ward accounted for 19 points and played a stellar floor game.

FSU's record for the season is 13 wins and 7 losses. Last night's game wraps up the Seminole cage season since FSU declined an invitation to play in the district 5-NAIA tournament. The victory brought the FSU-Arkansas State series to a 1-1 deadlock. The Redskins won the first game last year.

Wernke's 15 points brought his total to 372 for the season and for the second straight year the Batesville, Ind., star has led the Seminole point makers. Oler finished with 324 points to place second.

FSU	FG	FT	PTS
Westhafer	6	2	14
Artavicier	5	4	14
Benson	4	5	13
Wernke	4	7	15
Oler	11	11	17
Gordon	3	4	10
Reeves	0	0	0
Totals	33	34	83

ARK. STATE	FG	FT	PTS
Ward	7	5	19
Scott	10	4	24
McNeese	3	2	8
Gatlin	2	2	6
Hicks	2	1	5
Presley	1	0	2
Totals	25	14	74

Referee: Bob Hanson, Ole Miss. Umpire: Bob Gardner, Vanderbilt.

Halftime score: FSU 47, Arkansas State 34.

Free shots missed: FSU—Benson, Oler, Gordon 2, Westhafer 2; Ark. State—Scott 2, Ward, McNeese 3, Gatlin, Hicks 2, Presley, Gilliam.

Hanson Lumber	FSU	FROSH
Nettles	12	10
Roper	4	6
Bixler	3	6
Hall	0	0
Kuhl	0	0
Williams	1	1
Bixler	1	1
Revells	0	0
Totals	13	3

Wallace	12	6
Ford	7	0
Twomey	2	0
Gilliland	0	0
Alford	5	2
Jarvis	0	0
Ward	1	0
Thomas	2	0
Totals	29	8

The FSU Soccer team picture above will play Marianna Sunday the twenty-eighth at the FSU soccer field. Left to right, front row: Frank Lopino (19), Eduardo del Roca (10), Albert Demoulin (15), Soni Vaijajiva (12), and Brian Shirley (16).

Second row: George Stegmier (Manager), Lawrence Zaber (20), Harp pik Derboranessian (14), Norman Barth (6), John McGlynn (11), Michael Doron (17) and Cornelis Van Dorp (13).

Swedish Team Heads Activity This Week

HERE IS A SUMMARY OF FSU'S SPORTS ACTIVITY FOR THE COMING WEEK.

TUESDAY — Spring football practice resumes for kicks of 20 NCAA-allotted practice sessions; FSU freshmen basketball team vs. Jacksonville Navy, West Campus gym, 6 p.m.

FRIDAY — FSU swimming team vs. Georgia at Athens.

SATURDAY—FSU Gymkana vs. Swedish gymnastic team, women's gym, 9 p.m.; FSU swimming team at Georgia A.A.U meet; FSU track team at Atlantic Coast Conference indoor games at Chapel Hill, N. C.

THE DUTCH KITCHEN
Adams & Park
The Finest Food
Homey Atmosphere
Excellent Service

Team Visits Here; Interviews Seniors

A detachment of the United States Aviation Cadet Training Program will be on the Florida State University campus tomorrow and Thursday to interview seniors interested in serving as pilots after graduation, according an announcement by Lieutenant Robert H. Anderson, commander.

According to the announcement, Anderson will contact "the maximum number of students possible." On his initial visit the first part of this month, Anderson revealed that he would be in the Student Center on those days for information purposes only.

FSU Swimmers Win Over Weekend

NORTHWESTERN, LA. GEORGIA FALLS, AS SEMINOLES WIN BY LARGE MARGINS; DICK RHOTON STARS

Florida State's young swimmers started looking toward an undefeated season yesterday after Bim Stults' Seminoles outclassed Northwestern Louisiana State, 54-30, for their sixth straight dual meet victory this season.

Running their two-year victory string to 12, the Seminoles swept eight of 10 first places to count past the Natchitoches, La., visitors. FSU also won eight firsts in polishing off Georgia Tech, 55-39, in their East Campus pool Friday afternoon.

Dick Rhoton was the individual standout for the two meets. Against Georgia Tech, Rhoton set a new school record in the 200-yard breast stroke with a 2:33.3 performance. He broke his own record Saturday against Northwestern, with a time of 2:32.8.

Against Georgia Tech Tarbiriet lead the 200-yard freestyle event and was in the winning 400-yard freestyle relay team with Vachavek, Twilly and Stock. James Julian, FSU star backstroker, won the 50-yard freestyle, and teammate Ernie Stock took the 100-yard freestyle event. Shipley and Lurie placed first and third respectively in the 200-yard backstroke.

Against Northwestern Saturday Bob Stickle and Bob Spalding took first and second in the fancy diving contest. Ernie Stock, back to his old schedule, the 150-yard individual medley, took first by a very wide margin. Julian, after winning the 50-yard freestyle event, was touched out by Clark of Northwestern in the 100-yard event. George Hirshberger placed first in his regular event, the 220-yard freestyle. Leading the pack in the 440-yard freestyle by a full length was Mike Tschirret.

FSU faces No meet serious challenge to its undefeated season Friday. The Seminoles have a return meet with Georgia in Athens, FSU won a match from the Bulldogs earlier this season, 48-35.

SUMMARY

300-Yard Medley Relay—1, FSU (Crowe, Vachavek, Julian) 3:08.1
220-Yard Free Style: 1, Hirshberger (FSU); 2—Rider (NWL); 3 — Starr (NWL). 2:36.1
50-Yard Free Style: 1 — Julian (FSU); 2—Lance (NWL); 3—Nolan (FSU). :25.8
150-Yar individual Medley: 1 — Stock (FSU); 2—Timm (NWL); 3— Rodrigue (NWL) 1:36.2
Diving: 1—Stickle (FSU), 87.5 points; 2—Spaulding (NWL), 76.6; 3—Nelson (FSU), 75.9
100-Yard Free Style: 1—Clark (NWL); 2—Julian (FSU); 3—Twilly (FSU). :56.6
200-Yard Back Stroke: 1—Cooper (NWL); 2—Shipley (FSU); 3—Lurie (FSU) 2:39.2
200-Yard Breast Stroke: 1—Rhoton (FSU); 2—Crowe (FSU); 3—Van Skyenvyk (NWL). 2:32.8. (New FSU school record)
400-Yard Free Style: 1—Tarbiriet (FSU); 2—Starr (NWL); 3—Vachvek (FSU) 4:52.
400-Yard Free Style Relay: 1 — Northwestern (Miller, Kenner, Clark, Millan), 3:57.1 (FSU disqualified).

(FRIDAY RESULTS)

300-Yard Medley Relay — 1, FSU (Cooper, Stock, Hirshberger) 2:39.2.
Diving: 1—Stickle (FSU), 87.5 points; 2—Rhoton (Tech), Dixon (Tech), 2:21.1
50-Yard Free Style: 1, Julian (FSU), 2, Walker (Tech), 3, Baumgardner (Tech). :25.8
150-Yard Individual Medley—1, Van Lear (Tech), 2, Crowe (FSU), 3, Vachavek (FSU) 1:36.2
Diving—1, Ballard (Tech), 2, Beaty (Tech), 3, Spaulding (Tech).
100-Yard Free Style—1, Julian (FSU), 2, Walker (Tech), 3, Julian (FSU). :56.1
200-Yard Back Stroke—1, Shipley (FSU), 2, Lurie (FSU), 3, Lance (FSU). 2:39.2
200-Yard Breast Stroke—1, Rhoton (FSU), 2, Bailey (FSU), 3, Ferrara (Tech). 2:33.5 (new FSU school record)
400-Yard Free Style—1, Hirshberger (FSU), 2, Rhoton (Tech), 3, Ravara (Tech) 5:11.8
400-Yard Free Style Relay—1, FSU (Vachavek, Twilly, Stock, Tarbiriet). 3:57.2.

Tennis Team Elects Schaus As Captain

Tennis practice got underway last Monday without the services of Tom Cundy and Joe Harris who are recuperating from a cold and a broken finger respectively.

Coach Pitchford has been putting the boys through a stiff workout which consists of Calisthenics, wind sprints and running at least a mile every day.

Hal Schaus, sophomore from Mansfield, Ohio, was elected captain of the '54 team.

Showing well in practice other than Schaus are Dave Kennedy, Shelby Creigh, Don Wyly, Jack Egan, Tom Morgan, and Herb Hathcox.

Schedule for '54:

COLLEGE	PLACE	DATE
Tampa	Tampa	March 19
Miami	Miami	19
Rollins Southern	Winter Park	19
Rollins College	Winter Park	19
Stetson University	DeLand	20
Daytona	Tallahassee	22
Georgia Tech	Tallahassee	27
Auburn	Tallahassee April	2
Emory	Tallahassee	3
Louisiana State	Tallahassee	15
Citadella Sem.	Tallahassee	16
University of Ga.	Athens	17
Auburn	Auburn	24
Georgia Tech	Atlanta	26
Mercer University	Macon	27
Emory	Atlanta	28
Mercer University	Tallahassee	29
Univ. of Tampa	Tallahassee	30
Florida Southern	Tallahassee	May 8

FOR SALE — ANSCO AUTOMATIC REFLEX CAMERA. 2¼" x 2¼". Synchronized for flash. Complete with leather case. Excellent condition. $85.00. Contact Bob Mauldin, University Photographer, 81 Public Relations office, or call 3311.

Tennis Coaches Elects Schaus As Captain

Tennis practice got underway last Monday without the services of Tom Cundy and Joe Harris who are recuperating from a cold and a broken finger respectively.

Coach Pitchford has been putting the boys through a stiff workout which consists of Calisthenics, wind sprints and running at least a mile every day.

Hal Schaus, sophomore from Mansfield, Ohio, was elected captain of the '54 team.

Showing well in practice other than Schaus are Dave Kennedy, Shelby Creigh, Don Wyly, Jack Egan, Tom Morgan, and Herb Hathcox.

Schedule for '54:

COLLEGE	PLACE	DATE
Tampa	Tampa	March 19
Miami	Miami	19
Rollins Southern	Winter Park	19
Rollins College	Winter Park	19
Stetson University	DeLand	20
Daytona	Tallahassee	22
Georgia Tech	Tallahassee	27
Auburn	Tallahassee April	2
Emory	Tallahassee	3
Louisiana State	Tallahassee	15
Citadella Sem.	Tallahassee	16
University of Ga.	Athens	17
Auburn	Auburn	24
Georgia Tech	Atlanta	26
Mercer University	Macon	27
Emory	Atlanta	28
Mercer University	Tallahassee	29
Univ. of Tampa	Tallahassee	30
Florida Southern	Tallahassee	May 8

FSU Is Center For Merit Exam

Florida State University will be one of ten centers giving merit system examinations on March 6, according to a recent announcement.

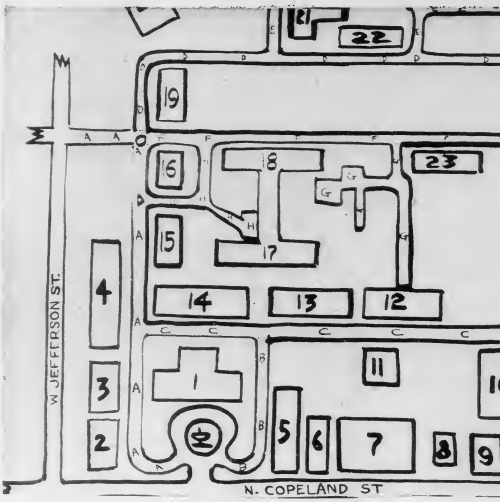
It stated that "Examinations will be given for a number of clerical, stenographic and beginning professional classes." Persons passing them will have their names placed on registers from which future vacancies with merit system agencies will be filled.

Interested students may obtain copies of examination announcements and official application blanks from the Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement, 303 Westcott. Applications on the required forms must be filled by February 26.

Famous Works Are On Display Today

A sample of the works of Grandma Moses, famed non-generation artist who took up painting after she was 70, is on exhibition today in the foyer of the University Art Gallery, second floor Dining Hall.

RESTRING WITH ASHAWAY BRAIDED RACKET STRING
STANDS OUT in play
• Harder Smashes
• Better Cut and Spin
STANDS UP in your racket
• Holding Power
• Lasting Liveliness
COSTS LESS than gut
ASHAWAY STRINGING COST: Pre-Packed Braid ... $4.00 Multi-Ply Braid ... $8.00
At tennis shops and sporting goods stores.
ASHAWAY BRAIDED RACKET STRING
Choice of the Champions



Star Breaststroker Dick Rhoton sets new record.

Today's Chesterfield is the Best Cigarette Ever Made!

"Chesterfields for Me!"
Michael O'Shea
The cigarette tested and approved by 30 years of scientific tobacco research.
"Chesterfields for Me!"
Deborah Kerr
The cigarette with a proven good record with smokers. Here is the record. Bi monthly examinations of a group of smokers show no adverse effects to nose, throat and sinuses from smoking Chesterfield.
Deborah Kerr stars in the Broadway Hit "Tea and Sympathy"
"Chesterfields for Me!"
Ray Anthony
The cigarette that gives you proof of highest quality—low nicotine—the taste you want—the mildness you want
Smoke America's Most Popular 2-Way Cigarette
CHESTERFIELD BEST FOR YOU
Copyright 1954, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

OFFICIAL ENTRY BLANK
FLAMBEAU-GOLD KEY STREET NAMING CONTEST

ADDRESS .....
(Dorm, Sorority, Fraternity) Box No.

Lettered Streets: Name each one:
Theme: (Your Street Name Here):

A (Fla. Botanical Names)

B (Former FSU Presidents)

C (Florida Cities)

D (Seminole Chiefs)

E (Confederate Generals)

F (Noted Educators)

G (Colleges, Universities)

H (Former Fla. Governors)

TEAR OUT AND MAIL OR BRING TO FLAMBEAU OFFICE BY SUNDAY FEBRUARY 28, 5 p. m.

1—Westcott
2—Science
3—History
4—Library
5—Education
6—Social Welfare
7—Music
8 and 9—Home Demonst.
10—Demonstration School
11—Longmire Bldg.
12—Jennie Murphree
13—Reynolds
14—Bryan
15—Broward
16—Gilchrist
17—Suwannee Room
18—Seminole Room
19—Landis
20—Florida Hall
21—Msgnolia
22—Gymnasium
23—Cawthon

Calendar Of Events

TODAY, FEBRUARY 23

12:00 noon Biochemistry Seminar. Prock Pinamore, "The Counce Theory of Protein Synthesis." 306 Science.

12:00 noon Zoology Seminar, Martha Nes, "Sexuality in Some Invertebrates". 301 History

3:00 Student Recitals. Music Hall.

4:00 Orientation and Registration Committee. Small Lounge, Longmire.

4:00 Meteorology Seminar. Major Riker S. Van Ardsdall, "Air Force Weather Support to Army Units." 134 Science.

4:30 University Senate. 210 Lomanno.

6:30 Student Nurses Association, Nursing Arts Lab.

7:30 Film Previews. Different selections will be on hand for your enjoyment. Trophy Room, Student Union.

7:30 Mass meeting for IF Week. Former performer of Bertil Boe's "Third Symphony" by FSU Choral Union and Orchestra, Music Hall.

8:00 Joint meeting of Physics Students Club and FSU chapter of the American Society for Public Administration. Talk on "Atomic Energy, 1954." 124 Science.

9:00 Panel and group discussion for IF week at Senior Hall, Florida Hall, and West Hall for men and women students.

TOMORROW, FEBRUARY 24

7:00 p. m. Breakfast and fellowship, Student speaker, Milloo Carothers. Westminster House.

4:30 Dormitory Teas for men and women at the girls dorms

5:00 Fun and Functions, 404 Longmire Building.

7:30 Panel Discussion on "Communism, Democracy and Christianity." Music will be by FSU University Singers. Copeman Music Hall.

8:00 Classics Department Lecture, "The Origin of the Gods" (Illustrated) Longmire Aud

8:00 Alpha Chi Omega Social Club Room L. B.

8:00 Delta Sigma Pi Pledging 409 L. B

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 25

12:00 Graduate Class Luncheon. The Rev. Kristian Jensen, missionary to Korea, will be the speaker South Seminole

12:00 Physiology Seminar. Mary Jo Burr, "Alternative Cycles in Respiration." 414 History

3:30 Artist Series. First Piano Recital. Leon High. Aud.

4:00 Alpha Delta of Kappa Delta Pi. Business meeting. 201 Education.

4:30 Sigma Delta Pi tea for incoming scholarship students in Spanish. 201 Education.

6:45 Physics Seminar. Dr. A M Melvin, "The Law of Impact for Stiff Bodies." 124 Science

7:00 Sofas Club meeting. Large Lounge, Longmire

7:30 Phi Alpha Theta meeting. Lonsmire Aud.

7:30 Marine Science Seminar. Dr. F. C. W. Olsen, "Thermodynamics of Natural Waters." 308 History

8:00 p. m. Florida Section of the American Chemical Society. Dr. Lloyd Corwin, "The Chemistry of Porphyrins." 134 Science.

News Briefs

PAGEANT OF BRITISH MONARCHY

Dr. Mary Elizabeth Thomas, associate professor of history at FSU, will speak on "The Pageant of British Monarchy" Thursday evening, beginning at 8 p.m. in Longmire Auditorium. Arrangements for the program, which will also feature films from the British Information Service and the coronation of Queen Elizabeth, have been made by Phi Alpha Theta, history honorary.

* * *

THE TRUE CHLOROPHYLL

Dr. A. H. Corwin, professor of chemistry at Johns Hopkins University, will lecture on "The Colors of Life" Thursday night at 8 p.m. in the Science Lecture Hall. 124 Science Building.

Dr. Corwin will give demonstrations to present true properties of chlorophyll in contrast to those hallyhood. Although speaking mainly to the Tallahassee sub-section of the American Chemistry Society, the lecture is opeo to the public.

* * *

ROTC PROMOTIONS

Captain Rex T. Henry, adjutant, Army ROTC at FSU, has announced four recent promotions. The cadets include: Master Sergeant Donald C. Riley, Gainesville, Sergeant First Class William I. Harris, Jacksonville, Sergeant First Class William L. Proctor, Jacksonville, Sergeant First Class Hoin W. Watson, of Pensacola.

* * *

STUDENT NURSING NIGHT

There will be a meeting of the Student Nurses of Florida from 6:30 p.m. in the Nursing Arts Laboratory.

* * *

SCIENCE, RELIGION AND ITALIANS

Canterbury Club will sponsor a double feature this afternoon from 3 till 5 p.m. at Ruge Hall. First speaker will be Dr. Raymond Seibelle of the FSU Chemistry Department, discussing, "Can Science and Religion Be Agree?" The Rev. Achille Decoteau will speak during the second half of the times hemeing on Italian's Views on Democracy." Both seminars are open to the public.

John Cooper, president of the Ruge Hall Vestry, announced a meeting night at the Canterbury club meeting that the annual Shrove Tuesday Pancake Supper will be held at Ruge Hall on March 2. The 50 cent tickets will go on sale this week end and may be purchased from members of the Canterbury Club or the Vestry.

St. Matthias Day will be celebrated by Holy Communion tomorrow morning at 7 a.m.

* * *

Hyperalvreemic Research

Recent research work on glucagon and histamine will be reported by representatives of the Eli Lilly Company at a special FSU seminar at noon tomorrow in 306 Science Building. Dr. Otto Behrens, director of biochemical research for the company will discuss "Glucagon, the Hyperglycemic Factor of the Pancreas."

* * *

Religious Greeks

First in a series of five public lectures on "Religion in Greek Civilization" will be given by Dr. Francis R. Walton, head of the FSU Classics Department, Wednesday evening at 8:00 in Longmire Auditorium. Wednesday's topic will be "The Origin of the Gods" Lectures are free and open to the public.

* * *

WHO'S WHO

Seniors who were chosen for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, are asked to go to the Dean of Student Welfare office to pick up their certificates of recognition. The office is located in Westcott, Room 305.

'Rob Roy' Stars Romantic Duo From Previous Disney Movie

The romantic team from The Sword and the Rose, Richard Todd and Glynis Johns, returns to the screen in Walt Disney's Technicolor film, Rob Roy, The Highland Rogue.

The Playing for the last time tonight at the State Theatre in Give a Girl a Break starring Marge and Gower Champion and Debbie Reynolds.

An adventurous romance, the production is a live-action history of Rob Roy MacGregor, Scottish highland chief who defied a king and his armies to save his clan from destruction.

Glynis Johns co-stars as Helen Mary, the woman he loved, a proud MacGregor who fought with him in an attempt to restore the Stuarts to the throne of England.

A Walt Disney short accompanies Rob Roy at the State, Wednesday through Saturday this week. Pecos Bill, a 25-minute musical comedy cartoon is highlighted by Roy Rogers, Trigger, and the Sons of the Pioneers.

Candidate for the academy award for h's role in FROM HERE TO ETERNITY, BURT LANCASTER stars in HIS MAJESTY O'KEEFE, showing at the Florida Theatre tomorrow through Saturday.

Filmed in the Fiji Islands, the scenery is authentic and sparked with native-manufactured grass skirts. During the filming the fun-loving natives provided the cast and crew with many laughs.

The studio reports that once during a feast, Rata Lola, a tribal chieftain who acted as overseer, pointed to the 400-pound roasted pig being prepared for the feast and remarked for all to hear, "He looks like the last missionary." The Fijian warriors only 88 years ago were cannibals.

Based partly on fact, the story is a legendary tale of a fabulous character whose exploits among the natives of the South Seas before the turn of the century have been passed down through generations.

Lancaster plays the role of the lost island trader from Savannah, Ga., who became ruler of 15,000 Fiji Islanders. His leading lady is JOAN RICE, playing the part of a half-caste who marries him not for love, but because her father wishes it.

From Page 1

Russian Thousands

der, His body too, seemed completely lifeless.

The line of visitors moved slowly forward, and two minutes and 38 seconds later we stepped out a side door into the mass of Moscow dusk. The tour continued past graves of revolutionary heroes, but for us it was an anti-climax. We had been frankly awed by something we had never expected to see in our lives, and none of us spoke until we were almost back to our hotel.

Later we were to see the house where Stalin was born in 1879. It was at Gori, a little village about two hours drive from Tbilisi in central Georgia.

But even if our trip had not included a visit to the Moscow tomb or the Gori birthplace, we could not have escaped the Stalin legend.

It is not enough to say his picture and statue are everywhere. You must see his portrait in every room of a school, factory or home—you must see his statue in every public square or auditorium—to get the impact.

We saw Stalin in hundreds of poses. In the factories he was pictured standing among workers. On the farms he was shown standing in the wheat fields. In the schools he was depicted holding children on his lap.

Lenin was a close second to Stalin in number of pictures and statues. If you looked on every wall and saw Stalin, you could almost be sure of finding Lenin on the opposite.

Only rarely did we see pictures of Malenkov, and all we saw of Lavrenti Beria, one time head of the secret police, was an empty hall on which his picture had been hung at Stalin University in Tbilisi and his likeness in a wayy mosaic—which our guide denied was Beria.

FOR YOUR -
● Every Day School Needs
● Greeting Cards
● Art Supplies
● Stationery
Go to :
MALONE'S BOOK STORE
"We Buy Used Books"

Meet Me at the MECCA

Exhibition Finishes Stay At State Fair

The atomic and nuclear physics demonstration exhibited at the Florida State Fair in Tampa by the Florida State University Department of Physics has been brought to a conclusion, according to Dr. Guenter Schwarz, who was in charge.

Constructed by advanced physics students here, the exhibit was intended to give Floridians more information about the energy which is hen given the present ame is name

Part of the exhibit was a demonstration of a Van de Graff generator which builds up and discharges static electricity. Another was a device for making atoms harmlessly radioactive.

Art work for the exhibit was supervised by Mike Miake and Jack Wise.

Like Drive-Ins?
or do you
Like a Place to Sit Down and Be Served?
or do you
Like Free Delivery Right to Your Door?
QUAKER HOUSE
Call 2-8677 on the Quincy H'way
Come out and try our Superb Club Sandwich! Succulent Chicken, Lettuce, Tomato and Crisp Bacon Served on Toast.
Steaks, Chops, Chicken, Sea Foods, deliciously cooked and served . . .
Large Variety of Sandwiches to Choose From—Largest Soda Fountain in the South!
Choice Swift's Meats Served

From Page 1

Student Comments

titude." A Study of Human Relations in Industry and Their Implications for Supervisory and Leadership in Education." By the reciprocal relationship between the human factors of the relationship between the supervisor and the workers can be applied to administration and the teachers and the pupils. The relationship is the same between these three are basically human and they must work cooperatively in order to achieve."

Today and Tomorrow

Mat Dillon
Kennedy Diamonds
4 Generation Watches
PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRS
102 E. Monroe St. Phone 5-1447

FLORIDA
Through Tomorrow
In CinemaScope!
"Knights of the Round Table"
With Robert Taylor
Ava Gardner
Mel Ferrer
Thurs. through Saturday
Burt Lancaster In
"His Majesty O'Keefe"
With Joan Rice

CAPITAL
Today and Tomorrow
"Thunderbirds"
Nona Freeman, Gene Evans
Ward Bond
Thursday thru Sat.
2 Action Hits!
Richard Gress & Paula Raymond
"Bandit of Corsica"
Plus
"Down Laredo Way"
With Rex Allen

PLAZA
Today and Tomorrow
Janet Leigh & Donald O'Connor In
"Walking My Baby Back Home"
Thurs. thru Sat.
"Ride Vaquero"
Robert Taylor & Ava Gardner
Plus
"City That Never Sleeps"
Gig Young and Mala Powers

STATE
Tomorrow Thru Sat.
Walt Disney's
"Rob Roy"
In Technicolor With
Richard Todd & Glynis Johns
Plus
A 25 Minute Musical Comedy Cartoon
Disney's
"Pecos Bill"

From Page 1

Hudson Discusses Fauls Studies

Like often to him and enjoy him."

When asked about job opportunities in industry and Their functions for talented young musicians, Hudson said they are excellent. "Richly per cent of the leadership for young talent," he said. A really talented young person can step into a hundred distinction rewarding the only dollar a week job to start with. child or a family. Whether boy or girl, the choice agreed more Of course, if a person isn't talented he'd better not try."

Hudson said that the best basis for future success is the recognition a student receives on the perception of another performance with a local or collegiate band.

For the fourth consecutive season Bobby Hoernschemeyer topped the Detroit Lions in rushing. The 1953 averages show that Bob gained 482 yards on 101 carries for a 4.8 figure.

From Page 1

better an differentiating cor-

Children of all four groups consistently perceived their parents as preferring the sex activities appropriate for them as boys or girls.

However, there was another finding that the Florida metropolitan areas are "less vision-conscious," and easier to learn about putting on educational shows. Daoiel Womiak of the school of journalism said research

Traveling professor Womiak, under the auspices of the Florida General Extension Division and Florida State University holds weekly classes in Jacksonville and Ft. Lauderdale schools. Womiak conducts five hour sessions in both afternoon and evening as well as with supper breaks. He limits the two classes to 25 for "best teaching results."

In both cities, Womiak is using the general subject, "Television and the Community." However, he is shaping his program gradually, he says, to meet individual group needs.

Cooperating with the school of journalism on the extension courses are the FSU school of music, the library school and the department of speech. There will be other divisions at the weekly classes continue through the semester.

Dr. Otis McBridge, director of the FSU audio-visual center, addressed the Ft. Lauderdale class last Thursday. W. R. Slaughter, FSU professor of journalism, was guest speaker Friday at the Jacksonville class.

From Page 1

Student Circus

Jack Watson, Sally Fussell, Ann Gardner, Gene Williams, Robert Curles, Elizabeth Hall, Renie Hall, Gail Hanshaw, Sue Herndon, LuciNell Hopkins, Deanne Jackson, Lilly Johnson and Sandra Mays, Rounding out the group are Dunah Murphy, Jeao Nemeth, Charlotte Patten, Phyllis Patten, Patricia Payne, Jarleen Robertson, Carrol Rosers, Joan Stecker, Gale Tomlinson, Nancy Warner, Ruth Williams.

Adult Courses Show Areas TV Conscious

Adult courses in television production of educational programs, launched in two of Florida's large cities have shown that the Flo-

Try Quality Dry Cleaners For Expert
Special
1 Day
Service
Pressing
Repairing
Altering
Pickup or delivery
Call 2-5097 215 W. College

You Can SEE The Difference
In our better
Sanitone Dry Cleaning
SANITONE
All Dirt Out
Spots Gone
Colors and Patterns Look Like New Again
PUT YOUR NAME, ADDRESS AND PHONE NUMBER HERE
Exclusive In Tallahassee
Superior Cleaners
308 S. Monroe St.
Phone 2-0652

Columnist Pans Swan Song
See Pg. 2

The Florida Flambeau

VOL. XL, No. 33 — PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA — Friday, February 26, 1954

SUSGA Gets Senats Approval
See Below

Student Elections To Begin Soon; 15 Offices Open

Candidates Qualify For Next Election Starting March 10

Declarations of candidacy for the 1954 Student Body elections will be accepted for a six day period beginning Wednesday, March 10, according to Elections Secretary Bill Stancik.

The first primary is slated for the 23rd, to be followed on March 30 by the final ballot. Student Government Week will run in conclusion with the first wave of "politics," according to Stancik, to "promote school spirit and give students a chance to meet the candidates.

A total of 1858 ballots were cast in three precious last year for the same offices to be filled this year. These include President of the Student Body, Vice President of the Student Body, Chief Justice of the University Court, Men's and Women's Vice-Presidents of the court, Chairman of the Judicial court, and others, for a total of 15 offices.

These offices will be voted on by the entire student body. Stancik revealed that campaign literature and posters can be distributed by candidates starting at 5 p.m. March 16. Complete election laws and regulations will be distributed at the Student Body offices in Longview from March 1 until election day to potential candidates and interested students.

Election officials stated that expense accounts be filed by noon three days before primaries. Also, students must have qualifications checked by the Elections Committee. Violation of the rules can be sufficient grounds for disqualification, Stancik said.

The deadline set for applications of candidacy is March 15

BULLETIN:

Ten students formally organized a second political party on campus yesterday afternoon.

The group, temporarily former Student Party members, elected Jack Hooper, present Student Secretary, temporary chairman and tentatively named their organization the "State" party.

Figuring in the organization yesterday were John Cobb, Smoke Signals Editor-in-Chief, Gordon Shaler and Bill Hall, presently Student Senators, Jack Hopkins and Warren Cobb.

The initial meeting held yesterday at Sage Hall, episcopal Student Center here.

Contacted by Flambeau immediately following yesterday's second party announcement, Charlie Miner, present Chairman of Student Party said he thought this move is a great idea.

"For a good party system," Miner averred, "You need two parties."

Miner went on to say his faction has been behind the emergence of a second party here ever since he came.

"State" party officials said they would hold a committee report open to all interested on Wednesday, March 3 at 4 p.m. in Lonsmire Auditorium.

Religious Leaders Discuss Communistic Hold

A panel discussion on "Communism, Democracy and Christianity," by some of the world's people at the point of their greatest outstanding religious leaders was ex- pected, saying follow us and held Wednesday night in Opper- we will lead you to the promised man Music Hall to highlight the third week of Intelligent Faith this Week.

Featured on the panel were the Rev. Archille Deodata, moderator of the Waldensian Church in Italy; Dr. Luther Copeland, visiting professor of Missions at the Southern Baptist Seminary, Louisville, Kentucky; Dr. and Mrs. Kristian Jensen, who have been working in Korea; Dr. Wilburn Thomas, field secretary for the American Mission Board, who is operating in Indonesia; Rev. Hikaru Yanashaira, third generation Christian from Osaka Japan; and Dr. Ida Scudder, ra- diologist at the Christian Medical College Hospital, Vellore, India.

Speaking for the part of the world with which they are affiliated, the panelists said that how communism is trying to get a stronghold.

Thomas, explaining the vacuums that wars, poverty, and other problems have created in Indonesia, said that these vacuums must be filled and the Com- munists are striving to do so. "The Communist appeal to the people is at the point of their greatest need, saying follow us and land."

The majority of the Christian leaders were in North Korea at the outbreak of the war, but escaped to South Korea." Dr. Jensen said. "Communism could be licked in North Korea if it could be stopped soon enough."

"However, he explained, "the Communist doctrine and propaganda is being fought by the youth of North Korea and if it is not stopped soon, the prisoner of war will forget about any other way of life."

Dr. Scudder said that the church is working with the government in providing money and guidance to the youth in India. The government is building dams, roads and is fighting against it.

Mrs. Jensen acted as moderator gives a short summary of what each of the panelists said. Following the panel that Communism could not be destroyed by force, but that the cannes had to meet in repentance. "The people need many things and the compassion presented is the answer."

Dr. Jensen stated that Korean and North Korean Communism is very different. Very few people have a feeling that it is Communism and that is forced upon them. "The majority of the Christian leaders were in North Korea at the outbreak of the war, but escaped to South Korea." Dr. Jensen said. "Communism could be licked in North Korea if it could be stopped soon enough."

"However, he explained, "the Communist doctrine and propaganda is being fought by the youth of North Korea and if it is not stopped soon, the prisoner of war will forget about any other way of life."

Dr. Scudder said that the church is working with the government in providing money and guidance to the youth in India. The government is building dams, roads and is fighting against it.

Mrs. Jensen acted as moderator gives a short summary of what each of the panelists said. Following the panel that Communism could not be destroyed by force, but that the cannes had to meet in repentance. "The people need many things and the compassion presented is the answer."

Dr. Jensen stated that Korean

Zuckert Asserts Atomic Power Is Dominant Force

In a speech before a public meeting Tuesday night, visiting lecturer Eugene M. Zuckert expressed the view that "Atomic energy is rapidly becoming the dominant force in the lives of the American people."

Zuckart is a member of the five-man Atomic Energy Commission and is currently a Florida State University under the auspices of the School of Public Administration. He went on that atomic energy will continue "because it must" to be the dominant force in the lives of coming generations.

According to Zuckert's lecture, the pace at which atomic energy has forged ahead in the brief history of 11 years is illustrated by a rundown of significant events occurring in the past 18 months, citing five as highlighting this contention.

"Last August, the Soviet Union successfully achieved a nuclear explosion of what was the 'fusion' or Thermonuclear principle," he said, "and not anyone had doubts, this event definitely proven our principle potential and power when it is given credit for a high degree of technical competence."

Zuckert, Assistant Secretary of the Air Force, said that in 1953 we would proceed to build the nation's first nuclear reactor expressly for the generation of atomic power.

He noted at the third significant event the President's speech to the United Nations in December, which "opened the door to broadening the progress and application of sometime unseen of atomic energy through an international pool of knowledge and materials," and said that this proposal should not be taken as a "propaganda gesture" rather, "as recognition that the United States has a monopoly on neither scientific brainpower nor on the economic incentive to push forward."

"In the fourth place," he said, "a few weeks ago saw the launching of the world's first ship of the 'Nautilus', the world's first ship to be driven entirely by atomic power. From the naval point of view, this is the world's first true nuclear weapon that has the remaining underwater; for every speed and performance."

The ABC member said from the atomic energy point of view, the "Nautilus" is the first application of the atom for useful power in substantial quantities. "The atom is the world's cheapest source of energy you run any ship of comparable tonnage conventionally to supply our homes and factories."

"Finally," Zuckert said, "just last Wednesday, the President told the world that the United States is ready for comprehensive international development of atomic energy Act to permit private industry to participate directly in the development of atomic power economic energy, and to permit the broader dissemination of vital information to our technicians and to our allies.

He further said in the future, atomic energy development must continue to build its "technological base" as the first great naval obligation.

"We are not content to the

(Continued on Page 4)

Schoelkopf Receives Optical Russian Newsmen

(Third in a series of articles by the Flambeau's reporter, and by a student editor who visited Soviet Russia.)

By Dean Schoelkopf
Editor, Flambeau Staff

(ACP) — Four - page newspapers, with almost no advertising, no comic strips and with daily front page editorials are the rule in Russia.

All the papers we saw, from Pravda and Izvestia right down to the smallest provincial papers, follow that same pattern. They are published every day, and sell for 20 kopees (five cents).

We talked to seven newspaper editors during our trip, and found them extremely cooperative and a typical Russian newsman was Sa Pe I. M. Ainulin, editor of the Baku, Azerbaijan, Worker. Tha Worker has a circulation of 200,000 and a staff of 150 persons.

Editorials in the paper deal with "all questions of interest to the working class." Malenkov told us. He said he determined subjects for editorials by the "line of the Soviet press he is currently trying to 'educate' readers into a friendly attitude toward the United States."

"We try to give a picture in our papers against the American people," he said. "We are trying to build friendly relations between nations."

Baku is the historic critical of the American press. (Dana World)

Kilenyi Plays In Opperman Tonight at 8

Edward Kilenyi, Florida State University's virtuoso-professor of the School of Music will be featured at tonight's performance of the State Symphony at 8:15 in Opperman Music Hall.

Spokesmen for State Symphony sales said today season tickets for concerts have been sold out. Two concerts remain in the 1953-54series, they said.

Kilenyi will play the Concertgarian Fantasie for piano and orchestra, a music spokesmen said that this will be the second time playing to a respectfu audience of an expected 2000 persons. Strandinsky's Concerto in G Major by Bach and the program will be concluded with "Le Coq Sweet Death" and "Toccata in F Major."

There is an intermission, Fox will play "Petites Litanies de Jesu" by Grosbles-Bahin, "How Gladly Do I Welcome" by Brahms and "Prelude in the Nineteenth-fourth Psalm" in four parts by Brahms.

"Giga" by Rossi will open the third section of the program which will include "Very Slowly from Sonatina" by Sowerby and interpretive dances by the Chorale: "How Brightly Shines the Morning Star" by Reger.

Because it must be at his post as organist of the Riverside Church in New York City every Sunday, he flies thousands of miles each year, playing over eighty concerts per year.

Artist Series officials said that the box office would be open to meet his audience personally because he becomes personally acquainted with he plays."

Critic Lloyd Moore, critic of the Chicago Daily News said that "This youth proved that his claim to greatness is to put the organ on the musical map as a brilliant concert instrument." Fox made his debut as a concert organist at the age of 14 in Los Angeles. Now in his thirties, he has given concerts in many churches in America.

Series officials urge students to get tickets now since it is a real treasure to find standing room only at his concerts."

Virgil Fox, Famed Organist, Plays Tomorrow in Opperman

Virgil Fox, nationally-famous organist, will present an organ concert tomorrow night at 8:15 in Opperman Music Hall, according to officials of the Florida State University Artist Series. It will be co-sponsored by the Artist Series and the Tallahassee chapter of the American Guild of Organists.

Tickets for the performance are available at the University Bookstore in exchange for activity coupon number seven.

Fox has played for nearly all of the 200 regional chapters of the AGO, and has been soloist for the National Convention of the Guild five times. Ona was at the New York World's Fair, and is often on the largest organ in the world, located in Philadelphia.

The program he will be Handel's "Concerto Na. IV allegro moderato," to be followed by three Bach selections: "Prelude and Fugue in Case Sweet Death" and "Toccata in F Major."

FBLA Meets Here; Record Number Seen

The fourth annual convention of the Future Business Leaders of America, Florida Chapters is meeting on the campus today and tomorrow.

A record number of 300 high school students and faculty sponsors from high schools all over the state are expected to attend. The public is to be represented are: Auburndale High, Bradford High, Chipley High, Dade City High, Hillsborough County High, and Hillsborough High.

Jefferson High, Landon High, Miami Senior High, Ocala High, Pensacola High, Stuart High, Tomlinson Vocational High, and Wewahitchka High.

Guests from Greenville High, Dothan High, Bunnell High, Stetson University, and Rollins College will attend the convention.

The first session of the convention this afternoon will be mainly concerned with state business and introduction of candidates for state offices.

Vice-President of Florida State University Student Association, the group, and a picnic has been planned for the conventioners to follow that meeting.

The second session has been scheduled for tomorrow morning at which Miss Mary Pajunis, national president, will address the group. Mr. Charles E. Zoubek, shorthand expert, will give demonstrations on the shorthand.

Miss Pajunis has won a place of distinction in the typing world and had written a book on the world's typing championship.

Mr. Zoubek is also a shorthand teacher and recognized by a editor and co-author of the Gregg Shorthand. He combines high-speed writing with a working style of shorthand penmanship.

Banquet reservations have been made for Saturday night. The banquet will climax the convention with the election of 14 state officers to be installed to fill the offices of president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, reporter, and five state directors.

News Briefs

Dr. Smith Returns

Dr. Sara Louise Smith, Head Health Education Department, will return to FSU this weekend from the Southern District Meeting of the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation. The conference is being held in Miami, Florida through tomorrow. Dr. Smith is chairman of the College Health decision.

Seniors Interviewed

Any Seniors interested in working for the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company should attend a group meeting with Mr. D. T. Gunter, Jacksonville Branch according to Placement Office.

The meeting will be held at 203 Westcott on Monday and the following individual interviews will take place. Seniors desiring interviews should call Mr. Ruth Nelson at the Placement Office extension 5281.

Grandma Likes FSU

Grandma Moses or her publicity, "The Red Pencil" likes FSU so well she'll stay on through the week. Picture will be on view in the foyer of the University Art Gallery during

(Continued on Page 4)

McDonough Addresses Group On Tallahassee Architecture

By CLAUDE HARDEN

The style of architecture in Tallahassee "runs 30 to 50 years behind the times," Dr. Hall reported Seaboard and ports such as Charleston and Savannah," according to a talk by C. McDonough, professor in the Florida State University Art Department.

In a speech before the Tallahassee Rotary Club, McDonough gave a critical evaluation of Tallahassee's architecture. He said, "that until 1954, this city was not a modern city." He said at that time that the Capital Building was completed in 1845, and that it was scarcely populated and it served as a residential center for planters.

While other cities were busy building in the style of architecture known as Gothic, in Tallahassee buildings such as "The Grove" (1824) were being constructed in the Georgian style. Other buildings were only the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Collins, and a few others of its style, is recognized by only a center entrance and not the pillared, two-storied porches that came with the Georgian style. Hall reportedly lacked the styles of the Greeks and Romans.

Dr. McDonough accounted for this lag in the architectural style to the fact that the building in Tallahassee were probably built by the settlers coming from Maine and New England who moved south and copied the style of architecture with which they were familiar.

Editorials in the paper deal with "all questions of interest to the working class." Malenkov told us. He said he determined subjects for editorials by the "line of the Soviet press he is currently trying to 'educate' readers into a friendly attitude toward the United States."

"We try to give a picture in our papers against the American people," he said. "We are trying to build friendly relations between nations."

Baku is the historic critical of the American press. (Dana World)

Atlanta Journal Features Story On FSU's Famed Flying High

Florida State University's "Flying High," was featured in the Atlanta Journal and Constitution's Sunday magazine in a three-page color spread. The front cover displayed another "Flying High" scene.

"Thrill for thrill," stated the article, "Florida's famous college circus is as exciting as anything you ever saw under the big top."

One result of the story, titled "Florida's College Circus Is Coming to Georgia," according to Ona Wright, should be the larger attendance when the group makes a three stop tour to Valdosta March 17, Albany on March 26 and Columbus March 27.

The author was loud in praise of the rabutsil given by FSU to statements made by Mr. Robert M. Hutchins, formerly Chancellor of the University of Chicago, in an article published in a national magazine

In the circus story it was pointed out that Roy Flynn, of the Public Relations Office at FSU, declared that the University of Chicago actually had a circus of its own while Hutchins was chancellor. Flynn said that the circus had been "highly regarded" by Chicago social circles during that time, and that this the FSU circus, it was considered a student activity.

"We aren't in the business of training professional performers," Flynn added.

The author Clarence Sparks said that "These student performers work just for fun — No one stays in the circus if his class average falls below a 'C' however."

Attention was given to the acts of the show by the large colorful pictures of various performers. None of the acts were described in the article.

The type of writing was devoted to the value of "Flying High" to the students who themselves, whether in the circus or not. "Coach Bankhead first concern is that the boys and girls get all the good they can out of the circus."

"The circus has done as much as anything on the campus to unify and has given the college national publicity. But perhaps most important of all," Flynn says, unless it paid the handsome dividends it does to the academic standing of the

(Continued on Page 4)

Gunter Hospitalized

Dr. Herman Gunter, head of the Florida Geological Survey, recovered from an attack of pneumonia suffered while visiting in Baltimore, Maryland, recently.

Hospitalized in Baltimore for four days he will return home Sunday.

Sororities Meet In Grid Classic Early In March

By JOYCE POTTER

"Spring has arrived," but the sorenss ain't "it!" Wrapping cause the Pi Beta Phi's and Kappa Alpha Theta's have trampled over every little blade that has dared to show its face since the beginning of the semester.

March 6 at 2 p.m. is the eventful day when the age-old rivalry between the two sororities will be revived again. In the seventh section in the Powder Bowl Classic, the girls will battle it out till the end.

In the first six meetings, the Pi Phi's have only experienced defeats. They took the first game 18-0 in 1948. The Thetas wins came in 1949 when they reversed the original score and last year when they trampled the Pi Phis 32-6. The Pi Phi's won for three consecutive years from 1950 by him or choose not to release them at all.

Senator Halford, calling attention to Congress' proposed reduction in funds to the University, announced the proposed change would benefit students throughout the country. She asked that a committee be appointed to study the legislation before Congress and write letters to Florida legislators expressing the Student Senate's sentiments on a favorable chance. After discussion, the vote to do so was again voted a unanimous affirmative for the bill.

The Senate was named chairman of the committee Cobey Spurgeon, Carolyn Cone and Carolyn Cloe and Frank Shaw.

Stubbornly pushing for the passage of the bill the table, Halford won unanimous approval for the bill. The first two readings of Senate debate be heard by "The Florida Flambeau and Florida Alligator."

Bet Cooke was confirmed chairman of the Publicity and President Carothers' more recent appointment of Mary Stanfield, Senate Secretary as representative to the Judiciary Council was confirmed.

Senator Chris Young, claiming pressure of outside duties as the reason, resigned as chairman of the Senate's constitution committee.

The Senate declined to take

(Continued on Page 4)

Senate Approves SUSGA; Passes Grades Motion

Act To Recommend Release Of Grades Before Official Time

The Student Body Senate ratified Tuesday the proposed constitution of the Southern Universities Student Government Association, or SUSGA.

According to Studen' Body Presidem Milton Carothers, ratification is pending at the University of Alabama, University of Florida, and Auburn University. Emory University, he said, co-sponsor of SUSGA, has already ratified its constitution. Five schools must ratify before SUSGA is legally in existence.

Carothers said ratifica s SUSGA also established the membership of FSU's delegation to the annual conference. It will consist of the incumbent Student Body president, the president-elect or a member of the incumbent's cabinet appointed by the first Student Senate, one delegate from the student government and one from the student publications area. The appointments will be made by the incumbent president.

In other legislation the Senate recommended a substitute finance clause to replace one in the proposed revised Student Body constitution by the Faculty Committee on Studeng Affairs.

The Senate voted to recommend to the Board of Control the five students and five faculty members be set up to administer Alpha Theta Tau. The earlier clause had provided for complete student control.

Senator Ross unanimously passed a resolution, introduced by Gordan Gaskin, be recommended to the Faculty Senate that instructors be allowed to release final grades to students before the official registrar's reports were set.

Arguments against his proposed were centered on the theme that two deadlines would be delayed with students requesting their grades. Gaskar replied that due to the workload of his position each faculty member could release the final grades in the number of hours he or choose not to release them at all.

Senator Halford, calling attention to Congress' proposed reduction in funds to the University, announced the proposed change would benefit students throughout the country. She asked that a committee be appointed to study the legislation before Congress and write letters to Florida legislators expressing the Student Senate's sentiments on a favorable chance. After discussion, the vote to do so was again voted a unanimous affirmative for the bill.

The Senate was named chairman of the committee Cobey Spurgeon, Carolyn Cone and Carolyn Cloe and Frank Shaw.

Stubbornly pushing for the passage of the bill the table, Halford won unanimous approval for the bill. The first two readings of Senate debate be heard by "The Florida Flambeau and Florida Alligator."

Bet Cooke was confirmed chairman of the Publicity and President Carothers' more recent appointment of Mary Stanfield, Senate Secretary as representative to the Judiciary Council was confirmed.

Senator Chris Young, claiming pressure of outside duties as the reason, resigned as chairman of the Senate's constitution committee.

The Senate declined to take

(Continued on Page 4)

Educator Urges 'Lecture Role' Be Replaced By TV, Films

PRINCETON, N. J. (I.P.)—An impossible the personal teacher-student relationship which lies at the heart of the educational process.

Dr. Chamney indicated that in the classroom use the teacher would be able to carry a bigger student load, while quite possibly the benefit of three present classroom groups—and at the same time provide greater personal attention to the needs of the student. A further advantage, he said, would be the possible a "hand-tailored" course of study, specifically designed to meet the varied intellectual capacities and interests of the student.

At the same time, Dr. Chesney's report emphasized that the professor's job would be no easier under the new setup, nor require less training or professional skill. The new type of arrangement would not only make it possible for the teacher to function during the largest part of his activity at a level of the highest skill and insight which she has to offer, but would also provide a much greater opportunity for research which would demand that she function on this level."

Five Convicted Last Semester By Court

A total of five convictions in five cases were handed down by the Honor Court during the fall semester, according to Chief Justice Bill Hopkins.

Three other cases are now pending, involving stealing of test papers and cheating.

Three of last semester's cases involved cheating on examination themes. Two students received automatic F's in English 101 and 102 courses, and were liable for the second semester. The third student received an F for the academic and social probation.

Two students were tried and found guilty in the theft of term cards in women's physical education 101 classes. Both received automatic "F's" in the course and put on academic and social probation for the second semester.

Two co-eds were convicted for falsification of attendance records and were reassigned for two weeks.

In accordance with student body laws on court justice, the Honor Court will not release the names of the students involved, as given in the Flambeau at regular intervals.

Students Can Gain Understanding From Faith Week Including All

We feel an Intelligent Faith Week devoted to the ideal of acquainting students with the religious thought of their times is a noble ideal. Inasmuch as the annual programs have served this purpose, we have no criticism of them.

We do believe, though, that a program embracing all the major faiths of the campus would be more profitable. We should look to it as a possibility for the future.

Many students do not fully understand that Intelligent Faith Week at present does not relate to be an all-inclusive program. As pointed out by University Chaplain Sam Neel and Rabbi Julius Kravetz in letters to the editor today, there is a separate faith week program for Catholics, Protestant Christians and Jews at FSU. The one for Protestants is called Intelligent Faith Week.

There are obstacles in the way of a completely interdenominational week. Members of the various faiths themselves have objections to a joint program with others.

But we believe the need for such a program exists and that the obstacles are not insurmountable.

The United States was founded in part that various religious sects might have the right to worship in their own manner. That right has been widely exercised until today the nation is a rich interweaving of many faiths. But the very fact that there are so many faiths demands that people formerly isolated now learn to live together harmoniously.

The key to living together in peace with those who have different ideas from one's own is to understand these other ideas and viewpoints. Thus a yearly program on campus whereby students could learn about other faiths as well as learn more about their own would be a worthy contribution to good citizenship.

One argument used against the plan is that "a little knowledge is a dangerous thing." That is, religious leaders fear a student hearing about another religion might lose faith in his own. However, if there would be representatives of each major faith on campus during the week, puzzled students could go to representatives of their own faiths with their questions.

Doubtless the various religions could find numerous reasons for not participating, but we think the reasons in favor of the program outweigh those against, it. Such a plan need not supplant the more detailed teachings of each faith but would supplement them and help the student gain an understanding outlook.

We know that interdenominational programs are conducted elsewhere with success. National Brotherhood Week is observed in Florida both at Gainesville and at Miami with Catholics, Protestants and Jews participating.

We know from Dr. Neel's letter today that he would favor such a broadened program. We know that President Campbell has given his blessings to the idea. We also would urge representatives of the various faiths to think seriously and forward the future, to iron out their differences and look toward a truly campus-wide intelligent faith week.

Letters to the Editor . . .

Misses Point

To the Editor

The editorial "Non-Protestant wants others Represented" which appeared in the Flambeau of February 23, finds fault with the Program of FSU Intelligent Faith Week because the non-Protestant faiths are not represented. This criticism arises from a lack of information.

As a member of the FSU Religious Workers Council I can say that it has been the feeling of the majority of our members that the raison d'etre of religious education and interfaith understanding on the campus are served more effectively if each religious group is given a free hand to develop its program and bring it to the students. Protestantism, Catholicism and Judaism have developed large bodies of doctrine that are relevant to the problems of the individual and of society, and we ought to proceed on the assumption that college students are sufficiently mature to desire a more detailed exposition of each religious tradition and would be responsible in the ordinary interfaith program a number of Protestant scholars and ministers, by examination the different facets of the Protestant ethic, would aid these students to grasp the contributing of that quarter of Christianity. During another week the contribution of Catholicism would be assured by authoritative Catholic spokesmen. The Jewish Chautauqua Society sends Rabbis to university campuses all over the country, and during the Jewish Chautauqua week these lecturers speak to classes and informal gatherings on the different phases of Judaism.

I have served as director of the Hillel Foundation on this campus since 1947 and I can say that the University Chaplain, the Administration and the Religious Workers at the various denominational houses have been most co-operative in encouraging the Jewish Chautauqua program. I am sure that spokesmen for Islam and Buddhism, Hinduism and Confucianism would also find a hospitable reception on the part of the authorities.

"Intelligent Faith Week" happens to be the period devoted to the Protestant interpretation of Christianity. Perhaps another title must be more judicious, but since the program itself is clearly defined and does not pretend to be all-inclusive, to find fault with it on the ground that it is not all-inclusive is to beg the question and to overlook its positive virtues.

JULIUS KRAVETZ.

Adds 'Amen'

To The Editor

As University Chaplain, I would like to add a good solid "Amen" to Tuesday's editorial entitled, "Non-Protestant Wants Others Represented." I am convinced that the University should devote at least a part of every academic year to a consideration of the place of intelligent faith in the life of an American citizen. At present time, I am equally convinced that the speakers for Intelligent Faith Week should include representatives from at least the major faiths represented in organized religion on campus, the Protestant, the Roman Catholic and the Jewish.

Because of this latter conviction, I, and the Rabbi and the Father Amiro, our local priest, and Rabbi Kravetz, our local rabbi, decided to find that the above organizations would provide us with speakers for the 1954 Intelligent Faith Week. Father Amiro is very much interested and has agreed to find for 1954 suggested that perhaps the Catholics should plan a Newman Week, and not Intelligent Faith Week. Rabbi Kravetz, who has provided speakers for Jewish Education Week for a number of years, felt that the Jewish week should be kept separate from the Catholic week just to contribution to participate in an Interfaith Week.

The Protestant Chain of Missions has no objections to coming in the Inter-Faith Week. In fact, the team which is at FSU this week and at the University of Miami last week and both the Jewish and Roman Catholic authorities provided speakers for that week.

For clarification, let me point out that much time and effort is spent in financing the week. Every penny is paid for by the Protestant organizations which have students on campus. The Jewish Chautauqua Society will provide speakers as soon as they are notified that the Intelligent Faith Week, and indications are that Roman Catholic representatives will be provided for the near future.

It is the objective of the Hebraic-Christian tradition in recent centuries has been the achievement of a world community among men of all races and faiths. This week the fervent prayer and hope that Intelligent Faith Week at FSU will always make progress toward that objective.

Sincerely yours,
SAMUEL R. NEEL, JR.
University Chaplain.

Misinterprets

Editor, The Flambeau:

Mr. Younatzan in his letter has presented an opposite point of view from mine very competently. I must object two things in it, however—first, the suggestion that I am an ethnocentrical, and second, that I presume Americans as cultural missionaries whose goal must be the destruction of a multicultural world.

What I actually said at the American Studies seminar, as I recall, was that ethnocentrism is an element common to all cultures—whether aboriginal Crow Indian or modern American—and is also universal.

It is possible to evaluate cultures on such objective bases as the amount of work producing machinic energy available per capita, the amount of cultural goods produced, the efficiency of defense against enemies, infant mortality rates, and the life span of the people. This is an objective evaluation from planetary criteria. The values in themselves are derived from a general valuation of the life function of culture—to produce subsistence, shelter, defense, and, other, to the end that the species may live. This is not ethnocentrism even though, on the basis of these criteria the American culture comes out very well indeed.

The second misunderstanding is regrettable. As an anthropologist, my interest is in cultural variation and its causes, not the propagation of any system.

Having cleared up these misunderstandings, I ought not have arisen because the Flambeau's report was a fair one—and because the writer was open to anyone interested in other cultures as well as his own. I should like to add that I think that Mr. Younatzan's admirable statement of his position is entirely in accord with that of many anthropologists. It is grounded in good will, inspiration and confusion.

While it may be a warm-up-comforting belief that cultural differences including the political, arise in the minds and hearts of men and are to be understood by the examination of individual psyches, it is hardly borne out by the facts. It is, as a matter of fact, delusive and dangerous.

Mr. Younatzan really believes, for instance, that mistrust of Russia is largely built on ignorance, he has reached an unenviable state of Nirvana—he not already so by those charged with defending this country from its attack. Actually, this is a consequence of his remoteness from what is in his heart: He has apparently not yet learned war (neither do any of us) therefore war has lost its significance.

If he is convinced that love and good-will are going to be agents for the development of world government in the future they have certainly not been so in the past., more power to him. He might recall, however, that the two largest international political organizations thus far, the League of Nations and the United Nations, both arose as the result of wartime collaboration among Allies, and not in practice, when presumably there was more love and good-will about than during the wars. And in heaven part of the world, common military action against Israel and anti-British sentiment have been at least as great unifiers of the undertakings of sovereign governments as good-will and sympathetic insight.

ROBERT ANDERSON.

The Florida Flambeau

BRUCE GALPHIN—Editor

Al Pierce, News Editor — Bob Folsom, Managing Editor

Feature Editor ..... Jayleen Robertson
Campus Editor ..... Cindy Alonso
Sports Editor ..... Bill Edwards
Rewrite Editors ..... Oscar Johnson, Martin Dickman
Sports Writers ..... Art Kennerly, Bob Gelber
Photographer ..... Dick Rauleler

Copy Editors: Sylvia Parrish, Dick Victory, David Davis
Copy Editors: Joe Caldwell
Junior Staff ..... Dot Thomasson, Mary Elizabeth Hall, Betty Bishop, Lona Cochran, Barbara Bachman, Joyce Potter, Franklin Adams

Art Consultant ..... Bill Hasvold

NANCY LOWE—Business Mgr.
Al Markovitz, Advertising Mgr.

Business Staff ..... Mary Wogan, Virginia Vaughn
Advertising Soliciting ..... Exchange Editor ..... Pat Robson
Exchange Staff ..... Lil Hasvold
Distribution ..... Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity

Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity, Sigma, Gamma Alpha Chi.

Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y.

Telephone 2 8000, extension 4821
Room 213 Longmire Building

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University.

Member Associated Collegiate Press

Member Intercollegiate Press

Let It Be Said

By DICK VICTORY
Doctor, Lawyer, Indian Chief
Rich Man, Poor Man, Beggarman, Thief
Each can choose his own doom
Who cares? It's all told on his tomb

I think I must agree with whoever said the effects of mixing friends are much more treacherous than those derived from mixing drinks.

This premise is especially important when we consider mixing our intellectual and non-intellectual friends. To me, there is a definite place for each and the important thing is knowing where that place is. It is obvious that their place is not together.

I should think that no one will deny that it is very enlightening to have both kinds of associations. When we consider these two extremes, we usually do it from the pseudo-intellectual standpoint. The majority of people in college are pseudos, one way or another, but especially pseudo-intellectual.

Here's an illustration in the form of a conversation between an intellectual and a non-same.

Intellect: I must say, that senator fellow is shaking this country's progress like a volcano shakes the very earth. Yes, his investigations are like lava flowing over the tender-up-turned fruits of humanity. Lava, indeed."

Non-Intellect: "Whataya, stupid? What does soap have to do with all this?"

Intel: "You have a point. Too bad it's on your head. But on second thought, soap will ever cleanse the harm his filthy mind has conceived."

Non-Intellect: "So Mac needs a brain-washing, does he? You're nuts. It's Americans like him that are taking us where we're going today."

Intellect: "Yes, I know."

Non-Intell: "You know quite a bit, don't you wise guy? It's guys like you that started all this trouble in the first place."

Intellect: "Let's change the subject, shall we?"

Non-Intell: "Oh, don't have the guts to stand up for what you believe, huh? But if you want to change the subject to something important, try U. K. What do you think about the Marilyn Monroe question?"

Intellect: "I didn't think there was any question about it."

Dear Mama Seminole

Dear Mama Seminole,

Many years ago Blackfoot tribe brought to Seminole Reservation to work for Seminole. Then Apalachee tell Seminole no like; so fight Semilachee war. Apalachee win, make Blackfoot Seminole. Seminole lose dignity, look down on Blackfoot and keep Blackfoot down for many years.

Now Apalachee calls for mix of Seminole and Blackfoot. Seminole make big fuss, say Blackfoot culture inferior. Seminole claim Blackfoot have own tepees and receive equal rights from Seminole tribal council.

Does Seminole Apalachee fight side by side over council representation. Now Blackfoot people maybe want representation? Seminole say opportunity now exist for Blackfoot representation? Blackfoot say—like hemp fuel.

Years ago big tepee made for Seminole. Blackfoot want in. Seminole say we build you tepee. Blackfoot say now—no more tepee? Seminole say, taksim way—we fixum up. Blackfoot say, we hear big talk before.

Chiefa council sit on question. Old warriors say, nothing; braves say, mix or equalize; young braves say mix? Trend read like book. Whose book—council read.

Squaw driver blow horn. Car no move. Brave in front car say need to push at 35 m.p.h. to start car with Semilo trains. Brave wait. Brave wait. Brave wait. Squaw no push. Brave look back! Here come squaw at 35 mp.h.

Love all,
George Seminole.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS — by Dick Bibler

CAMPUS CARAVAN

On Keepsakes, Cabbages And Kings

By BEVERLY LACAYO

"Will the Student Body get its new constitution?"

"Will Tallahassee go legally wet, finally?"

"Who is going to be Dean of Student Welfare?"

"Will Sputnik and U of F plan a football game for next year?"

"Will Westcott Auditorium ever be finished?"

"Will gas be so far out west governor, and how much dirt will be dug up before he gets out?"

"Will some kind soul let Pete Dimkoff know that he owes it to the student body to run for President?"

"Will Pete Schenck spread ever get a five-thousand dollar budget?"

"Will Carlisle Floyd give the campus the benefit of his third opera?"

"What's going to happen to Martin Dyckman?"

"Will Hemingway get to be editor of the New York Times?"

"Will Ernie Pyle get a picture of the ruins of the University Grill and Soda Shoppe?"

An old clipping from the Talla-hassee Democrat telling of the removal of "Prep for Marriage" classe from the FSU curriculum —the legislature didn't approve.

A mimeographed sheet claiming Gene Lawler as the only worthy candidate for legislative affairs; and here's a gem: "Take no chances, vote for Barbara" and a poster for Jeff Davis.

A bag full of cigarette butts with the inscription "Poor Stevenson, he was too old to psy, but it hurt too much to laugh"—that must have come from Jens Tale's all night election party.

And a photograph of Florida Flambeau clippings: "Columbia Claims negroes Attending FSU" . . . "Edna and Lil Transmit Asked to Resign," "Reverend Speaks Tuesday at Florida State", "Review Board Votes Secretary of Labor Bill," "Senate Fails to Confirm Acting Editor."

Dedoe material: a case outline for a New International Organization, a United Nations Charter, and the writing; file it must return that! Also, my first grades from FSU—those days of A's. A campus campaign program from June 1951—ay, the Board of Control and Deferments used to have a lot of grandsies! A note from Margret Kassandra Jones, a former history class. "Dear Bev, I met a real cute FSU Polish girl named Marlies Oessler. . . . We got together and give her a party as her family is being sponsored as a freshman here."

A program from Jens Conyers doing the Charleston at a third floor Landis pajama party. A newspaper clipping about Dr. Ira-sensory Perception distributed by the Physics Club. A set of notes from Differential Equations (shudder). A napkin from Hazel Richard's Mortar Board Breakfast—coffee and whipped cream—hmm.

"Dear Bev: As the saying goes . . . 'you can't take it with you'". But I'm not burying stock in old sayings this time. I'm taking it all with me, and then some.

THE POINT IS

Letter To Jefferson (That Subversive)

By BOB FOLSOM

In 1787 Thomas Jefferson wrote that if he had to choose between government without newspapers or newspapers without government "I should not hesitate a moment to prefer the latter."

Well, Thomas, what would you say now that your writings have been banned from mailing privileges by the U. S. Information Service? The above is only a little piece we remember from your writings. We would you still write something as subversive as that? Well it is! you in on something. Thomas, nowadays you just can't go around and say what you please and writing what you want to. Why, in the Fifth Amendment someone is constantly waiting for you just around the corner.

But perhaps you realize your writings were banned was the fault of the Federalists. Fame whose only note to posterity will be that he compiled them. Well, Thomas, we realize we are that long list of fugitives under the Fifth Amendment. Thomas, it is State Department policy to remove all books from shelves by persons who invoke this Fifth Amendment. Don't need the Fifth Amendment look then, but it is a handy thing now. That is irrelevant, Thomas.

Figure it this way, Thomas. This man Foner invoked the Fifth Amendment. Now we are another he must have had Communist affiliations by golly. It follows that he world gather all your writings that were subversive and burn them. Don't you know, that even though you are a subversive Democrat, architect, inventor and third President of the United States, because of your Declaration of Independence, that you have written subversive stuff. Subversive topics. We don't know whether to forgive you or not, but perhaps you realize that that 167 years later someone would come along and gather up all your stuff that is detrimental to our cultural times, and eventually get it banned.

We don't know exactly how many books of yours were banned—these days there's the main vogue and are covered up easy—but suppose all of your writings are condemned. See here many disillusioned school children would have to be taught who saved those school children and the rest of us is named after some old dead governor met. Thomas. He's a senator from Wisconsin, who, since four years ago, has been busy on a sniffing out Communists in our government.

In February, 1950 he was quite obscure but what happened in February, 1954 made it the big gun in the Republican party. Now, after just a couple of weeks ago, the Senate voted 81-to-1 to back Mr. McCarthy's move to continue his investigation for another year. A senator from Arkansas, a state that wasn't in the book when you were out the only negative vote. He just might get his name, too.

Well, McCarthy is the man that is keeping us from Communism, Treason and Subversion. You're not the first, Thomas, and not the last to be called that. Because all you subversive out, 1984, here we come.

ETCETERA ETCHINGS

Showbiz Fights: Funny And Not-So

By DAVID DREIS

Sometimes rivalry can build popularity to such heights that if ever the competition and cracks were dropped, the character of the two rivals would appear to be changed. Sometimes for real and other times for jest.

Perhaps the funniest rivalry in the biz was between Bob Hope and Bing Crosby with the wisecracks flying back and forth between "moneybags" and "big nose." When Hope played Sportsman, the Washington state town of the greatest, Hope was cracked, "Spokane is famous for two things: Bing Crosby's home and the fact that Crosby no longer lives here." Other Hope jokes about his best friend's business partner and golf rival run like this: "Crosby's a great guy. When he takes off his girdle, he has it all over everybody. Crosby's been around a long time. Last time he lit the candles of his birthday cake he almost barbecued the ceiling. Eighteen holes with him aren't so long as they used to be since Bing added a side-car to his wheel-chair."

Another hot rivalry which stirred almost as much had weekly programs was the rivalry of Fred Allen and Jack Benny. Allen called Benny "tightwad" and the character Benny finally poked fun at Allen's beagy eyes. The quips and verbal barbs in each radio series. Since Allen has switched to quizzes on video, the feuding and remarks about his old pal.

Walter Winchell's many remarks about the bandleader Ben Bernie became pretty hot at one time with Bernie's jibes about his Sunday night stint and even today people wonder whether the bitterness was really hitter for on the day Bernie died, Winchell dedicated his column and his program to the star with a touching tribute written and spoken in only W. W. could do it.

One rivalry which is not funny is that between Molly-

"Bing added a side-car to his wheel-chair."

Another hot rivalry which stirred almost as much had weekly programs was the rivalry of Fred Allen and Jack Benny. Allen called Benny "tightwad" and the character Benny finally poked fun at Allen's beagy eyes. The quips and verbal barbs in each radio series. Since Allen has switched to quizzes on video, the feuding and remarks about his old pal.

Walter Winchell's many remarks about the bandleader Ben Bernie became pretty hot at one time with Bernie's jibes about his Sunday night stint and even today people wonder whether the bitterness was really hitter for on the day Bernie died, Winchell dedicated his column and his program to the star with a touching tribute written and spoken in only W. W. could do it.

One rivalry which is not funny is that between Molly-wood's brightest young lovers," Piper Laurie and Tony Curtis. Before Tony met Janet Leigh, he was romancing off the screen with Miss Laurie. Then, while she still had the hots for him, he wooed hyper. In the new U-I film, JOHNNY DARK, their third role together, the duo have their backs on each other just as soon as the director calls "Cut," Aawl.

Rock Hudson repeatedly asks his studio to lay off casting Lilli with Yvonne De Carlo. They literally hate each other, but they're too good for the box office as a team. Shelley Winters is in the process of divorcing Vic Oseman, but because of a previous picture commitment must make a film with him.

But whether real or phoney, the rivalries make good 'copy' for the writer and good entertainment for the listener or in favor of them . . . nothing like a good old-fashioned fight. Eh, coach?

From The Sidelines

By Ken Kingery

Flambeau Sports Editor

The Florida State Seminoles left yesterday to face their most serious test of the season in Athens, Ga.

The Mermen, holders of a winning string of 12, will face the very powerful Georgia Bulldogs this Saturday night. Coach Tom Stultz' Seminoles defeated the Southeastern Bulldogs in January by the score of 49-35. The teams established seven new Florida State pool and school records as FSU took a 5-4-1 edge in the series.

Several things will hurt the swimmers this meet, and perhaps the main one is the loss of star sprinter John Baruch. "John is the one man we needed to have a successful team," this is what Coach Stultz had to say about the coming meet.

Other things have also hurt the boys for the encounter in Georgia. Three front-line men—Georgia Cooper, star backstroker, Sprinter "Hawk" Lurie and Tood Rhoton—are nursing severe colds.

Georgia will be relying on All-American Reid Patterson, SEC 50 and 100 yard freestyle champion, and Hal Stolz for most of its points.

The Georgia AAU's will be held the next night, Florida State will wrestle alone with the U of F and Miami University.

Then again on Monday the FSU boys will travel to Atlanta to meet the Emory University team and with very little rest they will swim Kentucky in Tallahassee Wednesday night.

Track Team Atlantic Coast Meet

Seven freshmen and two juniors of the Seminole's inexperienced track squad left early Thursday for their first meet of the season. The meet will be held at the University of North Carolina in Saturday, February the 27th.

Decathlon prospect Carlos Fraundorfer, former Tampa Hillsborough stand-out, distance runner from Lewisburg, Pa. and Frosh weight man Mike "The Man" Smith from La Farie, Ind. will enter the con-conference division of the games. The other six, man making the trip will compete in the freshman division, open by invitation to both conference and non-conference frosh.

According to Coach Ken Miller, his six freshman entries have an outside chance for the division championship, even without the help of Smith and Florida High School sprint champion, Bob Holden, who dropped from school just before Christmas. Jimmy Sewell, 1953 Georgia quarter-mile champion, will enter the 60 yd. dash, and the anchor leg on the mile relay team. Half-miler Larry Hutcha, former New York SAC athlete, will compete in the three-quarter mile run, and will be lead-off man on the mile relay team. Joe Davis, Orlando sprinter is entered in the 60 yd. dash, the 70 yd. low hurdles, and the mile relay. Former Ft. Myers all-around athlete, Charles Watson, will fill the fourth slot in the mile relay, and will also enter both the 70 yd. low hurdles and the 70 yd. high hurdles. Tenney Brown of Bradenton is entered in both the hurdle races and in his specialty, the high jump. Newcomer Lloyd Raven, promising South Bend, Indiana high jumper will round out the freshman team.

(Editor's note: Look for the coming editorials on Florida State University and Florida University athletic relationships. Newly compiled data has brought many favorable reports to our office, and will be printed soon.)

Due to repeated requests by CANDLELIGHT DANCE
Florida, the Flambeau is again The Florida State University listing the change of spring va- Student Center will be site of an cation policy as reported by the informal candlelight dance to-Registrar's office. morrow night, according to
According to Registrar Charles spokesmen of Alpha Tau Omega Walker, there will be no spring and Alpha Xi Delta, men's and vacations on April 1-5. Instead, women's Greek letter organiza-
as bulletin states, the Easter va- tions here.
cation will be extended one day. Sponsored by the two organi-
This makes the Easter vaca- zations, the dance will feature tion as follows, from noon on juke-box music, from 8 to 12 to-
Thursday, April 15, to 8 a.m. morrow night. All are invited,
Monday, April 26. according to the spokesmen.

Interns!

Graduating in June?
Leaving for Internship Soon?

Don't Forget . . . Order Graduation Announcements Now

At University Bookstore

IT WILL BE TOO LATE WHEN YOU RETURN TO CAMPUS

walking's a breeze in Style-eez Easy Goers

9.95

AAAA to B Sizes: 4 to 12

Turner's

- Navy
- Red
- Beige
- Tan
- Green
- Black

Swedish Champs To Face FSU Gymkana

Holder, Lecuona And Miles Lead Team Drive Here Saturday Night At East Campus Gym

By BOB GUTTING

Tomorrow night at the East campus gym an International gym meet will be held between the Swedish Olympic team and Florida State's Gymkana team.

The Swedish team, composed of eight Olympic men and five additional Swedish National champions, will compete against members of Gymkana that include Olympic men Don Holder and Rafael Lecuona, and National rings champ Jack Miles.

The meet is expected to open at 8 p.m. with an overture by the University Pep Band. Following will be the events listed below in order.

OPENING FLAG ceremony by the Swedish gymnasts.

R. O. T. C. Color Guard and the U. S. gymnasts.

PLAYING of both national anthems. Gymnasts from both countries will be in formation facing each other.

HIGH VAULT AND VAULTING, an exhibition by the Swedish gymnasts.

LONG HORSE. U. S. participants will be Jim Fadigan, Rafael Lecuona, Jack Miles, Don Holder, and Benny Wallace. Participating for the Swedish team will be Lindh and Staaten.

CALISTHENICS. Holder, Lecuona and Miles vs. Staaten, Lindh and Thoressson. This event will undoubtedly be monopolized by the Swedish team.

SIDE HORSE. Joe Regna and Lecuona vs. Erickson, Wizarts and Staaten. The Semiloles are expected to give the Swedish team some trouble here.

HIGH BAR. Holder, Lecuona and Carmine Regna vs. Carlson, Moberg and Staaten. The Swedish team has the edge in this one, but there will probably be strong Seminole competition.

PARALLEL BAR. Lecuona, Holder and Carmine Regna vs. Staaten, Lundgren and Lindh. This one will probably be taken by Sweden without too much trouble.

STILL RINGS. Joe Regna, Holder and Joe Taylor vs. Carlson, Lindh and Straaten. This will be another close one. Dr. Price is counting heavily on Joe Taylor to swing this event in favor of the Seminoles.

Closing the meet will be an exhibition of synchronized calisthetics by the Swedish gym team.

Although this is only an exhibition match with the Swedish team it could very well be a win. Dr. Price's Gymkana team is expected to offer the strongest opposition any encountered by this famed assembly of Swedish champs.

Pictured above is the Swedish Gym Team that will invade FSU Friday for their meet here at the East Campus Gym Saturday.

Park Service Lists New Developments

The National Park Service is to be placed there, the first of moving into a phase of the Everglades National Park development in which nearly $250.000 will be spent on converting various sections of Florida into centers for fishing and sightseeing parties, according to a recent announcement.

First on the list is Flamingo, a village on the southernmost coast of Florida. The announcement said that "Model-type overnight accommodations for tourists are such facilities in this giant reservation, but these will be built by concessionaires and not with federal funds." Flamingo was selected partly because it is near the site of the Everglades National Park headquarters.

Also in the development program for the year is a $50,000 expansion of the FM radio system and not with In all the park will get $489,000 during the year.

Soccer Team to Face Marianna Here Sunday

The International Soccer team captained by Eduardo del Risco will entertain the powerful Marianna team this Sunday afternoon at 3 at the FSU soccer field.

Captain del Risco said "Our soccer team will play one of our toughest opponents next Sunday." This team from Marianna is considered one of the best teams in Florida, and will be a true test for the young up and coming Internationals.

The line up for the game will be Berth, goalie; Derhovanessian and Esber as the backs; McGlynn, Vela, Deena in the half position. The forward slots will be Lepien, Del Risco, Sert, Marks and B. Silvey.

The Internationals recently changed their name from the FSU Soccer Team because the University is not sponsoring them.

SENIOR CLASS MEETS

Senior class officials announced this week that there will be a Senior Class Council Meeting March 4 in South Seminole at 5:45 p.m.

Plans for graduation and the Senior class project will be discussed. Entertainment is planned.

FSU Highnetters Win Round Robin At Knoxville Tenn.

The Seminole volleyball team returned to the campus last Monday after they won the annual Smoky Mountain Tournament in Knoxville, Tenn. The annual affair is a round-robin tournament with the best teams in several states attending.

FSU and Knoxville ended all tied up with 11 wins and 3 defeats apiece to tie for first place. In the play-off for the championship, the Seminoles won a thrilling and hard-fought battle 15-13.

BY WINNING THE CHAMPIONSHIP GAME, THE FLORIDA STATE "HIGHNETTERS" HAVE ONCE AGAIN SET VOLLEYBALL HISTORY. THEY ARE THE FIRST COLLEGE TEAM TO WIN THE SMOKY MT. TOURNAMENT, WHICH IS COMPOSED OF THE BEST OPEN A. A. U. COMPETITION IN THAT AREA.

Entries included teams from Cincinnati and Dayton, Ohio; Knoxville and Oak Ridge, Tenn.; Birmingham, Ala.; and Richmond, Va. Coach "Wild Bill" Odenesl's team came through this rough bracket with flying colors to win their second tournament of the season.

The Seminole volleyball squad played their best form of ball so far this year; however, according to Coach Odenesl, "the boys are still lax on their defense, and we must iron this out before we reach our top form."

All-American Howie Gould led the team in total kills during the tournament with 94 followed by Len Kaczmarek with 77.

Under the superb captaincy of set-up man Stan Humphries, the team won 12 games while losing only 3. Captain Humphries displayed outstanding sportsmanship throughout the tournament, and turned in one of his finest jobs as set-up man during his volleyball career at FSU.

Much credit is to be given to freshman Bertie McCann, who has very rapidly developed into an offensive threat to opposing teams. McCann's excellent playing was very instrumental in leading Florida State to the trophy.

Others making the trip and participating in the victory were Ray Johnson, Arnold Bobson, Billy Cox, Jack Howard, Joel Carter, Harold Stone, Jack Lewis and Phil Staten.

This weekend Coach "Wild Bill" Odenesl is taking his 12-man traveling squad to Davidson, N. C. in high hopes of gathering in another trophy, and adding more volleyball history. The Seminole team will be competing in the Southeastern Intercollegiate Tournament. This is the first time this tournament has been held.

You'll Enjoy

DANCING

to the Superlative

Quintones

EVERY SATURDAY

Floridan Hotel

FOOD . . . . At It's Best!

NOW! Two Places to Serve You
Our Famous Dinners and Sandwiches!

1312 W. TENNESSEE — 1804 S. MONROE

Famous For Chicken

CHICKEN ½ Fry Faiver Style $1.25

CHICKEN ¼ Fry Faiver Style 75c

Foot-Long Hot Dogs 25c

Jumbo Hamburgers 50c

FAIVER'S

OPEN 8 A. M. TO 12 P. M.

Hot Dog!

Let's Eat At the AMBER HOUSE

. . . cruising down the river

You'll find a visit to the House of Gifts is every bit as pleasant as a cruise down the river. Through our wide selection of novelties and gifts for any occasion you'll discover a new field of ideas.

You'll fall in love with out Slumber Pals, gay companions for your room. Rabbits, swans, ducks, dogs, lambs and cats in bright colors, excellent for decorating your bed. They're musical too, if you wish. Come see them!

"Tallahassee's Largest Selection of Greeting Cards"

House of Gifts

IT'S ALL A MATTER OF TASTE

News Briefs

(Continued From Page 1)
normal safety hours through Sunday February 28

New Bulletin Board

University Recreation Association has a new bulletin board in front of the Student Center. This is to be used by clubs, departments and organizations on campus. Since students go to the post office many times, the need for a bulletin board was evident. All organizations are asked to use this board.

Groups wishing to use this board, contact Charlotte West at 324 Landon Box 1379 The bulletin board will be locked at all times.

Dance Group Elects

Phil Theater Dance Group recently elected new officers, according to spokesmen. New President of the group is Betty Gooch. Other officers include Libby Ferguson, vice-president; Katherine Hurtley, secretary; Marcia Fletcher, publicity; Lucille Turman, producer manager; and Audry McCall costumes.

New members are: Betsy Pinkerton, Cheney Sanderson, Norma Carole Coston, Alva Barbara Henderson, Jane Reed, Jean Wilson, Don Rapp, Dona Randall, Lola Yarbrough, Janet Craft, Ed Franklin, Richard Puckett, Jim Padzian, and Bob Brady states spokesmen.

Geological Society to Have Speaker

"Petroleum Operations and Procedures in the Middle East," will be the topic of the main address to be given to the meeting of the Southeastern Geological Society, today in room 12 of the Geological building.

Dr. Roy Wilson, professor of Geology at Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida, and formerly with the Gulf Production Company will speak on operations in the Middle East as the principal speaker for the evening.

Lawler Is Consultant

Dr. Eugene S Lawler, School of Education, was the consultant at a Parent-Teacher Association study council held at Kate Sullivan School this week. Its purpose was to better understand the local school system.

Study course is a requirement of all PTA's. It was cooperative with all the groups in the country. Problems of and the responsibilities of parents and the school board were discussed.

Professors to Serve

Dr. Lloyd M Beidler, associate professor of physiology, and Dr. Samuel L. Meyer head of botany, of PSU have accepted the invitation from the National Research Council to serve as members of the National Science Foundation Predoctoral Fellowship Biweekly Panel in the Biological Sciences.

Journal Prints Culture Article By Professors

The "Florida Anthropologist," quarterly of the Florida Anthropological Society has sent carries two articles by Dr. Hale Smith and Dr. Robert Anderson, both of the Florida State University Department of Anthropology.

The papers, first presented before the Florida Academy of Sciences at Rollins College earlier this year, deal with another archeological topics of today.

Dr. Anderson, in his paper entitled "Some Relations of Geography and Cultural Anthropology," finds that geographers recognize a "dualism" in their field resting on methodological grounds. This he says, manifests a schism in anthropology which "finds on the one hand the culture in terms of the behavior of human beings . . . and those who deal with culture as a self-contained class of events separable from his organic carriers and who extract the cultural aspect, thus defined, from the totality of human behavior"

Dr. Smith's paper on "The Development of Cultures in Northeast America' bears witness to the rise of civilization in Middle America and Peru and the European nuclear, semi-nomadic agriculturist and sedentary agricultural stages.

"These cultures, Smith writes, "like all others reached their maximum development with the technological system they possessed when disrupted because of European intervention."

Department Gives Sophocles' Tragedy

"Oedipus the King," Sophocles famed tragedy, will be read at the Coffee Hour at 4:30 p.m. today at Westminster House, according to Lee Pryor, graduate candidate in English, and today's director.

Pryor will read the part of the blinded Theban king. Oedipus. Other leading parts will be read by Rollins and theater students the Robert Straine (Creon); Forrest Altman (Tiresias); Nancy Dickinson (Jocasta) and Ebelle Wright (the messenger). Choral parts will be taken by other students.

Another Greek tragedy, the "Electra" of Euripides, was produced for two years ago at the Bridgewater College in Virginia.

Pryor said that plans are being made to record the reading since "Oedipus the King" is included in the Humanities course here and that the public is invited. There will be no charge

Church News

EPISCOPAL

Ruge Hall is planning its own Mardi Gras, John Cooper, President of the Ruge Hall Vestry, has announced the annual Shrove Tuesday Pancake Supper. It will be held in Ruge Hall at 635 W. Jefferson St. The time will be Tuesday March 2, 6 to 8 p.m. Tickets are 50 cents and may be purchased from the Vestry or members of the Canterbury Club.

"The Head of Christ," an original piece of sculpture by Dr. Fredrick O. Holschuh of the Florida State University Art Department, will be unveiled at Ruge Hall Sunday evening.

Dr. Holschuh will be the guest of the Canterbury Club at a supper. The unveiling will take place after the supper, about 7:30 p.m.

The piece of sculpture will remain in the Ruge Hall Chapel during the Lenten season as a part of the hall's cultural program. Last year the cultural program included an original oil painting of Christ.

METHODIST

Methodist students who wish to become members of the Wesley Foundation are invited to attend the Sunday school hour. This affiliation service will be at 9:45 a.m. on Sunday, March 7.

The Rev. Austin Holliday will be the principal speaker at the Methodist Fellowship Hour, following supper at the Wesley Foundation on Sunday.

The Methodist Men's Club will hold it's first meeting of the month the new year at the Wesley Foundation on Monday March 1, at 6 p.m. An informal buffet supper will be served, and plans and goals for the new semester will be discussed. The men's club is non-denominational.

HILLEL

"What Is Brotherhood?" is the theme of the Hillel Foundation's special Brotherhood Week service tonight. Student speakers are Wallace Dynes, Wesley Foundation; Jerry Blum, Canterbury Club, and Allan Cordish of the Hillel Foundation. The services will be held at 8 p.m. in the Temple Israel.

CHRISTIAN

Dr. Sara Neal, Florida State University chaplain, will be guest speaker at the 11 a.m. service of the Christian Church of Winter Haven this Sunday.

The Student Fellowship will meet at 6 p.m. Members of the group will lead a panel discussion on the topic "Truth and Alcohol."

CATHOLIC

Sunday is Founder's Day for the Newman Club. A program in honor of John Henry Newman has been planned Charles Jacobs vice president of the club will speak on Newman's life and work. Dancing will follow the program.

The first in a series of weekly Chickery Hours was held at the Newman House Tuesday from 3:30 to 5:00 p.m. The second chickery hour will be Herbert Lacayo, Associate Professor of Modern Languages, Mrs Lacayo, and foreign students. Chairmen of the Chickery Hour were Betty Collins, Elizabeth Hendricks, Barbara Rynski, and Charles Cunningham.

DELTA ZETA ELECTS

Last Monday night the PSU chapter of Delta Zeta elected their officers for the 1954-1955 year. They are Martha Garret, President. Corrie Simmons, 1st Vice-president, Rose Howard, 2nd Vice-president; Betty Strunk, Recording Secretary; Janis Williamson, correspondnig secretary; Carole Ann Nydegger, treasurer; Mary Ann Davis, Lamp; and Jane Williams, house president; Martha Garret, convention delegate. Phyliss Dye dorm counselor and Harriet Davis, Panhellenic secretary.

School Offers Music Therapy Degree In Fall

A "growing need" of the south will be met by the Florida State University School of Music when it offers bachelors degrees in music therapy next Fall semester, announced Dean Earl Kuerstainer, recently.

"There is an increasing demand for well-trained men and women in this work" Dr. Kuerstainer revealed "Last summer of our music graduates secured good positions in music therapy, two in Florida institutions.

The curriculum has been set up for the 1954 Fall semester and calls for four academic years plus one full internship in a hospital he added. It has been recommended by the National Association of Schools of Music.

Sociology, psychology, physiology, psychology of music and hospital orientation still be stressed in the curriculum along with various phases of music.

In connection with the planned program for the new curriculum, a music therapy conference is being held tyrough tomorrow here. Dr. Kuerstainer said.

A pioneer in the field, Donald Michel, director of music therapy, Veterans Administration Hospital in Topeka, Kansas, on campus now to serve as consultant for the conference. Michel is treasurer of the National Association for Music Therapy, founded in 1950.

Yesterday a special session of the PSU conference featured a round table discussion with representatives of Florida hospitals participating.

Singers To Leave On Statewide Tour

Florida State a University Singers, choral group of 60 co-ed students, will leave tomorrow on their third state tour, it was learned here yesterday.

This will be the most extensive of the year, starts tomorrow night at Jacksonville, spokesmen revealed.

Now in their fifth year, the Singers, directed by Dr. Dorothy Pease Gainesville, Avon Park, Port Pierce, Sarasota, Arcadia and Orlando on their week long tour, they said.

Directed and accompanied by Dr. Wiley L. Housewright, of the PSU music faculty, the group recently returned from a trip into West Florida, where they gave concerts in Panama City and Pensacola, Panama City and Blountstown.

Tentatively scheduled for the program is a special arrangements of the poems of James Jones, prepared by a member of the Singers last semester, it was learned.

Other works include Hanwell's chorales of the 1900's, sacred works, gypsy songs, foreign compositions, and American folk songs.

The group plans to return to the campus by the following Saturday.

Zuckert Assents

(Continued From Page 1)
millions of souls who live in the shadow of destruction through atomic energy," Zuckert said.

"The exciting things about atomic energy is its potential. We should remember that all that has been accomplished has taken place in the 11 years since the laboratory discovered fission. that atomic energy would work. We know that we have not even scratched the surface We can only guess what lies ahead for atomic energy in such vital areas as agriculture, medicine and chemistry."

Sociologist McGinnis Studies Puerto Rico Population Problem

By WARREN L. VERGASON

Juan sat on his doorstep in Puerto Rico. Looking down the mountain to the west he could see the tops of many houses, all crowded close together and hanging precariously on the side of the mountain. Their tops made a jagged, irregular line. Juan sat there by a protruding tree.

A scrutching noise deverted Juan's attention to the top of the two room house. I must kill that rat, he mused, to himself. A cockaboc or bokton as it is known locally, is a crdue board affair with a hinged door. Juan rose to 190. In the two-room house Juan and his five children live. Sometimes, thinks Juan, it will be a child afflicted rooster.

On the small island of Puerto Rico live 2,211,000 people. The population is increasing at a rate of increasing at a rate of 40,000 people a year. If the continental United States were as densely populated as Puerto Rico, it would have 1,000,000,000 (one billion) inhabitants—or more than #0 per cent of the estimated population of the world.

This is the island on which Juan and his million countrymen live. Eighty five pc. cent of Juan's "campanos" are landless and seventy five per cent have never had more than the barest necessities of life. The average Puerto Rican buys two pairs of trousers, two shirts, and one pair of shoes a year. His expenditure of less than five dollars.

To give sociologists a better insight into the Puerto Rican problem, Professor McGinnis, of the Florida State University School of Sociology, has undertaken a survey of the population of Puerto Rico.

Formally titled "Differential Fertility and Homogamy in Puerto Rico," the study seeks to answer the question, "Why is the reproduction rate in Puerto Rico so great and what effect do the following factors, economic level, education level, and background, have on the offering of children had by a family?"

"The rate of increase in population in Puerto Rico past all into the category of the most rapidly expanding population in the world," said McGinnis.

Prof. McGinnis wishes to determine whether education can be a factor in differential fertility or if the husband and wife are not on a comparable education level. This, he explained, is what distinguishes the Puerto Rican from others of the same nature.

Sociologists have always surveyed individuals to determine fertility rates," he said. "I am approaching the problem from the family viewpoint; taking into consideration both the husband and the wife."

Artists Present Informal Show; Open to Public

By CLAUDE HARDEN

Where there once was only an empty wall, there is now 16 fine stands, open to the public, the department of Art's Open Call show.

The "Little Art Show" is currently featuring the first exhibition of the works of three graduate students, George Milton Jones, Jr., Jack Wilson, and Jim Milton.

Milton, whose work is characterized by subtlety, sensitivity and a good eye for a telling countour, is the most recent addition to the line. Milton is also showing his four oil paintings at the Lewis State Bank at this time.

James Van Elmeren, who got his Bachelor's degree from the University of Wisconsin, deals with almost total abstraction in a fresh and lively way. Jack Milton, bnt in a totally different manner. He has a restraint and delicate gradations of tone. Above all, one gets a feeling of a very clear and logical mind functioning in line and color.

A total contrast is achieved in the large canvases of Jack Wilson. Here we catch a glimpse of his share of attention. Wise is obviously an expressionist, if one needs a label and his colors are in a clear, strong voice. They're definitely not pastels. They are as lively as a drinkins song in the Heidelberg cafes of 1900.

Wise's work also appears in iron sculpturing in a fascinating representation of the "Azzay of Christ."

The pictures are all for sale, but no one is asked to buy.

Fraternity Receives Scholarship Award

Sirma Chi, national social fraternity at Florida State University, received a Library Award of $200 for outstanding scholarship. This is the third year that Sirma Chi has lead all PSU fraternities in scholarship, and the second year that the fraternity has received the Library Award from its national organization.

LOST—During Sandspur Dance One "Sirug" evening jacket, silver and white, with three stones. Please contact Bebe Bisbee, 'phone 2-2826.

FOR SALE — Healthway Bar-Bell No. 110; like new $20. Call Glenn T. Allen, 'phone 2-3033 after 6 p.m.

Calendar Of Events

TODAY, FEBRUARY 24

12 noon, FBLA Registration. Second floor. Lonsmire.

3 p.m. First General Session. FBLA Convention. Lonsmire Aud.

4 p.m. Chemistry Seminar. J. R. Wilkinson "Ion Exchange Methods for Separating the Rare Earth Elements." 306 Science.

5 p.m. FBLA Convention picnic. The Reservation.

8 p.m. Hillel Foundation. Brotherhood Service. Student speakers from Wesley Foundation, Canterbury Club and Helel Foundation, speaking on theme, "What Is Brotherhood?" Temple Israel.

TOMORROW, FEBRUARY 27

9 a.m. Shorthand Methods Workshop - FBLA Convention. Lonsmire.

10 a.m. Shorthand speed demonstration. Open to all interested persons. Lonsmire.

1 p.m. Faculty Wives Fashian Show. Suwannee Room.

3 p.m. Second General Session. FBLA Convention. Election of State Officers. Lonsmire Auditorium.

8:15 p.m. FBLA Banquet. Installation of state officers and presentation of awards. Suwannee Room.

8 p.m. Gymnastic meet. PSU vs. Sweden. Women's Gym.

8:15 p.m. Concert Virgil Fox, organist. Chapter American Guild of Organistinos. Music Hall.

8:30-11:30 Faculty Square Dance. Student Lounge. Lonsmire.

8 p.m. Gamma Phi Beta Dance. American Legion.

8 p.m. Delta Gamma Dance. Hotel Duval.

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 28

4 p.m. Club. Student Lounge. Lonsmire Building.

DAILY

The Reservation formerly Camp Flastacowo will resume its full schedule beginning March 1. Buses will leave from the East Campus Gym at 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday returning to the campus at 5:30 Saturday and Sunday buses leave on the hour from 1 to 5, return on the half hour. Camp is open closed on Mondays. To make reservations call Mrs. DeKalb, the master by Attorney General Nathan Mayo, the legislators were down a motion to officially review the question to Nimkoff. The explained official recommendation is unnecessary, since any interpretation of the statute is before the attorney general.

Schoelkopf

(Continued From Page 1)
The student editor — from Zaharov — looked about 30 years old. He said he was a post-graduate student in history, and had been elected editor for the last three years by a "consistence of readers." He has been a member of the party since 1940.

There are 100 students on campus, Zaharov said, and a paper is issued twice a week.

When we were visiting dormitory rooms at Moscow University we got our first good look at a one-knob radio set which is common in Russia.

There is no need for more than one control on the radio because there is only one station to listen to—Radio Moscow. Other cities have their own stations stations but only Radio Moscow is heard all over the Soviet Union. In some places it's almost impossible to get away from the voice. Loudspeakers are on street corners in the city blocks forth its programs from the time it gets on the air — about 7 a.m. —until it goes off the air about 11 p.m.

The Russians have televisions too, although not many people own sets. There are three TV stations—in Moscow, Leningrad and Kiev. We watched television in Moscow, and found the picture clearer than any in the country because the Russians use a finer screen. The picture tubes are small, usually five or six inches. The Russians prefer as big picture tubes are not practical. They get better images by projecting small images on a larger screen by use of mirrors.

Programs end at about three hours each night, and longer on Sunday.

Senate Approves

(Continued From Page 1)
any action on a Smoke Screen request for clarification of the motion proposed nominations for business manager on the half hour; Camp is open closed on Mondays. To make reservations call Mrs. DeKalb, the master by Attorney General Nathan Mayo, the legislators were down a motion to officially review the question to Nimkoff. The explained official recommendation is unnecessary, since any interpretation of the statute is before the attorney general.

Like Drive-Ins?

or do you

Like a Place to Sit Down and Be Served?

or do you

Like Free Delivery Right to Your Door?

QUAKER HOUSE

Call 2-8677 on the Quincy H'way

Steaks, Chops, Chicken, Sea Foods, deliciously cooked and served . . .

Large Variety of Sandwiches to Choose From—Largest Soda Fountain in the South!

Choice Swift's Meats Served

Keepsake Diamonds
LeCoulter Watches

PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRS
107 N. Monroe St. Phone 3-1462

3 Big7's

7 Days

7 Specials

at

7 Seas

FRI.:
Whole Broiled Lobster
Drawn Butter Chef's Salad
$1.25

SAT.:
Golden Fried Half Chicken
French Fries
$1.00

SUN.:
Delicious Roast Turkey
Dressing — Cranberries
$1.00

A Special Every Day

Just Special For You

MON.:
Breaded Veal Cutlet
French Fries, Chef's Salad and Drink
85c

TUES.:
Juicy Broiled Filet Mignon
French Fries Chef's Salad
$1.00

WED.:
Fried Jumbo Shrimp
French Fries, Chef's Salad
85c

THURS.:
Spaghetti with Cheese
Salad, Drink Lemon Cream Pie
85c

Seven Seas

Big Rush On For New Arrows As Color "Clicks" with Coeds

Survey shows that gals favor men wearing Arrow Shirts in stripes, checks and solids

Collegians throughout the country are showing their colors — in new check, plaid, solid tone Arrow shirts selected favorites for their dashing good taste, they have the latest collar styles.

ARROW
TRADE @ MARK
SHIRTS • TIES • UNDERWEAR • HANDKERCHIEFS • SPORTSWEAR

FLORIDA
Last Time Tomorrow
EURT LANCASTER
in
"His Majesty O'Keefe"
In Technicolor!
Sunday Through Wed.
"Saadia"
Cornel Wilde — Kita Gam
In Technicolor

FLORIDA DRIVE-IN THEATRE
Today and Tomorrow
"Ride Vaquero"
Robert Taylor — Ava Gardner
PLUS
"City That Never Sleeps"
with
Gig Young — Mala Powers
Sunday and Monday
"Plymouth Adventure" with SPENCER TRACY PLUS

CAPITAL DRIVE-IN
Today and Tomorrow
"Bandit of Corsica"
with
Richard Greene
Paula Raymond
PLUS
"Down Laredo Way"
With Rex Allen
Sunday and Monday
JAMES CAGNEY in "Come Fill the Cup"

STATE
Through Tomorrow
Van Dorean,
"Rob Roy"
In Technicolor
with
Richard Todd—Glynis Johns
ALSO 25-MIN. COMEDY
"Pecos Bill"
Sunday Thru Wednesday
Disney's
"Peter Pan"
PLUS
"Bear Country"

DRINK Coca-Cola

When you pause ... make it count ... have a Coke

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY SPRINGFIELD COCA-COLA BOTTLING COMPANY
"Coke" is a registered trade-mark.
© 1953, The Coca-Cola Company

The Florida Flambeau

PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA

Vol. XL, No. 34 — Tuesday, March 2, 1954

Student Body Week Upcoming See Below

Method Proposed To Count Ballots See Below

Carothers States Plans Outlining Student Election

Program Designed For Student Body Week, March 15, 19

Student Body President Hilton Carothers yesterday outlined plans for a Student Body Week designed to stimulate interest in student government and the Spring election March 15-19.

The week will highlight open discussions, one by Alton General Pete Nimkoff and Secretary Bill Stancik, on election procedure, and one by the candidates for student president and vice-president.

This planned is a series of Flambeau articles by Bob Rice on the legislative, executive, and judicial branches of student government.

Commenting on the plans, details of which will be released Mr. Carothers said, "I hope that this week will accomplish a purpose of stimulating interest in student government. I hope the discussion of election procedure will prove helpful to candidates. I believe that discussion participated in these candidates will be helpful also in helping the students to elect officers for next year."

Carothers also announced that a possibility of a discussion on honor system, perhaps featuring a state officer, is under consideration.

Carothers also recommended that students make a special effort to attend sessions of student government scheduled during Student Body Week.

Among these sessions are the regular weekly meeting of the Student Body Senate, Tuesday session at 4:30 in the Senate Chamber, second floor Longmire; Student Body Cabinet meeting Monday afternoon at 4 in President Carothers' office.

Traffic court at a time to be announced; and Men's Senate and Women's Senate, which, according to Senate president Gene Lawler, may meet on Wednesday afternoon.

The Cabinet studies proposed election, and discusses its Men's and Women's Senate also study proposed legislation and carry on committee work. The traffic court handles minor campus traffic offenses.

Don Cossack Chorus, Dancers Appear Here

By LONA COCHRAN

The world-famed Platoff Don Cossack chorus and dancers will appear here March 18 and 19 as the last in this year's Artist Series programs. From snatches of conversation heard on campus it seems this particular program is being anticipated with a great deal of pleasure by students and faculty members who either have enjoyed productions by the group in the past or are familiar with the brilliant reputation they have gained for themselves during the more than 14 years since their arrival in America.

The Cossacks sang their first concert together in 1927 in the Cathedral in Prague in Czechoslovakia. They were exiles from the Don River Country and were gathered together by Nicholas Kostrukoff who has since that time served unanimously as the chorus leader and administrator. Their musical wanderings were ended when they were invited by the city of San Francisco to sing at the San Francisco Exposition in 1925. They have been here ever since except for two long overseas tours to sing for American troops.

The membership of the Chorus has always comprised the best of the musical talent obtainable among White Russian emigres who fought Communism in Russia as far back as 1918 and 1920 and who actually may be considered as the pioneers in the fight against the World Communism. All members of the Chorus are now American citizens, some of them having fought during the Second World War in the ranks of the U. S. Army.

Gabriel Soloduhin, the intrepid Cossack, as he is called, will present his hair-raising dagger dance during what is called one of the most exciting episodes in all the program. This dance, which is called the Lezginka, begins on the last lilt of a peasant song and concludes in a wild dance of jubilation. With the entire chorus providing the vocal background, Soloduhin performs the traditional dance which he has reportedly never fails to stir his audiences.

The Chorus have a varied, colorful program that has the repertoire of pleasing everyone. Included on the program are hallowed anthems of Greek Orthodox Church, haunting folksongs, boisterous regimental songs and gay peasant dances.

Tickets for the production, slated for Leon High School Auditorium, went on distribution at the University Bookstore yesterday. Students may obtain their tickets free of charge by presenting their Activity coupon number 4. Faculty and staff may purchase tickets beginning March 10 and they will be open to the public on March 15. A bus for Jacksonville will leave from the Music Building.

Education Majors To Begin School Internships March 15

Approximately 200 education students will leave the campus March 15 for schools all over Florida and parts of Georgia to begin the last phase of their teacher training as interns.

The student teachers are attending seminars before they leave, and some have been observing in the demonstration school and at Leon High.

The department of education is also sponsoring a three-day second annual Southeastern Regional Meeting for Student Councils, scheduled for March 12 and 13 in the Biltmore hotel in Atlanta. Two students, Carolyn Gola, elementary education, and Jim Williams, secondary education, will attend the conference and take part in a panel discussion for student teachers.

Ten instructors, who will attend the conference, from the education department include: Dr. John Parmenter, President of the Florida unit, Dr. Virgil Strickland, program chairman for the convention, Dr. Ray Schofield, Miss Parker, Miss Faye Kirkland, Mrs. Marina Wilson, Sara de Kine, Dr. Eugene Boyce, and Mr. Robert Johnson. The conference airs this year its "Toward Better Student Teaching."

Contest Starts To Find Ugly Man At FSU

The first annual Ugly Man contest sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity Saturday, but organizations may be asked to select candidates now so they can make arrangements with the APO photographer to take pictures before using make-up, costumes, sendetic or arranging for trick photographs.

David Davis, chairman for the annual event, said that all campus organizations on campus are eligible including service groups, fraternities, sororities and special interest clubs. Only one candidate may represent an organization and payment of entry fee is the only requirement for the candidate.

Rules are these: (1) The student must be a man who is duly enrolled at Florida State. (2) The picture must be taken by the APO photographer. (3) The picture must be in by Saturday of this week.

The contest is bonded this way: Under each picture at three dollars per vote. Each penny is one vote and each penny dropped in will count one vote. A ticket to the Ugly Man Ball costing fifty cents will count 100 votes. The announcement will be made at the free old-time movie show the following night and awards will be made then.

The Ugly Man queue dance is scheduled for March 13. The free old-time movie scheduled for March 12. Sites for the two events have not yet been decided.

The Ugly Man dance sponsored by the contest was first started at Georgia Tech where its fame has since spread.

Ed. Note: The Ugly Man contest was first started at FSU by the University. It has not yet been approved at FSU.

ENGLISH URGES

Collin English, senior class president, has urged that all members of the senior class be present Thursday, March 4 at 8:45 in the Union for a short performance Saturday evening in winning a place position on the mile relay against the Swedish Olympic Team.

GRADUATE CLASS

George Strock, of the School of Home and Family Life, will be the guest speaker at a luncheon of the graduate class tomorrow at 1 p.m. in South Seminole Dining Room, according to Val Taxwood, secretary.

Taxwood added that "All graduate students and graduate faculty are invited to attend this Dutch Treat" luncheon."

CANTERBURY CLUB

There will be the celebration of Holy Eucharist at 7:05 and 12:00 tomorrow, Holy Day of Canterbury Club, it is club officials.

Rev. Frederick G. Holschun will be the first in the series of Lenten speakers at Rugg Hall.

Joe Lee and Shorty Tuesday pancake supper will be held tonight in the Union at 6:00. Supper will be served continuously from 5:00 to 8. Tickets are 50 cents and may be purchased from the Vestry or members of the Canterbury Club.

MOLECULES DISCUSSED

"Alpha and Molecules" will be discussed tomorrow night by Dr. Michael Kasha, of the FSU department of chemistry, according to reports.

Dr. Kasha, who will speak at 7 p.m. in 306 Science Building, they said, will address American Chemical Society student affiliates and any other interested persons.

'State Party' Slates Meet In Longmire

Tomorrow's open meeting in Longmire Auditorium at 4 p.m. will officially initiate the second political party on campus, according to State Party officials.

Open to all interested students, the second party will be constituted and platform committees will be appointed for public inspection and approval.

Also on the agenda, they said, will be the election of a party chairman and a party secretary to replace temporary officers Bill Halford. Jack Houser is acting chairman, chosen by acclamation at a party meeting last Thursday.

The group will also elect a corresponding secretary and treasurer, as well as appoint a publicity and membership committee said.

The party is trying to do away with any kind of discrimination regarding delegates," explained Houser. Asked if he had any further comments, he said that everything would be made public at the meeting tomorrow.

Members of the steering committee include Dan Williams, Orchid Alonso and acting chairman, Houser. However, expressed hopes that students would make a "every effort" to attend the meeting tomorrow. "We cannot work in well with our policy of increased student interest," they added.

Spokesmen also announced a meeting Friday at 3 p.m. in Longmire Basement Lounge. FSU's day students are urged. They also will meet in room 408 of Longmire, according to Phil Kelly, president.

Kelly said, "This is a very important meeting and all those who are interested should make an effort to attend it. Plans will be presented and adopted concerning membership, constitutions, the Odham rally, the Millman speech and the letter writing campaign.

Officials of the club will be present at the meeting, he added.

FRATERNITY INITIATES

The FSU S.P.E. fraternity has been holding initiations this week, according to Historian Ted Olsonson.

Students being initiated are Jim Williams, Harry Bilsen, Bob Cramer, Don Chaplin, Jerry Belcher and Charles Burch.

Olson said that he wished to congratulate Joe Taylor, a pledge, for his fine performance Saturday evening in winning a position on the mile relay team against the Swedish Olympic Team.

News Briefs

ODHAM CLUB MEETS

There will be a meeting of the Bratley Odham for Governor club tomorrow at 4 p.m. in room 408 of Longmire, according to Phil Kelly, president.

Kelly said, "This is a very important meeting and all those who are interested should make an effort to attend it. Plans will be presented and adopted concerning membership, constitutions, the Odham rally, the Millman speech and the letter writing campaign.

Officials of the club will be present at the meeting, he added.

FRATERNITY INITIATES

The FSU S.P.E. fraternity has been holding initiations this week, according to Historian Ted Olsonson.

Students being initiated are Jim Williams, Harry Bilsen, Bob Cramer, Don Chaplin, Jerry Belcher and Charles Burch.

Olson said that he wished to congratulate Joe Taylor, a pledge, for his fine performance Saturday evening in winning a position on the mile relay team against the Swedish Olympic Team.

Millman To Speak Before Art Students

Edward Millman, well known Florida State University artist, will speak to the students of the Department of Art and any other interested persons, tomorrow night at 8 in room 310 Westcott. His subject will be "The Artist in Our Time."

Millman, trained at the Chicago Art Institute and in Mexico, has lectured and taught widely in the past. He has at present engaged in a tour of the South and is coming to Florida in connection of art department head Raymond Lewandowski.

Minister, Former Korean POW Meet Unexpectedly At FSU

A Methodist minister, once chaplain for hundreds of Korean War POW's, and a fellow prisoner reunion recently here with a former Korean War POW from Florida who was his friend in a Communist prison camp.

The Rev. Charles D. Kriston Jensen, one of the five American civilians released from Chinese imprisonment via Moscow of last spring, and with his wife is now visiting world religious leaders on the campus for the annual Intelligence Week.

The Florida boy is Joe Tarbuck, FSU freshman from Ft. Lauderdale. Jensen met Joe Tarbuck, who as a PFC in the 63 Field Artillery Battalion, U. S. Division, was captured in the prison camp for 31½ months.

"Joe is a great guy," Dr. Jensen said, "because he helped to save my life."

The Methodist minister, who began his missionary work in Korea in 1937, and Tarbuck "renewed" a cation, settled down together and talked and gave it to Jensen who had none.

"It was all I had to keep me warm during two severe winters," Jensen said.

Tarbuck who now is a Sigma Alpha Epsilon pledge here and majoring in criminology was captured northeast of Taejon July 14, 1950, nine days after he had been drafted into the Army.

"I first saw Dr. Jensen in Pyongyang on a primary school as the Communists moved us North," Tarbuck said. "Then we were moved to the Pyongyang Prison near Manpo, up near the border in North Korea.

"He was hobbling around on two canes then, his legs swollen from beriberi. He had a rough life time helping and caring for the spiritual and physical needs of others," Tarbuck said. "We GI's put him down as a great guy."

Tarbuck said he first got to know Dr. Jensen when they got around that one of the civilian prisoners was from his former home town. Jensen was born in Winslow, I made it to Freedom Village." August 20, 1944," Tarbuck said. "We were kept together again until I found out he was a Methodist minister."

While on campus Tarbuck and Dr. Jensen, when they get together, spend most of the time discussing . . . "What ever happened to old Tom . . . the one with the big nose, that talked so much?" . . . or "I hear Otto is married and selling insurance in Greenpoint now" . . . and exchanging the current addresses of former friends.

When asked his opinion of

(Continued on Page 8)

Cabinet Advises Nimkoff Eligible In Next Election

The Student Body Cabinet yesterday advised Attorney General Pete Nimkoff that it will not be necessary for him to resign from the cabinet in spite of his intent to run for student government office.

Nimkoff, announcing that his present plans are to run for student body office, asked the cabinet for its opinion. He stated that although the attorney general is permitted, according to the Student Body Constitution, to engage in politics, he felt that it might not be regarded in keeping with ethics.

The cabinet took no official vote, but individual members recommended Nimkoff stay in office. They declared that "only a handful" might seek to capitalize on it politically. They did not feel he would have to make decisions affecting an opposing candidate.

Commenting on Nimkoff said, "I hope my motives will be beyond criticism. I will be eligible to run for office of Attorney General. I was willing to bow to the discretion of the Cabinet."

Nimkoff's attempts to resign yesterday and thus avoid student government officials to signal his candidacy for president of the student body.

Official filing for student body offices will not begin until March 10, and many prospective candidates have withheld public announcement of their intentions until the official time. Charles Miner Sunday resigned his position as chairman of the Student Party. It was then revealed that he would announce his candidacy for a Party nomination soon.

The Student Party has scheduled its convention for next Wednesday in the Science Lecture Hall. The State party is expected to hold its convention the first convention date tomorrow.

Four FSU Debaters Attend Tournament At Alabama College

Four Florida State University debaters, Tom Woods, Herb Lacayo, Tom Lewis and Fred Roberts, have been attending the Southern Speech Association Tournament at Spring Hill College, Mobile, Alabama.

The tournament consists of six rounds of debate. In last year's tournament FSU's Lou Rene Voges and Beverly Duperroust won the women's title and in so make one of the best records in the Tournament. Beverly Lacaya and Joanne LeRoy broke even in the negative competition last year.

Accompanying this year's debaters is Dr. Marvin Bauer. Dr. Marshall Grau season, was Miss Edna Hollingsworth, graduate assistant in forensics.

Deadline For April SSCQT Set Next Monday, March 8th

Major General Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director, today reminded college students that the deadline for submitting applications for the April 22 Selective Service College Qualification Test is Monday, March 8, and that applications postmarked after that time cannot be considered.

Application blanks and information bulletins may be obtained by students from the selective local board. Students are to mail their completed applications to Educational Testing Service of Princeton, New Jersey.

To be eligible to apply for the college deferment as a student he must satisfactorily pending a full-time course of instruction; and must not have previously taken the Selective Service College Qualification Test.

The April 22, 1954 test is the last one scheduled for this school year. Students who graduate this year will end in June are urged to take the April 22 test so they will have a test score in their cover sheets before the end of their undergraduate days. Waiting time their boards reopen and recommender sheets.

Students accepted for admission to graduate study for the school prior to July 1, 1954, satisfy the criteria if their work continues to be satisfactory.

CAMPBELL PENS ARTICLE

Dean Lawrence B. Campbell of the School of Journalism has authored another article in Quill and Scroll. Appearing in the February-March issue of the publication, his work is entitled "Meet the Challenge a Feature Page Offers."

Miner Resigns Student Party's Chairmanship

Student Party Chairman Charles Miner formally turned over his chair to Frank Shaw at the Sunday meeting of the party's executive council, to announce he will seek the party nomination for Student Body President in the coming elections.

Explaining his move, Miner said the pressure of outside activity and his desire to run for the highest office in the student government have forced him to resign as chairman. He said, after Shaw's nomination and acceptance, the party is being "Turned over to capable hands."

Miner's candidacy, it was noted, will be officially announced when office-seekers file for candidacy papers March 10.

A voluntary health insurance plan and a proposed Student Union plan were approved Sunday by members in the Student Party Platform, spokesman said.

Members of the executive council approved seventeen of an expected 20 planks for the party campaign in the student elections, stated for the 23rd of this month.

The seventeen planks have been designed to clarify existing rules and create legislation beneficial to the University community at large. Included in the planks are those calling for enlargement of a secretary of veterans affairs and a veteran's loan fund.

Notable, party members said, is the plank calling for the appointment of students on faculty committees dealing with matters concerning students. These committees, they noted, would include committees concerning admissions, athletics, general education, curriculum, student welfare and student publications.

Also, schedule committee, sit-

(Continued on Page 8)

Stancik Proposes Method To Count Ballots By IBM

Plan Wins Approval Of Student Cabinet; Senate Hears Next

The results of the Spring elections this year will be tallied on IBM grading machines, Bill Stancik, secretary of Elections, stated in Cabinet meeting Monday afternoon.

This change in voting procedure, pending approval by senate, will be used this year instead of the former method of tallying. Each student will be given an IBM answer sheet with candidates' names and voting rules printed on them. A space on the IBM sheet will be given for each candidate.

To vote the space alloted for each candidate will be blackened as on IBM tests.

"This new system," according to Stancik, "will enable us to have all the votes counted by 11 p.m. on March 23 when the primarily election will be held." Hence all the returns will be announced on that time rather than revealing the more inaccurate method.

Officers to be decided in this election are President of the Student Body, Chairman of Legislative affairs, Men's Affairs and Women's Affairs, Secretary of Senate; Chief Justice of the University Honor Court; Chairman of Student Body Activities; Chairman of the Traffic Court; Editors and Business Managers of the Florida Flambeau, Seminole Signals and T-lly Ho; Sandspur Chairman and Business Manager; Athletic Association Chairman.

Official candidates of candidacy will begin Wednesday, March 10, and active campaigning at 5 p.m. March 16. No student shall be placed on the Official Ballot who has not filed a Declaration of Candidacy with the Secretary of Elections. This may be accepted by the Secretary no later than 5 p.m. of the eighth day before election.

A student may withdraw his declaration of candidacy at any time prior to noon of the day before primary day. He may change the office for which he declared his candidacy at any time prior to 5 p.m. of the eighth day before primary day, but no student may declare his candidacy for more than one office at a time.

The prospective candidate must also file a Publicity Statement with the Secretary of Elections. The total cash expenditures and gifts of candidates may not exceed the following maximum amounts: President, $150; Student Body Vice-President of Student Body, $40; Chief Justice of University Honor Court, $20; Chairman, and Women's Vice-President, $25; Chairman of Legislative affairs, Class Presidents, $30, University Senators and all other major offices, $15; Minor offices of Courts, $10.

A group of students may be recognized as a political party by submitting to the Secretary of Elections, at any time not under for Declarations of Candidacy, a petition setting forth all the information required by the Election committee.

Any candidate connected with any political party must file the name of that party printed in parentheses beside his name on the official ballot.

Al election committee meeting for Election Judges and clerks procedure will be held in the Senate Room of the Alumni Building tomorrow.

(Continued on Page 8)

"To the victors . . . First place winners in the FSU-Swedish competition last week-end, Anders Lindh of the Swedish Olympic team and Lucenne are crowned top man in the meet by charming Anita Wall, Miss Gymkana 1953.

Street-Naming Contest Final Date Extended To Next Friday

The deadline for the Gold Key-Flambeau street-naming contest has been extended to Friday afternoon, March 5. The contest closes at 5 p.m. Friday, and the contest winner will be announced in the Flambeau the following Tuesday.

Eight streets on the Florida State University campus are to be named in the contest. The general themes are Florida botanical names, such as trees and flowers, Florida cities, noted educators, famous soldiers, former FSU presidents, colleges and universities, former governors of Florida and confederate generals.

A box has been placed outside of the Flambeau office on the second floor of the Longmire building to receive the contest blanks.

The general categories have already been announced. All that is to do is fill out the blank with the suggested street and ideas for naming the streets.

Eight streets must be named. Eight winners will be selected. Winners names will be honored later when the suggested street names have been approved by the Board of Control.

Don't miss this chance to name your campus streets. Get your entry blank in the Flambeau office today!

DAY STUDENTS

Day student delegates to the Student Party Convention will be elected tomorrow at 4 p. m. in the basement of Longmire, according to a representative of the Party.

All off-campus students are urged to attend and to help select their representatives to the convention. Last year the day students had five delegates. The number this year has not yet been officially determined.

University Is New Showpiece Of Soviet Educational System

(Fourth in a series of six articles based on a trip to Russia by Flambeau's by a student editor who visited Russia recently.)

By DEAN SCHOELKOPF
Editor, Minnesota Daily

Last Monday I was privileged to see thirty new showpiece of the Soviet educational system.

The 27-story skyscraper, situated on Lenin Hills just outside the city, was opened in 1953. It was built at a time when apartments and other new buildings were needed badly.

Facilities at the university are extremely good, and the campus is streamlined and well-equipped.

Classrooms and lecture halls seem functional. The library has individual study desks — and a good supply of American technical journals.

Attached to the classroom section of the buildings are two 15-story wings, which provide dormitory space for 6,000 students. We visited some of the rooms and found them comparable to American college dormitory rooms.

Moscow University has the largest enrollment as the University of Minnesota — about 15,000 students. So Moscow U is no one of the students are women, while at Minnesota about 30 per cent of the students are female.

There are 12 faculties or departments at Moscow University — mostly in the sciences. In Minnesota there are 31 departments in the liberal arts college alone.

All courses at Moscow run for five years, with an additional year required for those in the first graduate degree. The Soviet student, though, begins college with only two years of secondary school ing, compared to 12 years in the United States.

Entrance to colleges and universities is based on exams similar to those at American schools — previous grades and competitive examinations. Only admitted to college almost all Soviet students go on complete scholarships.

Students told us they get monthly stipends ranging from 300 to 700 rubles (975 to $1575). This covers the cost of living for one, which is about 400 rubles a year, plus room, board, books and gives them some spending money.

There is a 25 per cent bonus (Continued on Page 3)

Reprinted Article Mirrors Nation, Not Just Fanatic Student Group

The Florida Flambeau today is devoting considerable space to a reprint from The Reporter magazine. We take this unusual step because the article is not only timely but highly instructive.

Douglass Cater's "The Undergraduate Underground" demonstrates not so much that students become extremists, for that has been true in liberal times as well as now. But rather, since students are sensitive barometers of the political climate, it shows how fearful and suspicious we have become.

Robert Munger and his Students for America organization are fortunately small in number. But except for a matter of degree, they mirror all too well the fanatical and dangerous super-patriotism that has infected the national scene today.

We do not doubt that certain aspects of Communism present dangers to the American culture. So does facism, now almost forgotten by name though considerably stronger than 15 years ago. We believe also that much of the hysteria has been engineered by a group of insincere men who are far less anxious to face the problem sanely than to make headlines and win elections.

In Students for America this attitude is seen in raw form. With the possible exception of higher-ups in the organization, there is sincere belief in a cause. Once a movement is started, many people are swept up in it. Thus not only do many approve of McCarthy's motives, but a considerable number of them believe his means justified.

In observing Students for America methods as described in the Cater article, we see how far a stated cause can be perverted. SFA is against Communism. Presumably this means it is for American and the traditional democratic evolution. Yet observe how the organization has adopted the most blatant tactics of high-pressure Communism organization.

They fear they cannot get official college recognition, so they advise their locals to operate without sanction. They form secret committees, unknown to other members, whose business it is to infiltrate "leftist" student organizations and take verbatim notes on "pink" teachers, later to turn these findings over to "loyal" government agencies.

So we seriously recommend reading the article "The Undergraduate Underground." And as you read, remember that you are not just reading about a group of wild kids. You are reading about your nation, your acquaintances and even yourself.

• HAVE A CIGAR

Congratulations! Have a cigar! The child who promises to grow rapidly has been born.

Florida State University has needed second party for at least a year. The Florida Flambeau has dwelt at some length on the necessity of having a second party for the success of the party system. One of its columnists had even threatened to support any independent if there were just one party again this year.

At the same time the Flambeau has hoped that a party would not be formed merely for the sake of having a party. What was needed was a unified opposition devoted to principles differing from those of the existing party. Otherwise there would be no reason d'etre for a party system.

At this writing we know very little about the new State party, its platform or its candidates. We respectfully say they make their stand clear and distinct.

Likewise we urge the Student party to re-evaluate its position now that one strong element has broken away from it. This loss is sure to mean some changes in the Party's policies. It means a new, more conclusive platform is necessary.

• RE-EVALUATION?

We couldn't be prouder than we are of our gym team for its outstanding victory against the excellent Swedish gym team.

But the show we're exhibiting for the world's greatest art works in an outhouse. Here was an athletic event that will bring in more renown than any football, basketball or baseball game ever has. The gym team as a publicity-getter is equal to the FSU circus: its technical excellent is far greater than any other sport the campus can boast.

Fortunately the problem of a gymnasium can be and is being solved. A new, large men's gymnasium is one of the next buildings to be constructed on campus. But one point remains far from solution. In fact, it seems to be ignored. That is the fact that the gym team, which brings us more honor than any other sport, still operates on a shoe-string budget as compared to such events as football.

Isn't it about time for a re-evaluation of importance?

Letters to the Editor

State Party Policy

Dear Editor:

With the announcement in Friday's Flambeau of the organization of a second political party on campus has come much speculation and many comments.

We shall here try in as brief a way as possible to attempt to show the students, 1. Why the party system is desirable; 2. What the purpose and goals of the STATE PARTY will be.

A unified set of parties from popular definition, groups together the unified efforts of people working toward a common good of the educational community through a common principle upon which all are agreed.

Working on this theory, then, we see the party as the only way in which a unified system of objectives that will aptly crystallize the efforts of the student government to obtain more responsibilities, can be inaugurated.

Another point of clarification is our great belief that it is in the best interest of all parties to have good office holders, therefore, in time, party power politics will give way to the selection of the candidates on the basis of all the candidates that fit the office best.

THE STATE PARTY will at all times, strive to bring about more mature understanding between the administration and the students because its foundation realize the vital importance of working with instead of against the administration.

The only meaningful way in which students can be expected to be fully aware of their responsibilities as regards the school community and the administration is through an attitude of awareness and realization.

It is because of this that the objective and goal of the STATE PARTY will be a vigorous and effective effort to original the student's capacity for good will and outstanding school spirit.

This is, briefly, our purpose and policy. Our main goal is to help the student body help themselves by initiating a program based on our forthcoming platform. We will definitely endeavor to show characteristics that will make a student capable of assuming responsibilities in a mature and orderly manner.

Sincerely,
Jack Houser, chairman
STATE PARTY
Steering Committee.

ROTC Rumors

Dear Editor.

Lately I have heard rumors that ROTC may be compulsory the first 2 years.

I am interested in knowing if this is true. I believe that quite a few other students would also like to know about it. If it is true, I'd like information on it, and why did they do it? Does the Flambeau plan to investigate the rumors?

If it is true, what is the reason? Is it because the University of Florida has compulsory ROTC and we have to keep up with the Joneses? This doesn't sound reasonable, especially since FSU is a land grant college and FSU isn't.

I do not believe that the majority of the students or even a majority of the faculty are in favor of compulsory ROTC.

What is wrong with our present system? There is no reason why we have the opportunity, and there is those who don't aren't required to. Many more probably came Department.

vision and the Modern Languages here just to get the required.

Why haven't the students had anything to say about it, if it is true? They're affected more than anyone else.

What happens to those who don't want to take ROTC? Will upperclassmen already here be required to take it? Students who have to take it now, or who are here then, or to the University of Florida, they can't afford any of the other activities and they can't afford to go to out-of-state schools. There must be many men who don't like ROTC here, since the total enrollment of both branches this semester is only 348

Are the heads of ROTC afraid that NOBODY will join next semester so they better do something about it, quick?

With the 348 enrollment, it is obvious that the majority of men here do not want to be in ROTC for one reason or another. Many have school work who plan to come to go to college and simply also plan not to take it. What will they do now? Not go to college at all?

It would be a shame if we have that it may keep many would-be students from attending college, if hear that ROTC will be made compulsory next semester. If so we think there must be a good reason. What is it?

Oscar Johnson

SHOPBACH TALKS

A talk on "Zurich — Principal City of Switzerland" will be given by Dr. Richard Shopbach of the FSU faculty in Lonamire Auditorium tonight at 7:30, according to a recent announcement.

To be illustrated, the talk is part of the lecture series sponsored by the FUS Humanities di-

Member Intercollegiate Press.

Telephone 2-8000 extension 4821
211, 213 Longmire Building

Member
Associated Collegiate Press

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University.

The Florida Flambeau

BRUCE GALPHIN—Editor

Al Pierce, News Editor — Bob Folsom, Managing Editor

Feature Editor ..... Jayleen Robertson
Campus Editor ..... Orchid Alonso
Sports Editor ..... Ken Hodge
Rewrite Editors ..... Oscar Johnson, Martin Dickinson
Sports Writers ..... Art Kennedy, Pete Dunn
Photographer ..... Dick Reuteler

Copy Editors: Sylvia Parrish, Dick Victory, David Dreis
Photographic Editor ..... Joe Caldwell
Junior Staff ..... Dot Thomasson, Mary Elizabeth Cox, Tom Hall, Betty Bishop, Lona Cochran, Barbara Bachman, Joyce Porter, Franklin Adams

NANCY LOWE—Business Mgr.
Al Markovitz, Advertising Mgr.

Business Staff ..... Mary Wogan, Virginia Vaughn
Advertising Soliciting ..... Members of Alpha Phi Omega
Sigma, Gamma Alpha Chi
Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Ave., New York

Exchange Editor ..... Pat Robson
Exchange Staff ..... Liz Mandell
Distribution ..... Members of Alpha Phi Omega

"We've Got To Avoid A Split With Him"

HERBLOCK

Dear Mama Seminole

Georgie come to reservation of learning and Big Chief say, you become big brave now, grow up. We expect you act like brave. Many braves and maidens believe Chief and still act like papoose. Make Big Chief treat all like papoose.

No trust student to run student government so Chief Council run student government through faculty committee. No trust girl who cry for woman sufferage, career, etc.; then go to F. S. Reservation and become prisoner with eagle eye matron. Most maidens made trusty, though. No trust appetite of student so serve meager food with limited hours on food shops. No trust reader so customs check at storehouse door. No trust intelligence so make simple courses and expect no study.

Professor tells students must want to learn, then teach like no want to learn.

Trust here on reservation much better than on other reservations, say students; but still need much more.

Question made is, trust make student trustworthy, or trustworthy student make trust possible. Maybe work hard on both ends make for freer student action and more merit. Big question could expect with coming election; administration could start in book storehouse.

Big question after contest Saturday night. "Susie," say Sally, "what's Sweedish for NO?"

Love All,
Georgie Seminole

AT THE LIBRARY

Some Tips On Speeding Checking-Desk Procedure

By FLORENCE PAYNE

In the fall of 1853, many of you had your first experience with the library checking desk.

At that time student reaction to this new procedure varied widely. Today, I have stared one of the checking desk personnel to give you her side of the story. Here it is: all the way from the smile and "check your books, please" to the "thank you, sweetheart."

The checking desk's main purpose is to check all books, zipper notebooks and briefcases to make sure all library materials are properly stamped and dated. This may save you from an unwarranted fine later. The checking of the zipper notebooks and briefcases is necessary to clear all magazines, pamphlets and documents for their library identification.

Though clearing your books and briefcases at the checking desk may at first seem to be a nuisance detail, you can easily adjust to the routine and allow yourself the extra minute needed. Your checker will thank you for your cooperation and appreciate your thoughtfulness.

There are several things you can do to speed up clearing the checking desk.

First: Take advantage of the checking service available. If you are entering the library just to return a book to see your of the departments, leave your textbooks and bags with the checking desk personnel. They will place your books and bags on the shelves under the counter. You may then go to your destination and return. At the checking desk, pick up your textbooks and bags and go on your way.

Second: Should you wish to use the card catalogue and forget books from the stacks, leave your brief case and extra books at the checking desk. When you are ready to leave the library, it will be necessary to check only those books you have in your hands.

Third: Those of you who have to take all of your books and bags to the various rooms to work and study—learn to unzip your briefcases and open your bags as you approach the checking desk. Let your books face the checker; so you can be speedily checked through.

At the checking counter you will find copies of the library handbook. This handbook will help you locate the different departments and reading rooms in the library. The facilities of the library are carefully explained in this booklet.

Your checking desk serves by keeping an eye on the library books so they will be ready for your use.

There you have the checking desk point of view. The idea of the checking counter is not new. Many universities now use

(Continued on Page 8)

Ordinarily I don't go along with 'Student lesson planning,' but every now and then they come up with something pretty good.

Good Man Has More Than Goodguy

By GENT LAWLER

Goodguy for President!

Why Not? After all, Goodguy is a good guy.

Ask any of Goodguy's fraternity brothers. Ask the crowd down at the Hangout. They will tell you about Goodguy's qualifications. He has all the essentials: looks, personality, "one of the boys."

Goodguy has a platform, too. When he sets in office he's going to find the best people and appoint them to his Cabinet. They'll think up all the ideas and handle the administrative program. That'll leave him free to handle the public relations.

Somehow I think that FSU deserves a better-than-average Body President than Goodguy. He admittedly has good intentions, plaitudinous as they are. But is under him student government suffers a personable lack of leadership and a year of pleasant stagnation.

Goodguy's not all the candidates for major office this spring belong to the Goodguy category. There are some others. In addition to the usual standards of personal character, they have something more to offer:

An acquaintance with people, both students and faculty, from all parts of campus.

A keen sense of the workings of both student government and the University administration.

A capacity for thought. It is generally agreed that the major offices without any of those qualifications. In fact, cases are often only a contest between Goodguy and a Sensible Candidate.

Candidates are not brought to the stork. Candidates are decided, issues (such as they are) are manufactured, campaigns are sketched out long before the public drop of a hat. As an observer of these pre-election machinations, I am sometimes disappointed to note the prominence of prospective Goodguy candidates and the lack of these vital qualifications.

Student government desperately needs a president next year who has ideas and the ability to carry them out: What we need is not just a man who knows how to run, but a man who knows how to get what we need.

Planes Altitude Affect F S U Saftey

By BOB FOLSOM

Early in the semester, it was raining bad outside, and I was shaving, getting ready for classes. An aircraft drone overpasses over the dormitory obviously trying to find an opening in the low ceilins so he could land at Dale Mabry Field on West Campus. And to find that opening the aircraft got, so it seems, being unable to 'right down on the deck.'

The aircraft must have made it on the second try or more as to greener places because he didn't come around the fourth. I'm glad he eventually made it, but I didn't like sweating him out.

Probably na saw in the dormitory gave it a second thought, because after all everywhere everyday. It is a man's occupation, why should you give it a second thought, it has nothing to do with you?

But I did and decided to put it down here.

After living two blocks from a landing strip for four years, listening to every kind of aircraft take off and land at any time of the day or night, and often having to fly in them, I was glad to get away—the Air Force wasn't my meat—and especially, I didn't want to hear any more engines revving up or jets taking off.

I came to Florida State and found Tallahassee had no landing strip. But there is one and not far away, at least, not far enough away. It is on West Campus, and the aircraft are those that Dale Mabry can still take that part.

Occasionally the jet jockeys like to buzz the campus and come down to do so. And from there on you hear it. Moreover, the conventional types make frequent passes over the campus while climbing out or making a letdown. Landings and takeoffs are determined by wind direction. Obviously though that makes no difference as long as the altitude an aircraft must remain at while over populated areas is 5000 feet. That is the law you usually hear or read about happens when the aircraft is in a landing pattern. And you would be surprised at the high percentage of aircraft accidents that are attributed to pilot error.

There has never been a crash on the campus but that is not to say there could never be one. Anyplace is bad. And whether campus be close to a landing field is no location. FSU would be a bad spot to crash into.

The aircraft and their pilots —specifically the ones at Dale Mabry Field—can maintain an altitude around here, weather or no weather! I doubt if many anyone around the campus has been in an aircraft accident or knows one. I don't. They don't like to recall it.

What happened at Mercer will probably never happen here, so don't think I'm pushing the panic button, and moreover I hope this isn't interpreted as a personal gripe, but a legitimate one. It probably doesn't solve anything. But that is usually the way a lot of things are.

Campus Party System Faces Crisis

By WARREN COBB

"The vital feature of our party system is that there be two-party system . . . If we had a one-party system . . . our democracy would be far different from what it is—indeed it would doubtless be nonexistent."

The above passage is taken from Government By The People by Burns and Peltason. It applies to the U.S.A. Could it apply to Florida?

Last spring some enterprising students entertained the idea of political parties at FSU to generate some interest in campus politics. Two parties, the Student Party and the Seminole Party, were tentatively organized.

Unfortunately, the latter was stillborn. The former, however, made a vehement debut.

What was at first a mere ripple upon the surface developed into a tidal wave of monstrous proportions here and there, and of the party candidates into office. From Carnabys down to the smallest cogs. The outsiders fell like chaff before the wind.

This hearty endorsement led to a re-examination of ideals and principles in campus politics. It left many lingering doubts.

Were the students merely in accord with the party's policies on conclusion? Or were they endorsing the Student Party? Or were they expressing approval of the party-system in general?

And, from the negative side, what unfavorable repercussions would most likely be the result from the electorate's reaction upon the nonexist. It created by its unanimity last spring?

These questions must soon be answered for the spring election procedures here again—and is also is a second party to challenge the enthroned grossly.

The new party, the State Party, also offers a healthy challenge to the one-party system. For the idea is not incompatible with the democratic process.

It is to be hoped that the State Party is not destined to meet the fate of its predecessor, the Seminola Party.

Many voices on campus have favored the institution of the two-party system as: FSU. Such a system will soon face the crucial test.

For the ides of March are upon us and the candidates and the parties are wary. They face each with that ungrudging able spectre—the phantom public.

Hints For Would-Be Vaude-villains

By DAVID DREIS

Vaudeville shows are getting me down.

This is a horrible statement from a hoped-to-be vaude-ycee, but usually the time has come to call a compiete revision.

Having sat through loads of talent reviews, vaudeville, talent shows, and variety performances, this columnist would like to make a few suggestions whether on television or in person.

For instance, the numerous talent shows which haunt the airwaves have an array of singers, thousands upon thousands of jabb pianists, countless vocalists and dancers, and even their choice of music and many accordionists.

If you've ever caught the Amateur Hour on radio or television, you've undoubtedly what I've driving at. On a one person show, you get singers, three novelty acts (yodelers, swallowers, teeth knockers, contortionists) and two instrumentalists. Absolutely no reader, recitationists or anything in the remedy vein which probably is the most interesting of such "talent."

On the Talent Scouts program, there were two singers, one instrumentalist and one comedian. The instrumentalist played the violin, the singers were one a classical warbler and the other popular, the comedian was standard. The violinist was the winner and he joined the multitude of violinists who have won on this program. I think I've heard them all.

Now that I've rambled onto the programs which bolster the talent reviews, extending into "The American Way" and TV Teen Club with Horace Heidt and Paul Whiteman respectively, I'll let them be mere suggestions for performers.

Sopranos: Please don't sing "Love Is Where You Find It."

Accordionists: Avoid "Lady of Spain."

Base singers: "Old Man River" is overworked.

Tenors: Don't insist: "Can't Help Lovin' That Man" or any of the Show Boat tunes should be revived. Ask Gordon MacRae.

Novelty singers (boys): "Blue Moon" is really blue . . . ditto with "Every Day Is Ladies Day With Me."

TAKE PROFESSOR, NOT COURSE

(From the Colorado Daily, University of Colorado)

. . . How many times have you taken an elective course with a very interesting title only to have it "murdered" by a professor who often, perhaps, but often enough. Have you been bored so flat, dead, dull, uninspiring and, consequently, unfruitful . . . by comparison with courses in the same department?

The answer? Sign up for professors, not courses. You will have limitations, and you will have to get plenty of opinions from more advanced students in the department, but it's your own opinions that you must consider first.

If you don't like the name of the course you have heard many favorable things about the professor, sign up anyway. Chances are you will learn more by accident from a good professor than you would learn from a dull one on purpose.

PLAYING SCRAMBLE

(From the Syracuse Daily Orange, Syracuse University, New York)

We noticed in the President's speech the other day that he was for simplification of government organization. We wondered just how bad things really were until we came across the list of the various agencies initially replacing the proper noun these days, our interview of the Administrative Assembly with the following enlargable set of letters:

The S.C.C.S.I.A.M.R.K.A.A.N.P.P.P.W.P.B.

This was a special committee set up by the House of Representatives, and its initials stand for Select Committee to Conduct a Study and Investigation of All Matters Relating in Any Need for Adequate Supplies of Newsprint, Printing and Writing Paper, Paper Products, Paper Pulp and Pulpwood.

Strictly SNAFU.

SPECIAL PRAISE

Special praise was handed out yesterday to students who attended last week's concert.

Spokesmen for the officials and all students approved was the proper dress for the occasion. They called attention to the special standards handed out "Dress Know" which requests women to wear afternoon dresses and men to wear coat and tie to all productions. They said committee members had been pleased and made complimentary remarks regarding the student observance of the dress requests.

'Students For America' Shows How One Can Become Big Man On Campus These Days By Hunting 'Leftists'

Robert Munger Stars In Stirring Re-enactment Of the Horatio Alger Story A La McCarthy

(Editor's note: The following article appeared in Reporter magazine of 7 March, 1954. Because of its timeliness and special interest, the editors have granted us permission to reprint it in full.)

By DOUGLAS CATER

In earlier times, the undergraduate hungry for the ephemeral glories of Big Man on Campus picked his way carefully up the rungs of clubs, teams, publications, and class politics. Robert Munger, a student at the University of Southern California, has devised a new technique, much better attuned to the temper of the 1950's. He has demonstrated that with all the suspicions rampant in the academic community today, a plausible youth can become a Big Man, if not exactly on the college campus, at least among high-school students and influential adults, by tracking down what he considers "Leftists."

Like many success stories, Munger's began in modesty. U.S.C. was the third college he had attended. He had spent one year each at Los Angeles City College and Pepperdine College, also in Los Angeles. At the former he had made an effort at conventional campus politicking when he ran for the student-body presidency, but lost by a very large margin, but it appears that the failure gave Munger the inspiration that was to speed him to success. In the fall of 1951, General Douglas MacArthur, having been relieved home from the Korean previous spring, was making bold political noises over the land. It was an auspicious time for the meeting of the two mo-mentarily illfated careers. Munger founded the National Collegiate MacArthur Clubs in October, 1951. There followed an enthusiastic letter of acceptance from the General, who, of course, was National Director. The headquarters were established at P. O. Box 2124, Hollywood 28, California. This device of the secretive "cover address," as it is known in clandestine circles, Munger uses to this day.

From the outset, the MacArthur organization, as depicted in its monthly newspaper, The American Student, set out to create the impression of a burgeoning student movement whose primary aim was "winning our battle against Communism." It had spark: "Twenty-five Banner (California) high school students were indoctrinated in the National Collegiate MacArthur Club's philosophy of Americanism . . . by National Director Bob Munger . . . To crowd this meeting into Bob's heavy March speaking schedule, Don Porter, President of Barstow Kiwanis Club, flew to Los Angeles in his private plane to pick up after his four o'clock class . . ."

It had mystery:

> "For security reasons names of donors are not published. With copies of the newspaper distributed all over the country, we are aware that every reader is not interested in what we strive to accomplish, but rather some would stop us."

And there was more than a touch of partisan politics: "Every time . . . President (Truman) reaches into the barrel for a red-blooded American to come to Washington to help him, he comes up with some name that has been forming on the bottom of the barrel . . . There is only one solution in the words of a well-known song: 'Roll Out the Barrel' . . ."

The N.C.M.C. had a simple premise: "Almost all leftwing student organizations are merely a front for individuals like the Communist Party or other equally vicious outside adult agencies," declared its handbook. "N.C.M.C. is the only true patriotic student movement in its existence on a nation-wide basis."

After the Republican National Convention in July, 1952, Munger decided that a change of names was in order. Accordingly, the organization was reconstituted as Students for America. Again there was a congratulatory letter from General MacArthur, who pronounced himself honored to serve as honorary president. The text of the post-office-box address, and the monthly newspaper remained the same.

'HARD CORE'

A confidential handbook issued by Students for America gave a more startling index of its aims and techniques. Munger had apparently studied well the organizational methods of the Communists whom he sought to outwit. He modeled his own organization with meticulous care after theirs. There was to be the "select hard core of the membership" which would control the organization. Local chapters would not seek recognition from the college authorities but would remain a "loyal underground" in the State Department tradition. "We have found it much more expedient not to seek to be officially recognized on the campus by the administration."

A vital part of National Headquarters was to be the "National Security Division" entrusted with responsibility for "carrying on direct liaisons with anti-subversive government agencies and keeping up-to-date information on all leftist student groups and their operations." The National Security Division in turn would be in touch with the college chapters' "Intelligence Section," which were to be "responsible for keeping up-to-date information on all leftist activity of any nature at their school by any means which may be deemed expedient."

The Intelligence Sections were to be the heart of the espionage apparatus, with interlocking rings and all the standard equipment of subversion. They, the handbook continued, "should be composed of a very small number of select individuals who should not be known to the general membership of our organization, or known to other students as a member of our organization. It will be their duty to plant fellow students in an effort to obtain information." Such information "should be reported immediately to National headquarters. Since it will be placed at the disposal of various government agencies . . ."

There was, naturally, proper concern over the danger that students for America, while busily infiltrating the leftist groups, might in turn be infiltrated. There, in doubt about a prospective member, a chapter was cautioned to contact National Headquarters, which would "provide any information as to the membership or participation of that individual in subversive activities or organizations on very short notice."

In December, 1952, there was a hint that National Headquarters itself had been infiltrated when Volume 2, No. 10, of the American Student had to be dropped in the middle of the press run for a fairly significant change. Early copies had contained a page-one book review that began: "Recommended reading for S.F.A. members is 'Report on the American Communists' by Morris Ernst and David Loth, published by Holt, New York, price $3.00." In the revised edition, the review began: "'Report on the American Communist,' by Morris Ernst and David Loth, published by Holt, New York, is according to Dr. J. B. Matthews 'one of the most vicious books I have read in ten years. Its statements and proposals parallel the line of the Communist Party.'"

TESTING TEACHERS

As a possible step to those members who were not permitted to join the underground, Munger devised a sure-fire technique for keeping tabs on professors. Members were "to take notes and direct questions from the lectures of subversive professors who consistently insert Communist and socialist propaganda into the classroom." A record was also to be kept of reading assigned or suggested by these professors. All this information was also to be forwarded to National Headquarters, which evidently felt itself capable of handling an unlimited bulk of such reports.

Munger had not completely forgotten traditional campus activities—his own ambition forsy ihe ii. "A few students strongly dedicated to a single purpose," he wrote, "can exercise far more than their own strength in student activities." He advised members to seek campus office; campaigns however, that the S.F.A. should act through 'fronts.' Campaign literature should state, "Vote for Joe Blow because Joe Blow was the head of such and such committee, he played on the football team, he will work for the good of the school."

YOUTHFUL ENTHUSIASM

It is possible to promote The American Student, the four-page organ which claims a circulation of ten thousand and carries the slogan "Voice of Vigilant Youth," to some some of the youthful zeal behind the organization. There are frequent picture of Munger, a slender, attractive-looking young man with a broad grin and an unruly mop of hair. Munger is depicted exchanging greetings with Ned McGuffy, an S.F.A director from the University of Wisconsin, who is mentioned in the caption as having flown out to Hollywood for a conference; or standing among a group of teen-agers—healthy, nice-looking youngsters who might be expected to be planning fraternity dances or football rallies if they were not preoccupied with "repairing" fellow students.

The newspaper includes epistles from Munger to "Loyal Friends and Fellow Members," always concluding "Yours for God and America." News reports tell of the attack being waged on the left wing and of the counterattacks on S.F.A.: "A member of the Valley Junior College Chapter . . . has been threatened by a teacher on the faculty . . . (He) was told, in a very subtle manner, that . . . his grades might pay the debt as a result of being too active in the club." The writing has an earnest quality about it, with just enough grammatical errors and local phrases to convince the reader of its youthful authenticity.

MIDDLE-AGED SPREAD

But S.F.A. is not all juvenile. The support that has rallied round Munger and his organization is distinctly middle-aged. In May, 1952, as evidence of the leftward which seems to be inherent in Dwight Eisenhower, he was awarded the Motion Picture Alliance Memorial Award as the college student in America who had done most against Communism. The following November, Walter Winchell on his radio program addressed a "Special Flash to All Students." "It is imperative," he said, "that you contact the following people on how to recognize the Communists among you. Write to Students for America."

On February 23, 1953, Senator Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota extended his remarks in the Congressional Record to include a glowing tribute to Students for America and to Munger personally. He listed among the recommendations such ambitious projects as "ridding the Government of waste and immorality; the unceasing drive to get subversives out of Government; the determination to stop socialist expansion in the United States; and to end the dangerous appeasement of Communist aggression . . ."

"So far I am advised, Mr. President," declared Mundt, "Students for America is the only nationwide anti-Communist and anti-socialistic student movement in this country." It is not known whether Mundt had forseen the storm of protest various long-established student religious organizations. Protestant, Catholic and Jewish, were he made this weeping indictment. His remarks, in any event, rope bearing his frank but with a Los Angeles postmark, have been mailed to students from as far away as Massachusetts.

Fulton Lewis, Jr., whose seventeen-year-old son Fulton III is a very active member of the University of Virginia chapter, and writes a "Washington Letter" for The American Student, has on several occasions used his newspaper column to sing the praises of S.F.A. He had a long talk with Munger concerning "some of the underground phases of his activity," Lewis reported last March, "and to say I enjoyed it is an understatement. I can't say much about the techniques employed without spilling the beans, but the methods are effective." In his column Lewis has ceaselessly attacked the National Student Association, a student organization in which student governments from more than 250 colleges are represented. Munger and Lewis have labeled the N.S.A. pink, ignoring the fact that one-third of the member colleges are Catholic, and that the N.S.A. in addition has been to resist inroads by the Moscow-dominated International Union of Students among the students of western Europe and Asia. N.S.A. operates democratically had above-board in the American college community.

SETBACKS

Students for America seems to have succeed almost everywhere except in the colleges. Munger has claimed a membership of 2,500 as more than 126 campuses. Presumably this includes high schools, but even so it appears to be grossly exaggerated. Recently, for example, the Chicago TRIBUNE listed five colleges where S.F.A. chapters were reported flourishing. An independent check of those colleges revealed that the dean and other officials were completely ignorant of their existence. Of course, it may be that even the aboveground arm of the operation is practicing the art of concealment.

In one instance where S.F.A. members decided to stand up and be counted, they were overwhelmingly voted down by their fellow students. Last fall, at the University of Virginia, an institution not noted for radical proclivities, Lewis Fik, joined forces with two fellow freshmen, violated Munger's rule by seeking official recognition for a campus chapter. After a battle which found both sides matching signatures from the University's founder, Thomas Jefferson, the group was turned down by the unanimous vote of the fifteen-man student council.

In Camden Daily, Virginia a students newspaper, carried a telling editorial written by editor-in-chief William L. Thaxwell:: "Those to be found in every college in the University of Virginia chapter, they own junior-grade imitation of McCarthyism. We feel that this sort of kinder-garten Ku Klux Klan is out of place at this University." Mention of the fact that S.F.A. had financed the organization. More than 100,000 pieces of literature in a single month, he wanted to know who financed the organization. More than a hundred students wrote in to Thaxwell on the matter; only two expressed disagreement with his stand.

After the tempest had died down, young Lewis promised to advocate certain changes in the national organization. Among other things, he announced his belief that national officers should be elected at meetings of delegates.

At last report Lewis has been signally unsuccessful. S.F.A. continues its list many of its original officers. The organization has nothing approximating a constitution and no democratic process by which local chapters can have a voice in the national organization. In this, too, it reveals Munger's assiduous duty of the Communist party.

PLENTY TO TIME

For Munger, as for David Schine of the Cohn-Schine team, the call of the Army has interrupted what was getting to be a well-publicized if not particularly fruitful career. In a recent interview Munger declared that he was devoting his final weeks as a civilian to finishing up his book on Communism. Despite the fallow months that may lie ahead in the Army, Munger still has plenty of time. After all, he just turned twenty-four on February 18.

Extra-Curricular Activities Get Special Attention In Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis. (I.P.)—Trends reflecting extra-curricular activities at over the University of Wisconsin were revealed in a report by the Student Life and Interests Committee which was received recently by the University faculty. The committee, made up of faculty members and student leaders, said that "should we not establish conditions which will make group and individual self-activity a reality, the achieving educational objectives comprehensively is none of the classroom." Five ways in which the committee is now encouraging this trend are:

1. The campus has been established as the primary locale of activity where student programs are more readily accessible to all who are interested in them. The committee defined th "campus" as including nearby YMCA and church centers.

2. The committee has encouraged student organization . . . to foster a sense of responsibility for the good of the University."

4. The committee has sought to develop "cooperative action between students and faculty." Among recent moves in this direction, the committee reported, was the inclusion by the student body of three faculty members on Student Senate, and the provision for the presence of student co-chairmanships of its subcommittees.

In its report, the committee submitted for faculty consideration its recent Report to the Student Body on the matter of student groups and guest speakers, which indicated "that the established policy followed by the University over the year 20 years should be maintained."

The Report to the Student Body, which defended the registration of all student groups but warned students of the communist menace, listed 76 organizations designated by official action. Furthermore, was laid before the faculty. The faculty voted unanimously to accept the report.

COLLEGE OR KINDERGARTEN

(ACP)—It is now possible for a six-year-old to attend the University of Southern California. He could take courses in rhythm, piano and orchestra.

Miami U. (Ohio) Votes For McCarthy

(ACP)—A scientific poll, using the Gallup method of polling," has shown $7 per cent of students at Miami University (Ohio) to be in general favor of Senator McCarthy and his committee's investigatory activities.

Eighty per cent of the freshmen, 89 per cent of the sophomores, 46 per cent of the juniors and 82 per cent of the seniors polled they are "pro-McCarthy."

The poll, taken by 8 comparatively large classes, 24 per cent of the students said witnesses who refuse to testify are "probably Communists." Sixty per cent said "This is no indictment."

Forty-five per cent said McCarthy's methods are undesirable but justified in view of the Communist threat.

THE DUTCH KITCHEN
Adams & Park
The Finest Food
Homey Atmosphere
Excellent Service

FLORIDA
Ending Today
"Saadia"
Starring
Cornell Wilde—Rita Gam
in Technicolor
—&—
Tomorrow Through Sat.
"The Long, Long Trailer"
With Lucille Ball
Desi Arnaz
With Marjorie Main
Keenan Wynn
In Technicolor

CAPITOL DRIVE-IN THEATRE
Today and Tomorrow
Bing Crosby; Dorothy Lamour
Bob Hope
"Road To Bali"
In Technicolor
Thurs. Through Sat.
Ray Rogers in "Spoilers of the Plains"
Plus
"Beast From 20,000 Fathoms"
With Paul Christian
Paula Raymond

OUTDOOR
Today and Tomorrow
"Naked Spur"
With James Stewart
Janet Leigh
In Technicolor
—&—
Thurs. Through Sat.
Donald O'Connor
Debbie Reynolds
"I Love Melvin"
Plus
"For Vengeance"
James Craig & Rita Moreno

STATE
Last Times Tomorrow
Disney's
"Peter Pan"
Plus
23 Min. Featurette
"Bear Country"
Starting Tomorrow
FOR ONE WHOLE WEEK!
Rita Hayworth
Jose Ferrer
In
"Miss Sadie Thompson"
Wm Alda Ray

Grades Announced For 16 Sororities On FSU Campus

The Dean of Women's office announced yesterday the averages for the past semester of the sixteen sororities on the Florida State University campus.

First place for scholarship was Pi Beta Phi, with an overall 1.74 average. Second place was Kappe Alpha Theta with a 1.71, and third Delta Zeta with an average of 1.70.

The other thirteen sororities placed in order respectively as: Delta Delta Delta, 1.69; Chi Omeaa, 1.67; Zeta Tau Alpha, 1.68; Alpha Xi Delta, 1.61; Alpha Omicron Delta, 1.61; Alpha Chi Omega, 1.56; Kappe Delta, 1.54; Phi Mu, 1.44; Delta Gamma, 1.42; Alpha Delta Pi, 1.440; Gamma Phi Beta, 1.41; Alpha Omicron Pi, 1.40; and Sigma Kappa, 1.35.

The greatest average for active members in the whole was Delta Zeta with a 1.79, and the Pi Beta Phi pledge class came out with top honors.

These sorority grade averages were calculated by the registrar for the fall semester of 1952-54.

O'BRIEN ELECTED

Pat O'Brien was recently elected president of the Association of Childhood Education. Other officers are Helen Whitemore vice-president; Joan Mynihan, secretary and Harriet Ramsey, treasurer.

The Association will hold its next meeting tomorrow at 7 p.m. in the Student Center Trophy Room.

Today's Special
Everyday — Juicy Filet Mignon 85¢
½ Fried Chicken 90¢
Served with 2 Vegetables, Salad and Rolls & Butter
The MECCA

How the stars got started...

Jane Greer says: "I was a band singer when a picture magazine asked me to pose in the new WAC uniforms. Hollywood saw my picture, liked it and overnight I was in movies. From then on, it was hard work and perseverance."

I STARTED SMOKING CAMELS AFTER TRYING MANY BRANDS. I FOUND CAMELS' MILDNESS AND FLAVOR FAR MORE ENJOYABLE THAN THE REST. YOU WILL, TOO! WHY DON'T YOU TRY CAMELS TODAY?

Jane Greer

R. J. Reynolds Tob. Co. Winston-Salem, N. C.

CAMEL

START SMOKING CAMELS YOURSELF! Smoke only Camels for 30 days and find out why Camels are America's most popular cigarette. See how mild and flavorful a cigarette can be!

for Mildness and Flavor CAMELS AGREE WITH MORE PEOPLE THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE!

FSU Gymkana Upsets Swedes! Gymnastics History Made Saturday

Pricemen Win Five Firsts; Holder, Lecouna, Big Threat

By BOB GUTTING
HAIL DE HA-ITLEY PRICE

Dr. Price, Florida State's Australian born wonder, has done it again. Famous throughout the country for coaching two N CAA and two NAAU teams in addition to organizing his nationally known Gymkana troupe, Dr. Price has now added another star to his crown by toppling the world famous Swedish Olympic team.

The Swedish team, completing a 35-meet tour of the United States, has defeated all comers including defending NCAA champions Penn State, the powerful U. S. Military Academy, and highly regarded Illinois, one of the "Big Ten" in gymnastics.

Only recently TIME magazine dubbed the Swedish team "muscular missionaries" and rated them the best. And Dr. Price has coached a squad that beat them.

Held before a packed house, the meet itself was a breathtaking event, with the Swedish team leading down to the very last moments of the meet.

Although the Gymkana team scored five first place wins out of six, the Swedes consistantly placed second and third to retain the lead throughout the majority of the meet.

Starting the team on the road to victory was Florida State's national champ Jack Miles, who beat out Sweden's Anders Lindh by 7/10ths of a point to take first on the long horse. third was Stattin, Sweden, fourth Lecounna, FSU, and fifth Carlson, Sweden. This ended the first event off with a tied score of eight to eight.

The next event was Sweden's specialty calisthenics, the only event in which they placed first. Anders Lindh, nine times Swedish champ, took first followed by team mates Thoresson, second, Mamlin third, and FSU's Jack Miles fourth and Don Holder fifth. This gave the Swedish team a comfortable lead of 21-11.

The next event, side horse, was won by Florida State's Cuban Olympic champ Rafael Lecouna, with B. S. Olympic champ Don Holder second, Sweden's Borje Stattin third, FSU's Joe Renta fourth, and Kurt Wuarts of Sweden fifth. This narrowed the lead to 23-23, still in favor of Sweden.

This was followed by the horizontal bars, an event that saw FSU's mighty mite Carmelo Reana defeat Sweden's Nils Ahoberg by a slight 4/10ths of a point to tie first. Third was Carlson, Sweden, and fourth was a tie between FSU's Jack Miles and Stattin of Sweden. The score at the end of this event was Florida State Gymkana Gymkanas 28, Sweden 33.

The fifth event, parallel bars, was taken by FSU's Don Holder, who beat Lennart Lundgren of Sweden by only 1/10th of a point in a really close contest. Third was Stattin of Sweden, fourth Lindh, Sweden, and fifth Pat Signorelli, FSU. This left the score at Florida State Gymkana 37½, Sweden 42½.

It was the last event coming up that the Swedes ahead by only five points. It was still really anybody's ball game. If Price's Seminoles could take first, second, and fourth on the still rings they could win the meet. However, this would be quite an accomplishment considering their opponent were among the best in the world.

First up was Carlson of Sweden who scored 26.1. He was followed by FSU's Joe Renta who scored 28.0. Lindh of Sweden was next and scored 27.4 and was followed by FSU's Don Holder, who scored 29.5, the highest average yet. Last was Borje Stattin who scored a 27.8. So far Don Holder had scored first, Joe Renta second, and the Swedish team third, fourth and fifth. With the meet coming up it was the Swedish team would have won the meet with a score of 48½-47½. Everything depended on FSU's last man up, Joe Taylor. If he placed anyone but first four, Florida State would cause the upset of the year. If he failed to place, the Swedes would win by a narrow one point. All eyes were upon Joe as he drew himself up on the rings. Everyone held their breath as he began his exercise. Price was "sweating it out" in a corner. The Swedish team was standing at attention. Joe finished his exercise and the crowd broke into a thunderous roar. Joe had done it. He had placed first, and Florida State had won the meet.

RAFAEL LECOUNA, exhibiting his perfect form that beat the Swedish Olympic gymnasts late Saturday. The modest little Cuban, formerly captain of the Cuban Olympic Team, was also the outstanding member of the Florida State Gymkana that eight.

But Taylor came through. Doing a spectacular routine that left the audience cheering on their feet and the Swedish team somewhat dumbfounded, Joe racked up 28.5 points to tie for first with teammate Don Holder. This breaked the final score in Florida State Gymkana 50½ Sweden 49½.

Dr. Price and his squad had just made gymnastics history. By defeating the Swedish team the Florida State gymnasts have drawn the eyes of the United States to Tallahassee. Nowhere else in the United States do people have the right to say "We beat the Swedish Olympic team!" Nowhere else has such a major humanities upset occurred.

But Dr Price has achieved the impossible. Dr Price and the members of Florida State Gymkana Team.

Dr Price can truthfully say "The difficult we do immediately, the impossible takes a little longer!"

Top individual scorer for FSU was Olympic man Don Holder. Don took first place on the parallel bars, tied for first with teammate Joe Taylor on the still rings, and added a second in the side horse and fifth in calisthenics.

Rafael Lecouna, captain of Cuba's 1952 Olympic team, was the side horse event with a score of 29 out of a possible 30 points, one of the highest scores ever recorded in such an event. Lecouna received a special prize at the end of the meet for his top score.

Anders Lindh won the calisthenics with 28.7 points. Lindh later received a special award for having the highest score of any Swede in any event.

Borje Stattin, last year's Swedish champion, placed in all five events he entered but couldn't get closer than a third place.

Total possible points for each performer in each event was 30. First place received ten points, second received four, third three, fourth two, and fifth one. A victory ceremony similar to those in the Olympic games followed the side horse and fifth in calisthenics.

Total possible points for each performer in each event was 30. First place received ten points, second received four, third three, fourth two, and fifth one. A victory ceremony similar to those in the Olympic games followed each event with Miss Anita Wasmo Gymkana of 1954, crowning the first place winners.

Sports For This Week

Tuesday — Spring Football practice continues.
Wednesday — FSU swimmers face Kentucky, East Campus pool at 8 p.m.
Saturday — FSU Gymnasts in Southern Intercollegiate championships at Durham, N. C.; FSU rifle-ballers in Florida AAU tournament at St. Petersburg.

From The Sidelines

By Ken Kingery
Flambeau Sports Editor

Cooch Hortley Price Does It Again!

Coach Hartley Price has pulled another out of the bag. After the impressive victory over the Internationally famous Swedish Gym team, the FSU Gymkana will be looking for several national crowns. Behind all these strings of victories is a star gymnast himself. This is without a doubt . . .

"The Mon" . . . . Coach Price!

Recognized as one of the most competent coaches in the history of gymnastics in the United States, Dr. Hartley Price is in his fifth year as coach of the nationally-famous Florida University Gymnastics team.

Competing with the best gymnastics talent in the land, Dr. Price has led FSU gymnasts to four national team titles in three seasons, the NCAA and NAAU crowns in 1951 and repeating as NCAA team champion in 1952, after being edged out of a second straight AAU title. Last year FSU won the NAAU Championship.

In addition, Dr Price is credited with developing FSU's Bill Roetzheim and Don Holder, who represented the United States at Helsinki, Finland, in 1952.

However, national championships are not exactly new to the Seminole coach. As gymnastics coach at the University of Illinois, his team won four NCAA titles and twice copped the national AAU buntins

Born in Brisbane, Australia, Dr. Price was a standout athlete in "The Land Down Under" before coming to the United States. In Australia he won a number of gymnastics titles.

After coming to America in the early '20's, Dr. Price entered Springfield College in Massachusetts where he was a member of the gymnastics team. He was graduated from Springfield with a BS in physical education in 1928

He later studied at the University of Illinois where he received his BS in education in 1929 and his MS in education in 1931.

It was in the mid-thirties that Price recommenced producing championship gymnastics teams at Illinois. During World War II, Dr. Price served as head of gymnastics and tumbling at the Navy's Pre-Flight school in Iowa and later at St. Mary's Pre-Flight school. He served as coordinator of gymnastics for the Naval aviation program and authored the Navy's "Tumbling and Gymnastics Guide." He has written numerous magazine articles.

After discharge from the service, Dr. Price entered New York University where he completed work on his doctor's degree in 1945.

In 1949 Price was awarded the research award from the American Academy of Physical Education and in 1950 was listed in the monthly supplement of "Who's Who in America."

A firm believer in permiting his gymnasts to work out their own problems, Coach Price is a strong disciplinarian on hard work and strives to build within his competitors a keen desire to excel.

"Passing Foncy" Here June 10-12

A three-day clinic, headlined by such his time professional football stars as "Slinging" Sammy Baugh, Cleveland's and Detroit's star quarterbacks Otto Graham and Bobby Layne respectively, Redskins Harry "Sweet Hips" Gilmer, plus Bobby Thomason and Pete Pihos will be the "features" in the first annual coaching clinic at Florida State University June 10-12.

Dr. Howard Danford, Florida State's Director of Athletics, announced this three-day clinic will be known as "Passing Fancy." It was arranged and will be directed by the inventive head football coach of Florida State, Tom Nugent.

Pros To Give Inside Information On Their Technique

This will be the first coaching clinic devoted exclusively to all phases of the modern passing game. It will be the first clinic in which professional stars join to give inside information on the techniques that carried them to success.

Dook S. Campbell Stodium To Be the Site

Highlight of the clinic will be actual on-the-field demonstrations of all aspects of passing by the entire clinic staff. Panel discussions, questions and answer sessions and movie of recent professional games are also on the agenda.

"Passing Fancy" has been long-time an idea of FSU's Tom Nugent. The optimistic Irishman who is rapidly becoming known as "football's Mike Mait' has made brief headlines with his double quarter, tny-writter huddle and I-formation innovations.

Cost of the clinic for each coach or player will be $15, which includes housing in FSU's new "SKyscraper" 11-story dormitory. The Coaches are invited to bring or send their quarterbacks.

Here's a Brief Rundown On the Professionals

SAMMY BAUGH, a veteran of 16 years with the Washington Redskins and a quarter of a century of football, holds almost every passing and kicking record in the game. He was voted the greatest living quarterback in an Associated Press poll. Slingin' Sammy was also an All-American at Texas Christian University in 1936.

HARRY GILMER, also a Washington Redskin, was a sensation for Alabama's Crimson Tide in the mid 1940's. A defensive genius, Gilmer is considered to be the greatest exponent of the running jump pass.

BOBBY LAYNE, pride of the Detroit Lions, led his club to a come-from-behind victory over the Cleveland Browns for the World Professional Championship this past season. A former Texas great, Layne is regarded as one of the game's finest field generals.

OTTO GRAHAM, an habitual all-professional quarterback selection, guided the Cleveland Browns to the World championship in 1952. He was a football and basketball All-American at Northwestern

BOBBY THOMASON is the game's most promising "rookie." After brief stints with Los Angeles and Green Bay, the 23-year-old ex-VMI star blossomed last fall as the Philadelphia Eagles' No. 1 quarterback. Thomason was also an all-pro selection.

PETE PIHOS is heralded as one of the greatest pass receivers of all time. The giant Philadelphia Eagle end, after winning All-America honors at Indiana under Bo McMillin, has established almost every pass-catching record in the Eagles' book.

In "Passing Fancy," Pihos will be the target for aerials thrown by Baugh, Graham, Layne, Gilmer and Thomason.

Intramurals

Intramural basketball dribbled off to a low-scoring start last Thursday, with Phi Delta Theta, Delta Tau Delta, Sigma Nu, Phi Kappa Tau, Sigma Phi Epsilon, and the PiKappa Phi setting off on the right foot with wins.

Yesterday Delta Tau Delta and Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Phi Delta Theta and Lambda Chi Alpha went to war on the courts. Results in games not scheduled like this Kappa Sigma and Lambda Chi Alpha, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Phi Kappa Tau, Phi Delta Theta and Kappa Alpha, Pi Kappa Phi and Sigma Chi, Pi Kappa Alpha and Theta Chi, Alpha Tau Omega and Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Statistics on who won and who lost in the dormitory league of the intramural-basketballing is incomplete.

Last Thursday's scoring ran like this:

PHI KAPPA TAU: 27.
LAMBDA CHI ALPHA: 26.

Zorette	8 pts
Murphy	3 pts
McVinny	11 pts
Bowden	2 pts
Stubbs	0 pts
Nichols	0 pts
Lee	0 pts
Van Middleworth	0 pts

LCA:

Cowart	4 pts
Mayerhofer	8 pts
Sherman	2 pts
Fountain	2 pts
Hudson	2 pts
Hall	8 pts

DELTA TAU DELTA: 25
KAPPA ALPHA: 28

DTD:

Worrell	13 pts
Hayes	3 pts
Jones	3 pts
Baker	2 pts
Straub	0 pts
Schneider	0 pts
Rains	0 pts
Angelia	0 pts

KA:

Mercer	12 pts
McKenzie	13 pts

Durham	3 pts
Bettian	0 pts
Bailey	0 pts
Jones	0 pts

PHI DELTA THETA: 31
KAPPA SIGMA 16.

PDT

Beverly	16 pts
Schaus	3 pts
Bell	3 pts
Bass	2 pts
Long	1 pts
Mabry	2 pts
Lowe	0 pts
Bowers	4 pts
Ellis	0 pts

KS

Hardee	5 pts
Hamilton	3 pts
Lewis	3 pts
Hall	0 pts
Hutto	0 pts
Barrow	0 pts
Bennett	0 pts
Ramsey	0 pts

SIGMA NU: 29.
THETA CHI: 15.

PKP

Ashberry	6 pts
Johnson	2 pts
Spatz	2 pts
Ellis	0 pts

H

Hancock	8 pts
Wilson	0 pts
Cunningham	2 pts
Bellamy	0 pts
Allen	2 pts
Lee	0 pts
Lasser	0 pts

SIGMA NU: 27.
KAPPA SIGMA: 15.

SN

Perkins	8 pts
Whitehurst	0 pts
Thompson	4 pts
Ellis	2 pts
Lasher	1 pt
Lee	2 pts
Bell	0 pts
Johnson	0 pts
Thorn	0 pts
Sally	2 pts

KS

Anderson	4 pts
Hale	3 pts
Wood	2 pts
Mabry	2 pts
Bell	2 pts
Bass	0 pts
Mannion	0 pts
Bowers	0 pts
Ellis	0 pts

The A. T. O's beat the Phi Delta Theta in the Golf finals.

The dorms are still playing tennis, both singles and doubles. They are also in the middle of their golf matches.

HAWAII IN A STATE HOUSE

(ACP)—Enterprising juniors at the University of Utah have produced what is believed to be the most unusual junior prom in the country.

The bus dance, top junior social event, was held in the hangar rotunda of the Utah State Capitol.

More than 2 000 orchids, flown in from Hawaii plus palm fronds, fishing nets and sailing ships converted the rotunda from the genteel center of state affairs to a replica of an island hotel club. Hawaiian-born Utah students complete with ukeleles welcomed guests as though they had arrived for an "Hawaiian Holiday" and coeds were presented with imported flower leis.

But despite the manufactured the dance did not so advertised. Several students were disturnulled because the music was provided by a local band and not a "name" one

NEW ZEALAND JOURNALISTIC CODE

(ACP)—Following are some of the provisions of the code governing which student editors in New Zealand operate:

"The editor should not permit the paper to be used as an instrument of propaganda for any one set of ideas, one group or one person.

"No editor should suppress any viewpoint merely because it conflicts with his own or his staff's.

"No criticism of any individual, or organization, shall be published without that individual or organization being permitted the right of reply."

Groups Must Give 'Asking Budget' --- Budget Head James

Organizations receiving money from the student activities fee must submit a "asking budget" to the budget committee by March 20 if they want to have the privilege of naming their own stipend for next year, budget committee head Ed James said today.

James said a special formal mailed out to heads of all organizations receiving such money were mailed some time ago. Many have not come in, he said, and the budget committee will have to make its own recommendations as to how much will be allotted these organizations if no word is received.

James said the next year's budgets will be "tight" and "every penny will have to be accounted for." Student budget committee's recommendations are sent to Senate for approval and then to the Faculty Budget Committee for final approval.

Any organization to which the budget requests apply is asked to obtain a budget form from the Student Body offices as soon as possible.

James also announced a meeting of the Budget Committee this afternoon at 4:30 in Room 202 Westcott. All members are urged to attend.

Cute as a Button!

That's What You'll Say When You See

"Cuddle Bunny," "Bunny Long Legs," and "Molly and Peter Rabbit!" Just

Part of Our Wide Selection of Slumber Pals designed for you!

Like Music—? See and hear "Puffy" the Musical Bunny! All Wonderful for Easter Giving!

Also—Get Your Gift and Greeting Cards from Tallahassee's Largest Selection At

HOUSE of GIFTS

Pictured above is the Swedish gym team in their group calisthenic specialty that thrilled the fans last Saturday as they crowded into the East Campus Gym.

Bob Hudson Picked FSU Nine Captain

Bob Hudson, long-ball hitting junior from Sarasota, has been elected captain of the 1954 Florida State University baseball team.

Hudson, an outfielder, led the Seminoles in runs scored last season. The red-haired lefthand batter slammed five triples last season to set a new FSU record in that department.

The Seminoles open a 22-game Spring schedule against Jacksonville Navy in Jacksonville March 12.

THE LID IS OFF

(ACP)—For several years the Ohio State Lantern, Ohio State University, has complained because it was not allowed to cover closed meetings.

Now at least one door has been opened. The paper will be permitted to cover the university's board of trustees meetings from now on, because of a state law which just went into effect. The law requires all state boards and commissions but one to meet in the open.

RESTRING WITH ASHAWAY BRAIDED RACKET STRING

STANDS OUT in play
- Harder Smashes
- Better Cut and Spin

STANDS UP in your racket
- Moisture Immune
- Lasting Liveliness

COSTS LESS than gut

APPROX. STRINGING COST: Pre-Packed Braid...$6.00 Multi-Ply Braid...$5.00

At tennis shops and sporting goods stores.

ASHAWAY BRAIDED RACKET STRING — Choice of The Champions

Don't Leave . . .

Till You've Ordered Your

Graduation Announcements

INTERNS . . . It'll Be Too Late To Get Them When You Return to Campus—

See Us Today!

University Book Store

BOTTLED UNDER AUTHORITY OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY BY

Tallahassee Coca-Cola Bottling Company

"Coke" is a registered trade-mark. © 1954, THE COCA-COLA COMPANY

Lucille Ball, Desi Arnaz Bring Their Crazy Antics To Screen

The lovable comic team from the TV show, "I Love [illegible]," bring their antics to the screen in M-G-M's color [illegible]oduction The Long, Long, Trailer.

LUCILLE BALL and DESI ARNAZ have a riotous time with honeymoon trailer troubles. The honeymoon on wheels is sparked by the exhuberant hospitality of fellow trailerites, who don't know the young couple are on their honeymoon.

Marjorie Main adds to their [illegible] complications as Mrs. Hit[illegible], the amiable busybody of [illegible] trailer court. Keenan Wynn also a member of the comedy's [illegible] playing the part of an irate [illegible]ffic officer who doesn't ap[illegible]eciate long, long trailers.

The Long, Long Trailer plays [illegible] the Florida Theater Wednes[illegible] through Saturday this week. The first picture ever to be made in the remote areas along the Sahara Rim and the Atlas Mountain Range, SAADIA, plays for the last times tonight at the Florida Theater.

Starring Cornel Wilde, Mel Ferrer and Rita Gam, who made her film debut in The Thief, Saadia is the story of a beautiful young Berber girl raised in the superstitions of her tribe and a victim of witchcraft.

The technicolor adventure-romance casts Miss Gam in the title role of SAADIA, pursued by the tribal chief and a young French doctor. The horse which Miss Gam rides in the film was presented for her use by the Pasha of South Morocco and is valued at $100,000.

A new hairdo perhaps, but the same Rita Hayworth of screen popularity comes to Tallahassee as W. Somerset Maugham's Miss Sadie Thompson, personified.

Columbia Pictures' production in Technicolor also stars Jose Ferrer and Aida Ray as the male leads. Rita dances and sings again as a beautiful nightclub singer who enjoys the laughter and wisecracks of 100 marines with whom she is stranded on an island atoll.

Miss Sadie Thompson plays at the State Theatre beginning Wednesday and ending Saturday.

Miner Resigns

From Page 1

[illegible]nt budget committee, student [illegible]elfare, and help committees and [illegible] calendar committee.

Student Party would also have a special typing room in the library, suggestion boxes in dormitories, fraternities and sororities, periodical films shown in conjunction with general education subjects, and meal tickets or cash payment for student work in the University cafeterias.

Following approval and dis[illegible]ssion of the platform, execu[illegible]es then turned to the matter [illegible] representation at the party [illegible]nvention.

Setting March 10 Convention [illegible] the party chiefs then dis[illegible]ssed selection of delegates from [illegible] main areas of student popu[illegible]on here. They noted delega[illegible]ons come from independent [illegible]omen, men, fraternities and so[illegible]ties and day students. The [illegible]umber of delegates allowed each [illegible]rea, they said, will be the same [illegible] last year—on the basis of [illegible]pulation, with one delegate for [illegible]ery fifty residents. Delegates must be elected in their own areas, they noted, and there will be no proxies allowed at the con[illegible]ntion.

Tau Epsilon Phi Chapter Adds Two

Don Tromblay and Dick Pasenti became members of the FSU colony of Tau Epsilon Phi Monday night, bringing the total membership of the new fraternity to 10.

The group made plans to go to Gainesville and join with the University of Florida TEP chapter in celebrating their founder's day March 5.

The members discussed possibilities of purchasing the present Pi Kappa Phi fraternity house which will soon be vacated.

OFFICIAL ENTRY BLANK
FLAMBEAU-GOLD KEY STREET NAMING CONTEST

ADDRESS ....
(Dorm, Sorority, Fraternity) Box No.

Lettered Streets: Name each one:
Theme: (Your Street Name Here):

A (Fla. Botanical Names) ....

B (Former FSU Presidents) ....

C (Florida Cities) ....

D (Seminole Chiefs) ....

E (Confederate Generals) ....

F (Noted Educators) ....

G (Colleges, Universities) ....

H (Former Fla. Governors) ....

TEAR OUT AND MAIL OR BRING TO FLAMBEAU OFFICE BY SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 5 p.m.

Above: Contest blank reprinted for extension of the FLAMBEAU-GOLD KEY STREET-NAMING CONTEST . . . . . Just FILL IN YOUR CHOICE OF NAME for each theme, tear out, and SEND OR BRING TO FLAMBEAU OFFICE . . . CONTEST WINNERS ANNOUNCED IN FRIDAY EDITION . . . . .

Going Downtown? Why Not Eat At M & N Cafe?

Our Specials:

Tomorrow —Wednesday:
Juicy Broiled Filet Mignon
With Mushroom Sauce
French Fries—Chef's Salad
(With Our Famous Roquefort Dressing!)
$1.00

Thursday:
Whole Broiled Fla. Lobster—Giant Size!
With Lemon-Butter Sauce
French Fries, Chef's Salad and Dressing
$1.00

Friday:
Tallahassee's Finest Seafood Platter
Full of Jumbo Shrimp, Deviled Crab, Tasty, Crispy Oysters, Sea Trout and Hush Puppies, Chef's Salad, French Fries
$1.00

Come In Today! You Won't Stay Away! M & N Cafe! E. Jefferson St.

"Now this is the way to heave the pigskin." From left to right; Mitzi McCallough (kneeling), Ja[illegible] Ann Hutto, Jean Martin, Ann Hayes and Janet Epting of Kappa Alpha Theta pick up a few tips on passing from Coach Richard Esposito in preparation for their seventh annual Powder Puff Bowl meeting with the Pi Phi's on March 6th.

KA Honors 4 At 'Convivium' Here Recently

Robert E. Lee, spiritual founder of the Kappa Alpha social fraternity, was honored in the group's annual "Convivium." "An interesting speech was given by the Knight-Commander which inspired us all" averred John H. Smith, spokesman for the chapter.

The spokesman continued, "Jim Ball was presented a gavel as a token of the appreciation for the hard work he performed during the last year as President . . ." He noted Richard Thierry received the Outstanding Pledge award, and Richard Ervin Jr., the Scholarship award.

"Among many outstanding guests," according to the spokesman, "were the Knight-Commander, Howard P. Locke, President (Colonel) Campbell, Claude Pepper, Dr. Killian, Dean Corson, Asst Dean Carr, Godfrey Smith and President of Kappa Alpha Auxiliary Mrs. Jim Ervin.

Kappa Alpha also entertained, last week, women of Kappa Alpha Theta. During the party Miss Marlies Gesler presented a fashion show of her own designs.

At the close of the party, the spokesman said, "The KA's and the KAT's joined in together to sing the National Anthem (DIXIE), including the rebel yells."

At The Library

(Continued From Page 2)

them. The University of Florida has had a checking desk for many years.

The checking desk is not an information center but the personnel are always willing to give you non-technical information when the regular information desk is not manned.

Those of you who have stopped to enjoy a moment of friendly chit-chat with the checking desk personnel know they appreciate a smile and your cooperation in making their jobs more pleasant. Smiles are contagious, too.

THERE WAS A PROFESSOR . . .

(ACP)—This one has them laughing at the University of Nebraska:

On the first day of second semester classes, a tardy professor walked into a room where 100 students had gathered for a political science class.

He walked briskly to the blackboard, erased what had been written there and announced, "If there's anyone not here for Political Science 4, now's the time to leave."

The students protested. This was Political Science 1, they said. Then it dawned on the bewildered professor, who grinned, apologized, said "I must be in the wrong room" and left.

A minute or so later the right professor came in.

FLAPPERS PARTY IT

Gamma Phi Beta, national social sorority, highlighted its annual week-end this past Friday, Saturday and Sunday with a Flapper party around a 1920's theme, a Crescent Ball Saturday night and a coast party Sunday.

Fordham Adopts College and City Cooperative Pla

NEW YORK, N. Y. (I.P.)—A broad report dealing with the relation of higher education to the community and with means whereby college-community cooperation is being advanced in this state was adopted unanimously at Fordham University by the Association of Colleges and Universities of the State of New York. The occasion was the association's annual meeting. Present were 115 representatives of the 105 institutions of higher education which comprise the association.

The report, completed by the New York State Citizens' Council, surveyed 26 member institutions of the Association, listed five ways in which college-community cooperation is being carried out in this state. They were summarized as follows:

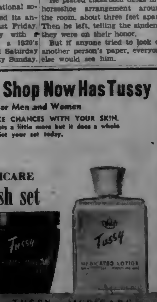
Utilization by the college of the skills, abilities, and education of persons within the community for the purpose of enriching the educational process; utilization by the college of the community as a laboratory for the purpose of advancing the educational process; initiation by the college of projects requiring coordination of community resources for the growth of the community; initiation by the college of common community undertakings in which the college functions merely as one of many agencies within the community; development by college and community of mutually beneficial undertakings.

One conclusion drawn from the study indicated that in some schools "cooperation results from a declared policy," while in other institutions cooperation is "haphazard and governed by no such college-wide policy." Recommendations submitted by the Advisory Committee urged wide distribution of the report, further study both within the college and through regional and state conferences and a state clearing house for information on college-community relations.

GAMMA PHI INITIATES

Sixteen new members were initiated recently into Gamma Phi Beta, national social sorority. They are Connie Austin, Martha Sue Bleckley, Sylvia Closter, Lucille Di Cristofaro, June Du Bois, Marjorie Flammer, Jean Grantham, Mary Frances Horn, Patricia Huffstutler, Betty Ann King, June McCaskill, Faye Moses, Patricia Ott, Jeane Stewart, Sandra Weaver and Sylvia White.

At an invitation banquet given in honor of the new members June Du Bois was given a cup for being the outstanding pledge and Sandra Weaver received the scholarship cup.



TEST OF HONOR

(ACP)—A professor at the University of Indiana has solved the cheating problem—at least temporarily.

He placed classroom desks in a horseshoe arrangement around the room, about three feet apart. Then he left, telling the students they were on their honor.

But if anyone tried to look on another person's paper, everyone else would see him.

The Sweet Shop Now Has Tussy
For Men and Women
DON'T TAKE CHANCES WITH YOUR SKIN. Medicare costs a little more but it does a whole lot more! Get yours set today.
TUSSY MEDICARE anti-blemish set
ONLY $2.00

Music Grants Open To Fifteen Frosh

Talented freshmen who are outstanding string players have a chance to apply for 15 scholarships of 100 dollars each, Dr. Karl O. Kuersteiner, dean of the School of Music, announced today.

Dean Kuersteiner said the scholarships are to give outstanding high school musicians a chance to continue their study and to play with the Florida State University Symphony Orchestra.

Candidates should apply to the dean of the School of Music or to the director of the University Symphony.

The scholarships were presented by the Service League of Tallahassee, which sponsors the State Symphony of Florida.

Moscow University

From Page 1

available to students who maintain good and excellent marks, roughly equivalent to an A or a B average. Upperclassmen get bigger scholarships than underclassmen.

Russian students were curious about the American system of scholarships and often asked if it is possible for children of American farmers and workers go to college. Frequently we were asked about our own class background.

In return for their scholarships, Soviet college graduates must serve for three years at whatever job the government assigns them. When we asked students whether they had any choice of jobs, they said yes, but that no two people ever compete for the same job.

Russian students are deferred from military service while they are in school, and apparently even after they graduate. They told us the government considers them more valuable as scientists and engineers than as soldiers. There is some military training in the colleges, similar to our Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC). We were told graduates of this program get commissions but are not called to active duty.

We visited three other colleges besides Moscow—Stalin University, Azerbaijan Industrial College at Baku, and the Odessa Institute of Technology.

At each of these places we found the same heavy emphasis on science and engineering courses. "Here we stress practical work," the president of Stalin University told us. "Students are training for particular jobs. Every summer they go to all parts of the Soviet Union for laboratory and field work."

About the only people who major in areas like the social sciences and humanities are those who expect to become teachers.

This emphasis on research goes back into the high school, too. The Russians call them middle schools. A student in his tenth year of middle school—equivalent to our high school senior—takes almost all science courses.

A Kiev middle school principal told us the compulsory course consists of algebra, geometry, trigonometry, chemistry, physics, psychology, astronomy, logic, a choice of foreign language, physical culture, history, Russian and Ukranian. It was this same principal who told us although education is compulsory for ten years in the larger cities, it is not free for the last three years. Tuition in Kiev was 280 rubles ($50) a year, and there were no scholarships for students in these grades.

We asked about illiteracy in Russia and were told, "There is no illiteracy." Then we were asked about illiteracy in the United States, especially in the South.

The major problem for the Soviet educators seemed the same wherever we went—not enough space for a growing student population. That is, everywhere but Moscow University. Everybody there was more than happy with their shiny new school.

YUGOSLAVIA: BOYCOTT . . .

(ACP) — Students at the University of Belgrade, Yugoslavia, enforced their will recently by boycotting lectures.

Their demands for a free choice of examination terms and a chance to repeat exams were met after a meeting with faculty members, and, mission accomplished, the boycott was ended.

Preceptorial System Selects Members From Various Groups

ASHLAND, Wis. (I. P.)—In his follow-up article on the newly organized Northland College Preceptorial Group, Dr George B. Strother Academic Vice-President, reports these additional facts:

The Precepts, as the groups are called are made up of cross-sectional groups — all four classes are represented, several major fields of interest are included, a variety of regional, national, and social backgrounds are sought. In this way a cross-fertilization is achieved. The groups are selected by the individual Preceptor on the basis of personal history blanks, and an effort is made to bring together people who will be congenial, but at the same time of different backgrounds. Extra-curricular activities, hobbies, work experience, personal likes and dislikes are taken into consideration to insure compatibility of the members of the group. In addition to the primary educational function of the Precept, the Preceptor is concerned with the following:

a) The extra-curricular work experience of the student, both its educational value and its value as financial assistance. b) The students' participation in extra-curricular activities. The Preceptor tries to encourage participation in those activities which will be of particular value to the student. c) The program of studies: is the student carrying the right load? is he working off his general studies his major and minor requirements? etc.; d) Academic problems: is the student having difficulty in certain courses? Does he know how to study? etc. e) Personal problems: are there personal factors which interfere with the student's work? etc.; f) Vocation and post-collegiate plans.

In all these areas, the Preceptor consults freely with others when the problem is one which requires expert assistance. The student also consults with his major advisor and others with respect to particular requirements. Many students have other faculty contacts and the Preceptorial relationship is in no way restrictive. The student feels free to consult with others as he wishes, but the Preceptor's ultimate responsibility is comprehensive. He must assure himself that the areas of the student's need are covered by himself or others.

The Preceptorial System has value for the faculty member, too. By maintaining close contact with a representative group of students he learns to understand student reactions and needs better. He, too, grows intellectually by meeting his responsibility for the students' education as a whole. The instructor in Humanities interests himself in the Natural Sciences and the Physical Science professor finds himself involved with the Social Studies. This fosters more interaction among the faculty as well as the student body.

Roommates Work

From Page 1

about 15 really active members, according to Kelley. It means getting them out to meetings. They help the county organization by speaking for the candidate manning the headquarters, writing convincing campaign letters to their parents and soliciting campaign funds.

As for Chapman, who is at present FSU student body vice-president in charge of men's affairs, his motives and duties are pretty much the same. His nucleus group has held several meetings and has scheduled an open meeting Sunday in the Student Senate room for all students interested in working for Johns.

"It gives me an opportunity to meet new people and to gain experience," he said. "Politics is my main interest and my major, so you can see why this is valuable experience. In addition, both my father and mother are active in politics."

Both Chapman and Kelley are active Student Party members. Chapman heads the Student Party delegation from West Hall. Their activity in dormitory government, particularly the one in West Hall, has earned for their eighth floor room the nickname of "Hominy Hall," paraphrazing Tammany Hall of New York.

The real story behind these two active politicians is that they are able to get along together. "When we're in the room we're roommates," comments Kelley, "but outside we're polititicians. We can't agree on anything politically, but outside of that we're good friends."

Each of them, of course, stoutly insists that his candidate is "the only one who has a chance; the only one for Florida."

They each insist that their respective candidates are the only ones who can provide "good government for the state."

Maybe they'll forget they're friends and kill each other. Perhaps they'll be drafted and not be around for the elections. They might even be cheated of their labors by a dark-horse write-in candidate. Who knows?

This is America. Anything can happen.

Minister, POW

From Page 1

the Army's decision to ry Cpl. Edward Dickenson, one of the GI prisoners who turned Communist and then came back at "Freedom Village," Tarbuck said: "He must have it coming. I know of plenty so called "Progressive" in the camps who informed on GI's and got in good with the Communists, and nothing has happened to them since they got back. I figure if the Army has singled this one guy out to court marshal, he must have done something big."

Intelligent Faith Week at FSU is sponsored by the University Religious Council under the auspices of the Florida Chain of Missionary Assemblies and is set aside for the stressing and evaluating of the spiritual needs of the students and faculty.

SPEECH REPRESENTED

Dr. Clarence W. Edney, head of the Department of Speech, is representing the field of speech in the University of Oklahoma's annual Conference of Vocations today and tomorrow.

WANTED
Music Maker!
Can You Play A Solovox?
If So, And You Want a Job, Call
THE MECCA TODAY!

Congressman Want Access To Files

Congressman Kit Clardy (R-Mich.) told four college students and the nation that he will need access to executive department files if he is to aid congressional committees in investigating Communist infiltrations in national government.

Speaking on ABC Television's Junior Press conference, Clardy said the files must be opened if "we are to find out who hired Communists, moved them around and in many cases promoted them."

Clardy, a member of the house un-American activities committee, was interviewed by Marcia-rose Shestack of the United States National Student association; Ursula Mahoney of Hunter College (New York); Gene Keating of the College of St. Thomas (Minn.); and Ronald Eisenman of the City College of New York.

In response to the students' questions, Clardy said the committee never asks a witness if he is or ever has been a Communist "unless it has definite evidence."

"The only people who are hurt by the committee's investigations are those who deserve to be hurt," Clardy said.

Wellesley Plans A New System Teaching English

WELLESLEY, Mass (I. P.) — A plan for independent reading and discussion outside the classroom, of certain books not studied in courses, was announced here recently to Wellesley College senior English majors. The plan of reading included a list of nine books to be read and studied in conjunction with review for the English General examination.

According to Miss Evelyn K. Wells, chairman of the department of English, "this plan has been brewing in our minds for several years. The possibility of a senior reading course or discussion group had been proposed, and this is the final outcome." She also added that "It is in no sense a fifth course. If the students are reading the books at the same time, this will provoke discussion about them and will lead to suggesting a point of view towards other works studied in class."

Miss Wells stated that in a major department which includes so many possible combinations of courses, there is need for common testing ground. Last year three books were suggested before the English General examination, including a novel, a play, and a book of poetry. Two years ago a single novel was used. "Many people felt, however, that these previous suggestions were announced so late that the rest of the review was subordinated," she explained.

The new plan was suggested early in the fall of 1953. The English General Examinations Committee has since met with the entire department, reporting its progress on working it out. Because the plan was a kind of experiment, they also consulted with the Curriculum Committee. Members of the department were encouraged to make comments and suggestions, and these additional ideas were discussed and assimilated as the committee shaped the program into its present form.

Stancik Proposes

From Page 1

night at 7:00, according to Stancik.

Stancik said that the purpose of the meeting is "To organize election procedures, plan tentative dates for political party conventions, and give official opinions to candidates regarding campaign procedure and eligibility."

He called attention to the fact that general election rules for the coming elections may be picked up by prospective candidates and interested students at the Student Government Office in the Alumni Building from 2 until 5 p.m. each week day.

FOR SALE — Mahogany record cabinet $10. Meissner 8-C P M Tuner $20. Call 2-6277 after 6 p.m. Schwarts.

Try Quality Dry Cleaners
For Expert
Special 1 Day Service — Pressing, Repairing, Altering
Pickup or delivery
Call 2-5097 215 W. College

Like Drive-Ins?
or do you
Like a Place to Sit Down and Be Served?
or do you
Like Free Delivery Right to Your Door?
QUAKER HOUSE
Call 2-8677 on the Quincy H'way
Come out and try our Superb Club Sandwich! Succulent Chicken, Lettuce, Tomato and Crisp Bacon Served on Toast.

Steaks, Chops, Chicken, Sea Foods, deliciously cooked and served . .
Large Variety of Sandwiches to Choose From—Largest Soda Fountain in the South!
Choice Swift's Meats Served

Anthropology Is Neglected Science; Anderson Cites Manpower Problem

By BOB GUTTING

The field of anthropology is being strongly neglected by the young men so necessary to any science according to Dr. Robert Anderson, Florida State University anthropologist.

Continued progress in technology and science which the world demands depends on a supply of bright young men, it has been noted. Equally important authorities say, is a supply of young social scientists to understand men, emotions and human relationships.

Throughout the United States, authorities say, young men are entering the field of physics, chemistry and the biological sciences. But anthropology remains neglected.

—Dr. Anderson.

In an interview yesterday Dr. Anderson said that few people realize the opportunities in anthropology. He pointing out that our ever-growing government grew heavily upon anthropologists during the last war for knowledge of people, places and for understandings. It is using anthropologists today in planning international and domestic programs. Corporations employ cultural relationships and codes of etiquette.

Anthropologists also to analyse the relations of persons in groups and things," he explained.

Why, then, is there a shortage in this field? Dr. Anderson believes the social sciences in secondary schools contribute directly to the cause. It is his belief that the social sciences are too often looked upon as all, but pallid, unoriented observations of current events, or an uninspired watering-down of college secondary, economic, and political science. They offer no ease and challenge and promise comparable to the natural sciences.

In investigating this field the first question that arises is "What is anthropology?" The common definition of anthropology is the science of man, or the science of man and his works. According to Dr. Anderson, anthropology's principal working concept and subject matter is culture.

Culture to the anthropologist is an interrelated body of material and non-material things, such as tools and weapons, social institutions and systems, religion, art, folklore, and language.

It emphasized that customs themselves have histories, that they are intimately related functionally and that cultural forms show an evolution and hence a predictability no less than the natural sciences from which anthropology emerged.

The materials anthropologists work with are fresh and challenging. The strange customs of exotic peoples, the humble debris of communities long gone, unearthed by archaeologists, and the many different peoples—the African, Pygmy, the Eskimo Indian, and the Polynesian — that all present a sharp contrast with modern life.

These are the materials which the modern anthropologist can demonstrate that the behaviors of tool-using, the size and character of communities, the nature of kinships, principles of etiquette, education, art forms and philosophy are interrelated and interwoven. They have a spatial compass of the whole world, and a time span of a million years to work with.

Smiley Condemns Universities That Increase Financial Aid

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (I.P.) — Censuring any college which increases an offer of financial aid previously made in order to meet a competing offer from another college was recommended to the Eastern College Athletic Conference meeting recently at the Hotel Bethlehem in Bethlehem City by Dr. E. Kenneth Smiley, vice-president of Lehigh University.

Dr. Smiley also proposed that the ECAC maintain a registry of the college athletic aid which students who intends to or hope to participate in intercollegiate athletics may file. He proposed, said the former chairman of the Commission on Higher Education, "any high school student of athletic prominence or potential who plans to attend college may register with or without financial aid with the participating college and register that fact with the regional conference and will thereafter be ineligible to participate in intercollegiate athletics at any other college or university within the conference."

Dr. Smiley offered the two proposals during his address at the annual schedule-making conference as possible solutions to "the formidable threat to intercollegiate athletics and to higher education that grows out of competitive bidding for athletic talent."

In making the proposals before delegates representing six member colleges of the ECAC Dr. Smiley said these proposals "would not involve the individual college of its responsibility for conducting its own affairs. I do not mean to transfer that responsibility from the individual institution to a regional agency.

"The regional agency can assist the individual institution in the same way that the armed forces of a sovereign nation can assist the properly constituted officers of government in carrying out their international policies, and in the same way that a police force can assist the local government in enforcing regulations designed by the citizens themselves for their own protection.

"If ECAC can assist member institutions in eliminating the evils of competitive bidding for potential students, and in eliminating the increasing practice of subordinating the choice of an educational program to the choice of a particular athletic team, it will have served intercollegiate athletics and the whole area of higher education."

Clothier Features New Evening Wear Complimentary To Vivacious Coeds

With many formal dances on the ashlen. A new way to mix the social slate for Florida State, colors is to have a basic taffeta University this spring, evening slip covered with two different dresses are the main topic of discussion among the girls in dormitory and sorority houses. Maryann's, of downtown Tallahassee, is featuring many new formals that are suitable to the coed's need and purse.

The popular material, tulle, is being used extensively for this purpose. Tulle is a closely woven rayon or nylon net. Another fashion trend is the new opera length dress, which just reaches the spring, and this season canarry yellow is current. A floor length, strapless evening gown with seed pearls set in the midriff and a matching stole may an outstanding outfit, modeled above by Liz Brown.

To make the dresses stand out, and give them the full look that is so popular, a stiff crinoline should be worn. This also accents the waistline and makes it look very tiny.

Light blue is also surprising of the spring season. For sun dancing, the ballerina length dress is popular. This dress is modeled by Pat Dewberry.

Both of these features can be found in one dress at Maryann's, in the form of a sun dress. The neckline is cut low, with small shoulder straps. The bodice is covered with silver flowered net, which is set off by the use of rhinestone for accessories.

Nylon net, which is so practical for college girls to take care of, is popular again this spring. Lis Brown models a white, floor length formal. This dress is strapless, and has sequined midriff. For every special occasion, this dress serves its purpose well. For those coast parties that follow a big weekend, coeds want a large selection of separates they can mix and match. Economically, too, they want something that is practical.

New materials that are inexpensive, practical, and easy to launder are sailcloth, dacian, khaki, and drinkingwood cloth, which need little or no ironing.

Pedal pushers, shorts, skirts and jackets can be found in many colors. The jackets come in short sleeves, or three-quarter length sleeves.

Cotton bathing suits in the newest prints and styles are current. Other materials that are popular are wool, nylon, terry cloth, and knitted. These can be had in all the popular brands. White terry cloth is also featured on the coast. These matched play clothes also have hats which serve aruant the glaring sun.

SMOKE SIGNALS

The entire staff of Smoke Signals has voted on two people to run for editor in the forthcoming elections, according to editor-in-chief John Howard. The magazine is scheduled to be distributed today.

David Dreis and Bob Rice were the two selected by the staff in secret balloting. The staff also nominated two candidates for business manager of the magazine. Nan Hillman and Jeanne Stigler, he said.

Left, Pat Dewberry perches on arm of sofa in a light blue net with silhouette bust-line. In ballerina length, this model should be worn in rhinestones and silver slippers. (Right) . . . for special occasions, a white nylon floor-length formal matching stole. Featured in a sequined laced midriff. Liz Brown is the model.

The ever-popular strapless floor-length gown with sequined midriff. Best in pastel tints with plenty of net, modeled here by pretty Liz Brown.

Pat Dewberry poses prettily in a strapless aqua tulle over coral net. A classic attudy in opera length, the dress has a square-pleated bodice.

Calendar of Events

TODAY, MARCH 2

2 p.m. Student Recitals. Music Hall.

4 p.m. Orientation and Registration Committee, Small Lounge, Lonmire.

4:30 p.m. Informal opening honoring Miss Florence Kawa, whose work is being exhibited in the University Gallery.

5 p.m. Installation of Pan Hellenic Officers, Large Lounge, Lonmire

5 p.m. Les Jongleurs meeting, 101 History.

6 p.m. Marsh Grass-Sheiey Tuesday. Pancake Supper. Students, faculty, and staff cordially invited. Tickets on sale at Rupe Hall Supper at Rupe Hall.

6 p.m. Student Nurses Association, Nurses Arts Lab.

7 p.m. Debate Squad meeting. 208 History

7:30 p.m. American Studies Leclure Series. Lewis Kalilian and others, "American Personality: Fact or Fiction" 215 Music.

7:30 p.m. Pi Omega Pi meeting. Small Lounge Lonmire.

7:35 p.m. Film Preview. "Student Government at Work." "The Talking Car." Tropic Room, Student Lounge, Lonmire

7:30 p.m. Modern Languages Lecture, Richard B. Shoptock, "Zurich, Capital City of Switzerland." Illustrated. Lonmire Buildins

TOMORROW, MARCH 3

12 noon. Ash Wednesday Holy Communion. Rose Hall.

7 p.m. Regular meeting of Delta Sigma Pi, 403 Lonmire

4 p.m. Curriculum Studies Meeting. Small Lounge Lonmire

7:35 p.m. Biology Club. Edwin Tyson, illustrated lecture, "Biological Features of the Northern Rockies." 208 History

7:45 p.m. Ash Wednesday Lenten service. Rose Hall.

8 p.m. "Religion in Greek Civilization." Classic Lecture Series. Dr. Francis R Walton "Popular Religion in the Archaic Period." Lonmire Auditorium

8 p.m. Swimming meet. FSU vs University of Kentucky. East Gymnasium.

8:15 p.m. FSU Symphonic Band, first annual spring concert. Manley Whitcomb, director. Music Hall

THURSDAY, MARCH 4

1 p.m. Graduate Class Luncheon. Georgs Pond will be the speaker. South Seminole

4 p.m. Biological Sciences Seminar. John B. Reid, Assoc Administrative Secretary of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. "The Role of Program of the AAAS " 608 Lonmire

4 p.m. Leon County Council of Teachers of English. Dr. Thomas Lewis, Lonmire Department of Communication." Lonmire Club Room.

8:15 p.m. Film Club. "Torment." Music Hall

8:30 p.m. Concert. The Vienna Spring Symphony sponsored by the Thomasin Entertainment Foundation Municipal Auditorium. Thomasville

NOTICE TO ALL STUDENTS AND FACULTY

Next Artist Series program will be the Don Cossacks Chorus and Dancers on March 16 and 17. Student tickets will be available at the bookstore today. Student persons activities ticket #4 No additional charge Faculty and Staff may purchase tickets Wednesday March 10. Public sales start Monday March 15.

Spring Holidays are April 19 Thursday at 1 p.m. until 8 a.m. Tuesday April 20. Easter is April 18.

Father Mobilish will be in front of the Science Hall during Tuesday March 16 to receive confessions and students are invited to see it.

Competitive examination for General Scholarships for the preparation of teachers will be held April 13, at 9:30 a.m. Test will be given at Leon County High here. College students who have lived in Florida for a year and who are enrolled in School of Education are eligible to try for the $400 scholarship. Further information may be obtained from Dr. Lasinger of the FSU School of Education.

Keep in mind the Faculty Wives Spring dance on Saturday, March 20. Informal

Notices for Calendars of Events should be in the Flambeau Office by Friday for the Tuesday issue and Wednesday for the Friday issue

CAMPUS MOVIE: The Big Trees 7:30 Tuesday Cawthon

Officials Offer Two Programs For Zoologists

Graduate students here working in the field of zoology can have their choice of one of two programs offered at Florida State University, officials revealed recently. Both are parallel, they said, with only one requiring a thesis.

Explaining the reason for the thesis is only one phase of study, spokesmen for the department said harkened back the student determines the courses and program he is to take in graduate school.

The typical student will pick a research problem and work on the average from one to two years. He may, during this time, find such scholarship which will require more time for him to complete his problem. In order to receive his degree in a year, a full load of thirty hours must be taken.

According to officials a typical research problem might consist of determining the length of life of a particular flatworm living in the intestines of an individual's stomach. Phrases in the life of a flatworm are complex that the student might take only the larvae stage one or two students might take another part. The individual will seek past research and or use his original findings they noted.

In writing the thesis there are no specific regulations as to length, and the paper will vary from fifty to a hundred pages. The work, they added must be done adequately to fulfill requirements for the degree.

Each research problem varies, and the student never knows what he will encounter. Some problems take as little as three months to finish, while others may take the full two years, and some even longer, concluded Zoology officials.

Social Will Honor Kawa On Thursday; Works On Display

Miss Florence Kawa, instructor in the Department of Art will be honored at an informal afternoon social hour Thursday which will mark the opening of a new University Gallery display featuring her work.

Students, staff members and visitors are invited to attend the opening Thursday afternoon from 4:30 to 6

Miss Kawa will be represented by five paintings in an exhibition arranged and sent on tour by her New York dealers, Contemporary Arts, Inc. Four other prominent young university artist-instructors will be represented in the exhibit. It will remain on campus through March 25.

Miss Kawa came to FSU seven years ago. In addition to her teaching responsibilities and considerable travel in this country and in Mexico, she has conducted two one-artist shows in New York. She also exhibits in regional and national art shows.

GERMANY: MISUSE OF FUNDS . . .

(ACP) — The student government at the University of Heidelburg, Germany, has rejected a proposal that money continued voluntarily for sports to be used to introduce courses in social dancing.

Riding Classes At Trottaway Give Credit For Saddle Sores

By JOYCE POTTER

How would you like to receive credit for horse back riding? A credit course will be given for a course in horse back riding.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Jack Tacon of the Tropical Stables on the Old St. Augustine Rd., the members of the riding class are picked up each Monday, Wednesday and Friday and carried to the stable free of charge

IFC Asks That 1953's Pledge Be Reaffirmed

CLINTON, N. Y. — (I. P.) — Hamilton College fraternities were asked recently by the Interfraternity Council to reaffirm their pledge to follow the letter and spirit of last year's Interfraternity Council initiation rules at a meeting of the IFC and the Academic Council.

The Academic Council said that much progress had been made by the fraternities in improving Hell Week procedures each year, but it felt that further improvement could be made. Specifically, the Council said that registered complaints by faculty members that freshmen had fallen asleep in class, homework had been done poorly, and the freshmen in several cases got off to a bad second semester start.

The IFC initiation rules for 1954 were reviewed The main objectives are in brief:

1. To avoid harm or indignity should be inflicted on any student.

2. No actions should occur that would bring unfavorable publicity to Hamilton College or discredit upon the fraternity or the individual concerned.

3. Students should have sufficient time for study and sleep so as not to interfere with academic pursuits.

It was stressed that full responsibility for all fraternity action and for anything that results from openly tolerated policies is assumed by the college administration. As the Bowdoin College Hell Week investigation committee on hazing reported recently, "ultimate authority for regulation of undesirable practices must rest with the administration."

Maazzine Soonsors Collegiate Contest Of Science Fiction

In 2054, the United States will be the United American Empire, consisting of all North and South America, and one of the three nations on earth. Space travel will create new problems with a war among the three nations for the colonization of the habitable planets. The average life span will be 144 years.

These are some of the predictions made by students in the $2,000 collegiate science fiction contest sponsored by Of Maazine. The contest is for non-professional undergraduates in the United States and Canada, who are interested in writing their ideas in science fiction. The closing date is May 15.

Contest rules may be had by sending a post card to P. Maazine, Kingston, New York. Winners will be announced in the first week of September. Manuscripts will be judged on ideas and imagination rather than artistic writing skill.

Pierce To Represent FSU At Ad Meet

Al Pierce, graduate student in advertising, will participate in the Association of Advertising Men and Women's Fourth Annual Inside Advertising Week, April 18-23, in New York City.

Students from 48 schools in 23 states and the District of Columbia will participate in a week of lectures, conferences, tours, lunches and dinners, climaxing the Fourth Inside Advertising Banquet, April 22, in the Hotel Biltmore.

Your Favorite Meeting Place Downtown!

Holland's Restaurant

Where You'll Find The Food Always Good!

Our Kitchen Always Open for Your Inspection.

Try Our

Burger Boy Supreme! 65¢

Two Chopped Beaf Patties on Toasted Bun; Melted Cheese, French Fries, Lettuca and Tomatoes,

And A Slice of Our Famous

Hot Dutch Apple Pie

Also Your Choice Of

Many Other Ice Bna Pias

Holland's

W. Pensacola

Air Conditioned for your Comfort

7:30 Wednesday: Florida Hall
7:30 Thursday: Senior Hall
8 Friday: West Hall
Next Week: The Song of Bernadette
7:30 Monday: Landis Hall

Keystone Diamonds
Lectogiire Watches

PAUL TURNER
JEWELER

REPAIRS
107 S. Monroe St. Phone 5-1642

America's Knights of the Sky...

The Spartan Band that held the past,
The Knights of Arthur's train
The Light Brigade that charged the guns,
Across the battle plain
Can claim no greater glory than
The dedicated few
Who wear the Wings of Silver
. . . on a field of Air Force Blue.

For Fellowship...High Adventure...and a proud mission... wear the wings of the U.S. Air Force!

chosen few, who ride the skies on Air Force jets.

As an Aviation Cadet, your kingdom is space—yet is your charge and your mission is the highest. You . . re a key defender of the American faith, with a guaranteed future both in military and commercial aviation.

Join America's knights of the Sky, new men of a new age Be an Aviation Cadet

WHERE TO GET MORE DETAILS:
Contact your nearest Aviation Cadet Selection Team, Air Force R.O.T.C. Unit or Air Force Recruiting Station, Post Office, Armory, or write: Hq., U. S. Air Force, Washington 25, D. C.

UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

Folsom Reviews White's 'Second Tree' See The Booklist

The Florida Flambeau

Senate Probes Compulsory ROTC See Pages 1, 2

VOL. XL, No. 35 PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA Friday, March 9, 1934

Senate Names Group To Probe Compulsory ROTC

Constitution Is An Improvement Over Last Year

Dean Warren Voices Opinions On New Student Constitution

The proposed Student Body Constitution, with seven pages of typewritten additions, corrections and recommendations, was returned by a faculty committee to the Student Body Senate Tuesday.

Dean Katherine Warren, representing the faculty Committee on Student Affairs, presented the Constitution to the Senate Terming the proposed standard an "improvement" over the past, she expressed hopes that it might later be displaced with changes the Senate would consider" the amount of work put in by the faculty committee.

Dean Warren, mentioning student demands for more voice in the allocation of Student Activity funds, said that next year this will be split into two portions, so that students will have so much voice as they do now.

Dean Warren said that $12.10 per semester from each $20 go for "student initiated" activities. The rest, she said, go to "university initiated" activities, such as athletic events and social series' contents.

She said that next year the students will pay two distinct fees, one of $15 which the dean feels will administer, and the other called a "University fee," presumably equal to the difference between $13 and $75, or $62, decreed by the administration.

A Senate request to the faculty committee had asked for a committee of faculty and students charged with the administration of the entire student activity funds.

Senator Jimmy Sales asked if the total of the two fees will be higher than the single registration fee is now. "I don't know," replied Dean Warren, commenting that she had not heard anything in that effect.

Miss Warren recommended a joint committee of faculty and students be appointed to discuss the proposed constitution and iron out difficulties. Senator President Gene Lawler appointed Gordon Gasker, Charis Coulter and himself to the committee.

Also included in the faculty-revised constitution recommended is an article giving the President of the university full power to approve or veto all executive actions, decisions or policies of the university government of officials.

Senator Frank Shaw, calling attention to rumors concerning the possibility of compulsory ROTC next semester, asked that a committee be appointed to investigate the rumors. Appointed to the committee by Senators Shaw, Ray Chapman, Gordon Gasker and Chris McCauley. The committee was also charged to investigate reports that a fraternity was not required to live in dormitories next year.

Executive Secretary Bill Stanfield and Atty. Gen. Pete Nimkoff, ex-officio members of the Senate committees, appeared before the Senate to ask moral support for Stanfield's plan to tally results on IBM machine. They also asked clarification of laws concerning "active campaigning," and relative to conventions. Their problem was referred to the University Court.

Duane Gordon was appointed chairman of the Senate Constitution Committee, filling a vacancy created by the resignation of Chris Young due to outside responsibilities.

A list of appointments by Student Body President Milton Carothers was approved by the Senate.

Margaret Neller was confirmed as secretary of forums, replacing Catherine Beverly Lee.

The Senate also confirmed Max Hillman as under-secretary of elections. Charlie Davis, Jack Pickett and Orin Weis will be the elections committee; and Betty Wilmon and Don Breese as assistant committee assistants.

Flambeau Chooses

The Senior Staff of The Florida Flambeau will nominate candidates for next year's editor and business manager this afternoon, announced Bruce Galphin, editor-in-chief, last Tuesday. All those who wish to be considered for nomination must announce their intention by this afternoon at 5, said Galphin. Others will not be considered.

State Party Elects Officers, Sets Constitution

In its bid for a place in the forthcoming elections, the newly formed State Party had its constitution and platform tentatively approved in a meeting in Longmire Auditorium Wednesday afternoon. Approximately 30 students attended.

The group elected Jack Hunter official party chairman. Others elected include Jayleen Roberson, recording secretary; William Spencer, corresponding secretary, and Bob Berto, treasurer.

The tentative platform of the State Party calls for improved relations between faculty student groups and increased student interest and activity in student affairs, was announced. It also recommended the addition of a course in Religion for the president's cabinet.

Among the planks was a recommendation for the passage of a mediation board to act as a sounding board for administrative policy; sponsoring of inspection.

Also, the sponsoring of a contest to initiate short peppy yells similar to Gelsterlyte's "Go Gators," unique to FSU; wholesale to football games; working towards increasing student interest and interest of all campus organizations in university problems, and regularly scheduled class meetings.

The State Party platform also advocated weekly bulletins before university government making it responsible either to the legislature or the Board of Control. They also recommended that a uniform system be set up for courts and suggested that the Attorney General advise the courts as to their powers.

to set up a system whereby service set up a system whereby service organizations would act as hosts, dispensers of information and help university guests to secure lodgings.

Activity Mounts As Campaigning Draws Nearer

Activity concerning the coming Student Body Election has increased in intensity the past week with speculation mounting particularly on two issues, IBM ballots and convention campaigning, according to election officials.

Student opposition toward the proposed use of IBM ballots in the election has been good, according to Bill Stanfield, Director of Elections. "I am very well pleased with the enthusiastic reaction the students at Florida State University have shown to this new idea," he said. "I hope that with the generous help of Dr. DeGraff and Dr. McLaughlin of the Test Service Bureau, who will be in charge if the system is used, we will make it a success."

Stanfield's proposal passed by the Student Council Tuesday was referred to the Senate for "moral support." A committee was recommended to the Senate to hear it, and will make its report Tuesday. If the Senate gives its approval it will be used for the election. The Senate will meet at 5 o'clock Tuesday meeting the extent of campaigning to be allowed at the polls is considered.

Attorney General Peter Nimkoff gave his official opinion last Wednesday that "active" campaigning was forbidden "Active campaigning" he declared, "means that campaigning is the dissemination of campaign literature; it is not the distribution on the floors in the halls, porticos, posters or similar campaign literature will be legal at the convention. However, campaign speeches may be made and will be considered active solicitation."

In an official ruling, the University Honor Court backed Nimkoff's opinion at its Tuesday night meeting. The ruling stands, the election is on, this definition will stand," according to Richard Bevis, Chief Justice of the court.

Attorney General Nimkoff stated "I realize that I am the one to blame for the election. I am willing to take the blame. The only alternative is a revision of the election code by the Senate. Another way to avoid confusion of terms is considering this."

Stanfield declared that any possible legislation would have to

(Continued on Page 4)

Shaw Questions Day Student Convention Delegation of 15

Asks Day Students If They Thought 15 Was Proper In Relation To Interest Shown

A challenge was brought to tion. The Student Party Conthe independent men's caucus situation states delegates will be Wednesday night, when Student elected on the basis of one for Party Chairman Frank Shaw every 50 students in the pardid the independent men's caucus meeting at West Hall, the challenge to the 10-day situation and acceptance of plans for the soon-to-be formulated party platform. Shaw asked day students if they thought 15 delegates was a proper number in relation to the interest in Student Government shown here by day students.

Several arguments for and against the number of delegates allotted day students were brought to both sides. Day student spokesmen claimed there is "much more interest here than there is college activities." They noted last year's delegation was 20 strong, adding that they were "satisfied in with half their rightful delegation," according to the constitution.

ticular area, eg. fraternities, day students, independents in particular dormitories. Day students elected here number about 1,500.

Spokesmen for the independent delegation from West Hall asked if it weren't possible the day student delegation could be dominated at the convention by one member, enabling them to vote 15 strong, in a solid block for one or more nominees. Day students assured the group such was not the case. They said day students are an independent-voting group, interested in campus events.

A host of attendees was called for at the close of discussion for or against the day students' delegation of ten men, and five women (who weren't present). Caucus then proceeded in favor of the day students' delegation of fifteen. Concluding the

(Continued on Page 4)

Gridiron Relationship Revealed In Survey Conducted By Moore

In favor of the program for athletic contests between FSU and the University of Florida, Coyle Moore, sophomore senator, is conducting a survey of similar situations in other states.

Hirsch Studies Educational TV Needs In State

Florida State University has been seriously considering statewide educational television, Dean McCarty last year. McCarty's views on educational television have been the basis of much study in the university's School of Journalism.

McCarty saw television as a new frontiner in education. In February, 1933, McCarty addressed a Governors' Conference on Educational Television as follows:

"I can envision programs designed to improve public health and health habits; to increase our knowledge of scientific agriculture; to develop a high understanding of the rights and opportunities of good citizenship; to increase safety on the highways, on the job, and in the home; to help our older citizens make adjustments to old age and retirement; to foster a love of good music, information and hobbies, even University Extension courses."

The McCarty foresight was fully realized in the greatest expansion in television. These facts were brought out in a recent address before the State University by Bernard Hirsch, assistant to the director in journalism in January and in new studios recently built at radio at the University of Alabama.

Hirsch's study also pointed out the need for non-commercial television stations in Florida. He found this necessary also in stations working under the problems and pressures of operation, must be into rivalry with both FSU and Mikell Hirsch, "seem to hold water." says Moore.

Along with these statistics, Moore is making a study of the relationship between the two schools which he believes make it inevitable that the University and FSU should enter into complete intercollegiate athletic relations.

"In all sports other than football FSU has been able for some time to hold her own with members of the Southern Conference.

(Continued on Page 6)

Army Intends To Call ROTC '54 Graduates To Active Duty

CINCINNATI, O.—(I. P.) Assistant Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring, in a statement issued by his Personnel, John A. Hannah, recently informed The Xavier University enrollment in the advanced corps, that the plan adopted by the intention of the Department of the Army is to call all graduates of the class of 1934 to active duty with the graduates of 1933 some advanced corps students will probably be called to active duty obligation "in other than commissioned status" before receiving their commissions.

Mr. Hannah, on leave from his duties as president of Michigan State College, did not reveal the method of selecting the students to be commissioned immediately according to the Army's officer requirement, but presumably it is to be made by the Professors of Military Science and Tactics of each college or university to decide

A certificate of completion of ROTC studies will be tendered to successful cadets who are not so commissioned, entitling them to commissions as reserve officers upon release from their two-year non-commissioned duty.

The letter said that although it cadets."

"It must be remembered," the letter continued, "that while the class of 1933 was enrolled in ROTC and deferred from induction, 1,357, 900 other young men were called into military service, and since the selective service calls are expected to continue, others will face induction while the deferred ROTC graduates of succeeding classes are completing their training and edu-

"Some twenty states have two state-supported institutions of higher learning similar to FSU and the University of Florida. Moore states Moore in a report on the survey. "In all but one of these states there exists a long rivalry in football between the two schools."

Several weeks ago, Moore sent a questionnaire to each of these states asking information whether the rivalry in football previously existed and whether the rivalry had a beneficial influence on the whole-student body or not and whether it was the big game on their schedules.

The report reveals that twenty-six replies have been received from sixteen states, and that all but one of these stated that the rivalries were beneficial in every respect. "The majority of these replies stated that the intersate game was the main game on the schedule for each school. In all of the other schools it was among the main games."

Moore states in his report that the results of such games as Georgia-Georgia Tech, Alabama-Auburn, Mississippi-Mississippi State, Michigan-Michigan State, Texas-Texas Christian, Kansas-Kansas State, South Carolina-Clemson, Pennsylvania-Pennsylvania State, Nebraska-U.C.L.A., Indiana - Purdue, Washington-Washington State, Oklahoma-Oklahoma A&M, Oregon-Oregon State, and Colorado-Colorado A&M.

The report states also, "There are three states that have more than one state-supported institution of higher learning similar to North Carolina, and Pennsylvania.

The survey shows that in each of these states well established annual football competition exists between the two schools in each state. Thus Gator Coach Woodruff's contention that Florida should not have an intersate rivalry with both FSU and Mikell Hirsch, "seem to hold water." says Moore.

Along with these statistics, Moore is making a study of the relationship between the two schools which he believes make it inevitable that the University and FSU should enter into complete intercollegiate athletic relations.

"In all sports other than football FSU has been able for some time to hold her own with members of the Southern Conference.

(Continued on Page 6)

Music School Offers Course For Therapists

Students enrolled in the Music Therapy course here will not learn how to use music for the treatment of the mentally ill but they will also learn how to best attack the problems of industrial music. They would study in the fields of work ground in waiting rooms, factories, movies, radio-shows and the use of background music as it effects the emotions.

Further explanation of the new courses in Music Therapy being offered by FSU was announced this week by Assistant Dean Owen Murphree of the School of Music.

FSU's new major field under the School of Music will prove to be one of the first college curriculum of its type. Music Therapy, as the new field of study is called, will search for the applications of music to life and will study the proper way to best use them for the benefit and rehabilitation of the patient.

Studies done by the Veterans Administration Hospital at Dayton, O. have indicated the great value in using music education as an aid to bring further communication from the outside world to the mental patient and also provide an interesting and time consuming activity.

The courses in his field will follow the recommendations of the National Association of Music Therapy, Inc., an organization which include a major in music and a minor in psychology in the student of the field for work in mental hospitals and institutions.

The position at the musical hospitals is that of a "recreational druggist" filling the prescriptions of doctors in terms of music recommendations.

The musical therapist learns how music effects the emotions and how it may be used as a "music operandi" for the mentally ill.

Dr. Sellers warns however that "the people should not expect to find in Music Therapy what is so slow in its help in developing the individual.

The demand for people in this field is large. As it is relatively new there have been few people trained. There is a great recreation for work in this field.

Firms Will Discuss Positions, Openings Beginning Tuesday

Future elementary teachers, accountants, secretaries, chemists, engineers, geologists and geographers will have an opportunity to talk with prospective employers next week when representatives of large organizations visit the campus for recruiting purposes.

According to Glover A. Tully, Director of Placement and Guidance and Placement, Mrs. Byron Hilsman, Superintendent of Schools of the Lake City Schools, will hold individual interviews with elementary teachers on Tuesday, March 9 On March 9 and 10 Mr. Ralph Hall, of the Atlantic Lumber Co., Kingsport, Tennessee, will interview chemistry, accounting and secretarial candidates, and on March 11 Mr. Hayne Hamilton, of the Waterhouse and Co., Atlanta, will interview accountants.

Mr. Hall, chemist and geographic majors will have an opportunity to discuss cartographic openings with Mr. Howard Hill of Tennessee Valley Authority on Friday, March 12.

Interested students may make an appointment with these personnel representatives by calling Ext. 5291 or visiting the Placement Office, 303 Westcott.

News Briefs

PHI KAPPA TAU

Phi Kappa Tau fraternity has elected William Watson president for the coming year, according to the fraternity. Other officers elected were Nelson, vice-president; James Brodie, treasurer; Jerry Fleming, secretary; and Jack Rutherford, pledge master.

Jerry Fleming Dorwyn McElroy, George Carter and Jim Vernan were initiated into the fraternity in ceremonies conducted February 22, it was added.

KAPPA SIGS

Six men were initiated into Kappa Sigma fraternity on Sunday, March 4, according to a fraternity announcement. Initiated were Gus Mallard, James Bowden, Jack Cliff Marshall, Davies Overstah and Ted Slater.

Elected to serve as pledge class officers were Jimmy Boles, president; Ray Chapman, vice-president and Bob Wright, secretary-treasurer. Other members of the pledge class are Bonnie Anderson, Don Heidel, James Hardee and Ronald Wright.

The fraternity announced that it will give an informal party Wednesday night for the A O Pi sorority.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA

Alpha Gamma Delta sorority has elected officers for 1934-35, according to officials. They are Mary Belle Twitty, president; Judy Ash, vice-president; Mary Ellen Bass, 2nd vice-president; Virginia Lee Hamilton, secretary; Jessie Bell, corresponding secretary; Carol Shuler, treasurer; Mary Ellen Hamilton, registrar; Jo Ann Setzer, Panhellenic representative; Carolyn Johnson, rush chairman; and Dee Ruys, social chairman.

SPE ELECTS

Sigma Phi Epsilon officers for the coming year were announced by Ernest La Roche; vice-president, Henry Baker; comptroller, Cary Asbury; historian, James Williams; secretary, Walter Johnson; senior marshall, Norman Burch.

Junior marshall, Harry Elkins; pledge trainer, Kay Kay Chapkis; Jerry Sellers. New pledges are Norris Worland, Jim McDaniels.

(Continued on Page 4)

Interns Will Begin Final Lap Of Teacher Training Saturday

Beginning the final lap of their teacher training, approximately 200 education students will leave the FSU campus starting this weekend for schools all over Florida for a period of 10 weeks of internship.

Prior to this, the student teachers have been attending seminars and conferences concerning the demonstration school at Leon High.

The tentative list of interns for this semester is as follows: Mary Ann Adams, Ethel Alvers, Nancy Alvers, Evelyn Marie Amundsen, Reward Austin, Mary Barbara Bailey, Jane Barber, Sara Ann Barber, Margaret Elizabeth Barr, Mary Ann Batchelier, Joanne Belle and Frederick Beyer.

Mary Ann Bird, Sue Blockley, Mary Ann Bohlayer, Doris Joanne Bonnell, Juanita Horton Brooks, Carolyn Brannon, Louise Braxton, Gene Bridges, John Brown, Mary Kathryn Lindsey Brownette, Hugh Gregory Campbell, Margaret Campbell, Barbara Jayne Cox, Mary Kathryn Cox, Lynda Leona Carman, Milton Carmichael, Dorothy Carter, Betty Blanche Clopton and Jesse Cone.

Others are Daisy Lou Conoly, Margaret Ann Covey, Werma Joyce Cox, Mary Ann Crews, Elizabeth Casey, Shirley Joan Daniel, Pauzella Lee DeBerry, Anna Jane Dennis, Ruth Desmond, James Harvey Diamond, Mary Ann Dickinson, Virginia Ida DePree, Linda Lou Davis, Elizabeth Dunn, Mary Elizabeth Eisleiten and Florence Carrell English.

Clifford Ellis, Betty Jean Parthing, Barbara Peddern, Susan Pinkey, Pat Polson, Evelyn Pryor, Dorothy JoAnn Futch, Patricia Ann Pryor, Mary Graham Pryor, Dorothy JoAnn Futch, Patricia Ann Pryor, Mary Graham Hart, Vincent Gibson, Star Bright Gilbert, Mary Jean Gillis, Marjorie Gilmore, Dorothy Virginia Gold, Duane Gordon, Mary Ann Gray, Ruth Lee Green, Henrietta Lucille Green, Evangeline Griffin, Norma Joyce Grosser, Mary Elizabeth Gunn, Ruth Hagg.

Lavia Harrison, Flora Caroline Harrison, Jeannette Hart, Bessie Jo Hawe, Myrtis Elizabeth Herndon, Hilda Jones Hicks.

(Continued on Page 4)

FSU Acquires Replicas From Cuban Culture

Florida State University recently acquired a collection of Cuban museum pieces valued at $10,000.

This collection of replicas of idols, tools and other objects used by the Cuban Indians native at the time of Columbus.

According to Professor John W Griffin of the anthropology department, the importance and significance of this collection is tremendous. All the original pieces were taken from the museums of museums of the world and private collections. This was done by Irene Gundrum collection the only complete exhibit of Gulf Islands archeological and study archeologists today.

Professor Griffin would be impossible to collect all the original pieces that have been unearthed. Dr. Gundrum spent many years collecting this exhibit of replicas 15 years ago.

Professor Griffin stated that there was a work of art. Dr. Gundrum, who is an expert sculptor and painter made the pieces from the original idols. After molding the pieces from the originals, these idols have been made, but the originals have been kept and has been able to recreate them in their natural color.

Day Students Elect

Delegates to the State Party from the day students will be elected this afternoon at 2 in the Recreation building, it was announced by party officials.

There will be approximately 20 delegates elected, they revealed.

Boughton's Work Draws Praise From Critics; Display In South

By CLAUDE HARDEN

One critic has said that the exhibition by William Boughton, Assistant Professor of Fine Arts at Florida State University, and Stanley Tasker, head of the Department of Art at Rollins College, Winter Park, "welcomed the new spirit from the South of the day . . . to a new world of compassion, peace and charming simplicity." The display of the artists' outstanding work is on display at the Research Studio Club.

Mr. Boughton has received much praise from the critics and has developed a new technique in Serigraphy for which he received much praise. Following a statement concerning which appeared in "American Artist" and "Talk Screen News." He has written several articles on this subject. They appeared in the "Art Material Trade News" and the "Florida Newspaper News and Radio Digest."

His paintings is of, watercolor and prints have been exhibited in over 75 national shows in the past five years by the Corcoran in Seattle Museum and a exhibition in the American Embassy in Paris. He has also had paintings in the Museum of Modern Art, San Francisco, the Detroit Art Gallery, the Kansas City Art Institute, the Sweat Memorial Art Museum, Portland, the Avery Museum, Hartford, Conn., the Library of Congress, Washington, and the Brooklyn Museum, New York.

He is an imaginative artist, with a sensitive response to personal experience, a delicate touch in action and contemplation. It is not his aim to reproduce nature in painstaken originals, and he utilizes a method of painting where-by he is able to impose his personality upon canvas or paper.

He is one of the few true his art. He cannot remember the days of his childhood before he had a pencil in his hand, and which later became heroes, inspiration and models.

In a world where there are so many pressures towards conformity, he feels that it is the artist's duty, as well as poet, to be an individual. In his philosophic concept of life, based upon thoughtfully considered experiences, which he paints. But only the grandeur of tragedy in life, and the nobility of man appeal to him, and for this reason his relation consists of certain drawings.

Lawler Appoints Shaw Chairman Of Investigation

Flambeau Unable To Obtain Any Official Statement

The Student Senate Tuesday approved a committee to probe rumors that ROTC will be compulsory for first-and second-year men at FSU next year.

The matter was brought to his Senate's attention by senior Senator Frank Shaw, who asked whether the rumor were true. Vice-President Furness Lawler appointed Senators Shaw, Gordon Gaster, Ray Chapman and Bill McCauley to a committee to investigate the question.

The possibility that ROTC would be required first came to the attention of FSU students in a news story entitled "ROTC Program Is Described" in the Tallahassee Democrat of 26 February. Said the story, in part: "Qualifications for advanced training are higher than for the basic program which is compulsory for all students at FSU" "emphasis ours).

Since then the story has circulated, but no one has found about the coupon. In last Tuesday's edition of THE FLORIDA FLAMBEAU, a letter to the editor was printed asking whether the information were correct.

The Flambeau has been unable to obtain official confirmation of the proposed plan. Both army and air force officers were contacted by Flambeau reporters, but neither would confirm the report. "That's unofficial," and "I don't know," said spokesmen for the air force and army respectively.

Unofficially, however, the Flambeau has learned from sources that the measure has been approved by the Executive Council, composed of the deans of the university and other administrative officers.

The projected program would mean all entering freshmen would enroll in either the army or air force unit for the first two years. Then it would be optional for two more years.

A Flambeau reporter unofficially obtained a figure of 348 for the total enrollment in both military programs. At present the national government is discontinuing ROTC units which do not maintain a certain minimum enrollment. The reason is that the armed services are becoming overloaded with graduates and need graduates of the ROTC programs are being forced to accept commissions in other governments' positions upon entering the services.

"For years of ROTC are required at land-grant colleges throughout the nation. (Land-grant colleges are those which derive some of their income from the sale of government-donated land.) The University of Florida at Gainesville and the Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University at Tallahassee are land-grant colleges. Florida State University is not. Many non-land-grant colleges have dropped out of ROTC, however.

It is presumed that the first official announcement of the compulsory program will be made by the War Department for 1934-35, which will be released in a few weeks.

Gold Key Blanks Close Today At 5

Gold Key applications will close today at 5, according to Al Pierce, tap chairman for the men's honorary here.

Applications are available at the information desk of Longmire building, Pierce said Monday morning, feeling he has the necessary qualifications of scholarship, leadership, character, citizenship and service to the University is invited to apply.

The members will meet Wednesday, March 19 to consider all applications. Pierce announced. Tapping is slated for Sunday March 14.

WEST HALL SWITCHBOARD

West Hall now has a switchboard. Installed recently to operate the dormitory's 40 teaching residents, the board carries 4831, 5351 or 5661. These numbers are now connected with the board, which is operating from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m.

It has been requested that students call on calls for the residents are to come to 4831

Senate's Probe Of ROTC Rumor Raises Four Important Questions

The Student Senate's decision to look into rumors of a compulsory ROTC program on campus brings forth four important points that must be considered.

First, is the rumor true? Second, if it is true, how was the decision made and what does it mean to student government? Third, how legal was the decision? Finally, what are the relative merits of a compulsory system?

Is It True?

There seems no doubt but what ROTC will be compulsory here next year if presently approved plans are carried out. Entering freshmen will be expected to enroll in the program for two years. Veterans and freshmen over 25 years old will be exempt.

Although the program has been approved by the Executive Council and the president, and will appear in the 1954-55 catalogue, we have been unable to secure official permission to print the fact. We have been requested, in fact, to keep the plan out of the news for fear it would "hurt enrollment next year."

Policy-Making, Effects

We deeply regret that we print this information with a frown from Westcott. We have tried throughout the year to be a responsible, reasonable newspaper. We have been glad to cooperate with the administration for the benefit of the student body.

But there is in this case a basic conflict between Westcott and the students, and being a student newspaper, we must champion the student cause, bringing the facts to light.

Student government, if it is ever to become a workable organization, must learn not to scream at, but rather to consult with the administration. It is interesting to notice that the tentative platforms of both major political parties on campus speak of this cooperation. But before students can govern themselves in any degree, they must know what the problems of running the university are. They must learn how policies are made. They must study gradually, be allowed to participate in making those policies.

Cooperation must work in both directions. If Westcott wants a sensible student body, it must help them learn the problems of administration. If it is not ready to allow student participation in policy making, then at least it should inform and consult them about matters affecting students directly. Certainly students should not be kept in complete darkness. They should not have policies forced n them without notice.

Constitutional Point

The decision to make ROTC compulsory was made by the Executive Council. This group is composed of the following: the president, the vice-president, deans of men and women, directors of the school of business, the director of vocational guidance and placement, the director of health services, the chief dietitian, he director of field services and studies, he director of the test service bureau, the ibrarian, the director of public relations. he professor of air science and tactics, he professor of military science and tactics, and the coordinator of general education.

Making ROTC compulsory was explained to us unofficially as "an administrative decision." The faculty senate was not consulted, we were told, because their jurisdiction is only over matters "relating to graduation requirements." However, the Constitution of the Florida State University, the basic legislation of the university, as approved by the State Board of Control, reads as follows:

"THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL—functions: The functions of the Executive Council shall be to cooperate with the President in putting into effect regulations adopted by the Board of Control, regulations and by-laws adopted by authorized legislative bodies of the University, and policies which may be declared by the Faculty Senate; to serve as a cabinet to the President; to advise with him in matters of administration and to consider and decide any administrative questions which he may submit to them; to enact legislation which unusual conditions may make necessary between meetings of the General Faculty and Faculty Senate; such legislation to be in effect only until it can be submitted to the Faculty Senate for final action; to have full jurisdiction over all matters, administrative in character, referred to it by the President. (emphasis ours)

FACULTY SENATE—jurisdiction: The Faculty Senate is the basic legislative body of the University, subject to such limitations as may be placed upon it by the Board of Control. No general legislation affecting teachers or students of more than one major instructional unit shall be effective unless passed or approved by the Faculty Senate. However, the Senate may delegate the power of legislation upon a particular matter to any of the other faculty bodies, or to a standing or special committee. (emphasis ours)

A Wise Move?

Finally there arises the question of whether or not compulsory ROTC is a wise move. It is required at Gainesville, but the University of Florida is a land-grant college, whereas FSU is not, and need not necessarily make the program compulsory. Other colleges which are not land-grant colleges do require the program, but if FSU does, there will be a definite disadvantage to school where the student who does not want ROTC may go.

The ROTC program is obviously not popular here with many units, which have a combined enrollment of less than 400, will be abolished unless there is a considerable rise in registration. The Korean government is trying to close down units all over the country because of an oversupply of officers.

One of the main reasons given for maintaining the units is the protection of men students. Unfortunately, ROTC does not always protect a man from the draft. Neither does it mean the granting of a commission during his years of active service (see news story today). Finally, since so few are taking the program now and yet are not drafted, how do we do not see the urgency of maintaining the units. Certainly there is no need for keeping two separate units when the demand is so small.

We do not see how requiring ROTC on the one hand can help enrollment and on the other can hurt it if the newspaper releases the information.

We hope the administration will not close its eyes to student objections. We hope the decision is not irrevocable. We believe it needs more discussion and action by the Faculty Senate.

ETCETERA ETCHINGS

'Happy Marriage' Played Up Again

By DAVID DREIS

A few tired lines come in Hollywood reporters!

Instead of keeping tabs on who is dating who and to whom in star being married again to Livingstone . . . isn't it? . . . movie capital is at last playing to the same factor which gave glamour to Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, the happy marriage.

Today's dynamic duo is Tony Curtis and Janet Leigh, the so-in-love couple who give each other raves and bows and everything. Already their first film together, HOUDINI is a mild box-office sensation and in a new one underway at International-Intermational, the two make love off screen and on. Everybody's playing down the fact that Janet has been married twice before, and numerous other things which have stymied lesser lovers. go on for many-a-year. At any rate, if they stay married and Hollywood is stifled then will, their popularity will never get high.

Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz have been setting television on fire and a long last are in a major picture together. Both appeared in 1942 in Cuban Pete, but since either Lucy met Desi and the story begins there.

The Long, Long Trailer, a mighty good movie which is considered a "Lucy" show on a much bigger screen, the two show how much they really are in love. They may be cute, but the press releases are soft-pedaling the almost-divorce of the Arnazes not too long ago.

Virginia Mayo recently had a kid and hubby Mike Conrad grinned broadly at the cameras. O'Shea can go back on top according to film morals, but the actor just wants to be his wife's manager. Watch out, Michael . . . remember the Jess Barkers.

Corrine Calvet and husband John Brownfield are calling their marriage of five years in a halt because as Corrine says, "Johnny and I were beginning to look and act like each other." Well! However, narrators of Hour shows really took plenty of space in last year's film magazines.

Yes, marriage is really the answer to a lot of problems put to the press . . . and while bachelors like Monty Clift, Farley Granger, Robert Wagner and Robert Stack always make good copy, it's the little soldiers, Arnaz not too long ago, platinum, or cardboard ring which gets the raves. A new trend and maybe a better one.

The Florida Flambeau

BRUCE GALPHIN—Editor

Al Pierce, News Editor Bob Folsom, Managing Editor

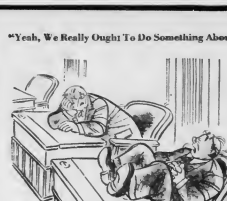
Feature Editor ..... Jaylene Robertson
Campus Editor ..... Orchid Arlona
Sports Editor ..... Bob Cutting
Society Editors ..... Oscar Johnsne, Martha Dickman
Sports Staff ..... Art Kerner, Hal Bock, Bob Cutting
Photographer ..... Dick Reutlier

Copy Editors, Sylvia Parrish, Dick Victory, David Dreis
Photographic Editor ..... Joe Caldwell
Junior Staff ..... Don Thomasson, Mary Elizabeth Long, Tom Hall, Betty Bishop, Lona Cochran, Barbara Bachman, Jo Ann Gaither, Franklin Adams

NANCY LOWE—Business Mgr.
Al Markovitz, Advertising Mgr.

Art Consultants

Business Staff ..... Mary Wogan, Virginia Vaughn, Joe Caldwell
Advertising Soliciting ..... Members of Alpha Delta Sigma, Gamma Alpha Chi.
Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service 420 Madison Ave., New York, 17



Telephone 2 80000, extension 4821
511, 213 Longmire Building

Member Associated Collegiate Press

Exchange Editor .....
Exchange Staff .....
Distribution .....

Pat Robson
Ld Maxvnd
Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University. Member Intercollegiate Press.

Let It Be Said

By DICK VICTORY

These all night gabathons are getting me down. Not that there's not a lot to learn from them. There is. But then, there's a lot to forget from them too.

It's quite an experience to watch how they develop from a calm beginning into the brawling, cursing mass that is inevitable. It usually starts som-thing like this.

There comes a knock upon the door . . . "Who's there ?" . . . "Me" . . . "Oh; that helps. Come on in." . . . "Thanks wise guy. It's locked." . . . "Oh, great." . . .

Chair scrapes and door opens . . . "Oh, it's you" . . . "Who'd ya think it was, little boy lost ?" . . . "You could pass for him. You're never at your room." . . . "Whataya mean? You always know where I am." . . . "Yeah, here." . . . "I got a few friends outside. Come on in, boys."

Sound of wild buffalo stampede. Finally everyone is in. Someone pops up and says "Let's sing." . . . "What ?" . . . "how about From the Vine Came the Ape?" . . . "OK. 1-2-3, now everybody."

From the vine came the ape; from the ape came the men
From the men came theories like this from Darwin
But poor Charlie missed the sign
He ignored the green green vine

"That's enough singing. Anybody know any jokes ?"

"How about the one about the guy who had a girl who was so ugly that he put her in a pig pen." . . . "In she still there ?" . . . "No, she got out." . . . "How ?" . . . "Squealed to the cops." . . . "Boy, when you start cracking that kind it's time to go. I'm leaving. Let's go boys."

And so they file out. Eight hy eight.

As they leave I get a strange feeling. It reminds me of something someone once said: . . . "Whenever young men get together and talk they usually include just about everything in these talks." I know, but they do so little about it.

This reminds me of yet another story. Of the man who talked for so long and so loud that he got hoarse and couldn't speak. After that he talked with his hands.

Sure enough, people stopped calling him a windbag. They now call him a windmill.

"Somebody has been nursing it around that I'm going steady with Curt—This makes the third frat pin I've had to give back this week."

Hutchins Writes On Teachers' Fears

By BRUCE GALPHIN

Dr. Robert M. Hutchins is probably not too popular on this campus particularly after his fail's jabs at our well-liked circus, but his ideas on education are always like a breath of fresh air in a stuffy room.

Writing in Look magazine for March 9, 1954, Hutchins in the lead article asks, "Are Our Teachers Afraid to Teach?" Unlike many of Hutchins' essays which deal with the type of curriculum being offered in colleges, this article concentrates on the fact that teachers are being intimidated more than ever before to discuss controversial material.

Red-hunting is a popular sport today, of course. As indicated in the article the Flambeau reprinted from Reporter magazine in the last issue, "Witch-hunting" is "just the thing" these days. Hutchins points out, however, that hunting communists has come, through a chain of distorted reasoning, to mean also prohibiting anything controversial.

Hutchins enumerates a few examples of dismissals based on a teacher's mentioning or participating in controversial matters: the deputy superintendent who was fired for having been an officer of the American Veterans Committee, the teachers forced out for supporting UNESCO or the United Nations, the teacher fired for honoring to the United World Federalists.

The point in net that there is a fear today of actual firings, says Hutchins. The trouble is that the threat of firing or McCarthyesque smears throws fear into teachers throughout the nation, from the lowliest grade school to Harvard University, long considered haven for free inquiry.

Hutchins was writing for a widely circulated slick, so it is not surprising that he did not make his usual full analysis of the problem. He did not delve deeply enough into the thinking behind the anti-intellectual effects. People have been lead to believe that teachers should not "take sides," but merely present "facts." What they do not realize is that even when a teacher does not take sides he is in chemistry or political science.

But, naturally they worry more about taking sides in pressing issues than in established sciences. Yet the American people need is mature enough to realize that undigested, unprepared to deal with them are useless to the nation. And all issues are controversial, points out Hutchins. "A real, controversial issue . . . is impossible as a round table. All issues are controversial; if they were not, they would be issues."

Perhaps Dr. Hutchins is fighting a windmill himself in tilting at his times. Perhaps what is needed is not come about until the whole nation is educated in a more liberal atmosphere. Yet such an article as his appearing in a large national magazine is encouraging.

IS HERE ALABASTER

On Drill Days With Five Left Feet

By AL PIERCE

Gung ho Hot! Vive - laCompagnie! "It's a Long Way to Pensacola . . . Etc., etc., . . . accompanying collegiate-type war whoops and militaristic leanings . . . Yes, the spirit is high toward compulsion at Almamater . . . what's this? Who knew from this? . . . the elected faculty senate? . . . me? . . . Who else? . . . Boy, when you start cracking that kind it's time to go. I'm leaving. Let's go boys."

And so they file out. Eight hy eight.

As they leave I get a strange feeling. It reminds me of something someone once said: . . . "Whenever young men get together and talk they usually include just about everything in these talks." I know, but they do so little about it.

This reminds me of yet another story. Of the man who talked for so long and so loud that he got hoarse and couldn't speak. After that he talked with his hands.

Sure enough, people stopped calling him a windbag. They now call him a windmill.

THE BOOKLIST

'Second Tree' Displays Fine Essays

By BOB FOLSOM

The "Notes and Comments" in the Talk of the Town section of The New Yorker magazine have been about the best known zine. Whether slightly satirical, bentering in nature or sharp in wit, "Notes and Comments" deals with practically any subject from Dr. Gallup's methods to champagne to goggles and flippers for the summer swimming season.

Probably "Notes and Comments" is the finest reason for placing The New Yorker in the position it holds today. If it had, like Maidens and Graves in years old squaw and hrave feet, not use young spirit and bounding imagination because old squaw fear young mind. Now here on reservation maidens have squaw control by E. B. Warden and M. Discipline Hurt. Make tight control in fear of young mind. Make braves and maidens have old squaw and warrior party. Youth no think, just conform. Word different made wrong. Maybe some day student brave and maiden control own party. Student really not fend and lude annual like thought to be. Student make good control of self and other student.

George make comparison on big visit on other reservations and find Seminole in food great. Some snack shop hours very poor and some choice not best; but big reservation service much superior to reservations.

Love all,
Georgie Seminole.

Dear Mama Seminole

Dear Mama Seminole,

Big pay-off in big town call protection racket. Consume and surpress little brave. Big payoff on larger scale call national defense. Consume and surpress. Chiefs of reservation pl learning fall into racket after protection bargain with brave in uniform. Some day we write book, Capitalism to Militarism or How Did Hitler Look in Civies? Where from here? WAROTC?

Once back on reservation squaws of chief run maiden's life. Maidens like braves in youth made to act like old squaw and hrave feel, not use young spirit and bounding imagination because old squaw fear young mind. Now here on reservation maidens have squaw control by E. B. Warden and M. Discipline Hurt. Make tight control in fear of young mind. Make braves and maidens have old squaw and warrior party. Youth no think, just conform. Word different made wrong. Maybe some day student brave and maiden control own party. Student really not fend and lude annual like thought to be. Student make good control of self and other student.

Georgie make comparison on big visit on other reservations and find Seminole in food great. Some snack shop hours very poor and some choice not best; but big reservation service much superior to reservations.

Love all,
Georgie Seminole.

Letters to the Editor

Not Fixed

To the students:

The primary purpose of this letter is to contradict any and all of the rumors and misguided ideas that the newly formed STATE PARTY is in any way, shape, or form connected with the old "Penney Machine," "Vendetta Gang," "Little Caesar," or any such machines which functioned in the past on campus.

The STATE PARTY is NOT, and I repeat, is NOT fixed in favor of any of the students planning to run for office in the coming elections. The primary purpose of the State Party is to do away with primaries power organizations and to give students a chance to run for office in a valid two-party system who would otherwise have to buck a single party independently.

Any student may seek the State Party's nomination if he is a qualified candidate for office and have just as much chance to win the nomination as the next person.

The votes will come from the students who affiliate with the State Party in the interest of representing a slate of nominees to the student body equally as good as those of the other party. Delegates will be elected by the students in dorms, sororities, fraternities, campus organizations and day students.

It is in the interest of giving FSU a democratic two-party system that I appeal to the students that the State Party was formed.

If good candidates are misled by the propaganda that it is a fixed machine and do not seek the office, the purpose of forming it will be defeated once again before it has a chance to grow.

In this instance, two goods can be created from one evil—that of having one party dominating the student body without opposition or a system of checks and balances.

The students can go forward with two parties or remain in a rut with one.

The students have the chance with a new baby, the State Party, to see that its interests are met, that it develops and matures quickly without the rickets that come with unfounded and untrue rumors.

Sincerely,
Jaylene Robertson.

GRADE CORRECTIONS

Corrections in GRADES for the following official students, as listed in the Dean of Women.

Flambeau listed Della Zeta Actives as having 1.78; the true average is 1.96.

Dean of Women's office acknowledged an error in transcribing from Registrar's records in the Alpha Delta Pi rating. Originally reported as 12th place with 1.446, ADPi actually ya in 8th place with 1.8034.

Morning of the Day they Did It: A parable embodying an whole generation age.

One might scrae deep-soulful meanings cloaked in Mr. White's latest novel. "Morning" takes from a story in the book, which is the longest in the book, and attempt to interpret it into meaningful text. Even the title, "The Trexler" meditated, as he walked, on what he wanted, but as you might be heard again. Trexler knew what he wanted, and what, in general, he didn't want, and felt glad, in a way, that it was both positive and negative decisions.

There are masterpieces in The Second Tree From The Corner. This is watched best in the light of his fiction. Nevertheless, his reflections on life itself in the short novel, "Morning" and the rounding air is seldom found in any similar writing today. It is as Irwin Edman says, "E. B. White is the finest essayist in the English tongue." Maybe the best since Thoreau. And Mr. White has something to say about Thoreau in a piece titled, "The Retort Transcendental." This is a unique, if not enviable position today when the essay seems to be on the downgrade. Well said, perhaps that everyone should read E. B. White. It is truly fine reading.

FSU High Netters Win South Meet

The powerful record-breaking Florida State volleyball team returned to the campus last Monday after completing their most successful road trip within the last five years.

Over a period of 2 days, the Seminole Highnetters" compiled a spectacular record of 28 wins without losing one single game.

The Seminoles started off their weekend of victories on Thursday night by defeating the Georgia AAU Champions, Augusta YMCA.

On Friday, at Davidson, N. C., the Florida State team entered into their first all-collegiate meet of the season, the Southeastern Intercollegiate Volleyball Tournament.

The highnetters of FSU came out of the first day's play undefeated. The Seminole defensive was so effective that during the two days of ball playing not one team scored over 8 points on the Indians.

Entering the second day, the FSU team completely overwhelmed all opposition to capture an undisputed first place with ease.

On Saturday night, February 27, the Florida State Highnetters became the first Southeastern Intercollegiate Volleyball Champions with a perfect record of 20 wins and no losses. This has been the first tournament in FSU volleyball history that the team has attended without the loss of a single game.

The second place trophy was taken by North Carolina's Tarheels. South Carolina, Davidson, Appalachian, and Alabama State Teachers College finished in that order behind the Tarheels.

"Interest in intercollegiate volleyball is increasing all over the nation," stated FSU's Coach "Two Gun" Odeneal, "and the South is making a lot of progress in promoting the sport. There is a good possibility that a Southeastern Volleyball Conference may be formed some time in the near future."

Team captain for the tournament was Howie Gould, who spearheaded the Seminole attack. Gould displayed his championship form that named him to the All-American teams of 1952 and 1953, and according to Coach Odeneal, is a sure bet for a third straight selection if the Seminoles compete in the 1954 National Collegiate Tournament.

On Saturday afternoon the Seminoles took time out from the tournament to play an exhibition match before several hundred people who packed the Davidson gymnasium. The high-netters swept the four-game series with the nationally-ranking, state champion Kannapolis YMCA.

By defeating Kannapolis YMCA, the Florida State volleyball team is now ranked as the top team in the South and Southeast.

Captain Howie Gould led the team in total kills for the weekend with 110. He also led the team in points scored with a total of 53. Gould was closely followed by Len Kaczmarek who scored 97 kills, and 41 points.

F S U Mermen Polish Off Kentucky

Bill Odeneal, FSU volleyball coach gives All-American Highnetter Howie Gould a few pointers after their fine playing in Davidson, North Carolina. The Seminole team was competing in the Southeastern Intercollegiate Tournament.

Stock, Cooper, Hirshberger Set New Records; Georgia, Emory Latest Victims

THEY WHIPPED GEORGIA AGAIN

Last Friday night, the Florida State Seminole swimmers considered their season a big success when they defeated the University of Georgia for the second time this season, by the score of 47-37.

FSU star sprinter Jimmy Julian pushed Georgia's All-American Reid Patterson by finishing second in both the 100, and the 50-yard freestyle events.

George Hirshberger took the 220-yard freestyle event and placed second behind FSU's own Mike Tachirret in the 440-yard freestyle.

Hal Stolz, SEC champion breaststroker, proved a little too fast for record-breaking Dick Rhoton who placed second in the 200-yard breaststroke.

FSU's fancy diving aces Bob Stuka and Larry Beatty placed first and third respectively.

Ernie Stock splashed his way to a blue ribbon in the 150-yard individual medlay.

George Cooper, considered the South's best backstroker, had little trouble taking the 200-yard event. Norm Shipley placed a very impressive third as he pushed Georgia's Terry to the finish.

FINISH THIRD IN GEORGIA AAU

The Miami Hurricanes scored 97 points to take the AAU's with Georgia placing second with 69. Florida State finished directly behind Georgia with 67 points.

The freestyle twins of FSU, George Hirshberger and Mike Tachirret, placed second and third in the very tiring 440-yard freestyle swim.

George Cooper took his usual first in the 220-yard backstroke finishing more than three seconds ahead of the next competitor.

Ernie Stock set a new school and pool record in Athens, as he beat favored Hal Stolz in the 100-yard butterfly. The new time was 61.2 seconds.

The twins came back again in the 220-yard freestyle. Tachirret finished fourth behind Hirshberger.

Jimmy Julian, who was up against the best, and some of the best, sprint men in the south, placed fourth in both the 50 and 100-yard sprints.

The three-meter diving was won by Olympic champ Browning. FSU fancy divers Stuke and Beaty came in seventh and eighth respectively

FSU 46 EMORY 38

The last relay with Julian, Stock, Hirshberger and Tachirret furnished the needed points to win over the surprisingly difficult Emory squad. The relay team won with a time of 3:52.2 to give FSU their 14th straight dual meet.

George Hirshberger set another school record by taking the 220-yard freestyle in the time of 2 05.8.

Charlie Crowe and Sam Bailey walked away with the 150-yard individual medlay honors. Charlie took a first and Sam a second.

Bob Spaulding, up and coming fancy diver for FSU, took second in his event.

Cooper and Lame placed first and third respectively in the backstroke event

George Hirshberger and Mike Tachirret paced each other in the 440-yard freestyle event, with George ending up in the first place slot and Mike a hands length behind.

FSU 55 KENTUCKY 29

Bob Vaclevek, one of the most underrated members of the Florida State Seminole squad, broke Dick Rhoton's 220-yard breaststroke record and set the new school mark at 2 30 5. Sam

(Continued on Page 4)

METHODIST

All freshman who wish to participant in the outstanding Saturday morning at Lafayette Park should be at the Student House at 9 o'clock. There will be a picnic lunch and various field day activities. Transportation is furnished.

The Rev. Thaxton Springfield will be the principal speaker at the Sunday School hour at 9:30.

Gym Spotlight

By Bob Gutting

The Seminole gym team, fresh from their victory over the Swedish Olympic team, left Thursday for Durham, N. C. to defend the Southern Intercollegiate Gymnastics League crown they have held the last three years.

Leading the nine man team will be co-captain Don Holder and Pat Signorelli. Holder is defending champion of the all-around title, and Pat Signorelli is defending champ of the parallel bars crown he won last year.

Next in the lineup is National champ Jack Miles, who is considered a godo bet, to retain his S. I. G. L. flying rings championship.

Other defending champions are Benny Walace, 1953 S. I. G. L. rope climbing champ, and Dick Ireland, 1953 trampoline champ.

Dr. Hartley Price, FSU's outstanding gmynastics coach, is counting heavily o nthree men—Don Holder, Pat Signorelli, and Jack Miles—to keep the S. I. G. L. championship title at Florida State.

Top contenders for the squad will be Jack Miles, who is entered in six of the eight events. He is followed by Don Holdar, who is entered in five, and Pat Signorelli, who is entered in four.

Working three of the events wil lbe Joe Taylor, newcomer to the S. I. G. L. tournament. Taylor, who tied for first on the still rings with teammate Don Holder to upset the Swedish team, will compete in the flying rings, parallel bars, and trampoline events.

The Southern Intercollegiate Gymnastics League began four years ago at Hattiesburg, Miss. Since that time the only S. I. G. L. meet lost by the Seminoles was the first one—in 1950—that was won by a powerful Georgia Tech team. But the Seminoles returned the following year to tak the crown still in their possession.

Other teams competing this year include Georgia Tech, Duke, North Carolina, Texas, Mississippi Southern, and others, with North Carolina expected to offer the toughest competition.

Sportsbrief

ADDITION TO TRACK SCHEDULED

Florida State University has added two major college teams—Alabama and Virginia—to its 1954 track schedule, head coach Ken Miller said today.

The Seminoles will meet Virginia in Tallahassee April 15, and oppose Alabama and Loyola of the South in a triangular meet here May 1.

FSU also meets Mercer, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Miami and Mississippi Southern in track this spring. The Seminoles open their dual meet season at Mercer April 3. They will compete in the Florida Relays at Gainesville March 27.

COACH BIM STULTS

Bim Stults, coach of Florida State University's swimming team will serve as referee and official starter of the Southeastern Conference swimming and diving championships at Gainesville Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

FLORIDA
WED. THRU SAT.
Lucille Ball—Desi Arnaz
"The Long, Long Trailer"
SUN. THRU WED.
"Escape From Ft. Bravo"
William Holden
Donald O'Connor

STATE
TODAY THRU TUESDAY
RITA HAYWORTH
in
"Miss Sadie Thompson"
in Technicolor

PERRY HIGHWAY OUTDOOR
TODAY and SATURDAY
Eleanor Parker
"I Love Melvin"
ALSO
"Ft. Vengeance"
James Craig
SUN. and MON.
"Young Bess"
Stewart Granger

CAPITAL DRIVE-IN TODAY and SAT.
Roy Rogers
"Spoilers of the Plains"
Also
"Beast From 20,000 Fathoms"
Paul Christian—Paula Raymond
SUN. and MON.
"Desert Song"
Gordon McRae

Hot Dog!
Let's Eat At the AMBER HOUSE

Coast Bound?
Going and Coming It's
BLUE WILLOW LODGE
On Route 98—On the Right—Entering Panacea
DANCE in our new, attractive dance Hall
DINE on our Delicious Steaks, Seafoods, Chops and Sandwiches
Mr. and Mrs. J. M. DuPuy Your Hosts
Blue Willow Lodge Panacea

3 Big 7's
7 Days
7 Specials
at 7 Seas
FRI.: Whole Broiled Lobster, Drawn Butter, Chef's Salad $1.25
SAT.: Golden Fried Half Chicken, French Fries $1.00
SUN.: Delicious Roast Turkey, Dressing — Cranberries $1.00
A Special Every Day
Just Special For You
MON.: Breaded Veal Cutlet, French Fries, Chef's Salad and Drink 85c
TUES.: Juicy Broiled Filet Mignon, French Fries, Chef's Salad $1.00
WED.: Fried Jumbo Shrimp, French Fries, Chef's Salad 85c
THURS.: Spaghetti with Cheese, Salad, Drink, Lemon Cream Pie 85c

Seven Seas

Keepsake Diamonds
LeCoultre Watches
PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRS
182 S. Monroe St. Phone 3-1442

Like Drive-Ins?
or do you
Like a Place to Sit Down and Be Served?
or do you
Like Free Delivery Right to Your Door?
QUAKER HOUSE
Call 2-8677 on the Quincy H'way
Steaks, Chops, Chicken, Sea Foods, deliciously cooked and served . . .
Large Variety of Sandwiches to Choose From—Largest Soda Fountain in the South!
Choice Swift's Meats Served

ALCOHOLIC TONICS DRYING OUT YOUR SCALP? GET NON-ALCOHOLIC WILDROOT CREAM-OIL, CHARLIE

IT'S ALL A MATTER OF TASTE

No guessing games with cigarettes
When Luckies are your brand—
A cleaner, fresher, smoother smoke,
A taste that's really grand!
Phil W. Elder
Oklahoma University

When you come right down to it, you smoke for one simple reason . . . enjoyment. And smoking enjoyment is all a matter of taste. Yes, taste is what counts in a cigarette. And Luckies taste better.

Two facts explain why Luckies taste better. First, L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco . . . light, mild, good-tasting tobacco. Second, Luckies are actually made better to taste better . . . always round, firm, fully packed to draw freely and smoke evenly.

So, for the enjoyment you get from better taste, and only from better taste, Be Happy—Go Lucky. Get a pack or a carton of better-tasting Luckies today.

I've often been class president—
I'm called a real go-getter!
My brand is always Lucky Strike—
Why shucks, they just taste better!
Lillian Firestone
Barnard College

I've always heard that taste will tell,
And now I know it's true—
The better taste of Lucky Strikes
Will sure convince you, too!
Donald A. Bell
Creighton University

COPR., THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

LUCKIES TASTE BETTER CLEANER, FRESHER, SMOOTHER!

From Page 1

Gridiron

the Atlantic Coast Conference and the Southern Conference. The football program has been strengthened considerably in the last year with the employment of Tom Nugent as head football coach and the inauguration of a system of athletic scholarships," contends Moore.

Moore sets forth the fact that FSU is scheduled to play Georgia and Auburn in football in 1954, both rivals of the University of Florida for many years.

"This past year FSU had two teams on its schedule who also played Florida—Miami and Stetson. Although the Gator's performance against these two teams was somewhat superior to that of FSU, the margin of difference was not great enough to conclude that FSU could not hold its own against our sister institution at Gainesville," Moore claims.

Acting-Governor Charlie Johns and President Doak S. Campbell have requested copies of Moore's survey when it is completed.

From Page 1

Hirsch Studies

nat and should not be expected to do the educational job fully and adequately." If educators and citizen's groups wish to reach the potential of educational TV in Florida, they should consider the establishment of television stations, Hirsch decided.

From Page 3

FSU Mermen

Bailey, also of FSU, was in the second place slot.

George Cooper, swimming his last dual meet for the Seminoles, set a new school and pool record with the time of 2:17.8. This, by the way, broke his old record. Norm Shipley came in behind George to register second.

Jimmy Julian lost two heartbreakers to Kentucky's star all sprinter, Messick, in the 50 and 100-yard freestyle events. Jimmy reckoned his practice to add more distance on Messick in the 440-yard relay.

Ernie Stock beat a very talented Kentucky boy named Bollinger. This boy had been on Ernie once previously in the Southern meet. His winning time was 1:36.5.

George Hirshberger took his specialty, the 220-yard freestyle with a 2:20.9.

Dick Rhoton and Joel Lurie placed second and third respectively in the 440-yard freestyle event.

After suffering considerably in the Georgia AAU's, Bob Stuke and Larry Brady returned to form and placed in one, two order.

The final score 55-29; final record, 14 wins and no losses.

From Page 1

Shaw Questions

meeting, Chairman Shaw noted the final decision rests with the Party Executive council. He said results of the matter will be forthcoming following that group's meeting tonight.

Independent men approved 30 planks for the proposed Student Party platform. Included among headliners were two proposing financial aid and counsel for veterans, a plank recommending the installation of dental services here, and a definite party stand against the installation of compulsory ROTC at Florida State University.

Other planks calling up discussion included establishment of an inter-dormitory council in lieu of day-students to coordinate activities in a similar manner to IPC; an extension of the grace period included in women's house and residence rules to one hour, and placing students of faculty committees that deal with student affairs.

Chairman heads officially announced the Student Party nominating convention for the upcoming Student Body Elections as Tuesday night, March 9 in the Science Lecture Hall.

From Page 1

Interns Will

Myra Lee Hicks, Lee Hildman, Alice Jane Hinds, Virginia Hinman, Joanne Hogan, Margaret Horton and Joan Hough.

John Hurley, Edward Harding, Edward Dale Johnson, Iris Celia Johnson, Joyce Johnson, Phillip Johnson, Ruth Adell Johnson, Lloyd Jones, Frederick James Jones, Madelyn Caroline Jordao, Phyllis Harlene Jordan, Anne Estelle Kelly, Kathryn Kent, Edith Jane Kiser, Juanita King and Margaret Kirkpatrick.

Alberta Vivian Large, Joyce Elaine Langley, Ann Bracker Leinbach, James Lewis, Henry Long, Joe Lonz, Joan Mabry, Katherine Mason, Ruth Mathis, Annie Mattair, Margaret Patricia McCall, Virginia Dell McCall, Yvonne McCarley, John McDonald, June Elizabeth McGill, Joyce McLain, Grace June McMillan, Barbara Jean Prater, Don Rapp, Janet Rawls, James Reeves, Joan Reitsma, Dorothy Rich, Mary Roslin-som and Shirley Revell.

Martha Sanders, Betty Selves, Emily Schoenberger, Judith Ann Schuh, Barbara Schumacher, Eleanor Scott, Charles Shealy, Elizabeth Ann Shiver, June Simmons, Netha Clara Smith, Mary Elizabeth Spencer, Dorothy Stucia, Betty Srygley, John Summers, Jev Summers, Maxine Sutherland, Mary Scott, Marilyn Stevens, Donald Teske and Florence Thompson.

Jeanne Louise Thomson, Jo Anne Tilley, Marie Traxler, Carol Trimmer, Alice Anne Tucker, Clara Frances Tuttle, Roy Thompson, Margaret Valero, Stuart Vandivere, James Wallis, Yvonne Warren and Jean Watkins.

Also Betta Weeks, Florence Weeks, Howard Wetherell, Mary Elizabeth Whetstone, Joyce Whiddon, Betty Lee Whitmire, Lenora Windham, Carolyn Williams, Jean Williams, Joanne Williams, Juanita Wimberly, Frances Wise, Robert Wynn, Jack Watkins and James Yadon.

FOUND . . . One fountain pen. Parker pen, initials CDJ, 4861. Inquire at Student Body Office, Lesgunze Building after 2 p. m. any afternoon.

From Page 2

News Briefs

Joe Taylor, Bob Gutting, Charles Smiley, Bob Connelly, "Sonny" Nicholas and Ray Fulmer.

PHI MU EVENTS

Members of Phi Mu, fraternity for women, gathered together in the college and alumnae groups on yesterday to observe the anniversary of its founding and pay tribute to the three college girls who established it as the Philomathean Society at Wesleyan College, Macon, Georgia, on March 4, 1852. Locally, as part of this nationwide observance, Phi Mu held a Memorial service at 3:00 yesterday.

D Z's INITIATE

Delta Zeta, social sorority, recently initiated sixteen girls, according to reports.

The initiation ceremonies were followed by dinner at Joe's Spaghetti House. The new members include Peggy Arnow, Martha Bush, Jean Cooper, Kathy Hamilton, Clara King, Peggy McDougell, Alice Miller, Martha Sue Mizell, and Evelyn Mettles.

Also Kathy Peak, Harriet Ransey, Betty Ann Pool, Pat Riley, Pat Robson, Cubye Ryals, and Reggie Thorp.

HOME EC ELECTS

Dorothy Leslie was recently elected president of the Home economics club. Other officers elected include Barbara Burke, vice president, Mona Lee McKelvey, secretary, and Carol DeVore, treasurer.

The group also appointed eleven officials. Claudette Carley, notification chairman; Barbara Evans, posters; Jack Puckett, publicity; Jone Wardlaw, senior representative; Dot Horduskey, junior representative; and Adeline Reider, sophomore representative.

Also Louise Yarborough, scrapbook, Rose Howard, social; and social committee members Evelyn Hill, Mildred Carlton, and Gerald Lehner.

KA'S INITIATE

The Kappa Alpha social fraternity has initiated twelve men. They are Charles Mixon, James Richard Ervin, Paul Kraeger, Marion Lamb, Bill Myers, Max Long, Larry Tuten, Bobie Daniels, Edmund Nuner, Earle Peterson, Bob Porter, Richard Thierry, and Dan Dozier. Jerry Albritton is a new KA pledge.

CORSAGE MAKING

The Home Economics Club of FSU will meet next Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the Longmire Building Club Room. The group will hear discussion on corsage making by Mrs. D. L. Wehunt.

Seniors Participate In ROTC Program

Each Saturday morning before dawn 12 Seniors at Florida State University, all in their last year of Air Force ROTC training, leave the campus for Tyndall Air Force Base to participate in a unique orientation program developed by the FSU AFROTC unit.

With the co-operation of Col. Bineham T. Kleine, commander of Tyndall AFB, more than 100 FSU cadets will be given one hour orientation rides in jet T-33 trainers, similar to the famous F-80 Shooting Star. A different group of 12 cadets will go to Tyndall AFB each Saturday.

The program was started here, which is the present time is the only AFROTC school having such an orientation program, according to Lt. Isaac M. Hamilton, assistant professor of air science and tactics at FSU, project officer of the program.

From Page 1

Activity Mounts

come at next Tuesdays' Senate meeting and be passed at that meeting by suspension of the rules.

Elections activity will begin in earnest next week, with the Rho-oeni Party Convention slated for Tuesday. Convention date for the newly-formed State Party is announced at this writing. The following day will mark Official Declarations of Candidacy, according to election laws. Active campaigning distribution of literature, etc will begin at 5 p m March 16. Primary day is set for the 23rd and expense statements from all candidates are due March 30.

Branch earnest that general election rules may be picked up by prospective candidates and interested students at the Student Government office in the Alumni Building from 2 until 5 p.m. each week day.

from the bench of the Dancers Cobbler

Stricklands'

BRINGS YOU

Capezios

A. Black Kid, White Kid . . 9.95

B. Pink Kid with White Harlequins 2" Needle Heel . . 13.95

C. White Kid . . 9.95

D. Black Patent, Red Kid . . 7.95

E. 1½" Underslung Heel in Navy Kid, White Kid, Yellow Kid . . 12.95

F. Red Kid, White Kid on 2" Needle Heel . . 12.95

G. Navy Kid Flat with White Buttons . . 9.95

Exclusive With

Stricklands

. . . . of tallahassee

on college avenue

Expert Shoe Repairing

"Service For You"

- We Re-Suede Shoes!
- We Do Orthopedic Work!
- We Repair Luggage!
- We Put on Golf Soles!
- We Dye Shoes Any Color!

PALACE SHOE SHOP

"The House That Service Built"

121 EAST PARK AVENUE

You'll Enjoy DANCING

to the QUINTONES

Every Saturday

Floridan Hotel

See the complete line of TUSSY COSMETICS

QUICK NEW WAY TO ALL-DAY BEAUTY!

a super CLEANSING CREAM

a rich NIGHT CREAM

a dewy-magic MAKEUP BASE

ALL IN ONE JAR! LARGE 6 OZ. SIZE ONLY $1 plus tax

GOOD FOOD — DRUG SUNDRIES

SCHOOL SUPPLIES

THE SWEET SHOP

Get 'em today!

At Turner's

The season's newest, smartest checked sportshirts completely washable

COTN SPORT CHECKS

by Van Heusen

Pick a collection of cool, lightweight sport shirts. Van Heusen's cotton-wise these smart Cot'n Sports Checks for a perfect fit. Soon in and pick out your favorite won't shrink or fade Cot'n Sport Checks today. They're a terrific buy at only 3.95 up

Turner's

The Florida Flambeau

PUBLISHED by STUDENTS of FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA

Tuesday, March 9, 1954

Vol. X., No. 36

Adlai Blames Ike For Weakness See The Free Lance

Student Parties Hold Conventions See Below

Martin Confirms ROTC Rumors; Apply To Frosh

Executive Council Ruled On Motter Last October 16

Rumors concerning compulsory ROTC at FSU next fall were confirmed yesterday by Dr. A. B. Martin, vice-president of the university.

"The Executive Council ruled in the matter of compulsory ROTC training a couple of months ago," he said, "It appears that the ruling will apply only to freshmen next year. We can't guess anything definite to this year's freshmen."

Dr. Martin made available to the Flambeau advance proofs of University Catalog for 1954-55 describing the ROTC requirements and listing exemptions. According to page 27, from the section on Academic Requirements:

All full-time 'l3 semester hour undergraduate male students, unless specifically exempted under university rules, are required to complete successfully six consecutive semesters of the ROTC. This training shall run for the student in the first collar semester of his matriculation. For further information on deferments and exemptions see page 33."

And on page 33B: "Requests for exemption from basic ROTC training must be made in writing and supported by documentary evidence by the Military Coordinator, Florida State University, prior to registration." (emphasis ours)

The catalog lists as exemptions only those students who are "reached their 23rd birthday before the opening date of the enrollment"; "those who may be certified by the University physician as making the student ineligible to perform military duties; and "a veteran who has completed 18 months active military service."

According to the advance copy of the catalog, there are more than six months but less than twelve months active will be required to take only third and fourth semesters of the basic course. Veterans with less than six months active in school will be required to take all four basic semesters.

Three years of Junior ROTC are reasonably advised to attempt a student from the first 4 semesters of basic ROTC but recommendation of the military Coordinator, the section continued. In addition, Junior ROTC training may result in a student from all or part of the basic course, according to discretion of the coordinator.

Also exempt are non-citizens of the United States and foreign students of junior standing. 56 semester hours.

A check of the records shows that the decision to make basic ROTC compulsory under the above conditions was passed by the Executive Council at a special session, October 16.

This matter was first brought to the attention of the Executive Council in March of 1953, according to the same records.

Dr. Martin assured the Flambeau yesterday that students referred to take basic ROTC will be allowed their choice of either Army or Air Force program.

When asked why Florida State did not consider the approval of compulsory ROTC, Dr. Martin stated, "It is my opinion that they don't rule on matters of this type. It's an administrative matter."

The Faculty Senate, he continued, was not asked to approve ROTC when the program was first brought to the FSU campus.

"I don't think it will be too much of a problem for the freshmen," he added.

Dr. Martin's statement was the first official word confirming rumors of compulsory basic ROTC. The student body's first word of the action taken in October came in a recent Tallahassee Democrat article. Reporting on a speech by two cadet officers, the article, presumably paraphrasing the speakers, referred to basic ROTC as "compulsory for all 1st students at FSU."

Leon Democratic Club Holds Meet Thursday

Leon County Democratic Club will hold its regular meeting Thursday night at 8 p.m. in Carnegie Steward School Auditorium, chairman for that political club said yesterday.

A panel discussion of eight or all legislative candidates for the County, will highlight the meeting, they said. On the program will be Wilson Carraway, Mayo, Kenneth Ballinger, Mitchell, Bill Hendricks, Jesse Pierce, Mallery Horne Rivers Buford.

WEST CAMPUS SCENE OF CONFLAGRATION . . . . Fire broke out last Friday evening in the midst of a Carillion dance held at FSU's former student center. The fire was reported to have started in the attic and spread rapidly, although it was soon under control by fire extinguishers. The Carillion retired to the Hotel Duval and the remains of the "O" Club can be seen above.

Names Picked For 8 Streets In Contest; Winners Upcoming

Winning names in the Flambeau-Gold Key Street Naming Contest were announced yesterday by spokesmen for the combined panel of judges

Eight names were picked for the eight individual streets pictured in two issues of the Florida FLAMBEAU. Themes, picked from returns on a pre-contest poll of student opinion, included Florida Botanical Names, Former FSU Presidents, Florida Cities, Seminole Chiefs, Confederate Generals, Noted Educators, Colleges or Universities and former Florida Governors.

Winning names are ORA WE DOUGLAS, picked for the name from West Jefferson gate to Westcott Circle; CONRADI PLACE for the line leading from Westcott Circle around the side of the administration building and to the stop sign.

Jacksonville Boulevard wins for the first outlying straight across campus from the Library past Longmire and out the North gate; Osceola Place wins honors for the by-way starting at the corner of Landis Hall's front lawn, across from Gilchrist, and progressing around past Florida Hall, Magnolia and the Women's Gym on out to intersection with Call St.

The Confederate General category winner is Jackson Place, which begins to the left of Magnolia Hall, past the tennis courts and out to meet Osceola Place to the right of Women's Gym.

HUTCHINS BOULEVARD has been picked, in the need educators category, for the busy by-way running from Gilchrist-Landis corner past the Seminole Hall and Carribon to Call St.

Harvard Place has been picked for the street areas leading in from Jefferson Boulevard and around the Journalism Building, Infirmary and South Cawthon. This street's category was colleges or universities.

McCarty Drive wins the former Florida governor category for the two drives leading to the Music Building between Gilchrist and Seminole Hall, meeting in the rear of the Dining Halls.

Contest Chairman Chris Young said Friday and yesterday he is happy at the response shown to the street-naming contest. He said names of individual winners will be announced in the next Flambeau. The winners, Young said, couldn't be named now." Young said, "However, this selection required further consideration, as several duplications occurred." Young promised the committee will work on a final agreement for the next issue of Flambeau.

FSU Debaters Win Top Spot In Mississippi

Four Florida State University debaters walked off with top honors at the Eighth Annual Magnolia Speech Festival at the Mississippi State College for Women, the past week-end at Columbus, Miss.

Fred Roberts and Bruce Fletcher won a team rating of superior. Jay Hilderbrand, as well as individual superior speakers rating. They upheld the negative side of the question "Resolved, that the United States should adopt a policy of Free Trade."

Gene Lawler and Bill Young, the affirmative FSU team, placed among the top five of the fourteen competing teams by achieving a rating of excellent, as well as winning individual awards as one of excellence in debate.

In individual events, Fletcher was rated superior in oratorical events and Twford excellent in extemporaneous speaking. Lawler won certificates of excellence in both the oratory and extemporaneous divisions.

Miss Edna Hollingsworth, professor assistant in the department of speech accompanied the group. This was the first time FSU had been represented at the annual event.

Opera Tickets Sell Beginning Monday In Music Building

Tickets are on sale in the Music Building for the annual Metropolitan Opera series to be held in Atlanta, May 3, 4, and 5. The operas this year will be Don Giovanni, Faust, Lucia de Lammermoor and La Forza del Destino, starring Rebecca Peters, Eleanor Steber, Jussi Bjoerling and Lily Pons.

Single tickets may be purchased for $2.50 or $10 for all four performances, which will be followed by a banquet and dance for a matinee on the fourth.

Tickets have been brought and will continue through Friday of this week. They may also be secured from Sigma Alpha Iota, women's music honorary, members.

Buses will be chartered for the event and hotel rooms may be reserved at the ticket desk near the main bulletin board of the music building.

Funds Committee Regulations To Be Sent All Organizations

Funds Committee Regulations will be sent during the next two weeks to every Florida State University student organization, academic, athletic and social department and every individuals, according to Chairman Donn Teal.

The regulations "govern all campus fund-raising projects (outside of Campus Chest) and all soliciting by students in Tallahassee proper," said Teal.

New rules enabling organizations to keep portions of their profits for their own use are in effect this year, he revealed. "Formally, funds-raising projects—like cake sales, car washes, etc.—could be conducted only on the condition that the total profits be spent on some benefit to the University Community."

"If we are unable to find a way to connect your organization, please ask for a copy of the rules at the Alumni building office and we will help you find a way to do it. We are sorry that we had to wait as long to do the mailing, but for the past three months exceptional cases have been coming up that have made it necessary to completely remodel the old regulations. Any changes made now on will be sent to the various organizations in the form of amendments which they can attach to the revised rules."

Teal added that the Funds Committee meets regularly on the second Tuesday of each month and at that time all projects to be held during month are approved. "After the distribution of the revised rules the committee will insist that perhaps few projects be turned in on ____"

"The object of our committee's regulations is not to stifle projects, but to make it possible for them to be carried on sensibly and with less risk to individual organizations. Now more than ever, we encourage projects since both the university and the sponsoring club will benefit."

Cossacks Are Final Program On Artist Slate

Playoff Don Cassack Chorus and Dancers will be featured on the final program of this season's University Artist Series on March 15 and 17 at 8:15 in Leon High School Auditorium.

Anthems of the Greek Orthodox Church, haunting folksongs, boisterous reminensl songs and gay peasant dances will be included on the program, announcements said.

All of the group are now American citizens, and representatives of White Russian emigres who fought communism as early as 1918, disappearing in the fight against World Communism, it was noted.

Their first concert was 22 years ago in the Cathedral of Prague in Czechoslovakia, founded by Nicholas Kostrukoff who is still the conductor.

That was the beginning of musical wanderings which lasted until an invitation came from America. Since then they have been seen at the San Francisco Exposition in 1939. The group has been in America ever since except for two overseas tours to sing for American troops.

This 1953-1954 season marks the 15th annual coast to coast tour of the chorus in the country where they've given more than 1500 concerts.

Tickets will be on sale at the FSU Bookstore, beginning Monday, March 15.

Sigma Chi Highest In Grade Averages; Lambda Chi Second

Sigma Chi fraternity had the highest grade point average last semester of any Florida State University fraternity, according to information received from the Dean of Men. The chapter had an overall average of 1.5235.

Lambda Chi Alpha's scholastic average was notched by Lambda Chi Alpha with 1.2746 and Sigma Phi Epsilon was third with 1.2317.

The other fraternities, arranged in order are Pi Kappa Phi, 1.231; Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 1.17; Delta Tau Delta, 1.13; Phi Delta Theta, 1.10; Kappa Alpha, 1.07.

Phi Kappa Tau, 1.06; Kappa Sigma, 1.009; Alpha Tau Omega, 1.00; Theta Chi, .983; Sigma Nu, .940; Phi Delta Theta, .930.

The overall averages for fraternities was 1.113, as compared to the average for all men at 1.178. The greatest average for sorority women was posted by theSigma Chi's with 1.8563, while the highest pledge average was held by the Sigma Chi ladies.

Overall, the actives in all but one fraternity had a higher point average. while only three fraternity's pledges average above that mark, according to the report.

Historians Convene At FSU In March

The annual meeting of the Florida Historical Society will bring specialists in Florida history from all over the state here March 26 and 27, according to announcement of that group.

Addresses by the historians on various aspects of the state's history coupled with tours to historic sites in this area will highlight the two-day session, said. Subject matter for addresses will include "Extracts from a Key West Diary" by Lee Goulding and "Tampa in 1848" by William J. Schellings of Miami.

All sessions of the society will be open to the public, they said, and will be held in Longmire Building. A luncheon meeting March 26 will bring forth speakers from local and national Florida historical societies.

Parade Heralds Annual Football Game Thursday

A parade heralding the Garnet-Gold Football game slated for Thursday night at Campbell Stadium will feature the Florida State Marching Chiefs, Cheerleaders and a snake dance through Tallahassee streets Thursday afternoon, spokesmen told The Florida FLAMBEAU yesterday.

Assembling on Madison Street north of the Industrial Commission Building at 4 Thursday afternoon, the Marching Chiefs will lead the procession, closely followed by cheerleaders — four abreast — in a snake dance. Miss Tallahassee, Marilee Cloudier of FSU, will follow the snake dance. Cars with streamers representing FSU dormitories, sororities and fraternities will follow the band headliners. Bringing up the rear of the procession will be in Leon High School by Red Cross Jeep.

The parade, scheduled to move at 4:30 p.m., will wind East on Madison Street to Monroe Street and thence to the Duval Hotel where the procession will disband.

The game, a contest between a split FSU Seminole team, will kick off at 8:15 p.m., spokesmen said. Tickets are $1 each for adults and 50 cents for children. Showing of L. D. cards will admit FSU students.

News Briefs

GRADUATE CLASS

Dr. J. Frank Dame, professor of business education, will address the Graduate Class at its meeting in Room 114 tomorrow at 7. The meeting will be held on the fourth floor of the infirmary.

SAE INITIATES

Five pledges were initiated into Sigma Alpha Epsilon, social fraternity, Sunday evening, spokesmen said yesterday. Initiates are Bob Hiers, Dave Medders, Jerry Andrew, Bill Stuke and Dick Dunn. Formal initiations will be tonight, they said.

DELTA ZETA ELECTS

Officers for the coming year for Delta Zeta sorority were announced recently. President for the next year will be Carroll Garrett, vice-president, Corris Simmons; Rose Howard's secretary and Jeanne Barr's and Sirutis is recording secretary and Janis Williamson, corresponding secretary.

Treasurer is Carol Nedgeer; Editor, Mary Ann Davis; house president, Martha Garrett, custodian, Ann Andrew, and Pledge counselor and Harriet Davis, scholarship secretary.

GRADUATE LUNCHEON

Dr. J. Frank Dame of the School of Business Education will be the speaker at the Graduate Class luncheon Thursday, from 1 to 2 p.m. in the South Seminole Dining Room. All mature and Graduate students and faculty are invited to attend this "Dutch-treat" luncheon.

Student Parties To Hold Nominating Assembly Tonight, Tomorrow Night On Campus; 16 Positions Are Open

State Porty Affoir Slated Tomorrow In Science Building

The newly founded State Party will hold its initial nominating convention tomorrow night, according to Jack Houser, party chairman.

Slated for 124 Science at 7 p.m. the convention will ratify the party constitution, platform, and nominate a slate, he said.

The State Party, which had its origin just two weeks ago when a group of ten students formally organized it, has grown to interest, stated Houser. At their last meeting, approximately fifty students were on hand to tentatively approve the platform and elect the officers, consisting of Jack Houser, chairman, Joyleen Robertson, recording secretary, and Bob Berlo, treasurer.

The steering committee, headed by Chairman Houser, remains the same: Bob Berlo, Fred Mansfield, and Orchid Alonso.

Relative to the platform, Student Party spunsoring of the day stu dents delegation of fifteen in regards to the interest Houser said that the State Party is "not a party against this or that many, because as he put it "we want delegates to have a fair representation and to express student interest, not as a reward for personal interest."

Organizations numbering over twenty were advised this week that they were eligible to have single delegates to the convention held next Thursday from 1 to 2 p.m. in the south wing of the Seminole Dining Room.

STUDENT NURSES MEET

Plans for a banquet and the election of officers will be discussed at a meeting of the Student Nurses group this evening at 7. The meeting will be held on the fourth floor of the infirmary.

All candidates wishing to seek the State Party nomination, according to treasurer Bob Berlo, are expected to pay a fee of one dollar. "This is the party fee that will be collected to defray expenses."

Bob Berlo also announced that plans were going ahead for a dance the weekend of the elections. It will be free, and open to everyone, he commented. A dance band will provide the music.

STATE PARTY

The STATE PARTY will hold its nominating convention tomorrow night at 7 p.m. in 124 Science (Science Lecture Hall). Delegates are requested to be present at 6:45 p.m.

Spokesmen for the State Party revealed that it was impossible to contact all student organizations because many have lacked a definite University sponsor, but nevertheless organization having 30 or more members that did not receive a notice from the State Party may send a delegate to the conventions.

All nominations will be received from the floor.

DECLARATION OF CANDIDACY

Official Declarations of Candidacy for the coming Student Body Elections will begin today, according to Jack Pickett, election committee worker.

Pickett announced that applications will be found in the Student Government officers in the Alumni Building between 2 and 5 p.m Monday through Friday. Express statements will be available also at those times.

Ballot boxes will be located at Westcott, Seminole Club, the Student Center and West Hall, he said.

Pickett announced an Elections Committee meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in the Senate Room in the Alumni Building for the purpose of answering questions for prospective candidates and to clear up any matters that they are concerned with.

Student Body Week To Start Next Monday

Student Government Week, scheduled March 15 through 19, will run in conjunction with the major elections according to Ann Carothers, president of the Florida State University Student Body.

Designed to promote school spirit and to aid students in understanding more fully the FSU open offices, the event, originally slated for the first week in in March, was postponed. Election day is March 23 with final balloting following on the 24th.

Carothers said the week will begin with a cabinet meeting at 4:30 p.m. Monday in West, and at 6:30 p.m. Carothers said those meetings will be open to the student body and urged students to attend.

On Wednesday at 8 p.m. Men's senate will meet in the court room while Women's senate meets in the senate room. The Student Government Week Seminar is scheduled for Thursday at 8 p.m. in Longmire Auditorium. Mr. Fred Vogel will begin the seminar with a discussion entitled Training Via Student Government. Following the discussion of a newly proposed honor system,

June Conyers will speak on the elections. It will be free, Ann Koff and Bill Stancik on selection procedure. The seminar will be closed with a panel discussion. Milton Carothers, who is assistant dean of men, has said that all prospective candidates for the offices of student government president, vice-president and presidents serve on the panel. Deadline for petitions for official extension 4861 and let the secretary know whether or not they will be present.

Delegates for the Southern Universities Conference on Student Government Government will register on Friday and will be here from 9 a.m. until 12 a.m. The program also includes coffee in the Longmire Lounge at 6 p.m.

Saturday the Student Government Week will end with the convention of the Southern Intercollegiate Association of Student Government.

Student Parties Hold Meet Tonight; Late Permission Granted

Student Party Candidates for the oncoming general elections will be chosen tonight at that political body's convention at Science Lecture Hall, party chairman Frank Shaw said yesterday.

Late permissions have been granted women attending, Shaw stated. He said Dean Katherine Warren extended the dormitory closing-hours to women delegates at tonight's convention to 12 midnight.

Registration of delegates will begin at 7, he added.

Sixteen will be nominated by Student Party tonight, tonight to fill the major Student Body offices of president, vice-president of women's initiative affairs, likewise for men's affairs, and vice-president of the Student Body.

Also, Secretary of Senate, Chief Justice of Honor Court, chairman of Judiciary and Traffic Court chairman and one of the three publications and their business managers; Sandspur chairman, and chairman of the University Recreation Association.

Shaw said a total of approximately 64 delegates will be represented tonight at the nominations. Presidents of the two delegate for each sorority and fraternity; one for every 30 men and women residents in the various dormitories, and one delegate for each 30 men in fraternity houses.

Explaining polling procedure, Shaw said each delegation is polled individually at the conventions for voting on each nominee's name. He recalled last year's record attendance at the convention which lasted from 8:30 to the evening until 11 o'clock. "While the added interest in politics this year," Shaw commented, "We expect tonight's session to last the Science Lecture Hall." He said there will be seats available for visitors and standing room for all.

Dennis Young will act as convention secretary and will be in charge of publishing the minutes, Shaw said. "This is quite a job," said Shaw, recalling that it took two days to write the minutes of the convention above.

Asked if he had anything to say on Student Party leanings Republican or Democrat he said he would not comment on this, as it is uncertain what beneficially announced candidates will seek Student Party nomination. "We are confident," he said, "that many surprises are in store for tonight."

Shaw expressed his thanks for "The fine cooperation of the Student Body and faculty in planning the convention. He said Dean Louis Corson "helped us a great deal" and that Science Lecture Hall," and Miss Warren "helped us a great deal following the extension of women's hours."

The Student Party Chief said, in closing, he hopes turnouts to both Student Party and State Party's conventions will reflect the evident interest shown by the large crowds that have been here year. "Only by full cooperation and attendance at such meets," he said, "Can we hope to make them a part of student life at Florida State."

Shirley Kellogg Crowned At Sweetheart Ball

Sophomore Reigns As Sigma Chi Sweetheart One Year

Miss Shirley Kellogg, pert brown-eyed sophomore from Riverside co-ed was crowned Sweetheart of Sigma Chi at the fraternity's annual Sweetheart Ball Friday night.

Miss Kellogg, a vivacious sophomore and member of Kappa Alpha Theta, social sorority here, was presented at Sigma Chi's White Rose Formal at Wakulla Springs Lodge as the gold reign until the Spring of 1955.

A member of Village Vamps and featured as a performer in FSU's Flying Circus, the "Sweetheart" stands five feet five inches tall and weighs 118 pounds. She is a major here in laboratory technology. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warthrop Kellogg. Dr. Kellogg is a professor of bacteriology here and a noted scholar in his field.

Miss Kellogg was presented the ornate loving cup by Howard Wetherell under a shower of white roses at Wakulla Lodge. Wetherell is newly-elected Sigma Chi president.

VA Benefits Paid To Certain Families Are Tax Free

Veterans Administration benefits paid to survivors of the families of deceased veterans are tax free and need not be reported on income tax returns, according to the Veterans Administration office in Jacksonville at Orville.

Dividends which veterans have received on GI insurance policies are also tax-exempt, the regional office said.

Among the tax-exempt benefits are education and training allowances paid to post-Korean veterans enrolled in schools and training establishments under the Korean GI Bill;

Subsistence allowances for World War II veterans under Institute under the original GI Bill.

Subsistence allowances made to disabled World War Two and Korean veterans in training under Public Law 16, the Vocational Rehabilitation Act;

Payments by VA up to a maximum of $160, which were applied to veterans' GI loans obtained before August 21, 1945, but not after that date;

Unlimited education and pensions paid to veterans for both service connected and

(Continued on Page 3)

It Takes Two To System

We have never urged having a second party merely for the sake of having a party.

We have said that one party does not make a party system; that one party, uncontested, becomes autocracy. Such a one-sided affair is harmful rather than helpful to democratic processes because it can squeeze out independent candidates.

At the same time, in urging a second party, we hoped that a split would be made over specific issues rather than along more artificial lines.

Fortunately such a party, the State party, has been formed. And now the Student party is taking on a different character because it no longer contains members who switched to State party. It seems to be true, then, that each party will stand for a characteristic platform and that students will be able to choose accordingly.

Unfortunately, students are holding back from State Party membership because of unsound reasons: they fear the new party will not be strong enough to carry them into office, and they are afraid State party is dominated by the old "Terry faction."

The State party can be whatever students want to make of it. The more people who join, the less power any one element will have. We do not mean to be endorsing the State party. Neither do we urge people to join them simply for the sake of joining. But we think the party system is at stake. Since two fairly well defined parties do exist, we again urge students to divide on issues rather than personalities.

Need Privacy?

(From the Mission House Mirror, Mission House College, Plymouth, Wisc.)

A philosopher of some note remarked in a recent article that one of the pressing needs of our time was the need to educate for privacy. This suggestion has a ring of freshness for it would seem to be evident that our society has in the self-century, stressed the importance of the group. . . . To merit a place in society, to be accepted, is a prime factor in the good life. Said a high school sophomore, with some exaggeration. but with clear intent, "I'd rather be dead than be different."

. . . If it be true that we have overstressed the group life the antidote does not lie in rebellion, for such direct fight indicates that the individual still is directed, albeit negatively, by group standards. Rather than an ego-centric effort to swim against the stream the individual concerned for his own identity can move at a different rate, or along other lines, not necessarily in frontal opposition.

Surely it is well to remember that decision is always an individual decision even when the decision is made to yield to group directions . . . To go it alone, to have some capacity for privacy is to add, in many cases, a new dimension to life . . .

Sic Semper Sophisty

It's always pleasing to see students gain a more responsible share in regulating their own activities. But somehow the latest morsel handed student government seems to vanish on sight, leaving no nourishment.

We refer in particular to the student activity fee. Out of each semester's registration fee of $75, about $44 has been set aside for what has been termed student activities. Out of this amount students have been consulted on the disposition of approximately $13. This sum includes appropriations for student publications, student government, university recreation and the like.

The bulk of the sum, however, goes to such things as the scholarships, and students are not consulted on its handling.

Student Senate has been angling for a say in all the student activity fee. They wanted a student-dominated committee, but of course this was shooting for the moon. They compromised on equal representation.

Then lo and behold, the victory was won without further struggle. Students will be allowed a voice in the entire student activity fee. But, oooops, it appears to be victory by definition only. Next year the student activity fee will be only $13. The rest of the money will be called a university activity fee.

Ah, sophistry! The balm of lost causes.

"Have A Care, Sir"

Dear Mama Seminole

Dear Mama Seminole:

Me study very hard here on campus about two tribes in Great Nation. One tribe, Apalachee, live east of great water; one tribe, the Souix, live west of the great water. Many moons ago big chiefs take over Apalachee who say all should worship Great medicine man of letters. Even moons before then, other big Medicine man of letters make code for Souix. Two codes very different!

Now little villages on border of great water decide on one code or other. When decision made, tribe of other code run in with warrior, say code not right, must change. Souix and Apalachee have big fight, tear up village. Village have no say about own code, must accept code of winner.

Big shame is that tribe give no voice to village, think only of how village help tribe. Souix preach big ideals for Apalachee, but no follow. Apalachee preach big ideals for Souix, but no follow.

Say Mama! Why chiefs no use personal ideals in tribal business??

We really have hot time in big tipee the other moon. Make big State Party kick off powwow. The Army puts them on as Warrior McCarthy invades Sunshine territory. Spontaneous combustion, or "Mac's" fiery tongue?

Love All,
Georgie Seminole

AT THE LIBRARY

Library Growth Sometimes Not Readily Recognized

By FLORENCE PAYNE

More students and faculty are using the university library than ever before.

Campus-wide the university is growing. This is obvious when we see new buildings going up before our eyes. But sometimes growth is not so easily seen.

For instance, have you noticed the library growing? Probably not.

In approximately two years, the university will have a new library building. It will be new, modern and better equipped. In the meantime, the old building must do. Adjustments must be made to keep ace with increasing enrollments. These adjustments are being made and the library is growing.

More books than ever before are in circulation. The greatest increase in the use of books has taken place in the reserve room. During the period September, 1953, through February, 1954, the use of reserve room books has increased thirty-seven per cent over the same period a year ago. Increase in the use of library facilities has also been felt in all other departments.

To meet this increasing use of library facilities, changes are constantly being made.

For example: fast fall a new self service system was tried out in the reserve room. At first, because of the tremendous amount of work involved in setting up the new system, students experienced difficulty in obtaining the books necessary to complete their assignments. In less than two months after the system was installed, it was functioning smoothly.

But are the students satisfied with this new streamlined reserve room?

In a survey made less than two weeks ago, one hundred and seventy-seven students were handed questionnaires as they entered the reserve room during the busiest hours of a busy night. Seventy-three per cent of the students indicated they were satisfied with the reserve room as it is now. Twenty-seven per cent suggested minor changes they would like to see made in the room.

All other departments in the library are undergoing similar changes in order to serve the students and faculty more efficiently. Many of these changes will not be immediately apparent to those using the library.

In future articles, an attempt will be made to inform you of changes taking place at the circulation desk and in the reference section, documents, maps, art reference and periodicals rooms.

Two years from now when the new library building is a reality, those of you who are now freshmen and sophomores will enjoy the modern building and its facilities as juniors and seniors. Box those of you who are using the library today are receiving the best service the library staff can provide. Your patience and cooperation with the wheels of progress will pay off for FSU students in 1955.

Adlai's Speech Signals War On Ike

By BRUCE GALPHIN

When Adlai Stevenson turned the big guns of the Democratic party on President Eisenhower last Saturday, it represented the first time the monumental Ike personality itself had been attacked since the elections.

In Congress, of course, the honeymoon ended a long long since been over. Republicans have been calling the Democrats everything from "prophets of doom" to "traitors," while the Democrats have been answering every term they could muster to refer to incompetence and self-righteous bungling.

But Stevenson has made a spirited attack on the president himself. It doesn't take much political acumen to assume that this the opening gun in the big campaign against Eisenhower in 1956.

Perhaps the most dominant factor of the entire 1952 election was the public fascination and awe at the person of Eisenhower. Ike was the well-known friendly man. He was a great success as a military leader. The psychologist would probably say Ike represents a "father-image" to many.

So well-liked was Eisenhower that even the Democrats softpedaled the campaign against him personally. Perhaps the harshest things said against the former general were from the mouths of right-wing Republicans fanatics such as Tribunal Bertie McCormick and the followers of Douglass ("I shall try to be fair") Cornwallace before the convention. Remember when Wheelcrock Pegler called Eisenhower "a stupid man" and almost said he would support Stevenson first? Pegler recovered soon afterward.)

In any case, Eisenhower is credited almost universally with squeezing through a Republican victory especially in both houses of Congress. Up till now, Democrats have abided away from saying about the man Eisenhower.

At a Miami meeting of Democrats, Stevenson changed the trend, McCarthyism, said Adlai, could and should have been crushed by Eisenhower by listening to untwise counsel; he hasn't persuaded that communism is best for America.

Remembering the wisdom of screwballs and bigots within his own party, one cannot help agree with Stevenson that Eisenhower could have put an end to a lot of McCarthy's power, at least.

Said Stevenson, "It is weak and subversive for public officials to try deliberately to replace reason with passion, to substitute hatred for honest difference, to fulfill campaign promises by practicing deception: and to hide discord and dissidence by sowing the dragon's teeth of suspicion among Americans."

"Where we looked forward to a nation united, we have a people divided. Where we expected firm leadership we have timidity."

In short, Eisenhower is not considered to be another normal. He can expect such criticisms from cities much bigger than Milwaukee, the Journal is the only paper in America that confounds both the mistaken idea that the American Middle West is provincial and unbelieved isolationism or that "provincial" journalism must indeed be provincial.

. . . . . .

The Journal, Milwaukeeans (nine out of ten families read it) rate the Journal on their own terms. The publication of the paper's all-encompassing interests have brought the city of Milwaukee from the Milwaukee Braves ("Time, March 30) to a well-rounded-term and, so on. In 1944, Dewey in 1948 and Eisenhower in 1952, Republicans have learned that Journal support can easily be turned into opposition. In his new three-way full campaigns for governor, Republican backed Republican Coadjutor Julius Heil, who used to slogan "Julius the Just." Beneath him, the Democratic incumbent Democrat Walter J. Kohler Jr. sensed Heil, it steered him as "Just Julius." He was right.

It was opposition, to McCarthy that helped put the Journal behind Stevenson in 1952. The paper's editors were ready to support General Eisenhower as soon as he was nominated, in fact, they were ready to back "We'll wait for the Democrats" are who they nominates and endorse them." But the Journal did not decide until Ike campaigned in Milwaukee and denounced McCarthy. "Ike didn't keep a decent distance," said those who were there. "Ike made insufficients strength in disassociating himself from McCarthy. From then on, it was impossible for us to back Ike."

. . . . . .

What Contrast! In the Milwaukee tradition, Gardner of the Journal on a simple principle: "You've got to have good editorial matter if you want to get circulation, and you've got to have good editorial matter to get advertising. Editorial matter is the base of it all." Journalists have forgotten that the primary rule of U. S. Journalism is "Circulation is king." The paper, the less susceptible it is to influence from advertisers. Milwaukee has learned the lesson in Milwaukee is a typically forthright manner. When an advertiser asked for special treatment in the sports columns because of "my $50,000 ad contract." Grant asked him what would happen if the contract I have with you." answered the advertiser. "The same thing would happen to me with the Journal," answered Grant.

Unique Milwaukee Journal Believes Editorals Are Heart Of Newspaper likes a conservative Republican than a Socialist."

. . . . . .

"Just Julius." In no place in the Journal does the editorial effort stir up more of a storm than on the editorial page. The paper has itself independence as many other publications, for the Journal, the term a conservative Republican. In a single election, the paper once supported a Socialist, a Republican Progressive, a Democrat and a Progressive. The Journal, which backed Roosevelt in 1932 and 1936, Willkie in 1940 (because it saw a danger in a third term), so-so in 1944, Dewey in 1948 and Eisenhower in 1952, Republicans have learned that Journal support can easily be turned into opposition. In his new three-way full campaigns for governor, Republican backed Republican Coadjutor Julius Heil, who used to slogan "Julius the Just." Beneath him, the Democratic incumbent Democrat Walter J. Kohler Jr. sensed Heil, it steered him as "Just Julius." He was right.

It was opposition, to McCarthy that helped put the Journal behind Stevenson in 1952. The paper's editors were ready to support General Eisenhower as soon as he was nominated, in fact, they were ready to back "We'll wait for the Democrats" are who they nominates and endorse them." But the Journal did not decide until Ike campaigned in Milwaukee and denounced McCarthy. "Ike didn't keep a decent distance," said those who were there. "Ike made insufficients strength in disassociating himself from McCarthy. From then on, it was impossible for us to back Ike."

. . . . . .

What Contrast! In the Milwaukee tradition, Gardner of the Journal on a simple principle: "You've got to have good editorial matter if you want to get circulation, and you've got to have good editorial matter to get advertising. Editorial matter is the base of it all." Journalists have forgotten that the primary rule of U. S. Journalism is "Circulation is king." The paper, the less susceptible it is to influence from advertisers. Milwaukee has learned the lesson in Milwaukee is a typically forthright manner. When an advertiser asked for special treatment in the sports columns because of "my $50,000 ad contract." Grant asked him what would happen if the contract I have with you." answered the advertiser. "The same thing would happen to me with the Journal," answered Grant.

Letters to the Editor

Panoramic Thanks

Dear Editor:

In addition to any recognition afforded the group of people behind the scenes who make a show run at a smooth pace or leg behind.

The stage and lighting crews of Sandspur 1954 merit special thanks for their job in executing quick scene and lighting changes, both of which made PANORAMA the success that it was.

To those whose names did not appear on the program and to whom Sandspur extends their deepest appreciation are as follows:

Harold Kastner (ATO) Stage Manager
Tom Sawyer (ATO)
Robert Arnstein
APO Fraternity
Donald Woods
Joe Hilsdon (Lighting Head)
Eb Thomas

Sincerely yours,
William Chavers

Want Pin-Ups

To: Florida State Flambeau
Subject: Girls -two to be exact

Received today through the local pony express a copy of the FSU Smoke Signals most delightful issue. Within the covers of said publication we found two pages of good looking girls. Now being of sound mind and body (and typical overseas G I.) also exceptional students, a great discussion took place as to the best of the two. After due consideration and detachment managed to pick out what has been decided our pin-up this is rather crude way to put it). However it was a close call as we have these two 20 bunkers (man are we living). (In a word no). Well to make a long matter short (not to do it this way because I am in a hurry) we have selected the following two champaign gals as our nominations for the doubtful honor. Both are members of the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. The names are Miss Betty Wilmon and Miss Anita Weil. We hope that you will notify these two ladies of this distinction for us. Also we need a larger picture of each as the ones in the Smoke Signals are rather small for the decoration of our little homes away from home.

Thank you for your trouble,
C. E Field RA14662280
326 C.B.C.
c o 1st Armrd Amphib.
Bn. F.M.F.
s o F.P.O. San Francisco, Calif.

Point Is--What?

After reading the article on April 2nd entitled "Professors, Beware!", we conclude that our Managing Editor, Bob Folsom, is a clever—though cautious—journalist. He seemed to be expressing his wholehearted enthusiasm and amusement at the craft activities at Dale Mabry Field—by completely misstating the facts. Tea for Tuesday couldn't know nothing of flight requirements and procedures—was indeed a terribly misleading title. Then he became cautious. Suppose somebody objected? Why, we believed what he wrote! To prevent this possibility he cloaked his message in the literary device of a misguided eighth-year-old student. Words, words, words, incomplete sentences and dialogue connected with trends, not the facts, and the reason is the point.

Let us continue the joke a little further, and pretend she wasn't interpreted literally as was meant to be understood. The "one" airplane making "three" passes at the field of course doubtedly "three" airplanes making "one pass apiece" Number of students in the Spanish class and Tyndall Air Force bases conduct daily training missions at Dale Mabry Field because of superior radio aids to bad weather flying? A case study on campus motor-bike and bathtub calamaties concern us more.

This brings us to our point—a flying student is considered to have FSU moved to somewhere near the last meteorite crater. After all, a student has never crashed on campus either, and he is the time to go, which there is still a chance to lower the odds.

P.S. If you are still worried, and the noise annoys you while you are studying—move.

Sincerely yours,
R. B. Kissinger, R. A. Clasey, F. C. Eckmann, S. C. Gilbert, Riley S. Venardsall and Nick DiGiulio.

Editor's Note: Folsom says he started worrying about meteors now.

A CUP OF COFFEE

(ACP)—In college newspapers as well as in professional ones, the subject of coffee has been raised in the news.

At some schools—like Sun Java State Calif.—students are complaining loud because the price of coffee has been raised, and at others—like the University of Washington—there is a strike because the post per cup has remained static.

At the University of Oklahoma, a student senator has launched a "Tea for Tuesday" campaign encouraging not only fellow students but townsmen as well to frequently substitute tea, milk or cocoa for the previous black liquid one day a week.

A unique suggestion comes from a dairy professor at Iowa State College who suggests that students eat their morning cup of coffee instead of drinking it. "Although coffee has good taste," he says, "the price of coffee ice cream reminds us the same."

And at Ohio State University, the department of botany and bacteriology has produced a coffee tree coffee when and if the trees grow berries. "We really can't expect it to do much since it's not in its native habitat," says one professor. But still there's a chance for the tree to produce coffee, he says, for another coffee tree in Columbus is "making progress."

NOTICE TO VETERANS

Veterans who have not had an evaluation of their military service should bring a copy of their discharge or separation papers to Miss Glover, Registrar's Office, 102 Westcott Building, during the hours from 8 to 12 noon and 1:30 to 5 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays beginning March 15 and ending March 31.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

"I know you made an 'A' on the exam, but you just look like a student."

The Florida Flambeau

BRUCE GALPHIN—Editor

Al Pierce, News Editor — Bob Folsom, Managing Editor

Feature Editor ..... Jayleen Robertson
Campus Editor ..... Orchid Alonso
Sports Editor ..... Jim Schoen
Society Editors . . . Oscar Johnson, Marian Dickman
Sports Staff ..... Art Kennerly, Bob Cole
Photographer ..... Dick Reutler
Art Consultant ..... Franklin Adams

NANCY LOWE—Business Mgr.
Al Markavitz, Advertising Mgr.

Business Staff ..... Mary Wogan, Virginia Vaughn, Joe Caldwell
Advertising Soliciting ..... Members of Alpha Delta Sigma, Gamma Alpha Chi
Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service
420 Madison Ave, New York | Chicago

Copy Editors ..... Sylvia Parrish, Dick Victory, David Dreis
Photographic Editor ..... Joe Caldwell
Junior Staff ..... Dot Thomasson, Mary Elizabeth King, Tom Hall, Betty Bishop, Lona Cochran, Barbara Bachman, Joyce Porter

Exchange Editor ..... Pat Robson
Exchange Staff ..... Lil Haviland
Distribution ..... Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University.
Member Intercollegiate Press. "C" Member
Telephone 2 8000, extension 482! Associated Collegiate Press
2 1, 2 3 Longmire Building

Comedy Duos Do If Solos Don't

By DAVID DREIS

Timing and character, Two devices which have successfully added laughter to the annals of entertainment. One type act which endeared users them to the comedy team . . . there have been many comedy teams . . . few of them have failed.

When Weber & Fields peddled their act in the shape of a vaudeville house back in the early 1900's, the audience was assured of getting a pantomomy size of slapstick, a few moron jokes and, in general, cutting up. The two dressed themselves in oversized, crazy clothes, and sported whiskers. They played medicine shows, burlesque, vaudeville, saloons, but everywhere they went they were hailed as "the greatest." Maybe they were . . . history records is that way.

"Sam and Henry" were top comics before the radio and since changing their names back in 1926 to "Amos and Andy" Charles Correll and Freeman Gosden have been riding the hoop of the Hooper. They were first put on the air to knock out "The Gumps" comic strip, but begged off for their own show.

The screen's first big hit was Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy. Back in 1917, Hal Roach signed the two and turned the team made a hit, especially with one of their seventy-five rolled THE ROGUE SONG. They were great in steamer situations such as getting into the wrong hotel rooms, meeting gorillas head on, talking back to the top criminals without recognition from them and so on, to-day, they perform throughout Europe and their old reviews, followed by video, have given them a completely new audience.

In 1940, the top comics were Bud Abbott and Lou Costello and every one was trying to emulate them. Bud's dead-pan and acute shrewdness as he tries to help or hinder his pal shows one of the greatest character developments in the business. The same goes with Lou's innocence. The two met in Minsky's burlesque at the Capitol theater in Chicago. Lou sat around for his straight-man technique with another comic, but begged off for their own show. Costello showed a natural stretch in comedy . . . "Who's On First" stuck and so did the team.

With 1950 came Martin and Lewis, in their early 40's. Dean, as the two were known as, and nothing happened to Jerry pulled a side-kick off a customer's table during Dean's song. The number finished, Dean, who was tried, the audience howled . . . and Dean got right on singing. The two are now the top vaudeville, nightclub and what-have-you. Can't blame 'em.

Of course, there were others. The Three Stooges, Moran and Mack, Smith and Dale, Clayton, Jackson and Durante, Sweeney and March, Olsen and Stone . . . but these are the ones who called the trend and brought back some . . . some were the comedy teams who solo couldn't make it, but did. Sometimes, they perform material and get away with plague, but there are some who tell jokes with hair on them. Jest. Zatsall.

From The Sidelines

By Ken Kingery

Flambeau Sports Editor

A Sideline Glance On—Coach Odeneal—

Coach Bill Odeneal came to Florida State University in 1949 from Springfield College, where he received his BS and Master's Degree in Physical Education. While at Springfield he lettered in Track and Football. He was a member of the Volleyball Club Team for four years, which won the New England Intercollegiate crown. He was a member of the Golf club squad and was winner of the annual Senior-Alumni golf trophy during his senior year. Outside of sports, he was president of the junior class, a member of Alpha Phi Omega, National Scouting Fraternity, and Sigma Delta Psi, Honorary Athletic Fraternity.

At FSU Coach Odeneal's Volleyball teams have won the State AAU title three years and were runners-up once. His 1951 squad won the Mid-South Open Volleyball Tournament—a feat never accomplished by any collegiate team in the history of the sport. In National competition, Coach Odeneal's teams have placed fifth, fourth twice, and third once in the four years they have competed. His ambition is to win the National Collegiate Title. He personally constructed the West Campus Golf Course and teaches golf in the service program. His ambition here is to shoot a hole in one and lower his 87 made on the Tallahassee links.

Coach Odeneal is the author of many Volleyball articles appearing in various national magazines and the official Volleyball Rule Book and Guide.

Coach Odeneal is married — his wife's name is Virginia and they have one daughter, Cindy.

FSU Footballers Face Miami Next Tuesday

On March 18th, the Florida State Seminole football team will travel to the Orange Bowl Stadium to face their powerful Miami Hurricanes in the last of the 20 practices allotted by the NCAA.

The Garnet and Gold game will help Head Coach Tom Nugent, select the starting lineup for the Hurricane encounter.

Coach Nugent, the imaginative Irishman who never ceases to come up with new ideas, had to do some fancy juggling to make the practice game with Miami possible. "We're very glad to play Miami," Nugent said. "Miami is a very strong team and the game should be a wonderful means of testing our spring accomplishments."

The Seminoles figure to be stronger now than they were when Miami defeated them, 27-0, in the Orange Bowl last September. After losing to the Hurricanes, FSU went on to a 5-3 season, winning their last three games.

Three-Year Contracts Signed

FSU Athletic Director Howard Danford recently announced that the Florida State Seminole football team will play the Georgia Bulldogs for three years, starting in 54, and the Miami Hurricanes 55, 56, and 57.

WE MIGHT EVEN GET THE GATORS

Danford also said that the possibility of playing the Florida Gators is very bright. This will mean, the Seminoles may be playing three major sectional football rivalries.

Here are the dates and sights for the three year contracts with Georgia and Miami:

Georgia—Sept. 18, 1954, here. Oct. 15, '55 here; Sept. 29, '56 at Athens.

Miami—Sept. 20, 1955 at Miami; Oct. 12, '56 at Miami; Nov. 8, '57 here.

Seminole Baseball Team To Face Rebels

Florida State University will get a close look at professional baseball this month when the Seminoles meet Tallahassee's new Class B Florida International League entry in a two-game exhibition series.

Ralph Matherly, FSU's head basketball coach, said the Seminoles will oppose the Tallahassee Rebels at Centennial Field in single games March 16 and 26. Starting time for both games will be 2 p.m.

Oddly, FSU is batting 1.000 against professional teams. In 1951, the Seminoles walloped the Tallahassee Citizens, a Georgia-Alabama League (Class D) nine by 16-6 margin.

FSU opens its 22-game regular-season schedule in a two-day stand against Jacksonville Navy in Jacksonville next Friday and Saturday.

Intramurals

By ART KENNERLY

Yesterday afternoon out at West Campus, four fraternity-Intramural baseball teams were proceed to have unchandindled each other in their part of the Greek struggle for the basketball-ring title. The games (Chi Phi Tau, and Phi Sigma Nu) were to be the half-way mark of the baseball schedule for the fraternities. They were scratched.

In the fraternity portion of the intramural fighting, Phi Delta Theta has been chairing over the poor gnawed "bones" of the Intramural trophy-leadership all year. The Phi Delts have been stood as robots as a stomach pump in their rollicking good time of yanking the athletic rug from under the other fraternities in all sports.

For the past couple of weeks the Phi Delts have been slipping a bit. Their jinx for winning was blasted when the ATO's shimmied off with the golf crown. Then their big basketball firecrackers failed to go off; they lost a few court contests, and the other fraternities began to breathe a little easier.

But the Phi Delts still maintain a strong arm grasp on the lead for intramural supremacy. And the other fraternities will have to go some to edge out the Wildwood Drive boys from their top slot. Only three Greek groups are within striking distance of the Phi Delts. They are Phi Tau 25, DTD 14; SPE 42, Sigma Nu 38; Pi K Phi 30, Pike 16; KS 18, Kappa Sig 18; Phi Delt 28, SAE 24 and Theta Chi 23, Sigma Chi 16.

March 4 scores: Dormitories: Senior Hall 25, Gators 23; Newman Club 37, Tigers 30; Baptists 29, Penthouse Gang 24; Rebels 18, Pirates 8.

Schedules for both the fraternities and the dormitories are being re-shuffled and re-arranged by the intramural office.

FSU Gymnasts Keep Southern Crown

Don Holder, Jack Miles Star In Gym Victory

COACH HARTLEY PRICE AND COMPANY

Taking first place in every event except rope climb, the Seminole gymnasts have once again retained the Southern Intercollegiate Gymnastics League crown.

The Seminoles first won the crown in 1951 and have managed to retain possession of it every year since.

This year's meet saw the crowning of six new champs while Florida States Don older retained two of the titles he won last year.

In free exercise national champ Jack Miles dethroned last year's champs Don older and Pat Signorelli to become the new champ. Holder placed second in this event and Signorelli third.

In rope climbing last year's champ Benny Wallace of FSU was upset by North Carolina's Rivers. Rivers, who placed second in last year's meet, came back greatly improved to win this year's title. In second place was Jones of Duke, and third place winner was Benny Wallace.

In trampoline Jim Fadigan, who placed second in last year's meet, edged out FSU's Dick Ireland for first. Ireland was defending champion of the trampoline title. Third place winner was Hallden, of North Carolina.

On horizontal bars Florida State's Jack Miles was crowned the new champ. The title was won last year by FSU's Carmine Reene, who is ineligible for collegiate competition this year. In second place was FSU's Don Holder and third was North Carolina's Howard.

The parallel bars title was successfully defended by last year's champ Don Holders. Second and third were Seminoles Jack Miles and Pat Simorelli.

New flying rings champ is Florida State's Joe Regna. Joe is also leaping champ collegiate competition. Second place winner is Joe Taylor of FSU and third was Hartsell of North Carolina.

In the tumbling event FSU's Larry Weston came back from second place win last year to take this year's title. Defending SIGL tumbling champ Hicks of Northwestern was not on hand for the meet. Taking this year's second place was Brumley of North Carolina and third Benny Wallace of FSU.

The all around event was won this year by Jack Miles, who edged out last year's winner Don Holder to capture the crown. Holder took second and Pat Signorelli third to give the Seminoles a clean sweep in the all-around championship.

National champ Jack Miles was the team's high scorer with three first place wins and two second place wins.

Don Holder was second with two first and two seconds.

Third high scorer was Pat Signorelli with two third and two fourth place wins.

Highest score of any event was compiled by Florida State's Jim Padima with a total of 287 points on trampoline.

To date the Seminole gym team has a perfect score of seven straight wins, including their unprecedented upset over the famed Swedish Olympic team.

Kneeling, left to right: Miles, Fadigan, Wallace, Ireland; Standing, left to right: Holder, Tanaka, Taylor, Signorelli, Coach Hartley Price. Not Shown, Larry Weston.

Volleyballers Remain Florida AAU Champs

The Seminole volleyball team overwhelmed the St. Petersburg Y.M.C.A. in two straight games, 15-4, 15-4, to win its third straight and ten wins, and two losses. Their new opponent was the most powerful squad in the tournament, the Jacksonville Navy.

The only way for the Indians to gain a top position in the tournament was to beat Jax Navy, one game to tie for second place, two games for the championship. The loss of two games would mean that FSU was out of the running.

The pressure was on the Seminoles, the underdogs of the match. Tension mounted as the two teams started play in the final match. With injured Howie Gould back in the line-up, the highsetters offense and defense started working once again, and the Indians beat Jax Navy in the first game, 15-4.

With the pressure and tension still rising, the second game was the most hard-fought baulle of the tournament. The see-saw action that followed kept the game constantly tied-up. At no time during this game was there more than a point margin between the team scores.

After many thrilling plays the highsetters of Florida State outlasted the Jax Navy, squeezing a 16-14 point decision, and won the game 17-15, and retain their A. A. U. championship.

Garnets Face The Golds Thursday Night; Football At Its Best Foreseen

TALLAHASSEE, Mar. 6 — Florida State University's head coach, pointed to the fact that from among the starting squads as possible.

footballers are due to wind up their four-week spring practice grind Thursday night in Doak S. Campbell Stadium when they jock horns in the annual Garnet-Gold Intra-squad game. Kickoff time is set for 8 p.m.

According to Coach Tom Nugent, Thursday's climax will be as near to the real thing as possible with accredited officials, the FSU band, and cheerleaders. A parade is scheduled for downtown Tallahassee that afternoon headed by the talented FSU Marching Chiefs.

If these past Garnet-Gold clashes are any indication of last season in his first year as the caliber of play to expect, Thursday's attraction should be a humdinger. "We expect this game to be among the roughest and most interesting ever played in Campbell Stadium," says Nugent.

Nugent, who guided the Indians to a creditable 5-5 record lineups of the two teams would come an indication of who might be on his first eleven for the Seminoles' opener next fall. They open with the University of Georgia here on September 18.

However, Nugent emphasized that every man among the large group of candidates would be given a chance to prove himself. He said that he and the coaching staff planned to divide the candidates into as evenly-matched squads as possible.

Going Home Easter?

Surprise The Kids With A Couple Of Florida State

"T" Shirts Or Sweat Shirts

New Shipment Just Arrived . . . .

SALE

See And Buy From Our Fine Selection Of Candies And Cards For Easter Gifts!

Sculpturing Tools And Dietzgen Drawing Instruments Special Low Prices!

University Book Store

in the Student Center

Come And Get It!

Best Food You Ever Tasted . . . Hamburgs, Steaks, Chops, Chicken, Sandwiches, Fountain Delights ....

For Such Low, Low, Prices!

ALL AT

THE MECCA

Copeland St. Just Off Campus

How the stars got started ★★★

Alan Ladd MOVIE STAR

Alan Ladd says:

"I was a Hollywood stagehand. One day I fell out of a scaffold. I wasn't hurt, but I decided acting was safer. I went to actor afterward, played bit parts ... finally I hit pay dirt in 'This Gun for Hire'."

I STARTED SMOKING CAMELS BECAUSE SO MANY OF MY FRIENDS DID. ONCE I STARTED, I KNEW CAMELS WERE FOR ME. FOR MILDNESS AND FLAVOR, YOU CAN'T BEAT 'EM!

START SMOKING CAMELS YOURSELF! Smoke only Camels for 30 days and find out why Camels are first in mildness, flavor and popularity! See how much pure pleasure a cigarette can give you!

for Mildness and Flavor— CAMELS AGREE WITH MORE PEOPLE THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE!

RESTRING WITH ASHAWAY BRAIDED RACKET STRING

STANDS OUT in play
- Harder Smashes
- Better Cut and Spin

STANDS UP in your racket
- Maximum Immune
- Lasting Liveliness

COSTS LESS than gut
APPROX. STRINGING COST: Pro-Packed Brand ...$4.00; Multi-Ply Brand ...$3.00

At tennis shops and sporting goods stores.

ASHAWAY BRAIDED RACKET STRING Choice of The Champions

THE DUTCH KITCHEN

Adams & Park

The Finest Food

Homey Atmosphere

Excellent Service

Administration Instigates New Grade System

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. (UP)—The administration has definitely decided on a new grading system, Dean Robert B. Brooks of Williams College announced here. The new system will emphasize pluses and minuses. The new scale runs from twelve for an A plus to one for a D-minus. E will be minus one and no E pluses or minuses will be given. There will be no zero grade. According to Dean Brooks, "The new scale is not retroactive, and grades already earned will be translated into the new scale without using pluses or minuses."

Under the new system an average of 8.0—the equivalent of straight B's—will be the standing for Dean's List. The Committee on Academic Standing has made extensive studies of past grades and reports that the new standard will change the percentage of students who make Dean's List only slightly.

Since the Committee on Curriculum is currently considering separating the Degree with Distinction from the Degree with Honors, the Committee on Academic Standing has made no recommendation about the standards for Cum Laude, Magna Cum Laude and Summa Cum Laude degrees. Under the new scale, at present a student must fulfill the requirements for Degree with Honors before he can receive a Degree with Distinction.

News Briefs

PRIZE AWARDED

The only sculpture prize in a recent painting and sculpture show held at the Society of the Four Arts in Palm Beach was won by Ralph Rosenberg, instructor in Art Education Department, FSU. The prize for Muriel Case Hall's "The Last Prophet," in black basalt marble, was the third won by the artist for sculpture since September.

CANTERBURY CLUB

Reverend Jeffrey Alfriend, Rector of St. John's Episcopal Church will lead the Canterbury Club in a discussion on the topic of "Personal Religion" tomorrow evening at Ruge Hall. Reverend Alfriend's talk will be the second in the series of Lenten talks scheduled for Ruge Hall this year. The Evening Prayer service will be seen at 7:45 p.m. and Reverend Alfriend will speak directly afterward. All students and faculty are invited to attend.

Also, there will be a celebration of Holy Communion at 7:05 a.m. in the Chapel this season. All students who are interested are invited to attend.

DELTA SIG PLEDGES

Eleven men were pledged to Delta Sigma Pi, professional business fraternity here last Wednesday evening at the regular business meeting, spokesmen said.

New pledges to the men's business group are Wayne Kerr, Billy Bellar, Truman Mock, Jack Lanfi and Ben Powell.

Also, Larry Greene, Greene Harrison, Arthur Big, Ernest Hamilton and Jim Stevens.

Membership is open, spokesmen said, to men majoring in a field of business. The next meeting of the fraternity will be held Wednesday, March 17.

COLLINS CLUB

A meeting of the Florida State University Collins Pre-Governors Club will be held Friday night at 7:30 in Longmire Auditorium, according to club officials.

They said "all students attending the meeting will have the opportunity to meet and talk with Senator Collins personally." This is the only meeting before the elections that he will be here.

Students planning to attend the meeting are urged to contact Phone Director Rogers (telephone 2-1312) or Coyle Moore (telephone 2-9096) before Friday so that adequate transportation can be provided to the court house, they added.

State To Be Site Of Band Festival Starting March 27

The Florida Sixth District Band Festival will draw to Florida State University more than 1,400 music students from all over the state March 26 and 27, it was announced today.

The 19 high school bands will compete, spokesmen said, for both ratings in sight reading, concert and marching. Soloist ensemble contests will also be open to enter the competition, they noted.

A mammoth show in Doak S. Campbell Stadium will highlight the event Friday night, March 26 at 8:15 p.m. Inspected during the show and marching formations will be featured.

High school bands entered here include Perry, Madison, Tallahassee, Havana, Quincy, Sneads, Chipley, Greensboro, and Graceville.

Also, Milton, Wewahitchka, Pensacola, Pensacola, Chipley, Shalimor, DeFuniak Springs, Crestview, Bonifay, Marianna, and Gonzales.

Small Fry Present Folk Song Concert

Lovely American folk songs and Negro spirituals will highlight the Tallahassee Junior Chorus presentation in concert at 8:15 in Opperman Hall, spokesmen said. Miss Flambeau is Linda Sedia.

Free and open to the public, the concert, manned by thirty-five Tallahassee girls, the eight and sixth graders from its four elementary schools, will feature chorus and solo selection. Wendell Bartholf will be soloist for "Steal Away," and Judy Bowen, Eleanor Dietrich and Helen Neel will be soloists for the "Little Mohee" selection.

Contest Now Open; $25 Prize Offered

The ninth annual Kappa Alpha Mu All-Collegiate Photo Contest is open to all Florida State University students, spokesmen for the fraternity headquarters.

The last day for entries is April 1. Pictures may be entered under the classifications of news, feature, sports, or picture-story and winners in each class receive a $25 government bond.

They said that "Pictures must be entered mounted on regular 11X20 boards although the size of the print is optional.

Complete information about the picture competition may be obtained by writing KAM headquarters, School of Journalism, 18 Walter Williams Hall, Columbia, Missouri.

Course Gives Student 'Inside Look' Into Teaching Profession

HAYS, Kans. (UP)—A course in professional education, designed to give potential teachers an "inside look" into teaching, has been found adequately tested and in its second year has been established as a regular, permanent course at the Fort Hays Kansas State College.

The course, Education 56, Introduction to Education, is a prerequisite to the "block" of professional courses and enables the students to look at all phases of the teaching profession before making the final decision to become a teacher. Dr. Leo R. Ellis, head of the department, said.

A second semester of the sophomore year, is being scheduled by approximately fifty per cent of the students on the campus.

Students are given an opportunity to evaluate themselves in terms of the requirements necessary for a successful career as a teacher, Dr. Ellis said. "Both yourselves and a look at the job" situation. The class is unique in that it meets two hours per week for three hours credit. The balance of the time is spent in professional laboratory experiences."

Included in these experiences are visitations in public school classes for observation only, interviews with teachers, administrators, county superintendents, and school board members, attendance at professional meetings and educational conferences, working with school organizations, field trips, busy and girl scout work, storytelling, various types of student responsibilities; in fact any type of work or experience closely related to the teaching profession.

A practical aspect of the course is the time allotted for discussion of job opportunities, salaries of teachers, certification of teachers, socio-civic responsibilities of teachers, and careers for persons in professional education fields.

The course was begun in the fall semester of last year and has undergone constant revision and refinement until it has been made to include the practical aspects which it now offers. Although, in after taking it, some students may decide against teaching time has not been wasted, for it enables students to find out early if they will be happy in the teaching profession.

Joint Group Approves Program To Alleviate Cheating Problem

MARIETTA, O. (UP)—A Faculty-Student committee recently approved a list of suggestions for the alleviation of the problem of cheating on the Marietta College campus. The committee report proposes that in order to discourage cheating the individuals should receive an automatic "F" for the course. The remainder of the report outlines procedures to be followed by the faculty and students during examination periods.

In dealing with a problem such as this, the committee feels that an educational program would be more effective than a system of penalties. The proposed examination procedures are as follows:

1. Students should make honest, adequate preparation for written examinations as for oral examinations.

2. Only pencils, pens, and erasers should be brought to class unless it is otherwise specified by the instructor.

3. If possible, alternate seats should be taken during an examination.

4. Students should not leave the room unless it is absolutely necessary.

5. A student should not allow himself to become a part of any misconduct during or prior to an examination.

6. Students of one section of a subject should not discuss an examination with students of other sections, until the others have been properly examined.

7. All papers or written assignments should be an expression of a student's own knowledge. (Faculty)

Riding Club Formed To Meet Thursday

The newly-organized Bit and Spur Riding Club will mix business with pleasure Thursday afternoon, according to Bill Stancik, club president, and Pat Blanck and Pat Herin, Gamma Phi, a square dance will be held, supervised by Stancik, president pro-tem of clubed the group, said yesterday members will meet at 5 p.m. for the riding at the Trot-Away stables, have dinner, meet to discuss and, it is hoped, approve the group's new constitution, and later attend a square dance in Tullahassee.

Those interested in the riding group and not having transportation are asked to call Stancik at 2-3985 for information, or meet at the Longmire Building at 4:45 Thursday. Transportation will be furnished

Journal Summarizes Periodical Reading Article By Vance

The January issue of College English, official journal of the American Council of Teachers of English, carries a summary of a recently published article by Earl L. Vance, professor of journalism, on magazine reading courses.

The article originally appeared in Education magazine and is based on Professor Vance's long experience in teaching periodical reading.

In its summary of the article College English says "Earl Vance points out that magazines are read much more than books, that investigations seem to show school and college have in most cases not affected the choice of magazines by their graduates, and that many college students have no idea of the content of the best magazines.

"Since information of all citizens is essential to the health of democracy, it is important for schools and colleges to develop in students the habit of reading the better magazines."

FSU Professors Obtain Charter Organizing Credit Union Here

Efforts to establish a Florida State University Credit Union were realized recently when the serve as chairman until the credit union is formally organized.

"The FSU Credit Union is a cooperative undertaking, and members of the FSU family are eligible to join—so as to maintain a place for saving and a source of credit," states Morse.

The purpose of the University Credit Union is to promote thrift by installment savings, make useful loans to members at reasonable cost; and to help members use their savings and credit most effectively.

An organizational meeting is scheduled for March 16 at 8 p.m. in Opperman all for the purpose of inviting all interested persons to learn about the purpose, value, importance and organization of a credit union.

According to Morse, those attending the first meeting should have sufficiently convinced that there was a type of organization which would be helpful to both the faculty and staff. Each member will pay $1 for organization and signed the Certificate of Organization and the By-Laws.

Charter sinners include Jason P. Carr, Asst. Dean of Men; J. Frank Dame, Prof. of Business Education; T. Stanton Dietrich Prof. of Sociology; Don Farquharson, Asst. to Bursar Manager; Wilmer Gerrell, Head of Laundry; Wm. J. Glenn, Payroll supervisor.

Also among those signing the charter were Ruth M. Kilbo, Assoc. Prof. of Sociology; Wesley Vordenberg, Director of Personnel; and Richard L. D. Morse.

Future announcements concerning the progress of the credit union and activities and benefits it provides to members will appear in later Flambeau.

Hagaboen Elected FBLA President; To Serve One Year

Miss Roxanna Hagadorn was elected president of the state chapter, Future Business Leaders of America last week-end. She defeated Jimmy Soles, freshman., for the office.

Miss Hagadorn, a junior in Business Education, was installed by Mrs. Juanita Davis Lore, returning president, in a candlelight ceremony Saturday night in the Suwannee Room. Roxanne will serve for one year.

Also installed were Gail Goodbar, vice-president from Landon High School, Jacksonville; Jane Gallagher, secretary from Tomlinson Vocational School, St. Petersburg. Pat Miller of FSU, treasurer; Mary Margaret Stevens from Hillsborough High School, Tampa, as reporter; and five state directors, elected from the sponsors of the various local chapters.

Electors were delegates from 20 high schools throughout Florida and the FSU chapter. Gordon Terell was Miss Hagadorn's opponent for the office.

The two-day convention included a banquet honoring the various high school student chapters. Approximately 200 students attended from all over Georgia and Alabama chapters.

Miss Hagadorn and Miss Gallagher will be the official delegates from Florida to the national convention of FBLA June 14, 15 and 16, in Dallas, Texas.

BASEBALL

Florida State's baseball and golf sounds officially join the FSU sports parade this coming week, when four Seminole teams see action in as many Florida cities.

Campbell Attends 4 Day ROTC Meeting

Lt Col Paul W. Campbell, Professor of Air Science and Tactics, has been attending a four-day conference at Air Force Headquarters, Montgomery, Ala.

According to Brig. General M. R. Deichelmann, Commandant of the Air Force ROTC program, the conference was called to review present and future aspects of the program in relation to national defense and citizenship training of the Air Force policies and procedures relative to selection, education and motivation of cadets.

The general added that another purpose in calling the meeting was to present to the professional mission briefings from The Air Defense Command, Strategic Air Command, Tactical Air Command and the Flying Training Air Force.

More than 200 professors of air science and tactics from colleges and universities across the country and in Hawaii and Puerto Rico attended the conference, held in Montgomery, Alabama.

UGLY MAN CONTEST

Organizations of all types are asked to be prepared to present their candidate for "Ugly Man" contest on campus when the representative of the Alpha Phi Omega Fall Activities Committee calls on them next week, according to Ed Adrian, president.

Preparation for the contest will start this week in each organization and will be brought to a hair raising conclusion at the "Ugly Man" square dance tentatively set for the first week in April.

Advertising Majors Leave For Atlanta On 14th For 3 Days

"Operation Advertisura," a field trip to Atlanta for students in Advertising here, will be held March 14-17, Dr Royal H Ray of the Department of Advertising announced.

The FSU Department in cooperation with the Atlanta Advertising Club is arranging the field trip which will give students a first hand view of advertising activities in the advertising center of the South, Dr. Ray stated.

Visits will be made to advertising agencies, department stores, publishing plants and radio television and newspapers.

Students making the field trip will be guests at the 44th annual convention of the Atlanta Advertising Club on Monday, March 15.

Organization of a car pool is "underway," Dr. Ray said. It will leave campus Sunday, March 14 and return Wednesday, March 17. Those taking the field trip will have two full days in Atlanta.

Students who desire to go should register with Richard Jones, student in charge of the field trip. Registration will be limited to 28 students. Dr. Ray concluded.

CULLISON APPOINTED

Cadet James S Cullison II of Tallahassee has been nominated for the first regular army appointment in the Army Reserve Officers Training Corps here.

Student Commander of the Army ROTC Cadet Battalion at FSU, Cullison is one of the three seniors out of 2200 from all universities in the State to receive Benning Infantry ROTC Summer School in 1953.

Church News

Newman Coffee

This Thursday a Chicken Hour will be held at the Newman House. Guests of honor will be the Dominican Sisters from the Blessed Sacrament Parish, the faculty wives, and Dr Sam Neel. Coffee will be served between 3:30 and 8 p.m.

VA Benefits

(Continued From Page 1)

nonservice - connected disabilities.

Grants for seriously disabled veterans for homes designed for wheelchair living and World War II. One emergency officers' retirement pay.

Compensation, pension and GI insurance payments to the families of deceased veterans are also tax-exempt, the VA office noted.

Calendar Of Events

TODAY, MARCH 9

8 noon, Zoology Seminar. The Smith, Vertical Diurnal Migration of Plankton." 301 History

12 noon, Chemistry Seminar. Dr. Harold W. White, Organic Chemist of Dow Chemical Co., "Some Synthesis and Uses of Amino Acids." 306 Science

4 p.m. Meteorology Seminar. Dr. Seymour L. Hess. "The Isallobaric Wind." 214 History

4 p.m. Home Economics Seminar. Marian Faulkner and Mary Helen Grimm, "Quick Breads." 204 Home Economics

4 p.m. Psychology Seminar. Dell Lebo, "Selecting Types for Play Therapy." 402 Education.

8 p.m. Varsity Debate Squad 208 History.

7:30 p.m. American Civilization Lecture Series. Dr. James M. Buchanan, "The American Free Enterprise System." 217 Music.

7:39 p.m. Phi Delta Kappa business meeting. Election of new members and report on research studies. Student lounge, Longmire

7:38 p.m. Film Previews. "Building Better Paragraphs," "Water Safety," "Isaac and Rebecca, "The Challenge." Trophy Room, Student Center.

8 p.m. Coothlan Club Initiation. Small Lounge, Longmire.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 10

12 noon Lenten Holy Communion. Ruge Hall

5 p.m. Gold Key Meeting. 401 Longmire

7 p.m. Social Work Club. Club Room, Longmire.

7:45 p.m. The Reverend Jeffrey Alfriend, Rector of St. Johns Episcopal Church, will be guest speaker at Ruge Hall.

8 p.m. B. Sharp Music Club. At the home of Mrs. David Wilmot, 2214 Pomfret Drive. Edward Kilroy, "The Piano."

8 p.m. The Department of Classics Series, "Religion in Greek Civilizations." Dr. Francis R. Walton, "Hercilan Athens: Initiation, the State, and the Citizen Illustrated;". Longmire Auditorium.

8 p.m. Dames Club Meeting. Large Lounge, Longmire

THURSDAY, MARCH 11

7 p.m. Graduate Class luncheon, Dr. J. Frank Dame will be the speaker. South Seminole 6:45 p.m. Physics Seminar. Dr A. E. S. Green, "Nuclear Size and Charge Distribution." 124 Science.

5 p.m. Speech Department Discussion Group. "How Can We Improve Congressional Investigations Into Subversive Activities?" James House.

7:30 p.m. FTA Business meeting. Longmire Auditorium.

8 p.m. Garnet & Gold football game Campbell Stadium.

9:45 p.m. Home Meetings. Women's Residence Halls.

Test Tube Mysteries

"Always loved to probe that an-swers, or so my secretary in the third grade said to explain why my Saturday tickets haven't been the happy knack of matching the ace and the ace."

Every year hundreds of enthusiastic readers write to Dale Carnegie & Associates, Inc., and ask about the training for College Women. Write College Dress for "Vision Class" today!

KATHARINE GIBBS SECRETARIAL

BOSTON 16 Marlborough St. Tel. CO 6-1250 • NEW YORK 17 Park Ave. Tel. MU 3-7530

Need Daily Supplies?

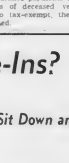
See Malone's for Fine STATIONARY Greeting CARDS Complete Art Supplies New and Used TEXTBOOKS And All Your Other Needs

Malone's Book Store

On Capitol—Just Outside Campus

Like Drive-Ins?

or do you



Like a Place to Sit Down and Be Served?

or do you

Like Free Delivery Right to Your Door?

QUAKER HOUSE

Call 2-8677 on the Quincy H'way

What could be better than one of our SUPER DELICIOUS double-rich sundaes . . . creamy ice-cream, flavorful sauce topped with sounds of whipped cream on top!

Steaks, Chops, Chicken, Sea Foods, deliciously cooked and served . . .

Large Variety of Sandwiches to Choose From—Largest Soda Fountain in the South!

Choice Swift's Meats Served

Helene Curtis

lanolin discovery

up to 10 times more effective

for Dull hair or Dry Hair

• Ends dry hair problems for millions of women!

• Brings new manageability never before possible!

• Brings new natural color-brightness to hair

Helene Curtis lanolin discovery

$1.25 plus tax

"SPRAY...BRUSH...THAT'S ALL"

Corner College And Monroe

Bennett's Drug Store

Corner College And Monroe

Try Quality Dry Cleaners For Expert

Special 1 Day Service

Pressing Repairing Altering

Pickup or delivery

Call 2-5097 215 W. College

FLORIDA

LAST TIMES TODAY

"Escape From Ft. Bravo"

With William Holden Eleanor Parker In Technicolor!

STARTS TOMORROW

For One Whole Week!

"The Command"

In CinemaScope Starring

Guy Madison Joan Weldon

STATE

TODAY & TOMORROW

"Call Me Madam"

With Ethel Merman Donald O'Connor Vera Ellen

THURS. Through SAT.

2 Big Action-Packed Features!

"War Paint"

With Robert Stack Joan Taylor Plus

"The Golden Idol"

Johnny Sheffield & BOMBA

FLORIDA OUTDOOR

TODAY & TOMORROW

Esther Williams Victor Mature

"Million Dollar Mermaid"

In Technicolor

THURS. Through SAT.

Outstanding Double Feature

Humphrey Bogart And Ann Sheridan

"Battle Circus"

Mark Stevens & Dorothy Malone

"Jack Slade"

STATE DRIVE-IN

LAST TIMES TODAY

"Miss Sadie Thompson"

With Rita Hayworth And Aldo Ray

WED. Through SAT.

Alan Ladd And Jean Allison

"Paratroopers"

With Susan Stevens Leo Genn

Reynolds Diamonds Lee Loomis Watches

PAUL TURNER JEWELER

REPAIRS

102 S. Monroe St. Phone 3-1467

THE COMMAND

In WARNERCOLOR and STEREOPHONIC SOUND

"THE COMMAND"—GUY MADISON JOAN WELDON JAMES WHITMORE CHAS. HERON HUGH SANDERS HARVEY LEMBECK MORRIS ANKRUM ROBERT BICE

STARTS WEDNESDAY

SHOWING FOR ONE ENTIRE WEEK!

FLORIDA

Continuous Performances Today From 1:30-3:30

Feature Starts 1:30 - 3:30 - 5:30 - 7:30 - 9:30

THE SEVEN DAYS OF THE UNCONQUERABLES THAT FORGED AMERICA'S FRONTIER!

THE FIRST PRODUCTION FROM WARNER BROS. IN CINEMASCOPE

THE COMMAND

In WARNERCOLOR and STEREOPHONIC SOUND

"THE COMMAND"—GUY MADISON JOAN WELDON JAMES WHITMORE CHAS. HERON HUGH SANDERS HARVEY LEMBECK MORRIS ANKRUM ROBERT BICE

ROTC Matters Not Cleared Up
See Page 2

The Florida Flambeau

Parties Nominate Their Candidates
See Page 1

VOL. XL, No. 37 — PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA — Friday, March 12, 1954

Conyers Outlines Her Modification Of Honor System

Proposes 2-Point Program; Provides For Stiffer Penalty

Proposals for a modification of the honor system were brought before the Student Body Senate Tuesday afternoon by June Conyers, chairman of the Honor Committee.

Miss Conyers outlined a two point program to remove from student students the mandatory responsibility of reporting classmates cheating and to provide a stiffer penalty for persons convicted of such cheating.

She proposed that each class would vote at the start of the year on whether or not to use the honor system, with a unanimous vote needed to ratify it. If a vote not be unanimous, she said, the professor would automatically proctor the class during examinations.

If a student observed cheating, he would not be under obligation to report the actual incident. However, the class would have to vote to remove to use the honor system. A second offense committed, she added, would automatically terminate the system altogether in that class.

The proposed stiffer penalties students convicted of cheating—mentioning expulsion as a possible punishment.

The Senate took no official action on her proposals, but referred the matter to the Senate Judicial Committee.

After a half-hour's debate, the Senate also official approval, in form of a special bill, to elect Secretary Bill Stancik's plan to use IBM machines in the spring elections.

Senators passed, a resolution asking that additional funds from Westcott to the Student Union be given at 11 and 12 each day. Senatory Gordon Cates was responsible for the resolution's introduction.

A letter from Dean Katherine Warren was read. The letter asked for removal from the Senate for ratifying the constitution of the Southern Intercollegiate Student Government Association (SUSGA), but stood by rescinding that vote after the action is official it must be approved by the Judicial Committee on Student Affairs.

Senator Frank Shaw substantiated rumors that all freshmen men will be required to live in dormitories next year, stating that according to his official source approximately 400 men will be in university housing as well.

Don Cossacks Appear Tuesday, Wednesday

By BETTY BISHOP

This season's Artist Series ends with two concerts featuring the Don Cossack Chorus in the Leon High School Auditorium on March 16 and 17 at 8:15 p. m.

The Don Cossack Chorus was named after the famous Cossack general because of his great military feats in the early part of the 19th century and the First World War. Since then they have become literally men of the world.

The Chorus was organized in Prague, Czechoslovakia in 1927 by its present director Nicholai Kostrukoff. The Cossacks sang their first concert 32 years ago in a Prague cathedral. Since then they have toured all five continents, visited 45 countries, and crossed the equator 13 times.

The Eiffel Tower, pyramids of Egypt, tea plantations of Ceylon, earthquakes of Chili and observatory of New York—all of these have been viewed by the Cossack Chorus. Descendants of many of all of these sights are preserved in their flute.

Consisting of White Russian emigres, the Cossack Chorus began fighting communism in Russia so early that they might be considered pioneers in the struggle against communism. The members of the Chorus members are now all American citizens, and America has become a much loved home for them.

During their 14 years of singing in America, the Cossacks have had 1,500 concerts and have missed only one when a representative of their train exploded in Kentucky.

The current season is the 15th anniversary of trans-continental concerts in this country.

(Continued on Page 6)

Staters Nominate Howard To Seek President's Seat

John Howard, editor-in-chief of Smoke Signals, was nominated by acclamation last Wednesday night to represent the State Party in the forthcoming Student Body presidential race, according to officials.

The Wednesday night convention, which saw five candidates, all by acclamation, elected to run on the second party ticket, was later adjourned until next Tuesday night.

"We had to do this," explained party officials," because there was a major misunderstanding among the organizations, who thought that they had delegates to the Student Party convention they were not eligible to send one to the convention.

Jack Houser, party chairman, has announced that the next party convention will be held for open positions and that all persons interested in running for office should contact officials immediately.

Other officer selected on the state Party ticket include Bob Nolan, vice - president; Sonia Gordon Gaster, men's vice-president; Joan Halford, women's vice-president; Jimmy Mann, secretary, Flambeau editor.

Also nominated, who gave the opening address, told the student senate representing twenty-two organizations that night, was Jim Hopkins concluded by urging them to "get behind the party and back it up."

Warren Cobb, who made the nominating speech for John Howard, moved early in the evening that the convention be adjourned until an hour later to give some of the delegates time to get a chance to get in. The motion died for lack of a second.

Cobb's nominating speech for Howard cited Howard's record as a member of many campus organizations.

Cobb concluded by noting that Howard was not a reluctant candidate, and had declared his intentions to run for Student Body President three months back.

Jimmy Soles gave speeches for Gordon Gaster and Miss Gordon Gaster, who is nominating speech was delivered by senator Bob Gaulden. Both Miss Gaster and Gaster are present members of the student senate.

Bob Nolan, presenting the office of Flambeau editor, they replaced Jim Mann, who is now Attorney General Peter Mellnor to determine her eligibility.

Delegates present at the convention Wednesday night included Alpha Delta Pi, Chi Omega Delta, Alpha Xi Delta, Pi Beta Phi, Phi Mu, Chi Omega, Delta Delta Theta, Kappa Delta, Kappa Sigma, Sigma Nu, Phi Delta Theta, and Sigma Nu.

Also Jennie Murphree, North Carolina; Sandra Howard, Byran, Senior Hall, West Hall, Florida Hall, and Off Campus. Organizations represented were Sigma Alpha Iota, "Zeta."

(Continued on Page 6)

Nimkoff Accepts Student Party's Top Nomination

Moore Seeks Veep; Slote Also Includes Folsom For Editor

Pledging himself to support of Student Party's platform if elected in the upcoming Student Elections, Pete Nimkoff accepted the nomination for presidential candidate at that party's convention Tuesday night.

"Though I can take no credit for formation of the planks set forth and accepted here tonight," Nimkoff stated, "I shall do my utmost to push the platform through if elected." Nimkoff defeated nominee Charlie Milner with a 58 to 15 poll of the delegations.

Climaxing the four-hour convention was a full slate of the major political offices were supplied with candidates, the presidential race came last. Nimkoff received the party endorsement of Bob Folsom for Flambeau editor by acclamation. Other convention delegates moved through the remainder of offices without much delay.

(See picture page 3.)

Coyle Moore won an overwhelming nomination against Jeanne Ken Hankins for vice-president of Legislative Affairs on the Party ticket. Moore's tally showed 74 to 5 against Hankins.

Joan Tavel, nominated for president of Women's Affairs, received Party support by a unanimous vote. The only nominating slogan, introduced by speaker Charis Coulter asked support for "Joan Blonde to Tavel."

Jim Joanos nominated by acclamation for the office of Vice-president of Men's Affairs, received a round of applause from the spectators and delegates.

Joe Caldwell, nominated by Flambeau Editor Bob Folsolin, received a unanimous approval for Union Business Manager. Caldwell's nomination was followed by a race for Union Manager as Tom Pyron, nominated by present editorin-chief Sherry Howell, sought out Jim Broderick for the party nomination by a 69 to 13 margin.

Tally-Ho Business manager nominee will be Barbara Ann Cassidy, acclamation of the delegations.

The race for editor of Smoke Signals campus literary magazine, was hotly contested between Jerry Dixon and Bob Rice. Dixis was nominated by a close margin of 43 to 36. Decision was by majority vote, and a tally of 41 was necessary Tuesday in nomination.

Nan Hillman, nominated for Smoke Signals business manager gained over Bridget Hill 38 to 28 to win the approval of delegates.

Jerry Meyer was sole nominee for the Student Union Activity House Court. Meyer received standing acclamment by acclamation.

Three candidates for chairman of Publicity were chosen Monday night. Vic Spoto, Sissy Smith and Dot Cooke received nominations on the ballot for Traffic Court Chairman. Wardlaw defeated Jimmy Cooper Martin by a vote of 60 to 15.

A surplus element of the Tuesday senate at Seneca Lecture Hall. Nominations for positions of Class Senator from the name of Frances Kelley Slaton for economics was nominated by Dick Gatling. Miss Slaton was accepted by acclamation. She has been alternately cheerocaptain, deanery, director and producer at the Mosaic Theatre and production.

Nominations for the office of University Recreation Association brought forth the names of Jack Bowen and Bill Brown. Guard won party nomination by an overwhelming 61 to 9 margin.

The convention disbanded about 9:30 after a debate of after a parting messages from Frank Shaw. Student Party Chairman Shaw admonished the delegates and visitors to "Consider well the names they had nominated" urging them to support their party in the forthcoming general election in political functions here." Only by full cooperation can the Student Party attain the position to which it aims" Shaw noted.

Heiress Opens Four Day Run On March 19

The Department of Speech's third major production of the season opens in the Augusta Conradi theater March 19, it was announced today.

Written by Ruth and Augustus Goetz, the celebrated play revolves around an heiress whose father has tried in vain to bring her up in the social graces. Unfortunately, her mother was beautiful and charming, a fatal combination that made this girl dull who is ever seeking love and affection.

With Katherine "Kitty" Culpepper in the title role, the heiress falls in love with a charming gold-digger played by Franklin Adams. They didn't take it as seriously as the Americans did. The people weren't too worried over the Nazi menace. Quite a few were in partial sympathy, but most didn't care.

There has been much anti-American feeling particularly at the time of the Spanish War, and "Puerto Ricans were used as the villains in many of the movies and books.

The Americans were incidental.

Puerto Rican Student Remarks On Recent Congress Shooting

By ESTHER RANCIER

Did the shooting in Congress express the will of the Puerto Rican people?

"Most seriously condemned is the attempted assassination because it is not the will for the of the people of that island and gives them a black name," declares Miss Paula Rivas Jones. She is a junior in elementary education, who has lived on the island and whose mother is a Puerto Rican.

"Nationalists are considered trouble makers," she said. "The more educated people do not want statehood either."

The majority most definitely do not want statehood either."

Miss Jones received a letter recently from her cousin in San Juan, who said, "because of what happened in Congress, they are trouble violent, . . . Here you can't even discuss the Nationalists. There are agents watching everywhere . . . "

Pairts was in Puerto Rica during 1941 when the nominist attempt on Truman. She said, "They didn't take it as seriously as the Americans did. The people weren't too worried over the Nazi menace. Quite a few were in partial sympathy, but most didn't care.

There has been much anti-American feeling particularly at the time of the Spanish War, and "Puerto Ricans were used as the villains in many of the books and movies.

The Americans were incidental.

Young Names Street Winners From Contest

Winners in the FLAMBEAU-Gold Key Street Naming Contest were announced yesterday by a group of Gold Key and FLAMBEAU officials who served as a panel of judges to select the most appropriate names in accordance with a previously announced theme.

The eight students designated names for the eight individual streets pictured in two issues of the FLAMBEAU.

The winners are: BETTY SELLERS, Zeta Tau Alpha, who submitted ORANGE AVENUE for the by-way leading from the Westcott circle to Westcott Circle; DOT KANNON and ROBERT ADAMS, who labeled COED ROAD PLACE for the lane leading from Westcott Circle around very visitors, . . . Here you can't the administration building to the stop sign.

DON VON WINDEGUTH chose JACKSONVILLE BOULEVARD for the street cutting straight across campus from the Union Building to Call Hall, and formally dedicated MANUEL MOSHONAS, West Hall resident, chose OSCEOLA PLACE for the by-way starting at the corner of Landis Hall's front lawn across from Gilchrist and leading to the intersection with OCKLA PLACE to the right of the women's gym.

SHARON LANE tagged the busy by-way from Dorgenfield at the corner past the Seminole Hall and Cowboy Arms to Call St. HUTCHINS BOULEVARD after the noted educator.

CHARLES MINEE chose MARYYARD PLACE for the street now leading from HUTCHINS BOULEVARD around the Journalism Building, Infirmary, and Union Building. TALLAHASSEE DRIVE was selected by Charles W. Hart, graduate student, for the by-way leading from the right of Gilchrist and Seminole

(Continued on Page 6)

Flynn Says 'No Definite Date Set' For Campus Radio Airing

The campus radio station, WFSU, which has been off the air since April of 1953, is preparing to launch this year's program shortly, Director of Public Relations Ray Flynn has announced that no definite date has been set but "an ambitious program schedule" is planned for the fall.

Until then, the station "will serve a small but discriminating body of students who are not now served by existing commercial stations." The station will attempt to present a "happy medium" between popular and heavy classical music.

Present plans call for station operation between 2 and 6 p.m. Flynn commented that "the very facilities here are among the finest of their kind." The station, in its new location in the basement of the Music Building, cannot begin programs until everything is shipped here. The only thing holding up progress is transmitters. They were shipped the 15th of February.

Meanwhile, the student staff is not idle. They are making tape recordings of seminars and music programs in the Recorded Music Manager is Rick Hutto and student assistants are Hal Levy and Ann Chandley.

The revised program will be based upon cooperation from the School of Journalism, Department of Speech and Music Department.

The station had to stop broadcasting in 1953 because of static radiation. This is not an atomic bomb effect, but merely means that the station was broadcasting beyond its specified limits.

This occurred when the radio circuit, which was connected directly or close to each dorm, jumped to another frequency and was carried all over the Tallahassee area.

Although more than 200 other college stations do the same thing, the FCC will call the station until there is a complaint. This occurred here.

One student summed up the general opinion of the station's importance when he said: "It's quite a disappointment that the station will only get to be on the air for such a short period of time."

There will be a Day Student meeting Monday at 7 o'clock in the Day Student Lounge, Longmire, for the purpose of selecting delegates to the State Party convention.

Fund Honoring Martin-Vegue Is Established

A Memorial Fund honoring the late Dr. George Boyd Martin-Vegue, a professor of Romance history, is being established here at Florida State University.

Dr. Martin-Vegue, who died last January 17 after a short illness, had been a professor in the History Department at Florida State since 1931. Probably his most noted contributions to the school according to a number of seminars and the faculty-and-students, were his ever-conscientious considerations for his students and his fellowship with them.

The Memorial Fund will be set up in the Student Union Fund Will Dr. Martin Beyre's son, "Chip" is ready to enter college. At that time the fund will be turned over for his education, Chip is now five years old. The fund will be administered by Dr. Glover E. Tulley, Director of Vocational Guidance and Placement.

Contributions to the fund are being accepted now and students, faculty, and staff who wish to contribute are requested to send the money to Dr. Venita Rhoten, 208 History Building, or to the Office of the University Chaplain, 345 Dining Hall. Checks should be made payable to the "Martin-Vegue Memorial Fund."

Deadline Stated For Ordering Keys

The deadline for ordering distinguished Government keys is next Monday, according to Jack Houser, Secretary of Finances.

Houser said that all keys will require approximately 10 days before receiving them. "As previously announced, $2.50 will be paid by the Student Government budget and the officer must sign an affidavit of receipt.

Officers from last year and this year are entitled to keys by the order of the Judicial Board, student Body vice-presidents, class presidents, Student Party Chairman, and judicial system officers.

Advertisers Pledge Women In Longmire

Formal pledge ceremonies for Gamma Alpha Chi, national professional advertising fraternity for women, will be held Monday in the Small Lounge, Longmire, according to faculty advisor Dr. Royal H. Ray.

Women to be formally pledged are Betty Barnett, Barbara K. Burke, Ann Chandley, Mary W. Davis, Janeen L. Keen, Dorothy Marie Kravetz, Ann W. Lee, Martha G. Martin, Nancy E. Love, Gabriella Thalheimer and Mrs. Jean Sawyer.

Graduates Relate Their Latest– Are Help In Zapotec Discovery

By BOB GUTTING

Morgan Smith and Robin Mills, two Florida State graduates who are touring Mexico by motorcycle, recently took part in one of the largest archaeological finds in years.

Mexico's coconut planter, riding a trail near the isolated village of Rio Grande in the southwestern state of Oaxaca state, stumbled over the corner of a stone wall in the side of a hill. After a brief investigation, he gathered a group of peasants to help him dig out the find.

The stone walled about three feet, was finally uncovered, managed to turn it over. The undersides of the stone was covered with hieroglyphics carving resembling a man and woman embroidered.

The planter reported his find, but neither was done by Morgan Smith, FSU grad, and Mills, board about it in Oaxaca City, where they were at the time.

In a letter to Dr. Hale Smith, head of the department of anthropology here Smith and Mills told about their visit to Rio Grande. "We left Oaxaca the 12th of February by air on a Mexican airline which flies (a 47's like aeroviss (small planes). It was a 40-minute flight over very rugged mountains to a wide burro trail they call an airport. The town near the landing strip is called Tuitetepec."

After landing we piled into a jeep and made the hot, dusty trip to Rio Grande. It is a two-and-a-half hour ride through 30 miles of mountains.

"In Rio Grande we ate in a thatch restaurant with dogs, pigs, and kids running about. Two parrots also . . . they hopped about and left droppings.

The next morning Mills and Smith made their way by horseback to the site of the discovery. They were led by a guide, probably the mayor of Rio Grande, to a steep slope called Cerro del Sapo (Toad Hill). Rio Grande is built in a valley upon a second stone, locally known as the "Stone Men."

Mills and Smith photographed all the stones and reported to Oaxaca City officials, members of Mexico's top archaeologists, at Oaxaca City.

Professor Bernal recognized the style of the first stone. It was similar to the Zapotec culture that pertered around Oaxaca City and reached its peak during the 7th and 8th centuries A.D.

Until now there had been no evidence that the Zapotec culture had reached as far as the Rio Grande region. The carved symbols on the stone are probably dates, and may help toward deciphering the hieroglyphic writing of the Zapotecs.

Russian 3D, Regular Screen Films Not Equal To Cinemascope

(Fifth in a series of six articles being written by Bill Flambeau by a student editor who visited Russia recently)

By DEAN SCHOELKOPF

Special to the Flambeau

They have three dimensional movies in Russia, too.

In fact, they were invented there—or so they were told. But we saw one 3D film in technicolor that literally was a pain in the neck.

In order to get the dimensional effect in a 3D movie, you must focus your eyes on one particular spot on the screen. If you move your head, you lose the effect. No wonder it hurts your neck.

We focused and refocused on a film called "Alley Night," and it left us with nothing but sore eyes and a greater appreciation for Cinemascope.

By American standards, most of the Russian films we saw—a 3D and regular screen—would rate as show B movies. We did see two outstanding documentary films—one about an oil development not in the Caspian Sea, and another about the growth of the province of Gorki.

Some American films are shown in Soviet theaters. When we were there, "Quo Vadis" was shown recently, the answer frequently was "Tarzan."

Not much better than the movies was the opera we saw at Odessa. To American opponents of opera and ballet, Odessa would be a real nightmare. It was performed in Russian. The show performed by Russians who sang in the Ukranian language.

Much ballet is done by the ears a concert by the state symphony orchestra—Russia's finest—at the Moscow Conservatory. One of the most outstanding Soviet conductors is Eugene Mravinsky—one on the podium.

The orchestra played Shostakovich's Tenth symphony, which had been premiered a few weeks before in Leningrad. After the performance, Mravinsky modestly acknowledged the applause, saying about half way back in the hall, and Dmitri Shostakovich walked quickly to the stage.

After the performance we had a chance to talk to Shostakovich briefly. He is a slight man, and he seemed nervous and shy, although extremely friendly.

We asked his opinion of some American composers, and (a and don't

(Continued on Page 6)

Geologist Traces Development Of County Since Miocene Era

By WARREN L. VERGASON

Florida's topography changed once lapped the edges of Central Florida field where today the Wakulla Tallahassee Valley in the class B Florida International League, will play their home games.

Dinosaurs, elephants, and other prehistoric beasts roamed about the present township looking for food.

In a special interview, Bob Vernon, of the Florida Geological Survey, explained the development and the great changes wrought in the county.

Geologic time traces the history of the earth as far back as 185 million years. Florida's oldest dates back to 32 million years ago, Mr. Vernon said.

Over extended time in Leon County, the sea has come in five or six times to cover the state. With each receding of the sea, erosion began again, and the great animals returned, and life continued as before.

The city of Tallahassee stands upon a great delta constructed millions of years ago by the Ochlockonee river, Mr. Vernon said. The present river system that came from out of the north and emptied in the Gulf of Mexico to the south. Sometime it was diverted or "captured" by another system, and the great river that it once was, is now another interesting facet of the past.

The face of the land as we know it today changed often after the Hills were formed many times, Mr. Vernon said. Geologists believe they may have resulted from a faulting or slapping of the land, or mountain ridges of the region.

The hills were then cut down by erosion, and the present rolling hills of the state of Texas in size. Florida at one time had a land area two or three times greater than it is today, extending into the Atlantic Ocean and Gulf Stream.

An uplift and faulting took place, and as erosion and deposition of deposits by the sea, river, and wind, occurred, the land gradually changed until today the red clay hills familiar to us stand against the continual attack of the elements.

Today sea level is rising again with the melting of the great ice sheets to the north. If all the ice existing on the two poles should melt the level of the sea would rise 215 feet, and the sea would then again lap upon the edge of Central Florida. This, fortunately, will be a long time off, if ever.

Students Film Parts Of Next Production

The Newman Players filmed excerpts from their forthcoming of the production, "Barter," on Thursday week. William Clemens, Leon and Tallahassee has been director of the production, announced that the sound portions will be shown with the regular movies opening prior to the season production.

The cast of "Barter" includes Jo Willard, Barbara Waddell, Jeanne Goldstein, Clare Dardis, Peter Perino, Helen Dardis, and Charles Cunningham.

This was an interesting experiment for the group to work with motion picture media and are looking forward to the time the student body see the performance in the flesh," states Peter Proteus.

Sadie Hawkins Day Set For March 27

Sadie Hawkins Day will be observed March 27 with a dance in the Union Ballroom, Jim Joanos, Union Activities Director announced today.

Joanos said that the dance will be open to all students and that the girls will do the asking.

Tickets will be sold for $1.50 per couple.

Tally-Ho Editor Is Named

Tally-Ho Editor Barbara Ann Cassidy has announced the appointment of Jeanne Ken Hankins as Associate Editor of the publication.

Miss Hankins will assist Miss Cassidy in the publication of the Tally-Ho, which will be published in May.

Tallahassee Symphony Plans Concert

The Tallahassee Symphony Orchestra will present its annual concert Sunday, March 21 at 8:15 p.m. in the Leon High School Auditorium.

Dr. Carl Lee, director of the orchestra, announced that the program will include Mozart's Symphony No. 40 in G minor, Beethoven's Piano Concerto No. 3 in C minor, and Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 5 in E minor.

Soloist for the Beethoven concerto will be Mrs. Ruth Hall Hamilton, pianist and wife of Dr. Hamilton, professor of music at Florida State University.

News Briefs

A D PI ELECTS OFFICERS

Alpha Delta Pi officers have been elected for the coming year. Mary Ann Council, president; Carol Law, vice-president, Jeanne Sutherford, corresponding secary; Nancy Wakefield, corresponding secretary; Margaret Young, treasurer; Jeannette Miller, social chairman; Jeane Mc Helvey, rush chairman; Ann Panhellenic delegate, and Jo Brennon, historian and reporter.

There are 18 newly initiated Pikes. One Jay Hargis was voted "around girl" and Diane Dedwood was presented with the pledge trophy cup for having the most average by the pledge class.

ART WORKSHOP HELD

The Art Education Club held a workshop in sculpture last Wednesday, representatives stating. They were given a demonstration by Mr. Ralph Hurst. All those present seemed to enjoy it very much.

Another meeting of the club will be held next Wednesday at 7:30 in the Education Building.

Heiress Opens Four Day Run On March 19

The Department of Speech's third major production of the season opens in the Augusta Conradi theater March 19, it was announced today.

Written by Ruth and Augustus Goetz, the celebrated play revolves around an heiress whose father has tried in vain to bring her up in the social graces. Unfortunately, her mother was beautiful and charming, a fatal combination that made this girl dull who is ever seeking love and affection.

With Katherine "Kitty" Culpepper in the title role, the heiress falls in love with a charming gold-digger played by Franklin Adams. They didn't take it as seriously as the Americans did. The people weren't too worried over the Nazi menace. Quite a few were in partial sympathy, but most didn't care.

There has been much anti-American feeling particularly at the time of the Spanish War, and "Puerto Ricans were used as the villains in many of the books and movies.

The Americans were incidental.

Nimkoff Accepts Student Party's Top Nomination

Moore Seeks Veep; Slote Also Includes Folsom For Editor

Pledging himself to support of Student Party's platform if elected in the upcoming Student Elections, Pete Nimkoff accepted the nomination for presidential candidate at that party's convention Tuesday night.

"Though I can take no credit for formation of the planks set forth and accepted here tonight," Nimkoff stated, "I shall do my utmost to push the platform through if elected." Nimkoff defeated nominee Charlie Milner with a 58 to 15 poll of the delegations.

Climaxing the four-hour convention was a full slate of the major political offices

(See picture page 3.)

were supplied with candidates, the presidential race came last. Nimkoff received the party endorsement of Bob Folsom for Flambeau editor by acclamation. Other convention delegates moved through the remainder of offices without much delay.

Coyle Moore won an overwhelming nomination against Jeanne Ken Hankins for vice-president of Legislative Affairs on the Party ticket. Moore's tally showed 74 to 5 against Hankins.

Joan Tavel, nominated for president of Women's Affairs, received Party support by a unanimous vote. The only nominating slogan, introduced by speaker Charis Coulter asked support for "Joan Blonde to Tavel."

Jim Joanos nominated by acclamation for the office of Vice-president of Men's Affairs, received a round of applause from the spectators and delegates.

Joe Caldwell, nominated by Flambeau Editor Bob Folsolin, received a unanimous approval for Union Business Manager. Caldwell's nomination was followed by a race for Union Manager as Tom Pyron, nominated by present editorin-chief Sherry Howell, sought out Jim Broderick for the party nomination by a 69 to 13 margin.

Tally-Ho Business manager nominee will be Barbara Ann Cassidy, acclamation of the delegations.

The race for editor of Smoke Signals campus literary magazine, was hotly contested between Jerry Dixon and Bob Rice. Dixis was nominated by a close margin of 43 to 36. Decision was by majority vote, and a tally of 41 was necessary Tuesday in nomination.

Nan Hillman, nominated for Smoke Signals business manager gained over Bridget Hill 38 to 28 to win the approval of delegates.

Jerry Meyer was sole nominee for the Student Union Activity House Court. Meyer received standing acclamment by acclamation.

Three candidates for chairman of Publicity were chosen Monday night. Vic Spoto, Sissy Smith and Dot Cooke received nominations on the ballot for Traffic Court Chairman. Wardlaw defeated Jimmy Cooper Martin by a vote of 60 to 15.

A surplus element of the Tuesday senate at Seneca Lecture Hall. Nominations for positions of Class Senator from the name of Frances Kelley Slaton for economics was nominated by Dick Gatling. Miss Slaton was accepted by acclamation. She has been alternately cheerocaptain, deanery, director and producer at the Mosaic Theatre and production.

Nominations for the office of University Recreation Association brought forth the names of Jack Bowen and Bill Brown. Guard won party nomination by an overwhelming 61 to 9 margin.

The convention disbanded about 9:30 after a debate of after a parting messages from Frank Shaw. Student Party Chairman Shaw admonished the delegates and visitors to "Consider well the names they had nominated" urging them to support their party in the forthcoming general election in political functions here." Only by full cooperation can the Student Party attain the position to which it aims" Shaw noted.

Must Even Art Be 'Loyal' American?

Has art, too, come to be prescribed hy the instigators of the prevailing communist scare that is raging in this country? It would certainly appear so to one who closely examines the recent puhlicity of the Platoff Don Cossack Chorus and Dancers.

Both news releases and posters. advancing the group, give prominence to the fact that all of its members are American citizens. News releases tell us that the group ". . . represents White Russian emigres, who fought communism as early as 1918 and pioneered in the fight against World Communism." An American flag is displayed conspicuously in the upper left corner of the posters.

Americans should be proud of the fact that the Cossacks are citizens of this country. They should be equally proud that such talented artists as Ernst von Dohnanyi, Gregor Piatigorsky an dLily Pona are naturalized Americsn citizens. Americans should be proud to welcome men and women of any profession who share the political convictions of a democracy. And it is not wrong for us to be thrilled at the sight of Old Glory waving in public places.

It must be reassuring to realize that sll 100 per cent loyal Americans may attend a program of stirring Greek Orthodox anthems, Rusian folksongs, and peasant dances, and emerge uncontaminated and unindoctrinated hy communistic propagands.

We should hang our heads in shame beeause somewhere in the preparation of the Cossack puhlicity, it was thought necessry to stste the artists's political views hefore their srt could be appreciated.

It may be well to ask if we are not suhtley being led into ignoring the concept that true srt rises above politics, races, and religions.

Legality, Unpopularity Still Big Problems

With Vice-President Martins official confirmation of plans for compulsory ROTC next year, at least one point has been clesred up. We know that what was once rumor is true.

There are a number of prohlems that are still unsolved, however.

There is still the fact that compulsory ROTC is highly unpopular with the student body. The Student Party Tuesday night unanimously adopted a plank in its platform which emphatically opposed the plan. Leaders of the State party have privately expressed disapproval of a compulsory program an dindicated that their party, too, might adopt such a plank. A large number of individual students have spoken out against the plan in conversations with us.

There still remains the fact that it was an affront to the student body to keep such an important policy a secret for so long. The Executive Council approved the compulsory ROTC in a special session on 12 October of last year. Whatever the intent may have been, the fsct that no official announcement was forthcoming until last Monday amounts to an attempt at secrecy.

Most important, there still remains the question of authority. Dr. Martin said, "It's my opinion that they don't rule on matters of this type. It's an administrative matter." We certainly respect his opinion, hut we must disagree with it. It seems clear to us from the university's constitution the matter should be hrought before Faculty Senate.

To quote again in part, the jurisdiction of the Faculty Senate is described as follows: "No general legislation affecting teachers or students of more than one major instructional unit shall be effective unless passed or approved hy Faculty Senate."

"I've Been Doing A Good Deal Of Running Already"

Dear Mama Seminole

Dear Mama Seminole,

Susie say hig confusion of reservation talkum wire system. She call Joe in big west tepee, get Joe along with Jim, Bill, Jane, June ,and John. Heap hig party line.

Speakum of party, new kind have meet here call political. Dullest party me ever see. No refreshments, no dance, just sit and shout across room. Chief stand up say what good things party do and what bad things other party do. Both party make plans to war on supression party in control. Maybe go to f. senate, stand wave fiag, shout. STUDENT NOT FREE. Me no think student want free. Too much effort to think for self. Student want hig Chief to give order. What student want is fair order. When hig chiefs think more of own desire and joh than of student welfare make student dislike being second thought. Maybe Big Chief like student, no know how much other side know about Big Chiefs. Student may no have experience hut surely have eyes and ears.

History make interesting study. Years ago no one think of hraves and maidens in same school. Me lookum forward to co-ed dorms From latest report from English nstion, mix in dorm may be necessary soon because of un-certainty of sex.

After look at both party of politic on campus Georgie think no real two party campus. State or student show little opposition within party or great party difference in platform. Party made hsttle of personality. Real shame is thst not more than four students control all party vote. Candidates even up to higgest wheels have no moral guide when gaining votes is ohject. Maybe take pointers from papa.

Love All,
Georgie Seminole.

On Student Passion For 'Cul-choor'

By BRUCE GALPHIN

Florida State University kids eure got cul-choor. Yea, man, they're crazy about the etuff. A collich edyoocayahun reely does a lot for a person.

I was reading an article in the current Harper's magazine last night. Unfortunately I fell asleep before I could get very far with it, but the gist of the first few pages of Jacques Barzun's essay on American culture was that there was a great passion for it.

Whereas 50 years ago Americans turned up their noses at anything smacking of the arts, they are today becoming avid devotees.

Whereas the patrons of art in the past hava been tha church and later the nability, the central outlets for patronage today are aur colleges and universities, with big business, private individuals and charitable arganizations footing tha bill. Every collega student, saye Barzun, is exposed to "culture" these days. Perhaps he would better have said "has 'culture' brushed against him."

And this wonderful "culture" has seeped down to the masses via movies, television, radio, comic books and paper-backed "bare-bosomed" books.

Probably if I hadn't fallen asleep before finishing the article, I would have read these additional comments: "While there is a great passion for the arts, there is little understanding of them as yet. America's means of disseminating the arts, its mechanisms for producing them, have improved enormously. But the output is rather miserable."

The reason far this tirade is my attempt today to have movie JULIUS CAESAR scheduled here. Tha production has won all sorts of acclaim. Some hava even called it the best of the past year. It boasts an autstanding cast including Marlaa Brando, James Mason, John Guilgud, Deborah Kerr and several others.

But can it be shown in Tallahassee? No.

The reason? It couldn't earn its way.

The local theaters are in business to make a profit. No one can blame them for that. The fact is that they have tried to bring top-flight productions a number of times. Often they did so at the request of university students and departments. But consisteotly they have lost money when they presented anything outside the beaten track of big guns and big music.

According to the local managers, they could schedule aneh motion pictures as JULIUS CAESAR aod FANTASIA (naw being requested by a petition containing the names of about 950 FSU students) IF they could count an stadant support. They say that in many towns as small or smaller than Tallahassee, such movies are successful because of support from college and high school students. But here? Evidently not, considering what happened to such productions as RED SHOES and TALES OF HOFFMAN.

I have no immediate solution to offer, but it seems to me a sad commentary on our teaching of tha arts that no more students will support productions of more than ordinary worth.

IS HERE ALABASTER

Is Like Vegetable Soup, Politicians

By AL PIERCE

Is here again, me.

Is thinking politics like recipe for vegetable soup . . . is throwing into pot raw, young, fresh green stuff . . . is turning on gas and boiling around for a while, stirring, tasting, poking, etc., etc. . . . is finally coming out vegetables . . . soft, mushy, easy to chew, etep on, squash, etc., etc. . . . but liquid pretty good and everybody eat it up . . . excuse, please, but writer knows of at least one large potato and one, maybe two small onions gonna end up in soup . . . we'll see. . . . Politics, shmolitics! Anybody for badminton?

Is exclusive scoop! Is finding out from third floor janitor at women's Gym who heard from girl who goes with second-floor window-washer in operations building who got it straight from waste-basket emptier that great white fathers making almamater big military Mecca of North Fla . . . for eure. . . .

Is thinking maybe Great White Father Murphree and G. W. F. Conradi and athers coming to lifa and tearing ivy aff ivy-covered walls . . . except that buildings would fall down, because ivy-cavered walls only thing holding up ivy-covered buildings. . . . Anyway, G. W. F.'s, don't worry . . . freshmen next year gonna learn to shoot the stuff off . . . ivy too traditional anyway . . . is better to hang walls with landing nets or Camouflage . . . may not last as long as ivy, but serves sama purpose of holding almamater's scholastic walls together . . . or does it?

Is would-be Messiah come to save big, big almamater in Washington still making like loud-mouth cocker spaniel flushing left-winged birds out of all corners of place . . . is thinking big-mouth should do flush job on self . . . (writer suggests Drano . . . however, is open to better suggestions. . .)

Is coming to campus Don Cossacks . . . is big feature of act — all performers American citizens . . .! Is even posters saying so along with picture of "Old Glory" waving in American-type breeze . . . so they're citizens! . . . so what! This makes them sing better? . . . ha! . . . such nonsenses reminding writer of big No. 1 War days in 1917 when staunch sauerkraut-loving American public afraid to call stuff by name . . . so it was "Liberty Cabbage"! . . . it tasted any better?

Witness, please, example of above . . . Uninety States get mad at Scotland . . . (is strictly hypothetical, please) . . . All bottles of Scotch gotta go except domestic . . . which gotta have new name . . . "American" . . . (One American as rocks, please, bartender) . . Also, all dogs called "Scotty" gotta go . . . deport em! . . . Also, all Scotch plaid gotta be torn apart and re-waven in good, traditional American colors . . . (no red, of course). . .

Understand, please . . . is above only could-be situation . . . but smart Seminoles shouldn't fool selves . . . is people in big, big almamater really believing such foolishness . . . hah! . . . where they think they come from? . . . only native Americans are Indians. . . .

Is receiving humorous-type card from ex-columnist on disreputable rag . . . is saying competition for Golden Girl of West High as she gets nearer West Coast . . . is thinking golden-type hair-do is really disguise . . . real purpose of trans-continental trip is to investigate McCarthyism in Chinese restaurants. . . . Is also ex-columnist asking what happen to her old space in No. 2 paga of rag . . . please, anybody . . . you tell her is now doodling space, space for diagramless cross-word puzzles . . . she shouldn't know real story. . .

(Is now feature editor healing writer in nose . . . is saying, "Ho-kay; is enough baloney . . . cease!" . . . so I did).

ETCETERA ETCHINGS

Those TV Sob Stories Are Truly Sad

By DAVID DREIS

I knew it was going to happen. The Federal Communications Commission, the lords over radio and video, are investigating a quiz program. No, tha questions aren't too hard and the prizes aren't too great, but Strike It Rich is still causing trouble.

For the few locky (unhiased?) individuals wha have never heard or seen the program, let me explain. STRIKE IT RICH is a quiz program with a 'heart.' They give money to contestants, each of whom is having a rough time af it. The entertainment af the program lies in hearing the sob stories of these needy cases. An axample: Head af the house broke his back and can't wark, father af 18 children whom he can't support, needs money, free housing and what-have-vou. The more they cry, the more they seem to get. Well, now, what's wrang with this fine humanitarian program? I'll tell yau.

The New York Welfare Board is loaded down with 'visitors' from other cities who haven't got what-to-eat and borrowed their life savings to get on Strike It Rich. The Welfare Board is loaded down enough with their citizens less 'tourists.'

Producer Walt Framer, a genial chap who has made a mint on whipping up such shows as Strike It Rich and The Big Pay-Off where a fur coat is the prize, has explained that his program is not a welfare board and the show should not be held responsible.

A cute ditty on his show, which is heavily sponsored, is a 'heart line.' This little device comes at the end of the program when all the 'contestants' have been up. A telephone rings and Emcee Warren Hull answers it. The caller announces that viewers and listeners of the program have contributed a free apartment for the 17-year-old parents and their 18 children, a typewriter for the girl who can't write because she broke her arm, a refrigerator for the visitors from Iceland and the rest . . . The FCC really has jumped down the throats of the bigwhigs because they call it "solicitation of funds.' The producers insist that they make no plea for outside help and fans contribute because they want to. That they do.

There's plenty of talk going on about this program and for that reason the sponsors are still footing the bill. As ane radio colnmnist put it, "It beats a soap opera." The show is on in the mornings right when the women-af-the-hauses are home and it seems to have the same appeal as JOHN J. ANTHONY'S show had. The louder the cries, tha higher - tha Hooper rating. Only JJA was almost finished when, after counseling split-ups for many years, he got himself a divorce.

Getting back to my original thesis, I have a better idea. A program called Strike It Poor where rich people gamble off their family savings and every time they answer they lose more and more money. The rich ara always complaining that money doesn't bring happiness and they can rant and rave about this in the same way as its counterpart does. The 'heart line' can be established also with people calling in who are willing to take the money—a special line to the Treasury Department would really be something. Boy!

Well, anyway — the program Strike It Rich may go off the air this year because of all the ruckus—but don't count on it. When an advertiser looks at the situatloo, he looks at the ratings and if they're high, he buys—the networks will always accept money. However, if the FCC rules veto on the question, the show will go off. Maybe they'll try my suggestion. It might work.

Let It Be Said

By DICK VICTORY

A Red-Headed Friend

Dedicated to Marshall (Sonny) Crouse

He may get mad and let temper fly
But quickly his anger will fade and die
His wrath such that you quiver and quake
He'll step forward and say: "Come-on—let's shake"

He'll do you a favor and ask no return
Your respect and love he'll capture and earn
His honesty and frankness make him win
And to all he remains: A red-headed friend.

I hate myself when I have to write this kind of column. But I know I won't be alone in doing so, so I'll write it anyway.

There is more to the above poem than the ohvious. Let me explain: Not long ago I received a letter telling of this boy's marriage to a 17-year-old girl. He is 19. Now I read of these kinds of marriages quite frequently and this shouldn't have been any different from any of the others. Yet it was because I know this boy well. Very well.

It made me stop and ponder upon its chance at success. Quite frankly, I can't give it much of one. I can't give any marriage that was begotten under the circumstances that his was much of a chance. And there is a surprisingly large number of them these days.

Once this boy had ambitions, but now that he must carry the heaviest burden of responsibility he will fall, subordinate to the monotonous work-a-day life.

This was not written to belittle. Far from it. If it just brings a wistful smile to his mother's lips, I will be satisfied. But it will have to be the poem because that is all that they will receive. For I am going to carefully cut between poetry and prose with a razor.

And when I cut in this margin between the verse and these hypocritical musings I will also be cutting a bond. The bond is freedom and he no longer has it.

How many give it up before they've given themselves a real chance?

Letters to the Editor

Article Incorrect

Dear Mr. Galphin:

I regret that this must be a letter of criticism, but it has reference only to one recent article in the Flambeau, and not to the unusually fine job which you have been doing as editor.

It so happens that occasionally a reporter will gather a mass of data, and then proceed to write an article which may distort the facts, and even present some false information. A case in point is the article entitled "Officials Offer Two Programs for Zoologists" which appeared on page 6 of the Flambeau for March 2, 1954. The Department of Zoology knew absolutely nothing about this article until it appeared in print and regrets that uninformed readers should obtain such a misunderstanding of our graduate program.

I would like to take this opportunity to correct the most obvious errors in this article. The paper stated that zoology officials recently revealed certain information concerning programs of study in Zoology. This puzzled me because none of the staff members had done any such thing. An investigation revealed that a reporter had an impromptu interview with a graduate student, and this article was the result! I am afraid that the journalist has taken too many liberties with the meaning and use of the word "official"!

The central theme of the article was that the Department of Zoology offers two programs of graduate study, one with a thesis and the other without a thesis. This is not the case! The graduate bulletin points out that a student can earn a Master's Degree in Zoology only by fulfilling the requirements for a Type I program (with thesis). The writer of this article probably was confused by the Master's Degree in Biology, which is an inter-departmental program in the biological sciences, and offers the Type II program (without thesis) to a restricted group of students with certain qualifications. (For details of this degree, see pages 40-41 of the 1953 graduate bulletin).

Other criticisms might include the use of the word "assistanceship" in place of "assistantship." And then the statement of "a parasitic flatworm living in the intestines of an individual's stomach" is a biological phenomenon unknown to science! The remainder of the article gives an unsatisfactory picture of research and degree requirements.

In the past, scientists have made themselves unpopular with journalists and editors because of their insistence that a copy of all scientific articles be submitted to them for approval before going to press. I believe that the situation described in this letter should convince a number of people of the necessity for this type of arrangement. The Department of Zoology is pleased that the Flambeau has assigned reporters to cover news items in the various fields of science, and we hope that future articles may present a clearer picture of the actual conditions.

Sincerely yours,
Ralph W. Yerger
Associate Professor and Acting Head.

The Florida Flambeau

BRUCE GALPHIN—Editor

Al Pierce, News Editor

Bob Folsom, Managing Editor

Feature Editor ... Jayleen Robertson
Campus Editor ... Orchid Alonso
Sports Editor ... Ken Kingery
Rewrite Editors .. Oscar Johnson, Martin Dyckman
Sports Staff ... Art Kennerly, Bob Gutting
Photographer ... Dick Reuteler

Copy Editors Sylvia Parrish, Dick Victory, David Dreis
Photographic Editor ... Joe Caldwell
Junior Staff . Dot Thomasson, Mary Elizabeth King, Tom Hall, Betty Bishop, Lona Cochran, Barbara Bachman, Joyce Potter
Art Consultant ... Franklin Adams

NANCY LOWE—Business Mgr.

Al Markovitz, Advertising Mgr.

Business Staff ... Mary Wogan, Virginia Vaughn, Joe Caldwell
Advertising Soliciting ... Members of Alpha Delta Sigma, Gamma Alpha Chi
Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Ave., New York, 17

Exchange Editor ... Pat Robson
Exchange Staff ... Lil Haavind
Distribution ... Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity

Telephone 2-8000, extension 4821
211, 213 Longmire Building

Member Associated Collegiate Press

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University. Member Intercollegiate Press.

Freedom Of Speech Difficult Today?

Editor's note: The following is taken from a speech given at the College of Arts and Sciences banquet two years ago by University of Chicago anthropologist Robert Redfield. Why it was not reprinted at the time we do not know, but a recent reprint in the Bayonne, N. J., Times called it to our attention.

By ROBERT REDFIELD

What has happened to society in the past decade which makes discharging the duty of speech especially hard and at the same time makes it more than ever before urgently necessary?

The rapidity with which we have come to hate and fear Communism is hardly realized. A colleague of mine, clearing out a desk, found two magazines. One was a copy of Life in which the leading article presented portraits and biographic notes of leading Soviet scientists, praising them highly, including Lysenko, the Marxian geneticist. That number of Life is less than 10 years old. The other magazine was a Communist quarterly, so titled and self-declared. It looked much like the Yale Review. It, too, was less than 10 years old. Of the contributors to that particular issue, all but a few have either recanted or gone to jail.

I think Stalinist Communism is indeed bad and dangerous. I am convinced that it is an evil, cruel and dehumanizing tyranny. The important point here is that with our growing fear of Communism has come an intensely partisan spirit that makes reasonable and fair discussion difficult. Today every man must be a partisan; it is forced upon him. A partisan joins a party and accepts its decisions and actions as his decisions. In intense partisanship these decisions are put beyond criticism; reason is stilled; the ultimate partisan "thinks with his blood" as the Nazis put it.

Today one is pushed to be a partisan by the suspicion directed against any act of utterance associated with the partisans of the opposite party. If Owen Lattimore advocated a policy something like what Russia was advocating for probably quite some other reasons, then Owen Lattimore is said to be working for Communism. Because the Communists have used the word peace for their own bad purposes, the honest man who now speaks for peace seems to be speaking for Communism. Because the Communists exploit our country's failure to realize equality as between the races, a man who has spoken in favor of racial equality becomes suspected. There are coming to be just two kinds of partisans: Communists and people who are against Communism.

The man who considers each issue on its merits has no place in this alignment; a man is no longer asked to contribute his own reasoned opinion; he is pushed to declare himself: Are you for us or are you against us? The proved partisanship of the Communist who has recanted becomes a sterling virtue. Those who were ance Communists naw attack Communism with just what is today approved: passion and least possible critical judgment. Such ex-Communists are wanted, but tha independent is not wanted. It is positively distrusted.

These are some of the changing circumstances which make difficult fulfillment of our duty of speech. The service the professor professionally renders is critical and independent judgment. The increased partisanship of the day makes it very difficult for him to perform this service. If he questions the McCarran Act, he attracts unfavorable attention; if he discusses philosophical Marxism, he is "teaching Communism."

The matter is not so simple that a mere adherence to principle will tell a man what in these circumstances he ought to do. One cannot simply resolve: I will say what I think on every issue and let the consequences fall as they may. If a man does that today, he may find that the consequences are to impair seriously his special usefulness to society . . .

Employment Open To FSU Students In Summer Months

"... opportunities are available to F. S. U. students," Floyd Risley, Secretary of Labor, announced recently.

Placement in these summer jobs are handled by the Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement, he said. Many students have gotten summer jobs through contacting this office, he added. Risley, from his past experiences, recommends that the students plan now if they expect to get summer employment.

Students interested in sales work are urged to sign up on the bulletin board in the hall across from the Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement for summer sales work.

Students interested in summer camp work should give their names to Dr. Christine Foster, Women's Physical Education Department, or Dr. William Tait, Men's Physical Education Department, for consideration in placement.

Students are encouraged to check with the office immediately to get information and possible contacts for this summer.

WHO'S TO LEAD?

Two colleges held campus-wide votes last month concerning the sex of cheerleaders—with completely opposite results.

At the University of Pittsburgh, Pa., where male cheerleaders have been the rule, 90 per cent of the undergraduates voted to admit women. And at Baylor University (Texas), students voted two-to-one to keep women out of the cheerleading ranks.

SAY, BARTENDER, POUR ME A GLASS OF THAT . . . .

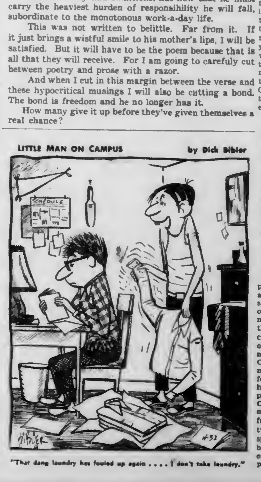
(From the Hawk, Rockhurst College, Kansas City, Mo.)

Making good beer is a long and exacting process. First, only the highest quality ingredients are selected for use. Then the brewer takes these ingredients, blends them, stores them and waits until time and fermentation produce the preferred property and proportion that is the mark of excellence.

At certain set intervals, the brew is tested for richness of flavor, taste, texture and lightness. If these qualities are found lacking, more aging and purifying takes place.

To use a somewhat curious analogy, men educated in the liberal arts are made in the same way. Students of today are to become the polished thinkers of tomorrow.

If tests reveal a lack of essential qualities then the lid of longer study hours and harder effort must be applied to produce better results in the students. Faculty advisers can analyze the needs and requirements and offer practical advice to remedy and strengthen the student's position. But only if they are consulted.



There is no snap or artificial process for making good beer. It merely takes time. It also takes time to mold good study habits. But it can be done . . .

SIGN OF THE TIMES . . .

(From the Daily Tar Heel, University of North Carolina)

It is another indication of our changing times when the . . . murderer (of poet Maxwell Bodenheim and his wife) can expect sympathy from a jury by pleading that his victims were Communists and that instead of the electric chair he should be given a medal.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS by Dick Bibler

"That dang laundry has fouled up again . . . . I don't take laundry."

Platform of Student Party

THE STUDENT PARTY PLATFORM

The following planks are set up to accomplish consistent with Student Party Statement of Purpose. There are four such planks:

I. Necessity to understand the problems of Administration.

II. Increase the number of student services.

III. Improve the working conditions and expand the number of jobs staffed by students.

IV. Clear up present laws.

PLANKS ARE AS FOLLOWS: Group I.

1. Place students on faculty committees that deal with affairs concerning students.

Committees recommended:

a. Academic and non-academic convocation committees

b. Admission committee

c. Camp committee

d. Fraternity and Sorority Committees

e. Athletic committee

f. General Education committee

g. Library committee

h. Recitals, lectures and arts exhibits committees

i. Longwire committee

j. Schedule committee

k. Student budget committees

l. Student Welfare Committee

2. Student body committee

3. Calendar committee

4. Curriculum committee

5. Student affairs committee

6. Student publications committee.

7. Publications of a complete table of money used in student activities.

8. Establishment of a definite system for student education concerning the policy-making function of the University through series of lectures and through other publications.

9. Establishment of inter-dormitory councils for both men and women to coordinate such dormitory activities as athletics, social affairs, and dormitory government affairs.

Group II

1. Establishment of a system to determine the need for adequate living space.

2. Establishment of a Veterans' Loan Fund, or let the VB-dollars pay as he goes.

3. Establishment of a secretary of Veterans' affairs.

8) Request an extension of the "grace hour" now associated with woman's hours to one hour per semester.

9) Provision of counsel, under jurisdiction of the Attorney General for students accused of breach of honor if such counsel is desired to include all court cases.

10) Formulation of plan for instituting dental services on campus.

11) Installation of suggestion boxes in dormitories, sororities, and fraternities to enable students to voice gripes and opinions.

12) Recommend a special typing room to be set aside in the University Library where non-circulating materials may be taken.

13) Recommendation of periodical film presentations supplementing classroom instruction in general education areas.

Group III

1) Recommendation that students working in the University Dining Hall System be reimbursed by the University in either cash or meal tickets.

15) Recommend that University services be staffed wherever possible by students at a wage scale above the prevailing costs of student living.

Group IV

1) Revision of the entire University Court System to determine the necessity and the jurisdiction of the different branches.

2) Establishment of definite policy concerning chartering or approval of student organizations.

3) We take a definite stand against compulsory R. O. T. C.

21) We advocate wearing preference being given to students at the Artist Series Concerts, and that students be admitted by their activity tickets.

23) We endorse continued complete student control of student publications.

Nominees of party must sign pledge to support all planks of platform.

Peter Nimkoff, Student Party nominee for president of the student body, accepts his party's nomination at the convention last Tuesday night. Nimkoff pledged support to the party and to the platform. Frank Shaw, chairman of the party, sits at right.

John Howard, editor of this year's Smoke Signals, was nominated Wednesday night to head the newly formed Progressive Party's slate. Official campaigning by candidates and by the party organizations will begin next Tuesday at 8 p.m.

Politics, Placards, Speeches Constitute Party Conventions

By LONA COCHRAN

Waving placards . . . screaming politicians . . . a harrassed chairman rapping for order . . . clouds of cigarette smoke, with even a little cigar smoke mixed in by those who really want this to look authentic. Chicago has nothing on the Florida State University campus when it comes to party conventions. Even the "convention city" has never entertained two political conclaves within two days. The only thing missing was the TV cameras.

PSU political parties do offer something which is not found in great abundance at national conventions: humor. Everyone seems to feel that Chris Young and Polly Lassiter did an able job of keeping the delegates entertained at Tuesday night's Student Party conclave. They seemed to agree that "experience" is the keynote in this campaign.

From all reports it would seem that the female freshmen delegates to the convention are really enjoying their positions: they say that they have never before had so much attention from upperclass boys. The day student representatives also seem to have become extremely popular in the last few days; what with the votes, who wouldn't be!

The fun's just begun; State Party has scheduled a convention next Tuesday, the campus will soon become literally plastered with tons of bright-colored posters, and the "if elected, I promise . . ." speeches have barely gotten started good. Democracy is really working over-time on the campus of PSU this month.

If your lake, pond or pool is wholly on your land, and completely isolated from other water, you don't need a license and can take as many fish whenever and however you like.—Sports Afield

Kansas Offers Study Program Of America

LAWRENCE, Kans.—[I.P.]— A summer election not listed in the 1953-53 catalogue of the University of Kansas is being taught this semester as part of a new major in American Civilization. Credit for American Civilization 50, which meets 7-9:30 p.m., Tuesdays, will be equally distributed among field A of division one (English) and fields A and B of division three (history and political science).

According to Assistant Professor of English Edward F. Grier, who teaches the seventeenth classroom course, students "take literature, fine arts, history, sociology, political science and economics — all with an emphasis on American ideals." The purpose of the course is "to assist the student to form a coherent picture of the civilization of the United States and to give him a method of comparing various philosophies."

Professor Grier was granted a leave of absence last year to visit 11 colleges and universities on a Ford Foundation fellowship to study ideas for the new program. The course is open to seniors wishing to take it as an elective. Prerequisites are American Problems 1 or American Peoples 50 or their equivalents.

The new interdepartmental major includes the following discussion topics: the theory of nationalism: the frontier thesis as an explanation of American civilization; colonial sectionalism and the rise of national self-consciousness; the Declaration of Independence and its sources; national leadership in a democracy.

The early republic; shifts in social patterns, 1820-1850; the sectional characteristics before the Civil War; religion as an aspect of national culture; literature as an aspect of national culture; painting and architecture as aspects of national culture; characteristic interpretations of human nature Emerson and Hawthorne; the American abroad; sectionalism and the Civil War.

NEWMAN CLUB

Election of new officers will be held Sunday evening at 7:30 at the Newman House, John Pistone, outgoing president, said. Pistone will conduct the meeting.

The following nominations have been made: President—Charles Jacobs, Ann Yeoman, and Barbara Rynski; vice-president—Helen Dardis, Charles Cunningham, Bill Rehm and Louis Schiltz; corresponding secretary —Rose Mary Hollander, Patricia Perez, Barbara Rynski and Hilda Whitemarsh.

Recording secretary — Joanne Pluen, Betsy Hershfelt and Ann Yeoman; treasurer—Annetta Straub, John Straub and Kathryn Foehrin; parliamentarian —Mike Sheridan, Geraldine Diaz and Bobby Pinesi; freshman advisor—Helen Dardis, Betty Gooch and Elizabeth Hendrix.

Nominations may be added to this list at the meeting next Sunday before elections. A copy of the Parliamentary procedure and the Constitution and by-laws of the Newman Club is available to all members and may be obtained at the House.

Mrs. Adam Speaks On Form-Flattering Women's Fashions

Mrs. Eleanor Adam, associate professor of clothing and design, discussed the best uses of sweet day fashions to flatter figure Sunday noon at a luncheon meeting of the Panama Women's Club.

Mrs. Adam pointed out the various devices which can be used in clothing to create optical illusions to improve the figure's appearance.

Working with a model, the speaker demonstrated how accessories, decorative tapes and eye findings can achieve different effects through careful selection of garment style.

Mrs. Adam also gave a brief outline of the Florida State University Fashion Institute program. The institute, she explained, gives a full four-year program leading to a bachelor's degree in clothing and embraces the related fields as textiles, art, public relations, advertising, marketing and arts education.

Prior to coming to PSU, Mrs. Adam was an assistant professor of clothing and design at Cornell University. She has also directed fashion shows, and appeared on television productions in New York City. She is a member of the American Home Economics Association and the College Teachers of Textiles and Clothing, eastern region advisory committee.

News Travels Fast When Told Woman

They say news travels fast; officially if you tell it to a woman. But, evidently the news at Florida State University is no longer Florida State College for Women hasn't proved it. Dixon Line yet.

Recently Kenn Hankins received a letter addressed to the President of the Sophomore class, Florida State College for Women. The sender, a large drilling firm in New York, addressed their letter strictly to the males.

The letter in advertising blast started, "It's not Greek to us." We know why the blaze has enjoyed such a tremendous success among you sagacious young sisters throughout the country. It's because you gals have such a keen sense of quality and styling and are so quick to recognize good value."

After reading this Hankins had his laugh, but added, "if anyone is interested or needs additional information, they can contact me at the Sigma Chi House."

ALPHA XI DELTA

Twelve new members were recently initiated by Alpha Xi Delta, national social sorority, officers announced.

The new members are Joyce Avery, Claudette Carley, Mary Davis, Barbara Hughes, Marjorie Kaiser, Mary Elizabeth Lucas, Eleanor Reid, Constance Rodabaugh, Marjorie Smith, Virginia Vaughn, and Peggy Wyatt.

The sorority held its annual White Rose Formal at the Country Club.

Platform of State Party

The purpose of the STATE PARTY platform shall be:

1. To initiate and perpetuate the validity and necessity of a party system.
2. To help bring about more mature understanding between the students and the administration.
3. To help the Student Government gain more authority.
4. To create and encourage more meaningful participation in university functions.

It shall be the objective of the STATE PARTY to carry out these purposes through the following program:

1. a. We will work for the creation of a sounding board for student opinions and problems to be composed of faculty and administration. It will be a mediation board where students may discuss their problems in conjunction with university affairs and administration policies.

   b. We are in favor of the Student Senate sponsoring regularly scheduled meetings to gain opinions from students on possible legislation and policies.
2. We will recommend that there be more student representation on faculty and administration committees which concern the students.
3. We will seek a charter for the Student Body Government from the Legislature or Board of Control.
4. We recommend that the Secretary of Labor investigate the following policies:

   a. A uniform system of cash payment.

   b. A fair system of dismissal whereby the employer shall advise the Office of Vocational Guidance and the employee as to the reasons for dismissal and whereby the employee be given a week's notice.

   c. Where jobs are available and the work can be handled by students, the job shall be given to students.

   d. More lenient regulations concerning the use of meal tickets.
5. We recommend that student organizations who receive funds from the activity fee be allowed to sponsor funds—raising projects and that the policies regarding those projects be more liberal.
6. We are in favor of increased student control of student funds.
7. We will recommend that the Secretary of State work in conjunction with service organizations on campus to provide guides, lunch and lodgings for university visitors.
8. We will work in conjunction with the Florida Flambeau to have university financial reports published.
9. We recommend that uniform procedures for all University Courts be set up and that the Attorney General advise them on the use of their powers.
10. We are in favor of the addition of a Secretary of Religion for the Cabinet.
11. We are in favor of a change in the Artist Series selection policy with increased student representation on the Artist Series selection committee.
12. We are in favor of better organization of Day Students.
13. We shall strive to have regular meetings of each class.
14. We will promote in every way the interests of student organizations.
15. We shall endeavor to provide more recreational facilities for students' leisure time.
16. We are in favor of sponsoring a "unique pell" contest to increase school spirit.
17. We are in favor of intramurales to football games.

RAINBOW GIRLS

Mrs. Leta MacMinn, Supreme Deputy, will be at PSU Sunday, officials announced this week. If you want to see her, contact Barbara Tucker, 210 Reynolds or Mary A. Turpin, 220 Reynolds."

AIM Rates Whitman College As Outstanding In Liberal Arts

WALLA WALLA, Wash. —[IP]— "One of the outstanding liberal arts colleges west of the Mississippi, and one of the most distinguished in the United States." This is the rating given Whitman College by the American Institute of Management, which recently released an audit of the college. Prepared on the basis of a personal study of the college by Jackson Martindell, AIM president, the report has been in preparation for several months. It was took in every phase of Whitman —the administration and faculty, financial resources, curriculum, academic accomplishment and the students.

Under the heading, "Academic Function" Martindell stated, "The concept of liberal arts education has prevailed at Whitman and concentrates on basic subjects. The curriculum is designed to equip students with intellectual tools enabling them to think clearly and to acquaint them with a diverse sampling of the knowledge of civilized man; to stimulate their imagination; to provide a whole-some spiritual and social environment for their formative years; and to give an opportunity for body building and health-giving forms of physical exercise and play."

A high rating was given to "Academic Function" on the basis of the unusual scholastic attainment of the students, the records of graduates and the quality of the faculty. To check academic performance of students, the audit drives into such things as the grades made by Whitmanites on medical school admission tests. Where grades were better than 90 per cent for the four major divisions of the examination.

The AIM audit reveals that "The mathematical preparation of present-day freshmen is severely on the decline everywhere. The State of Washington and many others no longer have pre-

Debate Team Asks Interested Students To Try For Places

Students with experience in debating are eligible to try out for a place on the Florida State University debating team which will meet India, here April 20, according to Dr. Gregg Phifer of the Department of Speech.

Two students from Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda and Elphinstone College of India, will comprise the team to face PSU April 20.

The International Debate has been an annual feature at PSU, forma of physical exercise and play."

In past years debaters from British universities have provided the competition.

Possible topics include "world government," "that the future belongs to Asia," "that plenty is more dangerous than poverty" and others.

Anyone interesting in representing PSU in the debate is asked to see or call Dr. Phifer, extension 206 or the James House, 721 West Jefferson.

Coast Bound?
Going and Coming It's
BLUE WILLOW LODGE
On Route 98—On the Right—Entering Panacea

DANCE in our new, attractive dance Hall
DINE on our Delicious Steaks, Seafoods, Chops and Sandwiches

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. DuPuy Blue Willow Lodge
Your Hosts Panacea

The Department of Speech
announces
"THE HEIRESS"
by
Ruth and Augustus Goetz
MARCH 19, 20, 22, 23
at Conradi Theatre
TICKETS—
Students—40c and Activity Stub No. 5
General Admission—75c
Box Office Opens Wednesday, March 17

IT'S ALL A MATTER OF TASTE
When you come right down to it, you smoke for one simple reason . . . enjoyment. And smoking enjoyment is all a matter of taste. Yes, taste is what counts in a cigarette. And Luckies taste better.
Two facts explain why Luckies taste better. First, L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco . . . light, mild, good-tasting tobacco. Second, Luckies are actually made better to taste better . . . always round, firm, fully packed to draw freely and smoke evenly.
So, for the enjoyment you get from better taste, and only from better taste, Be Happy—Go Lucky. Get a pack or a carton of better-tasting Luckies today.
In flame or train, in boat or car, While traveling through the day, For pleasure greater, smoother taste Smoke Luckies all the way!
Keith L. Monroe, Michigan State College
Lucky Strikes have better taste! In flavor they are grand! Satisfaction for yourself or friends, Keep Lucky Strike on hand!
Glenda Sutton, UCLA
In cigarettes you look for taste— Now here's a tip you'll like! Go get and buy that fresh whole pack Of smoother Lucky Strike!
Jerry Kee, Columbia University
CIGARETTES
Where's your jingle? It's easier than you think to make $25 by writing a Lucky Strike jingle like those you see in this ad. Yes, we need jingles —and we pay $25 for every one we use! So send as many as you like to: Happy-Go-Lucky, P. O. Box 67, New York 46, N. Y.
COPR. THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY
LUCKIES TASTE BETTER
CLEANER, FRESHER, SMOOTHER!

QUAKER HOUSE
It's a Drive-In . . . A Restaurant and a Delivery-to-the-door Service
All Three Rolled Into One, and all three serving DELICIOUS
Full Course Dinners: Chops, Steaks, Chicken
Sea Foods, Ham, Roasts
Sandwiches: Fountain Delights, Ice Cream, Salads
Best Cup of Coffee in Town . . .
Largest Sodas
Fountain in Town . . .
Choice Swift's Meats
Always Served . . .
Like CLUB SANDWICHES? try ours—it's chock full of succulent sliced chicken, crisp bacon, fresh tomato and lettuce, all served up on toast . . .
Quaker House
on the Tennessee H'way
JUST OFF CAMPUS!
CALL 2-8677

'Flying High' Lauded As World's Greatest Collegiate Circus

Barbara Christman picks up a few tips on ladder routine from Coach Jack Hopkins as Deborah Griffin looks on. This year's edition of the FSU circus will be highlighted by trick lighting effects, gorgeous costuming, and an abundance of beautiful girls.

FSU Circus Starred In Poramount Short Coming Soon

By LONA COCHRAN
and
DOT THOMASSON

The thrills, the color, the music, the beauty of Florida State University's "Flying High" which is lauded as the World's greatest collegiate circus, is being enjoyed this year by hundreds of people throughout the state of Florida and as far north as Columbus, Georgia.

Through the media of national magazines and movies people all over the world have also been able to enjoy "Circus" as "Flying High" is usually called on campus. Currently, a Paramount Grantland Rice movie short is starring the circus in a color film, "Collegiate Circus Champs."

This weekend they will travel to Lake City and Valdosta, carrying a troupe of 32 girls and 12 boys. Leaving today at 1 p.m., the troupe will perform in Lake City tonight and in Valdosta tomorrow night, returning to FSU Sunday.

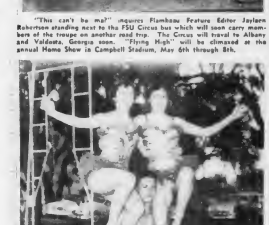
This year's road trips, which began December 11 in Palatka, will be climaxed May 4, 7, 8, and 9 by the annual Home Show to be held in Campbell Stadium. Freshmen should be in for a real surprise when they see "Circus" for the first time and upperclassmen for the first time and upperclassmen will be impressed with the additions and improvements which have been included this season. Emphasis is on beauty in the way of costumes and lighting this year. The new trick lighting effects are expected to have the audience guessing on some of the acts.

The Flying DeCosmos, who have already held an outstanding spot in the program, are reported to now be the best flying act that their director Jim DeCosmos has ever produced. The "Uprecetter" will be a featured innovations this season: 32 of the Big Top's most talented dancers in a perpetual routine in which they perform as one individual. Their brilliantly sequined velvet costumes present a fantasy of color topped with flowing red, blue, and gold plumes.

Mr. Whitcomb, his arranger, and the 35-piece circus band are already working on the 46 tunes to be used with the year's line up of acts which calls for some 80 cues to be learned in addition to playing the music.

The troupe have their fingers crossed for another act which has quite a history. For the past three years, the act has been scheduled but something always prevented its performance. The first circus star to master it broke his ankle just before the show the second caught the measles and now the third will attempt it outdo her unlucky predecessors.

Initiating this difficult feat, she will climb to her partner's shoulder, and back balances on the single swinging trapeze with the "Toe Drop." Hinging backwards over the trapeze and catching it with her toes.



Professional as it may seem, the whole circus is student produced. Aside from flying trapeze artists, web, acrobatic, juggling, skating, and aerial ballet performers, the students handle all other phases of show production as well. All costumes, lighting effects, dance routines, and make-up are designed by students. They also learn to set up the rigging for the acts and tear down the set after the show.

It should be noted that state circus performers can still rank high scholastically in spite of the hours they spend practicing and the classes they miss while on tour. The circus is rated as having the highest over-all scholastic standing of any extra-curricular organization on campus. Last year, the troupe had an over-all average of 1.54. The two and three-year members had a standing of 1.56 and the flying act which made every road trip, had an average of 1.59

Coming trips include Albany and Columbus in Georgia, Gainesville, Tampa, DePunish Springs, Pensacola, and Crestview. On April 21 Mrs. Doak S. Campbell is sponsoring a closed show to which will be invited the officers of all the business women's clubs of the State of Florida.

"This can't be me!" inquires Flambaux Feature Editor Jaylarn Robertson standing next to the FSU Circus bus which will soon carry members of the troupe on another road trip. The Circus will travel to Albany and Valdosta, Georgia soon. "Flying High" will be climaxed at the annual Home Show in Campbell Stadium, May 6th through 8th.

"Double trouble" is handled nicely by Vernon Nelson on his bicycle in this act from "Flying High." The balancing twins, Charlotte and Phyllis Patton, add the touch of beauty to this popular FSU circus act.

The latest thing in woman's cosmetics? No, it's just one of the clowns in circus learning to put on and take off the special make-up quickly. Circus clowns must be able to "make-up" in a hurry for many are in more than one act.

FSU History Center Founded; Will Gather, Organize Records

A Southern Business History Center, recently established at Florida State University because of the needs of graduate students and research workers, is the first of its kind in the south, according to reports.

Dr. Maurice M Vance, of the History Department, said that the Center was established because of the interest shown in the study of southern business. Vance will be chairman of a faculty committee in charge of administering the center, President Doak S Campbell revealed.

The object of the Center, spokesmen said, will be the gathering and organizing of records of southern business firms. These records will be made available for the research studies of historians, economists, business administrators and others interested in the development of the south.

Vance stated 'a careful study shows that although a few research organizations have touched the history of southern business, no one has made a specialty of this subject nor a broad and systematic collection of southern business documents The FSU History Center is concerned with any aspect of the history of any southern business activity or its relation to any other elements of society."

Elaborating on the purpose of the center, President Campbell stated, "Expanding industry has an impact on every phase of southern life. The Center will provide a means of measuring and evaluating the relationships between business and the political, economic and social history of the southeastern United States."

Serving on the committee directing the Center, in addition to Chairman Vance, are Dean Charles A Rovetta, School of Business; Dr. Francis R. Allen, Department of Sociology; Dr. Marshall R. Colberg, Department of Economics; Dr. James Preston, Department of Political Science, and Norman L. Kilpatrick, Director of Libraries.

Dr. Fox Receives High Health Honor From Association

Dr. Grace Fox, professor of physical education for women at the Florida State University, has received "the highest honor the American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation can bestow for outstanding service," according to representatives.

In presenting the award, Elizabeth Moore, past president, congratulated Dr. Fox, saying "Our profession recognizes Dr. Fox for her many fine contributions in education and professional organizations. She has been an ardent and effective worker at the state district and national levels in the fields of health, physical education and recreation. She has rendered great service in improving athletics for girls and women."

Dr. Fox has been associated with Florida State University since 1932. She has served as president of the Florida Physical Education Association and has been vice editor for the Southern District of American Associations for Health, Physical Education and Recreation and has served as chairman of the southern district of the National Section on Woman's Athletics.

SUPPRESSED DESIRES

At Agnes Scott College in Decatur, Ga. "Suppressed Desires Day" turned the campus upside down.

Students attended class, chapel and meals in shirts and jeans, and shopped in the library wherever they pleased. They greeted professors with "Bon jour, Pierre" or "Nice day, isn't it, Mr. Joe," and answered instructors' classroom questions frankly, like "Well Margaret, I see it this way . . ."

Anything went, and nobody got in trouble.

Keepsake Diamonds
LeCoultre Watches
PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRS
107 S. Monroe St. Phone 3-1442

The ground mullet, the Gulf kingfish and the southern whiting are the same fish, found from Chesapeake Bay to Texas. An important food fish, it seldom reaches over 18 inches in length. —Sports Afield

Stenos Sought For Naval Positions

Miss Berner M Bondant, a Civil Service Naval representative, will be in the Placement Office be held June 13-25, will be an March 15 and 16 to interview expanded version of last year's and test applicants interested in first camp, authorities have re-stenosurphic positions with the vealed.

Department of Navy, according Anthropology will be added to to a recent announcement. the fields of astronomy, biology, Starting salaries are $245 and chemistry, geology, meteorology, $284 per month, it stated. "Qual- physics, mathematics and psyifying standards are a typing chology.

speed of 40 words per minute and Eighty high school students dictation at the rate of 80 words will participate in this year's per minute." Science Camp. Last summer 66

The applicants interviewed will participated, from all over the be considered for appointments state.

in June or July, with temporary Held to interest young people housing guaranteed, the an- in the fields of science, the nouncement stated. Camp will feature field trips to Further information is avail- Alligator Harbor and Wakulla able at the Office of Vocational Springs. While there, the stu-Guidance and Placement, 203 dents will live in university dor-

Anthropology Adds To Science Camp

mitories and eat in university

A VARIETY OF Gifts for Everyone Awaits You . . .

Our well-stocked shelves offer you "Slumber Pals," the unique bedroom companions; humor and cartoon books, latest styles in exquisite costume jewelry . . .

And, of course, our biggest and finest variety of Greeting and Gift Cards in Tallahassee!

HOUSE OF GIFTS

Theta's Beat Phi Phi's 12-6; Chest Bags Puff Bowl Profits

Kappa Alpha Theta's defeated Pi Beta Phi's 12-6 Sunday in the annual Powder Puff Bowl held at the P. E. U. practice field.

The Phi Pis won the toss and elected to receive. Pat Meredith kicked off for the Thetas' and sent the ball deep into Pi Phi territory. Sally Hammer took the ball on her own 20 yard line and returned it to mid field. After breaking thru for two first downs the Pi Phis' offense was stopped and they were forced to punt.

Sally Hammer sent the ball sail to the Theta 9 yard line where Jane McNeely grabbed it. Assisted by Jane Walker and she was on her way for a 56 yard jaunt to the Pi Phi 45 yard line.

Mittie McCollough picked up a first down, and on the second play Jane "Crazy Legs" Walker was on her way for the first score of the game, with a beautiful run off tackle.

The try for the extra point failed and the score stood Theta's 6 and Pi Phi's 0.

The Thetas kicked off and the Pi Phis drove to the Theta 40 yard line where they were again forced to kick The kick was taken by Jane McNeely on the 5 yard line, where she fumbled and the ball was recovered by Pi Phi Betty Ann Monroe Again a good Theta defense held and they took over on their own 4 yard line. Play was very even the rest of the half with neither team threatening to score.

The hall time festivities were highlighted by Chris Young singing Nature Boy dedicated to Mike Sellers."

The Pi Phis opened the second half with Sally Hammer kicking to Jane McNeely who brought the ball back to the Theta 45 yard line.

The Theta offense, led by center B B Bisbee, began to move and the girls from Park Avenue were on the march. Alternating the Notre Dame Box, the T and the famed 1 formation the Thetas rolled running and passing to bring the ball to the Pi Phis' 15 yard line. Mary Nancy Webner, Theta quarterback, used Coach Tom Nugent's famed T play, roll to the right and west to the Pi Phi zone. On the next play Webner scored on a quarterback sneak. The score at the end of the 3rd quarter, Thetas 12, Pi Phis 6.

The Fourth quarter the Pi Phi offense began to move with Sally Hammer and Jackie Young leading the way. After being stopped on two long drives the Pi Phis finally scored in the last 26 seconds of play with Sally "Doak" Hammer going thru the entire Theta second team for 40 yards.

The game ended with the Thetas in front for the second straight year, 12-6.

Outstanding for the losers were their three backfield stars, Ann Hoffman, Sally Hammer and Joan Tavel; linemen who stood out were Betty Ann Monroe and "Steve" Bolton.

For the winning Theta team Nancy Webner showed signs of of Otis Graham, with her brilliant ball handling and passing. The running of Jane Walker was also a big factor in the Theta win. On the line Pat Meredith, Carol Stavens, Jo Ann Avril, B B Bisbee, Sue "Rusty" McCormick, and Nancy Vaughn were outstanding.

Collins Speaks At County Courthouse

The FSU "Collins for Governor" club will follow a brief meeting tomorrow night at 7 with a trip to the Leon County Courthouse to hear their candidate speak, according to spokesmen.

Plans are made, they said, to afford all interested students a chance to meet the Tallahassee gubernatorial candidate. The spokesmen added that this will probably be the last time Senator Collins will be in Tallahassee before the election.

Students wishing transportation are asked to call Corrie Moore 2-8086 or Milton Carothers 2-1312.

MOTHER ROSE FETED

Alpha Gamma Delta will honor its housemother, Mrs. Rossbelle Gilliland, at a silver tea Sunday afternoon from 4 to 6.

Mrs. Gilliland, nicknamed "Mother Rose" has been a housemother for 25 years, longer than any other on campus.

She is a native of North Carolina, but has lived most of her life in Pelham, Georgia.

In charge of the affair are president Mary Belle Twitty and social chairman Dee Boys.

A sod cloth, a strip of canvas 9 to 12 inches wide sewed to the bottom of the walls and back of a tent, is very effective in excluding mosquitoes and wind, and helps prevent water from flowing inside —Sports Afield

Faculty Shows Hidden Talent On Stunt Night

Members of the Florida State University faculty will join students in producing the seventh annual Faculty Stunt Night, March 21 at Opperman Music Hall, according to sponsors.

The Student Christian Association, sponsoring the show said that the 25 cents admission fee is "indeed low when one considers the fabulous talent we have here on our very own campus in the faculty.

Such renowned figures as Thomas Wright, Betty and Gene Bond, John Bode, Anne Pope (director of readers), Vaughan Hall and many others will be headlining the program."

Dr. Otis McBride is the organizer of Faculty Stunt Night. For past years, members of the faculty have indulged in such pastimes during the show as selling peanuts and other concessions as well as participating in the various acts in the show.

The performance will be open to the general public as well as to students and faculty members.

Will persons borrowing or finding GOLD PENCIL between April 21st 1952" please return to Dean Frank School of Education Offices.

GUADALAJARA SUMMER SCHOOL

The accredited bilingual summer school sponsored by the Universidad Autonoma de Guadalajara and members of the Stanford University faculty will be offered in Guadalajara, Mexico, June 27-August 7. Offerings include art, creative writing, folklore, geography, history, language and literature courses. $225 covers six weeks tuition, board and room.

Write Prof Juan E. Rael, Box K, Stanford University, Calif.

Hot Dog!
Let's Eat At the AMBER HOUSE

Expert Shoe Repairing

"Service for You"
- We Do Orthopedic Work!
- We Repair Luggage!
- We Re-Suede Shoes!
- We Dye Shoes Any Color!
- We Install Zippers!

PALACE SHOE SHOP
"THE HOUSE THAT SERVICE BUILT"
121 EAST PARK AVENUE

Collegians Bowled Over—Say "Arrow GABANARO Fits Perfectly"

Sports Shirts Feature Exact Collar Sizes and Sleeve Lengths

According to college men, Arrow "Gabanaro" is the best-fitting sports shirt on this and every campus — with built-in comfort — neater, smarter lines. "Gabanaro" features a wide range of colors in washable rayon gabardine.

ARROW
TRADE MARK
SHIRTS · TIES · UNDERWEAR · HANDKERCHIEFS · SPORTSWEAR

Another Terrific Tommies Classic Pajama at $3.95

Styled by Harry Berger with an eye to your budget . . . Top TOMMIES® tailoring, with the magical Mystic collar that vanishes in the back . . . the locked-on buttons that beat 1339% longer, the crowned seams that just can't ravel . . . Top TOMMIES® sizing in PROPORTIONETTES® cut for your very own height, the four-adjustment waistband in case that birthday party was a little too lavish . . . And finally, top TOMMIES® quality in finest no-iron cotton percale that stays bright through countless washings. Pink or Turquoise piped in White. Sizes 32 to 40.

TINY TOMMIES® if you're under five feet two inches. 32 to 34.
REGULAR TOMMIES® if you're between five feet two and five feet six inches. 32 to 40.
TALL TOMMIES® if you're over five feet six inches. 34 to 40.

Manufacturer is a patented feature protected by U.S. Pat. No. 2,256,152. TOMMIES® ARE MADE ONLY BY LOOK FOR THE TOMMIES® LABEL. RATLON INCORPORATED. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

P. W. WILSON CO.
Tallahassee's Favorite Dept. Store Since 1837

From The Sidelines

By Ken Kingery

Flambeau Sports Editor

FSU-U of F Athletic Relationship

A number of developments have been taking place within the last few months which have made it inevitable that the University of Florida and the Florida State University would enter into complete intercollegiate athletic relations. These developments have been taking place in the athletic program at the Florida State University. In all sports other than football the Florida State University has been able for some time to hold its own with members of the Southeastern Conference, the Atlantic Coast Conference, and the Southern Conference. The football program has been strengthened considerably in the last year with the employment of Tom Nugent as head football coach and the inauguration of a system of athletic scholarships. It must be noted also that the Florida State University is getting many of the football boys—those wanted by Florida, Georgia, Georgia Tech, and Auburn.

Already F.S.U. has Georgia and Auburn on its football schedule for 1954, both worthy rivals of the University of Florida for many years. The past year F.S.U. had five teams on its schedule who also played Florida—Miami and Stetson. Although the Gator's performances against these two teams was somewhat superior to that of F. S. U., the margin of difference was not great enough to conclude that F. S. U. could not hold its own against our sister institution at Gainesville. At the moment Florida probably would have an advantage. But neither Florida nor State had a football team in 1950 that would throw consternation in the heart of an opponent. The records show that the Gators have not been one of the outstanding powers in the Southeastern Conference over the past few years. Both the Gators and the Seminoles have been mediocre, that is what the papers quote both Coach Woodruff and Coach Nugent as saying. There is no reason that would prevent Florida State from building as rapidly and solidly as the University of Florida.

Acting Governor Charley E. Johns has recognized the logic of events when he endorsed a football game between Florida and F. S. U. The Board of Control, at its monthly meeting in Tallahassee, formally rescinded its ban against football competition between the two institutions and urged that athletic competition be inaugurated as soon as possible.

There are some twenty states that have two state supported institutions of higher learning similar to F. S. U. and the University of Florida. In all but one of these states there exists a long rivalry in football between the two state institutions. Several weeks ago a commentator on a radio station in Florida was heard to determine whether the football rivalry between the two state supported institutions was a wholesome one and whether it was the big game on their schedule. To date twenty-six replies have been received from sixteen states. All but one of the replies state emphatically that the rivalries were wholesome in every respect. The majority of the replies stated that the intra-state game was the main game on the schedule for each school. In all of the other schools it was among the main games.

Please bear in mind that we are referring to such games as Georgia-Georgia Tech, Alabama-Auburn, Mississippi-Mississippi State, Michigan-Michigan State, Texas-Texas A&M, Kansas-Kansas State, South Carolina-Clemson, Pennsylvania-Pittsburgh, California-U. C. L. A., Indiana-Purdue, aWshington-Washington State, Oklahoma-Oklahoma A&M, Oregon-Oregon State, and Colorado-Colorado A&M.

There are three states that have more than two outstanding state supported institutions of higher learning—California, North Carolina, and Pennsylvania. The survey shows that in each of these states well established annual football competition exists between all of the schools in each state. Thus Gator Coach Woodruff's contention that Florida could not have an intrastate rivalry with both F. S. U. and Miami does not seem to hold water.

F. S. U. officials have indicated a desire to play Florida in all sports and expressed a willingness to talk over arrangements immediately. What seems to be the hold-up unless it is the University of Florida?

'Friendly' Rivalry of Gridders Prepares Blow For Hurricanes

By DAVID DREIS

An annual event, the Garnet and Gold game has been a top conclusion to Spring practice, but this year the football affair meant a lot more to the squad members than just a pre-season duel with the University of Miami Hurricanes in the Orange Bowl next Tuesday.

The football squad may never be the same after last night's "frolikus" out at Doak Campbell Stadium when the team split in half for the annual Garnet and Gold game.

Scorned by the Kiwanians and Boosters organizations, the same threw two heavily-manned squads against each other, each one trying to outpass, out hit, out run and out trick each other.

The Garnet-Gold tilt had all the regalia of a regular season game. There was plenty of passing, sometimes more than justified, plenty of running enough for one team out and enough tricks to keep the spectators puzzled.

Cheerleaders were on hand as well as the majorettes and band was at the proper places. To a few cheer-leaders this was the final 'home' game they would lead. And cheers for Miami will be the 'final' for them.

Yesterday afternoon all Tallahassee heard about the game via Tuesday.

Group Seeks Rules For Etiquette Book

The new "Do You Know," a booklet listing customs, dress and manners at different dances and functions, is now being drawn up by members of the Social Standards Committee recently named by the Student Body.

The committee will welcome any suggestions for changes or additions to better the present booklet.

The committee is headed by Mrs. Dinkelspiel and Miss DeArmond of the faculty. Members are Louis Schlitz, Gail Stone, Pat Stevens, Del Cooke, Wilma Ray, Roy Williams and Mike Kiel. They represent a cross section of classes, independents and sorority-fraternity combinations.

The members will meet every Tuesday until they have finished the new booklet, to be distributed in the fall of the next semester.

FSU GOLFERS COMPETE IN 3 DAY MEET

TALLAHASSEE, March 6 — A four-man Florida State University golf team officially opened their 1954 season Wednesday in a quadrangular set meet against Miami, Stetson, and Rollins at DeLand's College Arms Golf Club.

Senior Jimmy James of Miami, Junior Ken Peterson of South Bend, Ind., and freshmen Buck Berry of Tallahassee and Jack Veghte of Gloversville, N.Y., are FSU's entries in the four-team match.

The same foursome competed FSU's team in the seventh annual Florida intercollegiate tournament which starts at College Arms on Thursday. The three-day state tournament will draw teams from at least five Florida colleges—FSU, Florida, Stetson, Rollins, and Miami.

Florida's Gators, with Doug Sanders leading the field, won the 1953 meet and are favored to retain their title this week. The Green Terrapins ahead of FSU to win the college division of the recent Tallahassee Georgia Washington Birthday tournament.

Seminole Coach Don Veller believes FSU stands an outside chance of bringing home the team trophy. All four Seminole entries have first six-per rounds totally, although Veller says they have been 'in a slump' for the past few days.

FSU has never captured the team championship in the Florida Intercollegiate Seminole Sonny Tilmer, however, was the individual title in 1948 and 1952.

FSU opens its dual meet season against the Auburn Tigers here March 20.

Gold Key States Tapping March 21

Gold Key members met Wednesday to consider applications for membership and scheduled another meeting for application consideration next Wednesday. President Paul Scarpazi said, will necessarily postpone tapping ceremonies until then.

New tapping date, Scarpazi said, will be Sunday, March 21. Ceremonies will be held in Longmire Building, small lounge, first floor.

Pictured above is CO-CAPTAIN DON HOLDER. Don is executing his near-perfect form that gave him the Southern Intercollegiate League Crown on the Parallel Bars.

STAGES LATE RALLY

International Soccer Team Ties Powerful Marianna 2-2

By KEN KINCERY

Flambeau Sports Editor

The International Soccer team of Florida State University broke through in the last half to tie the very powerful Marianna Air Cadets by the score of 2 goals a piece, last Sunday afternoon.

Captain Edrardo del Risco opened very well pleased with the brilliant playing. Larry Zuber, "Harry", and John McGlynn were playing heads up ball, as the Cadets threatened almost all the time. Dutch Van Dorp, Mike Dorsa, and Frank Lupino formed the offensive line for the second half.

SECOND HALF—SEMINOLES RALLY

The second quarter of the game came when Albert Demesi (Beigium) completely ignored deep-center kick attempts by the Seminoles and struck a goal just beyond the stretching fingers of the goalie (Surbi). The shot, which was impossible to stop, was aimed, as Surbi deflected it a little too late.

The Internationals, taking their orders from Captain Del Risco all-out to win the ball game. Working from a two point deficit, the Seminoles began their offensive drive.

With less than fifteen minutes gone in the second half, ex-pro Del Risco began his fearless drives through the Cadet line. Serf, and Lupino were also threatening at every minute. It wasn't long before Capsain Del Risco scored the first goal for his squad. The point came with a 20 yard free shot toward the goal.

Sharing the scoring honors for the FSU Internationals was John McGlynn and Del Xiaco with one goal each.

McGlynn's score came with only 10 minutes remaining, with a beautiful long shot. After the goal, they never let the Cadet goalie alone, but the Seminoles failed to score, and the tests finished 2-2 up.

Norman Surbi was the goalie, Larry Zuber the right back; Harpik in the left back slot; John McGlynn, C; Van Dorp and Mike Dorsa played in the half positions: Brian Shirley, Del Risco, Mario Thophanis, Frank Lupino and Bert Vejaljivs, held the wing and inside positions down. Austin played the second half for the Florida State Internationals.

The Int. S. T. will play the Bainbridge Air Cadets next Sunday in Bainbridge.

LOST—Blue and white striped billfold in area of the Student Center, March 4. Contains important papers. If found, please call Martha Ann Williams, Jennie Murphrees or Box 1256.

Stars Fight Varied Enemies In Three Action Packed Films

Alan Ladd takes to the aid in his latest role, The Paratrooper, in a "ripcord" adventure about the commando-paratrooper attacks in Europe.

It is learned that LADD himself had to enlist for full commando - paratrooper training before he was allowed to portray the toughest of them all.

Lee Grea co-stars with Ladd, and the film introduces a British newcomer to the American screen —Susan Stephen. As a winsome parachute packer, she succeeds in knocking off the shoulder chip which Ladd carries.

The Paratrooper is currently playing at the State Theatre through Saturday.

Warner Brothers' first Cinemascope production, THE COMMAND, now playing at the Florida Theatre, is a hard-hitting, fast-quipping western.

Guy Madison stars as the doctor who takes over the leadership of the calvary and in an unorthodox method of command wins the respect of his men.

Among the men of cavalry who feel they have become nurses since they have a doctor in commander are JAMES WHITMORE and SCOTT BRADY.

Joan Weldon plays the feminine lead, and Carl Benton Reid portrays the old war-horse sergeant in their fight against the Indians.

Glenn Ford, Ann Sheridan, and Zachary Scott team up in the Jungles of Central America in the RKO Technicolor production, Appointment in Honduras.

Fighting the beasts, man-eating ants, a jungle fire and a hurricane, GLENN FORD takes his chances with a murderous crew of companions to keep an appointment which means the freedom of a small Central American country.

Appointment in Honduras comes to the State Theatre Sunday for a three-day run.

'The Commodores' Will Play Tonight At Student Center

A new student dance band, "The Commodores," will play tonight at the Student Center from 9 p.m. 'till midnight, by Leo Andrews, manager of the group.

"The Commodores is a group of 15 well-trained musicians who organized on the precept that dance bands should play dance music. The music the Commodores play is dictated solely by the audience," Andrews said. The band will play fox-trots, waltzes, rhumbas, Jitterbugs and Dixieland, and that Jo Ann Hoesch would be the featured vocalist. The band is directed by Dick Mayo.

TELEVISION REGISTRATION

Students at Chicago Teacher's College utilized a unique aid in registering this semester — a closed circuit television hesm.

As students registered in one room, a TV camera in another gave them immediate notice of their acceptance. Lines entire everybody steps and backtracking.

FLORIDA
Playing Thru Wednesday
"The Command"
In CinemaScope!
Starring
GUY MADISON
JOAN WELDON
In Warner Color and "Stereophonic Sound!

DRIVE-IN THEATRE
OUTDOOR
Fun for Grown-ups or Happy Kids!
Through Tomorrow
"Battle Circus"
HUMPHREY BOGART
JUNE ALLYSON
Plus
Mark Stevens—Dorothy Malone
In
"Jack Slade"
—&—
Sunday and Monday
"The San Francisco Story"
Joel McCrea & Yvonne DeCarlo

CAPITAL CINEMA
Through Tomorrow
"War Paint"
Robert Stack—Joan Taylor
In
"The Golden Idol"
with Johnny Sheffield
BONUS
—&—
Sunday and Monday
"The Jazz Singer"
Danny Thomas—Peggy Lee
Technicolor

STATE
Through Tomorrow
ALAN LADD
In
"Paratroopers"
with
Susan Stevens—Leo Gean
Sunday Thru Tuesday
"Appointment to Honduras"
Glenn Ford—Ann Sheridan
Zachary Scott

Ball Team Opens Season At Jacksonville Today; Atwood, Long To Hurl

Frosh Track Team Starts Winning Ways

The Seminole's sparkling freshman trackstars simply lived up to Coach Ken Miller's advance billing at the Atlantic Coast Conference Indoor Games. The Freshman division title was undecided until the last event when the University of North Carolina nosed out Tarheel Maryland by two points and FSU by two and a half points. The final score of the meet was UNC 18, Maryland 14, FSU 13½, Duke 8½, Presbyterian 8, Wolfpack 3, VPI 2, Virginia 2. All Southeastern conference schools entered in the frosh division went unplaced.

Joe Davis, former Orlando Boy Scout star, was the main sparkplug as he won the 72-yard low hurdle event in the new record time of 10.1 seconds, placed fourth in the 60-yard dash and ran a leg on the Seminole's third place mile relay team.

Other FSU men placing were Jimmy Casteel, third in the 60-yard dash and relay; Tommy Brown, third in the high jump and fourth in the high hurdle event; Larry Reynolds, third in the ¼-mile run and relay; and Charlie Watson, relay.

Firm Demonstrates Processes Tuesday

Standard Brands, Inc. of New York City will demonstrate the technology and process of basic sweet dough products on March 16 and 17 in the Baking Science and Management majors. The importance of student tie-in with industry for which they are training is highlighted.

Dan Dodd, one of the three annual demonstrations, a scheduled for Wednesday night at 7:30 in the Union Ballroom. It will include the use of movie, "Meal Time is Variety" and a discussion of sweet dough products and a display of the finished products. These will be served in the audience along with coffee.

Students in Baking Science and Management will assist in the demonstration in the production of the different varieties of sweet rolls. Danish pastry and coffee cakes.

PORTUGAL: ON THE AIR

Students at the University of Porto, Portugal, have been granted one hour a week of air time by the local radio station, and the programs will be arranged by the students themselves much as many United States students are doing with local television time.

ALL-STATE

Florida A.A.U. Picks Gould, And McCann

The Florida AAU announced yesterday that two members of the FSU volleyball squad were named to the All-State team for 1954. The honors were extended to Bernie McCann and Howard Gould.

McCann, a freshman from West Palm Beach, was given credit for his outstanding work on defense, and his excellent spiking while on offense. McCann, playing his first year on the Seminole team has been named as the most improved player on the squad so far this season.

Gould, participating in only limited action due to an ankle injury, received the All-State honor for the third consecutive year.

Three other members of the Seminole team received special comment from the AAU. Spiker Len Kecsmarek and set-up men Wally Cox and Stan Humphries were given honorable mention awards.

Dr. Howard G. Danford mentioned that the choice of All-State honors for this year's AAU tournament were much closer than in previous events. However, Danford also noted that Florida State completely dominated the All-State selections.

Coach "Wild Bill" Odenaal gave special praise to senior Joel Carter. Carter was team captain for last week's AAU tournament, and turned in a versatile job of ball playing both as a setup man and a spiker. His excellent performance at both positions has named him as Coach Odenaal's number one utility man.

Florida State University's baseballers start the Seminole spring sports bandwagon rolling in high gear at Jacksonville this weekend, facing Jacksonville Navy in a pair of afternoon tilts Friday and Saturday. Friday's game starts at 4 p.m. while Saturday's a contest is scheduled for 2.

The Seminoles, who racked up 13 wins against 10 losses and a tie last season, broke even with the Navy nine in a pair of games here last year.

Starting his third term as head baseball coach, Ralph Matterby has nine lettermen on hand plus several returning squadmen and a host of promising freshmen to form the nucleus of his current squad.

Matterby said he would take a 12-man squad to Jacksonville and would try to use everyone if possible. "We want to get a good look at everyone on the squad if we can," he added.

A pair of lettermen right-handers, Jim Atwood and Mike Long—have been nominated to open on the mound Friday and Saturday. Both Tribe A-woopd, a control artist, walked only nine men in 22 innings last season in winning five of five starts. Long, a Jacksonville-product, compiled a 1-2 record and had a remarkable earned run mark of 1.88.

Other hurlers set for duty include George Hohenstadt, also a letterman, Forrest Brown, Tony Aviable, Tom Sullivan, Ronnie Hall, Bobby Wilkins and Hiam Wernke. Wernke, FSU basketball star, lettered in 1953 but did not play last year.

Here's how the Seminoles will probably line up at the other positions: Billy Clements, second base, Ken Boyce, centerfield; Buster Mills, shortstop; Bob Hudson, rightfield; Fred Twomey or Jerry Jansen, first base; Bob Arnold or Mike Mastriano, third baseman; Jim Hendrix, third base and Gary Bailey or Don Wynn, catcher. Campbell, Mills, Hudson and Ashley are lettermen.

Sports For This Week

Today — FSU baseballers vs. Jacksonville Navy at Jacksonville; FSU swimmers in Florida AAU meet at Miami; FSU golfers in Florida intercollegiate tournament at DeLand.

Saturday—FSU baseballers vs. Jacksonville Navy at Jacksonville; FSU golfers in Florida intercollegiate tournament at DeLand.

3 Big 7's
7 Days
7 Specials
and 7 Seas
A Special Every Day
Just Special For You
MON.:
Breaded Veal Cutlet
French Fries, Chef's Salad and Drink
85c
TUES.:
Juicy Broiled
Filet Mignon
French Fries Chef's Salad
$1.00
WED.:
Fried Jumbo Shrimp
French Fries, Chef's Salad
85c
THURS.:
Spaghetti with Cheese
Salad, Drink Lemon Cream Pie
85c
FRI.:
Whole Broiled
Lobster
Drawn Butter Chef's Salad
$1.25
SAT.:
Golden Fried
Half Chicken
French Fries
$1.00
SUN.:
Delicious
Roast Turkey
Dressing — Cranberries
$1.00
Seven Seas

Cotillions, Cavaliers Will Begin Lessons

The Cotillion and Cavalier social dance honoraries begin their second semester dance lessons on March 16 at 7:30 p.m., at the Student Center.

Lessons in slow and Bitsrbug will be given by the dancers to all who are interested. The Cotillions can be recognized by their green and white socks, so that those interested in learning any new steps will be able to recognize members, and ask for help.

The new Cotillion tape, after going through pledge training under vice-president Lynda Yarbrough, gave the members an informal party last week. Original dance steps and their Cotillion uniforms were possessed. After the entertainment, refreshments and dancing were enjoyed by the Cavaliers and Cotillions.

Continuing Study of Students Conducted By U of Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb.—(I.P.)—A continuing study of what happens to students after they make the step from high school to the University is under the supervision of Henry M. Cox, director of the Bureau of Instructional Research at the University of Nebraska.

In tracing the experiences of 1,184 students who graduated from high school in the spring of 1952 and entered the University the following fall, Cox discovered: 1. About three out of 10 drop out of the University before the start of the second year; 2. Almost one out of four is still remaining in school ehance colleges before the start of the second year; 3. More students graduate than women leave school and ehance colleges.

Only about one out of every two entering students graduate with the highest rate of "dropouts" coming during the first two years, according to the Bureau.

Drop-outs amounted to some 31 per cent the first semester and 13 per cent of the men and 6 per cent of the women. These amounted to an additional 20 per cent of the men and second semester makes an estimate of 31 per cent for the first year; 10 drop out of the University be- 35 per cent of the men and 25 fore the start of the second year; per cent of the women.

3. Almost one out of four is still remaining in school ehance colleges before the start of the second year; 3. More students graduate than women leave school and ehance colleges.

The study, in the opinion of Cox, emphasizes that a large number of entering freshmen are not adequately prepared for college study. Fifteen per cent fail to indicate a specific course on their applications.

These findings show that the University retains about the same as it was in 1947 when the bureau made a similar study of the University's experience differs greatly from that of comparable schools.

Teachers, Graduate Assistants Return From Jersey Meet

Several professors and graduate assistants at Florida State University recently returned after attending a number of professional meetings at Atlantic City, New Jersey.

Dr. Mark H. DeGraff, director of the Test Service Bureau, and Dr. Kenneth F. McLaughlin, director of the Veterans Test Service Bureau, read a joint paper entitled "How a Test Service Bureau Serves" before a meeting of the National Council for Measurements Used in Education.

Dr. DeGraff and Dr. McLaughlin also participated in round table discussions of the American Educational Research Association.

Dr. Ernese S. Lawler, professor of Education, reported at the meeting of the American Educational Research Association on the study "Educational Expenditures at the Mid-century," recently issued by the U. S. Office of Education, for which he was consultant to the Office of Education.

Dr. Edward K. Hankin, professor of education; Dr. John A. Fernandez, associate professor of education, and graduate assistants Maurice K. Peterson, Rosalind F. Carothers and Ivey Mitchell Wade attended various meetings of the American Association of School Administrators.

From Page 1

Russian 3D

of Aaron Copland: "Very interesting. I particularly like his third symphony. Copland's forte win is 'a very strons composer," he said. "I like his Symphony in Blue."

Of Glau-Carlo Menotti he said: "I have heard his work once on the radio, but he seems interesting." Benjamin Britten is "very talented," he said, "His opera about miners — Peter Grimes—is very interesting."

Shostakovich, now 47 years old, is a professor of music at Leningrad Conservatory. He was prebuked in 1948 for writing 'antidemocratic' music but received the Stalin prize in 1950.

Two of our most memorable experiences in Russia were visits to the Bolshoi Theater for ballet performances.

The Bolshoi, in central Moscow, is a beautiful theater. The largests theater in the Soviet Union. It has six horseshoe balconies, trimmed with gilt. All upholstery is red.

On the stage we saw what is generally recognized as the finest ballet in the world. We saw Cinderella and Swan Lake Both were performed in their entirety, without deviation for propaganda purposes.

Per sheer spectacle, it was better than anything I have ever seen. With the big stage at the Bolshoi, they could put more than 100 beautifully-costumed dancers out front at once.

During intermissions at the opera, symphony or ballet, Russians do not go out into the lobbies and stand around in small groups as many Americans do.

They stroll arm in arm or with clasped hands around the lobby up and down the corridors and around the lobbies. Everybody follows the same path and walks at about the same pace.

At the various theaters, we stood watching this passing parade to get some idea of what class of people attend the cultural events.

We saw many generals, admirals and other high military officers and a few people who definitely could be identified as upper class by their dress.

But generally it was almost impossible to determine class status by dress. Most of the men wore the same kind of dark blue and black suits, and most of the women wore the same kind of dark dresses.

Civil Service Says Openings Are Available In Library Field

There are still openings for librarians in various Federal agencies in Washington, D. C. and vicinity, according to a release from the Civil Service Commission.

The positions have entrance salaries of $3,410 a year.

Applicants are required to pass a written examination, they said, and must have completed a full four-year college course with at least 30 hours in library science. Three years of progressive experience in library work; or one full year of professional library training in library school plus three years of progressive experience in library work.

All competitors who file applications must make a passing score of 70 without regard to veteran preference, the release continues.

Applicants may take their entrance examinations in the following Florida cities: Avon Park, Daytona Beach, DeFuniak Springs, Fort Myers, Gainesville, Jacksonville, Key West, Lake City, Lakeland, Marianna, Miami, Ocala, Orlando, Palatka, Panama City, Pensacola, Sarasota, St. Petersburg, Tallahassee, Tampa, Vero Beach, and West Palm Beach.

Georgia cities include Albany, Americus, Athens, Atlanta, Augusta Brunswick, Columbus, Dublin, Fitzgerald, Gainesville, La Grange, Macon, Rome, Savannah, Statesboro, Thomasville, Valdosta, and Waycross.

Full information regarding the examination, they note, may be obtained from a U. S. Post Office or from the Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D. C.

Applications will be accepted by the commission in Washington until further notice.

From Page 1

Young Names

Hall meeting in the rear of the dining hall.

Council Chairman Chris Young of Gold Key stated that the response from the students to the contest was gratifying. He stated that, pending approval by the University Board of Control, he is making plans to paint street names and honored winners on sidewalks.

"I plan to have the names stenciled in gold or yellow on a background of garnet to coincide with the University colors," said Young. He also expressed hopes that the Administration can incorporate the street names in all new orientation literature. He expressed thanks for the cooperation given by the FLAMBEAU, Gold Key, and scores of individuals on campus in insuring success of the contest.

RUSSIA: SKIING

Ski fans come in large bunches in the Soviet Union. More than 1,000 students of Lomonosow University in Moscow spent their winter holidays on the slopes.

Mass excursions are now being held for beginners on the hills near Moscow.

Date Is Extended In Literary Contest By Signals Officials

Smoke Signals officials have announced that the deadline for the annual literary contest has been extended until next Wednesday, March 17, at 5 p.m.

Judges for the contest will be Dean Laurence Campbell, School of Journalism; Dr. J. P. Stokes, Professor of English; Prof. William Slaughter, Journalism, and Warren Cobb, last year's winner.

Rules for the contest state that the writings must not exceed 3,000 words and not be under 1,500 words. The fiction must concern some aspect of college life or of college interest.

All entries must be turned in to the Smoke Signals office in Lonsdale.

Editor John Howard says the winner will receive a gold cup with his or her name engraved.

Prize Music Played At Composers Meet

Compositions by student award winners in the Northwest Florida Composer's League will be presented at the annual convention of the Florida Composer's League to be held at Florida State University March 18 through 20 according to official statements.

Dr. Bertil Bouw of the School of Music, who is chairman of the Northwest District, announced the winners for the 1953-54 competition last week.

Tying for first place are David Ward-Steinman, with a Sonatina for Flute and Pat Johnson, with a Suite for Two Pianos. Jack Jarrett placed second with a Sonata in B Minor for Piano. All three students are music majors at Florida State University."

Boer, who is a composition flutist and symphony conductor, added that convention programs from all districts will be presented during the year in Opperman Music Hall and will be free and open to the public.

Seven Educators Launch Project To Help Pupils

AUSTIN, Tex. (IP)—The University of Texas will conduct a three-year project to learn the ideas of parents, educators and religious leaders on how to help new students get better starts in college work. A seven-member committee will hold conferences throughout the state for that purpose. Results of the findings will be published and made available to the public.

Committee members, appointed by President Logan Wilson, are: Dr. Robert G. Gordon, dean of student life staff, who will direct the project; Dr. Gordon Anderson, University Testing and Guidance Bureau; Dr. Walter Firey, associate professor of sociology representing the general faculty; Paul Wasserich, Austin minister representing religious workers; Mrs. Hulon Black of Austin, representing parents; T. P. Bayer of the Austin Public School System, representing educators; and Miss Dorothy Gebauer, dean of women.

At the conferences, participants will discuss problems students encounter in changing from high school to college study and from living at home to living at college. The committee also will seek views on the University's current student adjustment program by which includes giving each new student a personal faculty counselor, tests to determine a student's achievement, abilities and interests, methods to explain University policies, regulations and traditions and help for those who need to improve their reading or study techniques. Counseling projects are the dean of student life office and University Hogg Foundation for Mental Hygiene.

SPAGHETTI QUEEN?

At Cornell University, a freshman co-ed has offered to buy all copies of the freshman directory. She says a picture of her published in the directory stands to ruin her social life.

She was trying to remove a shread of stringy substance from her teeth when the photographer snapped the shutter.

Guidance Workshop Announce Meeting's Results In Delaware

NEWARK, Del. (IP)—Results Campus helps included President of the Guidance Workshop held Week conferences with advisors on the campus of the University and instructors, student counselors of Delaware recently have been announced in a report prepared courses, and the "Reading Clinic" by Dr. W. A. Pemberton, assistant dean of students. Counselors and students in high schools have principals from 26 high schools have part in the workshop meetings.

The report states that committees of counselors and members of the university staff involved indicate that the announced objectives of aiding guidance workers with freshmen, helping high schools evaluate guidance programs, and to develop closer working relationships between the direction of Manly Whitehigh schools and the university were furthered by the workshop. Members of the freshman, junior, sophomore, and senior class will have representatives on the English composition, particularly theme-writing. English mechanics outlining and note-taking practice in "essay" examinations; the study methods and mathematical word problems."

With reference to college, students mentioned difficulties with amount of reading required; lack of interest in courses; lack of class discussion and over-dependence on lecture method; lack of test experience; sole emphasis on test grades, and rapid pace of the course.

Guidance and testing programs in the high schools, participation and adjustment, program in high school activities and visits to college campuses were listed by students as pre-college aids.

Suggestions made by counselors Allan, co-captains of the team. Freshmen will be selected during orientation week next semester.

1954 Cheerleaders To Be Streamlined Squad Says Revell

"Cheerleaders for next semester will be a fast streamlined squad of eighth members under the direction of Manly Whitbey Revell, senior.

Members of the freshman, junior, sophomore, and senior class will have representatives on the team, but only freshmen are eligible to try out. There will be one boy and one girl representative in the classes.

In case of sickness, replacements will be made. Power of the squad is once a member, work will merit higher achievements. No awards are given freshmen. Sophomores and juniors can receive sweaters with megaphones and seniors are given an FSU blanket.

Those on cheering squad for next semester are Margaret Ann Ballinger; "Bitsy" Stephens; Sarah Hambley, Tommy Walls, and Betty Ann Munroe, and E. L.

THE DUTCH KITCHEN
Adams & Park
The Finest Food
Homey Atmosphere
Excellent Service

University Credit Union To Be Both Savings Bank, Loan Firm

Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of articles written for the benefits of the Florida State University credit Union recently chartered by the Board of Control.

What is the Florida State University Credit Union? It is a cooperative association organized to promote thrift and to make needed loans in its members. It is both a small loan company and a savings bank operated by and for the members—the FSU Faculty, staff and their families.

Membership is open and limited to persons working for the same employer, teaching or working at the same school. Each member is allowed one vote in the election of the officers who manage the association.

A chief function of the credit union is to lend ready cash to members for emergencies and worthwhile purposes, such as payment of medical bills, purchase of furniture, consolidation of bills, etc.

A credit committee, elected by the membership, sets loan policies and passes on all applications for loans. The typical interest rate is one percent per month on the unpaid balance. If a member can repay his loan faster than planned, the interest charges are reduced accordingly.

Each applicant pays 25 cents for a pass book then can pay as little as 50 cents every two weeks until $5 is accumulated at which time the individual is declared owner of one share. Every $5 thereafter is a share. Every shareholder has one vote; no matter how many shares he holds. There is no voting by proxy, so a member must be present.

If a member wishes to borrow money, he makes a loan application which is reviewed and acted upon by the Credit Committee. The loan is then elected at an organizational meeting March 15; will determine the maximum amount which can be borrowed on signature only.

No more than $200 may be borrowed on signature by law. The board will also determine the rate of interest, which usually is one per cent per month on the unpaid balance of the loan.

The earnings of the credit union are used to defray expenses, to set up a reserve fund against bad loans, and to pay dividends on savings accounts. Last year the average for the credit union in Florida was 4.33 per cent.

No rate can be assumed for it depends on the earnings and on the recommendation by the board and approval by the members.

The savings of members are protected by regular audits and annual examination by the state banking department. Furthermore since loans are made only to members, the borrowers have a strong sense of responsibility to the group, and losses on bad loans are exceptionally low.

Next: Why have credit unions and how do they operate?

From Page 1

Don Cossacks

try, and the Cossacks still have the reputation of being among the best choral groups to be heard in our concert halls.

During a Washington concert in the spring of 1948 President Truman presided and delighted the group of singers by going to the concert and even going backstage afterwards to congratulate Director Kostrukoff.

The Chorus offers a varied and colorful program that will interest every member of the audience. From haunting folksongs, boisterous regimental songs to ray peasant dances. They feature a speed dancer also. Many of their concerts are devoted to church music. One such concert was given before an audience of 10,000 in the Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris.

A selection on the program, 'The Credo by A. Gretchaninoff is the chant upon which the recent popular tune, "I Believe" was based.

Students may exchange their student activity tickets for a ticket to the performance. There will be no admission charge for students. Anyone wishing to go by bus should sign the list on either the women's residence hall's bulletin boards, the music building bulletin board, or the Public Relations Office

From Page 1

Staters Nominate

Freshman Class, and Sophomore class.

Offices open Tuesday, including vice-president of legislative affairs, chief justice of honor court, chairman of judiciary secretary of senate, editor of Tally-Ho, business managers of the three publications, chairman of URA and Sandspur producer.

Hurst Wins Award For Sculpture Entry

Mr. Ralph Hurst, instructor in the Arts Education Department here has just received a gold award for his entry in the Palm Beach Society of Fine Four Arts, according to officials.

Hurst's entry was the only winner in the sculpture division. The show was conducted jointly with the Lowe Gallery in Miami.

Hurst, who joined the staff of Arts Education Department in the spring of 1953, has received three awards for his sculpturing since September, it was learned.

A graduate of the University of Indiana, he has taught in California, Indiana, and Florida. His work has been shown in the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Morse Gallery, Indianapolis, and in the Chicago Arts Institute.

Analyst Positions Offered To Seniors In Social Science

Seniors with a major in social science who expect to graduate before August 30 according to the Placement Office may qualify as social science analysts.

Qualifications listed are 24 semester hours in one or not more than two of sociology, history, economics, geography, psychology, international relations, social welfare, political science, public administration, statistics, education or cultural anthropology.

"Social science analysts work as research assistants performing research on assigned problems. The vacancies exist in the various federal agencies in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee" said Glover E. Tully, director.

He announced that further information is available at the Office of Vocational Guidance and Placement, 203 Westcott.

Students Schedule Interview Meetings With Retail Firms

Students with "Liberal arts, scientific and business backgrounds," will be interviewed by representatives of four firms next week according to the Placement office.

On Tuesday Mr. John Spear of Rich's, Inc., Atlanta, will interview men and women interested in a career in retailing. On Wednesday, March 17, Mr. J. B. Wilkin of W. T. Grant Co. also of Atlanta, will interview men for its management training program.

Men and women with training in physics or mathematics will have an opportunity to talk with Mr. J. W. Dwyer of Sperry Gyroscope Co., Great Neck, N. Y., on Thursday, March 18. Also in the Placement Office on Thursday will be Mr. A. B. Robertson of Crawford and Co., Atlanta. Mr. Robertson will interview men with either a liberal arts or business background for positions as insurance adjusters.

Interested seniors and graduate students may schedule appointments with these recruiters by calling Ext. 3281 or by visiting the Placement Office.

Veteran Evaluation

Veterans who have not had an evaluation of their Military Service should bring a copy of their discharge or separation papers to Miss Glover, Registrar's Office, 102 Westcott Building during the hours from 8 to 12 and 1:30 to 5, Mondays through Fridays beginning March 15 and ending March 31.

Attention Girls!
Here's Your Chance for Cotton Dresses
Big Rack of
All New Spring and Summer Dresses
VALUES TO $14.98
Now $8.98
FRIDAY AND SATURDAY ONLY
SO HURRY ON DOWN
MAYERON'S
College at Adams

Today's Chesterfield is the Best Cigarette Ever Made!
"Chesterfields for Me!" Yvonne De Carlo
The cigarette tested and approved by 30 years of scientific tobacco research.
"Chesterfields for Me!" John Payne
The cigarette with a proven good record with smokers. Here is the record. Bi-monthly examinations of a group of smokers show no adverse effects to nose, throat and sinuses from smoking Chesterfield.
"Chesterfields for Me!" Robin Chandler
The cigarette that gives you proof of highest quality—low nicotine—the taste you want—the mildness you want.
Chesterfield KING CIGARETTES
Smoke America's Most Popular 2-Way Cigarette
CHESTERFIELD BEST FOR YOU
Copyright 1954, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

You'll Enjoy DANCING
to the QUINTONES
Every Saturday
Floridan Hotel

We Hope This Dream
Won't Come True
See the Free Lance

The Florida Flambeau

Qualifying Date Delayed
For State Party
See Page 1

VOL. XL, No. 38 PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA Tuesday, March 16, 1954

'Heiress' Begins Four-Night Run 8 P.M. March 19

Curtain Time 8:15; Principals Include Culpepper in Lead

The Florida State Speech department's production of The Heiress opens Friday, March 19 for a four-day run in Augusta Conradi theater. Curtain time is 8:15.

Principals of the production include Katherine Culpepper as heiress, Franklin Adams as Morris, the suitor; Robert Straine as the heiress' father, Friends of the family are played by Nancy Dickenson, Lloyd Kay, Barbara Graham and Barbara Waldron.

The Heiress is based on Henry James' book Washington Square. The story is laid in the period just preceding the Civil War and the costuming is essentially the same as the Civil War period.

Costume designer Douglas Russell faced an interesting problem: that of determining hoop sizes. Hoops were the order of the day, but these make difficult sledding for the set designer who had to arrange for three bulky styles.

Mr. Charles Reimer has taken care of the sets, with the help of the stage craft class.

Students may obtain reserved seat tickets beginning tomorrow and continuing throughout the run of the performance, March 19, 20, 22, 23, between 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. Seats are reserved, so that reservations ensure better seating. Students must present their activity card activity books when buying tickets.

IFC Slates Annual Weekend; Dance Features Sauter-Finegan

Topflight Band Slated To Appear In Suwannee Room From 9-12, April 2

The annual Intra-Fraternity Council Dance, slated for April 2 will feature the nationally acclaimed Sauter-Finegan Dance Band, according to Chairman Pinky Newlin.

The dance, each year one of the biggest on campus, is scheduled to last from 9 until 12 p.m. in the Suwannee Room, he added.

The Sauter-Finegan orchestra, organized in late 1953, achieved wide recognition in music circles almost immediately due to response of its first records, put out under the RCA-Victor label.

Beth Sauter and Finegan are noted for their unusual and imaginative arrangements. Sauter was responsible for many of Benny Goodman's famous arrangements, also writing for Artie Shaw and Woody Herman and other dance orchestras. Finegan wrote many of the musical scores used by Tommy Dorsey and the Glenn Miller Orchestra.

The band itself has 25 members, some capable of dance bands. A special percussion setup is composed of 12 different instruments. Sauter and Finegan explain that "We have included in the rhythm section unusual aside from the drummer, because we feel that percussions sounds are needed to punctuate and broaden the musical spectrum of our arrangements."

The two musicians sum up their band by saying that they concentrate on color and mood to give distinctive music. When they decided to combine their talents and form a band of their own, they signed a recording contract, sound-unheard by RCA-Victor.

Pinky Knowlin, chairman of the Intra-Fraternity Dance, credited Bob Rice with a large share of the credit for obtaining the band. "I do not want to take any credit for landing his nationally famous orchestra. Bob Rice made all the arrangements with the Sauter-Finegan Orchestra, and I am grateful for the fine job he is doing with the IFC Dance Committee."

Bill Finegan and Eddie Sauter

State Party Has 2nd Convention Tonight At 7:45

The second nominating convention of the newly organized State Party will take place tonight at 7:45 p.m. in the Science Lecture Hall, officials have announced.

"The State Party is here to stay," says Party Chairman Jack Hunter when questioned about the small turnout at last week's convention. "We're young and we've got a long road ahead but we're going to stay," he continued.

"I sincerely hope that all the campus groups take active interest in both parties. With the addition of the party system in campus politics, students body should become more aware of the advantages offered by such a system," states Hunter.

Last week's convention for the Democratic State Party met with only 19 delegations represented due to a misunderstanding regarding delegates, explained party officials.

Bill Stancik, secretary of election board, saved the deadline on the declaration time for political parties that the state party may hold another convention, they added.

Five offices, including student body president were filled last week, first of whether an in-chief of SMOKE SIGNALS was selected for that office.

Other candidates elected include Gordon Gaster, men's vice-president; Jean Ann Hunter, women's vice-president; Bob Rice, Smoke Signals editor; and Orchid Aleo, Alligator business manager. All on the 50th.

The party will not attempt to fill all the offices for the purpose of having a full slate, but will hold their second convention to offer qualified candidates an extended opportunity to run for office and gain experience, Stancik son, party secretary.

Offices open for nomination include chairmen and managers for the three publications; editor of Talla-Hassee, Florida Blueprint, URA chairman; vice-president of legislative affairs; chairman of legislative affairs; chairman of the public relations; and secretary of the honor court.

The State Party platform calls for more understanding of the relationship between the administration, increased student participation in self-government affairs, and more school spirit, they report.

The convention announced that all campus organizations have been notified by mail to send delegates to the convention last night. "We'd like to see 100 per cent representation there," he added.

Student Body Week Begins; Cabinet Meets

Student Body Week got under way yesterday at 4:30 p.m. with a cabinet meeting in the Senate room and in the Trafic Court room, revealed Milton Carruthers, president of the Florida State University Student Body. Carothers said these meetings are open to the Student body and urges students to attend.

The week was designed to better school spirit and to aid students in meeting candidates for the 15 open offices. Election for these offices will be March 31 with final balloting following on the 30th.

Tomorrow at 5 Men's senate will meet with the women's while Women's senate meets in the senate room. The Student Government Week Seminar will be held in the Louisiana Auditorium on Thursday at 8 p.m. The seminar will be opened with a talk by Mr. Fred Veal on "Citizenship Training via Student Government." It will be a discussion of the newly proposed honor system.

Guest speakers will be June Conyers who will talk on the honor system, Dave Hamlet and Bill Stancik who will speak on election procedure. The seminar will be closed with a panel discussion. Milton Carothers, actins as moderator, has asked that all prospective candidates for the offices of the students government president and the three vice presidents serve on the panel.

Delegates for the Southern Intercollegiate Association of Student Governments Convention will register on Friday and load the campus from 8 to 12 a.m. that day. Lunch will be served in the Longmire Lounge.

Saturday Student Government Week will end with a convention of the Southern Intercollegiate Association of Student Governments.

ALPHA XI DELTA

New members of Alpha Xi Delta national social sorority have been announced by sorority officials.

They are: Claudette Carley, Marygrove Hall; Shirley Cobb, Beth King, Connie Rodabaugh, Virginia Vaughn, Mary Will Davis, Jane Hamlet and Barbara Hughes. Marjorie Tindell, Eleanor Reid, and Patsy Wyatt.

Don Cossack Chorus Presents Acclaimed Musical Program

Tonight the Leon High School Auditorium opens its doors to the Don Cossack Chorus, the last Artist Series presentation of the year.

Divided into three parts with two intermissions, the program will range through liturgical music of the Greek Orthodox Church, Russian folk melodies and regimental Cossack songs.

The chorus will wear costume throughout the concert.

Herald is throughout the country, the Don Cossacks are noted for their unusual renditions such as Gabriel Solofsky's wild dance dance. It begins on a sad jilt of a peasant song and concludes in a wild dance of jubilation with the entire chorus providing vocal accompaniment.

Ever since the Cossacks began touring some 12 years ago they have received acclaim. Organized in Prague, Czechoslovakia in 1937, they came to America in 1940 bitterly against Fascism and Communism. The current season is the 15th anniversary of trans-continental concerts.

When the group was in Washington, D. C., Harry Truman then President of the United States, came back stage and congratulated them on their efforts.

Tickets are $1.50 and 50 cents for the director, Nicholas Kostrukoff Kostrukoff, and $1.00 and $2.00 for all others.

Tonight and tomorrow night will be the choir's only appearances in Tallahassee. Each concert begins at 8:15 p.m.

SIASG Sets FSU As Site In Annual Meet

The Southern Intercollegiate Association of Student Governments will hold its annual convention here Friday and Saturday, local spokesmen said yesterday.

The convention, titled "Why Student Government" will bring to Florida State University women from around the southern Southern schools and Universities. Sixty or seventy delegates will attend as representatives of women's student governments from all over the South, the spokesmen noted.

Wives of group will in Washington, D. C., Harry Truman then President of the United States, came back stage and congratulated them on their efforts.

Tickets are $1.50 and 50 cents for the director, Nicholas Kostrukoff Kostrukoff, and $1.00 and $2.00 for all others.

Tonight and tomorrow night will be the choir's only appearances in Tallahassee. Each concert begins at 8:15 p.m.

Candidates File Cash Estimates With Committee

Stancik Announces Deadline Extension For State Nominees

Prompt filing of declaration of candidacy statements by State party candidates nominated tonight and adherence to guidelines in the forthcoming Student Body elections were stressed by Elections Secretary Bill Stancik yesterday.

Stancik announced that candidates nominated by the State Party at its convention tonight should fill out the required statements and turn them in to the Elections Secretary by the end of the convention.

According to the Student Body elections statute, deadline for filing declarations of candidacy was yesterday at 5 p.m. The rules have been waived, partly because the State Party was unable to nominate a full ticket of candidates at its convention Wednesday.

The official start of active campaigning at 8 this afternoon is expected to be heralded by a flood of campaign posters and handbills, authoritative sources said.

Stancik added that expense estimates are due from all candidates by 5 p.m. tomorrow at 211 in the Student Government office, Bill Stancik, Elections Committee," Stancik added.

The elections statutes reveal that candidates for Student Body President are limited to expenditures of 50 dollars; vice-presidents, 40 dollars, candidates for chief justice, and vice-presidents of women's and women's affairs, 35 dollars; and all other major offices, $25.

The statutes define "cash expenditures" as "the spending of money by a candidate or the spending of money by other persons in his behalf. For the purpose of campaigning for office."

Versatility Keynoted In Heiress As Actors Run Through Roles

By DAVID DREIS

When The Heiress opens in the Conradi theater on March 19, students and the general public will be able to get a 'new' idea of the versatility of the Department of Speech's actors.

For instance, Katherine Culpepper who has the title role of the heiress Catherine Sloper, is only a freshman yet has summer stock acting behind her. Many of her friends call her, portrayed the embittered mother of Juliet in the last department production, "Romeo and Juliet."

Franklin Adams, known throughout the campus for his many art displays and poster designs, portrays the gold-digging suitor of the heiress, but that's not the full story. This is the first time that Franklin has played a romantic lead. Since arriving in this campus, his roles have consisted of bungling old men as in "The Taves of Falstin" and "The Torchbearers" and the role of kindly Friar Lawrence in "Romeo and Juliet." Adams is a former actor in the Alexandria Little Theater and is a member of Les Jongleurs, dramatic honorary.

Robert Straine, the "John Gielgud of FSU," is again playing a straight role. Straine, who has been active on the stage since he was cast as Petrucio in "The Taming of the Shrew" and Mercutio in "Romeo and Juliet" portrays the harsh, shrewd father of the heiress whose pleas to his daughter go in vain.

Straine was one of the actors chosen to play opposite the Broadway star, Doris Dallon in Speech Department's "Biography" two years ago.

Nancy Dickenson, one of the mainstays of Les Jongleurs, has a very interesting role in The Heiress playing the close friend of the family. Ever since the freshman year, Miss Dickenson has been active in the city-campus production of "Our Town." Nancy has been an active participant in the dramatic productions. For Romeo and Juliet she collaborated on costumes with Douglas Russell, instructor in costuming, and had a large part in the three.

Lloyd Kay is one of the most active of the Speech Department's

(Continued on Page 4)

News Briefs

ANNUAL DANCE LESSONS

Cotillion Cavalier, social dance sorority and fraternity held their annual dance lessons this Thursday evening at 7:30 in the Student Center. Students are welcome to learn different techniques in fox-trot and lindy-hop.

A joint meeting of the two dancing clubs will be held at 9 in the Trophy Room Thursday night preceding the lessons. This is a compulsory meeting and roll call will be taken.

CANTERBURY CLUB

Rev. Tom Byrne, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal church in Panama City will be the speaker in the Lenten series at Ruge Hall. He will speak tomorrow evening following the 7:45 Evening Prayer service at Ruge Hall.

A&P PICNIC

Alpha Kappa Psi will have a picnic at the home of Frank Shaw, Medigan Plantation, Thursday evening, March 18 from 6 to 8 p.m. This event will conclude the Rushing Period for this year. All male student majoring in the School of Business of the Department of Home Economics who are interested in meeting the sorority or in rushing are cordially invited to attend this picnic. Those desiring transportation should meet at 6:45 p.m. in front of Westcott where there will be a motorcade.

THETA CHI ELECTS

Al Shuler, junior, was recently elected president of Theta Chi social fraternity here. It was announced yesterday. Shuler will begin serving with Tally Ho as business manager.

Other officers are: Vice-president, Walter Wilson, Secretary, Charles Allen, treasurer, Claude Schafer; pledge trainer, John Matthews; historian, Tom Woodward; Chaplain, Charles Cunningham; and chaplain, Kermit Kindred.

GRADUATE CLASS

Robert Ringer, Randy Carothers, Jim Peek and Harold Moreland will be the guest speakers for the Graduate Class Luncheon to be held Thursday, March 18 at 1 p.m. The topic of discussion will be Generations.

All mature and graduate students and faculty members may attend these weekly "Dutch-Treat" luncheons held every Thursday in the South Seminole Dining Room.

CHILD DEVELOPMENT

"Adoption of Children" will be the subject considered at the Child Development Forum, scheduled for 7:30 p.m. today in the student lounge, Longmire.

Miss Cornelia Wallace of Jacksonville, associate director of case work for the Children's Home Society will be the speaker.

FACULTY WIVES DANCE

"Faculty Wives of FSU" will hold a dance Saturday from 8 to 12 in the Suwannee Room," Mrs. Richard Joel announced. "Dames and Husbands will be guests and will be given free tickets at the door." Faculty couples will be charged $1.25 and the dance will be informal. Music will be furnished.

League Plans Annual Confab For Composers

The Florida Composers' League, will hold its annual convention here Thursday through Saturday.

The group's president, Dr. Howard Wilson, is a faculty member of the school of music.

Several full programs featuring works by Florida composers, will be presented in Opperman Music hall which will serve as the meeting for the convention.

Friday and Saturday, will offer a program of vocal and of music for public schools, for radio and television. Dr. Ernest Schelle, of the studio teacher and for orchestra and chorus. Solo and ensemble work will be offered Saturday upon both days. Thursday will be given over to registration and informal meetings.

Dr. Halsey Stevens, composer and teacher at the University of Southern California, will be guest consultant for the convention. Two of Stevens' orchestral works and three of his choral pieces will be performed during the three days of the convention. He will serve as a judge for state-wide composition contests.

Dr. Ernest von Dohnanyi, FSU's "maestro" of piano, will be made an honorary member of the league, as a climax of the convention, Saturday night.

Composers will play their own works as much as possible, but Dr. Wilson has made arrangements with assist in the presentation of ensemble works. Assisting will be the University Symphonic orchestra, the University Symphonic Band, University Brass Ensemble and Demonstration High School Chorus.

FSU Litterbug Campaign Gets Underway; Awards Offered

By STAFF WRITER

"Stop the Car Mike . . . Charlie just threw some paper out the window."

Such strange commands may be heard often in the near future as cars if sponsors of a now-in-progress statewide Litterbug campaign ride the highways and byways roughly define a Litterbug as one who leaves trash, paper and other refuse along the road, the information desk in Westcott by Pinky Mayo, Pelot asked that all entries have the name, address and department division of the contestant on the back. The only requirement is that they should be drawn around the theme, "Don't Be a Litterbug."

"The judges will announce the winners a week after deadline, after which the city-wide contest will be held among the winning entries from each of the colleges. Each winner may either use his old poster or draw a new one."

In connection with the FSU contest, the city-wide contest will

(Continued on Page 6)

Publication Presents Necessity For Coverage Of Maladjusted

By BOB GUTTING

"The Peakes Murder," a booklet recently written by Dr. Sidney Kobre of the School of Journalism and Mrs. Alice Hagood, a graduate of the School of Nursing, shows the need for better coverage in the field of mental cases and maladjusted persons.

The booklet, currently being distributed to instructors of journalism, newspaper men and psychiatrists, tells the story of coverage given the Peakes murder-suicide by a Jacksonville newspaper.

Bayard Peakes, mentally deranged, killed Eileen Fahey, a nurse-patient in the hospital, on an office at Columbia University-Presbyterian Medical Center. The reason given for the slaying was the refusal of scientists to seriously accept evidence of telepathy.

In covering this story, the New York Times concentrated on the Veteran's Hospital angle, Hagood and Kobre point out. Only at one time was the patient in Veteran's hospital, the Times, through stories and editorials, emphasized that the hospital was at fault for allowing him to be released.

The New York World-Telegram and Sun's treatment of the case was studied next. On the whole it was more fair than the New York Times.

The New York World-Telegram and Sun carried on page one the complete story of Judge Strelitz's examination that, free killers like Peakes. He denounced the lack of competent mental patients and cited eleven cases in addition to Peake's in which such cases had been given. Another development of Peaks' case, though it had been given by the New York Times or the Associated Press.

The New York Mirra Parks covered five newspapers over a period of two months in preparing the study. Only one reporter, in all material covered outside of the Jacksonville newspapers terms as they appeared in the Times.

According to Dr. Kobre, the handling of the Peakes case seems to be a great advancement over the handling of crimes when a few years ago. Dr. Kobre said that it is quite possible that one faster in the change in approach to crime news from "sensationalism" to

(Continued on Page 6)

Peace Talks Are Main Theme Of Russia's Anti-American Line

(Last in a series of six articles published in the Florida Flambeau by a student editor who visited Soviet Russia.)

By DEAN SCHOOLCRAFT

FACE!—The talk in Russia today is of peace.

We heard it everywhere we went. This is the time. The Russian people are tired of war. Even in the last war, Their homes and villages were leveled. Many of their friends and relatives were killed and crippled. And so they want peace, they say.

They think the American people want peace, too, and they believe that "war mongers" control the government.

They say President Eisenhower does not really set policy but is "a tool of the monopolists."

Anatoly Krasilevich, 25, an engineering student at Moscow University, told me he doesn't think there will be a war between the United States and Russia for five or six years.

"It will take America that long to get ready after your losses in the Korean war," he said. "But there will never be a war unless the United States attacks Russia."

We were repeatedly asked why the United States has built up a network of air bases around the Soviet Union. The Russians are convinced that these will be used to launch an "aggressive war."

When we asked students why Russia keeps the largest standing army in the world, we were told it is for defense purposes only. One interpreter told us that Russia does not have any long-range bombers—only fighters for defense.

Other interpreters emphasized their stories similarly.

Along with the words about peace, Soviet leaders have been carrying on an extensive program of anti-American propaganda. We could see evidence of it everywhere. Posters in the factories and schools depicted Uncle Sam as a fat capitalist warmonger, gnawing on his arms.

(Continued on Page 6)

Sigma Theta Plans Meet To Discuss National Affiliation

The important question of affiliation with a national journalism fraternity will be discussed at the meeting of Sigma Theta Phi, PRSU professional journalism club Thursday night.

The discussion, of which Warren Cook is president, will meet at 4:00 Longmire at 7 o'clock. Information relative to the standards which have to be met before Sigma Theta Delta Chi has been received and will be thoroughly explored. The meeting of Sigma Delta Chi has been received and will be thoroughly explored. The meeting of Sigma Delta Chi has been received and will be thoroughly explored.

In addition to Cobb, other students recently elected to office were Ben Hogan, vice-president, Jean Sullivan, secretary, and Margaret Horrox, treasurer. Business of the club pertains to journalism or have a minor or double major in journalism are invited to join.

Others interested in journalism, including those in management, radio and public relations and television, are urged to attend the meeting and join in full program of speakers, cultural meetings and social affairs is being planned.

Odham Club Opens Extensive Program In Surrounding Area

Florida State University Odham for Governor Club launched an all-out campaign last Saturday in Dade County, according to club spokesmen.

"This was the beginning of a program of activities that the campus club to several surrounding counties in the remaining weeks before the election.

Speaking a few hours in Crawford County, Odham spoke to Pansees. St. Marks and Woodville where they engaged in Leon County Headquarters in their downtown office.

NOTICE.

University Senate will convene at 4 p.m. Tuesday instead of the regular time of 4:30, according to Dave Lawler, Student Body Vice-President.

Long, How Long, America?

Long, how long, America?

How long will you listen to the absurd rattlings of a publicity seeker carried away with his own success?

Many people have been misguided by the Senator from Wisconsin for four years now. They have been led to believe that what was a comparatively mild rash was instead a virulent disease. Those who tried to expose the fraud of this sensation-seeker and his entourage have been smeared, defeated in elections, ruined in business and in numerous ways ridiculed by a public that should have been thanking them.

But it seems now that few can escape the truth: the Senator has fought for himself and no one else. It is too much to swallow to believe that Joe McCarthy can be a blatant liar at one point but be a virgin-pure truth-teller most of the time.

Perhaps McCarthy realizes the jig is about up. Perhaps that is why he has become louder and more sensational each day. It is unlikely that the peace-makers, the issue-dodgers and the weaklings even within his own party will countenance his latest attack on the army.

Secretary of the Army Stevens is trying to blackmail him, says McCarthy. Stevens wants him to stop finding Communists in the army and start looking for them in the other services.

This latest product of Senatorial imagination follows the report of the army that: Co-investigator Roy Cohn had threatened Stevens the army would "wrecked" and Stevens "through" if recently drafted investigator David Shine were sent overseas. McCarthy had repeatedly requested the army to treat Shine like other soldiers—BUT leave him in the New York area to work with McCarthy.

Could it be that these latest noises are not war-whoops hut death-rattles? Long, how long, America?

Strength in Platform, Qualifications

That the newly formed State Party did not fill a complete slate of nominees at their last week's convention is certainly no sign of failure. Prohably they will not complete the slate tonight in their second convention, hut the candidates chosen will not be mere names on the ballots in a few weeks.

Too many students seem to feel that a party nomination requires only putting their name under a label on the ballot. The point should be hrought out that parties are not merely a reasonable assurance of support for its candidates, but a responsibility of the candidates as well.

Parties should not seek to fill a slate merely to have a list of names under their banner. If the State Party slate is incomplete it should not cause disfavor, because the strength of a second party lies not in the number of candidates it puts before the student body in its infant stages, but in its platform and the qualifications of the people who are selected to run on its ticket.

The two-party system on campus will be the results of however much effort the student body will put forth to support the progress of both parties.

"I'd Have Said To Those Reds, 'Now, See Here! . . . .'"

Dear Mama Seminole

Dear Mama Seminole:

Big hrave McCarthy show greater tongue than critics. Nation love big muscled "be man" approach. McCarthy real leader in public eye, whether in truth or not. Ike's hi-partisanship hreaks own when comes to deal with "Red Chaser."

Georgie hope hi-partisan leader come from student election and from DSW office for coming year. Student sit in bull session, say down with wheels, say wheels no fair, say wheels dis-honest. Wheels sit in bull session, say student not trustworthy, say student dis-honest, say student not understand.

Me readum on plank where student and wheel have joint hull session. Me think plank made good base for building.

Me hear from reservation that chief in big state tepee make hig decoy so real duck slip in under fence.

Some day politician find that female figure buy more votes than same weight in kick-back gold.

Georgie would like message from mama or anyone else on reservation. Georgie write mucb better when mama answers.

Love All,
Georgie Seminole

THE POINT IS

ROTC Matter Resume Demonstrates Majority Of Problems Yet Unsettled

By BOB FOLSOM

Florida State University will have compulsory ROTC next September.

The proofs of the University Catalog for 1954-55 describes the ROTC requirements and lists exemptions If the student can get a copy, look on pages 27 and 239—it's all there. Those pages should answer any questions concerning the requirements and exemptions.

Compulsory ROTC seems set, and September's Freshmen are in for a treat Yet there are questions that remain unanswered concerning compulsory ROTC at FSU, and seemingly no one is attempting to answer them. The questions will be asked here.

First, a rehash of FACTS are necessary in order to clearly align things and that the student may be brought up to date. These facts have appeared in the March 5 and March 9 issues of THE FLOR-

The story first broke in the March 5 issue, when the Student Senate appointed a committee consisting of Senators Roy Chapman Duane Gordon, Jim McCauley and Frank Shaw, with the latter as chairman, to investigate a rumor that ROTC was to be made compulsory at FSU The possibility that ROTC was to be compulsory arose from a news story appearing in the February 26 issue of the Tallahassee Democrat entitled "ROTC Program Is Described." Said the story in part "Qualifications for advanced training are higher than for the basic program which is compulsory for all male students at FSU."

At presstime Thursday, March 4, the Flambeau had been unable to obtain any official confirmation. Neither Air Force or Army officials would comment on it. Unofficially, this paper was able to learn that the measure had been approved by the Executive Council, composed of the deans of the university and other administrative officers

On March 8, the chairman of the Student Senate committee to probe the matter told the Flambeau he had not uncovered anything new. The Flambeau in turn sent a reporter to Vice-President Martin, who confirmed the rumor. The confirmation story appeared in the March 9 issue.

Vice-President Martin said in part "The Executive Council ruled on the matter of compulsory ROTC training a couple of months ago" Further down, the story said the Executive Council in a special session October 12, 1953, ruled to make ROTC compulsory next school year.

Here again we quote the March 9 story: "When asked why Faculty Senate did not consider the approval of compulsory ROTC. Dr. Martin stated, 'It's my opinion that they don't rule on matters of this type It's an administrative matter

"The Faculty Senate," he commented, "was not asked to approve ROTC when the programs were first brought to the FSU campus."

That, in a nutshell, brings the story up to date (Editorial comment on this matter will be found in the March 5 and March 12 issues)

Now Dr Martin said the Faculty Senate was not consulted because "it's an administrative matter" The FSU constitution, the basic legislation of the university, as approved by the State Board of Control, depending on any one man's interpretation, seems to be in conflict with this statement. The constitution reads as follows:

THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL — Function The functions of the Executive Council shall be to cooperate with the President in putting into effect regul[illegible] adopted [illegible] the Board of C[illegible] regulations and by-laws adopted by authorized legislative bodies of the University [illegible] po[illegible] may be de[illegible] [illegible] the Faculty Senate [illegible] serve as a cabinet to the President to advise with him in matters of administration and to consider and de[illegible] administrative questions [illegible] to [illegible] to [illegible] un[illegible] con[illegible] be[illegible] tween meetings of the General Faculty and Faculty Senate such legislation to be in effect only until it can be submitted to the Faculty Senate for final action, t[illegible] have full [illegible] character referred t[illegible] by the President (emphasis [illegible])

FACULTY SENATE Jurisdiction The Faculty Senate is the basic legislative body of the University, subject to such limitations as may be placed upon it by the Board of C[illegible] No general legislation affecting teachers or students of more than one major instructional unit shall be effective unless passed or approved by the Faculty Senate. However the Senate may delegate [illegible] wer of legislation upon a per[illegible] to any of the other [illegible] es, or to a standing or special committee

If the statement does not conflict with the constitution it then raises the following questions:

1 Shouldn't there be clarification on just what matters are classified as administrative and non-administrative?
2. What does "general legislation" mean?
3 What does "major instructional unit" mean?
4 Shouldn't the jurisdiction of the Faculty Senate, as pertains to our above emphasis, be clarified instead of remaining cloudy as it seems to be right now?

Let's move on to another point The March 9 story revealed that the Executive Council ruled their decision last October 12. There cannot be much said about that, except it was obviously a good hush job We hope no denials are forthcoming, if so, why wasn't the word released officially before March 8? Why was it hushed up in the first place? We can offer an answer to that. Just before the story was published in this paper a university official asked the Flambeau not to print anything on it for fear it would hurt next year's enrollment.

So far we have dealt with the manner in which this whole affair has been handled. Look at the facts as they have been presented above. Simple when in black and white. The facts speak for themselves as they always do.

Now let us deal with the subject as it effects the student and the university. We won't attempt to pick at each corner, we intend to try and hit only the high spots, and foremost, to present it clearly.

FSU can be written off as the last state-supported institution which did not advocate compulsory ROTC. No one has given the student any choice in the matter Perhaps he is not supposed to get a choice. Either he attends one of the state-supported schools—which are the more reasonable schools, tuition-wise, and appeal to students in that sense—and takes ROTC, or he has to go to an out-of-state school where there is no compulsory ROTC. The choice of schools, though, is left up to him.

The great state of Florida isn't breaking out with colleges and universities. Count them and compare that number with the number in many other states close by; very likely you will find Florida behind.

ROTC is unpopular here. The small enrollment in the program will bear that out. Yet something is made compulsory which has only a small enrollment emphasizing the lack of interest shown in it by male students.

In the same light, using forceable means is not always the best way, certainly not in a college, where students should be taught to discipline themselves on their own accord.

Each eligible person will receive his military training The Selective Service program will see to that. But the student who wants to be an officer in the armed forces may take ROTC. He is entitled to that. And the student who does not want ROTC may be drafted or eventually join as a dogface. He is entitled to that.

We have actually pointed out what we hope everybody should have known by now, but, also, in the hope that all people will give more nourishing thought to this whole matter. This ROTC matter can still be passed off as lightly as it was kept hushed up. If that is done, it will only show more clearly that there are always two sides to everything—like the sole on a shiny shoe—even at a university.

AT THE LIBRARY

Irish Display To Feature St. Patrick's Observance

By FLORENCE PAYNE

What could be more appropriate for this week than a St. Patrick's display arranged by a librarian named Murdock?

Miss Murdock, whose parents were born and raised in Ireland, visited friends and relatives on the Emerald Isle last summer and brought back travel folders and pictures of Ireland.

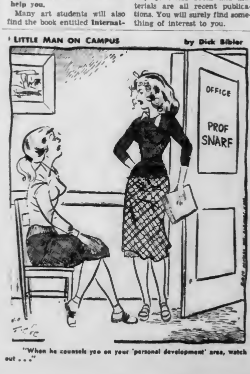
These folders will be on display in the reserve room for several days. They are well worth a few moments of your time. Anyone interested in additional information about the folders or Ireland will find Miss Murdock on duty in the reserve room.

Maps of Ireland may be found in the maps room. Miss Audrey, librarian in charge of the maps room, has an outstanding collection of state, national and world maps. This map collection is constantly growing.

Also of interest this month is the maps section display of old Florida maps. In honor of Florida's admission to statehood in March, 1845, seventeenth century maps of the state are being featured. These maps are but a small part of the library's collection of maps of this area before it became a state in 1845. Other maps of Florida may be consulted in the maps room.

If it is Irish art, pictures or costumes you are interested in, Miss Kozak in the arts reference room will be able to help you.

Many art students will also find the book entitled International Window Display of interest. This book deals with an international survey of the art of window display with special sections on interior display.



If you have a reference question on the geography, history, economy or culture of Ireland (or any other country) ask in the reference room to see Rand McNally's World Guide. In this compact volume, all the important places of the world are described in detail and accompanied by numerous photographs and maps of major cities. The World Guide brings together information on the geography, history, economy and culture of each country and its major cities, towns, and physical features. The World Guide is arranged by countries and continents.

The reference room also has a collection of telephone directories for the convenience of the students. You will always find a reference library on duty at the reference desk to answer any questions you may have.

In the documents room you will find a large collection of state, national and international documents. These documents will be of special interest to those students and faculty doing research papers.

When you enter the library take time to browse through the books and other items on display. These books and materials are all recent publications. You will surely find something of interest to you.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS — by Dick Bibler

"When he counsels you on your 'personal development' area, watch out . . ."

THE FREE LANCE

Out Of The Nightmare, Into The Fire

By BRUCE GALPHIN

I was startled awake by bugle blasts. I glanced at the alarm clock. I was supposed to have another hour and fifteen minutes sleep, but some idiot was tooting away, loudly and persistently.

I stumbled from my bed to see who was guilty of the deed. As soon as I appeared in the doorway, a uniformed figure hustled me down to the fourth floor lounge. "Fall in," he shouted!

"What is this?" I demanded, still foggy with sleep. "Looks like a military formation."

"That's right, buddy," said the uniformed figure. I noticed he had three stripes. "He's a sergeant," I decided with all the cunning of one recently aroused. "Look, sergeant," I said, "what is all this?"

"We're setting this campus up like a military base," said the non-com impatiently. "This ain't West Hall no more. This here's Company B."

Well, that woke me up quickly enough. Isn't this rather sudden?" I asked.

"Nah," he grunted. "We've been planning this for months."

"Now look here," I yelled. "I've got rights. I'm a senior."

"A senior? Oh well, you're not affected. You can go back to sleep, buddy."

"Gee, thanks," I mumbled.

To the accompaniment of drilling and snapped orders outside my window I dressed slowly. Things really happen fast around FSU, I mused.

When I arrived (only five minutes late) for my 8 o'clock class, there was a note on the door. "Closed for reorganization," it read. "Well, I really could have had some sleep today if that * bugle hadn't shaken me awake," I thought.

But since I wasn't in bed, and since I have a little curiosity, even in the morning, I thought I would check with the registrar's office to see why there was no class. There was quite a crowd there for other classes had also been shut down. When I finally made my way to the counter, an assistant explained, "Orders from above. For the betterment of the school, we're ridding ourselves of 'politically minded' teachers."

"Isn't this rather sudden?" I asked "Oh no," she answered. "We've been planning this for months."

"Hmmm," I thought. "Glad I'm leaving after this semester. I can't think of a good teacher I've had here who wasn't politically minded. . . Things sure happen fast around FSU."

Since there were no classes that day and since I was already in the registrar's office, I decided to check on my credits for graduation.

"What school are you in?" the clerk asked.

"Arts and Sciences"

"I'm sorry, there is no such school any more. We've been planning that for months. Didn't you know? Now what is your major?"

"Mathematics," I replied weakly.

"Mathematics. That puts you in the College of Unapplied Business Arts. You have sufficient credits for graduation."

I wandered away in a daze, but suddenly I realized all this was news. I rushed for the Flambeau office. There were sounds of activity from within, but I couldn't get in. "Hey, let me in," I demanded.

A fat face puffing on a cigar stuck out of the door. "Whattaya want?"

"I want in. I'm editor" . . . "Editor of what?" . . "Why, The Florida Flambeau."

Boy, are you living in the past, buddy. Dis is called the TOM-TOM now. The School of Public Relations is running it. Didn't you know? We decided . . ."

"I know, you decided months ago"

Suddenly a noise awakened me. It was my alarm. It was 7:15. This had been a horrible nightmare. Happy with life I ran to the door and opened it.

"O K buddy," a voice growled. "Fall in"

THE SPECTATOR

On The Majority And The Machine

By WARREN COBB

A century ago John C. Calhoun stated the theory of concurrent majority rule in politics, and it has been a part of American political theory ever since. This is the theory that we are governed by shifting coalitions of minorities rather than by simple majorities.

It is becoming increasingly apparent in the present gubernatorial campaign that there is no clear concurrent majority and even the accredited prognosticators are at odds and ends as to how the shifting minorities will finally allign themselves.

In most campaigns in the past there have been definite indications during the course of the campaigns as to the final results. In 1940 Holland had a narrow but consistent lead throughout over Whitehair; in 1944 Caldwell was heavily favored over the runner-up with the string tie and the scattered rural support, Lex Green; in 1952 the concensus of predictions supported Dan McCarty over Brailey Odham. The exception was the 1948 battle between McCarty and Fuller Warren.

But there seems to be no favorite in the present conflict between Collins, Odham and Johns.

Each candidate has apparent advantages and handicaps, but at this stage of the campaign there is little agreement in the assessment of these assetts and liabilities.

"The senator from Tallahassee" (as Odham generally refers to Collins) has an impressive record as a legislator, is a formidable speaker, and has the nucleus of the Dan McCarty support behind him; on the other hand, he started his campaign from a position of comparative state-wide obscurity in the face of two well organized factions.

Brailey Odham, Sanford businessman, began campaigning from a position of strength due to prestige gathered in the campaign against McCarty in '52; his political organization, already established, was easily rehabilitated on short notice. On the unfavorable side, the novelty of his "talkathons" has worn off and less "dollars for decency" are coming in.

Charley Johns has the facilities of the office to wield in his campaign, and this is a potent factor. Collins has referred to Johns' OPA—"Oh, Promise Anything"—administration, but it is undeniably true that patronage is power. Yet Johns has to overcome the unpleasant repercussion of his "spoils system" and the stigma attached to a state machine.

V. O. Key, Jr., author of Southern Politics, points out that the Florida political structure is an amorphous one—i.e., there is no state factional organization but rather a diversity of interests and factions that discourages the formation of such state machines. There have been no Crumps and Pendergasts in Florida.

As Allen Morris, political columnist, has observed, this multifactionalism has produced "a boss-less democracy with no individual actually able to claim much for himself as a kingmaker."

Identification with a state machine, whether actual or hypothetical, has been an Achilles heel for many gubernatorial candidates in the past. Warren identified McCarty with what he dubbed "the Caldwell Machine" and surprised a lot of people in 1948. Ernest Graham was identified with the incumbent administration in 1944 and eliminated in the first primary.

All three candidates in 1952 avoided the Warren support as though it were leprous.

This factor could make severe inroads on the Johns campaign. For he will be unable to dissociate himself from a "state machine."

Thomas Hobbes wrote that "reputation of power is power, but it draweth with it the adherence of those who need protection." Thus the Johns campaign will draw with it a large portion of employees on the state payroll.

But that is not a concurrent majority. And the shifting coalitions may very well allign themselves against entrenchment.

ETCETERA ETCHINGS

Public Loves Those Nasty Villains

By DAVID DREIS

It's pretty hard telling the villain from the hero these days as far as motion pictures are concerned. The last few films had me guessing and the audience seemed to favor the 'evil' one. . . but then again . . . who was he?

For instance, in the silent era of films, Lon Chaney received the most acclaim with his drastic make-up and evil expressions. The fans wouldn't take him as anything but a villain and he was typed in all his greatness

FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN was on the down-grade when he was cast as the villain in BEN HUR. RAMON NAVARRO, a newcomer, was given the hero's role and although Bushman's part was bigger and better, he took it as an indication he was slipping.

Bringing us up to date, one of the most intriguing villains is Jack Palance (balance) who snarled his way through Panic In the Streets and Shane. Palance also was the evil-doer in Sudden Fear as the conniving boy friend . . . this should've finished him, but Paramount studios are now casting him as hero in future epics. The first, a sloppy espionage epic showed Jack the fightenest, lovingest, smilingest hero you've ever seen. Good ole Jack. Anyway, when he was loaned to Fox this year, he made The Stranger Upstairs and he played (choke) Jack the Ripper.

Richard Widmark in Kiss of Death made his name as a dirty stinkin' rat who pushed an old lady in a wheelchair down a flight of stairs. Since then he's been working his way up to a misunderstood commanding officer (all the war epics have to have one). Now, he's the lovable, sweet hero who can save all.

Charles Laughton makes a mighty good badman although it's hard to picture him in a western where a badman flourishes. Anyway, he's been the evil emperor in Salome; the vicious Captain Bligh who made it rough on Gable in Mutiny On The Bounty; Henry VIII which merited Charlie the Oscar in the name picture and which caused for him to re-do a part of the role in MGM's recent Young Bess. Yes, he's been 'good' as a villain.

In the last film which showed in these parts MISS SADIE THOMPSON (a lot of people didn't like it, but it made most 'Best 10 lists') the audience couldn't tell for quite a while whether Jose Ferrer was good or bad . . . even after the picture ended some were in doubt. Jose played a religious 'fanatic' who almost made a convert, but killed himself before he was through. According to most critics of SOMERSET MAUGHAM'S RAIN from which the pic was adapted, the 'fanatic' was off his rocker.

Sheldon Leonard, the Broadwayish type of villain is one of my favorites. He's the gambler who gets tricks played on him by the stars—usually comedians. He reminds one of the Damon Runyon type of villian and has portrayed name characters in Runyon's Lemon Drop Kid with Bob Hope and Money From Home with Martin and Lewis. He likes playing a villain, but if he ever gets on the side of law . . . boy, that's the limit.

There are many badmen in Hollywood (no, not opinion) and many of them wouldn't trade their positions with anybody, but sometimes it's wise to let the audience get adjusted to the news that the crook in the last film (he blew up his mother) is now playing the father of four. Ah, sweet misery of life.

News Briefs

HOME EC MEET

A meeting of the council members of the Home Economics Club will be held Friday afternoon at 5 in room 204, Science Building.

JOURNALISTS MEET

Sigma Theta, new organization for journalism students, will meet Thursday evening at 7 in room 408, Longmire Building. National affiliation, social functions, proposed projects and new membership will be discussed.

Sigma Theta is open to all journalism majors who have an overall 1.0 academic average.

CHOW DOWN

Tentative plans for a supper meeting were made by the Student Nurses Association at its meeting last Tuesday. Committee chairmen were named and the election of officers was slated for the next regular meeting. It was decided to hold an annual banquet in April, near the time of Florence Nightingale's birthday, spokesmen revealed.

EPISCOPALS SELECT

The Canterbury Club has selected St. Catherine's Guild as the designation for the activities of Episcopalian women students. These activities will include those of a Workshop just organized, spokesmen said. They added that the workshop will be "to enable a selected group of students to prepare themselves for active service in the work of the church."

Students interested in the Workshop, which meets at Ruge Hall from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Tuesdays, are asked to contact Helen Whitmore, Pi Beta Phi house.

The Florida Flambeau

BRUCE GALPHIN—Editor

Al Pierce, News Editor — Bob Folsom, Managing Editor

Feature Editor ... Jayleen Robertson
Campus Editor ... Orchid Alonso
Sports Editor ... Ken Kingery
Rewrite Editors ... Oscar Johnson, Martin Dyckman
Sports Staff ... Art Kennerly, Bob Gutting
Photographer ... Dick Reuteler
Copy Editors ... Sylvia Parrish, Dick Victory, David Dreis
Photographic Editor ... Joe Caldwell
Junior Staff ... Dot Thomasson, Mary Elizabeth King, Tom Hall, Betty Bishop, Lona Cochran, Barbara Bachman, Joyce Potter
Art Consultant ... Franklin Adams

NANCY LOWE—Business Mgr.

Al Markovitz, Advertising Mgr.

Business Staff ... Mary Wogan, Virginia Vaughn, Joe Caldwell
Advertising Soliciting ... Members of Alpha Delta Sigma Gamma Alpha Chi
Exchange Editor ... Pat Robson
Exchange Staff ... Lil Haavind
Distribution ... Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity

Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Ave., New York 17

Telephone 2-8000, extension 4821
211, 213 Longmire Building

Member Associated Collegiate Press

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University. Member Intercollegiate Press.

From The Sidelines

By Ken Kingery

Flambeau Sports Editor

The Optimistic Irishman Says

We're 50 per cent improved over last spring." Head football Coach Tom Nugent seemed to like the play of his Seminole squad last Thursday night, in the Garnet and Gold battle. Betting on the Garnet squad, Coach Nugent was shocked to see former fullback in high school, Charley Jacobs snatch right down one of Harry Mosley's passes and sprint 55 yards for the last Gold TD.

With his last fall ineligible transfers in the game, Nugent penned the happiest ave their showing than the old reliable stand-bys. The main reason for this wasn't because they were so much better, but he was worried if they could give last year's startling lineup something to worry about.

One of the most surprising things at the start of the game was, pre-season favorite Blackmon being elected as Captain of the Garnet squad. Blackmon, a 190-pound 6'10" center from a junior college in Mississippi, played brilliant ball for the Garnets and he certainly is in the running for the starting center slot.

Yesterday the Seminole squad studied movies of the last game. This was the final word on who will start in the Miami clash in the Orange Bowl tonight. Before the movies were shown Coach Nugent was inclined to believe Tom Pendergast and Jimmy Lee Taylor will start at the ends. When asked how he was going to pick the guards out of so many good players Nugent said "Let me say that we have four scrapping guards and I don't know the answer, as Bill Jacobs and Freddie Cox have an edge in experience. They may start, but they won't play any more than Dale Bates and Steve Johnson. That Johnson was one of the roughest out there tonight (Thursday). Odell four, Johnson looks the best."

Due to the Tackle situation Bill Makowiecki is expected to start, but Don Powell and Jim Olsen will be very close behind. Lee Corso and Harry Massey will alternate in the quarterback slot. Behind him there will be Buck Metts, Billy Graham, and Ray Graham.

FSU will use two teams, with other players sprinkled in, against the Hurricanes tonight. "Our purpose is to find our team for next year and this game with Miami presents a marvelous opportunity" Nugent said.

Thirty-three Seminoles, 21 of them lettermen, left this morning.

High Netters Leave For Alabama

The newly crowned Florida AAU volleyball champs will leave for Birmingham, Alabama, where they will face Birmingham YMCA, on Thursday. Then they will travel to Memphis, Tennessee, to vie in the Mid-South Invitational.

RIGHTHALF STAN DOBOSZ PICKS UP FIVE YARDS around his own left end early in the second quarter of Thursday night's Garnet-Gold game. Billy Graham (37) brought him down as Perry Stocks (58) came up from behind to help. The Garnets failed to stop the Gold drive as Dobosz and Mercer led the way to the second Gold score with Leonard Swantic going over from the five on an end sweep.

FSU Indians Face Miami Canes In Orange Bowl Tilt Tonight

More than 20,000 fans are expected to gather in Miami's Orange Bowl tonight to watch a unique spring football game between Florida State University and the University of Miami. Kickoff time is 8 p.m.

The practice game, scheduled for one less than two weeks ago, provides a first-class opportunity for Coaches Tom Nugent of FSU and Andy Gustafson of Miami to get a solid line on what's in store for '54.

The novel arrangement will be complete FSU's 36-day spring practice period. Miami has several weeks to go.

Both Nugent and Gustafson have pronounced their teams "greatly improved" since Miami defeated FSU, 27-6, in a regular-season game in the Orange Bowl last September.

Today's games are on the heels of the announcement that FSU and Miami have signed for a three-year football series, to begin in 1955. The Seminoles and Hurricanes will meet next season.

Nugent, who said his Seminoles "look pretty good" after they rolled up nice touchdowns and 54 points in their annual Garnet and Gold intrasquad game last Thursday, sees the game as a wonderful chance to "find our team for next fall."

"We're 50 per cent improved over last spring," he said, "but I'll need to go another 50 per cent before we'll really be ready for 1954 schedule." FSU holds a 2-1 series edge over Miami, returning 22 of eligible transfers and recent high school graduates, coupled with 22 letter-winners, has boosted Seminole stock this spring.

Probably the most promising individuals this spring have been End Tom Pemaster, a 6-4, 245-pound giant, and Fullback Ray Mercer, a lightweight (180) but terrific ball-carrier. Pemaster and Mercer sat out last season after transferring from Wilkes and Mary and Auburn, respectively.

That surprising pair will be in the starting line-up against Miami, along with tackles Al Makowiecki and Bob Barber, guards Jerry Jacobs and Al Pacifico, center Bob Crenshaw, and End Jimmy Lee Taylor, quarterback Lee Corso, left half Buck Metts, right half Billy Graham.

READY FOR INVASION OF MIAMI'S ORANGE BOWL TONIGHT
Left to right: FSU Captains Bob Crenshaw, Lee Corso, Bob Barber, Charley Jacobs.

FSU Golfers Place Third At Deland

The Florida State Seminole golfers finished third in the four-team match held in DeLand last week. The Miami Hurricanes placed first with 24½ points. In the second place position was the Rollins Tars with 22 points, followed by the Seminoles with 18½ points. Stetson placed last with 7½ points.

BUNK BEERY, freshman standout for Florida State University, had a total of 282, under par to place second in the Florida Intercollegiate Golf Tournament.

The 72-hole course was won by Florida University's Pat Schwab. Pat had a 286, 22 under par, as the Gator team took all three first team places.

FSU's four man team placed fifth ahead of Rollins and Stetson. Miami was fourth.

Poor putting was the major cause for low scores by other FSU entries. Senior Jimmy Cannon runner-up in the 1953 Florida Intercollegiate had a 308. Ken Peterson finished with 314.

Gold's Outshine Garnets To The Tune Of 37-21

New Boys Mercer and Feamster Shine; Corso And Harper Show Great Improvement in the Quarterback Slot

For the benefit of 3,148 fans at Doak S. Campbell Stadium last Thursday night, the FSU football squad split into a Garnet and a Gold team, sparked by new-comer Ray Mercer proved a liftin too strong and fancy for the Garnet team, and scored a booming 37-21 victory.

Leading the ground-gainers that night was former Auburn fullback Ray Mercer. The modest little plunger totaled a total of 139 yards in 11 tries, with the longest scoring sprint of 89 yards added in.

NEWCOMERS SHINE

Almost completely stealing the whole show from the 'Old Boys,' were some more new-comers on the Seminole squad. Tom Feamster, giant 6'-7' 245-pound end from William and Mary, was continually brushing blockers aside to rack the Garnet backs for sizable setbacks.

Captain for the Garnet team was Berdette Blackmon, another new name on the Seminole roster, playing the center slot very ably until his slight head injury took him out of the game. Billy Graham, a transfer from Deland. Fla., where he played for Stetson University last fall, led the Garnet squad rushers with 64 yards in 4 attempts. Billy's average for rushing for the game was an unbelievably 16 yards. Lee Corso, Mercer's average while was about 18 yards.

Gene Corso and Jimmy Trado the two other new ones, who sparked in the battle, were considered to be the two Gold defensive side. Gene was the leading ground gainer with 46 yards in 7 carries.

"OLD BOYS NEVERTHER THAN EVER"

During the entire game Tom Pemaster, brother of his teammate from the preshow, leaving his able coaching staff to run it. He finished in the role of the Gold defensive star. Gene was the leading ground gainer with 46 yards in 7 carries.

"OLD BOYS NEVERTHER THAN EVER"

During the entire game Tom Pemaster, brother of his teammate from the preshow, leaving his able coaching staff to run it. He finished in the role of the Gold defensive star. Gene was the leading ground gainer with 46 yards in 7 carries.

Early in the third period, little Billy Odom put his hat in the scoring column with a 52-yard sprint. The Gold defense shut in and held the lost ball on down. Two plays later, Mercer opened a hole in the Garnet line, and with the aid of blockers, scored easily. Tom Pemaster threw several noticeable blocks and stayed with his teammate until he scored on the extra-point attempt.

Early in the third period, little Billy Odom put his hat in the scoring column with a 52-yard sprint. The Gold defense shut in and held the lost ball on down. Two plays later, Mercer opened a hole in the Garnet line, and with the aid of blockers, scored easily. Tom Pemaster threw several noticeable blocks and stayed with his teammate until he scored on the extra-point attempt.

As the Golds started to set sway from the surrendered Garnet 20 yard line, Mercer and Jerry Massey and Trado tried it again, this time for a surprising 36 yards resting the ball on the Gold's 20 yard stripe, and then another to the 14. Corso pulled his way around right end for the second Garnet Tally. They still trailed 18-14.

As the Golds started to set sway from the surrendered Garnet 20 yard line, Mercer and Jerry Massey and Trado tried it again, this time for a surprising 36 yards resting the ball on the Gold's 20 yard stripe, and then another to the 14. Corso pulled his way around right end for the second Garnet Tally. They still trailed 18-14.

Lee Corso, who played brilliant ball at the quarterback, strong and accurate passing throughout, was surprisingly arm for 47 yards into the arms of Buck Metts on the Garnet four. Dobosz then plunged over. Golds then led 26-14.

Harper directed the long drive to the Golds double stripe, and then climaxed it by a scoring 13-yard pass to end Stan Griffis The Golds tallied far ahead 31-14.

Little All-American Jimmy Lee Taylor, who was reported injured, snapped another Massey pass good for 54 yards and a TD. The trailing Garnets came up to threaten the Golds commanding lead. 31-21.

The very last ten minutes of the game, unheralded Charley Jacabs intercepted another Massey pass and scored at the end of the game. Charley one of the Captains in the Miami game tonight. In a very unsophisticated runner; he played fullback for the State Champion Miami Jackson Generals, Charley, underrated in many respects, will see one of his best seasons this year.

STATISTICS
Garnets	Golds
4 First Downs	11
1 By Rushing	8
3 By Passing	3
0 By Penalty	0
94 Net Yds. Gained Rushing	228
109 Yards Lost Rushing	15
199 Yards Gained Passing	163
94 Yds. Gained Total Offense	391
22 Passes Attempted	18
9 Passes Completed	8
1 Number Passes Intercepted By	1
32-8 Punting Average	37-4
1 Number Fumbles Lost By	0
0 Yards Penalized	0
0 Yards Penalized	0
1 Passes Intercepted By	4
0 Touchdowns	4
0 PAT	2
Final Scores	37

Score by periods:
GARNETS ..... 7 7 7 —21
GOLDS ..... 7 19 7 —37
Touchdowns scoring: Touchdowns: Green, Cox, Taylor, Pemaster after touchdowns: Massey 2.
Golds scoring: Touchdowns: Harper, Swantic, Mercer, Dobosz, Griffis. C. Jacobs. Point after touchdowns: Lowe 2.
Leading rushers: Garnets: Odom 4 carries for 52 yards, 13.0 carries for 52 yards. Golds: Mercer 11 carries for 139 yards, 12.6 carries for 139 yards.
Leading passers: Garnets: Massey 9 completed of 22 for 199 yards. Golds: Corso 4 of 11 for 116 yards.
Leading pass receivers: Garnets: Taylor 3 for 83, Massey 3 for 84.

Reynolds Diamonds
LeCoultre Watches
PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
MIAMI
161 E. Monroe St. Phone 3-1461

Intramurals

In the dormitory segment of the intramural basketball league, the fuss is all over. The dormitories and religious groups ended the season with Sexton Hall the only secular team that came through to be in the semi-finals with the Senior Hallers are the Newmanites, the Baptists, and the Methodists.

By the close of this week, the basketball standings run somewhat like this:

TEAM	RECORD
Phi Del	5-0
D. T. D.	3-2
K. A.	3-2
Theta Chi	3-2
Sigma Nu	1-3
Pika	1-3
S. A. E.	1-4
Sigma Chi	0-4
Kappa Sig	0-4

The Greek race is a lopsided one, with several surprise winning teams. As of Wednesday, March 3, the fraternity basketball standings run like this:

TEAM	RECORD
Phi Tau	4-0
Pi K Phi	3-1
S. P. E.	3-1
Lambda Chi	3-1
A. T. O.	2-2

The Dorm all dormitory league basketball standings run somewhat like this:

TEAM	RECORD
Baptists	4-0
St. Nic	3-0
Newman Cl	2-1
Methodists	2-1
Bebbie	1-2
T. E. P.	2-2
Osiorn	1-3
Penthouse	1-2
Tigers	0-4
Rebels	0-4

Good Careers Seen In Baking Industry

Student's majoring in Baking Science and Management at Florida State University were spoken to by executives of a national baking firm recently, according to department spokesmen.

H. W. Hovey and B. Glen Mackey of the Continental Baking Company, visiting the campus by invitation of the department, said that the baking industry offers some of the greatest opportunities for careers for young people in America today.

The two executives revealed that they came to FSU because "there are good careers open for well trained people in the baking industry and we wanted to talk to them." The FSU school is the only one of its type in the country.

They said that despite competition, baking "offers the most opportunity for a bright young person to start at a good salary and climb."

Sports For The Week

TODAY

FSU baseballers vs. Tallahassee Rebels (Florida International League) at Centennial Field at 3 p.m.; FSU footballers vs. Miami in Orange Bowl, Miami, 8 p.m.; FSU tennis team vs. Tampa at Tampa.

WEDNESDAY

FSU tennis team vs. Miami at Coral Gables.

THURSDAY

FSU baseballers vs. Georgia, East Campus diamond, 3 p.m.; FSU tennis team vs. Florida Southern at Lakeland; FSU volleyballers vs. Birmingham YMCA at Birmingham.

FRIDAY

FSU baseballers vs. Tennessee, East Campus diamond, 3 p.m.; FSU tennis team vs. Rollins in Winter Park.

SATURDAY

FSU baseballers vs. Auburn, East Campus diamond, 2 p.m. (Tennessee meets Auburn in final game of a twin bill); FSU golfers vs. Auburn at Tallahassee Country Club; FSU tennis team vs. Stetson at DeLand; FSU volleyballers in Mid-South invitational tournament at Memphis.

New Officers Name To Church Council

Two new officers for the Inter-Church Student Council at Florida State University, made up of students representing the various church groups on campus, have been announced by Sam Weil, university chaplain.

Richard Moorer will serve as president, Co Ann Bishop as secretary. Both students are juniors this year. They will represent Methodist and Baptist student organizations.

Active support of the university's annual Intelligent Faith Week, a traditional period for spiritual thinking and revitalization, is a major project of the council.

It also assists every year on the World Student Service Fund, an international student means of helping other students needing assistance.

Rooms For Rent:
Very desirable rooms and porch. Private entrance and bath. Also 1 apt. Cool, but wear. Available last of April. Reasonable. 712 W. Pensacola. Phone 2-5766

FSU Baseballers Face Pro Rebels Here Tonight 8P.M.

Florida State University opens its home baseball season here Tuesday night when the Seminoles meet the newest member of the Florida International League, the Tallahassee Rebels, in the first of a two-game exhibition series.

The game is set for 8 p.m. at Centennial Field. The second game of the series will be played March 26.

Tomorrow night's game will serve as a stiff warmup for FSU's three-game home stand against Southeastern Conference teams later this week. The Seminoles meet Georgia Thursday, Tennessee Friday, and Auburn Saturday.

Tennessee's Vols and Auburn clash in the first game of a Saturday afternoon double-header.

FSU will be a decided underdog against the Class B Rebels, who have taken rapid strides toward building a formidable club for their first FIL championship race. Manager Manager George's Rebels opened spring training a week ago.

In his only previous start against a professional team, Vitas walloped the Tallahassee Citizens, a Class D Alabama-Florida League entry, by 18-8. That was in 1951.

Try Quality Dry Cleaners For Expert
Special
1 Day Service
Pressing
Repairing
Altering
Pickup or delivery
Call 2-5097 215 W. College

FLORIDA
Last Times Today
"The Command"
IN CINEMASCOPE
With Guy Madison
Joan Weldon
Starts Tomorrow
FOR ONE WHOLE WEEK !
"How to Marry A Millionaire"
In CinemaScope
Starring
MARILYN MONROE
BETTY GRABLE
LAUREN BACALL
ADULT ADMISSION—60c

CAPITAL DRIVE-IN
Today and Tomorrow
Fred MacMurray
Vera Ralston in
"Fair Wind to Java"
Thursday Through Sat.
"Phantom From Space"
Plus
"Cow Country"
with
Edmond O'Brien
Bart MacLane

NOW SHOWING AT THE OUTDOOR
SOUTH OF CAMPUS ON MONROE
Today and Tomorrow
Kirk Douglas — Lana Turner
in
"The Bad and The Beautiful"
Thurs. Through Sat.
Jeff Chandler
Marilyn Maxwell
"East of Sumatra"
plus
Audie Murphy—Lori Nelson
in "Tumbleweed"

STATE
Tomorrow and Thursday
SPECIAL Sat. MIDNIGHT PROGRAM
"The Master of Ballantrae" with Errol Flynn
Plus
"Diamond Queen"
Fernando Lamas
Arlene Dahl
Friday and Saturday
"Jack McCall Desperado"
With George Montgomery

Come And Get It!
Best Food You Ever Tasted . . .
Fountain Delights . . .
Hamburgs, Chops, Chicken, Sandwiches,
For Such Low, Low, Prices!
ALL AT
THE MECCA
Copeland St. Just Off Campus

WEEK-END GOLFER . . . OR TITLE HOLDER
THESE CLUBS WILL SAVE YOU STROKES!
Shooting to break 100 . . . 90 . . . or to take a title?
Spalding's sensational advances in clubs — new '54 Synchro-Dyned woods and irons — can do more to save you strokes than any other clubs you ever played!
Reason? Try a few swings — and see. Every wood, every iron now has identical contact feel. You naturally swing! Power, improved timing . . . get the ball away straighter and for more distance.
Will you shoot better golf consistently? Ask any golfer who owns a Spalding Synchro-Dyned Top-Flite set . . . and then have your professional fit you.
SPALDING
Synchro-Dyned
TOP-FLITE
REGISTERED GOLF CLUBS
SOLD THROUGH GOLF PROFESSIONALS ONLY

STANDS OUT in play
Harder Smashes
Better Cut and Spin
STANDS UP in your racket
Moisture Immune
Lasting Liveliness
COSTS LESS than gut
APPROVED, STRINGERED UNDER Pro-Control Mold...$6.50
Multi-Ply Braid.....$5.00
At tennis shops and sporting goods stores.
ASHAWAY BRAIDED RACKET STRING
Choice of The Champions

RESTRING WITH ASHAWAY
BRAIDED RACKET STRING

First Prize Essay Is Worth $1750

A top-notch essay on "The Organization of American Representation Abroad" would win the author a full fellowship of $1,750 to the School of Advanced Studies, Johns Hopkins University, Washington.

According to an announcement made yesterday by the Foreign Service Journal, the essays will be judged by a committee of nationally known experts on foreign affairs.

The contest has been lauded by Secretary of State Dulles, who said, "I hope this contest will produce constructive and helpful thinking on a matter of importance to all Americans."

Full details of the contest may be obtained from the Foreign Service Journal, Contest Committee, 1908 G Street N. W., Washington 6, D. C. The contest closes October 18.

Tennis Foe . . . Tampa

Florida State's promising tennis team makes its 1954 debut this afternoon against Spartans in Tampa. The match will be the first of five South Florida matches for FSU this week.

The Seminoles, in their first season with head Coach Keith Pichford, visit Miami Wednesday, Florida Southern Thursday, Rollins Friday, and Stetson Saturday.

FSU's team won 15 of 17 matches for its best record ever in 1953, has seven lettermen back including team captain Hal Schaus of Mansfield, O. Others are Tom Morgan of Tallahassee, Don Wirly of Jacksonville Beach, Dave Kennedy of Tampa, Jack Sran of Bradenton, Tom Cundy of Bellevue, Ky., and Joe Harris of Memphis, Tenn.

New Book, "Southern Indians" Published By FSU Historian

An important contribution to American history has been made by Dr. Robert Spencer Cotterill of Tallahassee in his new book, "The Southern Indians," it was revealed today.

It is a dramatized story of the four big tribes, the Creeks, Cherokees, Choctaws and Chickasaws, in the half century before their final removal to reservations in 1830 with Andrew Jackson playing an important role as virtual dictator for the Indian lands.

Dr. Cotterill has documented his Indian story largely from unpublished materials. In beginning his teaching career several decades ago, he needed a knowledge of Indians he could not find in books.

Concentrating on Southern history at the outset, he began an investigation of Indian source material which lasted about 25 years and took him into most Southern states and several in the North, a move said.

Much of the work on the book was done during the 12 years Dr. Cotterill was at Florida State University. He held the chair of southern history as a classroom professor and was finally research professor before retiring in 1951.

Born in Kentucky, Dr. Cotterill was brought up on stories told of Daniel Boone and "the dark and bloody hunting ground." He said that his imagination has always been fired by Indian stories, and his own boyhood provided an outlet for personal interests in also a writer of Hist tory of Pioneer Kentucky," The Cold South" and "A Short History of the Americas" which had a French edition.

News Briefs

INITIATING, PLEDGING

Five new members were recently initiated by Pi Kappa Phi, social fraternity; officers have announced. The five are Mike Cheseman, Richard Lukas, George Carter, Jack Eichelberger, and Walter Raines.

Speaker-chief also announced the pledging of John Adams, Wayne Pitts, Brun Davis and Wally Reichert.

* * *

SAFETY IN WATER

A Red Cross Water Safety Instructors Course will start Thursday night at 8 in room 304 Women's Gym, the Women's Physical Education Department has announced. Sponsored with Red Cross will meet on Monday and Thursday nights. Only persons holding valid Senior Life Saving certificates are eligible to enroll, they added.

* * *

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

Next year's pledge class of fifteen were elected last week by Sigma Phi Epsilon pledges.

Those elected were Buddy Smiley, president; Bob Connelly, vice-president; Sonny Nichols, secretary and Riney Fullmer, sergeant.

Other members of the pledge class include Morris Worland, Jimmy McDaniel, Bob Gentile and Joe Taylor.

Fraternity officials report that last Wednesday night Sigma Phi Epsilon entertained the Alpha Delta Pi's with a party in their honor. Refreshments were served near the end of the party. Awards members attended four of the sororities on campus.

* * *

Pi Omega Pi

Eleven new members have been initiated by Pi Omega Pi, business education honorary, officers of the organization announced recently.

Three FSU faculty members are Kirk Bell, C C Miller and William Richards, were installed as honorary members.

The eleven active members are Patricia Barrineau, Anibel Tyrrell, Charles Hawkins, Imelda Chaunsuwanli, Carolyn Fuller, Rosanne B. Hazelton, Bettye Kirkland, Joan Mikesell, Pat Miller, John Moorer, and Barbara Rudin.

GUADALAJARA SUMMER SCHOOL

The accredited bilingual summer school sponsored by the Universidad Autonoma de Guadalajara and members of the Stanford University faculty will be offered in Guadalajara, Mexico, June 27-August 7. Offerings include art, creative writing, folklore, geography, history, languages and literature courses. $225 covers all-weeks tuition, board and room.

Write Prof Juan E. Rael, Box K. Stanford University, Calif.

Calendar Of Events

TODAY, MARCH 18

12 noon Zoology Seminar, Enst: Younstman, "The Role of Peptides in Protein Metabolism."

3 p. m. Newman Club Coffee Hour. Newman House. In honor of St. Patrick.

4:30 p. m. Meteorology Seminar. Capt. Richard Clancy, "Tactical Weather Reconnaissance." 124 Science.

4:30 p. m. Opco Scoate meeting. Senate Room, L B

4 p. m. Home Economics Seminar. Marsao Faulker and Mary H Gibson, "Nutrition Changes in Shrimp". 106 Science.

7:30 p. m. Cavalier Audition. Small lounge. L B.

7:30 p. m. Humanities Lecture. Dr. John Vernet, "The Ballet" Longmire Aud

7:30 p. m. American Civilization Lecture Series. Dean Charles B. Davis, "The Progressive Tradition." 215 Music Hall.

7:30 p. m. Film Previews Tropby Room, Student Center.

8 p. m. Open Traffic Court, L. B

8 p. m. Open Honor Court, L B

8 p. m. Lecture Series. Don Cossacks Chorus and Dancers. Tour Rice School Auditorium.

9 p. m. ODK. Alt L. B.

TOMORROW, MARCH 17

REVEILLE

10 p. m. All day demonstration of 100 sweet rolls, Donuts pastries and cakes. Sweet Hall Bakery.

5:05 p. m. Faculty Senate. Longmire Aud

5 p. m. Meo's Senate - Visitors Welcome- Court Room. L B

5 p. m. Women's Senate - Visitors Welcome- Senate Room L B

11 a. m. School of Business Career Day, Longmire Auditorium

7 p. m. Cavalier Audition. Small Lounge. L B.

7 p. m. Health Club, Dr. Riser, speaker. Club Room, L B

8:15 p. m. Band Choral Groups of the Demonstration School. Music Hall

8:15 p. m. Don Cossacks. Artist Series. Leon High

8 p. m. Classics Lecture. Longmire Auditorium

THURSDAY, MARCH 18

3 p. m. Journalism Club Sigma Theta. 408 L B

8 p. m. Student Government panel on election procedures. L B

8:15 p. m. Phi Club. "Casque D'Or." Music Hall

8 p. m. Secretary meeting. 405 L B

8 p. m. Water Safety Instructors Course, 304 Gym.

Newmanites Elect 8 Officers for '54-55

Sunday evening members of the Newman Club elected officers for the coming semesters. These officers will serve for the rest of this semester and until March of next year.

Charlie Jacobs, the past vice president, is now president. His others are Charlie Cunningham, 1st vice president, Louis Schitt, 2nd vice president, corresponding secretary, Barbara Rynski.

Ann Yeoman was re-elected to the office of recording secretary. Kathie Friedheim is the new treasurer, Bill Rehm is Parliamentarian, and Helen Dardis is the new Freshman advisor.

These new leaders of the Newman Club will be installed next Sunday evening at 6:00 p.m. Initiation of new members will take place the same evening. Following these ceremonies will be an Installation Ball.

Betty Gooch is chairman of arrangements for the ceremonies next Sunday. It has been announced that all who wish to attend are invited.

FEMALE STYLE

Members of the Co-ed Journalism Club at the University of Denver took over the Denver Clarion, student newspaper, on Lincoln's birthday—and put it out "female style."

The Department of Speech
announces
"THE HEIRESS"
by
Ruth and Augustus Goetz
MARCH 19, 20, 22, 23
at Conradi Theatre
TICKETS—
Students—40c and Activity Stub No. 5
General Admission—75c
Box Office Opens Wednesday, March 17

Heumann to Speak Tomorrow at 8 p. m. In Science Building

The work of the Chemical Biological Coordination Center will be discussed by the director of its research council, Dr. Karl H Beyermann of Washington, D. C., tomorrow, it was announced.

Free and open to the public, the lecture is one in a series sponsored by Sigma Xi, national science honorary at FSU. It will be given at 8 p.m. in the Science Lecture Hall, preceded at 7:30 p.m. by a business meeting for club members.

Dr. Heumann has been a director of the national center since 1952. He previously served on the technical information staff of the Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company. A graduate of Iowa State College where he also received his MS degree, Dr. Heumann earned his Ph. D in chemistry at the University of Illinois.

Versatility Keynotes

(Continued From Page 1)

ment's student letters. The history major has climbed straight rule in the Conradi theater this year. Kay played one of the roles in Life with Father and Paris is Romeo and Juliet. Recently, the drama actor toured with a talent troupe to the greater Miami schools and read a piece from Benet's "John Brown's Body."

All in all, The Heiress is expected to be one of the most polished plays on this campus with Director Paul Dietz concentrating on the reins. He directed "Life With Father," one of Florida State's most financially successful productions earlier this year.

Running March 19, 20, 22 and 23, tickets for the show are 40 cents and general admission 75 cents. The box-office opens tomorrow for advance ticket sales.

Caldwell Points Out

(Continued From Page 1)

climates, good labor and cooperative government, gives assurance of success, he said.

"The farmer can sult his every preference from cotton to citrus, tobacco to tichee nuts and from chinchilla to Brahman cattle. Farming in Florida can be made both a profitable and a pleasant occupation"

Bakery to Display Its Products Today

A hundred different varieties of Danish pastries, rolls and coffee cakes will be made in the Florida State University Bakery today and tomorrow when professional demonstrators will work with students.

Dr. L. A. Ramsey, head of the FSU baking science and management department, said that a two-day demonstration session is arranged annually for the students by Standard Brands, Inc. of New York City, as a special education project.

Climax of the demonstration will be the showing of a color film, Meal Time is Lucky Time, at 7:30 tomorrow evening. There will be a discussion on sweet dough productive methods, and finished products will be displayed.

Students, faculty and others in the area interested in tasting the food fields are invited to attend the wind-up feature Coffee will be served with samples of the pastry.

Knots on mobofolliament should always be drawn up with a steady pull. The opposite is true of natural gut, which should be given a slight jerk on the final tightening.—Sports Afield

Peace Talks

(Continued From Page 1)

dollar signs in his eyes, committing some machines on John Bull and characters representing other nations.

Cartoons in magazines and newspapers follow the same theme dollar - hungry American militarists, politicians or businessmen looking for war or money, or both.

We asked often why there should be all these hate-America posters if Russia really was interested in friendship among nations. We always were told that these posters were not directed against the American people, but against the military men and monopolies who want war.

Russians think the United states already has started one war—in Korea. We were told that Secretary of State Acheson and President Truman had conferred with Syngman Rhee, and that South Korea grudgingly accepted Korea.

But the political consciousness of the Russians we met extended far beyond international affairs. They were much interested in internal problems of the United States.

We were asked often about Sen. McCarthy. Usually the question was, How much popular support does he have? They said they think most Americans oppose him. They called him a fascist and an enemy of Russia.

We were asked about the rights of Negroes in America, and why there were no Negroes in our group. We were asked about our political affiliations, and to define the difference between Democrats and Republicans.

We were invited into Soviet students, and at Kharkov University we were asked if we believe in God. When I, the members of our group said yes, the 100 Russian students remained silent. When one said no, they applauded and cheered

It is more interesting to us than the Russians' misconception about the United States was the conformity of thought we found at colleges and universities — the lack of radical or as centers of free discussion.

We could ask the same questions, he said of you. Should Berin, Korea or anything else —and we would get the same answer every time.

A student would answer and say he was speaking for all students of the Soviet Union. When we asked how he could speak for a student a thousand miles away, he would reply that all students have the same thoughts on important issues.

Despite all the talks we had with students, we never could get any sufficiently intimate terms with any of them to determine if they were any dissenters.

We talked to selected groups and individuals But even had we selected completely at random there would have been a real reluctance on the part of Soviet citizens to disclose any rebellious thoughts to foreigners—especially Americans

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

Four faculty and ten undergraduates were initiated into Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity last Friday. Nine men have been pledged, officers revealed.

Faculty members initiated were Dr. Robert S. Lewis, Dr. Benjamin Goodner, Mr. James W. Parker, and Mr. Ralph Rea Jr.

The ten students are William R Montes, Sam McClain, Thomas Taylor, Allan Arthur, Hunt Weaver, Gordon Gaster, Willis Kennedy, John Tippin, Eddie W'ooff and William Pharris Pledged were Bobby Sellars, Ed Wurlbach, Dana McKinnon, Pete Wooten, Roger Berry Ray Warner, Arris Helms, William Sullivan and George Adkins.

Florida Features CinemaScope With Screen's Famed Females

Attention, girls! Get out your bathtubs! How to Marry a Millionaire, in CinemaScope, comes to the Florida theatre for a week beginning tomorrow.

Three of the screen's most famous women get together and set their caps for millionaires. MARILYN MONROE cavorts blindly without her glasses through the film, while BETTY GRABLE provides another dose of "blonde nonsense."

Lauren Bacall has the brains of the glamour outfit, but finds herself outsmarted by a handsome supposedly "poor" young man (Cameron Mitchell).

Rory Calhoun turns up as Betty Grable's outdoor sports interest and David Wayne enjoys being Marilyn's sukfi for sore eyes

William Powell co-stars with all three screen "figures": HOW TO MARRY A MILLIONAIRE is his 68th picture in the 32 years he has been among the gents of filmdom.

The Technicolor production is Twentieth-Century Fox's second release in CinemaScope after their pioneer production "The Robe."

Robert Louis Stevenson's The Master of Ballantrae, comes to the State Thursday Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

THE MASTER OF BALLANTRAE stars ERROL FLYNN as the sword and shield crusader for a ton of emotional affairs of the Stuarts back on the throne.

Finland claims the majority of stars in the Technicolor production, featuring Roger Livesey, Beatrice Campbell, Anthony Steel, and Yvonne Furneaux.

Alpha Omicron Pi

Alpha Omicron Pi sorority announced this week the installation of its new officers. They are Jo Patton, president; Kay Norman, vice-president; Ardeen Miller, recording secretary; Renelde Campbell, secretary; Louise Allen, treasurer; and Dane E. Sue Sullen, historian.

Officials said that the AO Pi's and more complete backgrounding will attend their annual State Day Saturday at Florida Southern College at Lakeland. "State mental troubles and means of Day will be attended by all the prevention should be stressed. sorority chapters in the state. The active chapters in the state. He said that newspaper coverage program will consist of reports was good, but uneven, and suggand skits given by each chapter and ests that in the future papers a banquet and tea given in place more emphasis on the prehonor of the visiting chapters," ventive side of emotional difficulties. they said.

Along With The Master of Ballantrae is a second feature Diamond Queen, starring Arlene Dahl and Fernando Lamas, Arlene is queen of a jungle dynasty in the Warnercolor film.

FSU Litterbug

(Continued on Page 4)

will include competitive at elementary and high schools and Livelo Technological School. Mrs. Pelot said that Florida A&M would not compete with FSU. "We are helping them sponsor their own contest."

Stressing that something should be done to clean up notebook paper and other litter on the streets, the sponsor stated that there is a $2 fine in New York State for throwing "Even the smallest piece of paper" on a street, and that there is a law in Florida against littering with paper, but it is not enforced.

She added that even the law don't expect to revive the law, but are trying to "stimulate a lasting interest" in cleaner streets, and their purpose is the same as that of the Litterbug Contest—they are hoping to educate the public to the idea of having a clean and beautiful town. "Everyone is invited to cooperate in this worthwhile project," she said.

The sponsors hope to distribute the slogans around the campus. So here's a chance for Florida Staters to win money while helping in such a worthy cause.

Publication

(Continued From Page 1)

dealing with it as a social problem has been done at conferences by many newspapers and newspapermen for the need of a knowledge of psychology for backgrounding these stories in their proper social contexts.

However, Dr. Kobre went on to say there is a need for better

Demostration School Singers Will Give Preview Performance

Eighty-six teenagers from the Florida State University Demonstration School will sing March 30 at the Music Educators National Conference in Chicago, it was announced recently. A special preview performance will be staged tomorrow night at 8:15 in Opperman Hall.

Free and open to the public, the concert will feature selections by the singers and also by Florida High Mixed Chorus and Florida High Band.

Among arrangements to be given by the singers on a national stage for a first time, are selections with prominent parts for the changing boy's voice such as "John Brown's Body", "Beautiful Saviour" "When the Forman Bares His Steel" and "Stranger In Paradise."

Dr. Irvin Cooper, who joined the FSU faculty in 1950 as professor of music education, is responsible for the pioneer and unusual mass work of the singers.

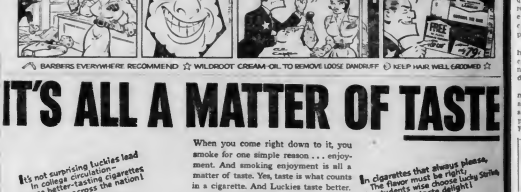
A native of England, he moved to Canada as a young man and began his research work on the adolescent voice as supervisor of ary here recently. music in public schools of Montreal. He was prompted to begin the work because his own son, Barbara Yost, son- president, was excused from all school chorus- ter of Mr. and Mrs. Dupreacher larly Nancy Mayer.

al work when his voice changed. The new initiates are: Patricia Meredith, Carolyn Alford, Alice Gardner, Joanne Hinkamp, and Chryssy Sanderson.

Ms. They are unusual because Camille Puss, Susan Pitts, they are especially trained sing- Ann Callahan, Beth Perrie Joners, not picked singers. Personnel Prichard, and Gloria Riley. comprises the entire seventh, Also, Sally Pissell, Carol Rueeighth and ninth grades of the en- ners, Nancy Campbell, Ruth Wadtire school system and includes dell, Sandra Duke, Shirley Shull, an equal number of boys and girls. Lenora Windham.

Officers, Initiates Chosen by Cotillion

Three new officers and 18 initiates recently were chosen at the Cotillion, women's dance held



Newly-elected officers are president, Ayda Yarbrough; secretary, Barbara Yost; and treasurer, Nancy Mayer.

The new initiates are: Patricia Meredith, Carolyn Alford, Alice Gardner, Joanne Hinkamp, and Chryssy Sanderson.

Camille Puss, Susan Pitts, Ann Callahan, Beth Perrie Joners, Prichard, and Gloria Riley.

Also, Sally Pissell, Carol Rueners, Nancy Campbell, Ruth Wadell, Sandra Duke, Shirley Shull, and Lenora Windham.

BARBERS EVERYWHERE RECOMMEND ☆ WILDROOT CREAM-OIL TO REMOVE LOOSE DANDRUFF ☆ KEEP HAIR WELL GROOMED ☆

Like Drive-Ins?

or do you

Like a Place to Sit Down and Be Served?

or do you

Like Free Delivery Right to Your Door?

QUAKER HOUSE

Call 2-8677 on the Quincy H'way

What could be better than one of our SUPER DELICIOUS, double-rich sundaes . . . creamy ice-cream, flavorful sauce topped with mounds of whipped cream!

Steaks, Chops, Chicken, Sea Foods, deliciously cooked and served

Large Variety of Sandwiches to Choose From—Largest Soda Fountain in the South!

Choice Swift's Meats Served

Hunt Play Hoop-la With Tax Loopholes
See Page 2

The Florida Flambeau

"The Heiress" Opens Tonight
See Below

VOL. XL, No. 39 PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA Friday, March 19, 1954

Slate Completed In Party Finale After Second Try

Five Additions Set As Parties Ready For Tuesday Ballot

The list of candidates for the coming Student Body Elections was completed Tuesday night with five new candidates selected at the State Party convention.

The complete list of candidates as released by election officials shows that there are no non-party-affiliated candidates running. All candidates are members of either the State or Student party.

A sample ballot is shown on the last page of this issue of the Flambeau. Officials stated that there would be no change in the ballot unless some candidate is disqualified. Bill Stancil, chairman of the Elections Committee, said "At the present time we are checking the eligibility of all candidates. Any candidate may possibly be disqualified up to election day."

Commenting on the lack of independents showing, Arnold Alsobrook State Party steering committee member, said "Last year, several students interested in running, ran independently and won in the class elections. If students really want offices they have something to offer, they should show what they have to the voters. Political parties are to excuse for sitting back."

Frank Shaw, head of the Student Party, stated that the lack of independent candidates was evidence that those who decided to endorse the specific platforms offered by the two parties, although he would like to have seen some independent showing.

Chairman Stancil urged that the candidates get estimates on the University Office, Tu Lonesome by 5 p.m. today. "Unless this deadline is met, the candidate will subject himself to disqualification. Candidates are also reminded to carefully watch their expenses as we intend to keep a close eye on all campaign expenditures."

"I realize that these rules are hard and fast, but in order to carry on an honest campaign we must abide by all the rules laid down in our university statutes."

Gene Williams, Election Committee member, reminded that a sample ballot printed in this issue which works on the same principle used in the election at FSU. "You make one mark for Omicron Delta Kappa will hold its annual pre-election political rally Monday night in the music amphitheater at 7:30 p.m., chairman Wallace Dukes announced Tuesday night.

The following times will be allotted the candidates for positions, Chief Justice of the Honor Court and vice-presidents—30 minutes. Members of the Student body — 6 minutes. All others—two minutes.

Prizes are allowed. Order of speaking will be determined by lots. In case of inclement weather, the rally will be held in Longmire. Speakers should be 15 minutes early.

each office to be filled. For example, there might be listed after "President of the Student Body" three names: 1-1 John Doe Student; 1-2 Mary Smith, State; 1-3 Joe Williams, Independent. The "1" used in each case stands for the office which in this case listed first on the ballot, or number one. The second number in each case is the number of the individual student. After the name is listed the candidates' party affiliation."

To vote for Mary Smith, a heavy, glossy black mark is made in the "I" space of affire number "1", with a lead pencil to be provided at the polls. Williams said that a space will be provided for write-in votes. "Do not fold the ballot," he added.

Vote counting will begin Tuesday night after voting is over, and will take place in the Education Building. Williams said that tabulations will be made on machines by trained technicians." Election officials expect the counting to be completed much sooner than in previous years.

JUDICIARY CASES

All Judiciary cases are to be reported to Dot Cooke at 3-2626 or Broward Hall immediately, it was announced today.

Miss Cooke, acting as Chairman of Judiciary in the absence of Yvonne McCarthy, who is interning, said all summons cases pertaining to the judicial body should be reported at once.

Student Candidates Are Polled For Opinions

Students will go to the polls Tuesday to elect major offices of the student body. Since no independents are candidates, students will choose between State and Student Party nominees.

Peter Nimkoff, Student Party candidate for president, says, "There is a job to be done, as President of our Student Body; students need better representation and student government needs more responsibility. I believe I can serve you as your President should—and I intend to—if you'll agree—by ballot."

John Howard, State Party candidate for president says, "During the past few weeks, you have seen political party crystal ball gazing. We have had our growing pains as any young organization will. But I am confident that we are going into this election with worthy programs, ideals, and candidates. I pledge to you that when I am elected to the presidency, I shall model the executive program around the platform of office, I'll try to represent the this party (State) because it is a constructive program dedicated to the best interest of our student body and the betterment of student government."

Gordon Gaster, State Party candidate for vice-president of men's affairs, says, "To fill the office of Vice-president of Men's Affairs, we need a person who is very well acquainted with the life on campus. I feel that only a student who lives on campus and who is vitally affected by the problems of living conditions, food services, transportation difficulties, and the lack of adequate recreational facilities can really understand and hope to solve these problems. I feel that I am peculiarly fit for this position in that I have lived on campus for two semesters, I understand the problems and needs of students at Florida State University. I stand in favor of the State Party because we can accomplish more if necessary to change the campus in building better government."

Jim Joanos, Student party candidate for vice-president of men's affairs, says, "In order to represent the student body, I must be familiar with the administration and keep abreast of student government. I believe I can serve you as your representative in this capacity."

Joan Hallord could not be reached for comment.

Ten Seek Office On State Ticket In Next Election

Ten students will seek election to major offices in the forthcoming student body election under the State Party banner, according to State Party officials.

Five more candidates were named last Tuesday night when the newly formed party held its second nominating convention. The first convention also saw five students nominated for office.

Those selected were Anne Jeanne Winters, chairman of URA; Jim Robson, business manager of Florida Flambeau; Jim Brodrick, editor of Tally-Ho; Joanne Stigmaier, business manager of Seminole Signals; and Bert Miller, Chief Justice of the Honor Court.

Miss Winters was nominated by Betty Evans. "I" Club delegate. Jim Brodrick, Betty Ann Pennee for Seneke Signals editor, nominated Miss Stigler. Irma Cox nominated Bert Miller.

In a surprise move, Fred Mansfield, representing Lambda Chi Alpha, moved that the convention nominate Coyle Moore as the candidate for vice-president of the student body.

"He is the best qualified for the office of Vice-President. There are people who could do the job better, but Moore is the best qualified," said Mansfield.

Mansfield went on to explain that Moore had been contacted and that although he had no intentions to seek the State nomination, he would accept it.

Moore, representing the Kappa Sigma, argued that the principles of the party were the basis of the convention "sought a candidate of another party."

"If we did that," continued Soles, "the chances of having a two-party system will have been defeated. There are people who have worked hard to form this second party, and we cannot let this party die and return to a system." Soles concurred on the nomination of Coyle Moore.

The convention voted against the motion by a 27 to 6 vote after a five-minute recess.

John Howard, editor-in-chief of Seminole Signals, stated that party nominees for student body president, gave the opening address of their campaigns at the convention to mean a freedom of choice," he said.

Howard went on to explain the need for the two-party system and the principles underlying State Party. "The confidence and energy put into the party will determine its success."

Jayleen Eshelman, State Party nominee for secretary, stated yesterday that all ten candidates were well-qualified. "We held this convention because we felt it was an attended opportunity to those persons eligible and qualified but omitted by the State Party caucus," she said. "Our party sought our party nomination is indicative of its success."

Jack Houser, Party chairman, stated that the convention proves the delegates that a good beginning was the foundations for a two-party system. "We have a good beginning," he added.

Students Are Asked To Leave Recent Faculty Senate Meeting

Three students were asked to leave a regular meeting of the Faculty Senate Wednesday afternoon in Longmire auditorium.

As soon as the Senate convened, President Doak S. Campbell said it had been brought to his attention there were students in the session.

The three identified themselves to the Senate as Bruce Galphin, editor-in-chief of The Florida Flambeau; Jack Pelham, managing editor of the Flambeau; and Phil Sprague.

Asked their purpose in attending the meeting, Galphin stated, "I want to make it a regular Flambeau function to cover Faculty Senate."

Galphin was made that the students be allowed to remain in the session. Permission was allowed. Some faculty members took the position that matters concerning students were discussed in Senate and that their presence was not proper. Others expressed the feeling that the students should first have requested permission to attend.

Dean Moore Sr., Dean of the School of Social Welfare, moved to table the motion. Dr. Campbell interpreted this to mean a vote to table meant the students must leave, a vote against tabling meant the students might stay. The motion to table was approved 24 to 15.

In leaving, Galphin told the Senate that the students had to leave as harm is coming and stated that he would make a formal request for Flambeau representation in the future. "Perhaps associated, we silenced the last Senate meeting," he remarked.

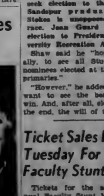
In a statement following the ouster, Galphin commented:

"We were not aware that we had violated Senate protocol. We assumed that Faculty Senate meetings were open to students."

"Numerous faculty members have indicated to me that they were shocked to hear being there was that we had not requested official permission to attend the convention. "The greatest thing to me is not the opportunity to speak but just to hear others. The finest collection of speakers and knowledge and outstanding professional men always participate in these national TEA conventions."

SOCIAL WORKERS

Social Work Club members will meet Wednesday of next week in the Education Lounge, as announcement said today. All members of the club are urged to attend, as well as social work majors here.



Composers' League Convenes In Tallahassee For Two Days

The Florida Composers' League, meeting here for its annual convention, will run through tomorrow offers its 10th annual public forum this evening and Saturday, Dr. Raleigh said.

Programs begin at 8 a.m. receive after lunch at 1:15 p.m. and reconvene at night at 8:15 p.m. Saturday. All meetings and program sessions are free and open to the public, Dr. Raleigh announced.

Dr. Raleigh Stevens of the University of Kentucky Conservatory is guest lecturer and composer for the forum. Dr. Stevens is head of the U. of K. department of piano and composition here will be presented with a permanent honorary membership in the league.

Announcement of prizes in the state-wide high school and college competitions for student composers will complete the program.

Dr. Halsey Stevens

Ticket Sales Begin Tuesday For Yearly Faculty Stunt Night

Tickets for the seventh annual Faculty Stunt Night go on sale Tuesday through Thursday of next week, announced the Student Christian Association.

Tickets will be sold on the main floor of Westcott and the dining hall for 39 cents, spokesmen said. Proceeds will go to Campus Chest.

Spokesmen for the sponsoring group, the Florida Players, said that all students should try to attend. "Not only will they enjoy the entertainment" still feature such members of the faculty as Thomas Wright, pianist; Betty Anne Grimm, soprano; John Bode, pianist and FSU's own component of the "Charleston." Bode is employed by the university as residence counselor of North Cawthon Hall.

Shaw Reports Complete Slate For Primaries

Frank Shaw, Student Party Chairman, said yesterday he is "optimistic" about the outcome of the student election primaries, scheduled for Tuesday of next week.

Commenting on the "lay of the land," Shaw said he sees strong candidates on both party tickets. "Men, rather than slates, deserved," he said, "to nominate those persons who are best qualified for the important positions to be filled Tuesday." He based his earnest appeal for all eligible voters at Florida State University to "go to the polls" at the gardens of which candidates they choose.

Student Party goes into the primaries, Shaw noted, with a full slate. Peter Nimkoff heads the ticket as candidate for Student Body president; following Nimkoff are Jayleen Eshelman, vice-president of Student body; Jim Joanos for vice-president of men's legislative affairs and Joan Tavel for the vice-president of women's affairs.

Bob Folsom will run under Student Party auspices when meeting the editorship of the FLORIDA FLAMBEAU, and Jack Pelham, present editor, the ticket as business manager of the Flambeau. Folsom and Pelham "are three men," Shaw noted, "have done exemplary work this year in positions of high responsibility which they wish to be elevated. Folsom has served as Managing Editor and Caldwell assistant in the business staff.

Other candidates for Student Party candidates include Smoke Signals Editor sought by David Drake. Tally-Ho business manager with Nan Hillman seeking the post. Seminole Signals sought by Tom Woods and business manager of the Flambeau, Jim Robson with Toni seeking acceptance.

Stanley Meyer will seet the seat of Chief Justice of the University Honor Court under Student Party auspices, while Dot Cooke will try for Chairman of Women's Judiciary. The only acting chairman in absence of Yvonne McCarthy, this year's elected chairman.

Mary Grace Shoemaker is the Student Party choice to head the office of Secretary of Senate. Jack Lounge, as announcement said today. All members of the club are urged to attend, as well as social work majors here.

Nimkoff Heads FSU Debaters In Yearly Tilt

Six debaters, members of the local chapter of Tau Kappa Alpha, speech honorary, will represent Florida State University at an annual debate which will be held this year at Western Michigan College, according to fraternity spokesmen.

Pete Nimkoff, captain, will lead a notable FSU delegation to the national conference and competition which will be sponsored by Tau Kappa Alpha, forensic honorary. Debaters making the trip in addition to Nimkoff are Jack Pelham, Bill Twyford and Norma Trippodo.

They will be accompanied by graduate assistant Edna McDingsworth, and will travel by bus, rail and air. Included among the problems of the debaters will be three rounds of extemporaneous speaking, six rounds each of debate and discussion and four rounds of oratory, it was announced.

According to fraternity headquarters, "The primary purpose of the conference is to lead to a better understanding of members: skill in affective, intelligent and responsible speaking and of respect for the freedom of speech in a democracy."

Entries for the competition range from Vermont to Florida and the subjects to be discussed will be free trade and congressional investigation practices.

Captain Nimkoff expressed confidence that the delegation will attend the convention. "The greatest thing to me is not the opportunity to speak but just to hear others. The finest collection of speakers and knowledge and outstanding professional men always participate in these national TEA conventions."

Saturday Deadline Set For Campus Chest Drive

Campus Chest Drive Director Bill Sanders announced today that the deadline for the drive has been set for Saturday.

Sanders said that the drive has been "very successful" and that he hopes that the goal will be reached by Saturday.

Sanders also announced that the Campus Chest Carnival will be held on April 2 and 3 in the Woman's Gym.

Franklin Adams (Maovia) proposes to Katherine Culpepper (Catherine) after an absence of two years in this scene from the Jessel-Colt production, "The Heiress." The play opens a four day run tonight with other performances slated for March 20, 23 and 23.

Art Seminar To Be Held April 25-30; Friedlaender To Speak

By CLAUDE HARDEN

"Mannerism—Post-classical Style of the Sixteenth Century," is the subject of the Department of Art's seventh annual seminar, April 25 to 30 inclusive, given in conjunction with the staff of the Ringling Museum of Art in Sarasota.

Dr. Walter J. Friedlaender, outstanding scholar of painting and international repute, will make the opening address on Sunday, April 25, to the FSU students and other interested participants in the concentrated study period. Dr. John Coolidge, Director of the Fogg Museum at Harvard, will be his topics for his two lectures: "Main Trends in 16th Century Italian Architecture," and "Vignola," famous Italian architect of the Sixteenth Century.

Other invited speakers include Sidney Freedberg and John McAndrew, who has appeared with outstanding success in former seminars. Miss Ruth Dorris, Associate Director of the Ringling Museum, and Mr. Kenneth Donahue, research librarian, will make their first appearance at the seminar.

The Department of Speech is sending players, who will appear in Dr. Friedlaender's April 25, in "The World We Live In," by Karel Capek.

Closing the week's activities will be a lecture, "Musical Thought in the 15th Century," by Leo Rich, Assistant Professor of Music. This lecture on Friday, April 30. He will be assisted by Lewis Rhodes, tenor, and Leon Daniels, flutist and oboist, both students here.

All Florida State University students are eligible to attend the seminar, whether they are art majors or not, and they can make reservations by calling extension 3281. Staff members and townspeople are also cordially invited to attend. Registration to learn more about art and the collection of paintings of art in the Southeast, the Ringling Museum of Art, Director Ralph Wilcox announced in

(Continued on Page 6)

Campbell Says ROTC Action Board's Plan

President Doak S. Campbell explained the handling of the ROTC case to members of Panhellenic Tuesday afternoon.

Telling that there had been some question about the matter, he said that Executive Council had acted upon suggestions of the State Board of Control.

Some time ago, said Campbell, the Board had stated a general policy of equalizing practices at the two universities. They specifically mentioned three things: fees, summer school and military requirements.

North State University immediately took care of equalizing charges, by raising its present tuition fee from $50 to $75. The president said entrance requirements have recently been equalized.

Making ROTC compulsory for all students is carrying out Board suggestions, said Campbell.

The President said that the FSU Constitution is a bit hazy as to authority in some cases and suggested that perhaps it should be cleared up.

STAFF MEETING

There will be an important meeting of the entire editorial staff of the FLORIDA FLAMBEAU this afternoon at 5 p.m. in the office of the Editor-in-Chief and yesterday.

All reporters, editorial staff members and work writers are urged to attend.

Curtain To Rise On Speech Play 'Heiress' Tonight

Famous Hit Shows Four Performonces; Tickets Sell Now

The Heiress, one time Broadway hit, opens tonight at the Conradi Theater for a four night run. Curtain time has been set for 8:15 p.m.

Tickets for the performance are on sale at the Conradi Box Office and sales will continue throughout the performances, it was noted.

The play, said to be a problem play on the subjects of parents and children, love and hate", is the FSU Speech department's third major speech production this year.

Miss Kitty Culpepper, who has summer stock background, takes the lead in the cast of eight. Others in the cast include Franklin Adams, Jane Mixon, Nancy Dickinson, Barbara Graham, Lloyd Kay, Dixie Adams and Thomas Waddell.

Based on Henry James' book, Washington Square, it is laid in the period preceding the civil war, 1850's. Broadway version was written by Augustus and Ruth Goetz.

Two members of the university faculty, Douglas Russell and Charles Reiner, designed the production. Mr. Russell constructed the problems of fixing the sets to fit the hoop skirts so popular during the early war period used in the costuming.

Miss Culpepper has been part of the heiress, while Franklin Adams portrays the suitor. Robert Sloper. Miss Mixon, Others in the cast portray friends of the family in the drawing room drama.

Most members have been active in past productions, it was noted. Miss Culpepper played the mother in Romeo and Juliet. Adams also played in Romeo and Juliet, portraying Friar Lawrence, Robert Mixon played in both Romeo and Juliet and The Taming of the Shrew. He was cast as Petruchio in the latter.

Miss Dickinson, who portrays one of the lead roles, is a close friend of the family, has been in many productions in the two years she has been in the freshman production "Stage Door", it was reported.

When Lloyd Kay steps on the stage tonight, it will be in his first acting role on the Conradi theatre this year. A sophomore, Kay played one of the sons in The Wish Father.

Paul Davee, of the speech department, is director of the play. Davee directed Life With Father earlier in the year.

Tickets for the play are on sale for 40 cents to students; general admission is 75 cents. Students are reminded that they must present their ID cards when purchasing tickets.

News Briefs

VISITS MATH HERE

Dr. F. H. Brownell, of Chapel, India, visited the Florida State University Mathematics department and talked to mathematical students here recently, it was announced yesterday. Dr. Dunsonda is also touring several south-ern states under the auspices of a Rockefeller Foundation grant to the University of North Carolina where he is presently studying in the field of statistics.

DELTA TAU DELTA

Delta Tau Delta, social fraternity on this campus, will soon recruit, initiates are Jim Robson, Bill Cox, John Brush, Bud Crisco, Don Hall, Harold and Bob Rankin.

Delta Tau Delta recently entertained Pi Beta Phi sorority at the "Delta Sweetheart" following a similar affair at the Pi Phi house, it was announced. This is the first of a series of Delta Tau Delta exchange sorority-fraternity dinners.

PERSONNEL INTERVIEWS

Mr. Sheerer, Personnel Manager of J. C. Penny Co. Theme will be in the Student office on Wednesday, March 24. Those interviewed are interested in retailing and management as a career.

Mr. Sheerer is in charge of hiring college graduates for Penny stores throughout the state.

Seniors and graduate students who will be graduating in June, Mr. Sheerer should contact the placement office immediately for an appointment.

STUDENT PARTY

Student Party of Florida State University will hold a mammoth motorcade and parade immediately preceding the Omicron Delta Kappa political rally to be held rally Monday night, Frank Shaw, Student Party Chairman, announced.

Shaw said all cars will form in front of Westcott Fountain Monday at 7 p.m. He asked that all cars participating be decorated with appropriate posters and publicity for Student Party candidates.

He urged that all interested attend and bring as many cars as possible.

Columbia University Discusses Topics Important To Students

By FRANK A. KAFKES
Campus Affairs Writer

Discussions and discussions of topics such as "Man's Right to Knowledge" are held in Hartley House, the theme of Columbia University's freshman men dormitory. In the past few years these discussions have tended to become more and more popular, and now seem content to express their opinions without following them to action.

When we say that man has the "right to knowledge" we refer to opportunity. It is well to remember that no one guarantees us that we will be free to speak in other parts of the world do not do so. Why should we in America?

If we valley these rights, it is because some men taught to accept them. Those who would truly value these rights is not mainitained by those who started them, but by those who accept them.

There can be no doubt that those who would truly away these rights are united and powerful. Single individuals can not battle for their convictions as a group. Groups, not just a few, but numerous bull sessions, long talks, and endless arguments. Perhaps the issue expressed but their community and nation. They read the newspaper, and they talk about it constantly. They conversations are frequently interrupted by the call of the University, a radio, large or small, and the "bull session" when they join book clubs and study groups.

(Continued on Page 6)

It is somewhat that a very powerful way to preserve individuality is to join groups dedicated to such ideals as the development of any concrete attributes.

Some students say they would like to join organizations, but they just haven't the time. They devote their overcrowded programs as an excuse that one, however, a open-minded person can find time. They have time for innumerable bull sessions, long walks, and endless arguments. Perhaps the issue expressed but

Facts Forum Stay Tax Exempt Despite Its Propagandist Nature

Quite apropos of the recent passing of the Ides of March, is a story that has been getting around these days. Like many good stories, this one has a point and an intricately woven plot. It is filled with all kinds of hidden symbolism for the reader to ponder. And there is even a moral to the story if the reader cares to look for it. Unlike many stories, this one is true, and in this fact lies its significance.

Haroldson Lafayette Hunt was a precocious boy who lived in Texas. Like all good boys, he saved his money and worked to get more. All of a sudden, he found that he was one of the richest men in his state, in his nation, even in the world. Like a good Texan, he had struck oil and was making $200,000 a day!

One day several years ago, Mr. Hunt got tired of counting his money, and began thinking about what was wrong with the world. He thought of a lot that he didn't like: Democrats, Republicans, Catholics, Jews, Protestants, Communists, Negroes, even the United Nations. And like any "normal" citizen, he found that the nearness of paying a yearly income tax was getting to be annoying.

The logical thing was to change these things or get rid of them. Mr. Hunt found some people who had the same ideas. Some of them had money, some of them had only brains, and one of them was a professor from Wisconsin. (The last named, being of a retiring nature, became a friend (incognito.)

'Facts' Forum

This interesting little group got together and decided to "educate" people who were not in favor of changing or erasing things that the group didn't like. Naturally, Mr. Hunt and friends had to have an organization, and the one formed in this case was called Facts Forum.

It became one of the most cozy little set-ups in recent history. Facts Forum has been described as a non-profit, non-political, educational organization." It works through the mass communication media of press, radio, and TV. It sponsors a free circulating library. It operates a public opinion poll, the results of which are sent to newspapers and to every member of Congress.

Facts Forum employs over 125,000 participants. It receives over $1,000,000 of free radio and TV time each year. Some of the shows it sponsors are "Answer for Americans" and "State of the Nation." Both programs claim to "show both sides" of the questions with which they deal.

These are the surface facts of Facts Forum. Now let's look behind the scene and discover one of the most extravagant merry-go-rounds in America. Under Section 101 of the Bureau of Internal Revenue Code, it is stated that educational organizations are tax exempt. The second point under 101 is that organizations, carrying on propaganda or otherwise attempting to influence legislation, are not tax exempt. Hunt put up 60 per cent of the money for the founding of Facts Forum, and under Section 101, he has deducted this "contribution" from his personal income tax. This is completely legal if Facts Forum is run as a public service and if it is not a political propaganda organ as it claims. But are these claims true?

Loaded Questions

The radio and TV shows present both sides of the question, but with an obvious slant advocating isolationism and ultra-conservatism. Many of the books in the Facts Forum libraries are C.-cet attacks against minority groups. The "public" opinion poll questionnaires are loaded with emotoinal questions, such as "Are the pink elements of the press helping their power?" The polls are taken among the paid participants of Facts Forum.

Although Hunt denies any tie-up with politics, a direct liaison with the McCarthy camp is easily detected. McCarthy's wife, the former Jean Kerr, and Robert E. Lee, are the head of the Federal Communications Commission, set up the TV series of Facts Forum. McCarthy, Kerr, and Lee are well known in Washington as a threesome to watch.

The fact that Hunt, as delegate from Texas, supported Eisenhower in the 1952 Republican Convention may not be pertinent to the story. But the fact that Texas Governor Allan Shivers awarded Hunt the largest single acreage of the off-shore oil lands at an amazingly low price, certainly is of invited somewhere in the maze-like structure of the story.

Governor Shivers, along with Sears Roebuck chairman, Robert E. Wood, actor John Wayne, General Albert C. Wedemyer, and All-American football player, Chris Walker, form the national board of Facts Forum. What may appear to be a non-partisan group is really a closely-knit instrument for expressing the ideology of one H. L. Hunt, and he pays his sounding board well.

Around and around the plot goes, getting deeper and deeper, and right in the middle of it, is Mr. John Q. Public, paying for it all. No one asked him if he wanted to pay for the unethical propaganda that Hunt's Facts Forum doles out. But every fiscal year that passes takes a little more out of Mr. Public's pocket and puts a lot more into the pocket of this like Hunt. All that Public gets is propaganda in its most insidious and subtle form.

The story fully fits into the class of tragedy when we realize that it has no denouement or ending in sight. The only possible hope is that Mr. Public will be able to put the facts into logical order and realize their full importance. Then he may put his foot down.

Dear Mama Seminole

Dear Mama Seminole,

Heap big alurmish under way. Braves and maidens pass out totem cards; write name, plaster mug all over. Strange brave might think winner get power? Georgie wonder big utopia where student elect professor and dictators. (person(S) who dictate policy like CROTC).

Georgie find people who think that the Moore that is put in to a un-opposed campaign, the Moore one may expect to gain in future un-opposed nominations? Big splash now hope post still full of waves when next splash needed. One may grow so many flowers that the weeds go un-noticed. Others prefer to remove the weeds.

Georgie fear to predict third race. After spitting on rock behind barn and noticing that valuable backing tossed aside in council, Jonas, likewise a bulwark of sincerity, has edge.

With heap snort and fume, the hull from the office with the red wall comes charging fourth with a successor. An Orchid for an Orchid with honest motiva hut empty bag.

The hull from next door has heap cute grin with eight inches of muscle behind to control it. Reminds Georgie of the Howard on reservation with brown skin supported with six feet of nothing.

Tally has heap nice face on. A direct cover for lines and ug! Color must findum rest while dynamic Dreis blasts the reservation with a style yet to be. Dish water or lye. Backbone or backed bone. A rat race with a mouse in it.

State of things pretty poor inside.

Love all,
Georgie Seminole.

Let It Be Said

By DICK VICTORY

I get tired of hearing people gripe after an election is over. They usually do because they find the winning candidate is not doing his job.

After the present elections are over people will complain too. Especially if the most capable people aren't put in.

The two positions that will come into the public eye the quickest are the editorships of the publications, Smoke Signals and Flambeau. These are the ones I am most familiar with.

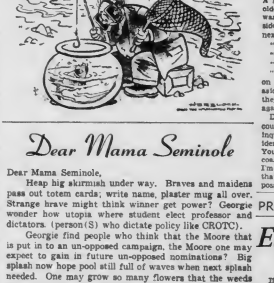
As far as the Smoke Signals is concerned, Dave Dreis appears most suited for the job. He has contributed to every issue of the magazine in the three years he has been here. He has been humor editor of the magazine. Also, he is a member of the Gargoyles of Alpha Association. He advocates primarily a humor magazine.

Dreis is the type editor the publication needs because he knows how to get ideas and he will be able to recognize humor in the material submitted. Editorship should be more than the title. Dreis will make it that.

Bob Folsom seems to be the most likely Flambeau candidate. Folsom is an Air Force veteran who is very experienced in the field of journalism.

He is currently serving as Pow Wow editor and Managing Editor of The Florida Flambeau. This speaks for itself.

I have worked with both these people and the thing that stands out about both is that they're not politicals. Instead, they have ability. There is a difference.



But if it's politicians you want, read further while I describe a campaign speech by one.

The candidate, Chris Craft, is about to begin. With him is his lovely wife Skip Shaw, who had the body voted most likely to succeed. Listen, he's starting to address the crowd.

"Friends, and you are my friends—don't . . . Pour score and seven years ago . . . er, wrong speech . . . oh, yes. My unworthy opponent has commented that I am unfit to run. He claims that I am an intellectual as the forks in the cafeteria. But I burp tender young babies with a club, that I can be bought, that I steal from churches and that I read the Atlantic Monthly . . . Blast it, I want it known that I don't read the magazine. What does he think I am, educated?

"This man must be stopped. You can help me stop him. We must do it now . . . We're gonna march on, people, descend on Lonemire, and bring your stuffed ballot boxes along just in case, because friends, you are backing a politician . . . Just remember my slogan: 'If we can't win with Craft it won't be because we lacked the Craft.' Note: Next week will be the first in a series of parody columns on popular entertainment. Next week: "Of Human Bondage."

Editor's Note: Dick Victory has his right as a columnist to support candidates, but this must not be construed as a Flambeau endorsement.

THE BOOKLIST

Britisher Finds Our News 'Packaged'

By BOB FOLSOM

The March 13 Saturday Review had as its lead article the seventh in its Common Man series "Assessing America's mass - communication media." "The Press and The Common Man" is by Alistair Cooke, chief correspondent in the United States of the Manchester Guardian.

It was somewhat puzzling to us that Saturday Review should ask an Englishman to write on this subject. But reading further, an Englishman should write about the press—Mr. Cooke is a very capable journalist—but SR reminds the reader the Common Man essays are "assessing America's mass-communication media" and who should be able to assess this better than an American?

SR might just have picked Mr. Cooke because they went an Englishman's views. Also he has been in the United States now for some years, has had a couple of books published here, and lastly, is a fine interpreter of the contemporary scene.

Anyway it was worth a thought, and we'll let the reader wrestle over the problem if it is a problem and if he cares to.

Saturday Review started the series early in 1953 with various distinguished writers contributing an essay on the mediums that affect Americans today. Henry Seidel Canby gave the initial effort and number six was more executive Arthur Meyer's "The Movies in the Age of the Common Man" in October 31 issue. All six essays are timely and informative reading if the reader would care to give it an hour or so.

The current article concerns the press—the newspaper—today, and Mr. Cooke's views on our country might be chosen it.

He sets the article off to a good if not unique start by confessing that he is a "Common Man. "It is a flattering name," Cooke thinks, "and encourage wager swear who for one reason or another is not earning his living."

Understandably, in discussing today's press he uses mostly British examples, but the average reader along with attention to the plight of the independent newspaper in the United States. In 1909 there were 2,600. today there are about 1,700. At that time there was a change in many towns of buying two sides of the street. And in the papers today you find great variety of ramment from the intellectuals, that the "press becomes less and less of an index to a regional character and what takes its place is an artificial debate, broadcast in New York."

He fears that at least one generation of Americans are growing up does not have much respect for diversity of opinion. Students were asked, but not but doesn't know what is required, to browse about before the same time as the holiday, and then to read things at random and whatever they hunt so long thinks the same thoughts the as it wasn't school or club work. Another common man is here with a College librarians reported attendens' taste fell heavily toward concerning the newspaper business are not new, and have been tossed around many times before. Knowingly, he cannot give a definite answer to these problems. But his viewpoints are very much worth the time. He leaves the reader with some meat to chew on too.

"Whether the twentieth-century newspaper is to be big or little, tabloid or telefax, its intelligence, curiosity, and integrity will be no better than the educational standards by which it and read it. The mold of the common man's newspaper will be cast in the public schools. A thought that should give tremendous pause."

HOLIDAY FOR HECK OF IT

Indiana, Pa. State Teacher's College has come up with a twelve day vacation from classes, chalk and makeup work—just to give students time to read for their own pleasure.

The vacation—called "Reading Days"—has no strings attached. No one is to check up on the students to see if they are reading or not. No one is to dictate what a student should read.

Students were asked, but not

THE FREE LANCE

'Faculty Is Not Free,' He Screamed

By BRUCE GALPHIN

After last week's nightmare about changes on the FSU campus, I have been rather wary of sleep. But weariness overcomes wariness, and every 18 hours I get that certain urge.

Off I went to sleep again . . . and off to dream.

I wandered across the hall from the Flambeau office into the Student Senate chambers. A small group of students and older people were talking. There was only one chair available for besides myself. I slid into a seat next to him.

"Hey, Jim. What is this?"

"Committee meeting."

"What committee?"

"Why, the Student Committee on Faculty Affairs, of course," said Joanna with scorn. "Quiet, they're starting the hearing again."

Dreams are a bit fogsy, and I couldn't quite be sure, but the Inquisitor looked like Vice-President Lawter. "How let's see. You want to have overnight coast parties without chaperons? It is afraid to do something that an utterly fantastic proposal."

"But look here," said the professor. "We're adults. We know how to take care of ourselves."

"Yes, I know," Lawter replied, "but yes there are still many students here who don't know as well as you. Then we'll have to go to the movies afterward, we get home too late. A half-hour would make the difference."

"I'm sorry," said Verp Lawter, "but that would mean keeping our checking staff on another half-hour per night and we simply couldn't afford to do that.

"But, sir . . ." said the professor.

"I'm sure you can see our position, professor. We have the responsibility of looking after you, and there are times when we must assert the wisdom of our youth."

The professor was obviously agitated. I vaguely remembered how things used to be when students had to clear legislation with the administration and felt sorry for him. He evidently was trying all his persuasion for this last request.

"Mr. Vice-President, we professors are adamant in our demands for this next item. We want to install a course in underwater flower-picking. We understand there's money left over in the Faculty Activities fund, and we would like to spend it."

Lawter grinned a saccharine sweet smile. "I'm sure you know that while you faculty paid dues, only a small portion is ever used. We have looked into the matter of this proposed course and it simply doesn't have any, it would be a waste of time."

The poor professor jumped to his feet, whipped out an automatic and started shooting wildly. "The faculty is not free," he screamed.

I saw the bullet come toward me and I ducked. But it didn't. Of course I woke up just then, to Blackburn, the counselor at Ward Hall. "Wake up, time for breakfast tray. "Cream in your coffee, sir?" he asked.

PRIVATE CITIZEN

Experience Makes Nimkoff Top Man

By GENE LAWLER

If this year's presidential campaign were judged rationally—on the basis of the qualifications of the candidates—it would be no contest.

Pete Nimkoff has had substantial experience in Student Government. His record as Attorney General is outstanding. The opposition offers no such experience whatsoever.

Anyone can gather a handful of friends and politicos as supporters. It takes something much more when a candidate can win the endorsement of the present President, the three Vice-Presidents, the Chairman of Judiciary, the Chairman of Elections and the Tally-Ho, and the Managing Editor of the Sumaia, with which John Howard is associated.

Pete Nimkoff's vastly superior qualifications are recognized by outstanding student leaders from all parts of campus—by people who recognize his outstanding knowledge, his determination and drive as a varsity athlete, his superior speaking ability as Captain of the debate team, his leadership as the only junior member of Omicron Delta Kappa . . . and so on.

For example, here a few of the statements made by FSU students in endorsing Nimkoff's candidacy:

C. M. BOOTH, Past President of Phi Delta Theta fraternity: Pete . . . he's made a good President."

JUNE CONYERS, Secretary of Honor: "Pete's ability and character will serve our University well."

DONNIE HOLLIS, Junior Senator: "Pete is a Flambeau editorial assistant."

BETTY ANN MUNROE, Honor Court Justice: "Pete's at the top . . . he has made excellent decisions as Attorney General."

CARLOS FRAUNDORFER, Student Senator: "Pete will show the same determination and spirit as President that he has in athletics."

JUDY BLITCH, Pan-Hellenic President: "Pete is definitely the man for the job."

BRUCE GALPHIN, Flambeau Editor: "Pete is the best-qualified candidate, in or out of the race."

CHARLS COULTER, Junior Senator: "Pete has shown outstanding ability as Attorney General . . . he is a hard and I worker."

WOODY WOODS, Men's Judiciary: "Pete will make a President to be proud of."

Pete Nimkoff, Secretary of State: "As a fellow Cabinet member, I found Pete to be impartial on student issues."

BECKY BROWN, Tally-Ho Editor: "Pete is a dedicated worker and will make an outstanding President."

POLLY LASSITER, Women's Judiciary: "Pete's great . . . mind of experience."

MARGARET HORROX, Managing Editor, Smoke Signals: "Pete has my unqualified support."

And other outstanding deans (Continued on Page 8)

THE SPECTATOR

Some Students View John Howard

Lis Vang, president of South Cawthon: "John Howard deserves the appreciation of the students for fulfilling his platform in giving FSU a better campus. Above all, for his efforts in behalf of a two-party system. His work for the Honor Code and for the party system disappear, but he has been one of the major factors in building a student leadership to be a successful two-party campus."

Bob Berto, junior senator: "I have known John Howard, and I think he has been a conscientious worker and he has never stopped improving. He has been active in the university in his work for the student body. John has attended most of the senate meetings this year in order to be able to visualize the problems of the student body and in some way help to alleviate them. In his work on Smoke Signals I think he has done a great job. Many times students have criticized him for offered suggestions, and in the following issue of Smoke Signals I could see that John had carried out the ideas of these students. At this time I would like to go on record as favoring John Howard for president of FSU Student Government. I think a vote for John will be a vote for the most capable participation and for a strong student government."

Bill Hall, freshman class president: "I have known John Howard and Pete Nimkoff for a time he has impressed me with his ability. I think his record of service to the Student Body and the University is an outstanding one."

Jack Wood, freshman senator: "I believe John Howard has done a good job in not only running magazine this year, but has also demonstrated outstanding executive ability. He can look to the records and see that John has followed out and the platform on which he was elected by the students body last spring. If elected to serve as Student body President, John Howard will, I am confident, again carry out his platform."

And, in addition to these comments, the editors of the Flambeau Columbian Leader has said: "John's a good guy, but he's not from Tallahassee."

ETCETERA ETCHINGS

'Coop' Still Big Box-Office Idol... Yup!

By DAVID DREIS

BITS OF DARB . . .

How can some people say Gary Cooper is a bad actor? Okay, so you don't like the cutdoor type, but Cooper is one of my idols . . . who else can make love to a 6-year-old and get away with it? Well, maybe a few other stars, but let's give "Coop" credit . . . he's got it.

There are few stars in Hollywood who can boast an Academy Award and Cooper can boast two, one for SERGEANT YORK in 1941 and another for HIGH NOON in 1952. Cooper is one of those few stars to be nominated for most of a few weeks and a few days . . . He was discovered in WINGS starring BUDDY ROGERS and MARY PICKFORD when he was seen for about a minute playing a pilot who "never comes back." Letters poured in then and ever since making Gary Cooper, somewhat like Gable's figures, the number one male fan-attire of the 1930's. Remember JOHN WAYNE, BURT LANCASTER and BING CROSBY,

Who could ask more? So, in all the land of Texas is quite an actor . . . even to the nth degree . . . Yup!"

ADDED ATTRACTIONS . . .

Ingrid Bergman has received award in England for Shaw . . . He's their favorite . . . In Bob Hope's Comedy-Thriller story featuring several Ladd film-clips . . . Paramount's answer to Cinema Scope is Vista-Vision . . . C. B. DeMille calls it "the best." . . . Paid Page Boxing manuals about to go out of print . . . Shaw's divorced . . . what else? . . . AHEM . . .

"Religion has Show Techniques" we talked about with Graham Cooling, played in 85,000 Prizions in six days, yet a night came forward to be saved . . . The Graham Crusade was a success . . . N. Y. Welfare Board chairman, called Stella D. Kahn a national disgrace" . . . N. Y. Representative wants to be governor on dedications . . . although the legislature ruled the program is questions does not conflict a charity-racket.

Business Staff ..... Mary Wogan, Virginia Vaughn
Advertising Soliciting ..... Members of Alpha Delta Gamma Alpha Chi.
Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service, 420 Madison Ave., New York, 17.

Telephone 2 8000, extension 4821
211, 213 Longmire Building

Member
Associated Collegiate Press

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University. Member Intercollegiate Press.

2 FLORIDA FLAMBEAU Friday, March 19, 1954

Herblock Views McCarthy

"And I'd Still Like To See You Become President"

"I'll Be Glad To Appear Before This Gentleman's Committee"

Cadet Promotions Given By ROTC

Ten cadet promotions have been announced by Major Martin E. Lichte, Training Officer of the Florida State University Air Force ROTC.

Cadet Kenneth D. Bliss Jr and William M. Watson have been promoted to the rank of Cadet Lieutenant and given instructor assignments.

Promotions to Cadet Technical Sergeant with the position of flight guide include Robert P Foley, Richard N. Wagner, and Anthony J. Wheat.

Cadet Staff Sergeant grade has been awarded to William C. Plumb, John P. Casburque, Harold Scholze, Robert H. Leslie and James E. Hickey in the position of squad sergeant.

Pi Beta Phi Elects Officers; Initiation

Pi Beta Phi sorority recently elected officers for the coming year. They are Phoebe Jackson president; Dot Wells, vice-president; Helen Whitemore, corresponding secretary; Betty Ann Munroe, recording secrtary; Barbara Williams, treasurer; Mary Stewart Bolton, pledge supervisor; Susan Phelps, rush captain; and Joan Tavel, scholarship chairman.

The new initiates, they announced, are Barbara Agee, Marion Davis, Sue Fain, Janice Jarrett, Dale Leary, Katherine Lindley, Dale McCartee, Janie Mitchell, Lou Parmalee, Charlotte Patten, Phyllis Patten, Glenda Sherrill, Ann Whittle, Mary Ed Williamson, and Julie Wilson.

WANT TO STAY ON?

Following are 10 suggestions from Robert Tyson, of the Hunter College (New York) department of psychology and philosophy, on how to stay in college:

1. Bring the professor newspaper clippings dealing with his subject. Demonstrate feeling interest and gives him timely items to mention in class. If you can't find clippings dealing with his subject, bring in any clippings at random. He thinks everything deals with his subject.

2. Look alert. Take notes eagerly. If you look at your watch, don't stare at it unbelieving and shake it.

3. Nod frequently and murmur, "How true!" To you this seems exaggerated; to him it's quite objective.

4. Sit in front, near him. (Applies only if you intend to stay awake.) If you're going to all the trouble of making a good impression, you might as well let him know who you are, especially in a large class.

5. Laugh at his jokes. You can tell. If he looks up from his notes and smiles expectantly, he has told a joke.

6. Ask for outside reading. You don't have to read it. Just ask.

7. If you must sleep, arrange to be called at the end of the hour. It creates an unfavorable impression if the rest of the class has left and you sit there alone dozing.

6. Be sure the book you read during the lecture looks like a book from the course. If you do math in psychology class and psychology in math class, match books for size and color.

8. Ask any questions you think he can answer. Conversely, avoid announcing that you have found the answer to a question he couldn't answer, and in your brother's second grade reader at that.

10. Call attenton to his writing. Produces an exquisitely pleasant experience connected with you. If you know he's written a book or an article, ask in class if he wrote it.

As to whether or not you want to do some work in addition to all this, well it's controversial and up to the individual.

SOUTH AFRICA

When book stores in Johannesburg, South Africa, withdrew their 10 per cent student discount offer, students at Witwatersrand University were faced with a sharp increase in book prices.

But now—thanks to members of the Witwatersrand student council—the students have some relief. The council contacted a London book-seller, who promised books at the London price, free of transportation costs.

It takes about a month from the time a student orders a book until he gets it, but the lower price is worth waiting for.

Oklahoma Tries New Venture In 5-Year Teacher Education

EDMOND, Okla. — (I.P.) — Central State College has been authorized as one of the six state schools to inaugurate the new fifth-year teacher training program. The program leading to a master of teaching degree was approved by the Oklahoma state regents for higher education.

This new program, which is an entirely new venture in the field of teacher education, comes as a result of many years of planning and study by Oklahoma teachers and school administrators. "The most progressive improvement that this college has undertaken since my coming to this institution," says Dr. W. Max Chambers, president of the state college.

The new degree breaks away from the conventional Master of Science degree in Education, in that it is not a research degree and does not require a thesis. In this way many of the practical and recognized needs of practicing teachers will be met. Higher degrees will not be a factor in planning the individual student's fifth-year program because it is not conceived as the first year of study toward a Doctor of Education or Doctor of Philosophy degree.

To enter the program a student must have a Bachelor's degree, and at least one year of classroom teaching experience. A program of study including at least 32 semester hours of work must be approved which the student feels will be valuable or important to his success as a teacher.

The first of these Master of Teaching degrees, which will qualify teachers for the same pay as those with master's degrees, is expected to be awarded after the end of the summer term of 1855.

Church News

WESLEY FRIEND WEEK

Wesley Foundation is sponsoring a freshman week with "friends" as the theme. Sunday, Dr. William Tait speaks on "Friendship with God," at the 9.30 Sunday school.

Sunday afternoon, "Keeping Old Friends" will be discussed at the after supper fellowship slated for 5:30.

Matins, held every Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights at 7, will center around "Making New Friends". The 9:30 p. m. Meditations held Wednesday night will center on keeping old and new friends.

The week will end with a party Friday night at 7:30 p. m., they said.

PURIM FESTIVAL

Hillel Foundation on campus is celebrating the Purim Festival tomorrow, according to spokesmen.

The Festival is the Holiday based on the story of Esther and Mordecai in the Old Testament, they said.

Songs, skits, dances and eating will highlight the event. Participants are asked to wear dungarees, they said.

The festival will highlight the event and will be at the Temple Israel, S. Copeland and St. Augustine Sts.

MISSIONARIES SPEAK

A former FSU student, recently returned from the Belgian Congo, will be guest speaker at the Westminister House Sunday at 6 p. m.

The former Peggy Lou Thomas, now Mrs. Robert Reinhold, she and her husband established a new Presbyterian Mission in the interior of the Congo.

The Rheinholds will be speaking to various church groups during their stay of several days in Tallahassee.

CANTERBURY

The. Very Rev. Tom Byrne, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church in Panama City, gave a talk on "Personal Religion" to the Canterbury Club and visitors last Wednesday evening.

John Cooper, President of the Ruge Hall Vestry, said that the next speaker in the Lenten Series of talks on religion will be the Rt. Rev. Hamilton West, Bishop Coadjutor of the Diocese of Florida.

Bishop West will speak at Ruge Hall on Wednesday evening, March 24, directly following the 7:45 p. m. Evening Prayer service. All students and faculty are invited to attend, he added.

Iowa A-M Endorses Financial Adoption Of War Orphans

AMES, Ia. — (I.P.) — Campus Chest at Iowa State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts recently announced that its project for this quarter will be the endorsement of the Foster Parents Plan — not by fund-raising, but by urging the adoption of war orphans by campus organizations.

Three organizations on campus are now "Foster Parents"—Kappa Alpha Theta, Chi Omega, and Pan-Hellenic Council. Adoption of war orphans is financial only—$180 a year or $15 a month. Through "adoption," a child is given food, clothing, specific medical care, welfare service, schooling, and a cash allowance of $8 a month. In addition, "Foster Parents" are requested to write occasional letters to their "child," and may also send gifts and money, if they wish. The Foster Parents plan is a non-profit independent relief organization, helping children in England, France, Belgium, Holland, Italy, Greece, West Germany, and Korea.

Freshmen To Elect Rulers For Carnival

"Diamond Jim" and "Tiger Lil," annual rulers over the Florida State University Freshman Carnival will be elected next week, freshman class officials announced today.

Nominations are to be made by secret ballot, they said. Freshmen are requested to drop nominations in the box in Westcott Building starting Monday.

Final voting will be done Thursday of next week, they noted.

Who's Who Names Twenty-Eight Profs In Honorary Listing

Twenty-eight Florida State professors are listed in Who's Who in America. They are: Dr Warren Allen, Professor of Music, Dr. Albert Craig Baird, of the Speech Department, Dr. William M. Barrows, Professor of Physics, Dr. Werner M. Baum Professor and head of the Department of Metereology, and Dr. Henry Floyd Becker, Professor of Geography.

Others listed in Who's Who are: Dr. Raymond F Bellamy of the Sociology Department, Dr Lawrence R. Campbell, Dean of the School of Journalism, Dr Milton W Carothers, Dean of the School of the Graduate School, Dr. Charles S. Davis, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and Professor of history, and Dr. Ezda Deviney, Professor of Zoology.

Also among the twenty-eight faculty members listed are: Dr. William K Doyle, Dean of the School of Public Administration, Vivian M. Duxbury, Dean of the Nursing School, Dr. William T. Edwards, Professor of Education, Dr. Richard B. Eide, Professor of Journalism, Dr. Ralph Eyman, Dean of the School of Education, and Dr. Paul Finner, Professor of Psychology.

Dr. Winthrop N. Kellogg, Professor of Psychology, Dr. Karl O. Kuersteiner, Dean of the School of Music, Dr. Eugene Lawler, Professor of Education, Dr. Samuel Meyer, Head of the Department of Botany, Dr. Robert Miller, Professor of Philosophy and Religion, Dr. Coyle F. Moore, Dean of the School of Social Welfare, Dr. William H. Rogers, Professor of English, Dr. Louis Shores, Professor and Dean of the Library School, Dr. Venila L. Shores, Professor of History, and Dr. William H. Stickler, Director of Educational Research and Service.

Dr. Doak S. Campbell, President of Florida State and Dr. A. B. Martin, Vice-President also are listed in Who's Who.

STILL A COLLEGE

For awhile anyway, Michigan State College will remain a college.

An attempt to change the college's name to Michigan State University was cancelled, at least temporarily, when MSC President John Hannah requested that the name-changing bills be withdrawn from the state legislature

The move to make Michigan State a university was opposed vigorously by officials at the University of Michigan, who feared confusion if the state were to have two universities.

West Coast Colleges Approach Problems Of Student Awards

CLAREMONT, Calif., (IP)—A united approach to the problems of scholarship awards is being announced by 13 West Coast colleges and universities in an almost revolutionary joint agreement designed to assure that appropriate awards go to students who most deserve them.

The program has been developed by the western members of the College Entrance Examination Board, with Dr. Edward Sanders, dean of admissions at Pomona College as chairman of the joint committee, and Mrs Hilary Jones, dean of admissions at Mills College, as secretary.

The problem which plagues all scholarship committees is that of giving funds to students who merit them but who do not need them. Through the joint program it is hoped to eliminate "bidding" for students through scholarship awards, offering grants only to those who need them, but honoring those who merit academic recognition.

The joint effort calls for the use of uniform applications for financial assistance from students entering any of the 13 institutions, and it makes a clear distinction between recognition of academic achievement and recognition of the need for financial aid.

Honors will be accorded for academic achievement without regard to financial need. These honors will carry no monetary grants and maximum publicity will be given these awards. Award criteria will include generally scholastic, activity, and citizenship records, College Entrance Examination Board scores, and such other data as each institution cares to recognize. Each institution will make its own special evaluations of these criteria.

Scholarship grants are to be given in amounts according to the degree of financial need and not as measures of either academic achievement or honor. Because scholarship funds are limited, these grants will be given only those who file satisfactory applications on the uniform application forms

The joint program will go into effect for the 1954-55 academic year at California Institute of Technology, Occidental College, Claremont Men's College, Pomona College, Scripps College, Lewis and Clark College, Reed College and Whitman College. A year later these eight will be joined by Mills College, Stanford University, the University of Redlands, the University of Southern California and Whittier College.

Debators Compete With Indian Team On Campus Soon

This year for the first time the annual international debate at Florida State University will feature competition with a debate team from India, it was reported yesterday.

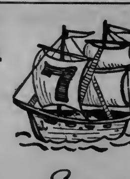
The debate open to the public without charge will be on campus April 20.

For the past four years the annual debate has featured British speakers, twice from the Oxford Union and twice from other British universities.

The Indian debaters will be Rameshchandra P. Sirkar and Mrigendra Kumar Chaturvedi. The list of debate resolutions from which a final selection will be made includes the topics, "that guaranteed equality is essential to the success of Democracy," "that plenty is more dangerous than poverty" and others.

Patronize Our Advertisers

ELECT
Reporter
Asst. News Ed.
Associate Editor
Bob Folsom
FLAMBEAU EDITOR
Managing Editor
Pow Wow Ed.
Columnist
Flambeau Needs
The Man with the Qualifications



COLLEGE MEN
Earn $75 per Week During Summer
Part-Time Work During College Term Also Available
This Is Your Invitation to Attend a Group Interview at Place: Longmire Auditorium
Time: 12 Noon
Date: Tues., March 23, 1954
—PLEASE BE ON TIME—
Bring this Announcement with you

FOR SALE
One genuine GERMAN LUGER Excellent condition. Reasonably priced. Contact Clayt Graves, 2-2747.

Patronize Our Advertisers

Keepsake Diamonds
LeCoultre Watches
PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRS
102 S. Monroe St. Phone 2-1461

SPECIAL EVERY WED.
Pizza Pie
with chef's salad
'85 Cents
Seven Seas

Hot Dog!
Let's Eat At the AMBER HOUSE

FLORIDA
Playing Through Wednesday
"How To Marry A Millionaire"
IN CINEMASCOPE!
Starring Marilyn Monroe, Betty Grable, Lauren Bacall
ADMISSION 60c
Wed. Through Saturday
"Saskatchewan"
in Technicolor
With Alan Ladd and Shelley Winters

CAPITAL DRIVE-IN
Through Tomorrow
"Phantom From Space"
plus
"Cow Country"
with Edmond O'Brien and Bart MacLane
Sun. and Mon.
"Force of Arms"
Starring William Holden, Nancy Olson, Frank Lovejoy

PERRY HIGHWAY OUTDOOR
Through Tomorrow
Jeff Chandler-Marilyn Maxwell in
"East of Sumatra"
plus
"Tumbleweed"
with Audie Murphy & Lori Nelson
Sun. and Mon.
"Because You're Mine"
with Mario Lanza

STATE
Today and Tomorrow
"Jack McCall—Desperado"
with George Montgomery
Sun. Thru Tues.
"Highway Dragnet"
Richard Conte & Wanda Hendrix
PROGRAM NOTE!
"The Glen Miller Story"
Starts Wednesday at The State Theater!

How the stars got started...

RISË STEVENS says: "Not 'til high school was my voice 'discovered'. (I unwittingly sang an octave low in class.) From that day, singing was my love — at weddings, parties, on the radio. I studied all over Europe before the Met and the movies accepted me."

Risë Stevens
Brilliant star of the Metropolitan Opera

Start smoking Camels yourself!
Smoke only Camels for 30 days — see for yourself why Camels' cool, genuine mildness and rich, friendly flavor give more people more pure pleasure than any other cigarette!

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., Winston-Salem, N. C.

For Mildness and Flavor
CAMELS AGREE WITH MORE PEOPLE
THAN ANY OTHER CIGARETTE!

Platforms And Promises . . . The Candidates Speak

Party System

Cox

Dear Editor:

With the completion of the second party's nominating convention, and its fine support, FSU has clutched itself on the waters of a two party system. We should be proud that this has happened, for there will now be adequate opportunity for more leadership to develop and consequently a more representative student government.

We find that two parties have offered slates of qualified candidates for their issues will be debated in the coming week. It is my sincere wish that there will be as much general, student-wide interest created in the elections as was shown in the convention—especially that of the younger party which started small but will now offer the competition needed for a real election.

"Long live the parties: Here's to their success."

Sincerely yours,
IRMA COX.

Shaw

Dear Students

On Tuesday you will have the opportunity of choosing your leaders for the coming year. Your decision must be weighed carefully for you have not only candidates to choose between but two specific platforms. The student party presented a platform last spring and as such points have been carried out over the past year.

For instance:

-1- There has been a revision of women's hours. Women may stay out until 12:30 instead of 12 o'clock!

-2- Co-ed visitation has been established in the infirmary.

-3- The Flambeau now has a Senate reporter who gives you the happenings in Student Government.

This year we have a platform which offers the most benefit to you the Student. It advocates a more powerful Student Government and greater Student voice in University affairs.

Our candidates are pledged to carry out the planks of this platform. We feel that we offer the most capable and experienced candidates for every position in Student Government. Every organization except one was represented at our convention. This indicates that our platform represents the majority of the students.

The Student Party means just what it says. It is a party of, by, and for the Students.

Sincerely yours,
FRANK S. SHAW.
Student Party Chairman.

President

Howard

Dear Editor

As a candidate for the presidency I would like to give the student voters this account of my qualifications, my platform, and my earnest, honest regarding this campaign.

My qualifications:

1. Promotion material: benefits for students
   a. extended campus must facilities
   b inner student bank hours
   c. student legislature suggestion box in Wescott.
   d. weekly letter from president concerning progress in government.
   e. paving roads to the fraternity houses.
2. Providing for parking meetings between the president and various campus groups.
3. Publishing of an FSU student govt. pamphlet
4. Working for an WRSO campus radio
5. Encouraging freshman interest in the student activities by a positive rather than an indifferent attitude

As the nominee of the State Party, I shall work toward fulfillment of the goals in its platform as well as those in my own.

Above all, however, I believe the Student Body President's responsibility is to the entire student body to the will of the entire electorate which has invested its faith in his leadership.

That responsibility to your expressed interests, in a good student government I pledge.

Sincerely,
John W. Howard.

Vice President

Moore

Dear Students: It has been a privilege for me to have the opportunity to serve you as a Senator for the past two years. During that time I have made every effort to represent you in the Senate fairly and sincerely.

One of my primary objectives this year has been to work for the the inauguration of complete athletic relations with the University of Florida. This I believe to be in the best interests of our athletic department and our university. The results of a survey which I made on this subject have been circulated to all sportswriters in Florida and have done much to promote athletic competition between Florida and Florida. Among the legislation which I introduced in the Senate this year was a resolution which requested President Campbell and the Department of Athletics to take immediate steps to establish athletic relations with the University of Florida. I shall continue to work next year to attain this objective.

If you will examine the record in Senate this year you will see that the legislation which I have introduced and supported has been in the best interests of the entire student body. I have only interests in student government are your interests. It is my humble desire to have the privilege of serving you again next year as Vice-President of the Student Body.

Sincerely,
COYLE MOORE.

Flambeau Ed.

Alonso

Dear Students,

I am seeking the office of editor-in-chief of the Florida Flambeau. You have known me as a reporter, columnist, feature editor, campus editor, and last summer, I was editor.

In all sincerity, if I did not believe myself capable of assuming the duties and responsibilities this job incurs, I would not be seeking the office.

For your consideration, I have this to say: if there was any person interested in holding the job of Flambeau editor who knew as many people as I know, who knows how to get things done and knows who can get things done; the different campus person can say that they are interested, understand, and have participated in all phases of university life such as I have done, and have understanding of the problems facing the students and the wishes and desires of the students, that's the day I will step back and say, "Here, you be editor. You're better qualified."

I plan on continuing my policy begun while I was editor of the Summer Flambeau to allow members of the faculty express their opinions on things they are particularly adept and interested in that would be of interest to the students.

This I have to offer: my sincere and willing cooperation for whatever duties I may have within reasonable grounds; my pledge to continue the excellent work begun this year under Golphin, including the continuing of guest papers and a full coverage of campus news, all equal; my wholehearted effort and untiring devotion to a job that I want and feel I can do well.

Sincerely,
Orchid Alonso.

Folsom

To the Students:

I like to call myself a newspaperman, and as one, stay out of any politics and campaigning, though right now is a necessity.

I have the endorsements of the Student Party, and firmly believe that their planks will benefit the students greatly.

As the present Managing Editor of the Florida Flambeau, I am the most qualified, I believe, to hold the Editor's job. Also I have the endorsement of Editor Bruce Galphin—a person I admire tremendously. He has set a high standard for this year's paper, and if you will compare it to Flambeau of past years, you will see that the technical excellence and editorial material, which are necessary, and for its new content, which is as good or better than previous years. I do not say this because I am on the staff. It is obvious when placed in comparative terms. But I have helped to put it that way. And I'm glad to say that.

I won't, at least, I can't give you a definite platform on which to stand, other than what I'll support the student party platform, because every issue is every hour every day. But I will say this: I will report all news in objectivity as possible. I will support the students if they are right and I will criticize the administration if they are not. I will condemn both when they are wrong. And above all I will give you a good newspaper.

Sincerely,
BOB FOLSOM.

David Students:

As editor of The Florida Flambeau, I have often adopted a bipartisan attitude toward student politics. I have repeatedly urged the formation of at least two parties.

But this does not mean that I do not have definite choices in certain races. So no matter in-chief, but as a private student interested in the welfare of the Flambeau, I urge the election of Bob Folsom as next year's editor.

I have great respect for Bob's opponent. We are good friends. As all of us know, he could have had to be to put out a good newspaper. But when it comes to experience, I feel Bob Folsom far more qualified. He has taken an active part in making what I believe to be a "new", more professional, more creative, more student-directed Flambeau.

Bob Folsom has not only risen fast on the Flambeau but has become acquainted with the many phases of student life. He is also editor of Pow-Wow and assistant secretary of state.

Sincerely,
BRUCE GALPHIN.

Nimkoff

Dear Students

I appreciate this opportunity to speak with you. I seek the presidency of our student body for one basic reason: To do the job which must be done if student life at FSU is to be a better one.

There are many responsibilities which our president must face and cannot evade.

He must represent FSU's students in public appearances. I hope my experience as FSU debate team captain, as student manager for forensics and for radio announcing will aid me in doing this job.

He must promote the interests of FSU students in student government circles of Southern Universities My personal acquaintance with student officers at the Universities of Florida and Miami—for example—may be of assistance here.

He must stand and enforce the Constitution and laws of our Senate. As FSU's student attorney general, I presently bear the same responsibility. And I am grateful for my experience in working with our Senate and University Court system

He must develop and promote a truly representative student government. No clique or faction—whether Greek or independent—should dominate our government. I hope my association with various groups—including the Flambeau, varsity track team, Tally-Ho, Gold Key, Omicron Delta Kappa, and the Sigma Chi fraternity—will enable me to recognize the problems of all our students and deal with them equitably.

Finally, he must defend and enhance the liberties of our students. He must encourage their voice in University decisions. I know and respect our faculty and administration, but I recognize my prior responsibility to my fellow-students.

Many planks of the Student Party platform, upon which I stand, are directed to this end. We will seek to establish defense attorneys for students accused before the courts, to include responsible students on faculty committees dealing with our affairs, to increase student influence in the handling of the moneys we pay, etc.

This may be criticized by some as an idealistic statement, but I do not believe that ideals are dead. Obviously it outlines the president's job as a hard one. But its responsibilities can be evaded by an inexperienced candidate.

Can I do this job? It would be presumptuous for me to answer personally, but I'm grateful that my candidacy has been endorsed by officers to whom the students voted their trust last year. I refer to the other two of the three vice-presidents, the Editors of the Flambeau and Tally-Ho, the Chairman of our Judiciary, the Student Party and its candidates, and others.

I promised no appointments nor rewards to anyone But by my fellow students place their faith in me, I promise allegiance to that best in justifying their decision.

Sincerely yours,
PETER NIMKOFF.

Shaw

Dear Editor

As a candidate for the presidency I would like to give the student voters this account of my qualifications, my platform, and my earnest, honest regarding this campaign.

My qualifications:

Who's Who in American Univ. & Coll.
Gold Key
Vice President, Scullionaire Hotel Dendritic
Hall of Fame Selection Committee
Delta Sigma Pi Business Fraternity

My Platform:

1. Promotion material: benefits for students
   a. extended campus must facilities
   b inner student bank hours
   c. student legislature suggestion box in Wescott.
   d. weekly letter from president concerning progress in government.
   e. paving roads to the fraternity houses.
2. Providing for parking meetings between the president and various campus groups.
3. Publishing of an FSU student govt. pamphlet
4. Working for an WRSO campus radio
5. Encouraging freshman interest in the student activities by a positive rather than an indifferent attitude

As the nominee of the State Party, I shall work toward fulfillment of the goals in its platform as well as those in my own.

Above all, however, I believe the Student Body President's responsibility is to the entire student body to the will of the entire electorate which has invested its faith in his leadership.

That responsibility to your expressed interests, in a good student government I pledge.

Sincerely,
John W. Howard.

Men's Affairs

Joanos

Dear FSU Student:

In my campaign for the office of Men's Vice President of the presiding officer of the Senate, I would like to urge your attention to the fact that the Men's Senate needs much attention. In the past year's issue, Men's Senate can be a useful and responsible student body organization and a sounding board for problems of male students. It can also serve to better orientate new Men Senators in the functions of Senate Legislation, and it could eliminate various co-educational problems. It could serve as an implement to give the students of FSU more thorough and needed representation. If I am elected to the office of Men's Vice President, I will work diligently and consistently to improve the efficiency of Men's Senate and to further the interests of the student body.

In addition to being chairman of the Men's Senate, the Men's Vice President is also a voting member of the combined Senate. If elected, I will use whatever influence I may have to broaden the students' representation in the Senate. Senators should act not according to their own interests but in accordance with the wishes of the student body as a whole. To achieve that much more can be done by the leaders of Senate toward getting the students to feel that the Senate really want. If you give me the opportunity to serve you as Men's office, don't be surprised to find me consulting you individually and informally to learn your opinions on student government issues.

WIN, LOSE, OR DRAW, HOPING TO SERVE YOU, I REMAIN

Sincerely yours,
JIMMY JOANOS

Folsom

To the Students:

It is necessary to elect to office students who have had experiences and are familiar with the problems which they will solve. To fill the office of VICE-PRESIDENT OF MEN'S AFFAIRS, someone who knows campus conditions is needed.

Only a student who lives on campus and is vitally affected by transportation and parking conditions, such as food services, is interested enough to realize the need of adequate recreational facilities can really solve these problems.

Legislation which I have sponsored is made great strides in the Introduction of co-ed visitation in the infirmary.

2. Right of transportation to serve as presidents in their dorms.

3. Author of the resolutions to allow students to attend conventions.

4. Request for the administration to allow early release of mail.

5. Promotion of the change in hour conditions in Easter.

This is a reflection of my past efforts and achievements toward serving the student. Because I realize that this office will have to refill in which our campus can be improved. I will put myself wholeheartedly behind any program geared to bring the students and the University valid results.

You have seen my accomplishments. They were made as a benefit. They're your accomplishments. With your support, I pledge myself to seeking continuous results as VICE-PRESIDENT OF MEN'S AFFAIRS. Your support will be greatly appreciated

Gordon Gaster.

Women's Aff.

Halford

Dear Students:

You know it would be to my advantage to contact all of you but since this is impossible, I am writing to solicit your support for my candidacy for Women's Vice President.

I have spent two years as a Senator representing the student body. My experience in this capacity will really assist me in the office.

As you know, I am a candidate of the State Party. In regards to my platform, I plan to help carry out all of our planks. I believe that the plank concerning carefully scheduled meetings with the students to gain student opinions on possible legislation is extremely important.

As Women's Vice-President I will go over the women's regulations carefully, talk to many students, and arrive at make all changes deemed desirable. I realize that it is impossible for those students who have ideas and opinions about women's rules to get in touch with those of us who can perhaps remedy such inadequacies. With the regularly scheduled meetings mentioned above, I believe that this can be done.

How 'bout it? Will you vote for me?

Sincerely,
Jean Halford.

Tavel

Dear Students:

As FSU grows into a greater university, all phases of our government must grow with it. So it is with our student government. We must try to be more effective in our service to you the student and to the entire educational community.

The office of Vice-President of Women's Affairs is a very significant office in our student government. She presides over women's hours and is the coordinator between women students and the administration, and between women students and other campuses. I guarantee an impartial, unbiased point of view in the discharge of my office government. Of course another qualification is experience which is a vital factor in any office. From having served as Secretary of Panhellenic, Woman Class Secretary, I understand the functions and organization of the student government.

Through your cooperation and work in the past, our government has made great strides forward in unity and organization.

It is with these ideas and sincere interest in good student government that I submit my candidacy for Vice-President of Women's Affairs with the slogan: VOTE FOR TAVEL—TO TAVEL.

Sincerely yours,
Jean Tavel
Student Party Candidate.

"Wrecks" Rate Best In Check For Engineers

ATLANTA, Ga. (I.P.) — The Georgia Institute of Technology has more engineering and biology courses approved by the Engineers Council for Professional Development, the official accrediting agency of the engineering profession than any other engineering institute in the United States and Canada, according to a report just recently issued by the Council.

Four-year engineering courses accredited at Georgia Tech include aeronautical, ceramic, chemical, civil, electrical, industrial, mechanical and textile engineering. The only other institutions in the country which are accredited in textile engineering courses are Lowell Technological Institute of Massachusetts and Texas Technological College.

Biology courses offered by the Georgia Tech Engineering Experiment Station through its Southern Technical Institute and Engineering Evening School are accredited as well as the following construction, civil, electrical, electronic and radio, gas and fuel, heating and air conditioning, industrial and mechanical engineering. Upon successful completion of these two-year courses, students receive an Associate in Science degree.

Following Georgia Tech in the total number of accredited engineering and technological courses are Oklahoma A. and M. College 11 (15), Pennsylvania State University (18) and Purdue University (11).

Denison University Proposes Several Changes In By-Laws

GRANVILLE, O.—(I.P.)—The Denisonian, official student newspaper of the Denison University Community Government Association has proposed the following changes at a campus Senate meeting.

1. 1. The structure of DCGA will be changed to resemble that of the government of the United States. It will be divided into three branches. Executive—Co-Presidents and Co-Vice-Presidents. Judicial—Judicial Chairmen. Judicial Council, and the various house presidents. Legislative—Senate.

2. The presidents of Pan-Hellenic and Inter-fraternity Council will be voting members of Senate and Women's Council, Pan-Hellenic Council and Inter-fraternity Council will be committees of DCGA, thereby giving a unity of structure.

3. The Senate members will be on each Board of Control, thus making them Senate committees.

4. The composition of Senate is as mentioned above, but now, but with the clause that Senate may determine its own structure, following the principle of equal representation for all groups on campus.

5. The structure of the Men's Athletic Council Constitution will be changed. The presidents of each group will be selected by only by members of their own sex. The Councils will try all offenses—from cheating to rioting and impose penalties; all other courts will be inferior. They will not have the power to change the constitutionality of any legislation passed by the Senate. The Men's Judicial Council will be composed of the presidents of Fraternities, instead of the vice-presidents.

6. The executive officers will nominate members of committees and Senate will either accept or reject them, eliminating nominations from the floor.

WELCOME, DARN IT

"Freshmen are getting more and more like freshmen," said Editor of the Hatchet, George Washington University, Washington, D. C. Hatchet, weekly newspaper, sent men to the university for the second semester the editors wrote. "... it is getting increasingly uncomfortable for editors to come out editorially and say, 'Welcome, freshmen.'"

The Hatchet called freshmen "hardbitten and laconic newsdiars." "They sneer," says the Hatchet, when welcomed. "As a matter of fact they sneer more and more beautifully every year."

But despite their protests, the Hatchet editors shrugged their shoulders and said their duty was Saying they didn't care if the freshmen did laugh at their greeting, they said, "Welcome."

Flambeau Bus

Caldwell

Dear Students:

I regret that the nomination I proclaimed me for two terms won't allow me to meet with you frequently. I am using this chance to state my intentions and reasons for running for Business Manager of the Florida Flambeau.

You all are interested in the publication that "it's performance counts." I have done my part in the past, for the last two years, by the help of the business staff. I performed almost every duty required of a business manager. Requisitioned, sent wires, with the books, mailed bills. I have also attended staff meetings and feel I am well acquainted with the mess problems of the newspaper.

If elected, I will do my best to keep the paper as financially sound as possible. I will regular reports in the advisor to the financial status of the paper.

Sincerely,
JOE CALDWELL

Dr. Herman Talks At Science Meeting

Dr. Karl F. Heumann, director of the Chemicobiological Coordination Center of the National Research Council, Sigma Xi lecture audience Wednesday night that since World War II every nation in the country have realized an astonishingly accumulation of research data.

Discussing the work of the center, organized to keep scientists abreast of significant contributions in such areas as biological warfare, Dr. Heumann said, "In its efforts to stimulate and materially aid the screening of chemicals for biological effects, the center is rendering a very valuable scientific function."

As an example of the advances which might have been made if the center had been created sooner, Dr. Heumann cited the well-known chemical, benzoic acid, which was first synthesized during the 16th century.

Just as biological effects been investigated many years ago as a result of a screening program, it would have been added to the many effective agents in time of the world's leading infectious victims, he pointed out.

Dr. Heumann is confident that a good deal of data exists on correlations between chemical structure and biological activity will be reduced or eliminated because of methods in use at the center.

He believes the center will be of future value in helping to direct the synthesis of many compounds of biological importance along more productive pathways

Richard Ervin Ta To Business Men At Evening Meeti

Florida's Attorney Gen Richard Ervin spoke Wedn night to members of Delta Pi, men's business fraternity in the commerce building.

The noted governmental liberty spoke on "The Bu Man's Responsibility in Government" to the group, stressing their monthly professional p

Mr. Ervin is a graduate o University of Florida Law S class of 1935. He has held governmental posts in the of Florida through the yea and is now serving Florida's 20th Attorney Genera

Delta Sigma Pi spok pledged into the business f New pledges include Mrs. Willie Bellar, Th Mock, Jack Long, Ben B Wilson, Greenia Bullo and Arthur Ellis.

Also, Ernest Stevens, John ton Curtiss Smith, Al derbach, Curly Niermeier, Richard Ray, Bob Simmons, Marian Arrington Robert Morris.

Ken Kinzel, Charles Ro Vern Williams, and Frank man.

Canadian Studies Programme With Eye To Future Institute

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—(I.P.)—Plans for a Canadian Studies Program at the University of Rochester to make the University a center for information on economics, development, sociology, culture of Canada revealed recently by Dr. Cornelis W. de Kiewiet, president.

The program is expected to lead later to the creation an Institute of Canadian Affairs at the University.

Dr. Gilbert, director of the Canadian Studies Program, said fundamental studies on the project, and has made a number of trips to Canada to consult with leaders in universities, Dominion and provincial governments, industries and others, and has obtain materials for the program.

Objective of the Canadian Studies Program is stated to develop better knowledge and understanding of Canada by and throughout the United States, and a greater comprehension of the terms of the problems of international relations. Despite a long period of friendly relations between the United States and Canada, there is a broad gulf of ignorance and misunderstanding among the people of both nations, Dr. de Kiewiet noted.

Included in support the program are being provided by graduates and friends of the University living in Canada who have established the "Rochester University Canadian Fund" for that purpose. A number of gifts already have been received, including one for $1,000 from the administration revealed.

The purpose of the corporation is "to further the advancement of education generally and in particular to establish awards to be won by students from Canada may advance their studies at the University of Rochester and to make possible the exchange of professors between the University and Canadian universities and colleges."

PLAYING
Today Through Wednesday
At The Florida Theater
BETTY GRABLE MARILYN MONROE LAUREN BACALL
NOW... Beauty and Glamour of the Wonders of CINEMASCOPE
HOW TO MARRY A MILLIONAIRE
TECHNICOLOR
CINEMASCOPE
THE NEW DIMENSION THRILL YOU SEE WITHOUT SPECIAL GLASSES
William Powell • David Wayne • Rory Calhoun • Cameron Mitchell

FSU Trips Ga. 8-7; Face Vols Today

Pitcher Max Long, 2nd Baseman Campbell And Cooter Mills, Star As Seminole Baseballers Takes SEC Game In The Eighth Inning

Florida State University's young baseball team handed Georgia's Bulldogs a sour start on their 1954 baseball season recently. The Seminoles pushed across an unearned run in the bottom of the eighth inning to take an 8-7 decision in the first game on FSU's beautiful new East Campus diamond.

It was a well-deserved victory for FSU. The Seminoles, who rea their season's record to 3-1, came from behind twice to upend the defending Southeastern Conference champions.

It was a nice way to start a three-day, three-game home stand against SEC teams. FSU opposes Tennessee's Vols on the new diamond this afternoon and faces Auburn's Tigers on the same grounds tomorrow afternoon. Saturday's game will be a second game of a twin bill, as Tennessee and Auburn clash in the first game.

GEORGIA OFF EARLY

FSU spotted Georgia three runs early in the second inning on a hit batsman, a walk, and Sonny Saye's triple to deep left center. Saye scored when Billy Campbell's throw from second on Jim Farris's slow bouncer arrived at the plate a second too late.

The Seminoles bunched four walks and two timely singles for five runs in the last half of the second. Hudson, Bondi, Campbell and Mills drew the passes, while Carlos Hendrix and Tom Moore delivered the base hits. Moore's long liner to right chased three runs across.

Georgia picked up another run in the third on Sherrer's two-bagger and Calloway's looping single to center.

Georgia grabbed a 7-6 lead with a three-run outburst in the top of the sixth. Singles by Saye, Clements and Andrews, with a Selders' sacrifice sandwiched in, netted the runs.

SEMINOLES TIE IT

FSU tied it with two runs! a their half of the sixth. Max Long looped a single into short center and scored center on Campbell clubbed a triple to the base of the ill-fast center field wall. Campbell scored when Mills laid down a perfect sacrifice bunt and Campbell beat the throw home by a hair.

The Seminoles' winning run came in the eighth, on a partial gift. The Rebels were having trouble getting around Seminole starter Max Long in four full innings, they totaled just three hits off him. Warnke was the winning pitcher.

BOX SCORE

FSU	AB	R	H	PO	A
Hendrix, 1b	4	0	1	8	0
Campbell, ss	4	1	2	1	4
Mills, c	3	1	1	7	0
Thomas, lf	4	0	0	1	0
Moore, rf	4	1	1	1	0
Bondi, 3b	3	1	0	1	2
Heimbach, c	0	0	0	0	0
Hudson, 2b	3	1	0	2	3
Fraser, p	0	0	0	0	0
Boyer, cf	1	0	0	0	0
Long, p	3	0	0	0	2
Hudson, cf, rf	2	1	0	0	0
Bondi, lf	1	0	0	0	0
Ashley, c	2	1	0	7	0
TOTAL	34	7	5	27	11

GEORGIA	AB	R	H	PO	A
Saye, rf	4	2	2	1	0
Davis, 1	0	0	0	0	0
Clements, 1b	4	1	1	8	0
Andrews, lf	4	1	1	1	0
Merriweather, rf	1	0	0	0	0
Tuttle, lf	0	0	0	0	0
Sherrer, 2b	4	1	1	2	3
Cowden, p	0	0	0	0	0
Farris, c	3	0	0	5	0
Calloway, ss	3	0	1	2	3
Hilbert, cf	3	1	1	1	0
Stevens, p	0	0	0	0	0
Hightower, ss	0	0	0	0	0
Selders, p	0	0	0	0	0
TOTAL	34	6	7	27	11

8—Singled for Merriweather in 8th.
9—Walked for Stevens in 9th.

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
FSU	0	3	0	0	0	0	0	4	0
Georgia	0	0	1	0	0	3	0	3	0

Runs batted in: Ashley, Warnke 2, Campbell, Mills, Warnke, Boyer, Hudson. Two-base hits: Mills, Campbell, Merriweather, Sherrer, Hilbert. Home runs: Campbell, Saye. Sacrifices: Mills, Bondi, Mills. Double plays: Campbell and Twomey; Left on bases: FSU 8, Georgia 7. Bases on balls: Cowden 1, Fraser 1, Long 1, Stevens 1, Selders 1. Struck out: Stevens 1, Mills 2, Long 2, Warnke 1 in 2 innings, Cowden 3 in 7 1/3, Fraser 0 in 1, Selders 1 in 1/3. Hits off: Cowden 7 in 7 1/3 innings, Stevens 0 in 1, Selders 0 in 1/3. Winning pitcher: Warnke. Losing pitcher: George Umpires: Schaub and Braswell. Time: 2:35

Film Club Elects; Plans French Film For Opperman Hall

The Film Club of Florida State University announced the showing of "Casque D'Or" at Opperman Music Hall in cooperation with the General Extension Division of Florida, stated club spokesmen.

The French film has been described by the New York Herald-Tribune as "moving with the inevitable and decisive clarity of a fine pencil drawing . . . It seems as much an difference that the language is French."

Spokesmen revealed that new officers on the Board of the FSU Film Club have been elected for the next two years. The new officers are Dr. Adolph Rall, president; Ed Mabee and Dr. William Randall.

Dr. Seymour Hess, Mrs. Werner Horts and Dr. Howard Baker are also members of the Board.

Spokesmen urge students to suggest films for consideration of purchase by the club. "The Board of Officers will soon have the problem of selecting the films to be seen in 1954-55 and it earnestly solicits your suggestions in compiling a list of films to be considered," Suggestions may be sent to "FSU Film Club, FSU."

Gym Spotlight

At the coming NCAA meet at Champaign, Illinois, April 2-3, the FSU gym team will have a good chance of upping their last year's fifth place win. They may be able to climb above UCLA and Syracuse to third place.

Penn State is favored to retain the NCAA title they won last year with their Finnish star, Crennstedt, leading the team.

Last year Crennstedt won the NCAA all-around championship.

Coach Newton Beach should be in Illinois, with their strong tumbling block and good all-around performers.

Florida State's best chance for a National title in this meet is Jack Miles. Miles had a bad year last year but has regained his form and should be outstanding on flying rings. Miles was great in the Swedish meet and in the all-around competition at the Southern Intercollegiate meet at Durham, N. C.

Other top point getters for FSU should be Don Holder, Pat Signorelli, Jon Taylor, Larry Weston, Dick Ireland and Fadigan will work trampoline. Weston will do his best work in the tumbling competition.

One reason the team strength is not up to par is that Rafael Lecuona and Joe and Carmine Reyna are ineligible for collegiate competition. But with them in the line-up at the National AAU meet April 10th at Los Angeles, the FSU Gymkzna team has an excellent chance of successfully defending their NAAU crown.

Seminole Gridders Blown Over By 'Cane Attack

The greatly improved Miami Hurricanes put together an almost unstoppable passing scoring threat to come from behind and defeat the hard-hitting Florida State Seminoles from Tallahassee.

The Seminoles needed only three minutes and 18 seconds to bustle 71 yards to score, but from then on it was the breaks of any ball game to decide it.

At the kickoff the Indians started rolling with Harry Massey doing the pitching and Tom Fesmester on the receiving end. The second play came on the Miamians' 15-yard line, when Massey faked a hand-off to Buck Matte and threw to wing man Bud Leonard for the only FSU TD. Billy Graham attempted the point after but it sailed wide.

The Hurricanes stopped Mercer just short of a first down and then took the ball down to the FSU 13-yard line. Lee Corso then intercepted one of Marty Rondolfo's passes only to have it called back to the FSU one. Rondolfo then dumped over for the first Hurricane touchdown. The score stood Miami 7, FSU 6 at the half. Miami took the ball deep into the 'Canes territory but an interception by Bud Leonard put a stop to the threat. Again the Seminoles tried their best to score but another pass was intercepted in the end zone.

In the third quarter the Hurricanes added by a penalty and an interception they scored again. This time Rondolfo passed the remaining 33 yards for the score.

Trouble hit Mackowiecki, a tremendous defender along with Miami's - hred Bob Crenshaw, pounded aboard a Miami fumble and worked its way to the Hurricanes' 3-yard line. Four plays later, they lost the ball, failing to score.

Coach Nugent wasn't impressed at all at either team, he said. "They neither showed well." Coach Gustafson of Miami said "Florida State was much better than last fall, and they should do well next season. THIS FAMILIARITY

	Miami	FSU
First downs rushing	7	4
First downs passing	7	4
First downs penalty	1	0
Total first downs	15	8
Rushing yards	98	62
Yards gained rushing	98	62
Yards lost rushing	36	36
Net rush yardage	62	26
Passes attempted	7	4
Forwards completed	3	0
Yards passing rushing	33	0
Net gain rushing passing	95	26
Passes intercepted by	2	1
Punts	3	6
Average punts punts	34.3	37
Punts yrd. on kicks	7	0
Number of points	2	0
Fumbles lost	1	0
Yards penalized	15	0

Soccer Team Loses To Cadets 4-3

The Florida State International Soccer team was defeated last Sunday by the Rainbridge Cadets, 4-3.

Playing with three Rainbridge players the FSU Soccer team had to get used to the badly shaped field. By the time they did, they couldn't catch the fast-stepping Cadets.

Cadets Burth had trouble scoring the goal which was vital for a regulation soccer field.

Brian Shirley scored first for the Seminoles. Bill Johnson passed him the ball.

Lupano led the International in scoring two goals.

Miss Gymkana, Anita Wall, made the trip with the team. The University sponsored the trip by sending a bus for them.

Next game for the Soccer team will be Panama City March 27, at the FSU soccer field.

Danford, Tait Back From Region Meet

Dr. Howard Danford and Dr. Willis M. Tait, of Florida State University will return tomorrow from the Southeastern Recreation Executives Conference in Columbus, Ga., it was announced yesterday.

Dr. Danford, director of athletics here, delivered the opening address, "What Values Do We Seek."

Dr. Tait, director of the recreation curriculum here, gave an address on "Graduate Education," and a report on "The Southern Region Study."

The conference is sponsored by the National Recreation Association and in cooperation with the recreation societies of South Carolina, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

Veteran Educator Lists Views On Catholic College's Function

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—(I.F.)—The specific, essential function of the Catholic college is the "development of its students as contributing citizens in a free society and apostolic members of the Church," according to the Reverend William F. Cunningham, C.S.C., professor of education at the University of Notre Dame.

Having laid down this precept, Father Cunningham specifies "what college is not" in his new virtue through the Liberal College. In the world of and the theological virtues today, he declares, there is through prayer, participation in become efficient good public worship with active participation in the liturgy of the Church."

curriculum will develop the moral self-denial on the campus.

"A college is not a clinic or a hospital though it will safeguard and promote vigorous living on the campus as the best guarantee of health in later life.

"A college is not a farm or factory, nor a center of office. But it will give a fundamentally broad training that will prepare its students to become efficient good doers of goods or services.

"It is not a park or country club, but it will give a well-planned program of social activities and physical education (including both intramural and inter-collegiate athletics) giving its students in their leisure hours relief from their work, which is study.

"A college is not a monastery or a church, but it will have a vital religious program which, in addition to the development of the intellectual virtues through the

Irish, Parsons Represent FSU In 'Florida Law Review' Book

Florida State University is represented in the current winter quarterly of the "University of Florida Law Review" by two of the three leading articles, written by Dr. Marian Irish and Dr. Malcolm Parsons.

On the subject, "The Subsean-strain" which is a chapter of the Evidence Rule in Florida ad-book which is writing. His da-ministrative Law", Dr. Parsons cides that Douglas corrupt over-the school of public adminis-shadows restraint when freedom tration is the only contributor of authority calls for positive poli-serving with state legal cases and tical considerations.

Dr. Irish, head of the political science department, pays tribute to one of the United States high court members with his "Mr. Justice Douglas and Judicial Re-

"Florida has no general administrative procedure legislation, nor do the separate statutes governing the more important regulatory administrative processes contain any explicit substantial evidence provisions," Dr. Parsons states at the offset.

In presenting major fields of operation of the rule, Dr. Parsons reviews cases of the Railroad and Public Utilities Commission, Workmen's Compensation and Removal from Position of Protected Tenure. He finds that the scope of judicial review under the rule varies slightly, is a shade broader in certain fields.

"However phrased, it can scarcely be more than a rough, ad hoc guide, sometimes out-changing circumstances inarticulate major premises, and what the judges themselves happen to think the rules means as they study each new 'cold typed transcript,'" Dr. Parsons concludes.

From H. Gordon Hayes, writing in the Tulane University Tulanian, comes this definition:

"A university is a place where the minds of men and women, teacher and student, are free to explore—free to question —free to think. Without such freedom there cannot be a university.

"The misguided souls who . . . search for false doctrines in the universities do not know that a real university has no doctrines —that a real university is itself a constant and persistent investigation of all doctrines."

"It's Experience that Counts"

ELECT

Joe CALDWELL

Business Manager of the Florida Flambeau

- experience
- ability
- imagination

Coast Bound?
Going and Coming It's
BLUE WILLOW LODGE
On Route 98—On the Right—Entering Panacea

DANCE in our new, attractive dance Hall
DINE on our Delicious Steaks, Seafoods, Chops and Sandwiches

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. DuPuy Blue Willow Lodge
Your Hosts Panacea

THE DUTCH KITCHEN
Adams & Park
The Finest Food
Homey Atmosphere
Excellent Service

We Also Have Color Film Picture Albums
Gadget Bags
Chemicals & Paper
All Types of Cameras

Bring Us Your Film
For the BEST in . . . .

DEVELOPING PRINTING
KODAK FILM
Helpful Complete Advice

Tallahassee Camera Center
"Across From The Florida Theatre"
123 N. MONROE ST. PHONE 2-8771

Expert Shoe Repairing
"Everything for You"
- Laprecon Sandels . . . $2.99
- All Leather Sandals . . $5.95
- Shoe Shine Kits
- Polishes and Dyes
- Shoe Trees

PALACE SHOE SHOP
"The House That Service Built"
121 EAST PARK AVENUE

(Isn't this why more people want—and buy—Chevrolets than any other car?)

What you want most Chevrolet gives you

See how Chevrolet stays ahead of other low-priced cars in all the things that mean the most to you. See how much less Chevrolet costs you—it's the lowest-priced line of them all. Come on in and let us show you how you can have the things you want and be a good many dollars ahead with a new Chevrolet. That's promising a lot, but we welcome the chance to prove it!

OUT AHEAD with that bigger, lower look. Only Chevrolet and leading higher-priced cars have body by Fisher with that big, smooth, low-slung look.

OUT AHEAD with the highest-compression overhead valve engine. Chevrolet's great engineers have the highest compression ratio of any leading low-priced car.

OUT AHEAD with bigger brakes. Chevrolet brakes are largest in the low-price field for smoother, safer stops!

OUT AHEAD with sippy, thrifty Powerglide. It's the first and most advanced automatic transmission in the low-price field. Acceleration is instantly responsive and as smooth as silk. Optional on all models at extra cost.

OUT AHEAD with that smooth and solid big-car ride. Chevrolet's the only low-priced car with Unitized Knee-Action —one reason for its finer road-smoothing, road-hugging ride.

OUT AHEAD with automatic power controls. Chevrolet is the first low-priced car to bring you all the latest automatic power features and controls as extra-cost options.

SYMBOL OF LOWEST PRICE CHEVROLET SYMBOL OF EXCELLENCE

SEE YOUR CHEVROLET DEALER FOR ALL YOUR AUTOMOTIVE NEEDS!

Conveniently listed under "Automobiles" in your local classified telephone directory

Self Evaluation Made By Seniors At Haverford

HAVERFORD, PA. (IP)— A new senior seminar, cutting across academic divisions and fields, and financed by a $29,000 grant from the Hockefeller Foundation, was inaugurated here early this month, according to an announcement by President Gilbert F. White of Haverford College. "This is not just another course," he said. "Acquiring new facts will not be emphasized, rather it will offer a chance for evaluation and knock-taking.

A small group of seniors and four faculty members from different fields of concentration will bring their varied points-of-view and methods to focus on one fundamental human problems, for three hours each week. The first problem chosen is: To what extent does man control his own destiny?

If successful, the senior seminar will climax the educational process at the Quaker College. As a small liberal arts college Haverford is able to pioneer in educational methods which may be adopted by other institutions. It is continually trying to develop new and more effective ways of accomplishing its basic purpose, that of a truly liberal education designed to cultivate wisdom and spiritual insight rather than just to convey information and produce specialists.

Twelve senior students of diverse academic backgrounds are now meeting with the four instructors—from the fields of chemistry, political science, classics, and philosophy—in a weekly session of three hours. Each week a different fact of the basic problem is being considered, and it is hoped that the specific talents of each participant will contribute to the general development of all.

A further consequence may be that the various specialists will gain a new recognition of the decree to which all fields of analysis, with their frequently different techniques and lanuagaes, are faced with the same fundamental issues, Reading, writing, and discussion will be used in the seminar with consultants from various fields, both within and outside the college, being brought in when needed. By the third year it is expected that all seniors at Haverford will have a chance to participate in the seminar.

Three members of the Don Cossak Chorus perform the traditional Russian dance, "Kozatchok." Left to right are: Nikolai Lashkan, George Tatarov, and Feodor Zimovetz. The Don Cossak Chorus was the last presentation of the FSU Artist Series for this semester.

Ohio Faculty Gets Financial Study Aid

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio, (IP)— Designed to give financial aid to faculty members on special study, writing and research projects, a $50,000 endowment gift has been made to Wittenberg College by Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Davis of Galion, Ohio.

Decision to establish the endowment, which will yield about $2,500 annually for faculty grants, was made by the Davises after observing results from an expendable gift of $2,500 made last year for the same purpose. Twelve faculty members benefited from that grant on a variety of projects, including publication of a book.

Nikolai Lashkan leaps high in the air during the "Dance of Don Cossak." Wednesday night climaxed the two performance showing of the Don Cossak Chorus at Leon high school auditorium.

Columbia University

(Continued From Page 1)

the most important reason for student inactivity is fear. On college campuses and in communities throughout the nation there is a fear of associating oneself with any organization.

Students are afraid of being unable to get jobs after graduation, or of incurring the censure of the administration because they are, or once were, members of a group which offends powerful people.

If this fear remains unchecked we may soon see our government transformed from a stronghold of democracy to an instrument of oppression resembling those we have fought in fascism and communism.

The best way to combat this fear is to lend support to groups dedicated to the preservation of our free society. Admittedly it is a risk to join organizations—but it is a risk eminently worth taking, for if too few people take this risk we shall all be losers.

If students really value their ideals and cherish the rights they have so long enjoyed, then it is clear that they must act now. To say that they have not time, or that they do not care to work in a group, or that they are afraid of losing a job later, is to conceal a lack of conviction.

Many students have not seriously thought about their ideals in order to arrive at something they can hold to firmly. Instead, they look upon them as useful for intellectual exercises and material for papers and discussions, but not as an integral part of a philosophy of life.

For example, the great majority of students say they are for equal rights for Negroes, yet how many have joined groups to fight for Negro rights? How many have given money if their time is too precious?

People who really believe in ideas spread them, work for them, devote their time to them. I would like to suggest that those of you who have found yourselves making excuses for not joining organizations reconsider your position. Do you really believe in the things you claim to believe in if you do nothing but talk about them? Of what value are your thoughts to others unless you follow your thoughts with action?

Academy Of Science Plans Radio Shows

The Florida Academy of Science's state meeting will be held in Tallahassee, sometime in December, Dr. M. Avramy Melvin, professor of physics at Florida State University and academy member, announced today.

The academy voted to meet in Tallahassee on the invitation of Florida State University.

Dr. Melvin said the academy has also recently approved two new projects, one in research and one in the field of public information.

"The Academy Speaks" is the Florida academy's proposed title for a series of radio programs designed to bring to the public the results of the latest research conducted by academy members.

Florida State University will cooperate with the series and record dramatized programs for radio of the works and discoveries of outstanding FSU faculty members in science.

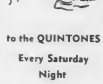
The other project is the establishment of a Florida Resource-Use Committee to develop and coordinate research in the use of Florida resources.

Experience Makes

(Continued from Page 2)

dents have openly endorsed Pyle's candidacy. A partial list includes Roy Chapman, Connie Cole, Charlie Miner, Yvonne McCarthy, Dave Bachman, Jim Moore, Tom Simmons, Lillian Avin, Celia Fralish, Delano Driver, Kenn Haskins, M. J. Parham, Mary Ann Ziegler, Sonny Meyer, Phoebe Jackson, Dick Slade, Sue Humphries, Beverly Dupperrouri and Fred Roberts.

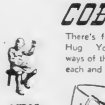
So that's how it goes. And Warren Cobb, campaign manager for Howard, is rumored to have said: "Pyle's the qualified candidate, but that's really irrelevant."



Art Seminar

(Continued From Page 1)

tourist courts within walking distance of the Museum, where the lectures and gallery tours are held. "Summer rates" are in effect by seminar time, and housing is very reasonable if arranged through the Department of Art.



Anyone planning to attend should call extension 3261 and make reservations now.

You'll Enjoy DANCING

to the QUINTONES
Every Saturday Night
Floridan Hotel

California
COBBLERS

There's fun aplenty in flirtatious Snug Hug. You'll delight in the easy-going ways of this very bare shoe that captures each and every bright sun ray.

$7.95
5 to 10
S-N-M

Snug Hug

Turner's

- Parakeet Blue
- Red Coral
- Dandelion Yellow

Best Cup of Coffee in Town . . .
Largest Soda Fountain in Town . . .
Choice Swift's Meats
Always Served . . .

Like CLUB SANDWICHES? try ours—it's chock full of succulent sliced chicken, crisp bacon, fresh tomato and lettuce, all served up on toast . . .

Quaker House
on the Tennessee H'way
JUST OFF CAMPUS!
CALL 2-8677

JOHN HOWARD
for Student Body President
For A Leader Responsible To The Entire Student Body

QUAKER HOUSE
It's a Drive-In . . . a Restaurant and a Delivery-to-the-door Service
All Three Rolled Into One, and all three serving DELICIOUS

Full Course Dinners		Sandwiches
Chops	Sea Foods	Fountain Delights
Steaks	Ham	Ice Cream
Chicken	Roasts	Salads

SAMPLE BALLOT

INSTRUCTIONS

USE THE SPECIAL IBM PENCIL ONLY FOR MARKING THIS BALLOT. Otherwise your ballot may not be counted for your candidate. Make THREE strokes with your pencil to insure a glossy black mark in the proper space. Only vote for one candidate for each office.

		1 2 3
	SAMPLE: President of the United States of America: (1-1 Marilyn Munroe) (1-2 Senator McCarthy)	1.)
Write In Column	President of Student Body: (2-1 John W. Howard—State Party) (2-2 Pete Nimkoff—Student)	2.)
	Vice President of Student Body: (3-1 Coyle Moore—Student)	3.)
	Women's Vice President: (4-1 Joan Halford—State) (4-2 Joan Tavel—Student)	4.)
	Men's Vice President: (5-1 Gordon D. Gaster—State) (5-2 Jimmy Joanos—Student)	5.)
	Secretary of the University Senate: (6-1 Mary Grace Shoemaker—Student)	6.)
	Chief Justice of University Court: (7-1 Jerry Meyer—Student) (7-2 Bert Miller—State)	7.)
	Chairman of Judicial Court: (8-1 Dot Cooke—Student)	8.)
	Chairman of Traffic-Safety Court: (9-1 Jane Wardlaw—Student)	9.)
	Sandspur Chairman: (10-1 Frances Stokes—Student)	10.)
	President of the University Recreational Association: (11-1 Joan Guard—Student) (11-2 Anne Winter—State)	11.)
	Editor-in-Chief of Florida Flambeau: (12-1 Orchid Alonso—State) (12-2 Bob Folsom—Student)	12.)
	Editor-in-Chief of Smoke Signals: (13-1 David Dreis—Student) (13-2 Bob Rice—State)	13.)
	Editor-in-Chief of Tally-Ho: (14-1 Jim Broderick—State) (14-2 Tom Woods—Student)	14.)
	Business Manager of Florida Flambeau: (15-1 Joe Caldwell—Student) (15-2 Pat Robson—State)	15.)
	Business Manager of Smoke Signals: (16-1 Nan Hillman—Student) (16-2 Jean Lee Stigler—State)	16.)
	Business Manager of Tally-Ho: (17-1 Barbara Yost—Student)	17.)

Shown above . . . a sample ballot of the new IBM process type to be used in the forthcoming general Student Body Elections . . . Ballot form is the same as that used for many examinations here with marking done with electrolyte pencil and grading by special machines. Elections Chairman Bill Starcke agrees this will "Materially speed up the vote-counting procedure." Space has also been left on the new ballot for write-in vote. Full explanation of use of the new form appears in the Elections story elsewhere in this issue.

THIS IS IT!

L&M FILTERS ARE JUST WHAT THE DOCTOR ORDERED

I've been waiting for a filter cigarette that really gave me the feeling that I was smoking. I knew that L&M Filters were what I had been looking for with the very first package I tried. They have a fine filter and they taste good. The facts below make sense to me.

Bennett Cerf

THIS YOU GET...

1. Effective Filtration, from the Miracle Product—Alpha Cellulose—the purest material for filtering cigarette smoke and exclusive to L&M Filters.

2. Selective Filtration—the L&M Filter selects and removes the heavy particles, leaving you a light and mild smoke.

3. Much Less Nicotine—the L&M Filter* removes one-third of the smoke, leaves you all the satisfaction.

4. Much More Flavor and Aroma—the right length—the right filter—the right blend of premium quality tobaccos to give you plenty of good taste.

*U. S. Patent Pending

Copyright 1954, Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Open Letter To Dr. Campbell See Editorial

The Florida Flambeau

Students Vote Today; Four Booths Open See Below

VOL. XL, No. 40 — PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA — Tuesday, March 23, 1954

Students To Vote 9 To 5 Today; Voting Booths Located In Westcott, Seminole, Student Center, West Hall

Frosh To Present Annual Carnival Saturday Night

Frosh King, Queen Will Be Crowned; Theme Kept Secret

The seventeenth annual Freshman Carnival, only event of the year sponsored by the freshman class, will be held March 27, Saturday from 7 to 12 in the women's gym.

Game booths will be run by fourteen fraternities. Booths that will include pitching pennies, throwing darts, popping balloons, and throwing cigarettes will be set up. Ten-cent tickets for the games may be purchased at the door. Each game will cost 10c with the exception of the cake walk. Every sorority will enter a decorated cake for the walk. Cakes will be judged and the best awarded a prize. Last year, most cakes followed the Easter theme.

Prizes this year have been solicited from various local businesses and include desk lamps, rugs, softballs, bedspreads and free meals. All prizes are now on display in the Bookstore window.

The annual dance will start at 9 when the booths close. King and Queen of Freshman Carnival (Diamond Jim and Tiger Lil) will be crowned during the dance. Voting for these positions will be held Thursday by the freshman class. After the crowning a floor show will be presented. Cost of the dance will be 25c per person.

Food concessions, including hot dogs, cokes, candied apples, and popcorn, will be served during the carnival in the foyer of the gym.

The theme of the carnival and the names of the King and Queen will be kept a secret till the dance, sources revealed.

There's a possibility of a car parade before the carnival. All fraternities, sororities, and anyone else interested are urged to participate.

Heading the committees are: Shirley Morgan and Jane Wheeler, decorations; Charlotte and Phyllis Patten, tickets; Jane Hardy and Ben Powell, booths; Greta Sims, food; Margaret Ann Ballinger and Martin Dyckman, publicity; Barbara Hughes, prizes; Jean Tedder, King and Queen; Joanne Taylor and Polly Swain, skit; Blanche Alligood, invitations; and Polly Swain, theme.

The carnival dates back to 1937 replacing the Senior Carnival, which was sponsored by all four classes and proceeds which were equally divided. Themes have been varied every year and have been "The Wild West," "Mardi Gras," and "A Day on the Farm."

Ugly Man To Win Trophy From APO, Keep After Three

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, will promote the "Ugly Man" contest here in April, it was noted yesterday. The organization sponsoring the winner will receive a trophy that they may keep if they win for three years, it was said.

Each organization can enter one candidate for 2 dollar entry fee. The contestant does not have to be connected with the organization.

Contestants will be judged on photographs only which must be submitted by Friday, April 2, at 5 p.m. All entrants must submit three copies of a 4 by 8 photograph which will be put on three posters at various spots around the campus. Students are asked to see and vote for the ugliest man. Contestants can use make-up, trick photography, or costumes in their photos.

The voting will last a week, from April 3 to 8. On April 9 an Ugly Man Square dance will be held, to crown the winner, Ed Andrews, president of APO, said.

Voting will be by pocket change donations in containers at polling stations on the campus. Each dime counts 10 votes, quarters, 25 votes and so on, for all change. The money is being raised for radios for the rooms in the infirmary, Andrews said.

A member of the "Ugly Man" committee will visit organizations on campus during the next week. Andrews asked all to have candidates picked and pictures taken by that time.

Longmire - Music building parking lot will be reserved for members of the Florida Historical Society all day Friday, March 26, and until noon of the following day. Members will be meeting in Longmire and are for the most part strangers to the campus, said Dean Charles Davis, in explaining the move.

Reporter Observes Election Promises, Pledges

By JOYCE POTTER

Now that election time is here again, the air is filled with all sorts of promises and pledges. I reckon all of them are made in earnest, but it peers to me Earnest ain't always kept his promises.

Why you take a couple of years back, one of the candidates promised that iffen the students would elect him, he'd make real sure that registration came before the holidays. Well this here fellow weren't elected, but they have done away with the problem anyway. They just did away with the holidays!

And this here problem of the students controlling the way the activity fee is spent and the publication of the budget. Why way back when Hector was a pup they were still a fussing about this same problem. It seems that every candidate right on down the line has promised to solve this problem, but they haven't done it yet. Peers to me that they just won't ever get around to it.

There's one of them there candidates that I shore would have voted for. He was in favor of FSU becoming a well-rounded coed college. He mentioned that he was in favor of equal sharing of all the facilities on the campus.

However, something must have appened to this candidate also for I shore ain't heard nothing about the women's dorms being open to men or even for visitation. It seems we have our own little segregation problem right here on campus.

There's one of them candidates that I just couldn't support. He's ruined the whole parking situation. He promised to provide a larger parking lot with better facilities and what did he do but up and fix it where you can't even sit in your car and talk when it is parked. I always was in favor of woodland scenes, he shore put the FSU parking lot in awful places.

One of them fellows was sure on the ball when he promised to get the FSU athletes known through out the U. S. It wasn't done in his day but now most everyone knows about the good football team we have here. Them there spring games shore are good publicity.

Better presentation of both sides of a controversial issue is a promise made by practically everyone of them fellows I reckon. Here lately with all this campaining I'm beginning to wonder. Reminds me of the cow pasture back home after a big rain.

Speaking of back home. I've been trying to get one of the boys, Honest Abe Brown, from home to run for one of these here political offices. He shore does have a platform that would get him in office.

It seems that the first thing he proposes to do is to get rid of some of these street lights around campus. Heaven knows that a soul can't even sleep at night for these here lights a shining in his window.

He's also in favor of some of those new fangled glass dormitories like they have at some of the other universities. It shore would help to make the campus look right modern, and I reckon as to how practically everyone would like them.

My friend—he's a freshman—told me the other day that iffen he was to be in one of them offices, he would fix it so that Sophomores would have to wear signs. Pore old Abe He just ain't been here long enough to be able to recognize them sophomores. They kinda get a fiendish gleam in their eyes when they're after a pore little freshman without his rat hat.

But Abe shore does know what he's talking about when it comes to putting comfortable chairs in the lecture rooms. I told him about those new fangled contour chairs and I think he took right well to the idea.

He's also in favor of converting the sidewalks into some of

(Continued on Page 4)

Early Florida History Highlights Society's Meet Here Thursday

Florida history, pointing up early activities in St. Augustine, Key West, Tampa, Pensacola and Tallahassee areas, will highlight the annual meeting of the Florida Historical Society here Thursday through Saturday, an announcement stated today.

Historical tours of Tallahassee and vicinity, including state buildings and the Civil War Battle Ground at Natural Bridge, are scheduled for 2 p.m. Thursday. Starting points are the rotunda of the capitol and university main gate.

Registration and all program sessions, morning and afternoon Friday and Saturday morning, will be held in the Longmire Building and will be free and open to the public. Dr. Doak S. Campbell, university president, will make an address of welcome and Dr. Sam Neel, FSU chaplain, will give the invocation.

Addresses will be made Friday by Dr. R. L. Goulding, on "Extracts from a Key West Diary;" Dr. Mark Boyd, "Ft. Scott: A Window Overlooking Florida," and Mrs. Julia Hering "The Plantation System in Leon County, 1830-1840."

Dr. Herbert J. Doherty, University of Florida, "Richard Keith Call, Pioneer Floridian;" Dr. William J. Schellings, University of Miami, "Tampa in 1898," and Dr. Lyla N. McAlister, University of Florida, "William Augustus Bowles and the State of Muskogee."

John C. Blocker of St. Petersburg, president of the state organization, will be toastmaster at the Friday night banquet held in Suwannee Room.

Col. William Morrison Robinson Jr., will speak on "Florida as an Independent Nation." A tea, complimenting delegates, will be given before the banquet at historic Goodwood, plantation home of the late Senator William G. Hodges.

Saturday morning addresses will be given by Dr. Charlton W. Tebeau, University of Miami, on "Marco Island, Recent History," and by Dr. J. Ryan Beiser, University of Tampa, on "The Tampa Morning Tribune and National Issues, 1900." After the annual business session, the meeting will adjourn at lunch time.

Dr. Charles S. Davis, dean of the FSU College of Arts and Sciences and one of the direc-

(Continued on Page 4)

Dildine, Neel Are Speakers At Youth Meet

Approximately fifty students from the University of Florida and Florida State University meet here Friday for a three day annual Rural Youth Conference, it was learned yesterday.

The theme of the conference is "Working Together for World Understanding," it was noted.

Speakers for the event include Dr. Glenn D. Dildine of the National 4-H Foundation, and Dr. Sam Neel, Florida State University Chaplain.

Dr. Neel's topics include "What Can I Believe About Truth and Freedom" at 9:45 a.m. on Saturday, and "What Can I Believe: Is There a Right or Wrong?" The last at 2:15 p.m. on Saturday.

The FSU host 4-H Club will accompany the visiting group to the Freshman Carnival on Saturday night and also to the Band Festival being held that night at Campbell Stadium, they said.

The group plans a picnic supper after the Friday registration, followed by an all day meeting Saturday, it was noted.

The Saturday meeting is to be presided over by Anne Edwards, past campus 4-H president, who also will give the welcome toast.

Officials for the group revealed that Paul Thornhill will deliver the response to Miss Edwards. Hilton Cook will lead the pledge of allegiance, while Nancee Bass will lead the devotional.

Steve Hudson, state council president will preside at the Saturday afternoon session, with Eric Trupp leading the songs.

The meeting is slated to hold its summary discussion "What Shall I Do With My Beliefs" at 3:30 p.m. The conference adjourns formally at 4 p.m.

Associated Press Head Tells Its History To Journalism Club

The Associated Press is more than a hundred years old, Malcolm Johnson, head of the AP in Tallahassee, told members of the Sigma Theta, journalism club, at the last meeting. The meeting was presided over by Jeanne Sullivan, secretary, in the absence of Warren Cobb, president.

The newspaperman pointed out that at the time the AP was founded competition between the six New York papers was extremely sharp. "For the first time in newspaper history the papers were actually sending out reporters to gather the news instead of sitting back and letting the news come in," Johnson declared.

There were several ways to get the news at the time. One was by sending reporters out to meet the incoming ships and finding out what was happening around the world. The second method was to go over to New Jersey, where the Western Union wires brought the news in from the West.

The speaker said that these were expensive ways of gathering the news, and the newspapers were going broke trying to obtain the news. "The papers finally got together for the purpose of working out a method of newsgathering which would be benefit to all. It was suggested that news be pooled to cut down expenses. Thus the Associated Press was founded."

Mr. Johnson, who was introduced by Dr. Sidney Kobre, advisor to the journalism club, explained that the present AP leases 300,000 miles of wire to distribute news all over the United States. "The AP members pay dues according to their ability to pay. Small dailies get the same coverage generally as large ones," he asserted.

In discussing the policy of the Associated Press, Mr. Johnson, who served on the Jacksonville Journal and was city editor of the Tallahassee Democrat before joining the AP, said that the wire service stressed objectivity. "The AP serves newspapers of many different beliefs and political parties. It has to keep down the middle of the road. If a news story leans slightly towards one candidate in a political campaign, the AP office is flooded with protests from the supporters of the other patry."

FSU Is Host To 19 Schools In Band Meet

Florida State University will be host to nineteen high school bands from all sections of Florida Friday and Saturday. The bands will all take part in the Florida Sixth District Instrumental Festival.

Events of the festival will include solo and ensemble baton twirling, vocal and instrumental solos and ensembles, band concert, sight seeing and a marching show.

The marching show will be staged Friday evening at Doak S. Campbell stadium. All nineteen bands will participate, each band presenting a show the equivalent of an 8-15 minute half time show. Climax of the marching show is a mass band concert when the bands will be joined together under the baton of six directors to play six marches.

Judges for the festival will be William Vernan, Band Director, Cairo High School, Cairo, Ga., V. D. Sturgis, Band Director, Sarasota High School, Dave Herbert, Band Director, Auburn Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, Ala., Harold Bachman, Band Director, University of Florida, Otto Kraushaar, Band Director, Lake Wales High School, and Lawrence Trembley, Professor of Woodwinds, University of Miami.

The public is invited to attend all events during the daytime on Friday and Saturday without charge. The marching show will be the only event for which admission will be charged. The rate will be $1.00 for adults and $ .50 for students.

In charge of the festival will be Oliver Hobbs, Band Director of Leon High School and Chairman of the Sixth District, and J. Dayton Smith, School of Music, Florida State University.

SMOKE SIGNALS

Deadline for the Smoke Signals Literary Contest is set for Wednesday at 8 p.m. Fiction should be turned in at the Alumni Bldg. office. For added information contact Margaret Horrox, Zeta Tau Alpha House.

FSU Coed Interns In Program Training Service Club Directors

Margaret Jean Parham, 20-year-old co-ed from Florida State University is the first, and only intern in a recently developed program by the Air Force to train directors for an around-the-world string of Air Force Service Clubs, it was learned today.

Miss Parham, who will receive her bachelor of science degree in recreation from Florida State University in May, is now in the middle of five weeks training at Eglin Air Force Base.

Wayne Shields, regional representative for the Air Force office of community services said Miss Parham was chosen because she has the background in recreation needed by the Air Force, gained at FSU, one of the few schools in the nation providing such a program.

Out of an early talk with Dr. William Tait of FSU, grew the idea for Service Club directors. Shields put the matter up to the "top brass" in Washington, and they liked the idea, it was noted.

"Maj. John Caufield, USAF education officer with headquarters in Washington, flew to Puerto Rico to discuss the program with me," Dr. Tait said. "He pointed out the Air Force is in need of adequately trained persons to direct its service clubs.

"He said also," Dr. Tait added, "that the Air Force considered a provision of adequate, diversified recreation for the airman during his off-duty hours of vital importance."

If Miss Parham is successful and likes the work, it was noted, and the Air Force is pleased with her, she may apply for a permanent position. At any rate, based on observations, study and reports on Miss Parham's internship, the Air Force will base much of its long range plans for training service club directors.

Miss Parham said of the program recently, "It's wonderful. Everyone here is so interested in the program. They have shown me around, introduced me to almost everyone, and put me to work.

"Right now we are in the middle of planning a party for 800 or 900. Last night I attended a meeting between representatives of Eglin and leaders of nearby communities to work out community problems."

Dr. Tait said Miss Parham will gain experience in providing, to a friendly homelike atmosphere, a well directed recreation program which may include monthly birthday parties, tournaments,

(Continued on Page 4)

SIASG Session Lists Ten Points, Ideals To Follow

By BARBARA BACHMAN

With 52 schools represented by 87 delegates from all over the south, the Southern Intercollegiate Association of Student Government met at Florida State University this past Friday and Saturday.

The two-day program included panels, and discussion groups interested in the problem of, "Why Student Government." The delegates took up special interest subjects along this theme that included punishments, the honor system, and constructive projects.

The convention opened with a tour of Tallahassee for the guests on Friday morning. At opening session of all the delegates, Dean Katherine Warren of Florida State gave a welcoming speech. Dr. Samuel Neel, also of Florida State gave the keynote speech at the luncheon given for the convention in the Suwannee Room, Friday noon.

Highlighting the final session Saturday afternoon was a panel headed by Margaret Skellis, President of Student Government at Mississippi Southern. The panel, composed of Dean Katherine Warren, Dr. Frick, Professor of Education, Susie Roberts, a past honor council president, and Pat Renick, of Florida State, summed up the main theme of the convention, "why student government and how."

In her topic "What Education Expects of Students," Dean Warren listed five points:

1. Student government must function as a learning process.

2. As representatives of the student body, officers should meet problems with mature judgment, basing their decisions on what is best for the student body and not what will most likely appeal to it.

3. Officers should have the courage of their convictions, forming them only after careful deliberation.

4. Officers should represent the highest integrity.

5. Officers should accept their positions in the light of service and accept the responsibilities of their positions.

Susie Roberts listed the advantages of an effective honor system:

1. Develops very high ideals.

2. A definite goal is set up toward which everyone works.

3. The more responsibility assumed, the fewer rules needed.

4. Promotes better student-faculty relationship.

5. Promotes a more wholesome atmosphere.

In Dr. Frick's discussion of the "psychology of punishment" he discussed it in the light of an authoritarian ideal and a democratic ideal. His conclusion rested on the fact that a democratic philosophy, in recognizing the vast human potentialities, seeks to develop the individual to his capacity. This can be done by allowing the individual to grow through recognising his problems and then dealing with them with the idea of improving himself. It is up to those in authority to aid in this process of maturing. This can be done through student government and participation by allowing the students to take an active part in executing their punishments and correcting their weaknesses through working with the fac-

(Continued on Page 4)

Student Court Says Candidates Eligible; Redefines 1.3 Average

Overruling an earlier decision of the elections committee, the University Court Thursday night stated that the 1.3 average required for holding a major student body office will be defined by a rounding off process.

The Court's action permitted State Party candidates John Howard, Orchid Alonso and Ann Winter to remain in the races for Student Body President, Flambean editor and URA president, respectively. None of the three had an actual 1.3 average, according to the Registrar. All, however, have 1.251 or above, thereby being eligible under the Court's interpretation of the Constitution.

The official averages, on their way to Elections Secretary Bill Stancik Thursday, were seen by numerous people, thereby starting rumors of impending disqualification for the four.

Meeting that afternoon with Student Body President Milton Carothers and Mr Fred Vogel, counsellor for student organizations, Stancik agreed to recommend to the entire Elections Committee that the required average be defined by a rounding-off process. Warren Cobb, campaign manager for John Howard, announced at that time he would have the University Court ready to meet, in case the Elections Committee decided against the three.

The rounding-off proposal was defeated by the Elections Committee four votes to one. Members attending were Stancik, Betty Jo Grubb, Jack Pickett, Jean Williams and Charlie Davis.

Cobb, representing Howard, argued for the proposal, stating there should be two candidates, both for the good of the State Party and for the prestige of the office of Student Body President.

Asked to speak, as an interested party, Pete Nimkoff, Student Party Candidate for President, said he didn't agree with some of Cobb's logic but felt that Howard should be ruled eligible so that the entire student body could choose their next president.

After the Committee defeated the rounding-off proposal, the matter went to the University Court,

(Continued on Page 4)

Third Spanish Weekend Held At Florida State March 26-27

The Third Annual Spanish Weekend will be held March 26-27 at Florida State University, an announcement stated today.

The weekend will begin with registration Friday afternoon at the Longmire Building between the hours of 2-6 p.m. Dr. Graydon S. DeLand will be in charge of registration.

Friday evening from 8 to 10 a program of skits, dances and music will be presented at Opperman Music Building. Presiding at the affair will be Dr. Margaret Campbell. Following this program there will be an informal dance at the Student Union until midnight.

Saturday morning the delegates to the weekend will hear a welcoming address in Conradi Theatre by Vice-President A. B. Martin. This will be followed by a movie, MARIA CANDELARIA starring Dolores del Rio and Pedro Amendariz.

After a luncheon in the Seminole Dining Hall arranged by Mrs. Azura B. Givens, the students will have free time until 4 p.m. Between 4 and 5 p.m. there will be a tea honoring visiting teachers given by the Sigma Delta Pi Educational Fraternity.

Saturday evening at 6:30 there will be an informal banquet at the Seminole Dining Hall. Dr. Victor Oelschlager, head of the Dept. of Modern Languages will preside at the banquet. Master of Ceremonies will be Dr. Graydon S. DeLand, National President of American Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese. Greetings will be given by Dr. Doak S. Campbell, President of Florida State University.

At 8:30 there will be a concert given at Opperman Music Hall featuring the University Singers, the Woman's Glee Club, and vocal and instrumental soloists.

The weekend will be completed with an informal dance at the Student Center from 10 to 12 p.m.

Cavaliers Give Talent Program In Opperman

Cavaliers, men's social dance honorary, will present its annual Cavalier Talent Nite tomorrow at Opperman Music Hall from 7 to 8 p.m., according to club officials.

Music will be provided by the Commodores 15 piece ensemble which recently made its debut at the Student Center.

Among those chosen from the auditions which were held last week are Delano Driver who will sing, Dave Harmon, tap and two quartettes.

MC for the show will be Jim Padigan, and members of Cotillion, women's dance honorary, will be ushers. Among the specialty numbers will be a mambo by Raphael Lecuona and Norma Lopez. Awarding of the 1st, 2nd and 3rd place prizes of $15, $10, and $5 respectively will be according to the choices of a board of faculty judges.

This show is one of the services offered to the student body annually by Cavaliers, according to President Joe Regna. He added that no admission will be charged and everyone is invited.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

Six men were initiated recently into the Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity at Florida State University in Tallahassee.

The new initiates are: James Williams, Harry Eielson, Robert Cramer, Donald Chaplin, Jerry Sellers, and Norman Burth.

The newly-elected officers of SPE are: President, Ernest LaRoche; vice-president, Henry Baker; secretary, Walter Johnson; treasurer, Gay Argo; pledge trainer, Oscar Oropesa, and historian, James Williams.

Art Exhibit Shows Relationship Of Seminole, Cheyenne Indians

By BOB GUTTING

A new exhibit, showing the kinship relations of two Indian tribes, has been constructed in the University Museum by Tiazo Miake, museum curator, and James Van Eimeren, graduate assistant.

The exhibit, believed to be the first of its kind in the United States, was constructed under the direction of Dr. Robert Anderson, and is based largely on his studies of the Cheyenne Indians.

Tribes notable in the display are the Creek Indians of Florida-Georgia-Alabama area, and the Cheyennes of the west.

There were many differences between these tribes. The Creek were mainly farmers while the Cheyenne were nomandic hunters and warriors.

Around 1700 some of the Creek Indians wandered into Florida and settled in the Everglades. Eventually they became known as the Seminoles.

The Creeks lived in villages that were fairly large for economic purposes. Their Nation consisted of about 50 of these villages that were divided into two parts.

The Creeks had two societies or social divisions that determined such things as who should marry who. A person from one of these social orders could only marry persons from the other social order. This would be similar to allowing Democrats to marry only Republicans in our own society.

Creeks also had a different way of referring to their relatives. For instance, a person that is an aunt to us was called grandmother by the Creeks.

The social order of the Cheyennes was vastly different from the Creeks. The foundation of their social order was the tepee group. Made up of an older couple and all their children, this was not the main economic group, but a family group, all living in the same tepee.

Next on the Cheyenne social ladder was the camp, which held several dozen tepees. All men from the camp who hunted put the food they

(Continued on Page 4)

Election Chiefs Say Hope Results Ready By 8 P.M. Tonight

Voting booths for the Student Body elections opened on campus at nine this morning with a "big turnout" expected by elections officials and with most candidates claiming an edge.

Booths located at Westcott, Seminole Club and Student Center will be open until 5 p.m and one at West Hall until 1 p.m., according to Elections secretary Bill Stancik. Members of the Sophomore Woman's Council will manage the ballot boxes.

Officials expect the overall procedure of voting to be smoothed out by the use of the new IBM ballots, and the view was expressed that increased ease of voting would cause last year's turnout of 1850 voters to be surpassed. Stancik asked that all voters read the instructions for the IBM ballots carefully before voting and to follow them as closely as possible.

The ballot printed in the last issue of the Flambean has not been changed, according to Stancik and all candidates listed are qualified. (See story in this issue.)

Elections officials expressed appreciation of the cooperation shown by members of the Test Service Bureau of FSU who are in charge of counting the ballots. Dr. Mark H. DeGraff and Dr. Kenneth F. McLaughlin, in charge, said that they hoped the counting would go smoothly and that the time taken would be dependent on the number of ballots cast.

Elections officials said that the results will be ready for tabulation beginning at 8 p.m. tonight in 802 Education Building, if counting goes as expected.

Most of the candidates that could be contacted on elections eve believed that contests for all University Government Association offices would be close, with some estimates going as low as 20 vote and 30 vote margins.

One candidate stated his views in these words, "I expect students will review the qualifications of all candidates and the issues at stake before voting. The most important thing is that we have the right to vote. If this wasn't a democracy we wouldn't even be having elections."

All campaign literature, including posters, placards, pictures and the like, within fifty feet of any polling place must be removed before voting commences, Secretary of Elections Bill Stancik said today. Stancik issued a warning that all such literature not removed by voting time will be discarded by elections committee members.

Graduate students at Florida State University are also allowed to vote in Student Body elections, Stancik said. Due to past rulings, Stancik said, many graduate students have not known of this change in the election rules. Stancik urged all students of the Graduate Class to cast ballots today.

News Briefs

LENTEN SPEAKER

Rt. Rev. Hamilton West, Bishop Coajutor of the Diocese of Florida, will be the guest of the Canterbury Club on Wednesday evening, March 24 at Ruge Hall. "Personal Religion is the topic for the theme of the Lenten speaker series. Bishop West will speak after evening prayer.

GRADUATE CLASS

"Using Florida's Resources for a More Balanced Economy!" will be the topic that Roland Chardon, Richard Dynes, and Norman Humphreys will speak at the Graduate Class Luncheon, March 25.

All mature and graduate students and faculty are invited to attend this "dutch-treat" luncheon which is to be held from 1:00 to 2:00 p.m. in South Seminole.

ODHAM CLUB

The Odham for Governor Club of Florida State University continued its campaigning last week by holding three rallies in Leon County, according to Phil Kelly, spokesman.

At a rally in Wacissa Thursday, the club speaker was introduced by the State Road Department chairman ousted by Acting Governor Johns, Kelly revealed.

Rallies were held by the club Friday and Saturday nights, said Kelly, and more are planned for next week.

Letter To Dr. Campbell Reveals Reasons For Senate Coverage

AN OPEN LETTER TO DR. DOAK S. CAMPBELL:

Dear Sir:

When staff members of The Florida Flambeau sat in on the Wednesday meeting of Faculty Senate, they had no idea that they were upsetting Senate protocol.

Rather, they believed that attends did not ordinarily attend Faculty Senate as visitors simply because they did not know of the Senate's existence or because they were not interested.

We of the Flambeau are interested, however, as we believe all students on campus should be. It was this interest that prompted two Flambeau staff members to sit, perhaps unnoticed, through a short meeting of the Faculty Senate in February. It was this interest that sent other staff members to Wednesday's meeting.

We have since learned that it is customary to request permission for non-members to attend Faculty Senate. We have also heard how crowded the Senate chamber is. We have been told that it might be difficult to count votes in meetings if visitors were scattered throughout the Senate.

We extend our sincere apologies for having overlooked Senate etiquette. We believe the other difficulties mentioned can be overcome, however, and a satisfactory arrangement can be worked out whereby we may have regular representation.

Our reasons for wanting to send reporters are two:

First, we believe that the press should be represented at all meetings where policy is made affecting large numbers of people. Since Faculty Senate adopts legislation pertaining to the entire campus, it seems logical that the student newspaper, The Florida Flambeau, should be represented.

Second, we find it in the interest of a more mature, responsible student body to report the actions of Faculty Senate.

Students have often stated their desires to have more of a voice in running their affairs. They want a stronger student government. We think such a goal is a good one, but we do not think the time is ripe for any major changes.

Instead, we believe the first step in increasing the responsibility and reasonableness of student government is to inform the student. Let them know the problems you of the administration face. Let them see how policies are formulated. Place student observers on faculty and administrative committees which deal with student affairs. Let Flambeau reporters cover Senate meetings and pass their information along to the student body.

We sincerely believe, Dr. Campbell, that the effects of such moves would be to cool the hotheads and help build a sensible student government.

Therefore we respectfully request to be allowed to send two reporters to all Faculty Senate meetings.

Sincerely,
Bruce Galphin
for The Florida Flambeau

Current Elections Problems Can Be Eliminated

It is unfortunate but not unusual that the student body races should be waged on the level of rumor and mudslinging. The intensity of emotionalism this year is greater than ever before in our memories, though.

The chief disturbance appears to be disqualification and requalification of several candidates Thursday night by the elections committee and the Honor Court respectively. The students' own news story, page 1) were reported by the registrar not to have a 1.3 (i. e., a 1.300) average. On the basis of this report, the elections committee by a 4-1 vote disqualified the entire group.

The Honor Court convened shortly afterward and overruled the elections committee, declaring 1.3 to be equal to 1.3 to the nearest tenth. Thus anyone with a 1.256 or above could be qualified.

Legally, the Honor Court is the final place of Appeal, and there is much to support their point of view. There are also certain arguments, which though not "legal" in a strict sense, are important to the decision. That is there is the importance of maintaining a two-party system, of not letting candidates win by default.

2 Crazy Mixed-up Kids Make Good

By DAVID DREIS

Some people win popularity polls by being controversial. Today's column sort of agrees with two of America's newest top jesters grabbing the popularity spotlight, Liberace and Johnnie Ray.

TWO CRAZY MIXED-UP KIDS

If Valentino was considered the lover of his day, then Lee Valentino of the music business rated the same today for although he has yet to be seen kissing a damsel, his fans from sixteen to sixty are clamoring for attention.

To begin with, Liberace is a pianist, he has brown curly hair and dimples; he speaks in a soft well-modulated voice and talks about the audience "You wun-erful people . . . his motto is "My Mom . . . and music in general from piano to organ his standard equipment: a candelabra placed on his piano, a touchy smile and of course, white tie and tails Liberace is real cute, Man.

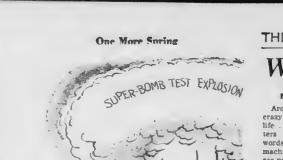
Liberace Liber-AH-chee: has been hailed and assailed by critics, John Crosby called him and Hal Humphrey of California praised him, Crosby's jibes that Liberace's female fans were 'plips' was answered with thousands of letters in behalf of the pianist; Hal Humphrey broke all records for mail to a columnist with his praise, Liberace was the same way: his namesake Rudolph Valentino was—with the women.

There are many musicians who claim Liberace is 'too commercial' and he is, but he admits "My fans like it that way. They want me earning and glamorous . . . I wiggle my fingers at the piano because people love it, my fans are the ones in my home and of showmanship and I won't change it."

His personal appearances have met great financial success with crowds over crowds in every city he's been and even the household chores to see him at work. One critic called Liberace's only competition that night was his own show on television, the time of the show they seemed it give in to the charm of the ivory tickler and the women listen his best pound.

Yes, Liberace is high atop the popularity heap, but what about romance? Well, he's not engaged three times, says the pianist, with all his lovers safely firmly holding the wedding ring. He wants to marry the right girl and "I keep my eyes open every day. And any minute I may find her sitting there." Liberace has television star has high hopes. I hope he winds they come true.

ABOUT JOHNNIE RAY



Johnnie Ray, unannounced person is Johnnie Ray to whom some some adore, to whom some abhor, is a controversial figure, a talented performer in my opinion because of his novel stone-styling, is always on the outs with newspapermen. Frankly, having met this fella, I'm convinced he's on the ball and a darn nice guy.

Ray came in a different way than most warblers. He wasn't discovered singing in a band or in a run-down night club. He made it with one big record, "Cry." That record catapulted him from $55 a week to $5,000 a year and better. Now after more than two years, Ray is netting about $20,000 a week all told.

Johnnie, who is deaf in one ear, is aided by a hearing attachment, plans to go into religious work when his music career speeds ended. He is an substantial performer who makes his record after hit record—"Cry," "The Little Things Cry, Little White Cloud Cried," "Somebody Stole My Girl, Walkin' My Baby Back Home, etc. really sells records. Watch his career, one, also for all the trade magazines as the best to win.

His favorite city to work in? Miami, of course. His most-liked city? Iowa. Reviews there weren't too bad, but Ray got into more trouble than a fire engine. He says that he won't go back there for many years, including 'artificial' friends.

Some people think Ray is on the way down. The answer, is, no for his so-called 'cry' styling is changing, opening varieties of melodies for the crazy mixed-up kid, Johnnie Ray.

Dear Mama Seminole

Dear Mama Seminole:

Georgie no make right print in last letter. Smoke Signals no readum plain. Paper hanger make poor public leader; cover designer make weak humorist. Mathinkum Smoke Signals fair with DPD.

Big chief in Washington give rope to little chief by foot. Little chief test rope many time but only get rope burn because rope too short. Me thinkum rope finally making long enough for noose.

McCarthy investigate McCarthy committee. Looking for communists? Subversives? Security risks? In back woods of New York Mac hews some illegal COHN-SCHING?

Chief and Medicine-man in Washington give voodoo to sick hrave in Dochina. Voo-doo no heal hrave Inkorses, but only solution medicine man have. Medicine man maybe listen to foreign doctor Philippino. Say use herb of Yougoslov tree. Big chief say majority rule. Maybe big chief chiefs figure. Me hope sick in Dochina soon get well, pleez.

Messenger Flynn on FSU campus grab big voice from student, use big voice to get more student. Georgie think grab commendable in many way but wish Flynn call spade spade. Maybe Flambeau or Smoke Signals make good voice if wider range made and PRO take over?

Only one race interest Georgie in Student election. Will Marilyn or Joe come in with the hag? Both know how to wiggle lips before camera.

Mathinkum for letter: Many interesting words sound like little maiden of chief.

Love all,
Georgie Seminole.

AT THE LIBRARY
Card File Library Key To Books, Films, Others

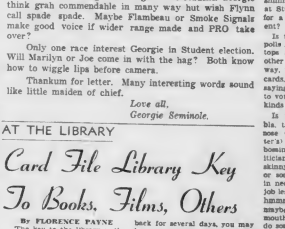
By FLORENCE PAYNE

The key to the library is the card catalog.

The card catalog is an alphabetical index on cards to books, periodicals, films and other materials in the library. A card may be found in this index under the author of the book, the title of the book or the subject desired.

For example: Florida Under Five Flags would be listed in the card catalog under the author [Patrick] or the book by title ["Florida Under Five Flags] or the subject—Florida History.

Above the card catalog is a directory to help you determine what part of the library your book should be in. If you do not understand this directory ask at the information desk for help or ask for a library handbook at the checking counter.



The books in the stacks are but a part of the large collection of books in the library. Should the card catalog indicate the book you want is in the stacks and you can not find it there, go to the circulation desk in your call slip and ask for help. The circulation department has a master file of white book cards which will help you locate the book. If someone else has checked the book out and it is not due back for several days, you may leave a request for the book at the circulation desk. You will be notified when the book is returned.

The book may not been pulled from the stacks for use in another part of the library. For example: Bain's Twenties Century Short Stories. The white card in the master file should indicate that the book could be found in the reserve room.

Space does not permit a full explanation of the book stacks or of the system of shelving books in the stacks. At first glance it may seem the shelving system lumped back and forth between the different shelves and between the different stack floors. Lack of space in the stacks prevents a perfect ordering of the books. In order to make the best use of the shelving space available, the library has made an attempt to locate the most used classifications on the lower floors.

For example: On the main floor are the numbers 000 (general works), 400 (languages), 800 (literature) and fiction. On the second floor are the numbers 300 (social sciences) and 930-999 (histories of countries). On the third floor are numbers

(Continued on Page 4)

THE FREE LANCE
Watching Strings On Us Marionettes

By BRUCE GALPHIN

Around the world on the crazy stage production called life . . . The principal characters are natural resources, words, wealth, philosophies and machines. The marionettes are people, helplessly but gaudily moving with the hidden strings . . .

THE BIG BOOM. Out in the Pacific, our nation's scientists are trying to out-do Nature and almost did themselves out. Playing the game of bigger-and-better a few months ago, they came up with a thermonuclear blockbuster, which in common folks' weapon that was only 250 times as powerful as the original Hiroshima blast.

In further tests of the bomb's killing power in mid-1, the brass came in for quite a surprise. The blast was twice as powerful as expected, or 500 times as powerful as the Hiroshima explosion. Ships came in sprayed with radioactive materials. The characteristic mushroom got to an uncharacteristic 20 miles high. By comparison the earlier explosion was considered a misfire.

It would seem to any sane person realizing the destruction also have the hydrogen bomb made time and money to make nuclear warfare. One need no longer resort to idealism but only to fear to prevent another. Motive of self-preservation to justify making the bomb.

THE BIG BLUFF. Senator McCarthy is pulling his usual effective tactic of a two-pronged

IS HERE ALABASTER

Is This So Wot About Illactions:

By AL PIERCE

In Elacshun Day! . . . Hmmm! So wot! you saying . . . this Elacshun Day is different from other day? The sun's maybe shining crooked? . . . the egg you fry is maybe turning out for a change? Wot's so differ-ent Lazarus?

Is today everybody going to polls . . . is pretty girls in white dress and ribbons passing out (or other way around?) . . . anyway, they giving a look on ID cards, handing out ballot and saying, "Hokay. Vote!" so who's to vote for? Lazarus you got all kinds people to vote for!

Is wanting to be president like tall skinny guy with long nose (but not big like Alabaster's) . . . is thinking his job running burial department politicians big pain in neck . . . but skinny guy, chance of Nunkoff or something) is wanting pain in neck, he could maybe make job less painful for other guy . . . hmmm . . . also, is thinking maybe skinny guy (who also got mouth where Alabaster's) . . . is do some tall talking, maybe get some big name singers for Administration . . . such a president is wanting, he is may-be not such bad idea to vote for this guy . . . hmmm . . .

Is also sounding another idea guy . . . this one gat big nose, too, but is little short guy . . . name of Jeanne or something . . . anyway, is wanting to be vice-president of men's athlaics, this little guy . . . is also big pain, this job . . . is spending $18,000 on posters and stuff for campaigning. . . .

THE SPECTATOR

Students Should—And Will—Decide

By WARREN COBB

You should read this.

Everyone interested in student government at FSU should read it.

Following is the case, as certified by Justice Andrew Richard Jackson, presented for the appellate (John Hinton) by Dick Howard (the author) before the University Court Thursday night—the case of John Howard v the Elections Committee:

"The FSU Elections Committee tonight ruled John Howard ineligible to run for Student Body president.

"In behalf of Howard, I would like to submit that this ruling is in our right as defined by Section 7E21 of the University Statutes under Court Appeals in Election Procedure.

"This section reads: 'Any student or political party claiming to be unjustly treated by the act or ruling of the Elections Committee may appeal to the University Court by filing a written protest with the Chief Justice.'

"I maintain that not only a student, not only a political party, but also the student body has been injured by this ruling.

"The point I made earlier this evening before the Elections Committee were these:

"(1) Because of the supreme interest of the students in this election, it is unfair to deprive them of a free choice because of an ambiguity in the Constitution.

"In the recent case before the State Supreme Court concerning constitutional eligibility, the court considered there to be enough public importance of the issue and decided to leave it in the hands of the voters to decide—in the face of a specific prohibition in the Florida Constitution.

"Here there is no such specific prohibition. Here ineligibility rests on an ambiguous point, and I feel that this court should give favorable consideration to the students' right to vote for whom they please.

"(2) The Student Body Constitution is ambiguous on this point and admits our two interpretations.

"Article V It says that candidates for all major offices must have a 1.3 overall average and must carry this figure out two places. It does not specify a 1.3 to the hundredth

(Continued on Page 4)

Letter to Editor

No Consent

Please interpret this letter as nothing more than my objection to the way I was treated without my consent or knowledge. I am referring to the appearance in a column written by Gene Lawler, which contained the name of Student Senator Peter Shinkoff for President of the student body. Lawler's letter is not a statement of my political feelings or my support or non-support of either candidate, but filling a written protest with the Chief Justice.

"I maintain that not only a student, but also the student body has been injured by this ruling.

"The circumstances I mentioned are the obvious support the Flambeau is giving Peter Nimkoff, in opposition to John Howard. We are trying to point that either candidate is better qualified than the other—I am objecting to the student body as many means of communications being used as a "campus political machine," to quote several students. This paper should be completely impartial in the support of any candidates in this race. I consider there is no other paper to support the others.

The students know only what they are told so it would behooves the Flambeau to check responsible examine peter Scripps-Howard's Daily Newsan evening tabloid, is the best they will be able to do at present.

THE BIG BLUSTER. Now in the past years have I seen such dirty campaigning for student body officers. Candidates and campaign managers have become so ambitious and so vain that they are making obviously false charges. Look at if they see the handwriting on the wall and see through, at imaginary life-savers on a sea of hot soup. Most friends of all seems to be a furtive shy-white pedestal-stander is search of the holy grail.

The participants in Thursday's decision to redefine a 1.3 average to mean anything from a 1.25 seem honest enough in their motives, but I'm afraid I can't stomach the decision. Especially how Bill Skipper was disqualified from the presidency-presidency after a landslide victory. He had a bigley overleaf into any of the evolved in Thursday's tussle.

It is hard to separate the decision from a desire to maintain a two-party system, however, I personally would have been more satisfied with the date of qualification so that truly qualified persons could have run, but now we must make the most of the situation. If the State party is overwhelmed today it will be difficult to determine the real sentiment on campus issues or dislike of the grade decision (or of course a combination of both.)

Is This So Wot About Illactions:

"Chocolate malta"' . . . is mying medic, "Hmmm, you must is dead . . . die" . . . I couldn't even do that . . . so what happens after all this? 1-A' . . . is how you wish most odds!

Is beach party season here! Is everybody coming beautiful sun-tanned bodies and colored lobsters . . . is all cars making like small distilleries . . . writer also is getting "No Smoking" sign in room for friends coming after day . . . hmmm? (They setting high as Anacin, maybe?)

Is seeing other day Cinemascopic picture with CinemaSomething, and Stereophony sound . . . is thinking this good name for crooked eyeball . . . Monroe is looking like scarecrow in last picture, is Melo, Bacall like toothpick and Grable like extra-long cigarette holder . . . but writer putting on specs, is everything looking little fuzzy . . . is not dropping raspberry-type lollypop at sight of pulchritudinous presence on screen!

Is reading letter from Monsma . . . is saying snow up is hokay, Monsma . . . is saying hmm, letter came by dogsled and is double-mushy . . . is hokay, Momsma . . . down here is sunshine, bathing beauties and flower gardens and all else so bad, the South . . . throw away the snow shovel and live Florida and give a look in Tallahoopie . . . is southland at its best! . . .

(Is now rinsed-out reporter (name of Bachman) pulls hair from eyes, saying hokay . . . hokay . . . is enough to fill page . . . Cease!" So I did.

The Florida Flambeau

BRUCE GALPHIN—Editor
Al Pierce, News Editor Bob Folsom, Managing Editor

Feature Editor ..... Jackie Robertson
Campus Editor ..... Orchid Alonso
Sports Editor ..... Dick Kinyon
Rewrite Editors ..... Oscar Johnson, Martine Dickman
Sports Staff ..... Art Kennedy, Bill Cobb
Photographer ..... Dirk Reutzler

Copy Editors: Sylvia Parrish, Dick Verney, David Dreis
Photographic Editor
Junior Staff ..... Joe Caldwell, Tom Thomasson, Mary Elizabeth Long, Tom Hall, Betty Bishop, Lona Cochran, Barbara Bachman, Joyce Potter

NANCY LOWE—Business Mgr.
Al Markovitz, Advertising Mgr.

An Consultant .....
Business Staff ..... Mary Wogan, Virginia Vaughn, Joe Caldwell
Advertising Soliciting .... Members of Alpha Delta Sigma
Nationally Represented by National Advertising Service, Inc. 420 Madison Ave., New York

Exchange Editor ..... Pat Robson
Exchange Staff ..... Margaret Dellinger, Lil Haavind
Distribution ..... Members of Alpha Phi Omega Service Fraternity

The Florida Flambeau is published twice weekly by students of Florida State University, Member Intercollegiate Press.

Telephone 2-8000, extension 4821 or 211, 213 Longmire Building

Member Associated Collegiate Press

"I didn't say 'bring a case and we'll study'"...I said "bring a Case Study".

FSU Nine Bat Vols 7-4; Fall To Auburn

Joe Davis (partly hidden) scores the fourth Auburn run on a passed ball in the top of the first as FSU catcher, John Ash (24) moves in to cover the plate. A storm went on to take the game 7-2 thus handing FSU their first collegiate setback of the season. In the first game of Saturday's double header, FSU defeated Tennessee 7-4.

Sparked by the excellent pitching of Sophomore hurler Jim Atwood and the brilliant batting of Gary Ashley, the Seminole baseball squad came from behind to score a 7-4 victory over the visiting Tennessee Vols. In the second half of the Double-header the Auburn Tigers stuck early in the first inning and went on to hand the Seminoles their first collegiate baseball setback of the season.

Coming in, in the sixth inning, relieving reliable George Hohemann, Atwood held the Vols runless, while walking one man. They scattered seven hits on the mound, but suffered five strike-outs in the wrong moment. Ashley walloped a booming double plus ten clean hit singles in five trips to the plate.

Coach Ralph Matherly, Seminole coach, was pleased with the hero defense in both games, but sees there must be a great improvement in the batting before the team can expect to win ball games. The Vols sat bit the Semi-nole 11 to 6. Auburn was limited to 8 hits as was FSU, in their game.

The first homerun was hit in the new-park by Tennessee's short-stop, Ted Belcher. The steel fence is about 330 feet from the plate where the ball went over. FSU captain, Bob Hudson, followed with an inside the park homer. Hudson's ball caught the Vol centerfield napping with a long line-drive all the way to the center field fence, he was accredited two runs.

The Auburn game was a different story. Tiger Hurler Paul Susce, considered their best pitcher, held the Seminoles to one hit. Left fielder Ed Munn was the safe one to hit him with a liner in right field. Susce finally weakened in the 5th inning and allowed several more hits and a run in the 7th inning. Tiger lefthander, Bob Ramsey relieved him in the eighth.

The Tigers put together three hits during a little of walks to take a four run lead in the first inning. Seminole hurler John Ash was the victim of the fleeve attack. Hum Wornke, replacing Ash held the Tigers til the fifth inning when three more runs came in.

Tallahassee's own Cooter Mills was the Seminole defensive standout. Out of 13 chances Cooter handled them all without a mishap.

Ralph Matherly's Seminoles will play three games in Tallahassee this week. They will meet Davidson today and Jacksonville State from Alabama Wednesday at 3:00 p.m. Centennial field will be the site Friday night of the second exhibition game of the early season between the Tallahassee Rebels and the FSU Seminoles at 8:00.

Bob Hudson, FSU center fielder, kicks up a cloud of dirt as he slides safely into third after batting a triple in the bottom half of the fifth inning of Thursday's game with Georgia. Georgia third sacker Bob Sherrill stretches for the ball which arrived too late. Hudson died on third when Charlie Hendrix popped out behind the plate but FSU went on to take the game 8-7 with on an earned run in the eighth inning.

FSU Netters Take Three Wins With One Loss On Road Trip

The Florida State Seminole Tennis team has just returned from a most successful five-game tour, leaving their last victim, Stetson University in Deland, Florida, by the score of 9-0.

The Miami Hurricanes was the only team to defeat the netters from Tallahassee. Coach Richford's Seminoles defeated Tampa in their first match of the season 7-6. Then in Coral Gables in the southern part of Florida, the 'Canes of the U of M proved to make mincemeat of the Seminoles, by the score of 9-0.

On the come-back trail, the FSU Seminoles fell to the Rollins Tars, 6-1. The Seminoles will attempt to come back with another winning streak when they meet the Davidson College Tennis Team at the FSU varsity courts at 3 p.m. today.

The Yellow Jackets from Georgia Tech will invade the campus Saturday for an afternoon fray. The public is invited.

Last year the Seminole Tennis Team had a record of 15-2 this year the netters have a 3-2.

In Saturday's match with Stetson, FSU captain Hal Stetson defeated Norman 6-1, 6-3; Tom Cundy (FSU) defeated Krieson 6-1, 6-3; Dave Kennedy (FSU) defeated Decker 6-1, 6-1; Shelby Creigh (FSU) defeated Driver 6-4, 6-2; Don Wyly (FSU) defeated Barham 6-4, 6-2. Jack Egan (FSU) defeated Gibson 6-0, 6-1; Schaus and Cundy defeated Krieson and Decker 6-2, 6-2; Egan and Creigh defeated Driver and Kelley 6-4, 6-2; Kennedy and Wyly defeated Norden and Gibson 6-2, 6-4.

Sports For This Week

TODAY

Davidson College, baseball diamond, 3:00 p.m.

Davidson College, Tallahassee Country Club course starting at noon.

Davidson College, East Campus varsity courts, starting at 2 p.m.

TOMORROW

Jax State (Ala.), baseball diamond, 3 p.m.

FRIDAY

TALLAHASSEE REBELS, CENTENNIAL FIELD 6 P.M.

SATURDAY

Florida Relays, in Gainesville

Rollins (Golf) at Rollins

Georgia Tech (Tennis) East Campus varsity courts, 2 p.m.

Keepsake Diamonds
LeCoultre Watches
PAUL TURNER
JEWELER
REPAIRS
102 E. Monroe St. Phone 3-1442

Try Quality Dry Cleaners For Expert
Special
1 Day Service
Pressing
Repairing
Altering
Pickup or delivery
Call 2-3097 215 W. College

Intramurals

By ART KENNERLY

The four top teams of the dormitory intramural league and the four best Greek teams of the fraternity-intramural league will begin their survival-of-the-fittest basketball semi-finals tonight at the gym on West Campus.

Senior Hall, the Methodists, the Baptists, and the Newman Club teams are the semi-finalists of the dormitory league. The Sigma Nus trounced on the basketball court in the regular-season finals. The ATO's bunch was a cool and casual as co-ed over a cocktail as they stomped Theta Chi, 34-16. The Sigma Nus uncoiled and stabbed the winning Pi Kappa Phis dead.

Last Thursday the ATO's won the easy way: a forfeit from the snoozing Pi Kappa Alphas. Sigma Nu won again, tiptoeing by Theta Chi, 25-24. Delta Tau Delta slapped over Kappa Sigma by ten points, 28-18. And Lambda Chi Alpha refereed, kept time, and blew the whistle in their rhumbarbs win over Kappa Alpha, 22-11.

Next on the schedule for the dormitories and the fraternities after basketball: softball.

EYMAN TALKS

The Health Education Club of FSU met Wednesday evening, with Dr. Ralph L. Eyman, Dean of the School of Education, discussing health problems and services of the Kingdom of Siam.

In his discussion Dr. Eyman pointed out that progress is being made and will continue to be made because of the willingness of the government to improve conditions.

Refreshments were served after the talk.

Faculty To Sponsor Annual Stunt Night In Opperman At 8

The seventh annual Faculty Stunt Night will begin Thursday night at 8 p. m. in Opperman Music Hall, according to sponsors.

Tickets will be sold until Thursday noon on the main floor of Westcott for 35 cents, they revealed. Tickets will also be available at Opperman before the show.

This year's program, sponsored by the Student Christian Association, will feature nine acts, including a Barber Shop Quartet, a group dance and several impersonations and take-offs.

Spokesmen said "This performance should prove to be quite an evening of entertainment," urging students to attend. "All proceeds will go to Campus Chest and other such purposes."

Lambda Chi's Pick Their Sweetheart

Miss Claire Hoffman was recently crowned "Crescent Girl" of the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity at its Spring Weekend. Her court consisted of Jean Carr and Carol Fulkerson.

The Spring Weekend commenced with a "hobo" costume party at the house on Friday March 12, followed by a luncheon Saturday. The formal dance at the Country Club climaxed the weekend festivities. During the dance John Tippin was presented the outstanding pledge award; Ray Reusser was awarded the pledge scholarship award. Bill McClellan was given the active scholarship award. Mrs. Martin Davis, the housemother, received a "Sweetheart" fraternity pin and Dr. Wesley T. Harter was presented an award for his faithful service during his position of faculty adviser.

All awards were presented by the president, Tommy Fountain.

All fish, as some think, do not like worms.—Sports Afield

Women's record striped bass weighed 48 lbs.—Sports Afield

The oftener you dress a fly the better you can cast with it.—Sports Afield

SAE TAKES BEER BOWL

SAE FRATERNITY whipped a strong Phi Delta Theta football team in the annual Beer Bowl Classic at the Hockey Field last Saturday afternoon. The score was 12 to 7 with the powerful SAE's coming in the last half to score two touchdowns to completely overshadow the Phi Delta's. The a record of three victories for game, dating back to 1949, has each fraternity. Joe Wheat was captain of the victorious SAE's while George Carnes called the plays for the losers.

Sweetheart Of New Foundation

Mrs. Thursman A. Whiteside of Miami is the first member of the newly established Alumni Development Foundation of Florida State University, Grady W. Rea, Jr., treasurer of the association, announced today.

With the presentation of the first donation, Mrs. Whiteside has became the first member of the Century Club. The Century Club within the Foundation is a consist of members whose donations to the foundation were in excess of $100.

Activities to be supported by the new Foundation will include increased funds for scholarships and aid to needy students, increased funds for research, further development of the athletic program, construction of a cooperative living house on campus, and other projects.

"The establishment of this Foundation has long been awaited here as the university," Rea said. "We are indeed proud to have Mrs. Whiteside as the first member."

Mrs. Whiteside is the immediate past president of the Alumni Association and has been prominents in alumni affairs since her graduation from the university.

Rea said membership in the Foundation is open to all who wish to support it and not only to FSU alumni.

Careful tests show you can catch the most fish on a plain undyed leader.—Sports Afield

Campbell Asserts U.S. in Undeclared Global-Type War

America today is engaged in an undeclared war of global dimension, Dean Laurence R. Campbell of the Florida State University school of journalism told leaders in the Southwestern Journalism Congress at Stillwater, Okla. Friday.

The central issue of this war whether man shall be free, Dean Campbell told students and leaders of schools and departments of journalism in Texas, Kansas and Oklahoma at their annual session.

First we should prepare for the cold or hot, Dr. Campbell said. Second, we should fight the war where we find it."

Reviewers in Journalism should develop a passion for truth, he asserted. Fiercer in giving the human equation, proficiency in writing, and personal integrity are important essentials, he added.

Bloodhounds are being set up between the public and public needs both on local and national levels of government, Dean Campbell said. He praised V. M. Newton, Jr., of the Tampa Tribune for his work in leading newspapers opposed to shutting off information from the public.

Newsmen cannot ignore the public barker or the cheap newspaper, he said. He lauded Palmer Hoyt of the Denver Post for his stand against irresponsibleness and character assassination by men in public affairs.

Art Museum Invites Tallahassee Pupils To Seventh Seminar

Students here have been extended a special invitation to attend the seventh annual art seminar, April 25-30, held at the Ringling Museum of Art, Sarasota, and co-sponsored by the museum and department of art, it was announced today.

All events of the seminar, including lectures by outstanding art historians, tours of one of the finest galleries in the Southeast, concert and plays are free and open to the public, they said.

Registrations may be made by the department of art, where all events will be conducted. The first come basis, the registration deal is a wise move. Since events may be attended when space permits.

Chairman: "Anti - Classical Elements in the 18th Century" is the general theme of the seminar. Dr. Walter J. Friedlaender of the Institute of Fine Arts, New York University, and Dr. John Seidler, director of the Fogg Museum at Harvard, will be among the outstanding lecturers.

Florida State University will con duct players from the department of speech and musicians from school of music in roundtable educational-entertainment features of the seminar.

RESTRING WITH ASHAWAY BRAIDED RACKET STRING
STANDS OUT in play
• Harder Smashes
• Better Cut and Spin
STANDS UP in your racket
• Holds Its Tension
• Lasting Liveliness
COSTS LESS than gut
APPROX. STRINGING COST:
Pre-Tested Braid ... $4.00
Multi-Ply Braid ... $4.00
At tennis shops and sporting goods stores.
ASHAWAY BRAIDED RACKET STRING
Division of The Cordmaker

THE DUTCH KITCHEN
Adams & Park
The Finest Food
Homey Atmosphere
Excellent Service

Like Drive-Ins?
or do you
Like a Place to Sit Down and Be Served?
or do you
Like Free Delivery Right to Your Door?
QUAKER HOUSE
Call 2-8677 on the Quincy H'way
What could be better than one of our SUPER DE-LICIOUS, double-thick sundaes . . . creamy ice-cream, flavorful sauce topped with mounds of whipped cream!
Steaks, Chops, Chicken, Sea Foods, deliciously cooked and served . . .
Large Variety of Sandwiches to Choose From—Largest Soda Fountain in the South!
Choice Swift's Meats Served

Your Wings are your Passport wherever you go . . .
Your Air Force wings are your personal passport to universal respect and admiration. They're a sign—recognized everywhere—that mark you as one of America's finest.
To wear them, you must win them . . . as an Aviation Cadet. They come with the gold bars of an Air Force Lieutenant and earnings of over $5,000 a year! They come complete with the admiration of a grateful Nation.
If you're single, between 19 and 26½, prepare to win this passport to success. Join the Aviation Cadets! For further information, fill out this coupon today.
AVIATION CADET, AFPTR-P-4
Headquarters, U.S.A.F.
Washington 25, D.C.
Please send me information on my opportunities as an Air Force Pilot.
Name
Address
City State
UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

Calendar Of Events

TODAY, MARCH 23

Primary Elections — 9 a. m. - 5 p.m., at West Hall, Seminole, Student Center, and Westcott.

12 noon Zoology Seminar, William J. Hargis, A Discussion of Hadzi's Recent Reconstruction of the System of Animal Classification." 301 History

12 noon Men students only. Intersteiss for summer jobs. Longmire Auditorium

3 p.m. Baseball, FSU vs. David-son. East Campus, dismond.

3 p.m. Newman House Coffee Hour. Newman House.

5 p.m. Softball meeting. All faculty and staff interested in playing on the FSU Profs softball team come for a brief meeting in Trophy Room, Student Union

7 p.m. Home Demonstration Extension Workshop. Dr. Glenn Dildine, specialist in human relations from the 4-H Foundation, Washington, D. C. Large Lounge, Longmire.

7:30 p.m. American Studies. Humanities lecture. Dr. Sam Meyer, "The Role of Science" Lecture Auditorium.

7:30 p.m. Film Previews. "City Pen. Film Previews." Responsibility." Story Telling. Can You Tell it in Order" "First Sense His Books," Speech — Conducting a Meeting, Inc." Trophy Room, Student Center.

8 p.m. Speech production. The Heiress. Conrads Theatre last performance.

TOMORROW, MARCH 24

12 noon Holy Communion. Ruze Hall

3 p.m. Baseball, FSU vs. Jacksonville (Ala.) East Campus, Diamond.

7 p.m. Social Work Club. Club Room, Longmire

7:45 p.m. Lenten Speaker at Rule Hall. Reverend Hamilton West.

8 p.m. Alpha Delta Sigma initiation, Small Lounge, Longmire

8 p.m. Department of Classics Lecture. "Religion in Greek Civilization." Dr. Francis K. Wallon, "Oriental Cults on Greek Soil." Longmire Auditorium

THURSDAY, MARCH 25

12 noon. Physics Seminar. Bar. Dre Bond, "Harmonal Relationships Between the Hypothalamus and the Pituitary." 414 Hist

1 p.m. Graduate Class Luncheon. Hilton. Chairman, Edward Dynes Norman Humphreys "Unite Florida's Resources for a More Balanced Economy." Open Seminole

4:45 p.m. Physics Seminar. John W. Burgeon, "Electron — position Annihilation." 124 Science

7 p.m. Sigma Delta Pi Meeting. Small Loung Longmire

7:30 p.m. Faculty Stunt Night. Music Hall.

7:30 p.m. Marine Sciences Seminar with Tim Smith as speaker "Biology of the Arrow-worm (Sagitta." 308 Marine.

8 p.m. Florida Historical Society Executive Board meeting. Club Room.

8 p.m. Water Safety Instructors Course. Jay Pearson's Gym.

NOTICE TO ALL ON CAMPUS

Scholarships are now available to 723 students majoring in Education. Application blanks must be secured from Dr. Lestuner, School of Education, now since County superintendents must sign the paper. Competitive exams will be given April 13 at Leon County High.

Department of Meteorology announces a series of five lectures by Dr. Merrimo H. Latour "The Applications of Radar to Meteorology" will be the subject given at 4 p.m. March 22-26

Announcements to appear in Calendar of Events must be handed in to FLAMBEAU Office Wednesday for Friday issue and Saturday or Monday morning (this is the latest) for Tuesday's issue.

JOHNS CLUB

There will be a Charley Johns for Governor Organizational meeting tonight at 7:30 in the Student Lounge of the Longmire Building. All students are invited whether going nay or not.

Glenn Miller Story' Begins Run At State; James Stewart Stars

Glenn Miller returns to life for a week in Tallahassee as James Stewart portrays the life of the great band-leader whose spirit and music still prevail as one of the world's favorites.

June Allyson and James Stewart co-star in color production, The Glenn Miller Story, which begins tomorrow for seven days at the State Theater.

The picture is a musical calvacade of the many hits which Glenn Miller made famous with his arrangements. The film tells the tender and sometimes wild love story of Glenn and Glenn's tough years and good years.

Guest-stars of The Glenn Miller Story include Frances Langford, Louis Armstrong and Gene Krupa -in a "Basin St. Blues" jam session-, Bert Pollack, The Archie Savage Dancers and The Modernaires.

A few statistics bring out the wide extent of Miller's popularity. More than 16 million Miller records are estimated as sold up to the end of 1953. His record "Chattanooga Choo-Choo" was played at least 100,000 000 times —the first orchestral to pass the 1,000,000 sales mark.

Playing for the last time at the State tonight is Rodway Dragnet, starring RICHARD CONTE, JOAN BENNETT and JOAN HENDRIX.

ALAN LADD and SHELLEY WINTERS team up in a Northwest mounte adventure, Saskatchewan, at the Florida Theater, Wed. through Sat. of this week.

Ladd portrays a mountie who was raised among the Indians and yet has to be a part of the historic campaign by the Royal Canadian Northwest Mounted Police to prevent the American Sioux and the Canadian Cree Indians from ever-running the Dominion.

Shelley Winters is a lovely fugitive from the American law, providing the romantic interest of the adventure filmed in the color and grandeur of the Canadian Rockies.

Reporter Observes

(Continued from Page 1)

those moonlit stairs, excepting these would be movable sidewalks! It also would have a lot of energy. Why you could just plop down on that there side walk and skate till you got to your stop.

Honest Abe shore has a fine platform fixed up for himself, but I jest can't persuade him to run.

These college elections are really different from high school ones. Back in high school, they was always a promising bubble gum machines in the hall, water fountains with such a running out of them and all sort of things. These seemed mighty unfleshed and none of them seemed to come out like they was promised.

I reckon when you come right down to it college elections ain't so different in that respect at all. They're just a little bit more exciting.

Student Court

(Continued from Page 1)

which overruled the Elections Committee.

Cobb expressed his belief that it was "unjust" for Nimkoff to speak to an individual student and a candidate and only should have testified as Attorney General. He questioned why Nimkoff said he wanted Howard to run but attacked the principle at the hearings.

only answering specific points in Cobb's statement. "I am very happy John Howard will run. I want the entire student body to decide who our next president will be," he said.

In overruling the Elections Committee, the University Court concurred that the prestige of the office might be hurt and the Rule party irreparably damaged if three of its candidates were disqualified.

"We felt it was not impossible for the three candidates to run," said Chief Justice Jackson.

In the voting two members felt that roundingoff would go against the constitution. They voted accordingly.

Defending the Elections Committee, although it went against his proposal, Stecklet later said, "The elections committee made its decisions honestly and sincerely. It was not goaded into searching by any other power. It made an independent decision all the way through."

Milton Carothers, speaking for the rounding-off proposal, said regarding the measure which he helped to recommend, "All we wanted to do was to present to the Committee a positive statement of recommendation to keep rumors from starting about Election Committee or practices."

COTILLION CLUB

New officers of the Florida State Cotillion Club, honorary dancing sorority, have just been elected. They are President, Lois Yarborough; Vice President, Barbara Yost; Secretary, Judy Meyer; and Treasurer, Marianne Williams.

The new dance chairman will be Jack Bedford, and publicity chairman, Ruth Ward.

Cotillion, along with the men's honorary d a n c e organization, Cavaliers are holding lessons every Thursday night at the Student Center, and everyone who is interested in learning how to dance is invited to attend these sessions.

If you must ditch a tent, be sure to fill them in when you break camp. Ditches not only look bad but they ran start bad erosion.—Sports Afield

Art Exhibit

(Continued from Page 1)

brought back into a community larder. Ten of these ramps would make up a band and ten bands would make up a tribe. During the summer bands assembled and held ceremonial dances.

The Cheyenne also had a different way of naming relatives. They called all their mothers relatives son and daughter, and their fathers relatives father and grandmother.

According to Dr. Anderson the reason for studying kinship behavior among the primitive tribes is that it affects much of what they did. By understanding kinship, the archeologist can understand what went on in the primitive tribe.

Early Florida

(Continued from Page 1)

tors of the society, is programchairman for the meeting. Dr. Davis and J. Vinta Keen, Tallahassee attorney who is president of the Tallahassee Historical Society and second vice-president of the State society, are co-chairmen for arrangements.

FSU Coed Interns

(Continued from Page 1)

soldier items, theme dances, tours, crafts contest and other special events.

While at FSU Miss Parham was manager of the studio radio station WFSU, member of the student body cabinet, Delta Zeta, national social sorority, Art Florida State University Recreation Society and the American Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

She was also assistant scout leader to Girl Scout Troop No. 7 in Tallahassee

AIR ROTC INSPECTED

Annual Inspection of the Florida State Air Force ROTC detachment was conducted Thursday and Friday by a team from Headquarters, Air Force ROTC Members included Colonel Rex W. Beach, Lt. Colonel Owen H. Seatz and Major George A. Pappas Jr.

Purpose of the inspection was to determine the training efficiency of the unit and included inspection of the instructional, administrative and supply procedures. The cadet corps was inspected in ranks followed by a parade in honor of the visiting team.

News Briefs

STUDENTS PERFORM

Five Florida State University student entertainers recently performed at Leon High School in Tallahassee

Sponsored by the University Public Relations office the show was emceed by Peter Ninikoff.

The cast included baritone soloist Grady Toler, pianists Beth Farris, and the "Golden Pals" of the FSU circus—Sue Ann Hernden and Charles Binger.

ARTS EDUCATION

The Arts Education Club of Florida State University will meet at 7 p.m. in the Florida Union Building, according to a recent announcement.

Three short movies will be shown, spokesmen for the group said. Anyone interested in Art Education is cordially invited to attend these meetings, they noted.

MEYERS SPEAKS

Dr. Sam Meyers, head of the Florida State University Department of Botany will speak tonight at 7.30 in Longmire Building, it was announced today. His topic will be "Role of Science."

The talk, co-sponsored by the Division of Humanities and the local program in American Studies, is free and open to the public, the announcement stated.

BIT AND SPUR RIDING CLUB

An important meeting of the Bit and Spur Riding Club will be held in the Alumni Bldg. Second Lounge, (off the basement) Thursday at 7 p.m. All interested prospective members and charter members are urged to attend. Plans for the rest of the year will take place including a possible horse show in May at The Trot Away Club.

Card File

(Continued from Page 2)

100 (philosophy), 200 (religion), 500 (science), 600 (useful arts), and 700 (fine arts). In the fourth floor are numbers 800-920 general history, books world history, seaography and travel, and biography. On each floor the taller books will be found on the "oversized" shelves in the front near the staircase.

Withdrawing a book from the library is not a complicated procedure. First you must be registered as have the requirements in one of your study fields either philosophy or religion, two the years of physical education, and at the Student Center.

Faculty Outlines Preparations For More Flexible Arts Study

APPLETON, Wis. (I.P.) — The requirements for a more flexible program requirement of courses of an advanced study was also retained.

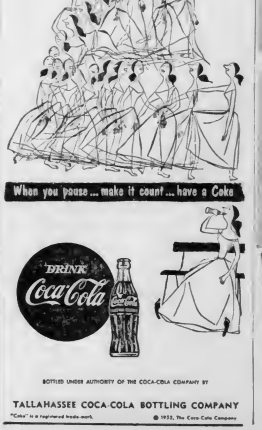
In granting approval of the requirements for the B.A. degree the faculty has eliminated the present B.S. degree. Although this action does not necessarily mean the pe.manent abandonment of a B.S. degree, the plan is in accord with regulations in many other colleges and does in no manner be interpreted to mean that there will be less emphasis upon the teaching of science at Lawrence. In fact the new requirements for the B.A. degree are acceptable for all majors as well as majors in any of the various fields who contemplate graduate study.

SIASG Session

(Continued from Page 1)

ulty and administrator.

Pat Rennick, acting as a discussion leader, presented active discussion on interesting the students in its student government through her round of questions. Both she convention delegates and the panel members participated through this discussion by bringing to light the various ways their schools met this problem.



The group saw a special performance of the FSU Coeds Friday afternoon. Following this was a banquet and ball dance in the Longmire building.

Saturday morning discussions were held concerning the individual problems of different schools. These included four groups according to the size of the college involved.

New officers of the association were elected at the business session. They include President Gail Wood from Rollins, Vice-President, Marion Miner from Mary Washington; Treasurer, Shirley Rauton from Limestone College; Secretary, Patty Carr from the Mississippi State College for Women.

Past Vice - President, Jimmie Spillings of Florida State University announced that next year's convention would be held in Fredericksburg, Virginia, at William and Mary College.

Closing the festivities for the weekend stay was a picnic at the "Reservation," and a dance at the Student Center.

FLORIDA
Last Times Today
"How To Marry A Millionaire"
In CinemaScope!
With Marilyn Monroe
Betty Grable
Lauren Bacall
Tomorrow Thru Saturday
"Saskatchewan"
In Technicolor
Starring
Alan Ladd and Shelley Winters

CAPITAL DRIVE-IN
Today and Tomorrow
"Never Wave At A Wac"
With Paul Douglas
Rosalind Russell Marie Wilson
Thursday Through Sat.
Ronald Reagan—Dorothy Malone in "Law And Order"
Plus
"Night Time In Nevada"
With Roy Rogers

CAPITAL DRIVE-IN
Today and Tomorrow
Alan Ladd—Patricia Medina & James Mason In "Botany Bay"
In Technicolor
Thursday Through Sat.
Bud Abbott & Lou Costello
"Abbott And Costello Meet Captain Kidd"
Plus
"White Lightning"
With
Stanley Clements—Steve Brodie

STATE
Last Times Today
"Highway Dragnet"
With
Richard Conte
Wanda Hendrix
Starting Tomorrow
"The Glen Miller Story"
Starring
James Stewart
And
June Allyson

Freshman Carnival Set For Tomorrow See Below

The Florida Flambeau

Nimkoff Wins Top Post See Below

VOL. XL, No. 41 — PUBLISHED BY STUDENTS OF FLORIDA STATE UNIVERSITY, TALLAHASSEE, FLORIDA — Friday, March 26, 1954

Nimkoff Defeats Howard For Student Body Presidency

Carnival Dance Spotlights Frosh Affair Tomorrow

Floor Show, Prizes, Coronation Are Features of Event

The freshman class at Florida State University will present the 17th annual Freshman Carnival tomorrow night at seven p. m. in the East Campus Gymnasium, spokesman said yesterday.

A Carnival Dance will spotlight the annual affair, spokesmen said, to the tune of Billy ... orchestra. Freshmen will crown a king and queen recently elected by class members during the evening.

Spokesmen said cost per person for the evening will be 25 ... adding that a floor show will highlight the entertainment. Featured in the 10:30 event will be Jim Fadigan in a comedy ... and JoAnne Taylor doing a ... solo and a "Can Can" ... Bobby Temple will be Master of Ceremonies, it was ...

George Hill, Freshman Class president, said yesterday "Those people elected king, queen and court members have been highly honored by their classmates." He noted they received a majority vote in elections. The freshman chief went on to say, "Not only are they king and queen of their freshman carnival, but . . . are the most popular people in the Freshman class."

Games will be featured throughout the evening, it was ... Fraternities are in charge of various game booths stationed through the carnival area. Games, they said, will include ... dice throw, Surprise Booth, Wheel of Fortune, Ring the Foot and Paper Plate throw.

Also, Auto Race, Cake Walk, Balloon Throw, Cigarette Board, Knock Down Bottles, Pitch Pennies and Ping Pong Bounce.

The President said monies received from tomorrow night's events will be carried with the ... treasury until time of graduation. "At this time," Hill said, "it will be spent for a gift to be presented to the University."

Sororities will compete for prizes in the "Best Cake" competition, the spokesmen noted. "Incidentally, all cake entries will be given away at Cake Walk," they noted.

Hill said, in commenting on expected attendance, "I would like to see every freshman here attend the Carnival tomorrow night. In doing this," he said, "not only would the project be a success, but it will add much to the spirit of cooperation of our class."

Class advisers working with committees and carnival groups include Drs. William Tait Robert Schmidt, and Mary Kate Miller. The class, Hill noted, is indebted to these people, and to Mr. Fred Vogel and Mrs. Mary P. Distlehurst for their help. Hill also thanked Tallahassee Merchants and Chamber of Commerce for donating "The many valuable Prizes to be given away tomorrow night."

Student committees and members include the Prize Committee with Barbara Hughes, Sara Ann Coulter, Ann Jackson, Marie Wadsworth, Jane Jennings, Pat Smith and George Hill.

Food committee is made up of Greta Sims, Carmine Ranieri, JoAnn Zorbaugh, Irene and Danny Rodrigues and Katherine Lindley.

Members of the Decorations Committee include Shirley Morgan, Jean Stecker, Betty Lou Whittle, Barbara Evans, Ruth Williams, Barbara Berken, Barbara Blank, Jean Martin, Jane Haward, Carol Coston and Jane Wheeler.

Member of the King and Queen Committee are Jean Tedder, Doris Rogers, and JoAnn Zorbaugh. Booth Committee members include Jan Clardy, Emilie Hudson, Ben Powell, Ann Cruce and Susan Linebaugh.

Poster Committee included Margaret Donaldson, Lisa Reno, Charlie Russell, Del Swilley and Martha Sue Mizell.

Ticket Committee members are Charlotte and Phyllis Patten, Nancy Johnson, Ginger Smith, Jane Howard, Rose Marie Hollander, Ann Printup, Jane Davis, Frances Cary, Evelyn Nettles and Blanche Alligood. Also, Gail Henshaw, and Carol Rogers.

Theme Committee includes Polly Swain, Great Sims and Shirley Willis. Skit committee consists of Polly Swain and JoAnn Taylor.

Overall Chairman of the Carnival is Ken Brock, vice-president. Brock has worked with Ruth Williams, Freshman Class social chairman.

Freshmen voted yesterday for

(Continued on Page 8)

Milliman Says 'Government Is In Midst Of Sharp Recession'

By CLAUDE HARDEN

"In spite of the optimistic views of the federal administration, there is no doubt that we are in the midst of a sharp recession." This is the opinion of Jerome Milliman, assistant professor of economics.

The economist, although he sees some favorable compensating optimistic factors in the situation, contends that the recession is fairly widespread, and that present figures show the downward trend continuing.

The recession is evidenced by five factors, and if these continue, we might have some worry, he pointed out. Here are the factors as Professor Milliman sees them.

First, increased production capacity has enabled us to produce more goods than we are currently buying. Secondly, purchases, such as appliances, automobiles, and housing facilities are down considerably. The inventories of new cars in the hands of dealers at the end of January, amounted to over 600,000 cars—the highest level on record—and a large share of these were new 1953 models which hadn't been sold.

Milliman said that the third is that it is possible that there will be a further decline in defense spending, thus cutting some groups' income.

Fourth, unemployment figures are higher than they have been since 1949 and the Department of Labor now lists over 59 critical unemployment areas—that is those areas having over 8% of their work force unemployed. These include Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Pennsylvania, and Massachusetts.

Fifth, the rapidity of the downturn looks bad. Industrial production has been falling since last July at the average of one and a half per cent a month.

Steel production, usually an indicator of industrial health, was 85% of capacity by October; by January, it had fallen to 75% of capacity and now is down to 66% of capacity.

The optimistic factors fore-

(Continued on Page 8)

'F' Club Plans Reorganization; 1955 Officers Elected Tuesday

Plans for re-organization of the Men's "F" Club, campus sports honorary, were aired at an election meeting Tuesday night stated spokesman Tom Morgan.

Morgan reported that plans for the new club are well under way and that a re-organization has been needed for some time. "It's a shame for a university of this size not to have a well-functioning 'F' Club," he declared.

Also at the meeting, officers were elected for next year's club. Those chosen were Harry Massey, president; Jerry Pacobs, vice-president; Carlos Fraundorfer, secretary; Rick Benson, treasurer; Tom Morgan, publicity chairman and Fred Hoover, of the Physical Education Department, advisor.

Morgan revealed that the next meeting would be next Tuesday night at 7:30, and urged all varsity lettermen to attend. "This will be the deadline for immediate chartering of the new organization." He added that one purpose of the meeting would be to assess the number of representatives from each sport.

Current re-organization includes a new constitution being written with ideas incorporated from similar organizations in other universities.

Morgan said that interest in the new club "has been great so far. I think it will be successful. We'll make a big thing out of it."

Services of the "F" Club include ball game concessions, projects for pledges for serving students and other campus benefits.

Party Officers Express Post-Election Views

"The camp of the State Party is all optimism after Tuesday's elections," according to party officials. State Party Chairman Jack Houser indicated that having two State candidates elected was indicative of "better times to come."

Steering committee spokesmen pointed out that although the rival Student Party had stressed that their slate was the only full one, of six offices vacant on the State slate, five had been nominated by acclamation at the Student Party convention.

"This shows that the lack of candidates was due to student disinterest and not any inability on our part to 'fill' a slate," the spokesman contended.

Bob Berto, State Party treasurer, said that he felt that the State Party had contributed to better government because of the opposition offered the Student slate.

A review of last year's Florida Flambeau showed that in the Student Body elections, the Student Party swept all 18 offices with only three students opposing.

In the following class elections with 23 offices to be filled, the Student Party slate was opposed by only four office seekers.

Berto added, "we are planning a big come-back in the coming class elections."

Joan Halford, defeated State Party nominee for Women's Vice-President, stated that she was going to seek the State Party nomination for reelection to Senate, "because the two party system has proved itself."

Miss Halford pointed out that the State Party was "off to a good start with two winners."

(Continued on Page 8)

Panel Will Discuss Business Openings

A panel discussion "Placement Opportunities for Business Students" will be held Wednesday, March 31, at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Lounge of the Longmire Building. The panel will be composed of Mr. Angus Laird, head of the Merit System, State of Florida, Dr. Glover Tully, director of Vocational Guidance and Dr. J. Frank Dame, head of the Business Education Department.

Reporters Search Past Records To Find FSCW Misdemeanors

By JAYLEEN ROBERTSON and MARY LIZ KING

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of features taken from actual court records of the student government executive council (1913-14), nowadays commonly called Women's Judiciary. Fictitious names have been used in the articles to protect innocent persons involved.

Delving through old handwritten records of the years 1913-1914 brings many rules and regulations to light, some of which have been done away with and some which have only been modified in the past 41 years.

Many, many moons ago (approximately 500), Seminole maidens of the FSCW reservation couldn't leave to travel to the trading post at the top of the hill without making reservations and taking a solemn oath to return before five in the afternoon.

Two of the rules adopted by the executive committee in October of 1913 were:

1. One. One Monday out of each month, the time to be specified later, all underclassmen will be allowed to go to the picture show. Juniors and Seniors acting as chaperones. Students by special permission may go to the picture show one Saturday night in every month provided they go in groups of ten and have a teacher or matron as chaperone. They must not go downtown after the picture show."

2. Girls going to town must be on the campus by five o'clock.

Case One—October 24, 1913

"Les Bedaring and her friends, Iniquita Smith, Justine and Unjustina Allain were reported to the committee for misbehavior downtown, talking to a man, and going in the Lion Hotel. Also Les Bedaring was reported for wearing extreme slit skirt without slip and green hose. Bedaring and Smith sent for but could not be found."

"Committee decided that the Investigating Board would look into this matter at once.

Case Continued—October 27

Meeting of Investigation Board called by President just after supper. Inquita Smith appeared before the committee.

The President asked Iniquita if she was downtown Monday afternoon, October 20. Her reply being in the affirmative, she was asked to relate briefly what she did while down town."

(Continued on Page 6)

Original Music Featured In Jazz Concert Monday

Florida State University's Opperman Hall will resound to "Driving jazz sounds with a solid beat" Monday night at 8:15 according to spokesmen for FSU'S Laboratory dance band.

Now in its second year of performance, the group, a band within the walls of the FSU music school, will present sounds "Heralding another educational innovation for the FSU School of Music . . . a laboratory dance band."

Directed by Robert Braunagel of the FSU music faculty, the voluntary group of "Jazz-minded" music majors will give modernistic interpretations of such all-time favorites as Pennies From Heaven, My Silent Love and You Go To My Head. Arrangements for these tunes have been made by Bill Holston and Tony Swain, spokesmen noted.

Featured in the Monday night program will be original tunes, composed by musicians who will play their own creations in public. "Frankie Speaking" is an original alto sax number by Bill Holston and featuring Franke Valdes on sax. "A main theme, slow and melodic is stated," the spokesmen said, "and developed by the alto sax, with sax harmonic background and accompanying brass rhythmic figures."

"Go" by John Baxley is "An original tune in a rather contrapuntal style with the emphasis on the unusual and unexpected."

